GOVERNMENT HAS MAJORITY OF 44 ON FIRST DIVISION

Hon. Mr. Pelletier Announces That Negotiations For Carriage of Parcels Post Have Reached a Successful Termination and That System Will be in Operation by Feb. 10.

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—By a vote of 108 to 64, the House of Commons last night voted down an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, proposed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, censuring the Government for its failure to deal with, or propose any remedy for the prevailing financial depression.

The House then adjourned without taking any action upon the main motion, it being announced that the Opposition desired to propose another amendment. While the nature of this amendment has not been disclosed it will probably contain a more or less definite tariff proposal.

A number of bills were introduced and given first reading, including Mr. Lesperance's bill for the immediate repeal of the Laurier Naval Service Act of 1910.

Another bill introduced yesterday by Mr. Aikins (Brandon) seeks to amend the Dominions Land Act by making inalienable all water powers and mineral deposits including coal, gas, oil and stone. It also forbids homesteading and pre-emption on surface rights of mineral lands and on lands containing water powers or necessary for the development of water powers.

The debate upon the address was resumed by Postmaster-General Pelletier. He denied that the Government had adopted the spoil system. Many Liberals, be declared, bad been removed so as to reinstate Conservative office holders unjustly removed from office by the Laurier Government.

Mr. Pelletier denied that there were 100,000 people out of employment in this country. He said that a careful investigation showed that the number did not exceed 17,000, including the 5,000 men laid off by the Canadian Northern upon the completion of their line between Sudbury and Port Arthur.

He declared that it would be the height of folly to reduce the cost of living by withdrawing the protection now given to the Canadian farmer by the Canadian tariff. The farmer could be best served, in his opinion, by the technical education.

The high cost of living, he said, was largely due to the middleman. A long step will be taken towards bringing the producer and the consumer together by the establishment of the parcel post. The Minister announced that the parcel post would be in operation by Feb. 10.

Mr. D. D. McKenzie (Cape Breton) criticized the Postmaster-General, the Minister of Finance and the Solicitor-General because, he said, they had utterly failed to deal in any effective way with the present economic situation. "The truth is," said he, "that the Minister of Finance has cold feet, and his colleagues have found it catching."

Mr. H. Bennett. (Con., East Simcoe) urged the Government to increase the protection now given to the iron and steel industries and the shipbuilding industry. We imported iron and iron products from the United States to the extent of $1,000,000 per year.

"Parliament," he continued, "is wasting its time discussing party issues twenty years old, while a great basic industry is perishing."

W. F. Maclean (South York) complimented Mr. Bennett upon his speech and regretted that more members had not discussed live issues and economic subjects in a nonpartisan way. At the same time he took occasion to compliment the Postmaster-General upon his announcement respecting a speedy inauguration of the parcel-post system.

In his delightful book entitled "Martin Harvey (who is touring Canada under the auspices of The British Canadian Theatre Organisation Co., Ltd.) Some pages of his Life," Mr. George Edgar has put on record many interesting incidents and reminiscences which have been associated with THE ONLY WAY in the course of its wonderful career before the British public. One of these was related to the author by Mrs. Martin Harvey, who is known to the playgoing world as Miss N. de Silva and whose wonderfully sympathetic rendering of the part of "Mimi" in "THE ONLY WAY," has contributed largely to the success of that play. It is worth quoting as it stands in Mr. Edgar's book.

ESTABLISHED 1879. PETERBOROUGH, ONT., THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1914. PRICE 2 CENTS

REVIEW PRIZES TO THE DOER; ARE YOU ONE OF THEM ?

Every Day Brings New Entries for Daily Review Big Prize Contest

The words of the somewhat famous George Matthew Adams are most applicable to all the readers of The Review, and especially those who are seeking to win one of the great prizes offered by this paper in its great contest now getting under way. He says:

Do.

The doer is the digger—and the digger is the builder.

Do.

The doer is the mover and the mover is the winner.

Do.

Do the things you start, do the things you have at heart, do what the other fellow can, but doesn't; do while there's time, do while there's life and do while there's hope; do for your own sake, do because you love to, do because you must. Do, because there is no other way to win!

Do.

Do the job at hand—for the job moves on. Do when it shines and do when it rains. Do through the frowns and do through the smiles. Do on your legs at your desk. Do after you have failed, and do after you've won. But no matter whether early or late, whether here or there—do.

Do.

And do it now—do it today.

Do.

Be a doer.

Do.

Time to Enter is Now.

The time to enter the great contest is now, don't put this off as the days are fast going. The prizes are here waiting for the energetic people to come and own them for a few weeks of their time spent in pleasant and congenial work. Winning the grand prize automobile is not a hard task if you get busy now when subscriptions are easy to be procured. All that is necessary to own this valuable luxury is to clip the nomination blank from the paper, send it to the contest department, tell your friends that you are in the contest and that you want them to save the coupons for you, and last but not least and the most important have them give you their subscription. They are going to take some paper. Why not The Review? Those that are making the paper at the present time can give you a subscription which will within the next few days, count you as many votes as a new subscription or one that is not taking it at the present time.

50,000 Votes for First Subscription.

This is the offer to candidates that send in a subscription by next Saturday evening, this is the largest number of votes that will ever be given on subscriptions and the candidates that wish to get this extra vote must get busy and send in this first subscription, in order to store up this large reserve vote. Candidates that have secured this first subscription should get every subscription possible and send them to the contest department and they will be given the votes as per the large vote schedule that will be announced within the next few days, which is the largest and best vote offer to the entire contest.

List of Candidates Published Tomorrow.

A partial list of the candidates who have been nominated and who have one subscription turned in to their credit will be published in Friday's issue of The Review. On account of the great many nominations that have been received the contest department has decided to publish only the ones that have signified their intention of taking an active part, so if after looking over the list of candidates you do not find your name, kindly notify the contest department and we will send a representative and have him help you get this first subscription and show you how easy it is for you to own an automobile. The contest is still young and there has been no real work done so if you are thinking of being one of the candidates, fill out the nomination blank and send it to the contest department and we will help you own one of these much coveted prizes.

THIS DOG GOT IT WHERE THE CHICKEN GOT THE AXE

Police Court Case Follows But Judgment is Reserved

Clarence Prophet, of Smith, appeared before Magistrate Edmison yesterday afternoon, on the charge of unlawfully injuring a hound dog, the property of Mr. Cyril Leck, of this city. Mr. J. V. McElderry acted for the accused, and Mr. S. T. Medd for Mr. Leck.

On the 23rd of January, of this year, Mr. Roy Wilson of this city, was out hunting in Smith, and was accompanied by the dog in question. He entered the Prophet farm, and the dog was a little in advance. He saw the dog approach a man who was felling trees, whom he afterwards found out to be Mr. Clarence Prophet, and a few moments later, heard the dog howl, as if it had been injured. He ran up and the accused admitted that he had hit the hound with an axe. On looking at the wound, Mr. Wilson observed that it was very deep and across the forehead and nose. Dr. Rogers was summoden and attended to the animal.

Dr. Rogers was called to the stand and gave evidence to the effect that the wound was very deep, but would heal, and the dog would not be affected, unless the wounded nasal chamber closed, thereby injuring the ability to smell. The dog was now under his care, and was progressing favorably. He estimated his bill to be around $6.00.

Cyril Leck, the owner of the dog, valued it about $100, for he reckoned the animal to be about the best in this vicinity. He had purchased it from B. Larocque, a year ago last September for $10.00. He told the court that if the smelling power of the animal was injured, it would be useless to him, for he wanted the dog for hunting purposes.

Trouble From Dogs

Mr. Prophet, the defendant, was the next witness. He told how their farm was used for the purpose of raising sheep and dogs had continually bothered them. The day the incident in question occurred, he was chopping in the bush and the dog ran past him. He did not bother the animal, but his father, who was about 150 feet further back, yelled at the animal, and it returned, passing him, (defendant), at a distance of about four feet. When the dog had gone on about forty feet, he threw his axe under handed at him, so as to scare it and the axe fell on his head. He intimated that he didn't want to injure the dog, for if he did, he could have hit it as it passed him.

Mr. Prophet, father of the accused, gave evidence that his sheep were continually being annoyed by dogs and he warned Mr. Wilson to keep off his property in the winter of 1911. The statement was proven to be incorrect, as Mr. Wilson was in Saskatoon at that time.

Mr. McElderry, in summing up his side of the case, stated how the evidence showed that it was not done with any intention whatsoever and if it had been, the fact that there were signs on the property to keep hunters and dogs away, gave the defendant power to do something to protect his sheep. He urged the Magistrate not to place any value on the evidence regarding the possible results, but rather on the results as they are now and that is, that the dog is alright with the exception of having a scar on his head.

Mr. Medd thought that persons should not take the law in their own hands as they do in the north country. He thought the Magistrate should make an example of this case and give hunters some protection.

His Worship withheld judgment for a few days, in order to review the evidence.

WAS SEIZED WITH APPENDICITIS

Campbellford Man is Now in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mr. George Kelleher of Campbellford, who has been visiting in the city the guest of Mrs. McNichol, 127 Romaine St., ever since last Satur, day took suddenly ill Tuesday night and when medical aid was summoned, the doctor pronounced it appendicitis. The unfortunate young man was rushed to the hospital and underwent an operation yesterday morning. Reports from St. Joseph's this morning stated that Mr. Kelleher was doing nicely.

THE TITLES' BILL

(Christian Guardian)

A second time Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., for West Peterboro, will introduce his bill to provide for the abolition of titles in Canada. Of course everyone recognizes that the bill stands no chance of becoming law, but it may result in a debate which will be useful. Theoretically all titles proceed directly from the Crown, but the Crown usually acts upon the advice of its ministers, and the question naturally arises as to who is responsible for recommending Canadians for knighthood and similar honors. Most of our newspapers are willing to assert that the practice of conferring titles "is not in harmony with the spirit of the Dominion, and has been sufficiently abused to bring it into popular disfavor," and we think that if a referendum of our rural population was taken, there would be a very feeble vote in favor of titles, but if a vote of the middle classes and the wealthy of our cities were taken it would be found that there was quite a number of Canadian citizens to whom stars, garters, and such like things were very attractive. Many of us deprecate the continuance of these titles in Canada, but so long as they are bestowed, and the bestowal is dependent upon the Canadian Government, many will think that there should be some recognized standard of merit in the awarding of them, although a few will probably argue that the shortest way to their abolition is to make them ridiculous. In any event Mr. Burnham's bill will probably provide a short but interesting debate.

FINE THE SNOW MEN

Sidewalks Must be Cleared by 9. a.m.

The question of adjusting the snow plowing problem was brought up at the Board of Works' session last evening, by Ald. Johnston. He thought that the men were doing the best they could under the circumstances. Still, the situation should be relieved. He also expressed the opinion that the city officials should go out, and see that the men went over the streets twice in order to get better results. This did not apply necessarily to all, but just the bad spots.

The public should also be requested to shovel off the walks also, as this would all assist in making the streets better.

Ald. Green said that the men did not get out early enough or often enough. Invariably, they wait until the storm is over, and then go over the ground but once. With this, the consequence is that the work can not be done satisfactorily. In the case of big storms the men should go over the ground twice.

Chairman Duncan reported that the Street Inspector had informed him that he had found it necessary to go to the house of a snow plow man, and in the North Ward and pull him out of bed and start him to work on the street. Ald. Johnston held that the work in the North End was very good.

The Board regretted that the men were so neglectful this year. Fines, however, will be imposed, should the walks not be cleared by nine o'clock according to the contract.

The work of Mr. Keeler, the plowman for the South Ward, was complimented by the Board.

NOTHING FOR WILLIS CHIPMAN

Board of Works Passes by His Account of $723.

THE WHITE ELEPHANT.

Mayor Buller's famous "White Elephant" is apparently destined to follow him through life's journey.

Last evening at the Board of Works the claim of Mr. Chipman, the engineer who made his appearance in this city about the time the "White Elephant" or Romaine Street sewer was a popular topic with the City Fathers, has a claim against the Board for the amount of $723.

"Why, I thought Mayor Bradburn had settled that," was the surprised remark of Mayor Buller last evening, when the subject was brought up.

The matter was dropped by the Board deciding to take no action. Ald. Johnston complimented the Mayor on his good work in connection with the Romaine Street sewer last year.

A letter was read from Mr. Johnston, executor for the late Mr. Overend, who figured in the Princess St. deal with the city in connection with a strip of land. The letter was to the effect that a settlement could be reached for the $150.00. The Mayor and chairman assisted by the Cit Engineer, will investigate into the matter.

"You had better fix the corner of Stewart and Wolfe Street," was the parting injunction of the Mayor after he had informed the Board that two men had been "drowned" there, owing to the amount of water. The matter will be looked after immediately.

NO LICENSE FOR MILKMEN

Mode of Handling Milk Not Satisfactory to Board of Health

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 29.—Seventeen applications for milk vendors' licenses were considered, by the Board of Health, of which thirteen were, on the recommendation of the milk inspector, favorably considered and licenses granted for the year 1914. Four other applicants were refused, it being understood that the latter were to be notified that their mode of handling the milk was not satisfactory to the board, and not in accordance with the Ontario Milk Act or the City milk bylaw. Unless the conditions are improved, there will be four milk vendors out of business during the year 1914.

CONTRACTOR DIES AT BELLEVILLE

Belleville, Jan. 29.—Robert Thompson, a well known contractor of this city, of the firm of Thompson and Donahue, died at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. He was taken suddenly ill last night.

The late Robert Thompson was well known. In religion he was a Roman Catholic. He had been engaged in many contracts in Belleville and other places.

DR. ROBERTSON HERE TO-NIGHT

Canadian Club Meeting at 6.30 Will be Interesting.

This evening at 6.30 the Canadian Club will hold a regular meeting in Coleman's restaurant, and will have as its guest of honor, Dr. Jas. W. Robertson, chairman of the Royal Comission on Technical Education. Dr. Robertson has the reputation of being an extremely interesting speaker, and is much in demand at Canadian Club meetings.

Dr. Robertson came to Canada from Scotland at the age of 15, and settled on a farm near London, Ont. His first official appointment was that of Professor of Dairying at the Guelph Agricultural College, where his good work brought him to the attention of Sir Wm. Macdonald, with the result that through Sir Wm. Macdonald's generosity, he established Manual Training, Consolidated Rural Schools, and afterwards the Macdonald Institute at St. Anne and the Macdonald School for Domestic Science at Guelph.

REID GETS SEVEN YEARS

For His Part in the Escape of Winnipeg Bad Man

Canadian Press Despatch

WINNIPEG, Jan. 29.—Ex-Constable Reid, who confessed to complicity in a plot for Krafchenko's escape, was sentenced this morning by Sir Hugh John Macdonald, police magistrate, to seven years in the penitentiary.

ENAMEL SIGNS AND THE RE-NUMBERING OF STREETS

New Signs Will Mean Quite a Large Expenditure Says Chairman

The question of enamel street signs was again discussed at the Board of Works meeting last evening with the result that the City Engineer was instructed to report on the matter at the next meeting of the Board.

Several of the members were greatly in favor of having the signs erected on iron posts, one at each intersection of the street corner.

It will mean the expenditure of a considerable sum of money in the opinion of the Chairman.

In speaking of the poles, as to their size, Ald. Johnston made the remark that they would look like a mooley cow, if only one was placed.

Figures obtained some time ago, indicate that signs would cost in the neighborhood of thirty-eight cents in lots of five hundred. One price obtained was as high as fifty cents.

Re-numbering the Streets.

The matter of renumbering the streets was introduced, and Chairman Duncan expressed himself that the numbers should start at the hub, take for instance, Hunter street, and number out to the different sections of the city. Nothing was done in connection with the matter.

Claims for Damages.

The communication of J. R. Scott, of Maria street, regarding the matter of obstruction to his property, caused by the Vermont Marble Company's siding, was settled by the Chairman, City Engineer and the Mayor being instructed to confer with Mr. Scott, also with Mr. Adams, whose property suffers from obstruction and settle the matter. Mr. Scott claims $200 while the claim of Mr. Adams is $500.

A Gas Main.

The City Engineer's recommendation for a gas main to be laid by the Peterborough Light and Power Company in the western part of the city was adopted and permission granted.

The Power Company and the Commissioners will be informed that they will be required to state what street digging would be needed, before the first of April.

The City Engineer was instructed to communicate with the C.P.R. in connection with the crossing at Romaine street and the Monaghan road. This is an old trouble.

The matter of the claim of Mr. B. F. Ackerman for $50 rent for the yard next to his premises and owned by him was left in the hands of the Chairman and Mayor to confer and settle.

"Another comedy," sighed the Alderman from the North Ward.

The petition for the watering of Walton street was left over as the Board deemed it far to early to worry about the watering of streets.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT AS TO THE PARCEL POST SYSTEM

The Rates to be Charged for Parcels Leaving Peterboro

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—Details of the parcel post rates forecasted by the Hon. Mr. Pelletier are now made public. The system of rates is exceedingly simple. For each province there is to be a rate card, from which the postmaster may see at a glance what are the local rates and those for forwarding parcels of varying weights to the different provincial sones. The rate cards, while separate as to provinces, are similar. The rates for Ontario are:

Ontario Rates

To any post office within 20 miles—one pound, five cents; two pounds, six cents; three pounds, seven cents; four pounds, eight cents; and two cents for each additional pound up to the maximum of 11 pounds.

To any post office beyond 20 miles, but within the province—one pound, 10 cents; two pounds, 14 cents; three pounds, 18 cents; four pounds, 22 cents; five pounds, 26 cents; six pounds, 30 cents; seven pounds, 34 cents; eight pounds, 38 cents; nine pounds, 42 cents; 10 pounds, 46 cents; and 11 pounds, 50 cents.

To any post office in Quebec or Manitoba—One pound, 10 cents; two pounds, 16 cents; three pounds, 22 cents; four pounds, 28 cents; five pounds, 34 cents; six pounds, 40 cents; seven pounds, 46 cents; eight pounds, 52 cents; nine pounds, 58 cents; 10 pounds, 64 cents; 11 pounds 70 cents.

To any post office in Saskatchewan or the maritime provinces—One pound, 12 cents; two pounds, 20 cents; three pounds, 28 cents; and eight cents extra per pound up to the 11-pound limit.

To any post office in Alberta—One pound, 12 cents; two pounds, 24 cents; and 10 cents for each extra pound.

To any post office in British Columbia—One pound, 12 cents; two pounds, 24 cents, and 12 cents for each extra pound.

Zone System Best

An explanatory memorandum says in part: If a flat rate were fixed that would not entail too great a loss to the department in carrying parcels from one end of the Dominion to the other, or even from the centre provinces to the extreme east or west, the rate would be too high for comparatively short distances, or even between points within the same provinces, and the only practical plan appeared to be the zone system under which the rates are graduated according to the distance a parcel will have to be carried.

On account of the geographical position of the provinces of Canada and their being approximately the same size when the three maritime provinces are considered as one, it was found that the provincial boundaries would be the most convenient to adopt as the limits of the zones and consequently the rates were fixed by provinces. This makes the system a very simple one, much easier to follow than the zone system based upon mileage alone.

Helps Local Merchants

The first rate is five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound or fraction thereof up to four pounds, and two cents for each subsequent pound up to eleven pounds, within a radius of twenty miles from the place of mailing, irrespective of provincial boundaries. This is to give local merchants an advantage within their own neighborhood and also farmers and gardeners who can use the mails for sending produce to their local market at a low rate. A parcel of 11 pounds can be sent 20 miles for 2 cents a pound, and this should give farmers a decided advantage in marketing eggs and other perishable matter. It will also give a decided advantage to the country merchant over the departmental stores. The former can send out goods in parcels up to 11 pounds to the customers at

MISS EVA BOOTH, SALVATION ARMY HEAD, SERIOUSLY ILL

EVA BOOTH.

Considerable alarm was felt in the offices of the Salvation Army in New York at the news that Commander Eva Booth had been brought back from her New York State tour suffering from bronchitis. Miss Booth had been lecturing all the way up the State and when she was to address a big meeting in Buffalo collapsed.

When Dr. Harlow Brooks, of New York, examined Miss Booth he declared that her condition was grave.

BEWARE OF NOSTRUMS, TAFT GIVES SOME ADVICE

Ex-President of United States Speaks on Popular Legislation.

GETS WARM WELCOME

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—A warning to Canada to pause before emulating some of the United States in adopting the "nostrums" of excessive popular government was uttered in Toronto last night by William Howard Taft in his address at the University Convocation Hall. Mr. Taft had little but ill to say of the initiative, the referendum and the recall, holding that the best practical application of the theory of government by the peoples lies in a rule by a minority which adequately represents the majority.

W. H. TAFT.

Mr. Taft saw grave danger of the devices of direct action being enthusiastically received by voters of limited intellect when skillfully proselytized. "They are catching proposals," he said, "because it is difficult to convince people that they are not competent to do anything, and to pass on complicated laws or to discuss nice constitutional questions and to vote right upon them does not appeal to their self-love or to their appreciation of their own capacity.

Mr. Taft, who is in Toronto on a two-day visit, was warmly welcomed by a large audience.

The opening of the new armouries at Norwood, The Register says, will take place on Wednesday, February 11.

OPENING OF LEGISLATURE

Attorney-General Foy Will Head the Government During Session

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—The Ontario Legislature has been summoned to meet on Feb. 18. This announcement was made after a Cabinet Council yesterday, and the proclamation from the Lieutenant-Governor will issue at once. The House is usually opened on a Tuesday, but the date is put back one day this year to meet the convenience of all parties concerned.

Sir James Whitney will not lead the House this session. Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General, as senior member of the Cabinet, will have charge of the Government program. The absence of the Prime Minister from the Legislative Assembly of a province is not unusual. Hon. Walter Scott, Premier of Saskatchewan, recently took a prolonged vacation owing to ill-health, and was absent for an entire session of the House.

45,000 PUPILS IN TORONTO SCHOOLS HAVE DECAYED TEETH, IS DR. STRUTHERS' REPORT

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—Dr. W. E. Struthers, Chief Medical Inspector of Schools, in his report on medical inspection to the Management Committee of the Board of Education, states that 45,000 children of Toronto Public Schools have decayed teeth.

The Management Committee, recognizing some need in this direction, on Jan. 22nd, recommended that six additional dental chairs be installed in the schools at a cost of $4,800 for salaries and $2,500 for permanent equipment. Another $200 was provided for dental fitting supplies. But in the light of the large number of children needing care, the recommendations of only $7,500 is now thought inadequate.

Have Septic Mouths

"Although the conditions are not very bad in some cases," says Dr. Struthers in his report, "there are at the very least estimate from 20,000 to 25,000 school children with septic mouths and carious teeth, these children have coated tongues, inflammed gums, foul breath, and abscesses pouring out poison into their systems, causing indigestion and intestinal disturbances, breaking down vitality, and inviting disease.

Fed on Slop Food

"All too many of these children have mouths in a horribly septic condition—diseased buds of weaklings and criminals in the making. It is not possible for the children to thrive well, even if they do receive wholesome food. But, as a matter of fact, they are largely fed on slop food and sweets because of pain and tenderness, or the absence of a decent masticating surface, and this but agravates the conditions. It is only of recent years that the medical and dental professions have recognized to the full, the tremendous importance of the condition of the teeth on the health.

"It is now recognized that these unhealthy conditions of the mouth are the cause of anaemia, rheumatism, joint diseases, pneumonia, intestinal infections, besides leaving the child more susceptible to measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria and tuberculosis.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, JAN. 29, 1914.

THE EVILS OF IMMIGRATION.

THERE IS A GREAT amount of criticism going on in Great Britain just now of Canadian Emigration agents, both in England and in Canada. It is asserted that Canadian conditions are misrepresented and that the prospects for emigrants are painted in too rosy colors. It is as well that we ought to know just what a certain class in England are thinking about us. There is no doubt that many British people have been lured out by promises of affluence and prosperity which they have not realized when they have arrived in Canada. It is hardly possible that with such an enormous wave of population from east to west, which has been flowing for the last few years, that many would not be dissatisfied and disappointed, but are things so bad as they are painted in the following comment which we take from "John Bull"?—

According to The Toronto World "two Canadian immigration officers will spend considerable time in England during the present winter. . . . Travelling from place to place and holding frequent public meetings, these men will point out to thousands of Britishers the advantages awaiting them in Ontario." Turning to the Hamilton Spectator, another Canadian paper, we find it speaking of the difficulty of finding work. "Britishers here know by this time," it says, "that the Government agents recruiting immigrants in the old country have not a very high regard for the truth; in fact, many of them are liars; and are paid to lie. When they give sunburst-glow accounts and state 'Right this moment we could place 50,000 men at work in Canada,' do they tell them that this is only true during the harvesting, say for three months, and that the remaining nine months they would need to wander and live like pariahs? They do not. . . ." Of course they do not. That would give the game away; said game being to squeeze the British emigrant of all his cash resources for the benefit of the people who haven't any, and then let him drift to live anyhow or anywhere for what he can get, or go to the Devil, if he can get nothing. At this moment there is not a town of any importance in Canada where crowds of unemployed are not shivering hungry through the streets. In Canada, even more than here, poverty is a crime—and there are no workhouses.

This is a strong indictment, and it is no use closing our ears to it; there is a modicum of truth in it; but it is an extreme statement of the case. There will always be evils in connection with movements where so many different people's interests are concerned. It ought to be laid down as a maxim that anyone who emigrates to Canada or any other new country should do so on his own initiative and responsibility. If a man or a family is lured out in the hope of being fed and clothed with very little independent exertion they generally lean upon the emigration or the Immigration Agent for support, and that individual is generally anxious to get them off his hands the moment he gets his fee. The old pioneers came out to Canada, not to have a good time, but to WORK, and this should apply to every person who comes out today; he must be prepared to do whatever his hand finds to do, and do it with his might.

TO REGULATE COLD STORAGE.

IT WILL INTEREST local merchants and dealers in perishable goods to know that there is at present a Bill before the House of Commons at Ottawa, which has for its object the regulation of Cold Storage of food. This includes meat, poultry and fish not salted, smoked or cured, eggs, butter and such other articles as may be specified by the Governor-in-Council.

The provisions of the Bill are that no cold storage premises in which food is placed intended for exportation or sale shall be operated without a license. No food which has been placed in cold storage and has been removed therefrom for the purpose of sale shall be returned into cold storage. Every article of food or the package that contains it which is placed in cold storage shall bear a yellow paper label, upon which shall be plainly stamped or printed in black letters, and figures, at least one-half inch long, the date of the killing, packing or manufacturing, and the date when it was placed in cold storage. When food is removed from cold storage a red paper label stamped or printed in black letters at least one-half inch long shall be attached to such article or package. When food that has been placed in cold storage is taken out and exposed for sale, the person offering it for sale shall inform any person making enquiry that such food has been in cold storage, and the dates when it was first placed in cold storage and when it was removed. All food taken out of cold storage and offered for sale shall be marked with a card upon which shall be plainly printed in red block letters not less than two inches long, upon a white ground, the words "Cold Storage Goods." The owner, operator or manager of every cold storage shall keep a book in which each article placed in cold storage shall be entered, with the date when it was first placed in cold storage and when it was taken out. This book shall at all times be open for inspection by all persons authorized to inspect it by the Minister, and also to all health officers.

The following schedule is to be observed:—Beef, veal, pork, sheep, lamb, poultry and fish are not to be kept in cold storage longer than 4 months. Eggs 7 months. Butter 6 months. Frozen fish (for export only) shall not be kept longer than 9 months.

If the bill becomes law the above provisions will be strictly enforced. Any person violating them shall be liable upon summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars, and in default of payment to imprisonment for a period not exceeding sixty days; and for any second or subsequent conviction to a penalty not exceeding five hundred dollars, and in default of payment to imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

EMPEROR WILLIAM has celebrated his 55th birthday, hale and vigorous in body and mind and able still, as was shown by his recent wood-chopping exploits, to undertake the physical work of a man in the prime of life. All classes of his subjects joined in observing the day.

THE MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION of Montreal are said to be starting a campaign to "clean up" that city. We could do with a little scavenger work of that kind in Peterborough. But don't leave it all to the ministers, let every man clean up his own door-yard.

A REPORTER of one of the Toronto newspapers disguised himself as a working-man and went around the city looking for a job. He returned to the ark declaring that any man who was willing to work need not be out of employment. He had two jobs offered him. If a reporter could get employment how much easier it would be for a man who was willing to work!

ANNONCEMENTS indicate that measures are being taken in Peterborough to improve "the ethical standard" as the common conduct of every-day life is nowadays somewhat floridly termed. Canada at the present time is bowed in shame before what has come to light. In politics partyism is most largely to blame for it. It is a singular thing that men of high character and of a high order of firmness will nevertheless smile at what they know to be sheer rottenness and robbery in politics. Our Canadian manhood is on trial as never before. Has our civilization proved a failure? Have the efforts of our clergy proved fruitless?

AN INVENTION for rubber-plating battleships is being experimented with by the British Admirtity according to the London Globe, usually well informed on naval matters. The process consists of sandwiching sheets of rubber between layers of toughened steel, and the inventors declare that a wall of rubber will have the same effect on cannon shells as sand bags have on rifle bullets. It is rather strange that no one ever thought of this before. So now the cannon balls will bounce back and they can be used over again. War will eventually lose its terror and become an interesting and delightful game of bouncing ball! But why not make the balls of rubber? That doubtless will come in time.

Liberal newspapers and politicians are anticipating trouble and showing their hands by denouncing the Redistribution Bill of the Borden Government before they know what its terms are. It seems to be the only thing left for them to wrangle over now, and no doubt they will make the most of it. There is, however, every reason to believe that the Redistribution Bill will be fair in its readjustment of the constituencies as provided by the terms of the constitution. Premier Borden is essentially a just man with a desire to play the game fairly with his opponents.

A Winter Reverie.

I saw the moon so broad and bright
Sailing high on a frosty night:

And the air swung far and far between
The silver disk and the orb of green:

And here and there a whisp of white
Cloud-film swam on the misty light:

And crusted thickly on the sky,
Higher and higher and yet more high,

Were golden star-points, dusted through
The great, wide, silent vault of blue.

Then I bethought me God was great,
And the world was fair, and so, elate,

I knelt me down and bent my head,
And said my prayers and went to bed.

POETS

By Walt Mason

I'd rather write one line, be jabers, to stimulate the man who labors at dreary tasks and hard, than have my brow with bays encumbered, and hear folks say that I'd be numbered as an immortal bard. I'd rather chirp one little sonnet to cheer the dame with last year's bonnet, the seamstress, in her room, to help the tired and heavy laden, to bring a smile to some sad maiden who bends above her loom, than write an ode on which the scholars would up and bet their bottom dollars that it would never die; than sing a song so great and stirring that it would set the critics purring, and make my rivals cry. The mighty bards! Their stately measure was always writ for folks of leisure who had all kinds of time to read new pomes, on divans leaning, and try to figure out the meaning of that dodgasted rhyme. And so I sit here by the willers and sing the toilers and the tillers, the hewers of the wood; and if I cheer one soul that's saddened, this fat old heart of mine is gladdened, and life seems sweet and good.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY MEETING.

Editor Review:

There is no more a feeble-minded class, than there is a criminal class (British Government report). Of course what is called feeble-mindedness is of daily occurrence with almost everyone and things are not such a howling success even with doctors that such a noise need be made of those who, after all, are only feeble in that they are our inferiors. The best husband and father is not, the physically fine eugenist, but often the weak and feeble. There are only 87 physically perfect men among the 1,256 students at University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Campbell Posey reported "that more than one-third of the freshmen class have defects in eyesight. The physical defects include organic or digestive disorders, skin disease, round shoulders, uneven, shoulders, flat chests, and flat feet," (and future Children's Aid Society's). What objection is there to the feeble-minded? All the easier exploited! It is the strong minded, however, who are the real danger to the community and, to make competition for a living fair, I should subsidize the feeble. Give them a bonus, and exempt them from taxation; but if the slums were abolished and the amusements and recreations of the people considered apart from profits, we should have fewer criminals and consequently fewer feeble-minded. After all, we don't even know what the mind is, although the police courts and societies have it all expressed in dollars and cents.

Yours truly,
A Reader.

ABOUT FIREMEN

To the Editor of The Review.
Sir,—

Perhaps it would be information to Chief Howard to know that the Peterboro fire brigade can equal some of the fire brigades in England. But why should he want motor engines, etc.? Is it to increase the taxes? Now let me show him how the fire brigades are run cheaply in some parts of England. For instance Stockton Heath. I encolse the following taken from an English journal, John Bull.

Hoping that the Fire Chief will take it to heart, especially, as I snow, Howard it is trying to keep expenses down, as regards the fire brigade.

Playing With Fire

Some time ago we had pleasure in recording the marvellous achievement of the Stockton Heath fire bribade. The alarm bell had no tongue and had to be struck with a clothes-prop before it would sound. A fortnight ago, one of the members of the brigade while at work, was told by a youth that a couple of houses in Warbuton Street were on fire. He instructed the lad to ring the bell, while he, himself, got into his uniform. But the clothes-prop had vanished, the lady who owned it being engaged "washing." To her credit, however, be it said, immediately she heard of the emergency, she lent the humble but useful article to the boy who was able to fulfil his mission. In due course, the men of the brigade rolled up, and away rushed the fire engine at at least four miles an hour, to the scene of the conflagration. Upon arrival, the hose commenced to play, but notwithstanding all the water that was poured upon the houses, steam refused to show itself. The tenants being out, the doors and windows were bashed in, in the accepted melodramatic manner, to the great admiration of the crowd, in order to discover the cause of this extraordinary phenonenon. Still no trace of fire could be discovered, whereupon someone suggested that the outbreak was on the roof. In response to loud and urgent demands for a ladder, a still small voice was heard to whisper: "There ain't none." The fickle crowd laughed. Goaded by ridicule, one of the more daring spirits of the brigade courageously scaled the walls—to find there was no fire at all—the whole hullabaloo having arisen from the reflection of a distant light upon some tin. The incident will, however, have served some purpose, for it must have brought home to the Parochial Committee that a ladder is a necessary item in the equipment of a fire brigade. Indeed, they seem already to have taken the lesson to heart, for the fire bell now stands forth in all its original glory, a tongue and chair complete. But any stranger who dares to stop and stare at that historic bell and to ask one of the brigade "What about the fire that wasn't?" is likely to provide a job for the local Coroner.

Yours truly,
H. M. S. THUNDERBOLT.

GIRLS AND PLEASURES

To the Editor of The Review:
Dear Sir,—

I think a good way to keep the girls at home is to let them have a little pleasure; either in town or in the country. It is no harm whatever, to let a girl have a party on her birthday and ask a few girl and boy friends in. But some mothers will not let them do this. They forget how well they used to like to go to a little party themselves. Mothers, let your girls do this and they will not be so anxious to be away from home.

Yours truly,
A READER.

TEACHING THE MINERS.

Colliery Workers Have Technical Schools For Training Officials.

In Nova Scotia, as elsewhere in important coal-producing areas, colliery officials are required to pass examinations and secure certificates of competency before being allowed to fill responsible positions in and about a colliery. These examinations cover such subjects as scholarship, mine ventilation, methods of working mines, surveying, geology, mechanics, first aid to the injured, etc. For the higher grades of certificates it is necessary that the prospective official shall have a good working knowledge of geometry, algebra, trigonometry, English composition, physics, mechanism, geology, mine plans, and surveying, in addition to the specific subjects that relate to practical mine exploitation. The ambitious miner has usually been required to obtain this knowledge by himself or through the medium of a correspondence course.

In Nova Scotia there is an evening technical school for coal miners in seventeen colliery towns, or practically every coal-mining community in the province. Four permanent mining instructors and over thirty-five part-time teachers are engaged in these schools. The permanent instructors are men who hold the highest certificates of competency and who are engaged in responsible positions in and about the colliery and give a certain number of their evenings to the work of instruction. The classes meet twice a week for a two-hour session through a period of eight months of the year.—F. H. Sexton in Industrial Canada.

Eskimos Have Backbone.

Charles Dawson, who found the famous Piltdown skull, has made another discovery of considerable interest to anthropologists.

He has discovered that the members of a certain Eskimo tribe in northern Canada have literally more backbone than the rest of humanity; that is to say, they have one extra vertebra to which small ribs are attached.

SPECIAL CORNER FOR AFTER DINNER READERS

William Tripp's Old Mother

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1913 by Associated Literary Press

William was wicked.

When I pick out one man from a mining camp made up of 300 runaways, debt jumpers, cutthroats, gamblers, horse thieves and murderers and call him wicked I mean for the reader to infer that he was right up and down bad.

Which was exactly the case with William Tripp.

Wicked! Well, he was that!

Such a swearer as William was! He would begin as soon as his eyes were open in the morning and keep up a steady fire until 10 o'clock at night. And he was a cheat and a liar.

You wonder that we didn't run him out or hang him.

Well, somehow we always intended to, but always put it off to a more convenient date. The success of bouncing a man depends a good deal on who the man is. On our first gentle hint to William Tripp that unless he was packed up and out of camp inside of thirty minutes his anatomy would be riddled with bullets he produced a couple of revolvers, backed up against the Red Eye saloon and calmly observed that he was aching for a little excitement. I think his actions at that particular time had something to do with our giving him the rope and seeking to get along with his eccentric traits of character.

"I move," said Elder Beacon one night when we were talking about William's bad ways, "that the committee get the drop on him and then run him into the hills."

Just so, but who were the committee? That was another point we could never satisfactorily determine, and that was another reason why William continued to abide with us.

Shoot? Well, you never saw such an eye and such nerve. Just as far as he could see the bowl of a pipe in a man's mouth he could smash it with a bullet. Almost every hat in camp had an air hole made by one of his bullets, and, though I was prejudiced against William, I had to admit that he respected men's heads in shooting at their hats.

But there came a halt in William Tripp's mad career, and it happened in a queer way. A fire in his tent one night burned up a lot of his traps, and he had to make a ride of thirty miles on Colonel Cooper's old mare to replace them with new. The morning he rode out of camp was the last time we saw him, but we heard from a dozen different ones just what happened. About twelve miles from our camp was the Overland trail, and just where our own trail struck in was a pretty little valley with plenty of water and wood. It was a favorite camping spot with immigrants, and the day William Tripp reached it he found half a dozen wagons and as many families halted for a breathing spell.

The deviltry in William's nature bubbled over when he struck that valley and beheld such a scene of peace. Children were playing around, women were washing and mending, and the brawny men were repairing wagons and harness and whistling over their work. William drew rein and gazed upon the scene for a few minutes. Then he out with his revolver. Seated before one of the fires was an old woman with her knitting in hand and a pipe in her mouth. It was a long shot, but the evil one urged William to try it, and try he did.

What happened?

Something even worse than murder. The bullet went straight for the old woman's head and crashed into her brain. Then something awful followed. She rose to her feet, whirled around to face the shooter, and true as you live she seemed to look at him for thirty seconds before she tottered forward and shrieked out:

"William! Oh, my son William!"

Then she pitched forward on the grass and was dead in a second, and the red blood oozed out and made a terrible stain on the green grass.

And William—what did he do? He was like one turned to stone. The old woman's words plainly reached his ears, and he must have recognized her face. In the awful moment in which he sat gazing at the corpse on the grass it must have flashed across him that his poor mother had made that long journey with neighbors for no other purpose than to hunt him up—he the boy who had left her years ago and had been the subject of her nightly prayers ever since. Wicked as he was he must have felt her devotion and sacrifices.

And then?

He sat there in his saddle, his eyes fastened on his mother's corpse, and the revolver still in his hand. The situation had petrified him. While he sat thus one of the immigrants, who, believing that the camp was to be attacked by a force, leveled his rifle over the wheel of the wagon and sent a bullet plowing through William's heart.

Ah, well; it's years and years ago, and the twin graves in the valley have long since been trampled out of sight, and White Dog Diggings can be found no more, but the day the news of that awful tragedy came back to us we dropped spade and pick and could work no more for the day. And after a long period of silence among the men, who had instinctively gathered around Judge Desire to hear his opinion, the judge arose and said:

"Feller citizens, the wicked don't live out half his days, and don't you forgit it!"

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR WOMEN

English-Speaking Women To Benefit by Peace Centenary Plan.

LONDON, Jan. 28. — A movement to commemorate the Anglo-American peace centenary by establishing a series of scholarships for women tenable at Girton, Newnham or Bedford College, London, is being instituted by a section of the League of Empire. The proposal is for scholarships organized similarly to the Rhodes scholarships and would be open to women of the English-speaking nations between the ages of 21 and 26, and would have an annual value o' £250, tenable for two years.

Madame Thayer, honorary secretary of the Women's Scholarships Committee, explaining the proposal yesterday, said: "The scholarships would be a living memorial to the hundred years of peace. The experiment has already been tried successfully, for in 1910, when Miss Points, an American girl sent over here for two years by the General Federation of Women's Clubs to complete her education, the same machinery which examines the Rhodes scholars was utilized in her selection, and we are informed that this machinery will be at our disposal if the scholarships we propose are founded. The scholarships will also strengthen the Imperial scheme and our friendship with the United States."

SLEEPLESSNESS.

Little Tricks By Which You Can Trick Mr. Morpheus.

"Six hours for men, seven for women, and eight for children," runs the old saying regarding the amount of sleep necessary for good health. Such hours, however, are scarcely sufficient for the average healthy person, according to medical testimony. Most men want more than six hours, and those who sleep less cannot be said to be in the best of physical condition.

Insomnia, of course, arises from many causes. Worry, grief, indigestion, cold feet, bad ventilation, lack of exercise, improper food, and particularly disordered nerves, are all apt to cause sleeplessness, and often the simplest remedy will effect a cure.

Possibly bad nerves are the cause of sleeplessness in nine cases out of ten, and at the present time nerve specialists are strongly recommending the simple remedy of taking a small glass of stout and a biscuit after they are in bed for patients suffering from sleeplessness. The remedy, it is said, has a wonderful effect.

This reminds one of Frank Buckland's sovereign remedy, which was to eat two or three raw onions before going to bed, with the result that the drowsy god, probably attracted by the fragrance of the sleep-compelling root, hovered in the air. But for those who objected to the olfactory inconvenience of such a strong dish, stewed onions of the Spanish variety were recommended.

One has often heard that sleep can be induced by counting hundreds of imaginary sheep jumping over a gate, and in the same category as this cure might be placed that of the famous Samuel Wilberforce, best known as Bishop of Oxford, who, greatly troubled with insomnia, found a cure in repeating, very slowly, the vowels a, e, i, o, u, which had to be faintly pronounced with each inspiration and expiration.

The glass of stout and biscuit cure may be strongly recommended for those people whose habit it is to dine at seven o'clock, and go to bed at eleven or twelve without taking any more food. Sleeplessness is often the result of hunger, and by eleven or twelve o'clock the stomach is empty, and its owner cannot sleep. In place of the stout the teetotaller may take a glass of hot milk or a bowl of thick soup, which will send him off at once.

Going to bed in a cold room after having spent an evening in a hot atmosphere is to be condemned, as is also the practice of having too thin night attire and chilly sheets. Cold provokes indigestion, which keeps people awake, and therefore it behoves us to go to bed warm.

One frequent cause of insomnia is cold feet, and in such cases closely-knitted socks and a brisk walk before retiring are recommended. People with poor circulation should use a hot-water bottle, but in other cases of cold feet the following method may prove very beneficial. Hold them in a basin of cold water by the bedside just before getting into bed for about two minutes or less. Then rub them dry with a rough towel, which will at once impart a glowing warmth.

To many people the drinking of half a pint or more of clear cold water on retiring brings about a cure for sleeplessness. It clears the blood, washes irritating food out of the stomach, and promotes a feeling of quietude which helps sleep.

A Hook Hint.

You know what a bother it is to sew hooks on the edge of a waist without the stitches showing on the right side. My cousin has found an easy way to do this, writes a correspondent. She makes the hem the right width and runs an old corset steel through it, then sews on the hooks and pulls out the steel. She always uses eyes that are one size smaller than the hooks and says they never come unfastened.

The demand for butchers' cows and bulls was rather limited.

There was no change in the small meats market, prices being steady on small offerings. Lambs sold at $8 and sheep at $5 to $6 per 100 pounds. The demand for calves was fairly good at prices ranging from $3 to $12 each as to size and quality. The tone of the market for Ontario and Quebec hogs was firm under a good demand, and sales of selected lots were made at $9.65 to $9.75, and straight lots at $9.40 to $9.50 per 100 pounds weighed off cars, but the market for Manitoba hogs was weaker, owing to the increased arrivals, and prices declined with sales at $9.25 to $9.40 per 100 pounds weighed off cars.

JACKETS ARE GETTING SHORTER ON PARIS SUITS

The suit jackets of the late winter and the earliest spring models that have hardly yet had the bastings removed for the buyers to see, are the shortest they have been for a long time, quite to the waist line, in fact, to make room for the bouffant draperies, the peg-top skirts and the newer bustles. Here is a Paris suit recently imported, showing a combination of brocaded mohair in taupe, with taupe chiffon and fur. At the end of the ribbon that runs around the collar are pendants of jet, the present rival of the tassel.

TUMOR IN THE STOMACH

Completely Removed When She Took "Fruit-a-tives"

NEWBURY, ONT., April 4th. 1913.

"Some years ago, I was sick in bed, and thought I was going to die. I had a growth in my stomach, which the doctors said was a Tumor and they said that the only thing to do was to go to the hospital and have the tumor cut out. I dreaded an operation although both doctors said it was the only cure. I said I would die before being operated on.

At this time, my mother in Alvinston sent me some "Fruit-a-tives" and induced me to try them as she had heard of another woman who had been cured of a similar growth in the stomach by taking "Fruit-a-tives".

To please my mother, I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" with the happy result that they cured me. I have not been to see a doctor since and my health is first class.

I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" every time I get a chance and I will be glad to have you publish this letter as some other woman may now be a sufferer from the same trouble and "Fruit-a-tives" will cure her" MRS. A. McDONALD.

REPORT ON THE SCHOOLS OF EAST PETERBORO

Some Improvements Are Reported by Inspector Lees

To

The Warden and Council of the County of Peterborough.

Gentlemen :—

I beg respectfully to submit my report on the schools in the Inspectorate of Peterborough East for the year 1913.

There were in operation during the year, 71 rural schools with 76 teachers, and three village schools with 21 teachers. In the performance of my duties, I made 220 half day visits, spending at least two half days in each school with the exception of No. 13 Methuen and No. 1 Chandos which I visited but once, they being closed at the time of one of my visits to their respective districts.

Qualification of Teachers.

It is with pleasure that I note a slight improvement in the qualification of the teachers. of the 76 teachers in the rural schools last term, 2 held first, 26 second, 21 third class, and 24 temporary certificates. The remaining three held no certificates. As compared with a year ago, this is an increase of 6 in the number of qualified teachers.

In the villages, the four Continuation School teachers were all properly qualified, and of the rest, 16 held Second Class and one a Third Class Certificate. There were in the inspectorate, 25 teachers with no professional training as compared with 31 the year before. These 25 were distributed as follows: Asphodel, 2 ; Belmont and Methuen, Chandos, 8 ; Dummer, 2 ; N. Monaghan, 1.

Salaries.

The scholars continue to increase in a manner that promises better things in the future. The average salary for the inspectorate based on the rate being paid during the fall term of last year was $478, an increase of $22 over 1912. Were this based on the amount actually paid for the year it would be about $15 lower which is very little in excess of the average for all the rural schools of the province in 1911, the last year for which we have complete returns. At the rate at which increase has been taking place the average for 1913 will probably be at least $50 above the average for this inspectorate. It is obvious that we can never hope to command the services of even the average teachers till we pay salaries that are at least equal to the average.

Asphodel	$491	$514	$536
Belmont & Methuen	391	413	448
Burleigh & Anstruther	332	371	380
Chandos	305	344	365
Douro	448	509	530
Dummer	421	458	503
N. Monaghan	475	520	535
Otonabee	505	525	552

The Grants.

For the past year, the grants were somewhat of a disappointment. The grant to rural schools on account of salaries and certificates is based on the qualification of the teacher and the amount of salary paid, being 40 per cent. of the salary in excess of $350 for ordinary townships, and in excess of $150 for townships where the average assessment is less than $30,000 per school section. This applies to 28 schools in the inspectorate.

The rapid increase in salaries has been causing a great annual increase in this grant, and to meet this it has been necessary to increase from year to year, the apportionment for that purpose. Last year this was not done, but instead all the grants were cut down to the extent of 28 per cent., to make the total come within the amount apportioned.

The net result was that the inspectorate received under the head of salaries and certificates, $1826.20 less than if the schedule had been adhered to, and $1462.80 less than the previous year.

The question naturally arises, if the total amount distributed to the provinces was the same as in 1912, why did Peterborough East get less. For this there are two reasons. First, we have not kept pace with the general increase in salaries and improvement of qualification throughout the provinces. Second, there are 28 schools that get a fixed grant of $30 each and $80 as percentage on the salary between $150 and $350, making a sum of $110 per school that is practically fixed. This suffered the 28 per cent. reduction along with the rest, hence there was a decrease of $30.80 each on 28 schools that was entirely unaffected by the general increase of salaries. This accounts for $862.40 of the falling off. The remaining $600 must be due to the fact that our schools are not keeping up with the general progress of the province.

Work of the Schools.

In most of the schools where properly qualified teachers are employed, good work is being done. A considerable proportion of these teachers are young and without much experience, but many of them are teaching with a vigor, enthusiasm and freshness that goes far to compensate for lack of experience. There are, at present, in the inspectorate, a larger number of teachers that I consider above the average that at any previous time since I assumed the duties of inspector. A number of trustee boards have made very gratifying and commendable efforts to get qualified teachers and increase the efficiency of their schools. These efforts are all the more appreciated when contrasted with others where the teaching is still of a very poor character. There are a few cases where trustes are paying to teachers that are almost useless, salaries that ought to command the services of fair teachers. This is sometimes owing to unfortunate circumstances but more often to lack of diligence or from choice. It is not only a waste of public money but is inflicting on the children of these sections an injury that cannot be reckoned in dollars.

Irregularity of Attendance.

Next to the lack of efficient teaching comes irregularity of attendance as a hindrance to the progress of the schools. An attempt was made at the end of the year to get definite information on this point. While it would seem that there is not a large number of children of school age who do not attend school at all, yet a large number attend so irregularly as to render the efforts of the school in their behalf of little avail.

Reports have been received from 55 schools with 1704 pupils. Of these, 133 attended less than half of the time for which they were enrolled. 168 attended more than 50 but less than 60 per cent. of the time, 153 between 60 and 70 per cent., 259 between 70 and 80, 355 over 80 but less than 90, and only 284 attended more than 90 per cent. of the days. Only four pupils out of 1704 attended every day.

The most noticeable feature of the reports is that the best attendance is where the best teachers are and the poorest where the cheap teachers preside. This would indicate that one remedy at least would be to make the schools more worth while. This is not all that should be done however as even the best schools might have a much higher average attendance and there are few of the schools that are not better than none at all. They are being maintained, for the benefit of the children at a considerable cost and the children should not be deprived of the benefit of them through the greed, selfishness or indifference of parents. The truancy act should be vigorously enforced and not be a mere dead letter as at present.

Changes of Teachers.

Another fruitful source of loss and inefficiency is the frequent changes of teachers. That this is a serious matter will be shown by the fact that of 75 rural school teachers in the inspectorate at the beginning of the year, 17 changed with the opening of school, 8 between that and midsummer, and 48 at midsummer, making a total of 73 changes in the year. Many of the changes were needless, and could have been avoided had good judgment and a regard for the best interests of the schools always prevailed. It is doubtful, however if we need hope for much improvement in this respect as long as the present antiquated and out-of-date system of school government and organization by school sections lasts.

All of which is respectfully submitted by

Yours respectfully,
Richard Lees,
P. S. Inspector.

HAS INFLAMED KNEE.

Sir James Whitney's Recovery May Be Retarded by Complication.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—"Sir James has rested well to-day. He has been sleeping quietly for two or three hours. Some swelling with redness appeared in his left knee this afternoon, with some fever. He is taking nourishment well."

This was the bulletin issued by Dr. Alexander McPhedran last night. The inflammation in the knee, he said, indicated some new disorder, the nature of which they were not quite sure. Consequently there was a possibility of a change for the worse today. The same condition appeared while Sir James was in New York, and at the time the doctors thought it was rheumatism, but it passed away. In the present weak condition of the Premier any infection is to be feared.

Otherwise, Dr. McPhedran said, there was little change from the previous day. If anything, Sir James was looking a little better.

VIGILANCE COMMITTEE

They Would Investigate Cases and Expose the Guilty

Police Commissioners Will Likely Meet Next Week

Referring again to the formation of a Vigilance Committee, as was suggested by speakers at the mass meeting in the Charlotte Street Church lecture hall, Monday night, it might be added that one speaker pointed out that the members would investigate the cases coming before their notice, and run the guilty party to earth as it were. Then he would be exposed. Action such as this, it was felt, would not be without results for the better.

In Chicago, another speaker explained, the Vigilance Committee had the support of one of the papers, which published the facts of the cases and exposed the guilty.

It is quite likely that Police Chief Thompson, when he makes his annual report to the Police Commissioners, will recommend that the police force be strengthened by the addition of several men.

Chief Thompson did not get all he asked for last year. He has always expressed the opinion that the Peterboro force, numerically, is below that of other cities.

Judge Huycke, chairman of the Board, is in Toronto, and will be absent for the remainder of the week. A meeting of the Commissioners may be expected in the early part of next week.

CLAIMS FOR DAMAGES MAY FOLLOW

Water Pressure Tested at Order of Fire Underwriters

CELLARS FLOODED

Inspector E. Wilson of the Underwriters' Association of Toronto, was in the city this afternoon, making the tests for the fire department. Tests at the hydrants up to seventy pounds were made. Owing to several small repairs being in progress at the water works plant, it was impossible to have the water up to the best pressure.

Several cases of damages may possibly arise out of the test in which the city will be the defendant. Owing to the city being unable to have all their drains in the business section open sufficiently to allow the large flow of water to pass away, the cellars of the buildings on east side of George, beween Hunter and Simcoe Sts., were badly flooded and the damage estimated, will run into a couple of thousand dollars.

The chairman of the Water Commissioners expressed himself to a Review reporter that the City Engineer should have been notified to permit the drains being prepared.

Several other members of the council stated that it would be better to cut off the test rather than stand for the damages which will arise.

OSKIGMONG

OSHKIGMONG, Jan. 29.—Sunday night, Jan. 18th, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Taylor Jr., were the happy recipients of a son.

Messrs. Moses Marsden and James Lukes, of Alderville, were here last week.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the Chemong choir failed to attend the Sunday School Convention at Wesley, North Smith, held on Wednesday, the 21st.

Chemongites were snowbound for several hours following the recent snowstorm.

Messrs. Alfred McCree and H. B. Suffam attended the Sunday School Convention at Wesley.

Mr. A. McCree of Chemong, was elected to the presidency of the Sunday School Association for North Smith, and Harvey Townships, while Mr. Samuel Woods of Buckhorn, was made secretary.

Miss Laurina Beaver was laid up for a few days with a severe attack of neuralgia and toothache.

PLANS OF PROPERTY

Blue print plans for the sub-division of a certain piece of land situated at the corner of Burnham and Hunter Sts., East City, owned by the Dickson Company, was submitted at the Board of Works meeting last evening for approval. The matter was left in the hands of the Chairman and Mayor and City Engineer Parsons, for further consideration.

It is stated that throughout Sweden there are 500,000 total abstainers, or about 10 per cent. of the population.

DEPORTATION OF STRIKE LEADERS RAISES BIG SENSATION IN BRITAIN

Widely Divergent Opinions Are Expressed by London Papers on Premier Botha's Action in Banishing Ten Men From South Africa—Arbitrary Anarchy Will Spread Says One.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The deportation of the strike leaders from South Africa secretly to England has caused a tremendous stir here. Opinions on the matter are widely divergent, and those who discuss the South African Government's action are very cautious about expressing final judgment, pending a full explanation, which the close censorship in South Africa has prevented from reaching this country.

The Laborites and Radicals are in an indignant rage over the "kidnapping." The Radical Daily News and Leader says:—

"The disease of arbitrary anarchy which Gen. Botha planted in South Africa will spread to England unless it is grappled with immediately. We are in the presence of one of the gravest events that can befall a state."

The Daily Telegraph in an editorial, which does not hesitate to accuse Bain and his colleagues of having started a revolution and failed, justifies Gen. Botha on the ground that he faced the danger of a native rising. At the same time The Telegraph realizes that a very delicate and difficult situation has arisen for the Imperial Government. "It is useless to deny," says The Telegraph, "that it is a new thing for British subjects to be deported in this summary fashion by one of the dominion Governments, and, if, as alleged, the deportation is illegal, it will be difficult for the Imperiol Government to acquisce without a request for an explanation and for justification."

Demand Gladstone's Recall.

GLASGOW, Jan. 29.—Resolutions strongly condemning the Government of the Union of South Africa for the deporting of the labor leaders who had been prominent in the recent strike, and demanding that the British Government recall Viscount Gladstone, the Governor-General, were passed unanimously yesterday by the annual labor conference, sitting here.

Heated speeches were delivered, in which denunciations were expressed of the "violation of the most elementary rights of British citizenship" by Gen. Louis Botha, he Premier of South Africa.

James Ramsay MacDonald, a Socialist and Labor member of Parliament, described the South African Government's action "a very cynical conclusion to the South African war."

Ignored Court.

PRETORIA, Union of South Africa, Jan. 29.—Leave to apply to attach the Ministers of Justice, Defence and the Interior of the Union of South Africa for contempt of court in deporting the labor leaders was granted yesterday by the Supreme Court judge, Sir John W. Wessels.

FREE WHEAT PROPOSAL UNDER FALSE COLORS

Opposition Throws Precedents of Debate to the Winds and Instead of Awaiting Budget Dr. Neely Brings in Amendment for Wheat Tariff Removal in Such Form That the Government Must Vote it Down.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29. — Contrary to all precedent, a motion dealing with the customs duties on wheat and wheat products was presented as an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne by Dr. Neely, the Liberal member for Humboldt, Saskatchewan, in the Commons yesterday. It took the form of an expression of regret that no intimation was given in the speech from the throne of an intention on the part of the Government to secure free admission of Canadian wheat and wheat products to the United States by complying with the terms of the United States Tariff Act and removing the Canadian duty on these commodities. Under the circumstances the Ministry can only reject the amendment as a motion of want of confidence.

Dr. Neely, in moving his amendment, said it was important, for many reasons, to give the western farmer free access for his wheat to the American market. Our crop for 1913 in the west was 205,000,000 bushels. Allowing 60,000,000 for home consumption and assuming that the British market could absorb 90,000,000 bushels, the farmer of western Canada, found himself with a surplus of 60,000,000 bushels. Why should he not be allowed to dispose of this surplus in the big market next door? By removing our customs duties upon wheat and wheat products imported from the United States we automatically open the United States market to Canadian wheat. As matters now stand the wheat had to be rushed out before the close of navigation and dumped on the British market for whatever it would bring. The crop of 1913 was the finest ever grown, yet it sold at a lower price than wheat bad sold in Liverpool for many years.

He did not think free flour would hurt the Canadian miller and he read from Government reports to show that Canadian flour was driving American flour out of the foreign markets.

"In two ways the Canadian farmers will benefit," he said. "They will benefit by the competition of American railways and they will benefit by the fact that the millers will have to come up to the scratch and give them more for their Canadian wheat if they want to grind it in their mills."

Hon. Robert Rogers said he could only account for the Neely amendment being proposed at this stage of the session by supposing that the Opposition was ashamed of the Laurier amendment, which, in his opinion, could only be described as "silly twaddle." He said it was unheard of for any member to move an amendment to the address which dealt with the tariff. Tariff changes should only be announced by the Government in the budget speech, and no announcement would be made until that time. He added that, although the action of the Government could not be properly foreshadowed at this time, it was quite unlikely that the wheat and flour duties would be removed unless stronger arguments were presented to the Government than those which had been advanced by the member for Humboldt (Mr. Neely).

Hon. Frank Oliver cited a precedent in the British Parliament to prove that an amendment dealing with the tariff question might be properly presented in the debate upon the address. At any rate, this was no time for hair-splitting. The Government should have removed the wheat and flour duties months ago by order-in-council. The shortage of money in Canada might have been prevented had our farmers the additional three or four million dollars which they would have obtained by selling at American instead of Canadian prices.

Mr. Thomson (Lib., Qu'Appelle), quoted market figures to show that the farmer got a higher price for his wheat, and the miller a lower price for his flour in the United States. The Canadian miller took toll at both ends, paying the farmer less and charging the consumer more.

Mr. McCraney (Lib., Saskatoon) went over the arguments used against free wheat in the reciprocity campaign, in 1911. Was it not plain, be asked, that there was a crisis demanding free wheat when the men who used these arguments, from Sir Rodmond Roblin down, are now urging the removal of the wheat and flour duties.

Mr. Molloy (Lib., Provencher) followed and Mr. McNutt (Saltcoats) adjourned the debate.

GOVERNMENT RESIGNS.

Alsace-Lorraine's Officials Quit Over Zabern Affair.

STRASSBURG, Alsace - Lorraine, Jan. 29.—Baron Zorn Von Bulach, Secretary of States, announced in the Diet yesterday that the entire civil government of Alsace-Lorraine had resigned as a result of the difficulty which recently arose between the civil and military authorities at Zabern.

Berlin Not Surprised.

BERLIN, Jan. 29. — The resignation yesterday of Governor-General Charles Von Wedel, and the Alsace-Lorraine Ministry, excites no surprise in Berlin, as it is known that the Governor-General at his audience with Emperor William last week emphasized his strong disapproval of the manner in which the military authorities had handled the Zabern incident, and at the same time also tendered his resignation to His Majesty.

Hold-Up Attempt Fails.

ZANESVILLE, Ohio, Jan. 29.—An attempt to rob Baltimore & Ohio passenger train No. 105 was frustrated near here yesterday morning by passengers.

Four men boarded the train at Bellaire, Ohio, and when near here one of them attempted to rob a woman passenger, while the other three demanded money from other passengers. Persons in the car went to the woman's assistance in such numbers that the robber was captured, while the other three jumped from the train. At the police station the man gave his name as Harry Warner, but refused to tell anything about himself.

Damage Suit for Dismissal.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 29.—Charles Jeffrey Alexander Lefroy, who was recently asked for his resignation from the position of secretary of the London Club, yesterday commenced action against the London Club Association to recover $5,000 damages for alleged wrongful dismissal.

Wants Falls Quarantined.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 29.—Recommendation that the City of Niagara Falls, N.Y., be quarantined against the world because of the failure of its health officials to live up to the Buffalo health department's advice in the care of its smallpox epidemic was made to the State Health Department at Albany yesterday afternoon by Health Commissioner Fronczak.

PETERBORO HEALTH ASS'N

The work done by the Peterborough Health Association during the month of December was, according to the reports presented by the nurses, not only extensive, but most effective. One nurse has had under her care thirty patients, to these she has paid one hundred and thirty-five visits of long or short duration, but of the thirty cases twenty-one were suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis. Thirty of these visits were paid for by the families visited which shows a commendable disposition on the part of those who have little to render whatever self help they find themselves able to give.

The report of another nurse shows 23 cases under her charge, principally among the very poor.

Those who were present at the meeting for the first time could not fail to be impressed with the excellent work being done by this association. The history of some of the cases of tuberculosis is distressing in the extreme. The following clauses from the report presented by one of the nurses will give some idea of the need of this ministry and the nature of the work done by the nurses from day to day.

"I found the patient amid very squalid surroundings—a small room with one very small window, which lacked several pieces of glass, these had been replaced by some old cast-off garments for fear any air might enter."

In another case where the father is the patient, "one room was used as a sleeping room for the entire family—the other as the general living room—there are only two rooms in the house."

In another case the nurse says in her report:—"This is the case of a mother—she has six children. The husband has just returned to his work after a long period of unemployment. The mother spent some time in Gravenhurst and returned somewhat improved, but has lost ground recently. One of the children shows unmistakable symptoms of tuberculosis."

These facts should be known to our entire community. While thousands of dollars are sent out of our city annually for benevolent purposes we should let the charitably disposed know that we have at our very doors those that sorely need our help. Great credit is due the association which has been rendering this service in a quiet way. When the appeal comes for a modest sum for a local sanitarium the people of Peterborough will delight to meet their responsibility.

A SUNDAY GAME

Right away—the first day you start to take RHEUMA—the Uric Acid poison begins to dissolve and leave the sore joints and muscles. It's action is little less than magical.

RHEUMA works so speedily you actually can feel the Rheumatism leaving the body. A bottle costs but 50 cents, and if you are not satisfied, the Warne Drug Company wil return your money. Read this:

"I wish to state to you the facts and nothing but the facts. I bless the day a friend brought me a 50 cent bottle of RHEUMA. I used one-half of it and it did me more good than all the other medicines I ever tried. I bad been afflicted with Rheumatism all over my body for more than 25 years, I could not walk, and was a broken-down man. During that time I spent a small fortune, trying to get rid of the horrible disease, but without help. However RHEUMA reached my case and I thank God I can again use my feet and do my work.

"Before taking your medicine I was staying with a daughter on her farm, and despite her loving efforts to tempt my appetite, I could not eat. After I had taken RHEUMA two days my appetite returned. Yours for prosperity."—Prof. H. H. Kolling, 7 S Ninth St., Richmond, Ind., Oct. 10, 1912.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES

Special Correspondence

NORWOOD, Jan. 29.

The Annual Curling competition for the Union Bank silver cup, has commenced at the local curling rink.

On Monday evening of this week the Ontario Ladies' Quartette, under the auspices of the Public Library, gave an entertainment which from a standpoint of genuine merit, should have packed our hall to the doors, and given the troupe as well as the directors of the Library, a snug sum as their respective share of the proceeds.

Only a small house took advantage of the opportunity of hearing these talented artists, and they all without one discenting voice, said it was one of the best entertainments they had ever seen in Norwood.

The personnel of the quartette are Miss Dorothy Atkey, pianist, Miss Florence MacNeill, soprano singer, of more than ordinary ability, Miss Pearl O'Neil, elocutionist, a whole concert in herself, and Miss Kathleen Wall is violinist who delighted the audience with her sweet playing. It is expected that the quartette will visit our village again before the end of the year, and when they do come, a full house is assured.

Reeve B. W. Squire is in Peterboro this week, attending the sitting of the County Council.

Constable Isaac Puffer is also in Peterboro. He is attending a convention of county constables.

On account of the softness of the weather, accompanied by a little rain, our sidewalks are in a very dangerous condition for pedestrians.

The good sleighing is being taken advantage of by the farmers of this locality, and large quantities of wood and logs are being hauled into the village every day. As a consequence the price of hardwood has declined somewhat. Six dollars was the ruling price during the early part of the season, but it can be purchased now at five.

A two days' stock judging course is being put on here on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The new tent recently purchased from Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, will be used for the first time. On Thursday evening a meeting will be held in the Town Hall. Speeches will be delivered by prominent stock men, brought here for the occasion. A short musical and other entertainment program is being provided to add a little.

No admission fee will be charged. Everybody is invited.

TWENTY-FOUR PURE BRED STALLIONS

Result of Inspections in This County.

The report of the Stallion enrollment Board of Ontario, gives the number of the inspected stallions for the county of Peterboro as 46.

Twenty-four are pure breds. Fourteen wree duly inspected by the Government Inspector. Only two of the inspected were rejected by the Inspector, owing to side bones.

Clydes apparently are the favorite amongst the horsemen as there are sixteen clydes, seven percherons and one standard bred.

Although the inspection has only been in vogue for a year, already the results are good, and the horse show associations are making better headway.

"PEBLO" LENSES

NICHOLLS AND McNAB DECLINE TO REVEAL THE PRIME MOVERS

Effort of Quebec Legislative Council to Compel Editors to Designate Instigators or to Say Where the Money Came From Fails.

Direct Charges of Corruption Confined to Two Members of Council.

QUEBEC, Jan. 29.—Chief interest in the Quebec scandal yesterday centred in the appearance of Messrs. Nicholls and Macnab before the Bar of the Legislative Council. The proceedings here were practically a repetition of what occurred in the Assembly on Tuesday, and the newspapermen would make no direct charges on their own responsibility against any other councillors but Hon. Messrs. Berard and Bergevin, though they repeated the names of Hon. Messrs. De Varennes and Gilman as having been furnished the Burns detectives by Mr. Mousseau, chairman of the Private Bills Committee in the Lower House.

Messrs. Nicholls and Macnab said that they had no personal knowledge of the party or parties who originated the attempt to investigate the manner in which legislation is enacted at Quebec, and later on employed the Burns detectives. They professed the same ignorance as to who bad furnished the money to retain the services of tho detectives and purchase the influence of legislators.

There was some commotion when the Mail men were detained at the Bar for refusing to give a straight "yes" or "no" answer as to whether they had accusations to lay against any other members of the House but Berard and Bergevin for having received bribes in connection with the passage of the Montreal Fair Bill.

The question, however, was finally altered, and Messrs. Macnab and Nicholls said they would take no personal responsibility for any accusations against other members than the two specifically mentioned.

This concluded the examination in the Upper House, and the scene now shifts in both Houses to the special committees of investigation, where the fullest evidence will be given. It is generally considered that the examinations before the Bar have been somewhat in the nature of a curtain-raiser, and that the real charges will not be filled out until the detectives appear to explain their operations.

To-day the editors are to appear before the Investigation Committee of the Council.

Lemieux Wants To Testify.

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux has wired Premier Gouin of Quebec asking to be summoned before the investigation committee. The wire was as follows: "As The Mail mentions my name in connection with the fair bill, I want to be summoned before investigation committee."

OFFICIAL STATEMENT AS TO THE PARCEL POST SYSTEM

two cents a pound, while if the same goods were ordered from a departmental store or any other business concern more than 20 miles distant, it would cost about five cents a pound for postage.

Why Minimum Rate Is High

The next rate is fixed for the province in which an article is posted, the first pound to be ten cents and each additional pound four cents. The cost of hauling a one pound parcel is approximately the same as that of two or three pounds, and consequently it was necessary to fix a minimum rate for the first pound considerably higher than the average rate for the additional pounds included in the weight of the parcel.

For an adjacent province, the rate of ten cents for the first pound will apply, but for each additional pound an extra charge of 6 cents will be imposed, making the rate ten cents for the first pound and two cents for each subsequent pound. Beyond the province adjoining the one in which a parcel is mailed, an additional two cents a pound will be imposed for each province that has to be crossed to the destination of the parcel, up to a maximum charge of 12 cents a pound.

Easily Done

When a parcel is mailed the postmaster sees from the address the province to which it has to be carried, and a glance at his rate card shows him, without making any calculations, what the postage will be. It is not necessary that he should know the geographical position of an office to which an article is posted or the distance from his own, except within the 20-mile radius, as all the information he requires is on the card.

Another point that the department has had to consider, is the possibility of giving a parcel post service to certain districts that have to be served by long and expensive stage routes. There are some remote districts in Canada where freight rates are so high as to more than double the new parcel post rates, and the department could not undertake to forward everything that would be offered to such places.

Leaving aside the question of extra cost, the amount to be carried would be so great that the post office would not have or could not get facilities to handle it. On some services, mails have yet to be carried by pack horses or dog teams in winter and no contractor would undertake to carry an unlimited weight of parcels to such places. It was found necessary therefore, to impose the maximum charge of 12 cents a pound on parcels that have to be conveyed to certain points where mails have to be carried over 100 miles by stage, as the department could not undertake to carry matter at five cents a pound to places where ordinary freight rates are much more than that amount.

Extra Delivery Free

During the organization period of three months, an aditional fee of five cents is to be charged on parcels mailed for local delivery by the carriers.

The regulations fill a booklet. Among other things "franking" is prohibited; insurance up to $25 is provided for; big parcels containing eggs, meat, etc., or fragile matter, must not be posted. The parcel packets must not be registered. Full return postage must be paid on parcels not accepted by the consignee.

FREED AND ARRESTED

Mrs. Elizabeth McKenna Faces New Charge

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 29. — When Mrs. Elizabeth McKenna, alias Freda Helen Howard, alias Dorothy Smith, was released from the Cornwall jail yesterday morning on parole, the chief of police of Brockville, who was in waiting with a warrant, immediately placed the woman under arrest on a charge of defrauding the Brockville branch of the Bank of Toronto out of $400 on June 4, 1913.

Upon her arrival here it was evident that the woman was suffering from a nervous breakdown, her condition being such that the attendance of the police surgeon was necessary.

The operations of Mrs. McKenna in the banking line at points in Eastern Ontario in the month of June last created widespread attention, and it was only after several clever stunts had been pulled off that she was arrested at Spencerville one week following a visit to Brockville, which netted the prisoner $400.

HIS WIFE MAY DIE.

Robert McCutcheon of Toronto Cuts Wife's Throat, Then His Own.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—Robert McCutcheon, a draughtsman living at 44 Laughton avenue, West Toronto, attempted to murder his wife, Christina, by cutting her throat yesterday, and when he saw that he had not been successful applied the razor to himself, attempting to suicide in a similar manner. McCutcheon and his wife were taken to the Western Hospital by Speers' motor ambulance. While McCutcheon is expected to recover, the gashes inflicted upon Mrs. McCutcheon by her husband may prove fatal.

For several weeks McCutcheon has been in poor health from a nervous breakdown.

McCutcheon has until recently been employed at the Canada Foundry Co. and on the advice of Dr. Mooney left his work to take a rest. The family have been in Canada eleven months, coming from Glasgow.

St. John May Have Recall.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 29.—If sufficient signatures to a petition now being prepared are secured, the recall feature of the commission government will be employed for the first time in St. John.

The promoters seek the recall of H. R. McLellan, commissioner of public safety.

The details have not yet been given out, but it is said general objection is made to his policy in regard to the police department and the building laws.

McLellan says he is not worrying, and is confident he will win if matters come to a vote.

Michigan "Blue Sky" Law Upset.

DETROIT, Jan. 29.—The Michigan "blue sky" law is unconstitutional, according to a decision filed in the U. S. District Court here yesterday afternoon. It was held that the Michigan law would act in restraint of commerce of all kinds and would be a burden on the Interstate Commerce Commission, which the Government would not permit.

Death of Milling Man.

TWEED, Jan. 29. — Richard Rayburn, managing director of the Deseronto Milling Co. at Tweed, died at midnight in his 72nd year. He has been ailing for some time past. His wife predeceased him a few months ago; his son, Charles, perished in the great lakes storm. In religion Mr. Rayburn was an Anglican and a Conservative in politics.

APSLEY

Special Correspondence.

Apsley, Jan. 29.—The death occurred on Jan. 14th, of Mr. Charles Hales, at the age of seventy-seven years. Although he had not been in the best of health for the past couple of years, yet the end came rather suddenly. Death was due to heart and kidney trouble, but his case was not considered serious till within a couple of weeks of his demise. He was a consistent member of the Methodist church, and lived a Christian life. In politics he was a Conservative and also had been school trustee for four years, during which time his efforts were spent in the interests of education.

He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and eight children, Mrs. H. G. McIlmoyle, Mrs. C. Bronson and Harry, of Western Canada; Maggie, of the United States; Mrs. H. Bronson, William, Thomas and Bessie, of this neighborhood.

The funeral took place from the family residence in Burleigh on Jan. 16th, to the Methodist church, Apsley, where service was held, by Rev. J. Prosser, thence to the Union cemetery for interment. The pallbearers were Messrs. Isaac Lean, John Lean, Benj. Coqnes, Esau Tucker, Wm. Earnshaw and Thos. McIlmoyle.

The sorrowing family have our deepest sympathy in their sad bereavement.

A Few Facts for All Who Want To Make Money

Wise and rich men advise their friends to buy Lots in the way of a growing city. Plain common sense endorses that advice.

All must acknowledge that Peterborough is growing rapidly south and west.

It is generally known that I own a very desirable block of high land half a mile south and west from C.G.E. Works, overlooking the south-end churches and schools, the C.P.R., G.T.R. and street car line, also all the big factories. I have subdivided this land into blocks of two lots, 50x123 ft. to a lane, 12 feet wide. Each lot containing 3,075 square feet. Those lots would be excellent value at $200 each, but because of my desire to be freed from business I have decided to sell for $175, and accept deposits of $5 on one or two Lots to which I will add a bonus of $5, giving a receipt for $10. No interest nor any further payments required until May, when official plan will be registered. All lots properly staked and balance of streets, Cottsmore, Ford avenue, and Western Avenue graded to the Gravel Road.

RESTRICTIONS:—BRICK, BRICK VANEER, CONCRETE, OR STONE HOUSES ONLY PERMITTED.

Other lots 30x127—3,810 square feet for $150, and $200, on same terms. Free deed and perfect title.

This offer will never be repeated.

BLOUNT WON FAVOR AS THE YOUNGSTOWN PILOT

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance at the adjourned meeting of the Baseball Club to be held in the Bank of Montreal Chambers to-morrow night at 8 o'clock.

A big item on the slate must be dealt with at once, and it is desirable that as many shareholders as possible be present. This does not mean the exclusion of others interested in the baseball game, as all are invited.

The following item from the Erie Dispatch will give local fans a good idea of the calibre of the White Caps new manager:

"Carley" Blount, hated of old by [illegible] of Erie, will have control of the Peterboro' outfit. Blount has been known too long and too favorably as the first-class pilot of the Youngstown team to need introduction.

Two signed contracts reached baseball headquarters to-day.

POLICE CHIEF TELLS HIS SIDE OF COLLINGWOOD EPISODE

COLLINGWOOD, Jan. 29.—James S. Johnson, Chief of Police, at Collingwood, denies the story as given out by Referee Sproule on the Orillia game at Collingwood. He says that some spectators thinking the game was over crowded on the ice, and one or two of them made a pass at the referee, but made no attempt to interfere with the Orillia players.

He says that after the game a few young men loitered around the door, but that there was no revolver or baton drawn by the police and no reason for so doing.

He says that it was the general impression that Mr. Sproule's favoritism toward Orillia caused the unpleasantness and that the official alone was the object of the demonstration.

BOBBY HECK IS ON FOR LONDON

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Bobby Heck brought bunches of joy to the hearts of London baseball fans on Monday when he attached his moniker to a contract in President Stapeley's office.

Bobby led the Canadian League last season, and was coming on all the time at that.

Slowly but surely the London team is being reorganized, and the officials of the club confidently expect to have the major portion of last year's team on the diamond when the season opens.

BASEBALL

The Toronto International League team for this year will be as follows: Catchers, Kelly, Pittsburg; Brown, Boston; and a Brown, University man from the Boston Americans; infielders, Hugh Bradley, Fitzpatrick, Fisher, Brooklyn; Pick and utility fielder to be secured from Philadelphia Nationals; outfielders, O'Hara, Wilson, Krog and a utility outfielder from New York Giants in case Meyer does not report; pitchers, Maxwell, Buster Brown, Gaw, Graham, Schwab and two others from New York Giants.

NO GAME TO-NIGHT.

There will be no game between St. Andrew's and St. Paul's to-night in the Church Hockey League on account of the ice.

Man Shrank Twenty Inches.

Albert Mills, an Englishman known as the "Brittle man of Birmingham," has literally shrunk to death. For 26 years he suffered from an obscure disease which caused a shrinkage of bodily stature and made him the object of study by medical men from all over the world.

The chief symptom was the disappearance of lime from the body, leaving the bones soft and misshapen. It became impossible for him to move, and for over fourteen years he had been confined to his bed.

Before his illness he was 5 feet 8 inch in height, but he gradually shrank until at the time of his death he was under 4 feet high, having thus lost 20 inches in 26 years.

Mills was an engraver and the first intimation of the disease was a stiffening of the muscles which prevented him using his arms freely. After a time this condition extended to his legs.

Goat Farming In Alberta.

Farmers in Central Alberta have imported more than 1,500 two-year Angora goats since last July, and it is predicted that fully 10,000 will be brought into the Edmonton district and other parts of the province during the next twelve months.

There is every promise that the breeding of these animals for mohair, milk and goat venison will be developed into an important industry.

While the climatic conditions of the countries further south permit the Angora goat to grow hair for only one year before shedding, the dry, cool atmosphere of Alberta enables the animal to carry its two years' growth without any fear of shedding. The hair grown from year to year is worth only 35 cents to 50 cents a pound. The two-year product is worth upward of $6 a pound.

The value of goat meat is said to be equal to that of mutton, and is used to a large extent throughout in countries, where the goat raising industry is extensively followed. In taste it is much similar to venison.

Wheat In New Quebec?

Extraordinary developments in wheat-growing have been proved possible in various parts of the Canadian Dominion, and just now speculation is rife among the farmers of Quebec as to the chances in this direction held out by the vast new territory lately added to the Province of Quebec. No definite opinion can be pronounced at present as to the total growing capacity of these millions and millions of acres of unsettled land, since only a small part of the territory has yet been carefully explored. But so far as climate is concerned there is said to be no reason why wheat should not be grown in the northernmost limits. Recent experiments have shown that excellent root crops can be grown in some parts of Canada actually within the Arctic Circle, and surprising results in respect to the cultivation of wheat are constantly being reported.

Brown Tail Moth.

The Department of Agriculture at Ottawa is co-operating with the Provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick this winter, in carrying on a vigorous war against the brown tail moth, which has invaded that part of Canada.

Gangs of men are employed to search for the nests of the moth on the trees of orchards and elsewhere, and the nests are destroyed.

Millions of dollars have been spent in fighting the pest in New England, but it is hoped to prevent it getting a strong foothold in this country.

LIVING TO A HUNDRED.

British Physician Lays Down Eighteen Rules For Health.

The decrease in the death rate during the last century has been remarkable, but as every well-informed physician will tell you, it has been brought about chiefly by lessening the number of deaths among infants and persons under thirty-five years old. After the latter age the danger of death is greater than ever, in spite of all that medicine and surgery can do.

The famous British physician, Sir James Sawyer, believes it is by no means a difficult matter for any human being to live to be 100 years old. He has recently declared that anybody can attain this age, unless killed by accident, if he or she will religiously keep the following eighteen "commandments of health":

1. Eight hours' sleep every night.
2. Sleep on your right side.
3. Keep your bedroom window open.
4. Have a mat at your bedroom door.
5. Keep your bed away from the wall.
6. No cold bath in the morning, but a bath at a temperature of the body.
7. Exercise before breakfast.
8. Eat little meat, and be sure that it is well cooked.
9. Drink no milk—this applies to adults only.
10. Eat plenty of fat to feed the cells which destroys disease germs.
11. Avoid intoxicants, which destroy the cells that combat disease.
12. Allow no pet animals in your living rooms, for they carry disease germs.
13. Live in the country if you can.
14. Watch the three D's—drinking water, damp and drains.
15. Have change of occupation.
16. Take frequent and short holidays.
17. Limit your ambitions.
18. Keep your temper.

Was Real Royal Feast.

The King and Queen recently took luncheon at Hoghton Tower, in Lancashire. It is four years short of three centuries since James I. was welcomed there, and The Pall Mall Gazette quotes the following bill of fare which was provided for him—Sunday's Dinner, the 17th of August.

For the Lord's Table.

First course—Pullets, boiled capon, mutton boiled, chickens, shoulder of mutton roast, ducks boiled, loine of veal roast, pullets, haunch of venison roast, burred capon, pasty of venison hot, roast turkey, veal burred, swan roast, one, and one for tomorrow, chicken pye hot, goose roasted, rabbits cold, jiggits of mutton boiled, snipe pye, breast of veal boiled, capons roast, pullet, beef roast, tongue pye cold, sprod boiled, herons roast cold, curlew pye cold, mince pye hot, custards, pig roast.

Second course—Hot pheasant, one, and one for the king, quails, six for the king, partridge poults, artichoke pye, chickens, curlews roast, peas buttered, rabibts, ducks, plovers, red deer pye, pig burred, hot herons roast, three of a dish, lamb roast, gammon of bacon, pigeons roast, made dish, chicken burred, pear-tart, pullets and grease, dryed tongues, turkey pye, pheasant tart, hogs' cheeks dryed, turkey chicks cold.

It is claimed that Hoghton Tower was the place where the monarch slapped the loin with his sword and made it a "sirloin."

Tree Distribution.

The forestry branch of the Canadian Government is now distributing some 3,000,000 trees annually amongst the western farmers, as compared with 385,000 distributed this year by the United States forestry department.

Canada has got some ideas from the United States in forestry administration, but in this matter the Americans have copied Canada.

AN INDIAN POTLATCH.

Here Is a Meal For a Dyspeptic to Revel In!

A heroic meal is described in a recent article by Bonnycastle Dale in Toronto Saturday Night, describing a visit to the West Coast Indians. He depicts a preparation and menu which is almost calculated to cause symptoms of indigestion in a squeamish white man.

In pots and pans, in troughs and food trays, "seal" dishes and "sealion" dishes, were heaped up the following:

Mem-sen. Dried whale meat.

Nezag. Wild geese and ducks.

Me-mec. Salmon, dried and smoked, shredded and in chunks.

Es-net-so. Flounders, also dried and smoked, some boiled too.

Quo-puts. Eels, these looked like bundles of bits of rope, but were rich.

Sis-to-la. Coon. This poor chap had been roasted in the hot sand, I think, with his overcoat on, yet he appeared presentable.

Tan-nas. Squirrel. The children had prepared these — a kind of relish no doubt, smeared all over with rancid whale oil and scorched before the fire.

Wat-see. Deer meat. Dried in quantities.

Boiled devil fish.

To wash this salt and smoky feast down was a quantity of whale oil of such ancient and odorous bearing, that neither Fritz nor I could stand to leeward of it. Now civilization poked her hand in here and made things grotesque. Behold this dusky throng squatted on the platforms of the house, the glaring fire in the centre lighting up the scene, each man and woman and child helping themselves from the bigger food dishes (some of these were well carved), or from their own wooden dish, fingers being the odds-on-favorite for eating with. The eddying smoke, the penetrating smell of the rancid oil, the low "clacking" of the native tongue the flashing, big brown eyes of the children, the yelp of a mongrel, feast attracted and foot ejected, the sighing of the wind in the hemlocks overhead, the sobbing moan of the surf upon the beach, all was in keeping with the time and the place. Hark! what is that?—"My creole Sue, I do love you," ground out by a gramophone. The relief to the strange scene, the grotesqueness of the music box in that spot, affected both the lad and me alike, and we laughed loud and long. Instantly we were much ashamed of ourselves, as our hosts never as much as raised a glance towards us to note our merriment. These people are the acme of non-inquisitiveness. By now we thought that all abdomens must be stretched like the drumskins we saw in a corner. Never have I seen so few people eat so much food. There was not more than one hundred people in the big potlach house, yet the innumerable food trays were fast being emptied.

First Lord's Submarine Trip.

With a trip from Portsmouth to the Solent and back in a submarine, Mr. Winston Churchill, the First Lord of the Admiralty, recently concluded an adventurous month. During October he made five aeroplane and one airship trips.

The D 2, one of the newest type of submarine, fitted with a powerful hydroplane, was the vessel in which the First Lord, clad in oilskins, made his trip, and when well outside the navigation channel the craft was submerged and an under-water test was made, which Mr. Churchill, on landing, appeared to have enjoyed immensely.

An Ugly Trio.

There are some good stories in Mr. Reginald Lucas' biography of Lord North. One tells of an amusing blunder. Lady North was no beauty. It is said that one night at the opera somebody asked:

"Who is that plain-looking lady in the box opposite?"

"That," said North, "is my wife."

"I did not mean her," came the obvious rejoinder; "I meant the lady next to her."

"That, sir, is my daughter; and I may tell you that we are considered to be three of the ugliest people in London."

TO AID THE UNEMPLOYED

Ontario Government Will Co-operate With Toronto

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—The Provincial Government is prepared to aid in relieving the pressure of lack of employment in Ontario. Following an appeal from the workless army in Toronto, the numbers of which are increased daily by recruits from all parts of the province, the Cabinet last evening issued a statement favoring the general trend of the request for co-operation. Whether a money grant will be advanced depends on the results of an immediate investigation of existing conditions. If the city desires to set men at work housebuilding upon civic lands without an approach to the ratepayers, a detailed proposal will be welcomed.

The conference with the Cabinet, in addition to representatives of the unemployed, included Mayor Hocken, Controllers Simpson and Church, and President Watt of the organized labor interests, each of whom urged the Government to take some immediate action.

The suggestions in summary were that the city be allowed to place men at work upon city property in the building of huts or shacks. The Cabinet was asked to veto the statute calling for the sanction of a public vote, to advance $100,000 to relieve the present distress. This sum, on a basis of ten dollars per month to each of the 5,000 unemployed, would serve for the coming two months and tide over the crisis for the men.

In the neighborhood of 5,000 men took part in yesterday's demonstration. This consisted of a parade, which formed at the Labor Temple, in the afternoon at 2.30, and marched to the Parliament Buildings, via Church, Wellington and Simcoe streets, and University avenue. After circling the Parliament Buildings, the army marched down University avenue to the armories, assembling in the open space there.

The parade was orderly and nothing of a disagreeable nature occurred.

Illiterates In Canada.

The illiteracy of Canadian people, native born and immigrants, is an interesting feature of census statistics recently published in more detailed form.

Of the whole population, including immigrants, New Brunswick leads in illiterates with 14.5 per thousand of population. St. John City and County has a percentage of 6.66 illiterates; Charlotte 5.20, Carleton 6.05. Gloucester's percentage is 32.78, Kent's 25.06, Victoria and Madawaska's 28.18, Restigouche's 22.31.

Saskatchewan follows New Brunswick with 13.70; Manitoba third with 13.31, and Alberta fourth with 12.72.

The other provinces follow in this order: Quebec, 12.66; British Columbia, 11.61; Nova Scotia, 10.32; Prince Edward Island, 7.61, while Ontario has 6.51 per thousand.

Montreal has 9.71 illiterates; Toronto has 3 1-2 per cent. illiterates; Ottawa, 6.26 per cent.; Winnipeg, 9.92 per cent.; Vancouver, 6.11 per cent., and London 2.64.

Of the native born population the number per thousand in the different provinces who are able to read and write is as follows: British Columbia 868 males, 834 females; Alberta 851 males, 797 females; Saskatchewan 874 males, 822 females; Manitoba 885 males, 875 females; Ontario 926 males, 939 females; Quebec 845 males, 882 females; New Brunswick 836 males, 861 females; Nova Scotia 887 males, 890 females; Prince Edward Island 912 males and 914 females.

He's Finding Out.

Lord Hyde, the son and heir of the Earl of Claredon, who immigrated to Canada with his wife and family 18 months ago, is on a brief visit to England, and was eagerly interviewed in London.

"I do not think I am ashamed to work," said the man who is related by birth or marriage to half the peerage, and who enjoyed the intimate friendship of King Edward and Queen Alexandra.

"I have learned since I went to Canada the meaning of the ten-hour day, and, since you ask me, I did lend a hand in building our pig-pen at Pickering, and one or two other structures."

Lady Hyde, who is helping Lord Hyde in his venture, apparently shares her husband's liking for work.

Greek Catholics' Standing.

Proper religious standing is given to Roman Catholics who observe the Greek rite by a special decree from Rome that has been received in Canada recently. The decree is from the Holy See and is addressed to the Catholic Hierarchy of Canada.

In regard to celibacy, it declared that priests of this rite in Canada may not marry, although the privilege is accorded priests in Europe and Asia.

Winnipeg is named as a Ruthenian bishopric and Bishop Budka is mentioned as the ordinary of the new see.

A special department in St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, for Ruthenian ecclesiastics, with the Rev. Father Malouf in charge, has already been opened.

All the world's stage—and some of us can't even get a chance to look at the play from the gallery.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY IN "THE ONLY WAY"

Story of the Play

"One of the queerest incidents arising out of the play makes almost a story. It is one of many such, and I have often thought of writing it. People come and see "The Only Way" time after time. They have written saying they have been twenty, thirty, even fifty times. One brother and sister, by writing of their visits to the play, came to my attention so often that I felt I had begun to know them. They saw "The Only Way" over and over again. They seemed to find great pleasure in it. One of the strange things they did was to visit the play and to memorize it. They sent me a book with the words of "The Only Way" written in it very neatly from memory, with illustrations depicting the scenery of the play. I was astonished by their accuracy—there were hardly any mistakes. From time to time I used to get enthusiastic letters from the boy and girl, and now and again I wrote, thanking them. One night when we were playing "The Only Way" at the Apollo. I arrived home on a foggy November afternoon, very tired after a matinee performance. My maid told me a gentleman was waiting for me, and added that he did not seem quite right. I went into the drawing room and found a young man waiting there, very hysterical and excited. He was throwing up his hands and crying "She's dead, she's dead." I tried to comfort him as best I could, myself somewhat shaken by the strange experience. He told me his story at length. His sister, a frail girl, had been ill from pneumonia, and had been daily asking to see me. She had died that afternoon, and this strangely excited young man had the idea that she would not rest if the only wish she had expressed were not carried out. "What would you like me to do?" I asked and he replied "I would like you to come back and see her." It was a strange request, but I did not think of it in that light. Indeed, together we went off, driving through the streets in a hansom. Only when we began to travel in gloomy, crowded streets did the idea suggest itself that I was travelling to an unknown destination with a madman. Well, we came to an old-fashioned shop-front in a dismal street, and he stopped the cab. He opened the side door and motioned me to precede him into the passage. When he followed and closed the door we were in total darkness. I think I was frightened then, but I went up several flights of stairs with him, until we came to their room. They were home workers, and the girl had lived where she had worked and amongst many signs of it. Striking a match he lit a lamp and then I saw the girl, lying dead upon her bed, in a room filled with boxes of materials and examples of her unfinished work. I left some flowers I had brought and said all I could to help him. Then he told me what I had already guessed, they were the two young people who had copied "The Only Way" from memory. He grew calmer as he told me, and at the end he accompanied me down the dark steps and saw me into my cab."

And so Miss de Silva's very human story ends. There is surely some more than ordinary quality in a work which can play so fine a part in the consolation and encouragement of two human beings whose own experience of life has been set among the thorniest paths.

ENJOYABLE TIME AT THE LYCEUM

The "At Home" held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum last evening under the auspices of the Sacred Heart and St. Peter's T.A.S. was thoroughly enjoyed by some one hundred and twenty-five couples. The winners at the cards were Mr. T. Turket and Miss Gordon. After the euchre, delightful refreshments were served and dancing followed. The music was supplied in a very efficient manner by Messrs. Minicola, cornet; Howarth, piano, and Gilman, violin.

DANCING CLASS

Miss Gladman's Social Dancing Class will be held tonight, in Conservatory of Music Hall.

NOT A SINGER.

A comic incident was noted in one of the local churches Sunday. During the singing of a hymn a young lady was noticed with her mouth well opened. It was thought she had been trained well in singing, but as she then raised her hand to stifle a "yawn" the reason of the good big opening was discovered.

MR. TOM TERRIS,
the celebrated English Actor, who will appear at "The Grand" next Saturday afternoon and evening in a return engagement. Mr. Terris is here seen as "Scrooge" in "A Christmas Carol."

SANITATION IN RURAL DISTRICTS

District Medical Health Officer Addressed the County Council

NOT AS DETECTIVES

The County Council were afforded a very interesting and instructive discourse this morning by Dr. Clinton, of Belleville, District Health Officer, on the subject of "Sanitation Throughout the Rural Districts."

"We don't want to act as detectives, but we certainly want to assist the people," said the speaker, with strong emphasis on the assist.

He also spoke on the various nuisances and how they could be eliminated. The majority of the speaker's remarks tended towards the argument that a sanitary inspector in the rural districts could do more good than a Medical Health Officer.

At the close of his address, the speaker was moved a vote of thanks.

Thanks for the Honor.

A letter was read from Mr. R. Ruddy, K.C., thanking the Council for the honor bestowed upon him by recommending him for the judgeship of Waterloo County.

A Money Saver.

The Council were waited on by Mr. Hunter, representative for the Elliott Fisher Book Recording machine, who outlined the various advantages obtainable by the use of the new system.

The new system would be the means of saving $150 in books alone for the County in one year, Mr. Hunter said. The cost of the machine is about $275. The operator does what three pen-men would do, and as in the case of the typewriter, only a small amount of space is taken up in the work on the books, the machine does the work on the books and operates on the popular size page. Only six counties in the Province are without them.

The entire Council evinced considerable interest and the matter was referred to the Property Committee. From the aspect of the machine and interest displayed by the Council in all probability one will be purchased.

GRAND TRUNK AT PANAMA EXPOSITION

The Grand Trunk System has received word from the Chief of Architecture, of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, that the design submitted for the Grand Trunk building at this great event which takes places during the year 1915, has been approved. The information is of great importance as being the first of the proposed Canadian Railway Buildings that will be erected at this Exposition. It will in a way, set the pace for the balance of the railway plaza, in which this building is situated, and where all the other Canadian railway buildings are to be placed. The group of buildings therefore, will be of one design, and all will follow the Grand Trunk style of architecture, which is taken from the Spanish Renaissance, and which follows to a certain extent, the general scheme of architecture of the main palaces at the Exposition.

The location of the building is in one of the best parts of the Exhibition grounds, and faces on the south side the entrances for the ferries from the many towns and cities across San Francisco Bay. On the west side it faces the machinery palace. On the north side are located the beautiful sunken gardens, that will be part of the landscape scheme of the Exposition, and on the east side is San Francisco Bay.

Estimates for the construction of this handsome building which will contain 10,000 feet of floor space, are now being secured, and construction will proceed at an early date. It is the intention of the Grand Trunk to install one of the finest exhibits they have yet assembled for this Exhibition and one which will place before the people of the world, Canada's illimitable resources, its scenic attractions and its haunts for fish and game.

ESTABLISHED 1879. PETERBOROUGH, ONT., SATURDAY, JANUARY 31, 1914. PRICE 2 CENTS

THE LARGEST VOTE OFFER TERMED BOOSTER PERIOD TO START ON MONDAY

First Fourteen Days in Feb. to be Record Breakers in Review Contest

The next few days, up to Feb. 14, will be the "Booster Period in the great contest. Yesterday the names who have been enrolled as contestants were announced, and for the next few days all subscriptions received—new and old—will have an added value. It means that it will pay to get to work at once, and work hard, for the impetus given a candidate at this time will do much toward carrying him to victory.

Those who have not yet made up their minds fully to enter the race, but have been earnestly considering doing so, should make their decisions today by sending in their name so that it will appear in the complete list Monday. If they have any friends in the race they will give them their support paying a subscription during "Booster Period" because they realize that they will get more votes then than at any other time during the campaign and FIVE TIMES MORE VOTES THAN DURING THE LAST OF THE CONTEST. Therefore, those who have been unable to make up their minds should hesitate no longer, if they wish to be counted among the winners on the last day of the contest.

"Booster Period."

"Booster Period" means that it is POSITIVELY the BEST period of the contest for readers of The Review to pay their subscription and "boost" their favorite. "Booster Period" means that nearly every yearly subscription during this period will count a total of 50,000 votes for some candidate in the race or some person who wishes to enter. A two-year subscription will count 35,000 regular votes and 100,000 extra votes, making a total of 135,000. From this it will be seen that it is to the advantage of every candidate to insist upon their friends giving them a two-year subscription NOW when it counts so much. Remember that "Booster" Period ends Feb. 14, and that NEVER AGAIN DURING THE ENTIRE CONTEST WILL SO MANY VOTES BE GIVEN ON SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Opportunity for New Entries.

"Booster Period" is a fine opportunity for new entries for the simple reason that very little effort has so far been made by the candidates already entered. A new candidate could start in the campaign today without a single vote and win the grand prize or at least one of the district prizes. Get busy at once. Only a little ENERGY spent now calling upon your friends. Bear in mind that if you fail to win a prize you will be paid for your time and labor just the same. In The Review contest you are rewarded according to your efforts. Nothing like this has ever before been offered in Ontario.

Why Extra Votes Are Given.

Extra votes are given at the beginning of the campaign so as to insure the prizes being awarded to candidates who ACTUALLY secure the largest amount of business and to prevent persons with money coming in at the last of the campaign, paying their own money on subscriptions and attempting to win the prizes over those who have worked hard and loyally for the paper for weeks. Under the vote offer system, where the vote value is FIVE TIMES GREATER IN THE BEGINNING of the campaign than it will be at the last of the contest, it can be readily seen that candidates are protected, because it would require five times the amount. This gives candidates who have secured actual business early the advantage. The Review wants the subscriptions and not merely money. Every person wishing to get in the campaign should make a start during the "Booster Period" and every candidate already in the race should make hay NOW, during the "Booster Period." Their efforts during the next two weeks means much toward success on the closing day.

CITY ASKED TO PAY FOR PATIENTS IN HOSPITALS

Solicitor Will Give Verdict Before Action is Taken

When the Finance Committee met yesterday afternoon with Ald. Anderson presiding, the entire business practically envolved letters from various hospitals throughout the Province regarding bills for patients who they claimed belonged to the city. It was decided to take no action until a report on the matter was obtained from the city solicitor.

Owing to the good results of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children this hospital was allotted the annual grant of $50. The entire Council spoke of the good work of the institution.

One of the communications from the Muskoka Free Hospital claimed that they had three patients, one from Northumberland, another out of the county. Only one was from this city and he had the benefit of the Misses Dicksons Endowed cot. The city was billed for all three.

"Well my good heavens," was the surprised answer of Ald. Green, when Chairman Anderson read another batch.

"Oh, you can't starve or die here now," remarked Mayor Buller.

One case, for instance, was the claim of a local man for his wife. According to the committee, this man is sufficiently endowed with this world's goods to be in a position to pay.

TOO MANY FRILLS

STRATFORD, Jan. 31.—"Unload the curriculum" was the advice given at a big educational banquet here by Prof. Wallace, of Toronto. He declared that the schools, especially the rural schools, are not doing what the public expect of them. The public school training he said, should be complete in itself. He thought there were far too many frills in the schools today.

OPENING OF NEW SHELTER

The Children's Aid Society of Windsor is formally opening a new Children's Shelter on Tuesday, February 10th, the building having been purchased and entirely paid for through the energetic action of a small group of business men. On Thursday, February 12th, the Children's Aid Society of Woodstock will have a ceremony in connection with the opening of the Shelter there. The Netter property has been purchased and several thousand dollars expended in making it an ideal home for the neglected children of the district.

WIFE-BEATER IS WHIPPED

GUELPH, Jan. 31.—The sentence of the court was carried out this morning, and Robert Mitchell, the young Scotchman sentenced to ten days in the county jail and five lashes for wife-beating, was strapped to a triangle and given five strokes of the cat. Two doctors were present. The prisoner took his punishment without a whimper.

RUMORS OF MURDER AND ROBBERY IN HAVELOCK

Bulgarian Who Made Trip to Toronto and Returned With Cheque for $500 is Missing

The Review learned today that the disappearance of a Bulgarian and a Pollock from Havelock, has given rise to rumors that the former was murdered and robbed of a cheque for $500.

It is said that the cheque was presented and cashed at the bank in Havelock.

The Bulgarian went to Toronto some days ago with the object of drawing his money from a bank in Toronto. He returned to Havelock with the money, with the evident intention of depositing his savings in the Havelock bank.

He was one of a gang of Pollocks and Bulgarians working for the C.P.R., who boarded in the cars supplied by the company.

Now both he and the Pollock are missing. Some of the clothing of the Bulgarian has been found. Constable Pots has had the case in hand but so far, he has been unable to solve the mystery.

Detectives on the Scene

Two detectives are in Havelock, in connection with the depredations of several boys, who were summoned to appear before the local magistrate this afternoon, to face the charge of breaking into a C. P. R. car and stealing a quantity of liquor. It is thought that the detectives are also working on the other case.

PARCEL POST AND EXPRESS

President of Canadian Express Co. Gives His Views

Just how the new parcels post system will work out in the matter of cost as compared to the express companies' rates, has not yet been worked out by local express officials.

The president of the Canadian Express Company, Mr. John Pullen, of Montreal, has made the following statement:

"While the charge which it is intended to make for the carriage of parcels seems, on the face of it, to be lower than the present charges of the express companies, the value of the service to the users depends upon what they get for their money. We do not understand that it is the intention of the post office to send carriers or wagons to any or all private residences or business houses within the city limits of Toronto, to pick up small parcels and take them to the post office, as the express companies with their organized wagon service are doing now. The public will have to carry their own parcels to the post office for forwarding, or hire some one to carry them for them. Business houses will have to use their own teams or hire others to perform the service in connection with parcel post which the express companies now perform without extra charge. As to the delivery of incoming packages, which it is presumed the post office is undertaking through the medium of the present letter-carriers, or by means of wagon service to be specially provided, there is no reason why the service should not be made satisfactory to the public, though as the cost of it will be considerable, much more than the public generally realize, the Postmaster-General is showing wise judgment in temporarily restricting the weight limit to six pounds for the first few months, while the work is in the experimental stage, before raising it to the international limit of eleven pounds, as is proposed later.

"Much will depend, too, on the restrictions that the post office will feel obliged to place on the business which they will find it possible to handle. There are certain goods too fragile to stand the handling which the ordinary mail sack receives, for these the post office provides no insurance, whereas the express service includes free insurance for values up to fifty dollars."

SAID GOMPERS WAS DRUNK

Federation President Calls McDonald a Slanderer.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 31.—That Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, was "gloriously drunk" at the Seattle Convention of the Federation, was the charge made by Duncan McDonald, of Illinois, at the Convention of the United Mine Workers of America today.

During the prolonged cheers, "liar," "slander," were hurled at McDonald by Gompers, who was on the platform.

"I am glad Mr. Gompers is here so I can say what I want to," said McDonald, in beginning his reply to the speech made yesterday by Mr. Gompers. "I said there were booze fighters in charge of the American Federation of Labor. I'll prove it. At the Seattle convention, I had a room with my wife at a hotel, next to the room reserved by the resolutions committee. The first Saturday night we could not sleep for the noise made by a bunch of drunks in the next room.

"I appealed to the clerk of the hotel, and the noise grew louder. Then I went down to the hotel office and the night manager called Jim Duncan on the phone and told him they would have to get out of the room and that they were disturbing all on the floor.

"The noise grew fierce, and I finally knocked on the door of the room, and was asked to come in and have a drink. When the door opened, there sat Sam Gompers at the head of the table gloriously drunk, with a bottle of booze in his hand."

The statement threw the convention in an uproar and it was some time before order was restored. While the confusion was at its height Gompers called McDonald a liar and a slanderer.

ALL COAL NOT ALIKE

For Heat Value — Result of Critical Test of Anthricite Coal

When you see the coal all in a bright red mass in your stove or furnace, sending out its grateful warmth, when the snow is thick on the ground and the thermometer below zero, did it ever occur to you what the composition of the coal is, and how much the test of the coal depends on its composition.

The other day a list of the D. L. & W. Scranton coal was made in Toronto, samples being taken at random from several large cars on the track at one time, delving down into a car for one sample, and then taking the next from the top. It was a sort of aimless collection of coal to make a fair test.

The coal was then pulverized and a certain weight placed in a dish after which it was placed in a test furnace. The results showed the following high standards of heat producing properties:

Heat giving carbon	86.0 p.c.
Volatile hydro carbon	3.2 "
Moisture	2.0 "
Ash	8.6 "

An analysis like the above is of the greatest possible value because it gives a better idea of the coal's worth.

The heating power of coal depends upon the amount of fixed carbon present. Moisture retards the heating power of coal until it is driven off.

It will be seen by the analysis of the D. L. & W. Scranton coal, which is sold by Mr. Robt. Hicks, that this coal is an ideal one in every respect. The amount of fixed carbon is high while the ash is low.

It is claimed that at Mr. Hicks' elevator, you cannot get screenings with the coal as the screens are stationary, and the coal must pass over these screens in reaching the bags, or delivering rigs.

The systematic method of screening can be seen in operation any day and a visit to Hicks' elevator at the corner of Charlotte and Bethune Street would be most interesting and beneficial to the coal consumers of the city.

Always ready to move with the times, Mr. Hicks' enterprise and experiments have been always in the interest of the consumer.

The hard coal handled comes from richest deposits of the Deleware & Lackawanna and Western Coal Co.'s mines immediately at and under the city of Scranton, Pa., has always been at the top of the list for its high standard of quality.

STORY OF SHOOTING FOR WHICH A. BRODEUR IS WANTED IN SPRINGFIELD; WOMAN DIED WITH NAME ON HER LIPS

The Victim Was Prominent and Handsome Swedish Woman.

She Was Found on Sofa With Revolver at Her Side.

But Police Were Convinced She Did Not do the Shooting.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 31.—The Springfield police received word last night that a man supposed, to be Arthur H. Brodeur, wanted in Springfield on a charge of murder, has been arrested in Peterboro Ont. Brodeur shot and killed a Mrs. Matilda E. Case, a prominent Swedish woman at Springfield, at her home, in that city. The shooting took place on September 20th, 1913. The husband of the dead woman was out at a store at the time of the shooting, and the exact details of the shooting were never learned. Brodeur had been friendly with the woman for a long time.

Seen Near the Home

He was seen near the Case house shortly before and shortly after the shooting. Then he was supposed to have left the city, and has been searched for in many United States and Canadian cities since. The Springfield police will arrange to have him arrested at Peterboro and brought here for trial.

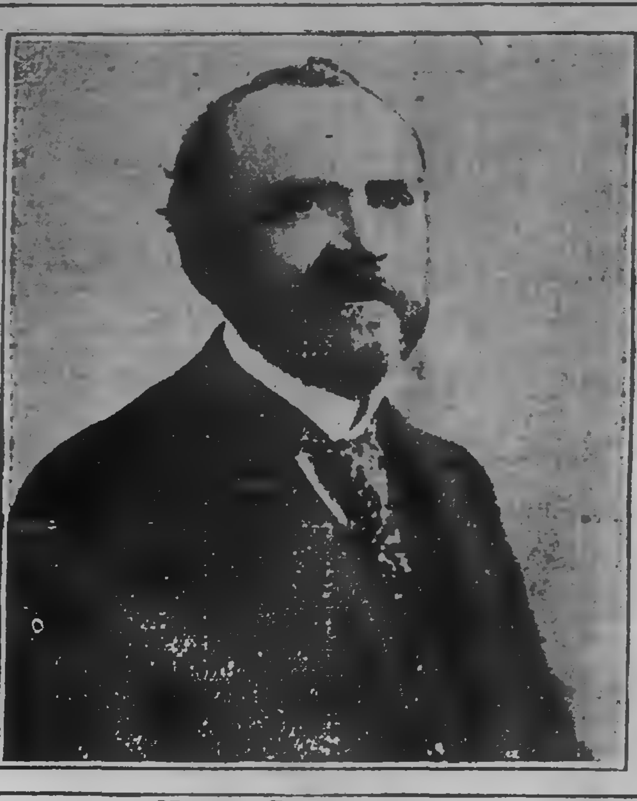
Caused a Sensation

The shooting caused a profound sensation in Springfield. Mrs. Case was found dying on a sofa, with a revolver at her side, but the police were soon convinced that she had not shot herself. They say she named Brodeur as she died, saying he had shot her.

A Handsome Woman

The man was infatuated with her beauty. She was one of the most handsome women in Springfield. For weeks, little else was discussed in Springfield or vicinity, and for a long time it was thought Brodeur was hiding in Weston, Mass. Others thought he was in Ontario where his relatives are.

WILL BUILD TWENTY RADIUM HOSPITALS FOR TREATMENT OF CANCER



HENRY PHIPPS

To build twenty hospitals in different parts of the United States for the treatment of patients afflicted with cancer and to equip each institution with five grams of radium in addition to the other equipment, is said to be the project that Henry Phipps, the wealthy philanthropist of New York and Pittsburg, has in mind. In all, the hospitals would entail an expenditure of about $15,000,000.

ALBERT BRODEUR SAYS LIQUOR CAUSED DOWNFALL

He Tells the Police Chief He Had a Quarrel With the Woman Who Was Shot—Was in Peterboro Before

Albert H. Brodeur, the man arrested by the local police department on Thursday evening, as the man wanted by the Springfield authorities, on the alleged charge of murdering a woman by shooting, spent last night in the women's special cell of the police station, under special guard.

During the daytime he amuses himself by walking his cage, but he vouches no response to the questions of the members of the department.

This morning he gave the Chief the statement of his travels since the 21st of last September. Brodeur said that he had been in the habit of seeing this woman in question, and on Saturday afternoon, the afternoon of the shooting affray as he terms it, he had a quarrel with the woman. He was at the time under the influence of liquor. He went to his father's house and stayed there over night, leaving Springfield with very little money in his possession, and went through to Quebec and Montreal. Then he visited Ottawa, Toronto, and also Peterboro. He stayed here a few hours, going out on a freight to Toronto, Brantford, Woodstock, Ingersoll, London and Chatham. He then passed on to St. Mary's, where he worked for three hours, the only work he has done since his departure from Springfield. He went by the way of Stratford, Galt, Preston, Berlin, Georgetown, Guelph. At Guelph he was sentenced to the County jail for two months, for stealing a pair of boots and a suit of clothes. He was arrested while pawning the stolen goods. He was discharged on the 26th of last month When he arrived he was directed by Constable Reid, of whom he enquired where the station was located. Brodeur also admitted being a deserter from the American Army, for which he served two years. He says that the cursed booze has been the cause of his downfall.

Special Officer Zimmerman of Springfield, Mass., will arrive in the city this afternoon, and take the prisoner in charge. Arrangements are being made for extradition papers.

SOME QUERIES

To the Editor of The Review.
Sir,—

May I ask:

1. What would be the salary of a police woman?
2. Is the fee system in use here?
3. How are the Police Commissioners appointed? Have they a salary apart from their other official positions?
4. You, to publish the balance sheet of the Police Department for the past year?

Yours truly,
A. R.

Peterboro, Jan. 31, 1914.

Answers:

1. Between $600 and $700.
2. Police offices receive a fee for attending an inquest. This is the only case.
3. The statutes provide that the Police Commissioners shall be composed of the County Judge, Police Magistrate, and the Mayor. The Judge receives $100 as chairman of the Police Commissioners.
4. The appropriation for the department was $9,675. The whole amount was expended.

ANNUAL MEETING OF AUTO ASSOCIATION

ASKS FOR THE DIVORCE COURT

W. B. Northrup, M.P., Gives Notice of Resolution.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—Either the establishment of a federal divorce court or else adding divorce to the jurisdiction of the courts already existing, is the remedy favored by W. B. Northrup, M.P., Belleville, for the present divorce situation. He has given notice of a resolution asking the government to carefully consider a revision of the whole system by which divorce is now secured.

"I am not going to discuss whether divorce should or should not be granted," exclaimed Mr. Northrup yesterday. "The facts are that divorce is obtainable by law already. What I seek is a reform in the method. In the maritime provinces and in British Columbia there are divorce courts. People elsewhere have to come to Parliament. The operative effect of the system is that only the rich or well-to-do can afford to institute proceedings for Parliament divorce. It costs from $500 to $1,000 or more according to the number of witnesses, the distance they have to be brought and so forth. Then in my judgment the Senate Committee on divorce are not the best judges of fact, while, when the bills reach the House of Commons, the members know little about the cases except that they have a copy of the eivdence. There is no opportunity to examine the witnesses.

"The time has come assuredly when, if divorces are to be granted at all, the system ought to be varied to reduce both the cost and the necessary procedure."

MRS. MAHONEY HAS FILED HER STATEMENT

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—Mrs. Catherine Mahoney of Ottawa, who is contesting the will of her brother, the late Rev. Father George D. Brophy, of Kingston, has filed her statement of defence in the probate action brought by the executors. Father Brophy, a missionary priest, was worth $176,356 when he died in September of last year, leaving Mrs. Mahoney an annuity of $75. Mrs. Mahoney says that her brother at the time of making the will, was not of sound mind, memory and understanding, and was entirely without testamentary capacity.

PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JAN. 31, 1914.

AN EDUCATIONAL EVANGELIST.

DR. J. W. ROBERTSON, who spoke at the Canadian Club on Thursday evening on educational matters, is perhaps the one man in Canada who can speak on that subject with authority and from a world-wide experience. He is a Scotsman who has become thoroughly Canadianized, although he has not "filed his tongue as smooth as glass,"

he retains the Highland or Lowland burr which he got while tending the sheep and while learning Euclid and Latin in Edinburgh—the Latin, we presume, was also recited with a Scotch accent. The supposition that the Scotch are void of humor was not confirmed in the case of Dr. Robertson for his speech upon this occasion sparkled with witticisms which would have done credit to any Hibernian.

But the message which the doctor brought to Peterborough was a very serious one and it should receive the close attention of all who are interested in the training of our youth and in the mental and physical calibre of the next generation.

Dr. Robertson's gospel to the present age in Canada is "all round development." Most of our young people are lop-sided. Young men who have been brought up on a farm are sent away to the cities to high-schools and to business colleges where they do nothing further with their hands than add up figures or play on a typewriter. They soon conceive a deep distaste for manual labor of any kind and of farming in particular. This is unfortunate and disastrous, for, as in the past, Canada will in the future be largely an agricultural country. Cities and manufacturing centres will continue to grow, but this will only increase the necessity for agriculture. Cities must be fed and if Canadian farms do not produce food for our cities the cost of living in Canada will become enormous and we will be at the mercy of other countries for our food supply.

At the bottom of all this decadence in agricultural life, as Dr. Robertson hinted, is the mania for speculation. The average Canadian farmer regards his one hundred acres as a proposition out of which he is going to get rich. He has no deep desire to settle down and live rural life. Milk means dollars, and grain means pig-feed, and pigs are dollars too. He has not that love of the simple rural life that the English and German farmer has. He is not a landscape artist. Dr. Robertson said that Canada has deserved the reputation for having the dirtiest farms in creation. One thing that strikes the visitor to the old land is the beauty of the country-side, the neatness and cleanliness of the fields and lanes, the homeliness of the villages and the contentedness of the country people. The reason why Canadian country-life is so unattractive is because the dollar is the only thing worth living and working for.. Scores of farms that the early settlers have given all their best energies to clearing have been deserted by their sons and daughters who ought to be inheriting the fruits of their labors and improving upon the work that has been put into the farms. Education can do much in this direction and Dr. Robertson outlined a scheme for assisting and educating farmers in the matter of improving their farms and increasing the product of the soil. The Government have about forty agricultural experts scattered over the country, each one of these will go and live for a season on a farm and by advice and the application of new ideas they have proved a great benefit to farmers generally. This is practical education, it is in the right direction and the farmers of this district would do well to make themselves acquainted with Dr. Robertson and his gospel.

ELECTRIFIED JERUSALEM.

A CONCESSION for the construction of a street car line running from Jerusalem to Bethlehem and also for the lighting of Jerusalem by electricity, was granted by the Turkish Government. We don't take too kindly to the idea of an electrified Jerusalem, somehow. And yet it is bringing Scripture scenes down to modern life. Why should not the Master and His twelve disciples board a street car? They might very well have done so but for a couple of thousand years. At the same time it rather mars the vision, a star is poetic, but there is little poetry in an arc-lamp.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

HON. W. S. FIELDING has given up his job as President of The Telegraph and Herald Company of Montreal. If seems he wanted to know who was going to be the back-stop and umpire. He was not satisfied to merely do the fielding. . .

MR. TAFT has been visiting Toronto and uttering some wise paragraphs. He is said to have "a smile that is absolutely irresistible." He must have lost it during the recent election for U. S. President. It was this smile, no doubt, that captured and enraptured the editor of The Globe on the reciprocity question. A smile is an essential "adjunct" to an American politician.

A STANDING ARMY of 3,000 men is to be formed from the Ulster volunteers. It will be modeled mainly after the British army. Sections of the volunteers are to serve in rotation in this army. They will live in barracks and will be paid $5 a week, which will enable them to abandon their occupation during their term of service. It is said that a large number of the volunteers are anxious to serve in the standing army.

RAILWAY MEN will be interested to know that an amendment to the Railway Act is now before Parliament to enforce payment of wages at least once a fortnight. The amendment reads:

The salaries or wages of every person employed in the operation, maintenance or equipment of any railway company to which financial aid, by way of subsidy or guarantee, has been given by the Parliament of Canada, shall be paid at intervals of not more than two weeks during the employment of such person.

OCEAN VOYAGES no longer need to be a terror to those subject to sea sickness is in effect the announcement made to-day by Dr. Joseph Fischer, the well known heart specialist of Nauheim, in a Munich medical weekly. Dr. Fischer reports that as the result of extensive experiments with sea sick passengers he found than an injection of atropin completely cured the worst cases. It is said that the doctor discovered that an injection of atropin "paralyzed the mal de mer." It is time some one paralyzed this malady for it has paralyzed many of us in its time.

SPEAKING OF SEA-SICKNESS, the French aviator, Didier Hasson, who has been flying as a scout for the Constitutionalists in Mexico, is reported to have given up flying because he is "sky-sick," as he termed it. It is a pity that kind of mal de air was not infectious.

In Two Weeks.

Guelph Herald.

Canada has reason to be grateful that it has at Ottawa a Government that accomplishes something. Parcels Post in two weeks!

No Shame in Titles.

Hamilton Herald.

Doubtless Mr. Burnham is sincere in his proposal to abolish all titles of distinction in Canada; but, really now, did any Canadian think less of the late Canadian High Commissioner because he was for some years known as Lord Strathcona instead of plain Donald A. Smith?

Eugenics in England.

Kingston Whig.

There is a lot of what one may term twaddle or rot written about the necessity of something being done legally in order to save the race from complete degeneration. There is sound sense in the steps that have been taken in some states to house and protect the feeble-minded since the feeble-mindedness is hereditary and can be increased at a marvellous rate. But staying the propagation of this undesirable species is one thing, and the practice of eugenics under Act or Statute is another.

The Wood-Pile Test.

Saturday Night.

"During the autumn, when work was reported to be very slack and many men out of position, I took occasion to introduce my wood pile to a number of them when they came around with a hard-luck story. But the wood was oak, and looked like real work before it was wedged and split and piled in the cellar. In any event, they all dodged it. And finally a real workman, and a very busy man, came along and did it for me. That man has all the work he can do; and as for the others, they have probably joined the bread-line."

Globe.

One of the difficulties of the half-trained and habitually careless user of English is the selection of exactly the right word to express his meaning, and exactly the right way to connect it with other words to form a phrase. Numberless illustrations suggest themselves. People frequently say "transpire" when they mean "occur" or "happen"; "forego" when they mean "forgo"; "different to" or "different than" when they mean "different from"; "averse to" when they mean "averse from," and so on indefinitely. A person's use of language is quite frequently a fair indication of the quality of his thought and, by a curious sort of reflex phsychological action, the quality of his thought may be greatly improved by a persistent effort to improve his means of expressing it. Unfortunately too little attention is given in school teaching of English to this pre-eminently important aspect of it. "English composition" well taught may be the means of giving pupils a liberal education; ineffectively taught it becomes drudgery to the unbenefited pupil and suicide to the conscientious teacher.

Advice to the Fat.

New York Sun.

Sleep but little, never eat anything that's fat or sweet;
Shun tobacco, alcohol; eat potatoes not at all.
Beans, rice pudding, pies abhor—never pass your plate for more.
With your meals no water take—walk until your muscles ache.
Exercise an awful lot, especially when it's very hot.
Hungry always leave the table—eat as little as you're able—
If you're really weak for food—unbuttered toast is very good.
Or, if that does not suffice—two or three dried prunes are nice.
Milk and cream you must taboo—sugar in your coffee too.
Try this plan two months or three—and I'll give my guarantee
The advice I give is true—and you'll lose an ounce or two.

MEDICAL REFORM

By Walt Mason

More and more the learned physicians turn away from dope and drugs, turn away from old positions, from their bottles, flasks and jugs. When I used to have conniptions, measles, mumps or other ills, Doc would hand me out prescriptions calling for a peck of pills. He would straightway send me bedward, with a trained nurse stern and dour, saying to the latter, "Edward, give him dope eight times an hour." All my bedroom was a litter of old bottles, goblets, spoons, and I swallowed powders bitter till I felt like last year's prunes. It was not till I revolted that I rallied from my ills, not until I up and bolted and went hiding in the hills. Now the doc writes no prescriptions when I've left my health behind, naught in Latin or Egyptian for the druggist to unwind. "You must live," the doc says, "sanely, if you'd keep away from grief; men of careless habits vainly look to druggists for relief. Eat good grub and eat it slowly, go to bed at 10 o'clock, sidestep all the drinks unholy, every morning take a walk." Then he soaks me for an eagle, and I sigh, "I am no flat! Me the sawbones can't inveigle into such a scheme as that!"

THE DOMINION BANK.

The Dominion Bank's report of business for 1913 just received, is the best ever issued by the Bank. Net Profits amounted to $950,402. These profits are $46,000 higher than for the previous year, and $246,000 higher than for 1911, so that there has been a steady increase in the Bank's earning power. During the year the Bank increased both its Paid-up Capital and Reserve by $811,000, these now standing at $3,811,000, and $5,811,000 respectively. A feature of the report is the large proportion of cash and other quickly available assets, which bear an unusually high ratio to the total liabilities to the public. Current loans made throughout the year amounted to almost $48,500,000 or over $2,000,000 more than in 1912. These figures indicate that the Bank is doing its full share in providing for the business needs in the communities in which its branches are located, during a year of unusual financial stringency. The Total Assets now stand at $60,506,000.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE GRAIN RECORD.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Can you or any of your readers inform me of the record number of bushels of wheat or oats per acre grown in Canada, as a friend of mine in England writes to know if it is true that in the Canadian West the land in some places yields as much as 128 bushels to the acre. This sounds to me a little steep; so I told him it must be a joke, as the same man wanted to know how far Toronto was from Ontario. If any of your readers could inform me of the record per acre and reply in the columns of your paper, I should be much obliged. Hoping to get a reply.

I remain,
Yours truly,
Reader.

Birthdays of Note

SATURDAY, JANUARY THIRTY-FIRST

This is the fifty-ninth birthday of the Hon. George E. Faulkner, Halifax, former speaker of the Nova Scotia Legislature and now a member of the Government without portfolio. A man of great tenacity of purpose and thorough-going courage in standing by his convictions, his strength was never better illustrated than when the agitation for the municipalization of the Halifax Electric Tramway was at its height. The Tramway Company applied for power to increase their capital and Mr. Faulkner introduced a bill for that purpose. He was at once hailed as a traitor to his constituency. A public meeting was called by the Mayor to condemn the action of the government. Instead of staying away as a less courageous man might have done, Mr. Faulkner appeared on the scene and took a seat on the platform. He was afforded an opportunity to vindicate himself, doing it so effectively that he was given an ovation and the mountain which had been reared out of a molehill, was completely dissolved.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY FIRST

E. H. Fitzhugh, the former vice-president of the Grand Trunk Railway System, is sixty-one years of age to-day. He was the late C. M. Hays' right hand man and first came to Canada when the latter was appointed to the presidency of the road. Like a good many other railroad men in this country, he is a native of the United States and obtained his early training on American roads. While associated with the Grand Trunk his work was chiefly connected with the management of the Central Vermont Railway, the New England subsidiary line of the Canadian system, and he it was that led in the fight against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway for entrance into Providence.

Tips For the Laundress.

When mildew appears on white clothes it can be removed, but if it gets on colored fabrics better let the garment alone, as the experiment is not a success. Take a small box of chloride of lime, one gallon boiling water and a pound of sal soda. Dissolve and "souse" the garment up and down in this until the mildew disappears; then rinse carefully in three clear waters or the material will be eaten. Lay it on the grass in the sun to dry.

Hosiery will last longer if washed out every night in clear cold water and pulled into shape when drying. Do not rub soap on them. Just have soapy water.

If a lingerie waist looks mussy lay it smoothly on a piece of thin muslin wrung out of hot water. Fold it up tightly and in half an hour iron it on the wrong side of embroidery and the rest of the waist on the right side.

A Bracelet Novelty.

Among the trinket novelties is a new bracelet watch, which looks much better on the arm than the old style one of this type, for instead of being a round lump, more or less clumsy in its proportion to the bracelet on which it is mounted, the new watch is an oblong affair about three-fourths of an inch wide by two inches long, which harmonizes well with the pattern and width of an ordinary, rather heavy bracelet.

Ten, 11, 12, 1, 2 are numbered along one side of the oblong; 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 along the other, 3 and 9 occupying their respective ends. It is really very easy to tell time by this oblong watch. One wonders why the idea has not been tried before.

Immigration Is 412,955.

"Total immigration into Canada for the year 1913, commencing Jan. 1 and ending Dec. 31, will amount to 412,955, as against a total of 402,654 for the year 1912," said J. Bruce Walker, immigration commissioner, at Winnipeg at the close of the year. "We had hoped," the commissioner continued, "that the total would reach 425,000, but owing to somewhat unfavorable conditions, which came into prominence during the past few months, the movement received a slight check.

"During the months from April to November, inclusive, the total immigration into Canada from all sources amounted to 340,399, or an increase of 6 per cent. over the corresponding period of 1912. In April, May, June and July of this year the increase over corresponding months of 1912 ran as high as 25 per cent., but in August, September, October and November there was a decided falling off, as compared with the corresponding months of last year. In August the decrease was 2 per cent., in September 21 per cent., in October 24 per cent., and in November 36 per cent."

In explaining these decreases the commissioner said: "These decreases are not nearly so serious as the figures would indicate. From the United States, for example, the decrease was due to falling off of general laborers and mechanics. Detailed figures, however, show that there has been an increase in value of effects which they brought with them, and in total amount of actual hard cash which they had in their possession."

Twenty Millions To Prevent Floods.

PEKIN, Jan. 31. — The American Red Cross Society has been granted by the Chinese Government a year in which to obtain the necessary $20,000,000 to carry out a project for controlling the River Hwai, whose overflows have hitherto caused every year great loss of life and damage to property.

A preliminary agreement to this effect was signed yesterday by P. S. Reinsch, U. S. Minister to China, and representatives of the Chinese Government. The plan for obtaining the money is to float a five per cent. loan.

The Case of Peter Grant

By ELLA WHEATON

Peter Grant emigrated to the plains when hundreds of thousands of buffaloes were tramping over them, and he went there to hunt them. His oldest boy, Oscar, was nearly grown, and the two together collected the buffalo hides, that were tanned into robes, which at that time were largely used in winter in place of the present more expensive skins.

The father of the family, being a poor sleeper, was accustomed to sleep in a room built as an addition or wing of his house, where he would be undisturbed by any sound. Since he was accustomed to come and go at will the key to the door of his room was kept under the doorstep, that whenever he wished to go to bed he might do so without awakening the rest of the household.

The Grant domicile was located not far from the foothills of the Rockies near where now stands the city of Denver, which was then a village. The Indians inhabiting that region were the Utes and the Arapahoes. Both these tribes, especially the latter, were friendly to the whites, but were not very kindly disposed to each other. As late as 1868 the Utes sallied forth from their hunting grounds in the mountains on the warpath to fight their copper colored enemies.

One autumn Peter Grant went on a hunting expedition to get meat for the family use during the winter. He said that he would be gone not over a week, and his destination was that beautiful region since called the Garden of the Gods, in which Colorado City now stands. The week passed, and every day the Grant family expected its head to reappear. But day after day passed, and nothing was heard from him.

When two weeks from the time of his appointed return had passed and he did not turn up his son started southward to look for him. Oscar traced his father to the foot of Pikes peak, where he lost track of him. But, hearing from settlers that a tribe of Indians from New Mexico had raided that part of Colorado while his father was hunting there, the boy was forced to believe that his father had been captured. He went on southward as far as Pueblo and, hearing nothing of a captured white man, returned northward.

Oscar knew that it was the habit of the Indians on capturing a white man to torture him and then kill him, so he said nothing to his mother of what he had learned. He simply told her that he had heard nothing of his father and hoped that some day he would return to them.

The winter passed without Grant's reappearance. Oscar continued to hunt the buffalo. He desired to complete the amount of money his father had fixed upon before returning to the east, and his mother would not leave the place so long as there was any hope that her husband might be restored to her. A year passed, during which Oscar added considerably to the family assets by the sale of buffalo skins, and he suggested that they go back to the east. The children needed to be educated, and the older girls were now of an age when it was not best that they should remain on the frontier. But Mrs. Grant had faith that her husband would return, and she could not bear to think of his doing so to find his former home deserted. So she kept putting off her children from month to month, from season to season. Finally, when two years had gone by since Grant's departure and there was no news of him, her children persuaded her not to spend another winter on the plains.

The family were preparing for their departure when one day a tribe of Indians from the south came up on a foray. They were not hostile, had no revenge to take on the whites of the region and seemed bent only on appropriating to themselves what they could find. They encamped near the Grant home and stole everything that was not under lock and key, cleaning out all the outhouses, especially the smokehouse, in which hung considerable smoked game, consisting of antelope and venison.

The Indians remained but one day and night and then turned to retrace their steps to their southern camping grounds. During the night that they were about the place Mrs. Grant thought she heard a sound in the little wing of the house in which her husband used to sleep. The key to the door remained where it had always been kept, and she wondered if any of the prowling redskins had found it and gone into the room. If so, doubtless all the bedclothing and smaller articles would be appropriated. In the morning after the Indians had gone she looked for the key, but it was not there. She tried the door and found it locked. While she stood wondering at the meaning of this, she heard a voice say:

"Who's there?"

"Who's inside?"

"Have the Indians gone?"

"Yes."

The bolt was shot back and the door partly opened, revealing a man dressed and painted like an Indian. Mrs. Grant recoiled, but the man caught her in his arms. He was her husband.

He had been captured by this tribe, adopted and carried into New Mexico. When the tribe came north he came with them and found a convenient hiding place in his own room.

To mend a slightly broken plaster article make a solution of camphor and alcohol, thickened with shellac. This must be applied hot to the edges of the pieces to be cemented, and the pieces must be held together until the liquid has cooled and hardened.

A good way to clean a carpet sweeper is to remove the brush and after rubbing off all the hairs and lint rub it well with kerosene. Let the brush remain in the air until all the odor has evaporated. The sweeper will leave the carpets and rugs looking much brighter after this treatment.

Then take them out with a cake turner, so they will not break, place on a buttered pan and crisp in a hot oven. The change from extreme cold to extreme heat makes them puff or "souffle."

A small, square cushion, which should be especially nice for a guest room, is covered with blue silk, and over this a filet lace cover of white is drawn. This dainty little bit of blue and white is then supplied with blue and white headed pins, neatly arranged, all ready for the guest's use.

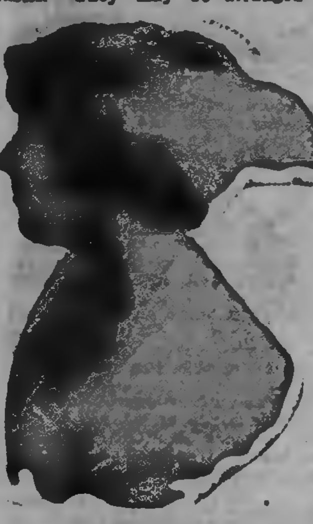
HAIR ORNAMENTS.

Charming Coiffure Novelty For Smart Evening Wear.

Much attention this season is being centered upon the coiffure and its ornamentation, and there are many charming new hairdressing novelties.

Casque combs and pins in various designs are much in vogue. Bandeaux also in almost limitless variety are shown for every occasion, the most attractive of which are the ones for dressy occasions. These are generally flexible and made of rhinestones set in aluminium and strung with invisible elastic. They may be arranged to tuck into the coiffure or spread out over the entire head, making it appear a mass of twinkling brilliants.



THE MODISH EFFECT.

An unusual novelty is a combination of barrette and a feathery shaped ornament, to be used separately or combined, and when they are together the effect is the same as the feather up the back of the hat, and the upright ornament may be adjusted to the back of the head and spray itself into the coiffure.

The headdress pictured is a girlish affair which bands the hair at the back instead of the more usual front adornment. A crescent shaped piece of pearl studded passementerie is the foundation, to which is attached a plaited fan shaped ruche of white tulle.

The inimitable touch of Paul Poiret is noted in the fascinatingly simple simple lines of this tango frock developed in pussy-willow taffeta, one of the new spring materials soft of fabric and of sheen. Oleander pink taffeta with Modern Art printings makes the skirt and sleeves, with a tunic of slate blue taffeta in daring color combination. Gold embroidery outlines the wide arms-eye, the sleeve running to a cuff that is held tight about the wrist with snap fasteners. Stylish Coats For Children.

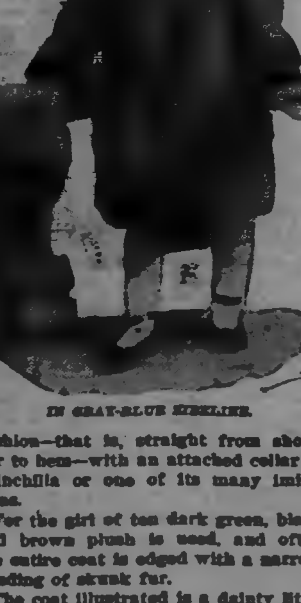
For children from five to ten years of age plush and fur are much used for comfortable winter coats. The tiny toddler wears a coat of rose, blue or even black plush this season made on a little yoke, buttoned from neck to hips with plush covered buttons and edged at collar and cuffs with some kind of fur, preferably ermine.

The child a little older has a plush coat, too, but it is cut in a different fashion—that is, straight from shoulder to hem—with an attached collar of chinchilla or one of its many imitations.



IN GRAY-BLUE SIBELINE.

For the girl of ten dark green, black and brown plush is used, and often the entire coat is edged with a narrow banding of skunk fur.

The coat illustrated is a dainty little model of gray blue sibeline, with collar, cuffs and low hanging belt of velvet in the same shade.

The Freshman's Error.

Alexander Grant Brown, B.A., M.A. (Oxon), is a lecturer in Ancient and Modern History in University College, Toronto. There is a department of the University Building known as the Historical Seminary, where matters historical hold sway. Here, Mr. Brown had an amusing experience one day. He was walking down the hall, being due at a lecture, when he was accosted by a freshman, thus: "I say, old fellow, can you tell me where the historical cemetery is? Some old tombstone is going to lecture to us." Opening a door, Mr. Brown remarked, "Why, yes, I am the lecturer, just walk in."

Biggest In the World.

The dry dock which is to be built at Quebec for the Dominion Government by a Montreal firm will, when completed, be the largest structure of its kind in the world. It is to be 1,150 feet long and 137 feet wide, or 100 feet longer and 17 feet wider than the Gladstone Dock, which was opened by King George at Liverpool.

Canada's Water Power.

Canada's water power is estimated at 16,000,000 horsepower, equal to an annual production of 26,700,000 tons of coal; only 1,016,521 horsepower has been developed.

Two Viewpoints.

A pretty girl at a dinner in Chicago asked George Ade why he did not marry.

"Marriage, you know," she said archly, "is one grand sweet song."

"Rather say," the humorist retorted, "one grand sweet refrain—refrain from poker, refrain from tobacco and refrain from booze water."—New York Tribune.

THE NEW YEAR.

Time is like a restless river,
  Bearing on its tide away
Wrecks of radiant hopes that ever
  Bloom and fade with closing day.
Bearing on the youth to manhood,
  Bearing manhood past its prime—
Changing all things, resting never:
  Touch, O touch us gently, Time!

We who speak, and ye who ponder—
  We who write, and ye who read—
Gliding swiftly down, may wonder
  If we're growing old, indeed;
If the past is gone forever,
  If the present may not stay,
Or to-morrow be the giver
  Of the joys we missed to-day.

One year more, of all the number
  Given us for earthly stay,
Gone into the past, where slumber
  Every wasted yesterday!
Up to action! Let the present
  Day and year, and hour of time
Prove, while love and hope are pleasant,
  Duty only is sublime!

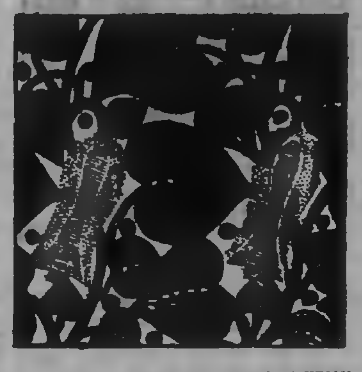
—William Wye Smith.

Modern Art Influence In Fabrics.

The beginning of the vogue for color has been credited to the war in Turkey, says Junius Cravens in a recent article, but why a war in Turkey should inspire the world to burst into color is hardly apparent. But, whatever these influences are or whether one likes them or not, they are affecting not only gowns and hats, but are spreading through every branch of applied arts.

The effect is already noticeable in furniture, floor coverings, wall papers and even pottery of all kinds. It is particularly emphasized just now in drapery materials and fabrics of all kinds.

One cannot fail to recognize how different these new fabrics are from those one is accustomed to see. To Vienna is given the credit for lighting the way into this new field of work. Ideas came from the peasant art of Austria and Hungary, and well known artists were not slow to use this source of information. To Professor Josef Hoffman of Vienna is great credit due for the adaptation of the peasant art.



DESIGNED BY PROFESSOR JOSEF HOFFMAN.

The cut shows one of his fabric designs, consisting of black leaves on a white background. The long bell shaped flowers are in solid brilliant yellow and Persian orange. These vivid materials combine well with simple designs in furniture of the mission type and the best old Sheraton, Chippendale and Adams examples.

At first one may not like the new art, but that it has come to stay there is no doubt. It is the outgrowth of the seeds planted by William Morris.

I OWE MY LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

They Did Me More Good Than All Other Treatments Combined

MRS. H. S. WILLIAMS

PALMERSTON, ONT., June 20th. 1913

"I really believe that I owe my life to "Fruit-a-tives". Ever since childhood, I have been under the care of physicians and have been paying doctors' bills. I was so sick and worn out that people on the street often asked me if I thought I could get along without help. The same old stomach trouble and distressing headaches nearly drove me wild. Some time ago I got a box of "Fruit-a-tives" and the first box did me good. My husband was delighted and advised a continuation of their use. "Fruit-a-tives" completely cured me.

Today, I am feeling fine, and a physician meeting me on the street, noticed my improved appearance and asked me the reason. I replied, "I am taking Fruit-a-tives". He said, "Well, if "Fruit-a-tives" are making you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can".

Mrs. H. S. WILLIAMS.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

READING AND ITS PLEASURES

By F. M. Dela Fosse.

Whilst taking a cursory survey of the Literature section of the Library a few days ago I was struck by the number of volumes pertaining to Wit and Humor that appeared on the shelves. They covered quite a wide field for they ranged all the way from the Comedies of Moliere to the productions of the inimitable Mr. Dooley.

The first thought that was awakened in my mind as I gazed at them was of wonderment that so much should be labelled Wit and Humor that seemed to possess little or nothing of either of those agreeable ingredients. A little consideration, however, served to remind me that after all, mine was only an individual opinion; that we cannot all be expected to think alike and that if we did this would indeed be a very hum-drum world to live in. I remembered also that tastes change with the passing years and that what strikes us in youth as the very acme of wit and cleverness may be very likely to appear silly and vulgar when we arrive at middle age.

A Change of Humor

Not only does the taste of the individual change but the taste of the nation also. Who, for instance, at the present time, cares to read Hood's humorous poems, the Bab Ballads of Gilbert, the Ingoldsby Legends, Bret Harte's Condensed Novels, the History of Mr. Verdant Green, or (to go back a little bit further to that splendid galaxy of writers of the early part of the Nineteenth Century), Combe's Tours of Dr. Syntax, or the essays of Charles Starkley or of Sydney Smith? Nearly all the works mentioned above are to be found in the Library, but they are never taken out, despite the fact that there is scarcely anything of a later date that comes within hailing distance of them for worth or refinement. The blame for this state of affairs must be laid of course, to the exactions of present day life, when, amid the bustle of commerce we have to gather what refreshment we can from the vapourings of a host of would-be humorists whose flights of fancy find a place in the comic papers and magazines.

The Mighty Wits.

Present-day readers really lose a very great deal by not occasionally turning their minds to the perusal of the wit and humor of other days. Butler's Hudibras, when it first appeared was hailed as the wittiest piece of literature that had ever been penned and the nobles of Charles the Second's Court, and even the Merry Monarch himself, delighted in reading it and quoting from it. Who thinks of reading Hudibras now? Dryden's poems have scarcely been excelled for brilliancy of fancy and biting irony in the whole range of literature, but they are never read nowadays save by some scholarly virtuoso. Yet Dryden is the writer on whom all subsequent poets have patterned their style. Very few people to-day read Swift or Fielding, Smollett or Sterne. Still we have it on the authority of Leigh Hunt and a host of critics that for the qualities of sheer wit and humor Swift had no superior, ancient or modern, and whilst there may be varied opinions as to the moral effect of some of his writings as well as those of the other three, there can be no question whatever as to the claims of all to a very high place in the ranks of the humorists. Within the last sixty years the genius of Dickens and Thackeray alone can be said to have reached to their level, and this in itself shows how necessary it is that we should treasure the works that our great writers have left us.

The Silly.

There has always been a widespread feeling abroad that the terms Wit and Humor, are simply synonyms for Frivolity and Folly. This is a lamentable error, for the importance of these factors in Literature cannot be over-estimated. It stands to reason that Wit cannot be Wit unless it be true, a fact that Porson, the great Greek scholar, long ago emphasized. Many a bit of wise and homely philosophy is to be found in the writings of our finest humorists and many a searching thrust at human weaknesses in the more rugged attacks of the Wits. We find a furthur use for them also in providing refreshment for our jaded minds when even the novel or the newest issue of a magazine fail to please. Carping critics should bear these facts in mind and not condemn everything as useless or silly that does not suit the particular bent or their intellects.

Differences of opinion as to what constitutes Wit or Humor are not merely confined to members of the body politic of any particular nation. Distinct nationalities have their distinct ideas as to what should be classed under these terms, not only in the matter of reading, but in the daily happenings of life. An Englishman, for instance, will see something excruciatingly funny in the attempts of a Frenchman to master the English tongue, whereas, if the positions were reversed the Frenchman would be full of earnest solicitude to help the Englishman in his difficulty. A Frenchman, on the other hand, finds something inexpressibly humorous in the Englishman's assumed superiority, a superiority so obvious to the Englishman that he cannot for the life of him see what there is to laugh at in it. Then again, a negro will laugh at anything and a Japanese or Red Indian at nothing.

Yankee Humor.

There are, in fact, as Montaigne says, as many and innumerable degrees of wit as there are cubits between this and heaven and, it may be added, that there are as many ways of interpreting it and looking at it. Thousands consider Mark Twain the greatest humorist of the last forty years, whilst thousands more place him on a lower level than either Artemus Ward or Max Adeler as an exponent of the farcial type of humor. Many think George Ade an inexpressibly funny writer; others consider it inexpressibly funny that anyone should think that prodigal purveyor of slang and vulgarity funny at all. It is a good thing that, as there are so many diverse opinions, our literature should boast such a profusion of commodities to suit all tastes. It would be very terrible, if, when the mind was wearied and in need of a little recreation it should be compelled to search for it in the pages of some of our modern humorists. They are very well in their way, but they pall on the palate far more quickly than the genial and polished writings of Addison or of Steele, the comedies of Goldsmith or of Sheridan or the works of Oliver Wendell Holmes or Washington Irving, and a few others that could be named.

THE CHURCH AND THE WORKING MAN

"Jimmy" Simpson's Subject for Address at Knox Church.

Controller James Simpson, popularly known as "Jimmy" Simpson, who will speak in Knox church Tuesday evening next, is well described "the man of the hour." In the election held at New Years in Toronto he received over 30,000 votes, and within a few of the number received by the Mayor. Mr. Simpson is still a young man and everything looks well for a distinguished future in the history of Toronto and Canada. He is bigger than Toronto already, for with Dr. Robertson, who addressed the Canadian Club Thursday night, he has been working on the Government Technical Commission. He is looked upon as a popular hero for he has climbed up to his present place of prominence through sheer worth and he carries with it a humility that is most attractive and a smile that is Irish, although "Jimmy" is English. He has been a great labor man and his wonderful gift of oratory has often been used in their behalf. He will be heard to good advantage in his address on Tuesday evening in Knox church when he speaks on "The Church and the Workingman." An offering will be received during the evening and special music will be rendered.

GOVERNMENT MEASURE MAY BE INTRODUCED NEXT WEEK

Premier Borden Announces That a Measure to Add New Senators May Be Brought Down on Tuesday And Also Files Notice of Commons Changes—Navy and Militia Estimates Are Taken Up.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.—In the House yesterday Mr. Borden gave notice that on Tuesday next he would proceed with the legislation providing for additional Senators for the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

The Prime Minister also filed a formal notice with the clerk of the House last night, respecting the bill which the Government will bring down next week, redistributing the representation of the various provinces in the House of Commons.

The greater part of the day was spent in committee of supply, civil government, and estimates were taken up, and thus nearly every department came under review.

Mr. Hughes (King's P.E.I.) complained that freight rates had been increased on the Prince Edward Island Railway 30 per cent., and some divisions as much as 100 per cent. He also complained that some men had been discharged

Hon. Frank Cochrane said that even with the advanced freight rates the road was losing $100,000 a year. Some men were laid off to his regret, but all railways were laying off men at this time. He submitted that the true friends of public ownership would insist upon a Government railway being managed with ordinary business sense.

In committee of supply Liberal members asked several questions concerning Lord Strathcona's successor as High Commissioner.

The Prime Minister said in reply that so important a position should not be long left vacant, but that the best possible man should be selected. There would be no undue delay in making the appointment.

Mr. Borden said that while the matter of increased salary had never been formally under consideration by the Government, members of the Government and the public generally recognized that the salary must be increased unless the High Commissionership was to be regarded as as position for which only very wealthy men were eligible.

No communication had ever been received by the Government from Lord Strathcona as to who his successor should be.

When the estimates for the Department of Naval Affairs were taken up Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. A. K. Maclean of Halifax suggested that some announcement should be made by the Government as to its naval policy. Mr. Sinclair, Guysboro; Dr. Clark, Red Deer; Hon. Frank Oliver, and other Opposition members also pressed for some statement by the Government. They desired to know what was to become of the Niobe and the Rainbow, together with their crews and also as to what the Government intended to do with the naval college at Halifax and with the naval cadets now on H. M. S. Berwick.

Hon. J. D. Hazen replied that the permanent policy of the Government would not be put into execution until it had been submitted to and approved by the people. He suggested it would be quite inappropriate for him to attempt to foreshadow what that policy would be. Any announcement upon that subject must come from the Prime Minister. Mr. Hazen went on to explain that the men on the Niobe had enlisted for a certain term of years, and were entitled to serve out their enlistment. The naval cadets on the Berwick would put in another year at the naval academy. Provisions had been made whereby cadets who obtained the rank of sub-lieutenant would receive commissions in the British navy.

It was hoped some cadets would enter the hydrographic survey. The young men trained at the naval academy would receive an education which would fit them for service in the Marine Department, even though no Canadian navy was ever established.

Hon. Mr. Hazen said, in reply to a question, that neither the Niobe nor the Rainbow, had any commercial value.

Dr. Clark mentioned the fact that the Empress of India, a vessel worth $250,000, had been recently blown to pieces as a target. He thought the Niobe and Rainbow could be sold to the British navy for target practice.

Mr. Hazen said he would take the matter up with the Home Government.

When the Militia Department was reached much curiosity was manifested respecting an item of $11,000 for contingencies.

Mr. Pardee (West Lambton) and Mr. Proulx (Prescott) were anxious to hear about Col. Hughes' trip to Europe last summer. The Minister explained that the item under consideration had nothing to do with the trip, which he would be delighted to explain to the House at the proper time.

When the estimates for trade and commerce were reached Mr. Foster announced that an agreement had been reached with the Imperial Government by which Canada's trade agents in many parts of the world would work in conjunction with the British consuls.

Proof of Mild Winter.

SARNIA, Jan. 31.—A local Grand Trunk engineer brought in Thursday night two dead birds which he picked up on the cowcatcher of his engine at St. Catharines. The birds were a wild pheasant and a canary. This is something out of the ordinary for this section in the month of January.

NOT FREE BUT SLAVES OF FASHION AND CUSTOM

Prof. Currelly Speaks on Developement of English Home

Prof. Currelly gave a very interesting lecture on "The Development of the English Home" in the Normal School last evening.

"Canada is a country in making," began the Professor, "and we all imagine ourselves free agents while in reality we are slaves of fashion and custom. The buttons on the tail of the coat of a dress suit had their origin in buttons used to fasten the sword belt in position in early times. Again the buttons on the sleeve of the coat used to be very useful when first placed there by Frederick, King of Prussia, to keep his boorish soldiers from putting the sleeves of their uniforms to a use for which they were not intended and three sharp buttons were excellent preventitives."

The Professor next touched on the difference between the Oriental and Western homes. "The homes of the Eastern people are small, clean and very comfortable. The houses are made of the best material and the workmanship is such that each board in the building is a work of art," continued the Professor. "To eat with the hands is not filthy, but rather it is sanitary as the Oriental always washes his hands before meals and sometimes our forks look as if they had never been washed. There, life is simple and there is a great charm in its very simplicity, and as their houses are not sealed like ours, they have plenty of fresh air and are generally very healthy.

The Canadian on the other hand has a craze for big things, and big houses in particular; everything is big, even to eggs. A man while travelling in the West, entered a farm house and wanted a meal. When asked if he would have some eggs, he gratefully acepted and the housewife went to the barn and came back with an immense egg, which she topped with a hatchet, and taking a dipper, dipped out some water and made an omelet. When leaving, the man asked what kind of hens the farmer kept. 'Just the ordinary hens' was the reply. 'No one hen laid that egg.' he exclaimed. Oh! no our hens have formed a joint stock company, and this is the combined result of the whole roost.'

The Orientals live simply while we live in a very complex and nerve racking state. They travel on foot or horseback for days at a time, to go a long or a short distance; we rush over the country on fast trains, and miss the pleasure of the trip through pleasant country.

Civilization is the power to make another man work for you. Man is too lazy to work for himself, and if left alone, without the dread of public opinion, would not build a house.

The English home has developed from the Norsemen's homes. These Norsemen lived in isolated homes, and each family tended to be large, so there would be enough men to protect the house.

These men came to England and brought their customs with them, so that in feudal times the English home was a large open square with a moat or ditch around the outside and a single gate in the wall. Over the gate a tower was built from which the lord or his servants could throw stones or logs on any unwelcome guests.

Opposite the great gate was the hall where everyone ate and many slept. In this hall which stretched from end to end of the square, were two or three huge tables, several benches, and a great open fire place from which the smoke sought exit through a hole in the roof.

On one side of the square the master and his wife and children had rooms, which were more private than the hall, but very little, if any, privacy could be had in the home, as the master kept anywhere from ten to two or thre hundred retainers who always slept in the hall, while the servants slept anywhere and everywhere about the place.

The stone floor was covered with rushes and as the retainers while eating, would throw bones to the dogs behind them, and these in turn would leave the bones on the floor which was seldom and sometimes never swept or cleaned, the stench soon became very bad.

Some men had two houses and when one got filthy they would move to the other and allow the stench in the first to sweeten, then they would return. Perfumes were much used at this time to cover up the stench, and as dead dogs might lie just outside the window, a great deal of perfume was necessary.

When King Henry VII. ordered all retainers to be dismissed, another great change took place. The women who now had only the master to deal with and who then as now can handle any man, exercised her authority and the houses became much more comfortable.

The house became smaller, a chimney was built in the hall, the servants had their own quarters, the lady's private room was fixed somewhat nicer, while the walls were panelled with wood and the floor carpeted and kept much cleaner.

Still the family had very little privacy. It was nothing for a king to have seven or eight watch him dress, and with private families, the same rule held.

The chief furniture in the house was a very heavy table, a box like chest and a bed. The table was made of two inch oak plank. The chest was a work of art, and each girl had one in which she kept her goods and which she took with her when she was married. The bed was a huge affair, with a solid back a top and three sides curtained in to keep out the draught.

The chest, as it was just a large box, and as everyone knows that whatever you want to get out of a box, is always at the bottom. It soon came to pass that two drawers were placed in the bottom of the chest, then it became a chest of drawers with drawers all the way up from which we get our modern clothes press and bureaus.

The tables became shorter and were easily extended from which we have our modern dining table.

The chair is the most interesting piece of furniture. In early times it was made of two-inch oak with solid back, arms and legs with a canopy over the whole. Next came the heavy chair without the canopy, but still too heavy to move; then a third type strongly built, quite heavy and a useful instrument to hit another man's head, which they were used for quite frequently. When Charles II. came to the throne, the chairs became very light affairs with carved legs and satin cushions to match trousers. Their arms curved out to allow the much padded lady room to sit, and if fashion keeps on, they will soon curve inward to correspond to the shape of the user.

This type of chair was used in the ladies' private room or boudoir, which means sulking room, into which no one could go without her permission. Today we are using an older type of chair, that of Queen Elizabeth's time, which had a leather or heavy cloth covering.

Our sideboards are for show more than use, and should be remodelled into a useful piece of furniture. What use is a mirror when it is not used to reflect or a drawer which is not useful?

How are we building our homes? They are of the lowest order. They are simply a pretence and a sham. A poor but kind minister while giving a supper, asked his guests to have a piece of turkey, while in reality, he was carving a chicken. Is not chicken as good as turkey? Why build a brick front and a rough cast back to our houses? Is not that acting a lie? A house is a good house and a good home only when it is honestly built, and is equal to the means of the one who built it.

Build your houses well out of the material you can afford, and you will have a good home. Don't have a lie pasted on your front door. Don't bring your children up in a home which acts an untruth. Teach your children to be true men and true women and not to be mere imitations.

Make your home a work of art. What is a work of art? A work of art is the most useful thing made of suitable material in the best possible way.

A rough-cast house may be a work of art if it is properly built, so may a brick house, or a stone house, but they are not a true home unless they are. A modern shot gun and rifle are works of art, so is a railway engine. There is no sham in them. They are made of good material, and not a bolt or screw is placed in them that is not of use.

A kitchen may be a beautiful room, a work of art, even if it has a rag carpet and pine chairs and a table; while a parlor with its costly furniture, may be a chamber of horrors. Why hang mournful pictures in the parlor? Why stain pine, ash or hemlock, oak? Is not pine a good wood? Why then sham and try to make it appear to be oak?

Make home life beautiful and be honest with yourself and children; teach them honesty by your actions, words and life.

Make things natural in the home. It is much better, and it is honest.

ANNOYING DANDRUFF

Will Make Canada a Bald-headed Nation if not Checked.

M. Pasteur, the great French Physician of Paris, once said: "I believe we shall one day rid the world of all diseases caused by germs."

Dandruff is caused by germs, a fact accepted by all physicians.

Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause, there would be no baldness.

Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks or money back.

It will stop itching scalp, falling hair and make the hair grow thick and abundant.

It puts life and lustre into the hair and prevents it from turning gray.

It is the hair dressing par excellence, daintily perfumed and free from grease and stickiness. It is the favorite with women of taste and culture who know the social value of fascinating hair.

Comes in large 50-cent bottle at The Warne Drug Co., and leading druggists and toilet goods counters everywhere. "The Girl with the Auburn Hair," is on every package.

Three Perish in Fire.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31. — "Babes Row," a five storey apartment building on the south side, so-called because children swarmed its entrances, crumbled before the attack of flames driven by a stiff gale early yesterday, and firemen are searching the ruins for an infant and two women, missing and thought to have perished. The total loss was 300,000. Three firemen were hurt.

Encouragement is what any man can give to another without hurting his bank account.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY,

as "Sydney Carton," in "The Only Way," at The Grand next Wednesday, Feb. 4. Seats on Sale Monday. Speaking of Mr. Harvey's appearance at His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal, last week, The Daily Telegraph says:—

It is not often that a Montreal audience will refuse to leave the seats after the curtain has fallen on the final scene of a play. This, however, occured last night at His Majesty's Theatre when the crowded house, ignoring the efforts of the orchestra to drive them out before the strain of the National Anthem, vociferously recalled Martin Harvey again and again at the conclusion of the "The Only Way" until he was forced to speak a few words.

HOUSE IN UPROAR.

Laborites Demand That Premier Botha Justify Deportation.

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Jan. 31. — Heated altercations yesterday, marked the opening session of the Parliament of the Union of South Africa in the course of which Gen. Louis Botha, the Premier, and the Cabinet Ministers are to be called upon to justify to the country the iron-handed methods they adopted in dealing with the recent strike of workers, ten of whose leaders were this week deported secretly to England.

Viscount Gladstone, the Governor-General, in his opening speech, said the declaration of martial law by the Government had been an "imperative duty" but he made no reference to the deportation of the labor leaders.

Time after time the labor members in vehement language and amid a great uproar, tried to debate "the crime of kidnapping citizens," but the speaker refused to allow them to continue.

BOARD APPOINTED.

Hon. Mr. Crothers Arranges Arbitration For Railway Employes.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.—No sooner was the request for an increase in wages and better working conditions granted by the C.P.R. and Grand Trunk to their maintenance of way employes, through the instrumentality of the Department of Labor, than the same class of employes on the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern have filed similar requests.

Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor, has appointed a board of conciliation to deal with the request of the Grand Trunk Pacific employes, the members of which are Judge R. D. Gunn of Ottawa, chairman; F. H. McGuigan of Toronto for the company and Henry Irwin of Portage la Prairie for the men. He is arranging for the appointment of a board to deal with the request of the C.N.R. men.

Caught Red-Handed.

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 31. — About three o'clock P. C. Foster went into Buzza's jewelry store by the rear entrance and surprised a burglar in the act of jimmying through a door. He was removed to the police cells and gave his name as George Smith, and his home as Toronto. He said he had been in the Central Prison, and gave his age as sixteen, parents both dead.

On Smith were found five dollars in cash, several searchlights, several ties and collars, beside a hack-saw and a stout steel jimmy for forcing doors.

Bluejackets Landing Resented.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Jan. 31. —The people of Port au Prince are condemning the members of the committee of safety for not having prevented the landing of marines and bluejackets from the American and German warships. They argue that this could have been done by demonstrating to the diplomatic representatives here that peace had reigned throughout the city uninterruptedly for the two days prior to the landing of the foreigners.

No definite news was received here yesterday of the movements of the revolutionary troops.

UBIQUITOUS REUTER

Something About the Great Dispenser of Telegraphic News.

What writer has the biggest circulation? You would probably answer by giving the name of some popular novelist. You would be wrong. The men whose words reach the biggest public are the men who write those paragraphs you find in your daily paper signed simply—"Reuter."

An important Reuter message is probably read by at least twenty million people the day it appears. The reason is that it is appearing at the same moment in practically every newspaper in the world.

Reuter's recent little trouble with the London press has brought it very much into the public eye of late, but few people outside journalistic circles know what the famous name stands for.

In a few words, it is a news shop which collects news from the innumerable representatives it has all over the world and sends it out to the newspapers who subscribe for the Reuter news service.

The name, by the way, is pronounced both "Roiter" and "Rooter."

Reuter's has had an interesting rise. It really began when a German named Reuter, in 1849, bridged a gap in the then new telegraph line between Paris and Berlin by stationing himself at one end of the gap and his wife at the other, and transmitting the messages by pigeon post.

Soon after, he went to London and started a small news supply service from a few representatives on the Continent, chiefly for commercial purposes. He soon hit on the great idea that newspapers might be glad of his messages. So, for months, he went round badgering all the big newspapers. For long he was pooh-poohed and regarded as a harmless crank.

"You try my little messages," he used to say. "It not matter to me, I make you them a present — if you take my name, too."

And gradually the newspapers tried, and found they could not do without the little messages. He won The Times over, and a huge scoop in the matter of the war between France and Austria made the firm famous.

Though Reuter's is in many ways the news centre of the world, its headquarters is one room, in a small, old-fashioned house in London.

It never shuts, of course, day or night, Sunday or week-day. As quickly as the news come in it is delivered simultaneously in every London newspaper office by an ingenious device known as the "piano transmitter," which spells the messages out simultaneously on an endless white ribbon of tape at all the hundreds of places where these tape machines are installed.

Cables and wires are mostly, for economy, sent "skeletonized," that is, without punctuation or prepositions. Only the essential words are sent, the messages having to be expanded before appearing in print.

Reuter's, like all newspapers, has made some mistakes in its time. On one occasion it published a message from its Australian representative to the effect that the Hon. Graham Berry, the unmarried Premier of Victoria, has just been made the father of twins, the first being a son. It turned out later that "twins first son" should really have been "turns first sod." The Premier had only been starting a new railway.

SAVED BY A HUMAN LADDER

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 31. — One man was killed and ten other persons were overcome by smoke when fire broke out in an apartment house in the Lawrenceville district here shortly after midnight. Three of the ten persons overcome were rescued with difficulty by policemen and firemen and were burned so severely they were taken to hospitals. Of the others, six were small children. All were rescued by means of a human ladder of police and firemen. The dead man is John Martin, aged 35. The fire damage was small.

WAS UNDER A SPELL.

So Says Mrs. Sharp In Testimony Against Frances C. Wright.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—That he put her under a spell by massaging her round the head and eyes in order to secure her property was the evidence of Mrs. Harriet Sharp in the police court yesterday against Frances C. Wright, alias Frank Dutton Jackson, accused of fraud. Mrs. Sharp further testified to Wright's declaration that he was immortal, that he was the incarnated Peter, and that it was his duty to usher in the New Era.

Wright was also in the habit of communicating with his brother immortals through the medium of dice. Six, five and four meant "yes," two meant "hesitate," and one meant "no." Mrs. Sharp further narrated the circumstances of her marriage to the prisoner at Niagara Falls, and the signing over of her property. Wright was committed for trial.

BOTH PATIENTS IMPROVE.

Sir James Whitney and Sir George Ross Are Doing Well.

TORONTO, Jan. 31. — "Marked improvement" characterizes the progress of the two distinguished patients in the Toronto General Hospital yesterday. Sir James Whitney's medical attendans declared last night that the Premier had "experienced the best day yet," and the statement issued by Doctors Alex. McPhedran and Clarke at a late hour read: "Sir James Whitney rested well, took his food well, and his progress is very satisfactory." They also declared that his knee trouble had practically passed away.

Sir George Ross, too, is improving. He was declared to be feeling much better during the evening and resting comfortably. He had had a good day and had taken nourishment.

Crushed To Death.

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 31. — Charles Yeandle was instantly killed and John Ramey probably fatally injured when the brickwork of a well gave way on a farm three miles from here last night. The men were repairing the well, and were caught beneath the falling debris without warning. Other workmen rushed to their assistance, but Yeandle was dead when extricated. He leaves a wife and two children.

Foiled the Highwayman.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Hinley Beattie, son of Major Beattie, M.P., was the victim of an attempted hold-up at 1.30 yesterday morning near Horton and Richmond streets. Young Beattie was on the way home when a masked man pointed a revolver, demanding his money. Beattie dropped to the ground calling for help. Constable McCrea heard him and chased the highwayman, firing his revolver, but the man escaped.

High Honor For Cardinal.

ROME, Jan. 31. — It is reported that Cardinal Merry del Val probably will be appointed chamberlain of the church, an office which has been vacant since the death of Cardinal Rampolla. It is one of the highest positions in the church, as, during an interegum, the chamberlain directs the ecclesiastical and political government of the church.

Killed In Mine Disaster.

DORTMUND, Germany, Jan. 31.—Twenty-two persons are known to have been killed and 17 injured in an explosion of firedamp in the Achenbach Colliery yesterday. The management believes that the number of killed and injured thus far accounted for represent all the casualties.

WOMEN WERE NOT TORTURED

Bishop of London Disproves Story of Suffragette.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The allegation made by the militant suffragettes that three of their comrades imprisoned in Holloway jail suffer excruciating torture while being subjected to forcible feeding, are declared untrue by the Bishop of London, the Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington Ingram, in a letter to the Women's Social and Political Union yesterday after he had visited Holloway Jail and spoken with Miss Rachael Peace, who is imprisoned there. He went at the request of the militant suffragette organization.

"I found Miss Peace in the 'Remand Hospital'," says the bishop, "which is 300 yards from the 'Convicted Hospital,' where Miss Ansell was lying. Miss Peace lay on a comfortable bed, fully dressed and in a well-warmed cell. Her face was fully rounded and she showed no signs of emaciation or distress."

Miss Peace informed Bishop Ingram that she had never shrieked and had never been put into a padded cell in the jail, where she is undergoing 18 months' imprisonment.

The only complaint Miss Peace made was that she had not been released like other suffragettes under the provisions of the "cat and mouse" act.

That compulsory appointment of police women in all Wisconsin cities will be recommended to the legislature.

Women's Pains

"I received your sample of Zutoo Tablets, and took them for severe pain (monthly) and headache. At the end of 30 minutes I was entirely free from pain and experienced no more throughout the period. I suffer a great deal at these times and feel grateful that I now have a remedy which affords quick relief. Every woman in the land should know about Zutoo Tablets and what they will do."

A Few Facts for All Who Want To Make Money

Wise and rich men advise their friends to buy Lots in the way of a growing city. Plain common sense endorses that advice.

All must acknowledge that Peterborough is growing rapidly south and west.

It is generally known that I own a very desirable block of high land half a mile south and west from C.G.E. Works, overlooking the south-end churches and schools, the C.P.R., G.T.R. and street car line, also all the big factories. I have subdivided this land into blocks of two lots, 50x123 ft. to a lane, 12 feet wide. Each lot containing 3,075 square feet. Those lots would be excellent value at $200 each, but because of my desire to be freed from business I have decided to sell for $175, and accept deposits of $5 on one or two Lots to which I will add a bonus of $5, giving a receipt for $10. No interest nor any further payments required until May, when official plan will be registered. All lots properly staked and balance of streets, Cottsmore, Ford avenue, and Western Avenue graded to the Gravel Road.

RESTRICTIONS:—BRICK, BRICK VANEER, CONCRETE, OR STONE HOUSES ONLY PERMITTED.

Other lots 30x127—3,810 square feet for $150, and $200, on same terms. Free deed and perfect title.

This offer will never be repeated.

S. S. MONROE SANK SHORTLY AFTER BEING RAMMED

Sudden Death Came to Over Two-Score of Crew and Passengers on Old Dominion Liner When She Collided With Steamer Nantucket in Dense Fog.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 31.—The story of how forty-three victims went down to death in the chill waters of the Atlantic when the liner Nantucket rammed and sank the steamer Monroe early yesterday was brought to port last night by the eighty-five survivors of the sunken ship's company, who were rescued and brought to shore by the Nantucket. It was a story of awful and sudden death, sweeping out of the dark and fog, and taking unawares the doomed half-hundred with the heaviness of sleep still upon them.

It told how the stricken Monroe, with her side gored deep by the knife-like steel prow of the Nantucket, filled rapidly, rolled over on her side, and in a few minutes turned completely over and plunged to the bottom, carrying with her the ill-fated passengers and members of the crew who had failed to get clear of the wreck.

Last night the revised lists prepared by Captain Johnson, who survives the sunken vessel, showed:

Lost—Passengers, 19; crew, 24; total, 43.

Saved—Passengers, 36; crew, 55; total, 91.

Under the thick bank of fog that hid the heavily-running sea, both big ships were making their way slowly and with difficulty in the early morning. The Monroe was bound for Norfolk for New York and the Nantucket from Boston for Norfolk.

The crash came about 1.40 o'clock, without warning. Out of the grey-black fog that shut out even the waves from view, the gleam of the Nantucket's searchlight scarcely touched the dripping side of the Monroe before the high steel prow of the southward-bound vessel cut into the Monroe's side with a ripping and crashing of plates that threw the stricken ship aback. The Nantucket, with her bow crushed in, backed out of sight into the fog, as Captain Johnson, seeing that his vessel was stricken, shouted an order for the lifeboats. The shivering of the stricken vessel and her listing motion, as the water poured through the gash in her side awakened the sleeping passengers and sent them clambering towards the deck. Warned by the officers, they hurriedly adjusted life preservers and made for the tilted deck. But the time was all too brief. Those rescued agreed that from the time the Monroe was struck until she settled beneath the waves not more than a short ten minutes elapsed.

As the half-clad, excited throng of passengers reached the deck they were herded toward the lifeboats by the officers and crew. Three of the lifeboats from one side of the crippled vessel were unshipped and gotten away from the side, freighted with frightened humanity, mostly women, shivering in the west and cold under their flimsy nightclothing. By the time these were away the Monroe was rolling over on her side, and it was impossible to launch the other boats.

With a sudden lurch the liner, now fast filling with water that rushed through the rent in her plates, rolled over on her side, throwing up her uninjured side, then submerging cabins and saloons. With a chorus of shrieks the unfortunates left on the sinking vessel turned, and crawling like rats, made their way over the superstructures, through port holes, windows and companionways until they rested just out of reach of the waves on the upper side of the half-capsized vessel. But even this slippery security was not long available. With a rumbling sound the big vessel shivered and shook, and then plunged beneath the waves, leaving her human freight afloat on the icy bosom of the ocean.

Meantime the Nantucket, herself badly damaged, had stood by, and Captain Berry sent his boats to the spot where the Monroe went down.

Many of those picked up were utterly exhausted, and unable to help themselves. Several had to be hauled over the side of the Nantucket with ropes, unable to climb the rope ladder.

LABOR REFORMS ARE REQUESTED

Delegation Waits on Provincial Officials for Demands.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—The Trades and Labor Congress of the province laid before the Government yesterday afternoon resolutions dealing with the eight-hour day, ventilation and heating of street cars, fair wages, elections on holidays, isolation hospitals, tax reform and other matters which have been under their observation during the year. All were backed up by special representatives from Ontario municipalities, and their embodiment in legislation at the coming session was urged upon the cabinet, which received them in force.

Allan Studholme, M.P.P., of Hamilton introduced the visitors and stated their desires as being for the general improvement of health and labor conditions in Ontario. The convention at Montreal had crystallised the opinion of the workers of the provinces into these requests.

Kaiser Seeks To Make Peace.

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—An attempt is to be made by Emperor William to win back the sympathies of the Alsatians after their recent irritation in connection with the violent accidents between the military and civilians at Zabern, by appointing a royal prince as viceroy in place of Count Charles Von Wedel, who has resigned. The Zeitung am Mittag, which announces this news, says that Prince Frederick William, son of the late Prince Albert of Prussia, who was regent of Brunswick until 1906, or some other Prussian prince, probably will be selected and sent to Alsace in order to show the people there a mark of royal favor.

Noted French Writer Dead.

NICE, France, Jan. 31. — The death occurred here yesterday of Paul Deroulede, the French patriotic writer and politician, at the age of 68. He passed away after a short illness.

M. Deroulede, who was at one time a deputy, was the founder of the League of Patriots and an ardent supporter of the late Gen. Boulanger, whose attempted revolution in favor of the revision of the constitution in 1889 was a fiasco. M. Deroulede was noted throughout his life for his patriotic outbursts in the columns of the newspapers and his writings led him into many duels.

FIRE MARSHAL APPOINTMENT

Measure Will be Re-introduced This Session.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—The Ontario Fire Prevention Association, in collaboration with the associated Boards of Trade, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Association of Architects, of fire chiefs, of employers and of credit men assembled before the Attorney-General yesterday afternoon to pledge their united support to the appointment of a fire marshal for Ontario, and to urge the immediate adoption of a bill to that effect when the Legislature meets.

A host of delegates from Ontario municipalities, representing all interests in any way concerned with the annual fire losses brought their appreciation of the bill and proffered suggestions. The most radical of the latter invested the marshal with the right to enter any house and see that proper care is taken to prevent combustion, to hold fire inquests on destroyed buildings as a coroner does on suspicious deaths, to cause insurance claims to be withheld, and to order precautions under penalty of fine. To carry such a scheme into proper effect, it was suggested that the province should be divided into districts, the local officers of which would report to the marshal.

Hon. Mr. Foy, on behalf of the Government, stated that the bill had been brought down in a crude form to invite comment and suggestion. The source of the financial support of the new department would also demand consideration. Some of the recommendations were rather drastic, inasmuch as every man's house was still his castle, and interference might be resented by the public. The gaining of a magistrate's permission, however, might be made to serve. The bill would appear in the coming session for further consideration.

The speakers for the various delegations were J. M. McKendrick of the Mutual Fire Underwriters, R. D. Fairbairn of the C. M. A.; Chief Ten Eyck of Hamilton for the fire chiefs, and J. F. Ellis of Toronto for the Boards of Trade.

Another Blackhand Outrage.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. — Despite the fact that Angelo Sylvestro was convicted in four minutes Thursday night of planting a bomb to blow up a tenement house in which lived twenty-five families, blackhanders continued their reign of terror here early yesterday, when a bomb wrecked the store of Joseph Stella, and the four-storey tenement at 204 East Elizabeth street.

Tenants in the house were panic-stricken and Geo. Dethelman, passing on the opposite side of the street, was knocked down. Stella said he had received blackhand letters demanding money.

E. B. OSLER, President.
C. A. BOGERT, Gen. Manager.

The year 1913 was one of general financial and commercial depression throughout the world, which conditions became more accentuated during the closing months of that period. Your Directors, therefore, deemed it advisable to enforce a policy of conservatism without interfering with the requirements of legitimate borrowers.

The funds of the Bank were fully and profitably employed throughout the twelve months under review, resulting in a further increase in the net earnings, the disposition of which is dealt with in detail in the accompanying Report. A bonus of 2 per cent. was again distributed, in addition to the regular dividend of 12 per cent.

Following the announcement made in the last Annual Report, an issue of $1,000,000 of new Capital Stock was made to Shareholders of record of the 15th of February, 1913. BECK GIVES HIS EVIDENCE

Montreal Editor Begins Story of Fair Bill Scandal.

QUEBEC, Jan. 31. — Appreciable progress was made yesterday afternoon and last night with the Legislature's investigation into the charges of The Montreal Daily Mail that money had been accepted by J. Octave Mousseau, formerly member for Soulanges, and chairman of the private bills committee of the Legislative Assembly, for his support to the decoy bill of the Montreal Fair Association. By a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon safe conduct and freedom from arrest was accorded to the witnesses They Daily Mail will call in support of its charges.

Edward Beck, formerly editor-in-chief of The Montreal Herald, was the chief witness heard before the committee. He related that it was at his instigation that detectives were engaged to "watch" the proceedings at Quebec to ascertain if there was any crookedness in the matter of the passing of certain private legislation through the two Houses, a rumor having prevailed that a system of bribery had been practiced for some time.

Mr. Beck declared that D. Lorne McGibbon, who was then the principal publisher of The Herald, had agreed to pay the costs of the detectives' investigation. A special eye was to be kept on Montreal Tramways legislation.

Plans were made to publish the result of the enquiry in The Montreal Herald, but in the meantime Mr. McGibbon sold the paper, and when the story of alleged corruption was ready for publication, The Herald, now under new management, rejected the reports.

The committee sat late into the night, Mr. Beck being under examination the whole time, and at the adjournment, when he had given details of the interviews Mousseau had with the supposed promoters regarding the decoy bill, his evidence was not completed.

Compulsory Vaccination.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Jan. 31.—Mayor Laughlin yesterday issued a compulsory vaccination order in the effort to stamp out the smallpox epidemic raging here. Conditions were somewhat improved yesterday. Eight cases were discharged, leaving 125 cases now in quarantine.

SAVED BY A SNUFF BOX.

Fit of Sneezing Kept Tiger From Eating English Officer.

Perhaps no man's life was ever saved to him by a more curious circumstance than that attending the experience of a captain of the Bengal Lancers. He had been on a visit to a civilian friend in Rajputana, and went out for a walk in the country about sunset.

After going four or five miles he found himself in a narrow path on the side of a steep hill. The path was a mere ledge in the rock, with a deep chasm on one side and a wall of solid rock on the other. It was not a pleasant place in which to come face to face with a big tiger; but that was just what happened to the captain.

It was too late to withdraw; so he determined to brave it out. The animal had evidently been asleep; for it continued for a few moments to lick itself into full wakefulness. The captain stood still. Presently the tiger took a few steps forward and made a lash at him. Luckily its teeth seized him by the flap of his coat, just over the breast, so that he was not hurt by the blow.

Then the captain had a chance to appreciate the feelings of a mouse when it is shaken by a cat. The tiger shook him till his senses left him. Perhaps it was as well they did leave him; for the beast held him over the deep chasm, and a fall would have been as fatal as the animal's onslaught.

When the captain recovered consciousness, a few minutes later, he found himself lying flat on his back, with his feet dangling over the precipice. He opened his eyes, only to see the sky above him. He dared not move; for the tiger might be close at his elbow. So he shut his eyes and remained motionless.

Then he thought he heard a strange noise at a little distance, a sound as of somebody sneezing. His first thought was that some on had come to the rescue and beaten the tiger off; but this was proved to be wrong by low, disagreeable, tigerish growls mingled with the sneezing.

He turned slowly. He could hardly believe his eyes. There was the tiger slinking off with his tail between his legs and sneezing violently as he went, his face distorted by most piteous grimaces.

The truth then dawned upon the soldier. In shaking him the tiger had caused his snuffbox to fly open out of his waistcoat pocket, and had received the contents full in the face.

After washing a China silk dress, do not hang it out to dry, but roll it up to dry, but roll it up in a it up in a towel for half an hour; then iron on the wrong side.

A bee unladen will fly 40 miles an hour, but one coming home laden with honey does not travel faster than 12 miles an hour.

China, Japan and Canada are said to be the only civilized countries having no bankruptcy.

LOCAL SYNDICATE GET LEASE OF BASEBALL FRANCHISE

As a resolution adopted by the Baseball Club last night, the franchise is leased to a local syndicate and all is well. While the members of the syndicate are not announced, the president said they were a body of businessmen who would give Peterborough a good baseball team and see that the game was conducted in a satisfactory manner.

The franchise is leased at a rental of $1 per year, the shareholders retaining the right to reclaim the franchise at the expiration of one or more years. The syndicate takes the chance to win or lose money. In any event, the franchise must be exercised for the full season.

Two other propositions were before the meeting. One was to conduct the team as formerly, by subscriptions and the other was to sell the franchise.

To operate the Club by subscriptions, it would be necessary to raise $2,500, sixty per cent. to be paid up by the 1st of March. The officers do not think this is possible.

However, it is provided that if sixty per cent. of the $2,500 is paid up by the 1st of March, the franchise will not be leased.

CANADIAN LEAGUE WELL FORTIFIED WITH MANAGERS

George Smith, Former Buffalo Player to Lead Erie Club

Bright days are apparently ahead of the Canadian Baseball league. From all league centres come reports of increased interest and enthusiasm caused by the jump into class B company and the possible addition of Toronto and Erie, and the possible addition of Youngstown to the circuit. Added to this is the manner in which the various club owners are rounding up managers and players of somewhat better caliber than those who have held sway in the past three years. From Buffalo comes the announcement that George Smith, the former International league player, has been secured by Owner George O'Neill as manager of the Erie club. Smith is a player of vast experience, and should prove a welcome addition to the circle of managers. In Toronto Eddie Holly, another International leaguer, will hold forth, while Curley Blount, a well known minor league pilot, will have charge in Peterboro. None are better than Frank Shaughnessy, the Ottawa manager, while London should be able to keep pace under Doc Reisling, the former big league twirler. Rube Deneau should be able to keep pace with this crowd and satisfy the Brantford fans. Midge Craven has the job at St. Thomas at present, but the possibility of a transfer of that franchise to Youngstown, Ohio, may result in a change. At present, Hamilton is the only club without a pilot, but things are moving along in good shape at present, and an announcement can be expected shortly.

Y.M.C.A. DOINGS

The Y.M.C.A. "Ponies" of the Senior Church League, defeated the All Saints' team last night at Brock street rink, the half-time score being 1 to 0 in favor of the Ponies, the final score 6 to 0. Len Dobson handled the bell in good shape.

The Y.M.C.A. team of the City League, will play a practice game with the "Ponies" of the Church Church League, on Brock street rink Monday night from 6 to 7 p. m. Every member of both teams is expected out.

The Life Problem Club is to be favored with an address by Dr. Moir on Sunday afternoon at 4.15. Dr. Moir has a message for men, and the largest turnout of the season is expected to-morrow.

The Y.M.C.A. hockey team of the Junior Church Hockey League, will play St. Andrew's church team at Parker's rink from 7 to 8 p.m. on Monday night.

Prof. Barnes was invited to come to Peterboro by the Technical Society.

BELLEVILLE AT COBOURG

Same Night as Petes Play in Whitby

AN EXCURSION

The postponement of last night's game between the local intermediates and Whitby has proven decidedly favorable to our septet. The O.H.A. has ordered all postponed games to be played among them being Cobourg at Belleville on Monday and Belleville at Cobourg on Wednesday. It is not at all improbable that the two lake-shore teams will split even and if they do and Peterborough scores a victory in Whitby the locals will have the championship of the district.

With prospects so favorable the boys are going down confident of winning. Arrangements have been made with the G.T.R. to run a special, which will leave here at five o'clock and return immediately after the game. Fare $1.50.

TWELVE CLUB CIRCUIT FOR INTERNATIONAL

Baseball Moguls Said to be Working on the Quiet.

New York, Jan.31.—Despite the fact that nothing has been given out concerning the proposed twelve-club circuit of the International League for next season, it is understood that President Barrow and other baseball moguls are working quietly on the scheme, which is intended to offset the Federals as much as possible.

According to the additional four cities mentioned, only one, Pittsburg, is slated to have a Federal League team next season. By playing clubs in Washington, Brooklyn and Cleveland, some International magnates contend that the new organization would have a harder row to hoe if it contemplates later to invade these cities.

More business is expected at the International League schedule meeting here next month than has transpired since the ousting of P. T. Powers as president of the circuit in December, 1910, and it is more than probable that the twelve circuit club will be put through. It is equally sure that the Federal League will be one of the chief topics, because of the Federals placing teams in Baltimore, Buffalo and Toronto, and undoubtedly the International circuit will be enlarged. The matter of the schedule itself looks as if it will be of minor importance.

Y.M.C.A. WIN SECOND GAME FROM ALL SAINT'S

A good hockey match in the Senior Church Hockey League was witnessed last night at the Brock street rink by a large number of fans, when All Saints' got a trimming from the Y.M.C.A. by 6—0.

Although All Saints' worked hard they failed to make a showing. They did not have their regular line-up and on the other hand the Y.M.C.A. played great hockey, their combination work being a feature of the game.

For the losers Wheeler played the best game, while Campbell was effective at times. The "Y" men all played well.

Stewart made some fine individual rushes and Austin on right wing made a good showing.

Len Dobson refereed to the satisfaction of both teams.

The teams:

Historic Medical Museum.

An Historical Medical Museum, officially connected with the forthcoming International Medical Congress, has been organized in London.

All epochs and most countries are represented in the series of exhibits which illustrate not only the main stream of medical culture and learning from the sages of antiquity—Hippocraes, Galen, Avicenna and the rest—but also the curious and often weird medical customs and beliefs of half-civilized tribes. Paintings of the great masters of medical art, relics of famous surgeons, masks, fetishes and charms of medicine men from savage lands, Babylonia and Egyptian sculptures, and the most up-to-date results of pathological investigation are exhibited. There are the reproductions in pictures and actual scenes of the apothecaries' shops from Roman times down to the eighteenth century, and the quaint illustrations of hospital work in the middle ages. The collection will form the nucleus of a permanent Historical Medical Museum in London.

WEDDING—PERSONAL

GARDEN—WATSON

A Calgary exchange says:—A quiet but pretty wedding took place in St. Stephen's Church on the afternoon of New Year's Day, when Marion Hazel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Watson, and John R. Garden, of the Garden Clothing Company, were united in marriage by the Rev. W. G. James, rector of St. Stephen's Church. The bride was given away by her father, and the attendants were Miss Jean Spence, and Mr. Harry Reid.

After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to Cronn's rathskeller, where a dainty luncheon was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Garden will spend their honeymoon in Honolulu and coast cities.

The groom has a number of friends in this city, as he worked here for some time. He came here from Bobcaygeon.

Mr. Sexsmith, M.P., and Mrs. Sexsmith were guests at Government House at the recent state dinner and also at the state ball on Thursday evening.

Miss Addie Dickson, of 321 Roger street, entertained about 25 members of the Mark street Methodist choir on Thursday evening. The evening was spent in choir practice, music and games, after which luncheon was served. A very pleasant time was spent by all present.

Miss Effie Fowler, who went to Macleod, Alta., last July, is improving in health and she will remain in the west for the remainder of the winter.

With ideal weather prevailing, the annual sleigh drive of the A.S.K. class of Knox Church of which Rev. H. J. Keith is the teacher, was held last night. There were some twenty people present, among them being a number of young ladies from the Sabbath School. The route of the drive was via Nassau and other points in that vicinity, returning to Coleman's, where a delightful luncheon was served. Mr. Everett Williamson, president of the class, presided at the table. After a number of songs and short addresses, the happy gathering dispersed.

The annual dance of No. 2 Company of the 57th Regiment, was held last night in the recreation room of the Armories. Some seventy-five couples were present, among them being Col. Clegg, Captain Watt, Major Mills, Lt. Tait, Lt. Russell, Lt. K. Lech, Lt. R. B. Brooks and their ladies. The music was supplied by the Grand Opera House Orchestra. Refreshments were served by Coleman Bros.

This was the third annual and was by far the most enjoyable of the three.

The next dance will be that of No. 6 Company, to be held on Feb. 23rd.

As usual a good line of specialties will be presented between acts and both Ernie Marks, the jolly comedian, and Kitty Marks, who has appeared here on many occasions, will appear at both performances.

WINTER IN ALGONQUIN PARK

Hundreds of Canadians and our cousins across the border have been enjoying the pleasures offered by Algonquin Provincial (Ontario) Park during the past two months. The Highland Inn, the Grand Trunk Hotel, in this wonderful territory, has been the scene of jolly crowds from all parts of the continent. In the past a southern trip seemed to be the best, and to seek for heat where th cold proved unendurable, but more recently there has been a keen appreciation of the dry frigidity of the north, and Algonquin Park is becoming more popular every winter. for those who desire rest and recreation. The territory is 2,000 feet above sea level and the air is always dry and cold and the days usually bright. Write any Grand Trunk agent, or to the resident manager of the Highland Inn, Algonquin Park Station, Ont., for handsome description booklet.

THE ELECTIONS

The Review has received a letter from an esteemed correspondent reviewing some incidents of the recent municipal campaign. Reference is made to the respective number of of votes cast in the West Ward election, and to the comparative success of the candidates. What he refers to is quite true but there is nothing to gain by opening up a matter now closed. There is always opportunity to try again, and in 1915 all candidates who were not successful may again take the field.

C.P.R. HAS MANY STOCK HOLDERS

The new issue of note certificates by the C.P.R., from which it purposes raising $42,000,000, draws attention to the wide diffusion of the stock of the company—a diffusion which has given it the remarkable stability it discloses and which at the same time guards it from predatory attack by reckless speculators or unscrupulous syndicates.

The C.P.R., in fact, is the third in 100 companies in point of numbers of its stockholders, Pennsylvania and Telephone head the list. The number grows every year. For instance, in 1912 the number was 41,300, whereas this year it was 48,000. The Atchison has 12,000 fewer stockholders than the C.P.R.

There is probably not a country in the civilized world in which the stockholders of the C.P.R. are not found. In India, the Hindu merchant has shares of C.P.R.; in China, Japan, even Persia, the fame of the company has spread; and thrifty people have put their surplus money into C.P.R. stock.

The C.P.R. stockholders are found in the South American republics. The latter are not always fighting. They take time to study the markets and have a shy at C.P.R. Even in Mexico, which is topsy turveydom at present, there are many shareholders of the company.

The record shows that: Atchison has 36,451 shareholders; C.P.R. 48,111; Central of New Jersey, 790; C. B. & Q., 333; C.S.P.M. and O.M., 1,123; Delaware and Hudson, 6,613; Kansas City Southern, 2,573; Louisville and Nashville, 4,386; Missouri Pacific, 5,039; C.R.I. & R. railway, 485; Rock Island Co., 4,158; Pere Marquete, 1,662; Southern Railway, 11,388; Texas and Pacific, 1,243. Altogether, these aggregate properties have 124,098 owners at present, with aggregate share capitalization of $1,484,892,039. Each holder has an average of 119.0 shares. The increase all over the properties during the year was 15,128 stockholders. Three of the companies made additions to share capitalization during the year. Atchison by the conversion of bonds, had $21,000,000 more stock outstanding on June 30th this year than on the same date last year. The C.P.R. added nearly $28,000,000 to the amount of publicly owned stock, but by direct issue of its own shares.

The Southern Seas.

Readers of old records of exploration in the South Seas will recall frequent references to the heavy swells of the ocean, which impressed the navigators with the idea of their remoteness from land. Doctor Vaughan Cornish explains the great size of the sea waves in high southern latitudes by the fact that south of the Cape of Good Hope the prevailing wind in all longitudes is westerly. Thus when a west wind springs up it finds a long westerly swell, the effect of a previous wind, still running. The new born wind increases the steepness of this swell, and so forms majestic storm waves which sometimes obtain a length of 1,200 feet from crest to crest. The average height attained by sea wave in feet is about half the velocity of the wind in miles per hour.

Esquires.

Two centuries ago, declares The London Chronicle, persons engaged in trade, even though of gentle blood, held they had no right to be addressed as "esquire." In the report of the historical manuscripts commission on the Welbeck Abbey papers appears a letter from Nathaniel Harley, merchant at Aleppo, to a correspondent in London, which concludes with the remark, "Pray, sir, inform your clerk who superscribes your letters that no merchants are wrote Esqs. but fools and coxcombs." And yet Nathaniel Harley was the brother of the Earl of Oxford, leader of the Tories, whom Swift proclaimed "the most virtuous minister and the most able that ever I remember to have read of."

Dust Laden Records.

Searching for important old manuscripts at the British public record office, whether by Shakespearean students or others, is disagreeable work. Nine-tenths of the manuscripts are covered with the dust of ages, and an hour among them makes the searcher as black as a sweep. Some of the documents are so fragile that they can scarcely be touched without their falling to pieces, such as those rescued from the House of Lords fire in 1834, which were so hopelessly saturated with water that bundles of them had to be squeezed dry in powerful presses. It has been estimated that it would take fifty housemaids fifty years to spring clean the contents of the record office.

Sandals are worn by nearly 300,000,000 natives of India.

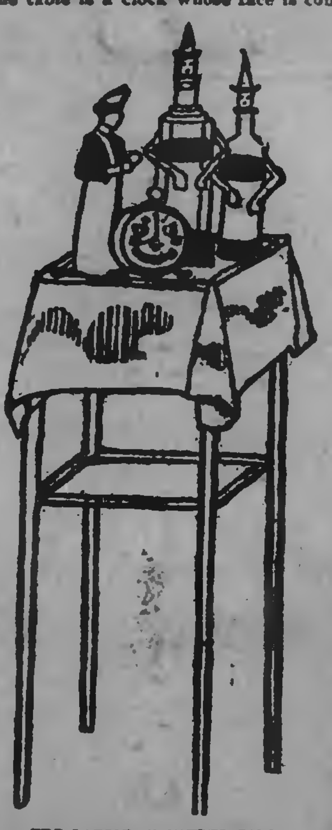
WEE WONDER TABLE.

Attractive Way to Administer Medicine to Small Children.

Persons, especially mothers, who have known the care of wee invalids and know how difficult it is to make them take the medicines prescribed from the ordinary bottles or, in fact, to make them eat from the ordinary food receptacles will be glad to know of the "wonder" table. It is made of white enameled wood with square top and legs, but covered with the most remarkable white oilcloth cover, with animals and birds in colors pasted on its sides. Furthermore, on the top of the table is a clock whose face is constantly watching for the hour when it is time for the good things to be served, and its face is so like that of the man in the moon that they sorely must be brothers. Then the very bottles are interesting, for they have faces on their corks, with dunce caps above them, and comfortable paper arms folded across their bulging sides.



THE LATEST IN USEFUL TOYS.

And with great forethought the inventor has arranged for two sets of faces and arms so that no matter on which side the nurse sets the bottle the little medicine friend is still watching the wee invalid. Then there is a tiny doll girl nurse with blue striped gown, collar, cuffs, apron and cap, just like the big nurse who is doing the real work in the sickroom, whose business it is to stand right by the bottles and see that everything is orderly and that the medicine friends give their "quick get well" doses on time.

Then there are some funny little drinking ducks which look just like the real pond ducks, but have hollow backs to hold the liquid for the wee thirsty one. Odd little food carriers also go with the table, and it is great fun to eat chicken jelly from a little wooden tub or to eat tiny toast squares out of a little glass coal bucket. But all the little table has to offer helps amazingly to pass the time and furnishes mother and nurse food for never to be forgotten stories.

KING OF SIAM IS STILL A BACHELOR AT THIRTY-FOUR

Vajravudh Has Imbibed Western Ideas Regarding Many Things, Including Matrimony, and Refuses to Follow in the Footsteps of His Father.

When the young King — than Prince—of Siam turned his back upon the beauties of the court and would have none of them, he established a record of celibacy unheard of in that far Eastern land.

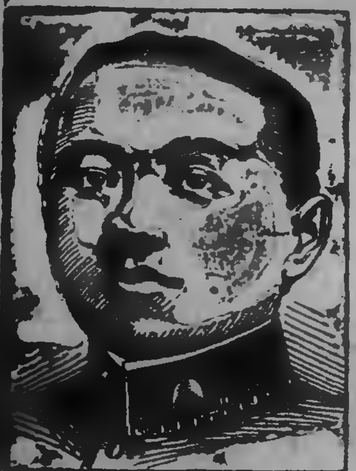
Now marriage by a Siamese sovereign means not the simple taking of one life-partner, but the complicated and interesting absorption of a hundred of them.

The late King Chulalongkorn possessed three spouses when he was crown prince; this number he increased to five score when he ascended the throne; his father before him had many hundreds of wives.

The action of the present young monarch is therefore all the more astounding to the Siamese mind.

And yet the Siamese ladies are among the most beautiful of women. They are pleasant companions, loyal, and make ideal wives, and surely a hundred or even fifty of them combined ought to be able to satisfy even the most fastidious and exacting of husbands.

And still young King Vajiravudh refuses to wed! A feasible reason might be that he had formed some attachment, lawful or otherwise, while he was on travel and study bent, but to oppose this theory there was never a suspicion of scandal attached to the prince when he was at Sandhurst, and Christ's College, Oxford. Neither did any amatory episode come to light during his visits to Paris, Berlin, Madrid, Vienna and London, when he was at the most impressionable of ages.



THE KING OF SIAM.

Not a word during his trip through the United States.

Prince Vajiravudh, during his sojourn abroad, became deeply imbued with the Western idea of monogamy, and since he is to marry but one wife, he desires a very pearl among women as his only spouse. And if he acts towards her as he acts in all other matters pertaining to his country and to himself, he will make his queen the most envied bride in the country.

The lucky lady of his choice, by the way, will be the bride of a pleasant-looking young man of thirty-four, who graduated at Oxford and Heidelberg, is a delightful conversationalist, speaks and writes several European and Asiatic languages, has written well in prose and poetry, is a good horseman, fencer, and all-round sportsman.

Ever since the days of King Mongkut a very sociable and charming colony of Europeans and Americans has been established in the capital. There are half-a-dozen clubs within a few miles of the city, and this increasing social element needs a leader, and who so appropriate as the queen?

But the king of Siam looks for more than this in his white wife; he needs her help to carry out the stupendous ideas he holds for his country's and his people's welfare.

Already, in the three years he has sat upon the throne, he has shown of what stuff kings are made. He has carried out the wishes of his father in affairs of state and religion; he has altered or entirely changed when he considered necessary; he has pressed many young men into new positions. Prince [illegible], the present ambassador at Washington, is only thirty, and also graduate of an English 'varsity.

At his coronation he in as many words declared to his Western friends: "Whatever I may have gained from the West I shall engraft upon the East, but my people must remain essentially Siamese."

To help him to elevate his subjects is why Vajiravudh desires a white woman as his bride; to help him to make his nation recognized among the greater nations of the world as one of more than local and [illegible] importance!

Short Lived Guns.

In a lecture at Sheffield Professor [illegible] O. Arnold stated that, though the big naval guns take about seven months to build, and cost perhaps about $150,000, their average life was eight seconds. The gun is capable of firing about 200 rounds, when erosion so attacks the gun tube as to render the firing inaccurate. You fire 200 rounds of shell, and the time that each shell is in the gun is .04 of a second. That works out that the actual working life of each of these guns is about eight seconds.

GEM-DIGGING.

What a Life of Liberty Is Like In Maoriland.

Of all the many jobs I have had the only one I really liked was gum-digging, says a writer in London Answers. That was a jolly time! Few have heard of gum-digging, and no wonder, for New Zealand is far away, and there is no other place on the globe where gum-digging is done.

The gum comes from a magnificent tree called the kauri. This tree is now pretty scarce, but ages ago immense forests must have covered most of the northern part of the North Island. These forests were swept away by fire, and to-day the landscape is mostly low brown hills with occasional swamps.

Gum burns very easily, but such as was covered by the dank forest debris escaped the fire. Hardened and preserved through uncountable ages, this is the gum the digger seeks today.

By simply paying 5s. a year you may wander and dig where you like over enormous areas of Government lands.

All you require is a spear to locate the gum, a spade to dig it, and a bag to put it in. When you get home at night you scrape and assort it according to size and quality. The whole business can be learnt in a day or two. After that it is all a matter of luck.

Perhaps you will begin to think there is nothing so very enjoyable in all that. But really there is. In digging you enjoy the excitement of gambling without incurring the sin. And then to work for yourself when you like, where you like, and how you like is delightful beyond belief. Also you are free to live as your fancy turns, and to have as many friends as you wish or—as few.

My own choice was a beautiful tent pitched within a stone's throw of a lovely inlet at the foot of a high, steep, forest-clad hill. I may not pause to describe the exquisite details of my dwelling. Suffice that it was an artist's dream of light, loveliness, sweetness, and convenience.

A spring of crystal water bubbled at the door. Magnificent big trees grew on every hand, bursting into clouds of snow, or gold, or crimson, according to their species or the season of the year.

Then there was my little sailing boat, snow white with green relief. It lay on the soft sand in the shadow of the "Christmas" tree at the ebb or danced to the dimples on the water when the tide was in.

The waters of the inlet swarmed with fish of the most delicious varieties, and the ease with which they might be caught is seen in the fact that when I fancied a fish for tea or breakfast I would stand on the rocks with my line and, to save the trouble of cutting up, throw back the fish as they came until I hooked one not only of a favorite sort, but also of a size to fit my frying pan. Of course for sport I used to go out in my boat.

I was fairly lucky at digging, averaging 7s. 6d. for every day I worked. But I didn't work every day. About twenty days a month were plenty for me. The other days were given to pleasure or repose. Extra hot days I would lie in my hammock, swung between two enormous trees, reading or drowsing, or go for an occasional swim.

During most of the year the climate is delicious. Pyjamas rolled up to the knee make an ideal costume, but a bathing suit is just as good. Of course, you don't go to work in these.

On Sundays I would receive visitors or pay visits to the camps of neighboring diggers, but this was a courtesy likely to happen any day of the week.

Cost of Living.

Eggs at 7 cents each may do for table ornaments.—New York World.

Cigarettes have advanced in price. Of what importance now are increases in cost of beefsteak and eggs?—New York Tribune.

The report that Pike's peak was sinking proves to have been unfounded. The peak isn't going down any faster than the cost of living.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Sir George Paish, editor of the Statist, offers the welcome prediction that the cost of living is to fall. But more welcome than experts' predictions would be lower prices over the counter.—Exchange.

West's First Flax Factory.

The appalling waste of valuable flax fibre each year is emphasized in the statement that, in 1913, the flax fields of the West have produced over two million tons of flax straw, representing four hundred thousand tons of fibre, and that all of this wealth of raw material is now in ashes and scattered to the four corners of those broad western plains.

There is, however, one little spot on the plains where flax straw is not regarded as rubbish, to be burned and got rid of as soon as the harvest is over. Away southwest of Saskatoon, on the Goose Lake branch of the Canadian Northern, at the bright little town of Rosetown, flax straw is being used for purposes of manufacture in the first flax factory to be established anywhere in Western Canada.—Norman Lambert in Industrial Canada.

LADY VICTORIA PERY

Gustav Hamel, flying in a Morane-Saulnier monoplane with Lady Victoria Pery as a passenger, recently looped the loop twice and made an upside down flight at Hendon, England.

Lady Victoria Pery is the daughter of the Earl and Countess of Limerick, a peerage which was created in 1790.

Mr. Hamel is one of the most prominent aviators in England and was one of the first in that country to take up aviation. In all his flights he has used a Morane-Saulnier monoplane and, with the exception of several minor accidents, has always been successful in his flights.

DECREPIT HORSE TURNED TIDE AGAINST THE BARS

Just a Year Has Passed Since Dobbin Was Hitched Up in a Western Ontario Town to Take Voters to the Polls—Just Two Votes Won.

"Dobbin, the Local Option Horse," is worthy of a place in the gallery of famous animals, already occupied by such heroes as Black Beauty, Beautiful Joe, and the dogs of St. Bernard. Dobbin is an Ontario celebrity, a product of that romance which surrounds local option contests in this province. The people of our big cities have no share in this romance; most of them do not even realize the peculiarly human and interesting nature of the local option battles, for up to the present at least this variety of elections has been confined to the rural districts, to the towns, and to an occasional small city, says Main Johnson in Toronto Star Weekly.

When a local option contest is in progress, it affects not only the section of men naturally and constitutionally interested in politics, such as the soap box debaters in the general stores, but all the men, all the women, most of the children, and sometimes the very horses.

This Dobbin (he is still alive, and one of the show sights of the village) lives in a small municipality in Western Ontario. He is almost a year older than he was last January, but even then he was an aged horse. On the day of the local option vote, however, a horse wasn't asked his age; he was simply put between the shafts and told to draw voters to the polls. Dobbin might justly have been excused, but he wasn't. The "antis" had brought several automobiles into the village, and the temperance people, kind-hearted as they were, had to use every horse that could stand on even three legs.

As the end of the day approached, the workers felt that the voting had been very evenly balanced, and that the result was much in doubt. Almost every vote had been polled on both sides. The "antis," in fact, had brought in every single supporter, and now, at 4.45 p.m., were wishing that the time would go as fast as light, and that five o'clock would come without any more temperance votes.

The "antis," however, were not reckoning on the despised "Dobbin." The woman who had driven him all day had decided that she had brought in every possible voter, and had turned Dobbin towards home. Suddenly, however, she felt a weight on her heart, and a conviction arose within her that something had to be done to stave off inevitable defeat. At first, she was helpless in her perturbation, but a way out suddenly appeared. She had to bring old Michael to the polls; Michael was the oldest man in the village, and had been confined to his home for three years. The workers had thought of him all day, but they had decided against the risk of bringing him out of the house. Their fear was further increased by a violent storm of rain, which had rolled up about half-past three.

Dobbin's mistress, however, heeded neither the old man's confinement nor the rain. She drove the horse to Michael's house, and despite the rather feeble protests of his wife, bundled him up in a fur coat and a blanket, and carried him bodily to the buggy. Then she whipped Dobbin and urged him to use all four of his legs.

As they jogged along to the poll they passed a woman holding her umbrella down in front of her face to protect herself from the driving rain. After Dobbin's driver (let us call her Mrs. Petit), had driven half a block past the other woman, she reined up and thought to herself, "I believe that was Mrs. Morton, the school teacher. I wonder if she voted at noon or if she is just going to the booth now? Should I run the risk of losing Michael's vote by going back for Mrs. Morton, or should I make sure of Michael alone?"

This line of thought took only on instant, and just as quickly was Mrs. Petit's mind made up. She turned back, drove up to Mrs. Morton, made sure that it was she, and then drew up the buggy along the curb. "You haven't a minute to lose," called out Mrs. Petit. "If you don't jump in here and quickly at that, we'll never get you to the voting place." Mrs. Morton climbed in, and then the job actually became a race. Dobbin rose to the occasion, displayed remarkable intelligence, and for the first time in years, found how to use his fourth leg freely. The small boys on the street stopped their play in amazement as what was once lame Dobbin, but what now looked like a fire horse, flew past. True, there was a deal of heavy breathing and much grunting and snorting, but the race was on!

The scrutineers at the booth thought it was a runaway in the distance. The "anti" man, personally brave, ran into the street to stop the horse, but fell back in astonishment when he saw Dobbin and the occupants of the buggy. The temperance scrutineer fortunately did not lose his wits. With a "Why, tis five o'clock!" he dashed into the middle of the road, picked up Old Michael in his arms, and made for the door of the booth. Mrs. Petit in the meantime was literally shoving Mrs. Morton out. The latter also ran to the polling place. The watch of the "anti" man showed a fraction of a minute after five, and he protested against the recording of any more votes. The other man's watch was half a minute to five, and he claimed the right to poll the votes. A third watch, that of the returning officer's, was decisive. It said one minute to five. Both Michael and Mrs. Morton marked their ballots. When the total vote was tabulated, local option had won by exactly the three-fifths requirement.

An Ironing Pad.

An economical and really excellent pad for cleaning and testing hot irons is made of several layers of heavy brown paper. This may be renewed each ironing day and is quite satisfactory. For a fine polish a little wax or paraffin should be used.

AN EXPERT GEOLOGIST.

W. G. Miller, One of the Most Eminent In the Dominion.

Mr. Willet Green Miller, Provincial Geologist of Ontario, who was recently honored by being tendered a public dinner at Toronto, which was attended by many leading men from all parts of Canada, is one of the most eminent of the practical geologists of Canada. He has been prominent in exploration work in the coal mines of the Canadian Atlantic coast, the silver mines of Ontario, and the gold mines of the British Columbia Kootenay. Mr. Miller graduated from Toronto University and accepted a position as assistant in field geology in the Canadian geological survey, and later accepted a position as lecturer in geology and petrography, at Queen's University. Later he was promoted to a professorship and, eleven years ago, was appointed provincial geologist and inspector of mines for Ontario. He had already, while at Queen's, done useful geological work for the provincial geological department, in charge of Eastern Ontario field work for the Bureau of Mines.

Mr. Miller's success has been due to his efforts to make his geological investigations of practical value to prospectors and miners, holding that the geologist is merely the scientific explorer and guide for the prospector and miner. He was born in the Township of North Walsingham, County of Norfolk, and educated at Port Rowan High School, before going to Toronto University, where he took his B. A. with first class honors in natural science, and later his M.A. Subsequently he studied at the Universities of Chicago, Harvard and Heidelberg, Queen's University, Kingston conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL.D. He is also an F.R.S.G. and an honorary member of the Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. He was president of the Canadian Mining Institute for two years and a delegate to the International Geological Congress at Mexico. He is the author of Minerals and How They Occur," and of papers on geological and mining subjects in several periodicals and in the annual reports of the Bureau of Mines. He was appointed a governor of Kingston School of Mining three years ago.—Chesterfield in Montreal Star.

Canadian Peaches.

Large consignments of Ontario peaches have again been made to the British markets this year. The favorable reception accorded to Ontario's fruit has created considerable interest among the peach-growers in the province, and the export trade bears every sign of reaching large proportions. Maturing as it does about October, the Ontario crop reaches to Great Britain in between the South African, English and French peach seasons. So far as Ontario is concerned this export trade is an extremely important factor. In the early days, when there was only the local market to supply, the area set to peaches was restricted. Later, when the markets of the west were opened, the supply was found insufficient, with the result that further lands were put under crop. At one time it was commonly supposed that the lands on which peaches could be profitably raised were confined to the Niagara district, and the land bordering the lakes. When a few years ago the first shipments were made to Great Britain, the growers found they could make far larger profits, and each successive years there has been a rush to join this profitable business. The experimenters got to work, and found out that many areas which were not considered suitable for the cultivations of peaches have turned out to be satisfactory in every respect. There is every prospect that the peach area will be very much widened in the future.

A CHIP OFF OLD BLOCK

AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN SAID TO BE BOSS OF PARTY.

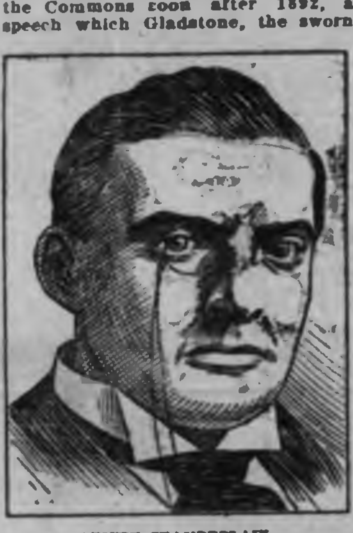
Noted British Tariff Reformer Is Described In Political Circles as the Real Leader of the Unionists and the Power Behind Bonar Law—Was a Conspicuous Cabinet Minister While In Power.

Austen Chamberlain, son of the famous "Joe" Chamberlain, long the Conservative power in England, is following in the footsteps of his sire. The fact that the other day Austen celebrated his 50th birthday awoke England to the fact that the "young man' 'is getting along and that time passes.

Austen is so much like his father that he imitates the elder leader even to the orchid in his buttonhole and the monocle that characterized the great political foe of Gladstone. Perhaps that is the great fault England finds with the young man. Certainly the country has no fault to find with his ability and industry.

As a matter of fact, Austen Chamberlain is the real leader of the Conservative party in England to-day, the titular head of the party, Bonar Law, being a compromise man.

He entered British politics in 1888, making his famous maiden speech in the Commons soon after 1892, a speech which Gladstone, the sworn foe of the elder Chamberlain said "must have ecomium, by the way," which they say brought tears to the eyes of the Hon. Joseph. For Austen has been the special pride of his father, who supervised his son's education and early training to a degree quite unprecedented in England. The young man was a Rugby school boy and a Cambridge man.



AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN.

While the Conservatives were in power, Austen Chamberlain held responsible offices, discharging their duties with conspicuous ability. He was Civil Lord of the Admiralty, Postmaster-General and Chancellor of the Exchequer. It is because he knows the ins and outs of the last mentioned office that he is such a thorn in the flesh to Hon. David Lloyd-George, the present incumbent.

Personally, they say, Austen is a stickler for neatness. It is reported that he used to go over his desk and chair, when he was in office, with a white-gloved hand to find dust. If the glove was soiled, there was a "call" coming for the luckless cleaner.

It was his father's idea that marriage hampered a young man's career, and Austen withstood all the darts of Cupid until seven years ago, when he surprised officialdom by marrying. It is said that, if the Tories were restored to power to-day, Austen Chamberlain would be made Premier.

Named After Statesmen.

It is regarded as a special honor when the British crown permits the name of one of its statesmen to be bestowed upon a new city. Queen Victoria was considered to have greatly distinguished in this fashion the late Earl of Kimberley, when she authorized him during his tenure of the secretaryship of state for the colonies, to give his name to the city of Kimberley, now one of the great centres of the diamond mining industry in South Africa.

The real economic and political metropolis of the huge commonwealth of Australia, that is, Melbourne, is indebted for its name to that Lord Melbourne, who was the first prime minister of Queen Victoria's reign, as well as her mentor, and instructor in statecraft.

Wellington, in New Zealand, takes its name from the Iron Duke, who won for England the battle of Waterloo and Auckland and Canterbury in the same Dominion, from Lords Canterbury and Auckland. Lewis Harcourt is now to be commemorated in a similar fashion; the only man to be thus honored since Lord Kimberley.

Prescription for Long Life.

Lord Frederick Fitzroy who has served the Empire in the navy and the army, and as a member of Parliament, ascribes his length of days to the fact that he has always had plenty to do. That, no doubt, is a most valuable prescription. But something also must be attributed to the inherent longevity of his family, for, while Lord Frederick is 91, his brother, the Duke of Grafton, is still hale and hearty at 93. About two years ago, he broke his leg and recovered from the accident. Lord and Lady Frederick have just celebrated their diamond wedding.

HERBERTS MARRIED, LAW SAYS

Former Judgment is Set Aside by Appeal Court

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—Judgment in the Hebert marriage annulment case setting aside as unnecessary that of Judge Charbonneau, was delivered by the review or appeal court of the Province of Quebec, here yesterday, composed of Justice Tellier, Delorimiere, and Greenshields. The Heberts are thus legally married once again.

Fours Years Old

The Hebert suit has been now before the courts in one form or another for nearly four years and has been rendered important because through it, is challenged the validity of the contentions of Roman Catholics in Quebec, that the Provincial law upholds the church law in regard to marriage and that Catholics not married by a priest are considered to be living in adultery.

The particular church law in this case—the ne temere decree—was invoked by the plaintiff, Eugene Hebert, to secure from Mgr. Paul Bruchesi, archbishop of Montreal, on November 12, 1909, an ecclesiastical annulment of his marriage to Emma Clouatre, in 1908, because it was performed by a Methodist minister, the contracting parties being Roman Catholics. The ecclesiastical nullification was given civil effect by Judge Laurendeau on November 23, 1911.

Causes Excitement

The decision caused immense excitement among Protestants in Canada, and when Mrs. Hebert appealed against the divorce, the proceedings, which took place before Judge Charbonneau, were followed with the closest attention, not only in the Dominion, but throughout the United States and Great Britain. Mrs. Hebert retired from the suit at the beginning of the appeal, but Judge Charbonneau's decision was unnecessary and that the decistment automatically quashed the Laurendeau finding.

She is Unsatisfied

The parties are thus left civilly in exactly the same position as they were before the case came before Judge Laurendeau, and after the Catholic church had pronounced their marriage as null and void.

Mrs. Hebert is not satisfied with the judgment as she would like a clear decision on her marriage and not a technical remarriage as she got today.

The review courts judgment does not pass on the vital question as to whether Protestant ministers can legally marry Catholics in Quebec at all.

IN MISERY AT MEAL TIME

Indigestion Can Be Cured by the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

If your digestion is weak you cannot derive proper nourishment from your food. The pain and distress you suffer is a protest from your stomach that it is unable to do its work. It is then that you lose all appetite, have dull headaches, acute pains in the chest and abdomen, heartburn and other distressing symptoms.

You cannot cure indigestion by the use of laxatives, and pre-digested foods only make the stomach more sluggish. Indigestion can only be cured by giving tone to and strengthening the nerves that control the stomach. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured indigestion times without number, because they purify and enrich the blood. In this way they improve the appetite dispel the torments of indigestion and enable you to derive benefit from the food you take. The following is proof of these statements. Mrs. George Brien, Great Shemogue, N.B., says: "A few years ago I was taken down with a fever which left me suffering from nervous stomach trouble. I apparently got over it, but the trouble could not have been wholly eradicated, as during the summer of 1912, I was taken down with it again. I took many medicines, and was attended by two different doctors, but instead of getting well seemed to be growing worse. I could not eat without suffering the most intense pains; even a drink of milk seemed to upset me. I slept poorly and at last dreaded to see night come. In this condition I saw in a newspaper the story of a woman who had similarly suffered and was cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I decided to try the Pills and found by the time I had taken three boxes that they were helping me. I continued using the Pills until I had taken eight boxes, when the trouble had disappeared, and I have to thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for restoring my health after I had practically given up hope of ever being well again."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A NEW AMSTERDAM NEW ← YEAR →

By F. A. MITCHEL

New Year's day has changed in a generation from what it was for 300 or more years. Till some thirty years ago it was devoted to making calls. The Dutchmen who settled New York, then called New Amsterdam, early in the seventeenth century, brought the custom with them from Holland. On the first New Year's day in the little town nestling about the fort on the point of Manhattan Island probably not a hundred, possibly not fifty, men made calls.

From where the New York custom house now stands east, west and north, for a distance perhaps of 500 yards, which embraced the town, on Jan. 1, the good housewives having spent the previous week in scrubbing, sweeping, dusting and polishing their houses, put on all the petticoats they possessed and in cap and collar sat themselves down in their parlors to receive callers.

Now, the day before one of the earliest of these New Year's days a bargain was struck between Katrina Van Gaasbeck and her mother. Frau Van Gaasbeck wished her daughter to marry Diedrich Van Dusen, a rich shipowner, while Katrina preferred Anthony Van Horn, a young fur trader. I have called the former of these men a rich shipowner, and he certainly was, for he was the possessor of a sloop fully thirty feet long, on which he carried supplies to the settlers along the East river as far as Hell Gate and along the North river as far as Spuyten Duyvil.

The bickerings between mother and daughter had for months past been embittering the life of the husband and father, Peter Van Gaasbeck. No sooner did he come home from his work in the evening, pour out a cup of schnapps and light his pipe than the clatter commenced, and he was driven distracted. On this day before New Year's that has been mentioned when the turmoil commenced he cried out:

"Settle this matter between you, or, by St. Nicholas, I will go back to Holland on the next ship that sails, leaving you two here to fight it out!"

"How settle it?" asked mother and daughter at once.

"Tomorrow will be New Year's day. Some time between morning and evening Diedrich Van Dusen and Anthony Van Horn will each make a call here. Let it be agreed between you that the one who calls nearest to the stroke of the town clock at noon shall be the favored suitor."

Frau Van Gaasbeck was loath to accept this arrangement, for she did not trust her daughter, and Katrina was loath to accept it because she did not trust her mother, but each consented, thinking herself sufficiently sharp to outwit the other.

Then Peter settled himself to his bottle of schnapps and his pipe with great contentment.

Before 9 o'clock that night, when all New Amsterdamers were in bed, the suitors had each been informed by the one who favored him of the arrangement and instructed to make his call at the moment the clock struck 12. Diedrich Van Dusen arose at cockcrow and spent the time between then and noon watching the hands of the town clock. At 8 he put on a second pair of breeches, and every half hour after that he put on another pair, so that by 11 o'clock he was so incased that he resembled a hogshead of gin set upon end on a couple of bricks.

At five minutes of 12 he cast a last glance at the clock and proceeded to the house of Frau Van Dusen. He was received with smiles by both mother and daughter, which made him feel very comfortable, for his rival was not there, it being a minute or two of 12 o'clock, and he had certainly won. He did not hear the clock strike, for Katrina talked so loudly that he could not have heard a gun fired on the Battery, but a hundred yards distant. When he had been in the house half an hour he withdrew, giving place to other callers.

Diedrich Van Dusen went home and was taking off some of his breeches, laughing gleefully at having got ahead of his rival, when he heard the town clock strike 1.

"It is 1 of the clock," he said.

He had scarcely spoken when there came another stroke. He stopped, with a pair of breeches half off, and listened. There was another and another stroke. When he had counted eleven he paled, and when the twelfth came he was beside himself with anxiety. Pulling on the breeches that he had half removed, he went outside and looked at the clock. The hands stood at 12. Running to Frau Van Dusen's, he looked in through a window and saw his rival with a sausage in one hand and a cup of schnapps in the other. As he looked Anthony swallowed the schnapps.

Diedrich declared that something had gone wrong with the clock, but everybody said:

"How many calls had you made, Diedrich, and how much schnapps had you drunk?"

So the poor man got no satisfaction. After the wedding between Anthony and Katrina the bride confessed that her lover, stationed in the belfry, had seen Diedrich call and had then set the clock back. When Diedrich went away Anthony put the clock at five minutes of 12, then went down, to arrive at the Van Dusens' exactly at the stroke of 12.

Wanted the Banks Behind Him.

Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General of Ontario, has been looked upon as one of the wits of the Cabinet, but this does not mean that he is not capable of a mild joke at times. Shortly before the last provincial election, he met Wm. Banks, sr., the present theatrical censor of Toronto, and in the course of conversation asked if there was anything new in local Liberal circles.

"Nothing that I know of," answered the genial Banks, "except that the boys are urging me to come out against you in South Toronto."

"Good!" exclaimed Mr. Foy. "These elections are getting to be such expensive affairs that there is nothing I would like better than to have the Banks behind me in this contest."

An Unshakable Witness.

A London lawyer, who has been prominent in both municipal and fraternal circles, boasts of being a self-made man, and confirms his claim by lapsing occasionally into atrocious infractions of the rules of grammar. One day in police court he began his cross-examination of a witness with these words: "Then you was walking down the street when you seen the defendant, was you."

The witness, who happened to be a public school principal, paused as though giving the question due reflection, and then ejaculated solemnly and portentously:

"I were!"

School Population of Quebec.

Quebec province is full of children. This year, according to Government figures, 370,200 children attended the Catholic schools and 52,400 the Protestant schools. There are no "public" schools so called in that province. A school registration of 422,615 out of a total population of 2,000,000 seems to be pretty fair.—Canadian Courier.

For the Children

Two Little Girls Posing in the Snow.

Winter is a jolly season for little people, even if grown folks don't seem to care much about cold and snow. Children have the happy faculty of enjoying whatever season it happens to be, for each has its special games and sports. Springtime brings the flowers, summer for picnics, boating and bathing, autumn is the season for nut gathering, but when Jack Frost comes is the best time of all. Sleds and skates and sleigh rides are but a few of the joys of winter. Warmly clad in cold defying garments, it is a pleasure just to play in the snow. Snowballing and snow houses interest the boys and many girls as well. It is fun, too, to wander in the fields or parks after a fresh fall of snow and note the tracks of beast and bird. Take it altogether, old Boreas is a friend of the little folk. The two girls pictured in winter array are the Misses Arpence and Ardius Tavshanjian of New York city. They were playing in the park when the photographer happened along.

Game of Plum Pudding.

The players sit at a table with a plate on it to represent a plum pudding. A tin plate is best as being light and unbreakable. Each player takes the name of some article of food or something used at dinner. One tells a story about a plum pudding and when he utters the name spins the plate and mentions some other dish. The person who has taken that name instantly gives the plate another twirl and continues the story, spinning the plate when it begins to slow down until he names another player, who must catch the plate before it falls, keep it twirling and go on with the story.

Plum pudding must be brought into each story and its continuation and the plate never allowed to fall. The story may be like this: "It was Christmas, and we were all at my grandmother's house. She let me help her order the dinner. Of course there was a plum pudding (spin the plate) of great size, and we all liked it better than mince pie." Mince pie must then catch the spinning plate, give it a fresh impetus and go on with the story: "In which they showed bad taste, I think, for, while mince pies are fine at Christmas, I should prefer plum pudding to roast chestnuts." Roast chestnuts seizes the plate and goes on: "Yes, but they are for dessert. I think plum pudding would be better than cranberry tart." And so the game goes on till all are tired or wits give out.

Any one letting the plate fall or failing to continue the story pays a forfeit or leaves the game, as arranged beforehand.

Some Animals In Winter.

During the autumn all kinds of bears become very fat in consequence of the ample feasts they make in preparation for passing the cold and inhospitable months of winter. When they have prepared their winter quarters they cease feeding and remain through the winter in a dull, lethargic state. Some kinds of animals that hide away in winter are not sound asleep all of the time. The blood moves a little, and when it is mild they wake up enough to eat. The curious thing is that they know this beforehand and lay something to eat close by them when they go into winter quarters. But those that do not wake up do not lay up food. The little field mouse stores up nuts and grain and eats them when he is partly awake on a warm day. The bat does not need to do this, for the warmth that awakens him brings out the insects on which he feeds. When he is going to sleep again he hangs himself up by his hind claws. The woodchuck lays up dried grasses beside him so that they may be ready the first thing when he awakens in the spring, that he may eat and be strong before he comes out of his hole.

The Squirrel's Vacation.

"Hurrah for vacation!"
Cried Squirrelie Grey.
"Now is the time
For wood folk to play.

"A round summer house
I built in a tree.
I roofed it with oak leaves
As neat as could be.

"My five furry babies
I tended with care.
One took a prize
At the last forest fair.

"My acorns and chestnuts
Are all stored away,
Many a meal
For a cold, stormy day.

"And now 'tis vacation!
Come, wood folk, and play!
Hurrah for some fun!"
Shouted Squirrelie Grey.

EXPLORER'S TABLET.

Memento of Chevalier de la Verendrye Has Been Struck Off.

The Manitoba Free Press of Winnipeg has marked the Christmas season of 1913 by the presentation of a relic of unique historic interest. This is an exact reproduction in miniature of the lead tablet deposited on March 30, 1743, in a bluff overlooking the Missouri river by the Chevalier de la Verendrye as evidence of his having taken possession by right of discovery for the King of France of the whole northwestern part of what is now the United States, together with a large part of what is now Western Canada, as far as the Rocky Mountains. The original tablet, now treasured by the Government of the State of North Dakota, was found in March last by a young girl while playing with her companions near the public school of Fort Pierre, which is on the west bank of the Missouri river, across from the city of Pierre, the capital of North Dakota. The Chevalier de la Verendrye holds a high place on the long roll of French explorers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, who blazed their way across the vast untrodden regions of the continent. It was in September, 1738, that Pierre de la Verendrye and his youngest son, Francois, arrived at the junction of the Red and Assiniboine rivers, the first white men to view the site of the city of Winnipeg.

The tablet, which is about eight inches wide, contains on its obverse side a Latin inscription as follows: "Anno XXVI. Regni Ludovici XV. Pro Rege Illustrissimo Domino Marchione de Beauharnois MDCCXXXI. Petrus Gaultier de la Verendrye Posuit." That is "In the twenty-sixth year of the reign of Louis V., in the name of the King, our most illustrious Sovereign, and of Monsieur the Marquise of Beauharnois, Pierre Gaultier de la Verendrye placed (this tablet) 1741." On the reverse side, cut in French by the point of a dagger, is inscribed: "Pose par le Chevalyer de la Vr. to St. Louy la Londette, A. Miette le 30 Mars 1743." Translated this means: "Deposited by the Chevalier de la Verendrye. Witnesses, St. Louis la Londette, A. Miotte. March 30, 1743." The difference in the dates is due to the fact that the first was stamped at Quebec, where the Marquis de Beauharnois, Governor of Canada, at the time, gave the tablet to de la Verendrye as he was setting out in search for the Western Sea.

In an effort to discover the Western Sea, which it was then believed was a comparatively small body of water separating North America from the Orient, Chevalier de la Verendrye, traveling with a party of warriors of Bow Indians, saw for the first time the Rocky Mountains on New Year's Day, 1743. He decided to cross the mountains, and behold the Western Sea but found it necessary after burying the tablet to return to Fort la Reine, the site of the present City of Portage la Prairie, where his father was awaiting him. For thirteen years father and sons had followed the dream of the Western Sea in vain, but they discovered a sea of prairies, a sea of mountains, and two great rivers, the Saskatchowan and the Missouri.

A Missionary Hero.

Bishop Stringer of the Yukon is one of the most heroic men of the Church of England in Canada. The record of his life bristles with stirring incidents, which read more like a romance than deeds of modern days. In 1892 he became missionary to the Eskimos on Herschell Island, in the Arctic Ocean. Here he and Mrs. Stringer worked for years, and here their second child, Herschell, was born. Their lives were often in great danger from the savage Eskimos of those days. When Bishop Bompas died in 1906 Mr. Stringer became his successor. He had been forced to leave Herschell Island owing to failing eyesight and had taken up his station at White Horse, in the Yukon.

Bishop Stringer has in the Yukon a diocese of 200,000 square miles, and it is necessary for him to be continually on the move from place to place. His principal places are Dawson, White Horse and Carcross. At the latter town a large government school has been built for the Indian children, and is in charge of the bishop. Work is carried on among the whites and Indians. Of the latter there are about one thousand and nearly all belong to the Church of England.

Has Ancient Inca Mummy.

T. G. Taylor, of Halifax, N.S., and Chili, has brought an Inca mummy, 2,000 years old. Taylor found it several months ago in Chili, where he was superintending the digging of a railroad cut. He will loan it for exhibition at the Provincial Museum at Halifax.

The figure is in a squatting position, with its hands over its knees, and is not more than a foot tall. According to the superintendent of the museum in Antafagasta, Chili, the Incas possessed a lost art of reducing the size of a body after death. The numerous skeletons found in constructing the railroad, said Taylor, were all about eighteen inches in height and seemed to bear out this theory.

Gold and Silver Markings.

The new gold and silver marking act passed at the last session of Parliament, came into effect on Jan. 1.

The new law permits gold and silver articles being imported or made without any mark, but if one is put on, it must be in all respects up to what is represented.

The old law, under which there were numerous prosecutions, has been amended and made clearer, and the new act will be rigorously enforced.

How a Book Came to be Written

By DORA L. MULFORD

One summer a young man whose appearance smacked of the "plains" stopped at a hotel in the White mountains and, the regular meals of the day being over, called for a supper to be cooked for him. When it was ready he was called and ushered into the dining room, which was deserted except for himself and the waitress who attended upon him. Before he began to eat he noticed that she was comely. Having served him with what he needed, she was about to leave the room when he said to her:

"Suppose I need you after you have gone. What shall I do?"

There was no bell at hand to call her, and she took the man's question for an order to remain. She was evidently not pleased at his action and, taking a position near him, stood first on one foot, then on the other, looking part of the time at the ceiling, the other part at the floor.

"I'm sorry to keep you," he said.

"It doesn't matter, sir. It's my place to wait on you."

The young man was sorry for what he had done. He would rather not have been served than have some one looking idly on when he ate. Nevertheless there was something in the girl's appearance that interested him. He had heard of college students becoming waiters or waitresses at hotels in vacation, and he fancied she might be one of this class.

"You're no waitress," he hazarded.

"No waitress! What do you mean, sir?"

"You're a lady."

"A lady!"

She colored and showed embarrassment. He fancied that he had struck the nail on the head. Becoming bold with his first success, he pushed on:

"I've met you in society."

"Met me in society! Where?"

The young man chuckled. The question "Where?" was a dead giveaway. Had she not been "in society" she would not have asked such a question. But he did not reply to it.

"I have been looking for you," he went on, "ever since a certain ball at which I met you. I danced with you twice during the evening, and you do not remember me."

The scamp looked very much cut up at her failure to recollect him.

"Was it in New York?" she asked.

Another giveaway. She had been in society in New York. Many functions took place at S.'s, on Fifth avenue.

"Were you not at a certain dinner followed by a cotillion given by a certain lady of fashion one night"—

He figured to be trying to recall the date.

"Last winter, just before Lent?"

He broke into a laugh.

"What amuses you?" she asked, frowning.

"I am very much pleased with myself."

"Indeed! On what account?"

"My perceptive faculties. I knew you for a lady even in the garb of a waitress. I accused you, and you confessed. I have never met you before. All that I have said to you has been made up of whole cloth."

The girl now broke into a laugh.

"What amuses you?" asked the man, with a fork midway between his plate and his mouth.

"My stupidity."

"Your stupidity? What do you mean?"

"Rather, I should say confidence. You were right in saying that we met at S.'s, and the date I gave you is correct. I was your partner in the cotillion. You told me you would never forget me. And now you tell me that we have never met before. For shame, Mr. Kennerton!"

"Kennerton, by Jove!"

"Will you deny your identity?"

"No, but you! You are—I have it—you are Miss Effingham."

"I am."

"But what are you doing as a waitress in this hotel?"

"What are you doing in this western costume?"

"I've been traveling in the west studying life. To study life one must live among the class studied."

"So you told me when I met you in New York. You were very enthusiastic. I, being a society girl, tired of the shallow life I led, resolved to study life too. I have learned a lot here—more about the class into which I was born than the class into which I was not born."

"And I have just served a three months' term as a cowboy. But I've had enough of it. I'm going to be a gentleman again."

"So am I tired of being a waitress. I'm going to be a lady once more."

"When? Where?"

"I leave for New York tomorrow morning."

"So do I."

"I'm going to write a book about my experiences as a waitress in a summer hotel."

"And I'm going to write a book about my experiences as a cowboy."

"Wonder if we couldn't make a novel out of the two."

"I'm going to show up some snobs I have met."

"I have no one to show up, but I will gladly collaborate with you."

And he did. The next spring the joint efforts of their literary labors was published and produced a sensation, particularly in society.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Cold Extremities.

Cold feet and hands indicate that the circulation is poor, and those who suffer in this way should exercise every day in the open air and bathe their feet in cold water, rubbing them briskly with the palms of the hands. Following the cold bath in the morning a few simple exercises should be taken, notably the one of raising the body on the toes with arms aloft, then inclining it and trying to touch the floor with the finger tips without bending the knees. Tight stays, tight clothing and high tight collars should certainly be avoided.

PRICES 70 YEARS AGO.

High Cost of Living Is Not Strictly Modern.

People talk much about the high cost of living these days as if it were something new. An interesting document has come to the notice of The Toronto Globe, which shows that seventy years ago people living in Ontario had their own H. C. O. L. problems to deal with. Only at that time it had not reached the stage where it could be transposed into the cost of high living.

The document referred to is a receipted bill of Mr. John Giffin of Brampton, C.W., "C. W." meaning Canada West. The bill is a trade account extending over a period of about one year, from February, 1840, to February, 1841.

Many articles appear absurdly cheap when compared to the prices at present prevailing. For instance an item appears on the account, "Two gallons whiskey, 5s. 6d." Whiskey at 54 cents a gallon! Does anybody know what whiskey costs today? Rice appears at two pounds for 11 pence, or 11 cents a pound. Today it costs 5 cents a pound. Barley was given in part payment of the articles on the account at the rate of about 35 cents a bushel. "Pease" went at 60 cents a bushel.

On the other hand on August 16 Mr. Giffin bought half a pound of tea at two shillings and three pence, or $1.08 per pound, the same price as two gallons of whiskey. Who would drink tea in those days? Nevertheless towards the end of the same year Mr. Giffin bought another half pound of tea for two shillings and six pence, while in the beginning of the year 1841 he paid three shillings and ninepence for another half pound. Either the tea market had advanced, or he was getting the tea habit, and was seeking a superior brand.

Factory cotton was sold at eight and one-half pence a yard, or 17 cents a yard. Half a yard of ticking cost nine pence, or 18 cents, while one yard of coat facing sold for three shillings, or 72 cents.

Ontario Aids Fur Farming.

The fur farming industry is thriving in Ontario at such a rate that demands made upon the officials of Algonquin Park for animals for breeding purposes cannot be supplied.

At the last session of the Legislature it arranged that animals might be procured from the park by parties who wished them, at these prices: Beaver $60, mink $85, marten $80, and fisher $125 to $180. All of these furs have a high market value, and the growing demand for them had increased the price to such an extent that some farmers can realize more from fur than from beef and cow hides, butter and eggs.

The Ontario Government has given every assistance to the new phase of fur farming, by capturing animals in the Government park at Algonquin and selling them. In one year the amount realized from this source was about $15,000. The park has been at times so over-run by some of these fur-bearing creatures, that shooting them to thin them out has been resorted to. The pelts always bring a high price.

AGONY ON OPERATING TABLE

Did Not Remove Stone In Bladder GIN PILLS Passed it.

JOLIETTE, P. Q. CANADA.

"During August last I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone In The Bladder. He decided on an operation and was assisted by another doctor. They said the calculus was larger than a bean and too hard to crush and they could not take it out.

I returned home suffering greatly and did not know what to do but was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS. I bought a box and found relief from the pain at once. I took a second and third box of GIN PILLS after which I went back to the specialist. He told me the calculus was reduced in size, still he could not relieve me of it although he tried for two and a half hours.

I returned home again and continued to take GIN PILLS as they reduced the pain very much, but I did not expect that they would relieve me of the stone but to my great joy, I passed the stone on October 3rd., and am now a well man and very happy.

I am sending the stone in to you so that you can see for yourself what a great work GIN PILLS did for me. GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did so much for me, I will recommend them all the rest of my life."

CANADA'S DEATH TOLL.

Over Twelve Hundred Workmen Killed at Work.

The toll of death from industrial accidents throughout Canada during the year 1912, as shown in a report just published, cost the lives of no less than 1,220 workmen, while 5,780 received serious injuries. Thus 7,000 workers in Canada's industrial army met with fatal or serious accidents while in the discharge of their duty during the twelve months.

An analysis of the record of accidents, as made by the Labor Department, shows that the railway services and the metal trades are by far the most hazardous employments.

On Canadian steam railways 332 employes were killed during the year, and 1,831 were injured, a somewhat startling total. In addition to that there were 152 men killed in railway construction work, and 111 injured. In the metal trades 103 men were killed and 1,326 were injured.

Navigation is comparatively a safe calling. The total number of fatalities among those employed in navigation was 69, and non-fatal accidents totalled only 62.

In the building trades the fatal accidents totalled 90, and non-fatal accidents 298. The collapse of scaffolds, etc., a preventible cause, accounted for 71 of the accidents to workmen in the building trades.

In railway service collisions caused 55 deaths and 174 non-fatal injuries to railway men. There were 91 killed and 104 injured through being run over by trains or locomotives. Derailments caused 25 deaths and 115 non-fatal accidents.

Dynamite explosions killed 50 men and seriously injured 47 others employed in railway construction, while 19 were killed and 28 injured through falling material.

The list of fatalities and serious injuries among public employes indicates that the duty of keeping the peace, fighting fires, etc., is attended with considered risk of life and limb. Fifteen public employes were killed and 266 seriously injured while on duty. Four were fatally shot while making an arrest. One fireman was killed and 31 were injured by being thrown from fire apparatus, and 27 were injured through collisions with street cars, etc. Curiously enough two accidents are put down to "frozen while fighting fires."

Street cleaners, who to the casual observer, always seem to be in imminent peril of sudden death, apparently bear charmed lives. In the list of accidents to public employes only two are ascribed to the running down of street cleaners by street cars or vehicles.

The Labor Department does not claim to have secured a complete list of all industrial accidents during the year, but the record is as thorough and accurate as a careful tabulation of press reports and of Provincial Government statistics will allow.

BOWSER NOT DEAD ALTHOUGH FOR TIME HE FEELS DISSOLUTION NEAR

Meanwhile Mrs. B. Is Kept Busy Attending to His Wants, Which Are Many—Invalid Recovers Through Sheer Power of Will.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.]

FOR ten days or more Mrs. Bowser had noticed that Mr. Bowser dragged one of his legs a bit when walking, and in going up and down stairs he swore several times under his breath. At length she asked:

"Have you had a fall or hurt your hip?"

"Of course not," was the reply.

"I notice that you limp."

"The shoe on my right foot pinches a little."

"Oh, that's it. I didn't know but it was rheumatism. You've got wet several times lately."

"When rheumatism comes I'll take care of it."

She said no more, but the other evening she noticed that he had hard work getting up the steps and that he had a scared look in his eyes. He was very sober during dinner hour and for some time after, but after numerous sighs and grunts he suddenly exclaimed:

"By John, Mrs. Bowser, but what in thunder has got into my legs? I don't believe I can walk three steps."

"It's rheumatism, probably," she replied, "and you ought to attend to it very sharply. Your legs must be well rubbed with liniment."

"WHAT IN THUNDER HAS GOT IN MY LEGS?"

"You—you don't mean that I've actually got rheumatism!" he whispered as he grew white around the mouth.

"I'm sure of it. I think you've had it hanging around you for some weeks."

"And rheumatism ties a man up in knots and often goes to his heart and kills him like a bullet?"

"Yes."

Bowser Turns Pale.

Mr. Bowser grew paler, and his chin quivered, but as Mrs. Bowser began to express her hopes that this was only a mild attack and would yield readily to treatment he took a sudden resolve and almost sternly said:

"Well, we won't worry. Whatever it is, I will bear it like a man. I may be a cripple in the house for months or years, but you won't hear one word of complaint from me."

He managed to get upstairs after a great deal of trouble, and after he had been rubbed and helped into bed he felt so much better that he went to sleep. When he awoke in the morning, however, it was a different thing. His legs were almost as stiff as crowbars, and the doctor arrived to warn him that he was good for three days in bed. He was asked to exercise patience and keep a cheerful spirit, and he replied:

"Not one complaint shall be heard from me, doctor, and I'll whistle and sing all the time."

That was the way the first day started in. The doctor had been gone exactly four minutes when Mr. Bowser suddenly exclaimed:

"By gum, you are taking it cool for a woman with a dying husband."

"But what can I do for you?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"You can turn my pillow over, rub my feet, give me that camphor, get me the morning paper, bring me a cigar. A loving wife would think of a hundred things to do."

His First Day In Bed.

During that first day Mr. Bowser was assisted to turn over in bed twenty-eight times, his pillow was elevated or lowered thirty-four times, he smelled of the camphor bottle twenty-two times and he had his feet rubbed fourteen times. The window of his bedroom was lowered or raised thirty-six times, and he had four kinds of broth and twelve special dishes. He had made twenty-three predictions as to being dead in the morning. All this, and yet at 10 o'clock at night he said to Mrs. Bowser:

"If you have no interest in this case just let me know, and I'll hire a trained nurse!"

The second day really began one minute after midnight, as Mr. Bowser awoke at that instant and complained of a jerky sensation in one of his big toes. At 2 o'clock he had cold streaks, at 5 his knees were numb, and at 7 he felt a fluttering of the heart. During the day he sat up and lay down, groaned and whistled, predicted that he would live for twenty years and that he would die before night. A neighbor who had heard of his illness called to tender his sympathies, and Mr. Bowser took advantage of the occasion to remark:

"This is a serious case, and, of course, I am suffering as if on the rack, but you notice how calmly I take it. I am not a man to make complaints, and even with death staring me in the face I am trying to preserve a cheerful demeanor."

Patient Has Many Wants.

Mr. Bowser wanted beer, ginger ale and lemonade. He wanted strawberries and jellies and ice cream. He insisted that Mrs. Bowser telephone his condition to the doctor every hour, and yet he declared that the family physician didn't know enough to doctor a dizzy headed cat.

He set out with tears in his eyes to tell Mrs. Bowser what to do as a widow, but at the end of ten minutes charged her with a desire to see him "planted" so that she could marry again. Of the fifteen special dishes prepared for him he sipped at one or two, and when night came he drew up his knees with a sigh and groaned out:

"I should have gone to the hospital in the first place. I might have known that I couldn't get any attention in my own house."

Mr. Bowser began this day at 1 o'clock in the morning. He awoke Mrs. Bowser to inform her that he had a feeling in the small of his back as if a cold flatiron was resting there. An hour later he aroused her again to ask her if an itching heel was a good sign. He and his heel got along somehow until 6 o'clock, and then he demanded that she go down and club a fish peddler who was shouting his stock.

During that day he threatened the life of the cat twelve different times, he called the doctor a quack twenty-one times, and he made use of over sixty cuss words. Mrs. Bowser cooked beef, mutton and chicken in every way known to woman, but he found fault with each dish as it was presented. His feet were too high or his head too low, and the bed either had a hollow or a hump in it. Not for three minutes at a time was he quiet or satisfied, but at 5 o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Bowser had to go down to the kitchen to show the new cook about her work.

Invalid Gets Up.

Half an hour later, as she started up the stairs, she almost screamed out as she glanced into the sitting room. There stood Mr. Bowser fully dressed and bowing and smiling as the cat rubbed his legs and purred.

"You—you here!" she gasped in astonishment.

"I am here, Mrs. Bowser," he blandly answered.

"But your rheumatism?"

"Rheumatism? Yes, I was at death's door with rheumatism, but I brought my will power to bear on the physical and this is the result. You would have lain there and died."

"But I don't understand."

"Simply because you don't know your husband. I could have filled the house with complaints, but I uttered not one word. I could have folded my arms and died, but I willed it otherwise. Let this be a great moral lesson to you, Mrs. Bowser, and behold"—

And he went waltzing around the room with his knees as limber as springs, and the cat followed after, while Mrs. Bowser raised her hands in astonishment and said to herself:

"Was there ever another man in all this world like Mr. Bowser?"

He Kept His Seat.

The suffragette was speaking.

"I'll bet there ain't a man in this audience who ever did anything around the house for his wife. If there is a man in this room that ever made the fire, milked the cow, cleaned the windows and made the beds every day without a kick I'd like to see him, that's all."

But she forgot her husband was at the meeting. And he didn't dare stand up.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A BRAVE FOOL

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

George Carroll was sauntering across a field as free from care as the day he was born. He was looking up at the sky, over which white clouds were sailing as lazily as he walked. He was a city chap, who had been ordered by his physician to go to the country, even though the January winds were blowing cold, and recuperate. He was thinking as he walked what a humdrum thing life was, to be sure, how free from any kind of risk or excitement his own individual life was and how when he was "bowled over," as he expressed it, it would probably be by an animalcule, so small that he could not see it, entering his system, increasing and multiplying vigorously, the colony at last eating him up.

Strange it is how often fate is doing with us what we least suspect. At the moment this last idea entered George Carroll's brain a death dealing force was driving at him from behind. A shadow, accompanied by the sound of horse's hoofs, shot transversely before him. Turning, he saw a girl on horseback in a red coat, moving between him and a bull that was making for him, the girl glancing backward as she rode to observe the bull. She was about to turn and ride back again when the bull caught sight of her, abandoned the straight line he was following in the direction of the man and turned his attention to the girl.

Now, George in regard to all matters pertaining to the country was very stupid. He did not realize that he was or had been in any danger. He did not gather from what he saw that this girl, seeing the bull going for him, had leaped a fence and ridden between him and his enemy for the purpose of turning the animal from him to herself. Instead of thus taking in the situation and getting out of the field as soon as possible, he stood looking at the bull chasing the girl.

The inclosure was about ten acres, and George stood near the middle of it. The girl led the bull as far as possible from him, then turned and, eluding the animal as dexterously as a toreador, galloped away in the opposite direction. By that time it began to dawn upon the city man that the horse and the girl were being pursued by the bull for the purpose of goring. But not even yet did he realize that she had taken this danger upon herself for the purpose of saving his life; that had it not been for her a pair of horns would have taken him in the back, broken it and the earthly spark of his existence would have gone out forever.

What occupied George Carroll's mind to the exclusion of all else was the danger that threatened the girl and what he could do to relieve her from her perilous position. The only thing he could do was to run for the fence as fast as his legs could carry him and climb over it. If he had done this the girl would have made her exit as she had made her entrance—by urging her horse over that same fence. She was waiting for him to get out of the field before securing her own safety.

It is singular how a brave man may be a fool, or, rather, is not a good deal of what we call bravery folly? George by his stupidity was leaving both himself and the girl in danger. She could see him standing there gaping at her, but was so close pressed that she was unable to make a sign to him to fly for his life. Nearing the opposite end of the field, she turned her head to see George running toward her! She could have jumped the fence, but when she saw the man she was trying to save hurrying again into danger, instead of saving herself she turned about and started again across the field. If she went near the man the bull might leave her and turn upon him. So she galloped diagonally across the field, making an effort at a sign for him to leave it. But he did not understand and, turning, continued his pursuit of her.

Then followed events in such quick succession—so quick that George could scarcely separate them. He saw the horse stumble and fall; he saw the bull's horns go into the horse's belly; he heard a report, and the bull, too, fell to the ground. A man dropped a gun, dashed to the fence and, jumping it, ran to where the girl was trying to get up from the ground. George and the man reached her at the same time. The man lifted her up, and she stood on her feet.

"Are you killed?" asked the man.

"No; not even hurt."

Then the man turned to George.

"For heaven's sake," he cried, "how in the world have you escaped the fool killer all these years?"

"He's not a fool at all," said the girl; "he's a brave man. He didn't realize his own danger, he was so intent upon mine."

When George Carroll realized what the girl had done for him and how he had stupidly come very near being the cause of her death he was paralyzed. As it was, he had been the cause of the loss of her horse and a bull worth $100 had been shot. Fortunately George had a fortune and could repair the monetary damage. The rest of it could not be paid for in that way. But fate, when George was walking across the field regretting the uneventful tenor of his life, had another purpose. All this chain of events was but one of fate's tricks to make a match. The girl reaped her reward by helping George spend this income.

Those men who pay as they go usually find the going good.

BURLEIGH'S ARREST.

How Famous War Correspondent Became an Inmate of Toronto Jail.

A Canadian Associated Press cable announcing the retirement of Bennett Burleigh, the famous English war correspondent, recalls the fact that he was once an inmate of Toronto jail. This is how it came about:

Burleigh, a Scotchman, was an officer in the Confederate army in the United States civil war and was lieutenant in the seizure of the steamers Philo Parsons and Island Queen in the attempt to capture the United States gunboat Michigan on Lake Erie. The filibusters, after the failure of the expedition, scattered to various parts of Ontario, and Burleigh went to Guelph, where Alex. W. Wright, now of Toronto, was a young lad in The Herald office. Previously Burleigh had stayed in Guelph, and rumor has it that he had secretly induced friends he made there and at Preston to cast a cannon for him for belligerent uses.

The United States Government, through a spy, had learned of his whereabouts, and Canadian officers were detailed to arrest him for piracy and for breach of the neutrality laws. Burleigh had been warned from Toronto that officers were on his trail, and he encountered young Wright and suggested that they go fishing down at Puslinch lake. The pair took a horse and rig and started out, and ere long reached a point near Preston commanding a wide outlook over the country.

A mile back in the direction of Guelph was seen a horse and buggy being driven furiously. From this point of vantage the road took a dip into a deep ravine with a small stream and bridge. Driving hurriedly down the incline, Burleigh jumped out of the buggy and hid under the bridge. Wright drove on leisurely up the next hill, and was overtaken by the officers. Wright professed ignorance of any companion, and the men drove furiously ahead to Preston, where they expected to find Burleigh in hiding. The latter had, in the meantime, walked across country back to Guelph. By some mischance, however, his presence back in town was betrayed, and he was seized and taken to Toronto, where Chief Justice Draper ordered his extradition. His defence was that he was a Confederate officer acting in the service of his country and that he had been guilty of no belligerent acts on Canadian soil. The British Government, on representations being made in London, investigated and ordered that he be set free.

Burleigh has served as war correspondent in Egypt, Madagascar, in the Ashanti, South Africa, Japan and in the Balkans.

Why He Lost the Sale.

Many stories are related of the characteristics of Sir William C. Macdonald, the noted millionaire manufacturer and generous benefactor of McGill University, Montreal. Until a few years ago Sir William never had a telephone in his office, and never made use of an elevator. Some time ago a young salesman for a financial house secured an audience with Sir William and was anxious to sell him some bonds. He presented the proposition so cleverly and so effectively that the millionaire said he would take a couple. Going to a vault, he drew out a steel drawer that was crowded to its utmost capacity with bonds. Sir William examined it carefully and tried to get in the two or three papers which the young man had handed him. But he could not make room for them, and passing the documents back to the salesman, remarked quietly that he had changed his mind, as he had not space for any more bonds. The caller was so completely surprised at the unexpected turn that events had taken that he had not a single argument to present, and thus he lost the sale through Sir William not possessing a steel drawer capacious enough to accommodate the securities.

Improving O. A. C.

Excellent progress is being made with the new buildings at the Ontario Agricultural College. The building that is nearest completion, both inside and out, is the poultry building.

The new field husbandry, which is practically ready also, is a very handsome one. It is finished outside, and the contractors are busy installing the heating apparatus.

Rapid progress is being made on the new dining hall, although it will not be completed before May next. It will be one of the finest buildings of its kind in the country.

The building that is attracting the attention of the students just now, however, is the college skating rink. It is a substantial one in every way, has a very large ice area, with plenty of seating accommodation, and should be a popular resort for many of the young people of the city.

Windfall For Christmas.

One of the first letters opened by Customs Collector Fred Journeaux, of Ottawa, the day after Christmas, contained ten $10 bills, around which was fastened by an elastic band, a small piece of paper bearing the words: "Please add this to the customs receipts." No name was given. The envelope in which the conscience money was mailed bore Niagara Falls, Ont., postmark.

Gift of Relics to O.A.C.

L. D. Brown, of East Nissouri, has presented the Guelph Agricultural College at Guelph with a fine collection of interesting relics of old-time implements, some of which are one hundred years old.

Wool Goes To Britain.

Great Britain was the chief market for Canadian wool last year. During October Great Britain took 123,000 pounds, valued at $29,000. Great Britain also took 56,000 pounds of hops, valued at $11,000.

There is a large demand in Germany for eels as food.

OLD BREAKFAST JOYS.

How dear to my heart are the fond recollections
Of breakfasts I ate as a boy—
The buckwheats, the sirup, the homely confections
That my childish taste would employ;
The coffee, with sugar and cream served so sweetly;
The rich flavored strawberry jam,
And the eggs, white and golden, all spread out so neatly
Alongside the freshly sliced ham!

No breakfasts have ever been quite like the old ones
I ate as a boy on the farm.
A stranger, I've sat where the cakes have been cold ones.
The jam to be viewed with alarm.
Were I a real poet I'd tune up my measures
To sing of those comforts long past,
To give rhythmic sway to the mem'ry of pleasures
Too dear and too perfect to last.

Yet why stir regret with so much of a chirrup
For pleasures we henceforth must lack?
Those buckwheats are vanished, the old maple sirup
In sweetness that will not come back.
While the ham that of old was a morsel to cherish,
For which e'en a princeling might beg,
Would afford us a joy all too quickly to perish
Allied with the seven cent egg!

PARTICIPATING vs. NON-PARTICIPATING Life Assurance

Fifteen years ago a prominent merchant on George Street took out a 10 pay 15 year endowment policy No. 69879, for $2000 on his life at age 45 in the Sun Life of Canada, premium $189.50.

Had this man taken a non-par policy his premium would have been $172.50 or $17.00 per year less.

PARTICIPATING RESULTS.		NON-PAR RESULTS.
$2637.75	Total cash 1st Dec. last	$2000.00
1895.00	Total prems. paid	1725.00
742.75	Amount received over that pd. in	275.00
Almost 40 p.c.	Percentage returned over prem paid	almost 16 p.c.
1299.70	or, Cash returned and a paid-up Policy of $2000	661.25

Now, this man paid $17.00 per year for 10 years only, or $170.00 all told and it yielded him $637.75 in profits. Just figure out what rate of interest that is on the $17.00 per year, paid extra for profits, and see if you would not like to invest a few dollars at the same rate. If so, call at or 'phone the Sun Life Office, 402 Water Street.

The above policyholder thinks he had a splendid result. Don't you?

POLICE MAY HAVE MAN WHO IS WANTED ON MURDER CHARGE

A Stranger Giving His Name as Albert Beavis Applied for Night's Lodging

Looks Like the Man, Described in Circular Received by the Police

He Admits His Identity But Says He Did not Commit Murder

Albert H. Brodeur, alias Albert H. Blanchard, alias A. J. Sturage wanted by Chief Wm. G. Quilty, of Springfield, Mass., on the charge of murder, it is believed, was apprehended here last evening by Detective Newhall and Constable Meagher. He appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning and was remanded three days awaiting the arrival of officers from Springfield.

Woman Was Murdered.

Brodeur, who, it is alleged, murdered a woman about midnight, on September 20th, 1913, by shooting her, in her apartments in Springfield, Mass., walked into the Police Station last evening and requested a night's lodging. He was accommodated in the usual manner by Constable Brown, who searched him as is customary, and locked him up.

Detective Newhall and Constable Meagher had watched the proceedings. Detective Newhall suddenly became aware of the fact that he had seen what he thought was a picture of the prisoner, on one of the police circulars. He immediately searched and was rewarded by finding the circular which evidently led to the man admitting that he was wanted in Springfield on a serious charge. The various scars and marks of identification described on the circular were identically the same as those on the prisoner.

Made Admissions.

The man admitted he was wanted in Springfield on a very serious charge, but was very careful as to saying anything regarding the charge of murder. He admitted that he had just completed a term in the Guelph jail for theft of books for which he was sentenced for two months.

He came here last evening from Guelph on a freight train.

He is described in the police circular as being a butcher, cutter in a meat shop, a grocery clerk, a farmer and cotton worker, is an inveterate drinker and cigarette smoker.

He is smooth faced with flat nose, brown hair, light complexion, and at the time of the murder, was wearing a snuff-colored brown suit, black derby hat and tan shoes. When arrested last evening he was attired in a rather unkempt suit with a black fur-lined coat. He also has a light moustache.

The circular also states that he is an ex-military convict, he having enlisted on March 29th, 1904, in Milwaukee, Wis. The finger prints were obtained at Fort Hamilton, where he was stationed for some time.

The marks by which he was identified and recognized by the detective and police last evening are, tatoo marks, elk E.H.B. mark; left arm, scar half inch in length; round scar on right shoulder; vaccination left arm outside.

Last night when entered by the constable for the Police Court register, he gave the name of Beavis.

Although no reward is mentioned

PETERBORO SHARES WELL IN THE APPROPRIATIONS PROVIDED FOR PUBLIC WORKS

In the Estimates for Parliament laid on the table Thursday night, there are several sums of interest to Peterboro. First is the item of fifty thousand dollars, the first instalment for the new public building. Then comes $75,000, (an increase of $25,000), for the new dam at Nassau. There are also two sums, one of $55,000 for improvements to the canal and $24,000 for dredging, a good deal of which will be spent near here. $25,000 was appropriated last year for the dry dock, the land for which has been expropriated and now comes the expropriation of eight acres more for a basin and for warehouse purposes, not yet provided for in the estimates. Besides these items, the new wharf at Kawartha Park is provided for, and various items of a minor character. All damage claims will be wound up by May 1st.

COMBINING THE OFFICES

Property Committee and the Board of Health in Joint Meeting

At a joint committee meeting of the Property and Board of Health last evening the several recommendations suggested by the M. H. O. were referred to the Property Committee to report on. Chairman Ald. Langford, of the Property Committee, presided.

Dr. Amys, chairman of the Board of Health, said that the general feeling was to cut down expenses. It was better to combine the offices already in existence, instead of making more. Dr. Amys pointed out the excellent suggestion of the M.H.O. in recommending that the Sanitary Inspector be given an assistant. He was too valuable a man to tie up in an office. The licenses, such as suggested by the M.H.O., could be issued by the police, as one of the men is on duty in the office all the time.

Chairman Langford agreed that this could be done. Boarding-house, scavenger and draymen's licenses could be under the control of the Sanitary Inspector's department.

"If this is along the lines of economy, I can't see it," interposed the Mayor, who reminded the meeting that they asked for an assistant to the Sanitary Inspector.

"If the recommendation of the M. H.O. for the combining of the offices of plumbing and sanitary inspector is economizing, I am going to support it, though I don't think it is necessary to take away one department for the sake of calling it by another name," continued his Worship.

The M.H.O. referred to the accumulating work of the departments.

"We have arranged for all that," responded the Mayor.

The question of having the Sanitary Inspector and Plumbing Inspector occupy the same office and assist each other was then discussed. It was pointed out by Mayor Buller that they could arrange their office hours suitable to each other.

The matter was held in abeyance until the Council had decided what they intended to do in regard to the appointment of several officials, including the appointment of a plumbing inspector.

The M.H.O. outlined the mode of disinfecting the homes where the inmates had suffered from infectious diseases. He claimed that this should come under the Sanitary Inspector, but he was unable to do this, owing to the other innumerable duties.

The Board spoke highly of the efficient services of Mr. Spence.

The matter of an increase in his salary was also left in abeyance.

HULL HAS EIGHT COPS

Police Chief Asks That Force be Increased by Six

FOR 22000 PEOPLE

Hull, Jan. 30.—Many residents of Hull are anxious as to what the council will do with regard to the proposal to increase the police force. Chief Chevalier has written to the council asking for six more constables at once.

The letter contained the districts which each constable has to cover and the hard task of eight officers who have to protect a city of about 22,000 population. The police department has been very busy of late.

The city treasurer's statement shows an estimated revenue of $160,000, an increase of $8,000 over last years. The salaries of six constables would amount to about $4,200 a year, and this would still leave an increase in the revenue of nearly $4,000.

THE REVIEW ANNOUNCES ITS LIST OF CANDIDATES

List of Contestants Entered in Daily Review Contest Made Public

In this issue of the Daily Review will be found the list of the contestants that have been nominated up to 3 o'clock this afternoon. It will be noticed that each candidate has at least one thousand votes; these are the votes that are given with each nomination. The coupon votes that the candidate have brought to the contest department will be counted and a correct standing of each candidate will be found in tomorrow's issue. The Contest Department has been very busy the last few days in taking care of the great number of interested candidates that it was found impossible to count all the voting coupons that have been brought to the office by candidates and their friends.

Have You Been Nominated?

Look over the list and see if your name appears. If you find that you are one of the favored ones better call the department by phone or write, or better still, call at the office and get the particulars of this great affair that is interesting the entire public of this part of Ontario. This is a great proposition, great prizes of real worth are to be given and people that are energetic enough to be crowned with the honor of winning any of these prizes will deserve great praise. Who these persons will be, will be told in the next few weeks. One thing is certain, that is some one will have them for their own in a very short time. DO YOU THINK YOU WILL BE ONE OF THOSE PEOPLE?

Have You a Subscription Book?

Candidates who intend to win any of the larger prizes should call at the office and have the contest explained and let us supply you with a subscription book and other information that is necessary to win the Grand Prize Touring Car that some one is going to have to spin about the country in the next few weeks, or one of the other valuable prizes.

Still Time to Enter.

While we have a fairly large list of candidates, there is still room for live, energetic people to enter and carry off the grand prizes if they but get busy and make the best of their time. The great trouble with many candidates is that they do not seem to realize the value of the prizes and the short time they have to work to win. Stop! Think! Only a few weeks to do your work. Better nominate some good energetic person and help them win the grand prize. It will not cost you or them a single cent. ARE THESE PRIZES WORTH AN EFFORT?

A Plain Business Proposition.

The proposition The Daily Review is working is based upon sound business principles. This paper is not indulging in high sounding adjectives descriptive of the object and purpose of the contest. It is not dealing in glittering generalities; its promises and arguments are not vague nor hard to understand.

The object of this contest is to increase the circulation of The Daily Review. To accomplish this end valuable prizes have been offered and will be presented to those persons who strive to honestly earn them. They cannot be bought with money. The candidate without a dollar back of him, but rich only in grit and determination that wins support from friends—he stands just as good a chance as the candidate who may have ample means, and who could buy up voting coupons if they were for sale. It's a square deal for all, and the business reputation of The Review is back of the proposition.

STEAMER SINKS AFTER COLLISION IN HEAVY FOG

It is Feared That Forty Lives Were Lost — Damaged Steamer Rescued Eighty-five Persons and is Making for Port

Canadian Press Despatch

NORFOLK, Jan. 30.—The steamer Monroe, of the Old Dominion Line, from Norfolk for New York, and the Steamer Nantucket, of the Merchants' and Miners' Line, from Boston for Norfolk, collided in a heavy fog, twenty-five miles southwest of Winter Quarter lightship, at 1.20 this morning, and the Monroe sank. She carried fifty-four passengers, and a crew of seventy. The Nantucket rescued eighty-five aboard the Monroe, but it is not known how many of them are passengers, and the steamer is groping her way towards Norfolk, with her bows crumpled and otherwise damaged.

It is feared forty lives have been lost, although other vessels in the vicinity may possibly have picked up some others.

TRAIN THE HAND ALONG WITH THE HEAD DR. ROBERTSON'S SPEECH AT CANADIAN CLUB

Children Get Tired of School Because They Are Not Taught to Use Their Hands Says the Commissioner—Plea for a Canadian to Live up to Their Advantages

The Canadian Club last evening was honored with the presence of Dr. J. W. Robertson, Commissioner on Technical Education.

Mr. G. C. Wainwright, the President of the Club, occupied the chair, and there was a splendid gathering of members and city men. Sheriff Hall, A. E. Peck M.L.A., Mr. A. Mowat, and many other local educationalists being present.

Dr. Robertson gave an interesting survey of educational conditions in Canada, as compared with other countries, and put in a strong plea for more manual training in our school curriculum. He said that we needed a broader outlook.

Too often, and too much, the eyes of public men and the people generally are fixed exclusively upon some local political program. The vocational training of all the people to be contributing earners, good citizens, and worthy members of the race, is really the world's greatest movement at the present time. All the foremost nations feel the ardor of its sweep.

In the freshness and vigor of its youth, Canada turns readily to questions of material growth and development. Canadians feel that they are coming into their own. Yet their attention and imagination are captivated by wealth in things more than their hearts are stirred by the possession of power with knowledge and desire to use it wisely. With all the fine attributes which belong to youth, the country has many of its handicaps and dangers. Hence the urgency for educational training which will be adequate not only for material progress, but for the enjoyment of its achievements, and for the real advancement of intellectual social and spiritual interests and outlook.

What There is to Develop

The chief object of development (a rather omnibus blanket work) is to secure the best use of things for the present and to leave them in the best condition for the future, to attain the best characters in the people and provide the best quality of life and opportunities for their successors.

The query may be asked: "What has Eastern Ontario to develop?" Only a few important things can be enumerated on any one occasion. In what may be called material resources it has farms, mines, forests, manufacturers, commerce and transportation, and with and above the material and immaterial it has the making of homes and the carrying on of housekeeping.

The development of labor for the carrying on and carrying out of undertakings in connection with the natural resources is the most important duty and at the present time, pressing upon the people for discharge. It presses upon the people as individuals and communities and in their capacity as an organised provincial government.

What is required is that the individual worker shall possess intelligence, practical ability and co-operating good will. These are not inherited, they are acquired by education and technical training they always have been so acquired since the beginnings of civilization. In recent years changed and changing conditions have required new means and the use of new instrumentalities. In modern literature these means have been called "vocational training."

Examples of Recent Progress

Vocational education is the oldest form of educationd and it is still the highest form of education. It may be professional as for clergymen, lawyers, doctors, civil engineers, etc., or it may be agricultural, industrial, marine, commercial, or for housekeeping occupations.

The consideration of a policy involves the examination of a plan or means whereby development can be immediately carried forward along desirable lines. In a general sense, the word education includes vocational training, but in the more specific meaning of the term modifications and extensions. Hitherto the so-called educational ladder had only one place for its top and that where only a comparatively small number of men are required in the public interest. Hereafter the top of the ladder will be in every kind of institution where a man or woman is needed for efficient service in agricultural work, in industrial work, commercial work, or housekeeping work.

The institutions to be affected by this development are elementary schools, secondary schools and the higher institutions such as colleges and universities. In the process of development all that is good shall be conserved, only what is necessary should be added and provisions made for all the people and all the occupations. Occupations have always played a large part in the drama of civilization. That refers to the occupation of plain people as well as the training occupation of great personalities. In literature the great names are recorded with a statement also of the occupation which was part of the experience of preparation for great and enduring social service. When one thinks of Abraham, Moses and David, one is reminded of the farmer and keeper of sheep and how the race has been comforted and benefited by the words of the poem, "The Lord is My Shepherd." Shakespeare was an actor by occupation before he was a poet. Burns was a ploughman before he became the voice of the soul of a nation. Our whole civilization moves under the influence of the fisherman of Galilee, the tent-maker

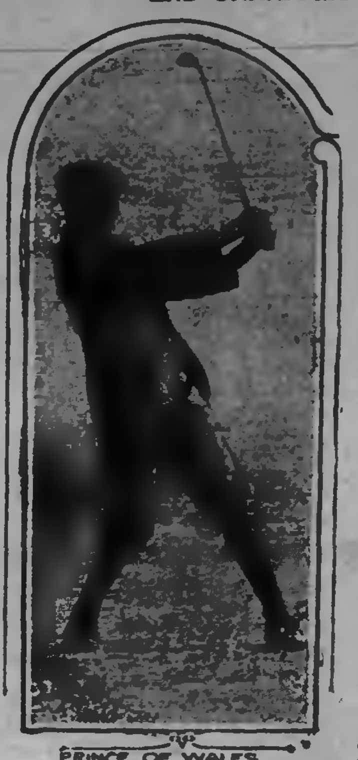
LOVE AFFAIRS OF THE PRINCE OF WALES END UNHAPPILY



PRINCE OF WALES

The young Prince of Wales is susceptible, and two of his recent love affairs have ended unhappily.

While visiting his grandmother, Queen Alexandra, the Prince say a photo of Lady Dalkeith, immediately fell in love with it and pocketed it. His mother, hearing of this, soundly scolded him.

Shortly after he became infatuated with the daughter of a Buckinghamshire land owner. He visited her every week, but was discovered and was remonstrated with by the court chaplain.

CITY IS SHORT ON GARBAGE

Not Enough to Keep the Incinerator Going at Capacity

DIVIDE FIRE PLACE

The property committee at a meeting last evening, decided to take no action as to the settlement of the balance of the account for the incinerator erected by the Reid Company, for which a balance of $2000 is due. The Company had some difficulty recently and liens and various other troubles arose. The city engineer, R. H. Parsons, was instructed to report to the Board when everything satisfactory was completed by the Company.

The construction of a wall in order to divide the fire place of the incinerator, was suggested by the City Engineer. This is recommended owing to the incinerator being too large and the inability of the city to supply sufficient garbage to keep it going continuously. With the construction of a centre wall it would be necessary to have the one side in use until such time as it was required to use both. To get satisfaction it is necessary to have the fire burning continuously.

No action was taken in the matter until the other affairs pertaining to the settlement of the claim was arranged. The chairman and city engineer will confer with the City Trust Commissioners as to the construction of vaults in the new offices to be used by the Utilities Commission.

HAD TO PAY FOR SHOOTING DOG

Judge Gave Verdict of $15 for Owner of Dog.

Farmers near Chesly are much worked up over a dog case, says the Bobcaygeon Independent. One farmer has shot a dog that chased some of his live stock, and Judge Barrett gave the dog's owner a verdict for $15, ruling that the defendant should have sued the owner of the dog for trespassing and not have taken the law into his own hands, by putting a charge of shot into the hound. The verdict was very unpopular. Farmers who have had their stock molested by dogs and their crops tramped by hunters, say they will shoot to kill if strange dogs come on their premises, and they will not enquire for the owner, as Mr. Anderson did.

It may not be legal to shoot dogs that are trespassing on one's premises, but it is the right thing to do. The sheep industry of the country is ruined by the destruction caused by dogs.

JUDGMENT GIVEN FOR DEFENDANT

In the action brought by the Ontario Wind, Engine and Pump Co., against John R. Payne, which was argued before Judge Huycke, his honor has given judgment for the defendant, for $48,60 and costs.

The action was brought by the Company against John Payne, their agent, to recover a balance of $59,42 which they alleged, was owing them by Payne.

SOMETHING NEW IN HAT STYLES

The local hatters have received their spring supplies and will no doubt, present them to the public via the show window in the course of a few days. The style of the christie is in appearance very similar to the style of the same, ten years ago, that is medium height in crown and exceptionaly heavy roll. As was predicted, the low crowned hat had a very short reign.

When a young widow is wise and a bachelor is otherwise it's up to the parson.

DR. ROBERTSON PARAGRAPHED

We do a good deal of letting ourselves go, and it is a wholesome thing to be patriotic, but there is a little too much of the flag-waving type. We need to develop a new patiotism.

• • •

We have the greatest farming country in the world, and we have deserved the reputation for having the dirtiest fields in creation.

• • •

We are satiating ourselves with adulation. We must get out of this hypnotic state of thinking we are a great nation, building railways—and growing weeds.

• • •

In Germany 25 per cent. more crops per acre than Canada, and this after generations of cultivation.

• • •

The development of ability to work and the love of work, is the need of this generation; we are after money, we want to get away from labor.

• • •

The hand is the civilizing instrument. We want development of brain power for the training of the hands.

• • •

Every boy likes to work with his hands, but send him to a high school where he has no manual training, and at eighteen ask him to work with his hands.

• • •

I am a Presbyterian elder, but I believe that if we cannot get at the farmers on a week day, we should get at them on Sunday and preach agricultural sermons. Praise the Lord for making a new earth, and preach the Gospel of clean and good farm management.

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, JAN. 30, 1914.

DISPOSAL OF SEWAGE.

A BILL is now before Parliament respecting the pollution of navigable waters. The provisions of the measure are to the effect that no person shall put or deposit, or cause or permit to be put or deposited, or to flow or be carried, any sewage, offal or refuse, or any matter that is poisonous, noxious, decomposing, refuse or waste, into any navigable water or into any other water that flows into any navigable water, unless such matter is disposed of in accordance with regulations made under the authority of the Act.

Each municipal corporation convicted of an offence against this section shall, upon summary conviction, be liable to a fine of not less than five hundred dollars and an additional sum of fifty dollars for each day during which the offence continues.

Every person, other than a corporation, who corporation, convicted of an offence against this section shall, upon summary conviction, be liable to a fine of not less than two hundred dollars and an additional sum of twenty dollars for each day during which the offence continues.

Every person, other than o corporation, who is convicted of an offence against this section shall, upon summary conviction, be liable to a fine of not less than fifty dollars and an additional sum of ten dollars for each day during which the offence continues, or to imprisonment not exceeding two months, or to both fine and imprisonment.

If this Bill becomes law it will disturb some city councils, but it is a very timely measure and will go a long way towards the purification of our waterways which are the source of our water supply.

As to the disposal of sewage, other countries have had to grapple with this problem in the way of the establishment of sewage farms. This Bill may do as much as anything else to fulfil the "back to the land" cry in more senses than one. What will polute our rivers and lakes will nourish our soil. Better to go to a little expense and enrich our land than contaminate our water and poison our fish. Necessity is the mother of invention and there is an urgent necessity in the consideration of the health of our cities. Let our inventors get to work.

MR. BURNHAM IN THE HOUSE.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.P., has already made his presence felt at Ottawa. His contribution to the debate on the Speech from the Throne was one of the most forceful utterances that have been delivered since the opening of Parliament. Mr. Burnham is always forceful and he is always sincere. His opponents may not agree with what he says but they must at least agree that, despite his emphatic manner of speech, he is broad in his principles and regards every subject from the highest motive. Mr. Burnham is a Canadian from head to foot and a democrat, but he is not so narrow as to think that Canada any more than other countries is self-contained. His speech was a straightforward demand for common sense in Imperial matters. He said that Canada owed it to herself as well as to the Mother Country to support the British Navy. He showed his readiness to support any scheme that would relieve the naval situation in Great Britain and at the same time accomplish something in the way of paying for the naval defence of Canada and Canadian commerce. The following, which we cull from Mr. Burnham's speech, is a strong statement, but it cannot be described as narrow and partisan:

"It must be remembered that the Naval or Imperial policy of the Conservative Government springs from the fact that first and foremost—first, last and all the time—they desire to remain within the British Empire. The weakness of the Conservative position unquestionably is—admittedly is—that $35,000,000 or thereabouts will be expended, to a certain extent outside the country. It is admitted that half of that, under the divine management of the Liberals, would have to be spent out of the country, because they simply could not build all portions of their navy here. I confess that is the weakness of our position; we do not say—or I presume we do not—that our position at all points is invincibly strong; we do say that, in comparison with anything that has been suggested our position is incomparably strong. But, who wants to unfurl the Canadian flag of practical, if not nominal, independence, and sail the seas provoking conflict and disaster? The Liberals are either sincere or insincere. If they are insincere we do not wish to have anything more to do with them, nor does the country. But if they are sincere, then they propose to develop a policy which would place us alongside of such nations as Germany and France, who are now making a mad rush to complete a naval policy such as will be suitable to their station. I am told that Canada must do likewise. Now there is no force in the argument of building a tin pot navy. There is no such idea on the part of Liberals. Their desire is to build and develop a great naval force. I am free to acknowledge that while that is an exceedingly extravagant and unwise proposition, I am sufficiently imperialistic and sufficiently loyal to wish to adopt that plan rather than nothing at all. But we find no reciprocity of spirit exhibited by our friends. They will not have the Conservative policy and, not having that policy, they will throw down their arms and wreck the whole scheme; they will sneer at emergencies, and let everything, to use a common phrase, go to the devil."

In this speech Mr. Burnham covered much ground and dealt with the various issues before the House and the country. On the question of the high cost of living and its relation to Protection, he said:

"Let me say one thing which convinces me although it may not convince gentlemen opposite. Living is cheapest in the world in that country which has the highest measure of protection, namely, France. Of all the countries on the face of the earth the country that is the cheapest to live in is France. She, two years ago, so approved of the policy of protection that she raised her whole system of protection by 20 per cent."

This is a plain statement of fact and not supposition. Mr. Burnham did not close his eyes to the present depression in finance and industry but he regarded it, as all manly Canadians should, not in a whining hopeless fashion, he said:

"I fancy that a due regard to patriotism and a certain virility which we have inherited from our ancestors both Gaelic and British, will enable us to weather the storm. I know that the Americans do not start to howl as if everything had gone to the bow-wows. When they get into bit of a slough, they set to work to get out of it, and they have set an example to the whole world. They cannot be excelled for strength of mind, and body and character, and surely we are not going to throw our doors open and howl as if the country was something we should be ashamed of."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE GLOBE can now send all those parcels it has been keeping back for the last two years—not to speak of the fifteen years before that. It must accept this gift of Parcels Post from the hands of the Borden Government.

WILLIAM BROWN, of Shakespeare, whose death occurred at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Adolphe Ubrigg, at South Easthope, dug and cemented his grave 20 years ago and also had the same length of time a casket waiting to receive his remains. Brown must have been some relation to the Rameses.

THE JANUARY THAW has demoralized all our sleighing and skating, we always have some such trouble with those Thaws coming from the South when they are not wanted. However this one will go without the interference of the Immigration Office.

IT HAS HITHERTO been supposed that our Member, Mr. J. H. Burnham, was merely a lawyer. No one ever dreamt that he plied the needle, that he was, in fact, a satorial artist. But the following taken from that gentleman's speech in the House of Commons contains an illuminative admission:

"Take the case of the old country tailor who sends his goods out to this country, pays the tariff and yet sells them at the same price he charges in England. How does this happen? I DO NOT BUY THESE CLOTHES MYSELF, I MAKE MY OWN, but if we are to have these monstrosities of trade brought up before us all the time, why are they not dealt with in a fair manner?"

Being a bachelor we supposed the honorable member might sew on a stray button now and then, but it is certainly wonderful to find that he does his own tailoring.

WHAT THE WORLD IS SAYING

How Doth the Busy B's.

Mail and Empire.

Three members of Parliament, Messrs. Burnham, Bradbury and Bickerdike, have five private bills on the way. They might appropriately be described as the busy B's.

And Now it's Prunes.

Ottawa Journal.

Here's a pretty howdy-do—here's real cause for alarm—prunes have gone and are going up. In 1900 prunes could be purchased for around six cents a pound, now they're two for a quarter.

Surely the cost of living problem is getting really serious when it affects prunes. High prices for meat, eggs, butter, milk and all other staples were bad enough, but the prune—our old stand by—surely there must be some mistake? No, there's no getting away from it—the prune, popularly supposed to be the boarding-house staple, is on the elevator—going up!

Solitude.

Laugh and the world laughs with you;
 Weep and you weep alone;
For the sad old earth must borrow its mirth,
 But has trouble enough of its own.
Sing and the hills will answer;
 Sigh it is lost on the air;
The echoes bound to a joyful sound,
 But shrink from voicing care.

Rejoice and men will seek you;
 Grieve and they turn and go;
They want full measure of all your pleasure,
 But they do not need your woe,
Be glad and your friends are many;
 Be sad, and you lose them all,—
There are none to decline your nectared wine.
 But alone you must drink life's gall.

Feast and your halls are crowded;
 Fast and the world goes by.
Succeed and give, it helps you live,
 But no man can help you die.
There is room in the halls of pleasure
 For a large and lordly train,
But one by one we must all file on Through the narrow aisles of pain.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

ON TIME

By Walt Mason

This truth I'm spreading near and far, by means of locoed rhyme: You'd better do without a car than buy a car on time. Who are the folks who fume and fret, the while their bosoms bleed? They are the ones who go in debt for things they do not need. Their names would fill a catalogue in this debt-ridden clime; you'd better do without a dog than buy a dog on time. How happy is the man who knows he does not owe a bone! The grosser sorts of griefs and woes are leaving him alone; the "charge it" course we don't indorse, nor owe a man a dime; you'd better do without a horse than buy a horse on time. The man who always pays his way is honored every where, and merchants want his trade and pray that they may have a share; collectors do not dog his heels, nor lawyers haunt his door; he pays for what he buys with wheels composed of silver ore. And such a man enjoys this life, and finds the world sublime; you'd better do without a wife than get a wife on time.

KING WINTER

King Winter advanced with a slow stealthy pace,
And clasped the fair earth, in a chilling embrace,
Fast captive, he bound all her beauteous train
Tho for freedom she strove, still she struggled in vain.

All her charms disappear at his sharp frosty breath,
And prostrate she lies, the pale image of death,
Grim tyrant despotic, beneath his stern sway
The blue skies of summer are turned to dull gray.

Around the wild storm cloud and whirling snows blend
Bare bleak desolation his footsteps attend
At the scowl of his visage, sweet flowers lie dead,
And the birds to the southlands, for safety are fled.

But though blustering and cruel, this hoary old king.
In soft tears will dissolve, in the presence of spring
His hard heart may melt, but decreed is his fate,
And in favor of spring he must soon abdicate.

Who will bid him to quickly all captives release
Surrender the sceptre, and make termes of peace,
Afar in the north he must banished remain,
While his gentle successor benignant will reign.

Mrs. A. P. Calder.

THE PLUMBERS' SONG.

The boss came to the Plumber to say,
I got that job so make it pay:
The Plumber worked with all his might,
Till every joint was good and tight,
Then thought he I'll take my ease,
When the Boss came in with a look that would freeze;
 Then said he you are too slow,
Come to the shop and get your dough.

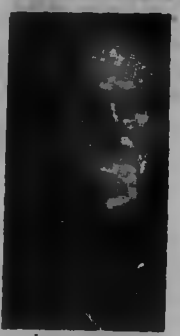
Birthdays of Note

FRIDAY, JANUARY THIRTIETH

The Very Rev. Daniel Miner Gordon, Principal of Queen's University, is sixty-nine years of age to-day. Before succeeding the late Principal Grant as head of Queen's, an event which took place twelve years ago, he had been a professor in the Halifax Presbyterian College and prior to that was a distinguished minister of the Presbyterian Church holding charges in Ottawa and Winnipeg. Like many other successful Canadians, he is a native of the county of Pictou, Nova Scotia, and a graduate of the famous Pictou Academy. Later he studied at Glasgow University, of which he is an honor graduate. It is rather a coincidence that both he and his predecessor, Principal Grant, wrote books describing journeys across Western Canada before the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway.



REID GETS SEVEN YEARS.

Constable Who Aided Krafchenko Given Maximum Penalty.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 30.—"I consider your offence exactly on a par with that of a sentry who deserts his post in face of the enemy," said Sir John Hugh Macdonald, police magistrate, in sentencing to the maximum penalty of seven years in the penitentiary Robert G. Reid, who, as city police constable and guard of Jack Krafchenko, accused of murder and bank robbery, assisted Krafchenko to escape.

Reid stood at attention and said not a word during the proceedings, showing no emotion on his countenance except when counsel mentioned his aged parents, whom he might never see again if given the maximum sentence.

"By your actions," said Magistrate Macdonald, "you have brought discredit upon the whole force with which you were connected. You aided in turning loose a most dangerous criminal and you deliberately furnished him with a deadly automatic revolver, knowing his desperate character and that the chances were that those most likely to fall victims to it were your fellow-members of the force."

The magistrate intimated he would have imposed a longer term if possible.

Rebels Are Wealthy.

JUAREZ, Jan. 30.—Five million Mexican dollars received up to to-day is the amount of cash which the rebels under Gen. Francisco Villa possess to carry on their revolution. In addition they claim possession of much personal property, stores, cattle and land confiscated from rich families and valued at many millions.

The cash represents part of the wealth obtained within six months under the direction of Gen. Villa. It was accumulated from forced loans on banks, merchants, mines, on the Terrazas and Creel families, and from taxation and import duties.

Rebel leaders said it would be impossible to estimate the actual wealth of the revolution, but if money was realized on all the property now in their possession the proceeds would be sufficient to run a government in the rebel territory for several years.

Haitien Ministers in Flight.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 30.—The steamer Sardinia arrived here yesterday from Port au Prince, having on board August Bonamy, the Haitien Minister of Finance, and M. Guilbaud, the Haitien Minister of Public and Justice, who fled from Haiti because of the revolution. It is reported that President Michel Oreste will reach Kingston on the steamer Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

All the Haitien exiles have returned or are on their way to Haiti, including Gen. Defly, ex-governor of Port au Prince.

Handwriting Hereditary.

Hereditary handwriting was referred to by Sir Rickman John Godlee, president of the Royal College of Surgeons, in an address before the Assembly of Faculties at University College, London, at which Lord Reay presided. Sir Rickman Godlee said that he had been reading old letters, and was interested to see how a style of handwriting was handed down in a family. It was easy to trace the handwriting of the grandfather in the cousin, and of the father in the son. If handwriting was transmitted like the tone of the voice and the shape of the nose, need anyone be ashamed of his defects, sorry for his misdeeds, proud of his successes, or satisfied with his self-virtue?

Cold Water and Prayers.

Kyoto, Japan, abounds in picturesque temples and quaint shrines, but perhaps no more interesting or beautiful spot will be found than a small shrine below the Kiyomidzudera. In the valley beneath this temple is the Otawa-no-Taki, a small stream springing out of the rocks, led through bamboo pipes and splashing on to the praying stones in front of the shrine below, says The Strand. On these the devout kneel reverently, sometimes for thirty or forty minutes, with cold water playing on their backs, supplicating the deity of the shrine for the safety and welfare of some beloved friend or relative.

Ran Blockade at Batoche.

A fire which recalls many interesting memories, started in the dismantled hulk of the old steamer "Marquis" and consumed most of it at Prince Albert recently. In 1882 she entered the fleet of the Northwest Navigation Co. After making regular trips from Grand Rapids to Edmonton until 1884, the "Marquis" sailed up the South Saskatchewan river with troops for the rebellion, and at Batoche succeeded in running the blockade. When the railway lines came the "Marquis" was pulled up to Prince Albert on the south bank of the river at a point near the Hudson Bay Co.'s reserve. After her heavier timbers had been removed, a homesteader took enough material for a shack and a ferryman supplied himself with a new ferry. All that remains is about fifty feet of battered hull.

Tillson's Big Mystery—How He Became a Convert

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Mr. David Tillotson elevated his neatly shod feet to the top of his desk and, leaning his head against the leather cushioned back of his chair, permitted a smile to trickle around his straight cut, matter of fact mouth.

"Mystery?" he sniffed scornfully. "I've often wondered why the dictionary makers give that much abused word any space in their dreary volumes. There is no such thing as a mystery, my dear Fanning. There is a perfectly good and entirely simple explanation for every so called mystery."

Egbert Fanning smiled in a superior manner, and, tossing the end of his cigar into the waste paper basket, he calmly proceeded to light another.

"I must go now," he said, rising and reaching for his hat, "but let me tell you, old man, that you may run across a mystery within the next twenty-four hours that even your cleverness cannot solve. This is not a threat, but a plain, matter of fact prediction of what is likely to happen to a scoffer of unknown forces."

"Fiddlededee—likewise tommyrot!" ejaculated David as the door closed behind his smiling friend.

Dismissing the discussion of the last half hour thus lightly, Mr. Tillotson plunged into his afternoon mail with a mind untrammeled by thoughts of perplexing questions. His pleasant voice dictated letter after letter, while his quiet little stenographer took down his words with flying pencil and the rustle of turning leaves as her notebook filled up.

"That is all, Miss Dickson," said David at last, and he swung his chair to the window as the girl passed into the small inner office that was her own especial sanctum. The inner office possessed one window, opening on the courtyard ten stories below, and only one door, the one leading into David Tillotson's private office.

David swung idly in his chair for awhile, debating whether he would go for a spin in his fast motorcar or spend the remainder of the afternoon at his club.

While he pondered this important question he was soothed almost to somnolence by the muffled clicking of Miss Dickson's typewriter behind the closed door of her office. Some men would have objected to the noise of the machine, but not David Tillotson. He boasted that he had not a nerve in his big, strong body.

At last he realized that the clicking had ceased, and, having decided to take a ride, he telephoned for his car to be brought around and then pressed the button for Miss Dickson.

She did not respond to the summons. Again he pressed the button, and, meeting no response from the usually prompt and businesslike young woman, David went to the door of her office and looked in.

The room was empty.

The neatly typed letters were on her desk awaiting his signature. Her hat was on its accustomed hook, and one of her dainty handkerchiefs was on the floor.

But there was no sign of Elsie Dickson.

David was disturbed. He had not heard Miss Dickson pass through his office, as she necessarily must in order to reach the outer door. He was unusually keen of hearing, and even her light footfall would have attracted his attention, for it was a fact that quite unknown to himself David Tillotson was deeply interested in the quiet, dove eyed girl who had so long and faithfully served him.

He did not realize that many of his cleverest transactions had been inspired by Elsie Dickson. He would have scoffed if any one, Fanning, for instance, had hinted that he was in love with his stenographer, but it was quite true that her presence always exerted a soothing influence upon her employer. He felt entirely contented if he knew that she was in the next room, and the delicate fragrance that clung to her little handkerchief was sweet incense to his critical nostrils.

As David, unsuspecting bachelor that he was, did not have an inkling of the state of his wayward heart, he could not in the least account for the violent thumping of that organ when he discovered that the window was wide open and that Elsie Dickson had disappeared.

In two strides he was at the window and peering fearfully down into the courtyard. It was quite empty save for the janitor's boy, who was sweeping the cement pavement.

He drew back and once more searched the room, but there was no sign of his missing secretary. With assumed nonchalance he went into the outer office and spoke to one of the clerks.

"Is Miss Dickson here?" he asked irritably.

The man glanced at him in surprise. "Why, no, sir. She is in her office, I believe. I talked with her over the phone a moment ago."

David returned to his own room more disturbed than he cared to acknowledge. He glanced inside Miss Dickson's office, but she was not there. Sitting down at his desk, he hesitated with the telephone receiver in his hand.

Practical person that he was, he could not imagine what had become of the girl. All he knew was that a half hour ago she was in her office.

David found that he could no longer think clearly, connectedly. Mingled with his uneasiness of what had happened to Elsie Dickson were a vague terror and an unaccountable depression of spirits.

Suddenly his fingers closed tightly around the telephone, and he lifted the receiver to his ear. He called Egbert Fanning's number and in five minutes that astonished young man was beside him listening to his story.

"It's a mystery," declared David emphatically. "You show a glimmer of sense now and then, Bert. Tell me what you think of the matter."

"O-ho—a mystery!" crowed Fanning. "My dear David, why stir yourself up over such a simple matter? The girl has probably stolen a few moments to chat with the clerks in the outer office, and, fearful of your displeasure, they are shielding her absence."

"Miss Dickson is not that sort," retorted David hotly. "She is quite free to come and go as she chooses, but—but"— His face was quite pale now, and the amusement died out of Fanning's gleeful countenance.

"Just let me look around her office. I'm something of a detective, you know. Perhaps I can solve the mystery."

"Go ahead, my dear boy. Of course there is a solution to the myst—problem of her disappearance, but I'm too stupid to work it out now."

"Too rattled!" commented Fanning, with a keen glance at his friend.

Tillotson had turned back to the window and was staring at the wall of the opposite building with unseeing eyes.

"Have I your permission to investigate in all departments?" asked Fanning briskly.

"Yes. Anything. Only find her!"

"Ye gods!" muttered Fanning as he entered Miss Dickson's office. "My good David has struck the greatest mystery in the world if he only knew it. Poor beggar! Woman and her reasons for doing things!

"Now, let me see. Letters all typed, handkerchief on floor and hat on nail. These are my clews. Let me think and prowl and ponder!"

An hour later Egbert Fanning ceased his trotting to and fro from office to office, from room to corridor and back again.

He came into David's presence mopping his heated brow with a snowy handkerchief and wearing a triumphant smile.

"Well, what luck?" asked David, turning around.

"Mystery is solved," said Fanning. "You're at the bottom of it, Tillotson."

"Me? How?" stared the other.

"In the first place, for your careless methods in trying to maintain two lines of thought at one and the same time. When a man is dictating under such circumstances there is every likelihood that his lines of thought will become crossed and emit electric sparks that are"—

"Cut out all the funny business, Fanning!" interrupted David. "Can't you see that I"—

"Of course any one can see that you are ridiculously in love with that pretty, shy Miss Dickson!" put in Fanning. "Otherwise why should you dictate three out of ten letters to her today and open them with 'Dear Elsie' instead of 'Dear Sir?' Answer me that."

"I never was guilty of such wretched blunders," protested the crimson Tillotson. But Fanning was quite remorseless now.

"Listen to the result of my investigations. On top of the pile of typewritten letters, which I may assure you Miss Dickson had properly addressed, was an open letter to you. I read it. Here it is:

"Dear Mr. Tillotson—If you will take the trouble to have my notebook examined by an expert you will learn that for the past week you have dictated many letters which began in a very ('offensive' scratched out; 'David' and 'unaccountable' substituted) unaccountable manner. Today's experience is more than I care to repeat; consequently I herewith tender my resignation as your secretary, same to take effect at once.

"Thanking you for many courtesies received in the past and regretting the necessity for the step, very truly yours,

"ELSIE DICKSON."

"Impossible! Incredible!" cried Tillotson, red with mortification and vexation.

"Here is the report of the expert. I had mercy on you, old fellow, and took the book to the public stenographer in the next building. You are convicted of ten 'Dear Elsies' and four 'Dearest Elsies,' and I may as well confess, David, that you called me Elsie twice yesterday."

"How did Miss Dickson get away without my observing her?" interrupted Tillotson.

"I traced that mystery out, too," chuckled the amateur detective. "Found an empty bandbox in her office and concluded Miss Dickson had just purchased a new hat, which she wore home, leaving her old one here. Smith, your clerk at the outer door, now confesses that he was absent from his post a half hour this afternoon, and it was during that period that Miss Dickson went away, quite unconscious that her sudden departure was to form the nucleus of one of the most interesting mysteries that"— "I wonder where Miss Dickson lives!" broke in David, pacing the floor restlessly.

"She thoughtfully left her address at the bottom of her letter in case you wanted to send an apology, dear boy! And don't forget your hat, David. Your motor is down at the curb, and"—

Fanning smiled as the door slammed behind his friend.

"And the greatest mystery of it all is that the beggar didn't know he was in love with her all the time!" he exclaimed.

The tricorne hat, recalling the days of our Colonial ancestors, is the most approved of millinery modes for the coming season. There is plenty of dash and style in it if it is set on jauntily, and it is generally becoming. This model from Lewis of London and Paris is in black straw with soft black velvet crown. Its chief feature is in the tall black ostrich fancy, two feathers, joined in a tall T that flares up boldly from one side.

SMALL POX HOSPITAL, ABBATOIR AND CENTRAL MILK DEPOT ON PROPERTY SLATE

Committee Will Look Into These Matters to See What Can be Done

The feasibility of constructing a smallpox hospital as recommended by the Medical Health Officer, was discussed at a joint meeting of the Board of Health and Property Committee last evening. The Property Committee will report to the City Council on this question as well as on that of the municipal abbatoir.

The M.H.O. said that it was a matter of great economy to erect a smallpox hospital. It would cost probably $600. He referred to a few years ago when they used a tent which cost them $175 and $65 for two smaller tents. The supplies also cost considerably. These were practically destroyed as they could not be stored in any place, except placed in a box and left in a shed. They were therefore unfit for use.

Municipal Abbatoir.

The public abbatoir question has been before the attentive minds of the committees before and as a result very little discussion arose last night. The Board favored it. Ald. Duncan remarked he had seen some very insanitary happenings in connection with meat.

Public Milk Depot.

Dr. Amys' recommendation for a public milk depot in the city controlled and operated by the city, was left in the hands of the Property Committee to investigate.

The chairman of the Board of Health pointed out the great advantages to the poor and rich alike in this undertaking. His idea was for the city to take over the milk business and have one central distributing plant. It would be better for the farmer, and would eliminate a monopoly, and would be a benefit for the city at large.

He had spoken to several milkmen about it and they had expressed great favor with the idea.

of Tarsus, and above all the Carpenter of Nazareth.

When properly trained for his job one of the first effects observable is that the workman likes his work, understands it, has ability to do it well, and therefore is sure of obtaining reasonably good returns. The finest and highest of such developments are in the character of the man, on ~~his managing ability,~~ and on the spirit and methods of co-operating with his fellows and others in the community.

The Judgment of Canada

The Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education visited 100 places in Canada, held 175 sessions to receive testimony and made transcripts of the evidence of 1,471 men and women. Some of those occupy the foremost positions in industries, agriculture, housekeeping, and educational work. The needs of the growing population of Canada as stated by those witnesses may be summarised as:

First—Hand training and pre-vocational education in the common schools after the age of 12 to reveal the best of the child's ability to itself, to its parents and to its teacher.

Second—Something in the school classes to make boys and girls want to continue at school as long as they can.

Third—Some provisions in the way of secondary industrial and technical education for those who can continue at school from 12 to 16.

Fourth—Continuation classes to be attended while young people are following some occupation to earn their living.

Fifth—Evening classes for workmen and workwomen.

Sixth—Middle technical schools to which men and women can come back for periods of from six months to two years after they have been working for some years.

In addition to these the witnesses presented the claims of the rural population and fishing population for schools specially adapted to their needs. All were agreed upon the necessity for and certain of the benefit from classes and schools for housekeeping occupations. Many witnesses recommended the establishment of correspondence study classes by central institutions in Canada.

Education for Occupations

In recent years considerable additions have been made to elementary education by the introduction of manual training, domestic science and nature study with school gardens. These are for cultural purposes, have reference to the occupations of the pupils and are carried on with advantage to their progress in other studies. The benefits claimed for pre-vocational classes in other countries are as follows: They sustain the interest of the pupils in school work, they discover to pupils, teachers and parents the bents, tastes and aptitudes of the scholars and they develop a preference for following some skilled employment. They make children desire further education after they have begun to partly earn their living. They do not hinder progress in other subjects of education.

Examples of pre-vocational schools in other countries were mentioned. Within the last seven or eight years the movement has taken on a very wide sweep in England. Children from 11 to 12 who are to leave school at 13 or 14, go to schools or classes having what is called an industrial bias, housekeeping bias, etc. At these schools from one-third to one-half of the time is devotod to manual constructive work for the learning of a trade immediately after the children leave school.

What Countries Are Doing

In England, Scotland, Ireland, the United States, France and Germany such classes or schools have made remarkable progress within the last ten years. In Scotland the growth has been from 162 schools with 3,381 pupils to 1,946 schools with an attendance of 43,287 pupils. Its growth has been over twelve fold in ten years.

In European countries these schools or classes do not displace general education. The classes themselves are called "supplementary courses." That is the term also used in France where boys of twelve give about fifteen hours a week to general subjects and twenty hours to manual and constructive subjects. Girls in France enter these schools at about twelve years of age and give one-half of the school time to general subjects and the other half to hand work in some form of vocational work. After the hand work for boys was introduced into the schools of Munich, of the 2,200 boys who left school the first year thereafter, no less than 2,150 went at once into hand work in skilled employments.

Such classes have so much increased the interest of boys and girls in their own continued education, that in the city of Halifax, England, more than sixty per cent. of all the boys and girls who left school at fourteen voluntarily came back for continuation classes in the evenings. In smaller places the attendance at these continuation vocational classes is as much as five per cent. of the total population of the town.

Dominion Grants in Aid

The cost of carrying on such newer branches of education as experimental science, manual training, domestic science, nature study, and pre-vocational work with tools and materials is relatively high. These subjects are not in sight or contemplated at the time of confederation, when the provinces accepted the responsibility of providing and maintaining education. In view of these facts of the public benefit which would result from such studies and of the indispensable preparation which they would give for technical instruction, the commission recommends that a fund of at least $350,000 be provided by the Dominion Government and paid to the several provinces pro rata on the basis of the population. That amount is separate from and in addition to the sum of $3,000,000 which the commission recommends should be provided by the Dominion Parliament to assist the provinces in providing industrial training and technical education for the youths of the provinces after the age of fourteen.

Development in Farming

As an example of what is practicable under Ontario conditions for the improvement of agriculture, Dr. Robertson cited some specific cases from the illustration farms carried on under the Committee on Lands of the Commission on Conservation. These illustration farms were chosen by groups of farmers themselves. The illustration farmer is the one of themselves who has agreed to carry on his farm work for his personal advantage and for the improvement of the farming of the neighborhood. He receives about six visits per year from counsellors employed by the Commission of Conservation. The members of the Neighborhood Improvement Association of the locality also go over his farm twice a year and discuss with him the methods of growing crops and the management of the business.

From Waterloo county, as the result of after-harvest cultivation carried out as advised, the illustration farmer reported a yield of fifteen bushels of oats per acre more than the yield on the other part of the same field managed in the old way. He reported an increase of three tons of sugar beets per acre, worth $16. Other illustration farmers reported increases of oats of from eight to ten bushels per acre. One farmer in Eastern Ontario reported that his crop of roots for stock feeding purposes was two-thirds greater on the part of the field managed according to the suggestions of the Commisison of Conservation than on the remainder of the field. In brief, taking the illustration farms in the province of Ontario, the reports show that the farmers themselves on the areas which they managed according to the recommendations of the Commission, obtained an average of about $10 per acre of profits above what they were making by the old methods—$10 per acre of increase in profits, not in gross revenue.

The opinions of those who appeared before the Commission were unanimous as to the need of financial assistance in some form from the Dominion Government. The form in which it should be provided was not defined but the commission presented an outline of a policy by which co-operation between the Dominion and the provinces might be effected without the least interference with the control of education by the provincial Governments as provided for by the British North America Act. The chief principles which the commission stated as governing their recomemndations were as follows:

The Underlying Principles

The commission is of the opinion that Industrial Training and Technical Education in order to be of the greatest benefit to individuals, to industrial development, to localities, to the several provinces, and to the Dominion as a whole, should be organized and maintained in accordance with the following principles:

1. It should be under provincial control and regulation.

2. It should receive financial support from individuals, from local authorities, from provincial governments and from the Dominion.

3. Provision should be made for active participation in its control, management and direction of individuals in the locality who would represent industries as employers and employees, agriculture, women's occupations, particularly housekeeping, business and organized education.

4. It should provide educational opportunities for those who have gone to work and also for those who are able to return and devote their time for some months or years, as the case may be, to a course or courses of instruction and training.

5. It should take provision to ensure as far as practicable, equality of opportunity for all preparing for industrial, agricultural and housekeeping occupations and for workers in such occupations.

6. It should be carried out in cordial co-operation with existing systems of education, and in such a way as to have the advantage of the use of existing buildings, equipment and teaching staff so far as these may be suitable and available.

As Applied to Ontario

Under the policy recommended by the commission there would be two Dominion development funds for technical instruction and training, one of $350,000 a year to promote pre-vocational training by means of experimental science, manual training, drawing, domestic science and nature study and the other, of $3,000,000 annually to supplement local efforts in providing vocational education for those who are past public school age.

The people of Ontario could draw from these funds to the extent of over a million dollars annually, besides receiving from Dominion authorities the co-operation and advisory help of highly trained and experienced counsellors in starting new kinds of schools, as for example for textile workers, and in the development of new industries.

In Ontario there are 39 towns and cities, each with a population of over 5,000. These contain a total population of 953,896. It is estimated that within seven years there would be in these places about 20,000 pupils in the schools for the vocational training of those over fourteen years of age. These towns and cities would draw from the Dominion development funds up to $330,000 a year,

FORTY BOMBS WERE PLANTED

Another Youth Makes an Amazing Confession.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Anthony Sadaitys, a youth of nineteen, the latest sensation of the Sylvestro trial, told the court of his employment by a gang of blackmailers during which he planted about forty bombs, receiving from $1 to $30 for each job.

This story rivals that of Alfred Lehman and Rocco Ducielli, who preceded him on the stand. He was born in the Williamsburgh section of Brooklyn, he said, had never attended school and committed his first serious offence, burglary, in 1909. Since that time he confessed to thirty burglaries, forty bomb outrages, thirty horse and wagon thefts and one murderous assault. His connection with the blackmailers began he said in November, 1912, when he met Fucielli and several leaders of the gang and became a "mechanic" or bomb planter. One of his principal jobs was to get dynamite, which he said he stole out of a tunnel in Jersey City and from construction work in Sullivan County, N.Y.

CITY TO APPLY FOR LEGISLATION

Will Ask for Definition of Light and Power Company's Property.

At the next session of the Ontario Legislature, the city wil apply for legislation, permitting the name of the Peterboro Water Commissioners being changed to the Peterboro Utilities Commission.

The city will also ask that the property of the Peterboro Light & Power Co., be defined more clearly. This is to facilitate the expropriation proceedings of the city.

Legislation will also be asked to permit the city to borrow $10,000, without asking the assent of the ratepayers by by-law, to assist the Peterboro Health Association in erecting a sanitorium.

FIELDING SENDS IN RESIGNATION

Sir Hugh Graham Controls Herald-Telegraph, He Says.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—Hon. W. S. Fielding yesterday resigned the editorship of the newly amalgamated Herald and Telegraph.

Mr. Fielding states that he was led to accept the presidency of the combined papers in the first instance under a misapprehension. He now finds that The Herald-Telegraph is under the control of Sir Hugh Graham, proprietor of The Montreal Star, and as Mr. Fielding finds he cannot see eye to eye with Sir Hugh on many matters of public concern he feels bound to resign. He explains that when he agreed to accept the editorship he was led to understand that while Sir Hugh Graham has some interest in the concern, he did not control the paper's policy, but that the actual financial control was in the hands of a prominent Liberal.

To-day the managing editor, B. A. Deacon, the commercial editor, Frank Calder, and the commercial editor, Mr. Hanna, resigned their positions, and are replaced by men who were, prior to the merger, engaged on The Daily Telegraph.

BAPTIST PASTOR MAKES REPLY TO FATHER VAUGHAN

Anglican Church not Doomed Says Rev. Dr. Sullivan — Church of England One of the Greatest Powers of the World

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—Speaking at Olivet Baptist Church, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Sullivan took up the cudgels for the Church of England, and delivered a vigorous reply to the statement recently made by Father Bernard Vaughan that that church was doomed.

At the outset Dr. Sullivan reminded his hearers that he, himself, had been brought up in the Roman Catholic Church, and that he could still say there was no one he liked better than a good Roman Catholic. He found that people who had been brought up as Roman Catholics, when converted made excellent Baptists, and God had given him many good Roman Catholics as members of his church while he had been in Montreal. It was not priests or theology that would save souls, Dr. Sullivan said, but our Lord Jesus Christ, than whom there was no other Saviour, and the Protestant Christians of Montreal, though few in number, had put the Bible and Christ in their proper place.

Dr. Sullivan Quotes Authorities.

Proceeding with his argument, Dr. Sullivan denied that the Roman Church had been founded by St. Peter, who it was claimed was its first bishop for twenty-five years. He quoted authorities to show that it was doubtful if St. Peter had ever been in Rome, and quite impossible for him to have been its first bishop. As a matter of fact, the first man who mentioned it was Dionysius, at the close of the second century. The real force of the world to-day, he added, was the Protestant religion.

Admitting that Father Bernard Vaughan was one of the most interesting and clever men in the Roman Catholic Church, the preacher likened him to the man in the Psalms who "speaketh unadvisedly with his lips." Father Vaughan was evidently not as anxious to tell the truth as to carry his audience with him. He had declared that the Church of England was High and Low and Broad, but that it would not be long. This remark, Dr. Sullivan characterized as more of a witticism than a wisdom. The Church of England, he said, was an institution which was old, tried, and valued. Lots of people believed there was no Church of England before Henry VIII., no open Bible, no Protestantism, but in reality there was a historical continuity of the Church of England going back to the sixth century.

It was true that Augustine came from Rome and brought the Apostles creed which all Protestants believed in, but at that day there was no Papal infallibility, which did not come till 1870, no immaculate conception, no oracular confession, which originated in the thirteenth century, and no purgatorial flames. The Christianity of Augustine was the Christianity of the New Testament. But there was preaching of the Scripture in England before Augustine, and the developments which took place on the continent took place also to some extent in England. but the English church was always bitterly opposed to the interference of Rome in their local affairs. It was clear, he thought, that the Anglican bodies in England were the legitimate descendants not only of the Christianity founded by Augustine but of the Christianity which existed in England before his time.

History of the Dispute.

The Rev. Dr. Sullivan traced the history of the dispute which had arisen between Anglican bishops in East Africa and had spread to England, and refused to believe that such a controversy could have any permanent effect on the progress of the Church, or Father Vaughan, who three years ago had insulted the whole Protestant community of Montreal by declaring that Protestantism had no soul, would have them believe. The Church of England was a huge institution doing a splendid work in Old England, a church which in the diocese of London alone had more than twice as many members as the Roman Catholic church had in the whole of Great Britain. In 1912 the Church of England in England and Wales had given forty million dollars in voluntary contributions for church purposes. Ninety-five out of every hundred persons in Great Britain were Protestants, then where did Father Vaughan get his foolish and wayward prophecy? The Church of England he regarded as one of the greatest forces for the propagation of the Gospel in the world to-day.

Greatest Problem of History.

Contrasting it with the Roman Catholic Church Dr. Sullivan said that on the other hand the only places where the Church of Rome makes any progress are places like South America, places like Spain and Portugal, places where the mass of the people cannot read and think for themselves—the less they think the easier managed. The Roman Catholic Church to-day was face to face with the greatest problem of its history.

"A Church," he stated, "that is founded on invocation of saints and angels, on confession to priests, and on cleansing through purgatorial fire, cannot stand the searchlight of modern times, and any church which is out of harmony with the sweet reasonableness of modern thought is doomed."

POLICE MAY HAVE MAN

on the circular, very likely a reward is offered for his arrest.

The police chief had a long talk with the prisoner, who admitted that his name is Brodeur. He says the woman shot herself. Her husband worked at nights and he (prisoner) was in the habit of calling at the home.

Brodeur did not give out any explanation as to the shooting, his statement being that he did not know.

Finger Prints the Same

The finger prints obtained this morning by the police department, are identically the same as those of the circular, and this can readily be detected without the aid of the glass. The small scar on the middle finger, right hand, corresponds with the circular. The various lines are also evident proof that the police have the right man

Nothing was found in the pockets of the prisoner when searched last evening, the clothes in which he was garbed, being rather the worse for wear. Last evening he displayed considerable nervousness when he was questioned by the detectives.

Officer Is Coming

The Chief received a telegram from Chief Quilty of Springfield, that an officer was leaving on the noon train today and would take the man off their hands. He admits stealing the fur coat, of which he is now in possession.

The arrest brings credit to the police department and Detective Newhall, Constable Meagher in particular. Detective Newhall has been the means of bringing about the arrest of a number of criminals who made the fatal mistake of thinking that this city afforded a safe hiding place.

With the regulations being carried out at Guelph, it is hard to find an answer for the prisoner's getaway from that place. The department there quite likely received the same circular as was sent here.

Homemade Kitchen Cupboard.

A good many small kitchens have not enough cupboard space, and the housekeeper often wishes it were possible to make a small cupboard at home. To do so purchase from your grocer a cracker box with a hinged cover, put on strong hinges in place of tin ones and a fastener for front of the door, stand the box on end and put two shelves, leaving space on top shelf for spices in boxes. Have the middle shelf just deep enough for tapioca, cornstarch, raisins, cereals, etc. That will leave the bottom shelf quite deep. You can put jars in for rice, split peas, etc. Don't have shelves come quite to the edge of the box. Put the hook on the inside of door for a cookbook. Put hooks on outside of closet for scissors, can opener, etc. Paint the outside of closet or cover with oilcloth.

THREE HUNDRED OUT OF WORK IN PETERBORO SAYS CORRESPONDENT

A "Thunderbolt" Reply to the Review—Reader Gives His Own Views on the Situation — Strictures on Toronto Reporters

To the Editor of The Review.

Sir,—In reply to your editorial column, "The Evil of Emigration," no doubt you have hit the mark, to a great extent, when you say: The old pioneers came out to Canada; not to have a good time, but to WORK—and this should apply to every person, who comes out to-day; he must be prepared to do whatever his hand finds to do, and do it with his might.

It is certainly good advice, and it sounds nice too; more like an immigration agent's advice, than an editors. However, he would be a foolish immigrant who thought otherwise. But now let us get to business.

At the present time thousands are out of work in Canada, and a great many in Peterborough, probably 300 or more.

Can you inform them where to get work in Peterborough, or even in Canada; or can anyone else? providing they want to work.

You refer to the following comment from "John Bull": "Turning to the Hamilton Spectator, another Canadian paper—not an English paper, Mr. Editor—but Canadian.

It says: Many of the Government agents in the Old Country are liars and paid to lie. (I believe it.)

"They give sun-burst glow accounts of Canada and state, we could place 50,000 men at work in Canada, but do they tell them it is only for three months harvesting time; the remaining nine months they could look for work in Toronto, Peterborough, etc. Of course they do not. Do you believe this to be true—or can you deny it, Mr. Editor?

Now, as regards myself. When I came to Canada a few years ago, I was sent to a Captain Butler, at Brighton. When I got there, no one was more surprised than the captain; he wanted no one, and had never applied for anyone; he was sorry for me, etc., etc., and told me the people who sent me must have got his name from the apple barrels sent to England. Luckily I got work in Peterborough.

However, you also state a reporter of the Toronto newspapers disguised himself as a working man, and had two jobs offered him. You also state that if a reporter could get employment, how much easier it would be for a man, who was willing to work. But you do not state what the jobs were, perhaps immaginery ones. No doubt that reporter wants a raise. I have heard some Toronto reporters are energetic liars or jack-asses; I believe it now.

In face of the above, the Toronto papers are filled with ads., of men looking for employment, and according to The Review of last evening, which says, 5,000 unemployed took part in yesterday's demonstration in Toronto. Still you call it prosperous Canada, but where is the work?

But what I consider the most important part, I will try to explain, to the best of my ability. From March to September (immigration harvest time) the immigration agents, church army, Salvation Army, etc., I believe, get $5 a head in England, for immigrants sent to Canada.

In the majority of cases, they are simply fighting, not for the $5, "Oh, no." Only to see who can dump the greatest number of immigrants into Canada.

Of course, being summer months, they can generally find work with farmers, or outside work of some kind; or else in the factories.

As the winter approaches, say November, those employed on farms, for a few months, bricklayers, masons, carpenters, etc., and their laborers, and a host of foreigners, invariably make for the factories. The result is, there are too many men in Canada for the winter every year, and a host of unemployed throughout Canada during the winter months, and it seems to be getting worse every year, instead of beter.

If there are too many men in Canada for unskilled labor, surely the Government can stop immigration into Ontario, as they have done in Vancouver, and if too many in Canada, why don't they stop the Government grant to the Government agents and others in England, for a year or two; until things are better for the laboring men, instead of having them going about in this prosperous Canada, as the Government calls it; with its mass of unemployed in almost every town and city, and with hungry and half-starved families, scattered throughout it, and with no work, except that found by councils, etc., to tide the winter over.

Surely Mr. Editor, the Government can do something in this matter.

In the meantime I hope the people from the British Isles and Ireland will forward some of the Canadian papers, (the more the merrier), to the M.P.'s representing them in the Old Country, also to the editors of papers in their own towns.

It will not be necessary to write a letter, just draw a black line around the paragraph, it will do for mourning, and let them guess the remainder, and who sent it. Simply put on M.P. for so and so.

Probably the British Government will then take the case up as regards immigrants, should the Canadian Government do nothing in the matter.

Yours,
H.M.S. THUNDERBOLT.

A Few Facts for All Who Want To Make Money

Wise and rich men advise their friends to buy Lots in the way of a growing city. Plain common sense endorses that advice.

All must acknowledge that Peterborough is growing rapidly south and west.

It is generally known that I own a very desirable block of high land half a mile south and west from C.G.E. Works, overlooking the south-end churches and schools, the C.P.R., G.T.R. and street car line, also all the big factories. I have subdivided this land into blocks of two lots, 50x123 ft. to a lane, 12 feet wide. Each lot containing 3,075 square feet. Those lots would be excellent value at $200 each, but because of my desire to be freed from business I have decided to sell for $175, and accept deposits of $5 on one or two Lots to which I will add a bonus of $5, giving a receipt for $10. No interest nor any further payments required until May, when official plan will be registered. All lots properly staked and balance of streets, Cottsmore, Ford avenue, and Western Avenue graded to the Gravel Road.

RESTRICTIONS:—BRICK, BRICK VANEER, CONCRETE, OR STONE HOUSES ONLY PERMITTED.

Other lots 30x127—3,810 square feet for $150, and $200, on same terms. Free deed and perfect title.

This offer will never be repeated.

ESTIMATES ANNOUNCED---MAIN DOMINION EXPENDITURES $190,735,176

Decrease of About Twelve Millions is Seen in Projected Disbursements Brought Down in Commons—They Consist Chiefly of Revotes.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—The Government's estimated expenditure for 1914-16 is $190,735,176, which is a decrease of about $12 millions compared with the present year. The main estimates were tabled in the Commons yesterday, and are for the most part fixed charges, re-votes and votes for public works already in process of construction. Comparatively speaking, there are very few appropriations for new works in the main estimates, and it is anticipated that the supplementary estimates, which will be tabled later in the session, will contain fairly large appropriations for new works.

There is an increase of over half a million for civil government, which means chiefly salaries for civil servants, an increase of over one million and a quarter for agriculture, a decrease of $71,905 for militia and defence, a decrease of $138,759 for railways and canals, a decrease of $3,702,702 for public works, a decrease of $150,006 for the naval service, and an increase of nearly two millions for the postoffice department.

Toronto fares well in the public works estimates. The total of $1,961,500 includes $1,000,000 on harbor improvements, $220,000 for a military building, and the remainder largely for custom house and post-office buildings.

The increase in the agriculture department is chiefly made up on the following: Experimental farms, $110,000; entomology, $20,000; administration of destructive insect and pest act, $20,000; dairying and fruit, $20,000; cold storage, $26,000; health of animals, $50,000; development of live stock industry, $200,000; to enforce seed act, $10,000.

It is evident that the Government intends to pay more attention to immigration, for there is an increase of $283,750. In the Militia Department there is seen a decrease of $71,905. The increases for various portions of work are: Annual drill, $170,000; clothing, $100,000; permanent force, $120,000. The decreases are: Engineer services and works, $288,600; ordnance, arms, lands and equipment, $60,865; stores, $122,100.

The vote of $2,500,000 for terminals at Halifax includes a revote of $1,700,000. One million will be spent on rolling stock for the Intercolonial Railway. There is no particularly new item in canals. Repairs and improvements to the Cornwall Canal will cost $29,500; Rideau Canal, $30,000; Soulanges, $101,150; Trent, $178,000; Welland, $82,000.

Public works in Ontario include: French River waterway improvements, $500,000; Port Arthur and Fort William harbor, $1,000,000; Toronto harbor, $1,000,000, which includes a revote of $866,000.

Aurora public building, $25,000, revote, $15,000; Acton, $20,000, revote, $10,000; Aylmer 30,000, revote $7,000.

SEVERE COLD ON LUNGS AND CHEST QUICKLY RELIEVED

by Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne

Mr. J. Seward, Bromptonville, Que., writes:

"Two weeks ago I took a severe cold which settled on my lungs and my chest was very sore, breathing tight and severe hacking cough. I was feeling miserable. I bought a bottle of Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne and after a few doses I felt great relief and I went into a sound sleep, a thing I was not able to do for some nights. Next day I was able to be around again, and before completing the bottle, felt as well as ever. It is a fine cough and cold cure."

Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne relieves the irritation and "stuffed-up" feeling in the air passages, soothes the tickling which makes you cough, loosens the phlegm and drives out the cold before it gets troublesome.

LIUAN CHOW LOOTED.

Chinese Bandits Sack and Burn City in Nganhwei.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 30.—A force of 2,000 bandits yesterday sacked and burned virtually the entire City of Liuan Chow, in the Province of Nganhwei.

W. Entwistle, of the China inland mission, with his wife and children, succeeded in escaping to Luchawfu, but the Catholic missionaries are still in the looted city, and it is believed they have not been injured.

The brigands apparently are connected with the bands commanded by "White Wolf," who have for a considerable time been ravaging the eastern part of the Province of Hanan.

Mild Weather Hits Coal Mines.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30. — Because of the unusually mild weather, some of the anthracite coal-producing companies are greatly reducing their output. The Reading Company's collieries, employing 30,000 men, closed down Wednesday night for the remainder of the week. Yesterday the collieries of the Susquehanna Coal Co., a Pennsylvania Railroad corporation, suspended operations until Monday. Miners say they cannot recall such long-continued mild weather at this season of the year.

VOTE OF WANT OF CONFIDENCE HINGED ON FREE WHEAT

Dr. Neely's Amendment to Address in Reply to the Speech From the Throne is Defeated by a Majority of 45—Western Members Spend Time Sitting on Arguments in Favor of Removing Wheat Duty.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30. — Dr. Neely's resolution of lack of confidence in the Government parading under the guise of a plea for free wheat was the subject of long speeches in the Commons yesterday. With the exception of W. F. Maclean (South York) and J. H. Rainville (Chambly and Vercheres) the Government members did not participate. After several Western Liberals had spoken a division was taken, and apart from the merits of the tariff issue involved the motion of lack of confidence was voted down by 102 to 57, a majority of 45. W. F. Maclean voted with the Opposition.

Mr. McNutt (Saltcoats), resuming the debate, said the same quality of wheat averaged 10 cents a bushel higher in the United States than in Canada for the decade ending Dec. 31, 1911. Since then the "spread" has been less pronounced, amounting at present to about 6 cents. The price of wheat at Liverpool had been steadily falling of late. Wheat which brought $1.18 in Liverpool market in 1912 dropped to 98c. in 1913. Mr. McNutt said that he could not understand why the Government turned a deaf ear to a unanimous request from the people of Western Canada, unless it was because they were sewed up with the railway companies and the big milling companies, and had to obey their mandates.

Mr. Rainville (Chambly and Vercheres) said the western members must remember that the people of eastern Canada had made great sacrifices in order to construct the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railways. These expenditures had not been sanctioned with the expectation that the products of Western Canada would be shipped to the United States.

"We want these products," he said, "to be preserved for the benefit of our railways, our ports and our people."

Mr. Rainville doubted if the Canadian farmer would ever get a higher price for anything he produced by gaining free access to the American markets. The duty on hay, he said, had been reduced by [illegible] per ton, but the Canadian farmer did not get any more for his hay.

More food, Mr. Rainville argued, and free food was the need of Canada, and he recommended some changes in the immigration policy, and that more attention be paid to intensive farming. He thought the middleman should be largely dispensed with by co-operation among the producers under Government supervision.

Mr. Cruise (Dauphin) argued for free wheat. The Government, he said, should show a sympathetic feeling for the West.

W. F. Maclean (South York) followed.

"The western press," he said, "without regard to party, favored free wheat, and the Liberal Legislature of Saskatchewan had combined with the Conservative Legislature of Manitoba in asking that it be granted. No one in Western Canada opposed giving the Western people what they wanted in this regard, except the big railway companies and the big milling companies. Ontario certainly had no grudge against the West, but desired, above all things, the well-being and prosperity of the three great provinces so largely settled by Ontario people."

Mr. Douglas (Strathcona) drew attention to the fact that no new land was being broken up in the West and production was at a standstill, as many people were leaving the country. He read the official returns to show that only 20,000 more people, all told, had come to Canada from the United States than had gone to the United States from Canada since Jan. 1, 1907. A large part of the Canadian immigration to the south represented dissatisfied American settlers. They found in Canada a cramped market, high freight rates, high prices for implements, lumber, etc., with steadily falling prices for grain.

Two Millions Demanded.

BOSTON, Jan. 30.—Alleging that the United Shoe Machinery Co. has continuously violated the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, and that, therefore, the statutes of limitations do not apply, Charles A. Strout of Portland, Me., trustee of the Goddu Sons' Metal Fastening Co., filed a second suit against the United Shoe Machinery Co. in the Federal Court yesterday. Damages of $2,000,000 are asked.

The plaintiff charges that through false representations three officials of the company succeeded in preventing the Goddu Company from competing with the United.

Suffragettes Disturbed Labor Meeting and Were Put Out.

GLASGOW, Jan. 30. — Although the Labor party is the only one which has espoused the enfranchisement of women, the militants are always more obstreperous at the labor meeting than at any other. This was strikingly illustrated at the meeting held in St. Andrew's Hall last night at which James Ramsay Macdonald, Socialist and Labor member for Leicester, presided. From start to finish his speech was punctuated by interruptions from the women. More than a score of militants were ejected, most of them screaming wildly and striking out in all directions.

Mr. Macdonald's declaration that the Labor party was out to fight for woman's franchise failed to modify the militant hostility.

Havoc Threatened by Ice Jam.

FORT GEORGE, B.C., Jan. 30.—An ice jam at the mouth of the Nechaco river yesterday flooded the eastern portion of Prince George and threatened to destroy the Foley warehouse. Several families were forced to seek higher land. The temperature is 20 below zero. The jam later broke, carrying away a portion of the G. T. P. temporary bridge.

Castro Off for Porto Rico.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Jan. 30.—Rumors current in Caracas that Gen. Cipriano Castro, ex-President of Venezuela, had arrived in Trinidad, are unfounded. Advices received in the Venezuelan colony here are to the effect that the former dictator recently sailed from a European port for Porto Rico, by way of New York, to join his family.

Indian Regiment of Mutiny Days.

The days when the East India Company held sway in India, are recalled by the transfer of the 127th Queen Mary's Own Baluchi Light Infantry from Poona to Karachi. This is the old 27th Bombay Light Infantry of the Honorable East India Company's service. It was raised in the year 1844 and since then has done good service in many parts of the Indian Empire. Its first great campaign was in the Indian Mutiny days of 1857-59, when it won great honors in the siege and capture of Delhi and various other operations in those desperate times. The 27th was in reserve during the actual assault of the place, and had a loss of 60 killed and wounded before the Union Jack waved over the captured fortress of the Moguls.

SIMPLE LIFE DOWN ON THE FARM FOR FRANK GOTCH

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Wrestling promoters here have been trying for some time to bring Frank Gotch, the heavyweight champion of the world, to New York, for three bouts with foreign mat artists. He was offered $65,000. Gotch refused the offer and says he will never wrestle again.

From his Iowa farm Gotch, in replying to the New York offer, wrote that he positively had given up wrestling forever. His wife and he had gone over the situation, he wrote, and nothing "will induce me to change my mind."

The call of the foreigns and the offer of big New York purses, he said, will never make him leave his farm again. He suggested that Beell and Americus get together and let the winner defend the title, saying that he was willing to waive his rights in favor of the better of the two.

BALL MEETING TO-NIGHT; SAINTS MAY SELL FRANCHISE

St. Thomas Club Has Several Offers, Youngstown Said to be One

Attention is again called to the meeting of the baseball club tonight, in the Bank of Montreal Chambers. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

According to reports from St. Thomas, the basebal moguls in the railway town are talking about transferring their franchise.

St. Thomas, Jan. 30.—The local directors of the Canadian League club met and practically decided to transfer the franchise of the St. Thomas club to Youngstown, Ohio. The action was taken because of the refusal of the council to grant certain considerations.

Negotiations have been under way for some time past with baseball men in the Ohio city, and the action of the aldermen in turning down a few requests have given the club good reasons to take the action which will in all probability end in the loss of Canadian league ball to the Railway City fans.

Secretary Edward Killingsworth, of the club, now a resident of London, will go to Youngstown on Monday to make further inquiries in the proposition, which looks exceptionally good to the local directors.

The Youngstown gentlemen have, since Erie has been admitted to the organization, notified the St. Thomas club that they stand ready to purchase the franchise outright from the present owners, and if this is not satisfactory, would consider taking as much stock in the company as the owners desire to sell.

Youngstown has a fine ball park, seating 5000 people, and has a population of over 80,000. The mileage from Erie to Youngstown is no consideration, being only a few hours' ride from the Gem City. The rising of the league to Class B. ball has been a big boost, and franchises are now worth considerable. Youngstown and Erie were the mainstays of the 12-club Central League of 1912, and Manager Craven, of the local club, is loud in his praises of the Ohio city as a ball town, having played a number of years while with Grand Rapids.

MUCH INTEREST IN MERCANTILE

Usual Bill of Three Games for Next Monday Night.

Tool Room vs. Plumbers.
De Laval vs. Test.
Bankers vs. Examiner.

These are the Mercantile League games billed for Monday night. Excitement and interest over this league is growing every week and there will no doubt be a large number of fans out to see the boys go. The way the league stands now, the Bankers, Test or Tool Room, can afford to lose a game. If they have a clean sheet for the remaining games the Test and Tool Room will have to play off their tie and if the latter outfit wins, the Test and Bankers will be tied for the honors.

Mr. Len Dobson will handle Monday night's games.

THREE COUNTIES GIVE VERDICT IN FAVOR OF TEMPERANCE

Huron Voters Give Big Majority at 2,508 Votes, But Peel and Welland Record a Close Poll—Recount in Welland Almost Certain

GODERICH, Jan. 30.—By a majority of 2,508 votes, the Canada Temperance Act was carried in Huron County yesterday. Only one township and a village gave a majority against the act. It's effect will be to abolish thirty-four licenses. The campaign was carried on energetically by both sides.

The Dominion Alliance workers terminated their efforts in continued prayer and song service, which lasted all day. The license holders and their supporters feel their defeat keenly, but have taken it good-naturedly.

At Wingham the temperance workers of the town and vicinity celebrated the victory with a thanksgiving service in the town hall.

Recoung in Welland Probable.

WELLAND, Jan. 30.—Welland County yesterday adopted the Canada Temperance Act by the narrow majority of 19, and there is yet a chance that some of the figures are in error. A recount is almost certain.

The first count of the total showed a majority of 75. Corrected returns, however, reduced it first to 68, and later to 19, at which it stood after repeated verifications.

The Township of Pelham, under the Dunkin Act, and Wainfleet and Thorold, under local option, are responsible for carrying the act.

The liquor interests attribute their defeat to the fact that the temperance people were responsible for using old lists in eight municipalities, cutting off about 600 voters, they declare.

The Vote In Peel County.

BRAMPTON, Jan. 30.—Peel County endorsed the Canada Temperance Act yesterday by a majority of 54. The majorities in the various townships, town and villages were as follows:

Brampton, 21 against; Chinguacousy, 253 for; Caledon, 45 against; Streetsville, 35 against; Castlemore, 16 against; Port Credit, 31 against; Cooksville, 8 against; Erindale, 32 against; Dixie, 28 for; Harris' Corners, 33 for; Meadowvale, 12 for; Palatine, 15 against; Malton, 2 against; Clarkson, 13 for; Albion Township, 29 against.

The adoption of the act wipes out eight licenses — one in Meadowvale, one in Erindale, two in Streetsville, one in Cooksville, one at Port Credit and two club licenses, Caledon Fisheries and Lorne Park Club.

MADE STATE RELIGION.

Confuscianism To Be Official Faith of Chinese Republic.

PEKIN, China, Jan. 30. — A bill prescribing the Confucian religion and the worship of heaven by the president of the Chinese republic was passed yesterday by the administrative council, which took the place of the Chinese Parliament, recently dissolved by President Yuan Shi Kai. The measure was submitted to the council by Yuan Shi Kai himself.

It is understood that the President's idea is to set an example to the Chinese nation, which he thinks needs the moral-building influence of religion. The President will worship at the Temple of Confucius and at the Temple of Heaven annually in the same way as the Manchu emperors did, but without wearing the diadem. The diadem was proposed, but was not adopted owing to criticism that it was another indication of Yuan Shi Kai's monarchial designs.

The question of the introduction of a state religion has created considerable controversy in China, the Christian missionaries of all sects, as well as Buddhists, Taoists and Mohammedans, opposing such a step.

KINGSTON, Jan. 30.—Frank Hoover will stand trial on a charge of arson. He was arrested yesterday, charged with setting fire to the Canadian Pacific Railway station at Mountain Grove, where he was formerly employed as station agent. Arraigned before County Magistrate Smith, he elected to be tried before the Court of General Sessions.

ROSS IN HOSPITAL.

Sir George Now Across Corridor From Ancient Rival.

TORONTO, Jan. 30.—Two leaders of men, who fought each other strenuously for many years across the floor of the Legislature, are now lying on opposite sides of the same corridor in the private patients' pavilion of the Toronto General Hospital. Together they are now fighting a common enemy.

Sir George Ross arrived in Toronto early yesterday morning, having come from Ottawa accompanied by his son, Dr. George W. Ross, in the private car of Hon. Frank Cochrane, generously loaned by the Minister of Railways. Sir George is suffering from kidney trouble, which, while necessarily serious in a man of his years, is not considered so serious as to cause immediate alarm. He is being attended by his son and by Dr. William Goldie. Last night his condition was reported as improved. During the day he was quite cheerful, and is perfectly clear in his mind.

"Sir James has had a better and a relatively restful day," said Dr. Alexander McPhedran last night in his bulletin on the condition of the Prime Minister. "There is very little fever, and he has taken his food well."

The trouble in Sir James' knee, Dr. McPhedran said, had disturbed his rest, but it would get better. Apart from this affection his condition was about the same.

Mud pies in January are rather an unseasonable delicacy, yet the children were enjoying this pleasant pastime, on some of the streets yesterday. This is better than a "hand full of March dust, and yet there are people who complain of the bitterness of our Canadian winters.

Miss Gladman's social dancing class was held last night in the Conservatory of Music Hall.

Mr. H. C. Brayley, manager of the World Syndicate Service, Ltd., Toronto, was in the city yesterday.

Rev. W. B. Smith B.A., of the Hespeler Methodist Church, has accepted a call to become pastor of the Methodist congregation at Oakville.

As to the much discussed question of a police woman, the writer was one of the women who solicited signatures to the petition recently presented to the police commissioners, and found when first mentioning the subject, many of the ladies exclaimed in wonder, "A police woman! would not that be rather rough?" But when the nature of the duties was explained to them, they without a single exception, were convinced that it would be an excellent thing for the girls and women of our city. Every one who was asked to sign, did so very willingly. It is to be hoped the services of one will be obtained very soon; the fact that they have proved such a success in other places, is proof of it being a step in the right direction.

At the Sunday morning worship at Mark Street Methodist Church, a memorial service will be conducted in connection with the cradle roll of the Sunday School. Miss Edwina Palmer, pupil of Miss Adamson of the local Conservatory, passed her final violin examination at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, yesterday. Miss Palmer is one of the first violins of the Conservatory Orchestra. Miss Palmer has congratulations and best wishes for further success from her many friends.

Last evening the adult members of All Saints' Church, numbering about twenty-five, partook of a delightful sleigh drive to Nassau. The party left the aPrish Hall at 8 o'clock returning about 9.30. Singing of songs and choruses were in great evidence and altogether all agreed that a more enjoyable function could not be held. On returning, refreshments were served in the Parish Hall by Mr. T. H. Hooper.

In connection with the refreshments another very enjoyable event took place. Mr. George E. Chandler, the choir master, with a few chosen words, presented Mr. F. Downton, one of the choir members, with a silver plated butter knife, on the occasion of his recent marriage. Mr. Downton was too surprised for words, but it was easily understood by his pleasant smile that he was exceedingly grateful.

The evening closed with the singing of songs and a few instrumental selections. The members are very grateful to Mr. Geo. Gast for his untiring efforts in making the evening so enjoyable.

WEDDING BELLS

BROWNLEE—PECK

Evidently the cold weather of January (a month which has almost beaten records in stepping down stairs in temperature) is powerless to check the gentle but successful warfare of Field Marshall Cupid, whose victories are many and notable, no hearts, even in fearless Minden, being proof against his tactics.

On the évening of Tuesday 27th inst., the Rev. Pierre B. deLom, L. Th., F.R.G.S., Incumbent of St. George's Church, Haliburton, the Rural Dean, having been summoned to tie a nuptial knot, arrived at 7 o'clock at the cosey residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Welch, for a pretty but quiet wedding in their tastefully arranged drawing room, where, in the presence of their chosen witnesses, relatives and friends, were united in holy wedlock, Mr. Charles Stuart Brownlee, printer, well known and deservedly popular upon the staff of The Minden Echo, and Miss Cora Winnifred Peck, equally well known in business, and held in esteem by her fellow citizons of Minden, and the members of St. Paul's Church.

The full service impressively taken part in, the pretty wedding ceremony was followed by a delightful repast, which gave opportunity for many complimentary and kind expressions of good-will to the happy couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Brownlee, with warm best wishes for their prosperity throughout life's journey.—Minden Echo.

Many local friends of the groom will extend best wishes.

AN EVENING WITH THE ODDFELLOWS

Address on Architecture and Musical Programme.

The second of a series of entertainments arranged to take place during the winter season, under the auspices of Peterboro Lodge I.O.O.F., was held last evening in Oddfellows' Hall, and there was a big gathering of the members and their friends.

The object of these entertainments is to get the members better acquainted in a social way and to furnish at the same time, an opportunity for developing some of the latent talent among the membership. A fine address given last evening by Bro. W. H. Barry on Architecture, Ancient and Modern, showed how instructive and entertaining these educational features of the program may be made. The musical program given by some of the best local talent, was much enjoyed and encores were numerous. The program was as follows:

Vocal solo—Mrs. McLaren.
Vocal solo—Mr. Heafield.
Violin selection—Mrs. Boyd.
Vocal solo—Mrs. R. W. Davidson.
Quartette vocal—Messrs. Cole, Johnson, Dartnell and Fraser.
Lecture—W. H. Barry.
Selection—Mandolin club.
Vocal solo—Mrs. McLaren.
Violin selection—Mrs. Boyd, Mr. Heafield.
Vocal solo—Mrs. R. W. Davidson.
Quartette vocal—Messrs. Cole, Johnson, Dartnell and Fraser.

The accompaniments were nicely played by Mrs. Logan. Bro. R. Martin, Noble Grand of Peterboro Lodge occupied the chair.

A vote of thanks to those who had taken part in the program was moved by Bro. David Moore P.G., seconded by Bro. G. A. Hamon, which met with the hearty approval of all present. In this the educational feature of the addresses being given, was referred to by Bro. Moore, who congratulated Peterboro Lodge on its talent. Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

MISS CLARRY IS HONORED

Presentation of $100 in Gold to Retiring Organist

At the Charlotte Street Church last evening, a most pleasant function was carried out under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. A splendid banquet was provided for the different boards of the Church, and members and their wives, at which something over 200 attended. The entertainment was tendered to Miss Clarry, who is resigning as organist of the Church, after ten years' of faithful and appreciative service.

After the splendid program of music, consisting of solos, duets, and trios, Miss Clarry was presented with an address as well as a purse of $100 in gold. The address was read by Mrs. Lane, and the presentation made by little Mary Elizabeth Wright, on behalf of the Ladies' Aid. Many kind words were said of Miss Clarry, who leaves shortly for Regina.

The toasts were interspersed with the musical part of the program. Mr. R. F. Downey was master of ceremonies, assisted by the Rev. T. J. Mansell. Among those who took part in the program were: Misses Jackson and King, Messrs. Downey, Skitch, Fleming, Gates and Lee. The different toasts were proposed and responded to by Mrs. Lyle, Mrs. Bookout, Dr. Morrison, Messrs. R. J. Kidd, R. Neill, A. B. Cunningham and others. All expressed their sorrow at the departure of Miss Clarry.

OBITUARY

WM. C. SPENCER.

The following is a clipping from the Stanfield, Oregon, paper, referring to the death of Wm. C. Spencer: The entire community received a shock from which it will take it some time to recover, when on Wednesday afternoon Wm. C. Spencer died after a very brief illness. The death was caused by peritonitis.

Mr. Spencer was a pioneer of the city and was well known by a large circle of friends. He was one of the most respected citizens any community could have and Stanfield people were proud to include him in their number. He was a member of the local camp of the M. W. A. and a member of the Masonic order; in December he was elected to the position of city Councilman and was serving in that capacity at the time of his death.

He was also a deacon in the Hope Presbyterian church. He was forty years of age. He is survived by his wife, his father, Mr. Wm. Spencer, of Warsaw, one brother, Jas. A. Spencer, of Lakefield, and two sisters, Mrs. Thos. Clements and Mrs. Arthur Carveth, both of Warsaw. The heartfelt sympathy is certainly extended to Mrs. Spencer and the other members of the family.

Mr. Spencer's mother predeceased him only three months ago.

The flowers were very beautiful and numerous, consisting of four large wreaths, one presented by the Masons, one from the Woodmen; the city and the choir of the church, also many bouquets of cut flowers from private families.

The funeral, which was in charge of the Masons, was held from Hope Presbyterian church at 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, January the 10th. Interment took place at the Stanfield cemetery. Services at the grave were conducted by the Masonic lodge of Echo.

WILLIAM CARVETH

Millbrook Reporter

We regret to announce the death of another of our most respected citizens on Monday last, Mr. Wm. Carveth. His face and form have been so familiar to us all in and about the village, his interest in every phase of our public life so deep and sympathetic, that we look upon his passing as the call home of one of the fathers of our community. For some forty years he has lived in Millbrook, except a few years in Manitoba, and no better friend, neighbor, and public spirited man ever honored his home town. He had been declining for some months with stomach trouble and laterly could partake of nothing but liquids, and even that could not be assimilated in the last days.

Mr. Carveth was active and far sighted in all that he undertook, as well as accurate and painstaking in his business life. A Liberal in politics, Presbyterian in religion, in his business life as butcher, bailiff and insurance agent, he was faithful in each and all, and gained the respect and confidence which integrity begets.

His bereaved widow and two daughters, Misses Amy and Kate, and two sons, Stanley in Saskatoon, and George at home, and four grand children mourn his call hence, although at his age of seventy-eight years, he had passed the allotted span. Many of us shall miss Mr. Carveth and recall with pleasure his true friendship. The funeral took place yesterday to the Presbyterian Cemetery, Rev. Wm. Johnston, the pastor, conducting the services.

MRS. DAVID WILSON

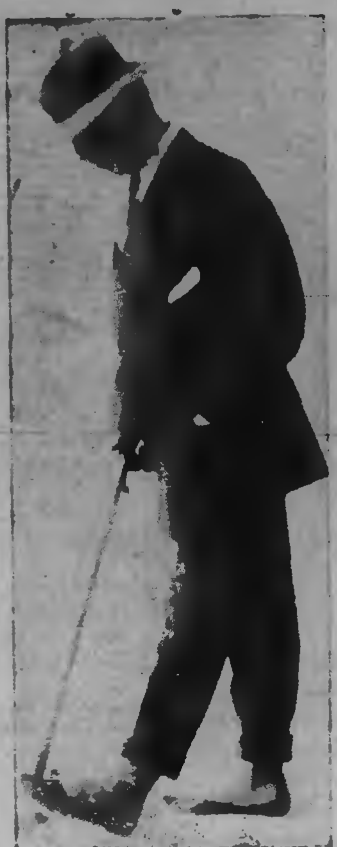
The death occurred last night of Jane Gibson, wife of Mr. David Wilson, of Springville. Deceased was born in the county of Cavan, Ireland, in 1836, but came to this country in the spring of 1855, and the following fall she married Mr. Wilson. She was a life-long resident of Springville, and her genial disposition won all with whom she came in contact.

In religion, she was a Presbyterian.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Rev. M. E. Wilson, of Toronto, and Mr. F. E. Wilson, of Springville, also two daughters, Mrs. John Hooten of Cavan, and Miss Elizabeth at home.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2.30, service at the house at 2 o'clock, by Rev. R. Pogue, and burial at the 9th line cemetery.

HOLLY SHEPARD



Holly Shepard, the man who makes minstrels, is in the city in connection with the Belmont Minstrel Show to be held in the Grand Opera House on February 12th and 13th. Mr. Shepard informs The Review that judging from the rehearsals the show is going to be bigger and better than ever. There are some 75 people, both ladies and gentlemen, participating in the show. Mrs. Shepard has taken charge of the rehearsals for the ladies and also the music.

TOM TERRISS IN SCROOGE

Special Prices Arranged for the Matinee To-morrow.

Owing to the splendid success which marked Mr. Tom Terriss' previous engagement at "The Grand" the demand for seats for both performances tomorrow is a steady one. Without a doubt Mr. Terriss' interpretation of "Scrooge" the old miser, in "A Christmas Carol" is one of the finest pieces of acting seen here in a long while. His supporting company are players of such high standard that his entire productions are far above the average. Those who have not had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Terriss, should avail themselves of the last opportunity which will be offered them at The Grand tomorrow (Saturday) when "A Christmas Carol" and "A Cricket on the Hearth" will be presented for the matinee and "A Christmas Carol" and "Nicholas Nickleby" for the evening performance. Although this is a genuine $1.50 attraction, the management have been able to arrange a big bargain matinee at popular prices of 25, 35 and 50c. Those who have not already done so, should book their seats tonight in order to secure a good location. The evening prices range from 35c to $1.50, gallery 35c. The company go from here direct to Montreal, where they will appear all next week.

A FINE TENOR AT THE ROYAL

The week-end show at the Royal Theatre this week is an exceptionally fine attraction. It is composed of big vaudeville attractions and several films. The most prominent of the vaudeville actors is Mr. Vincent Vernon, a pleasing tenor singer. He is exceptionally good and can easily claim distinction among others in his line. His singing of "Good-bye Forever" is delightful. The rest of the vaudeville is also of a high standard. There will be a complete change of the Photo Play program to-day.

OFFICERS COME FOR BRODEUR

Further Particulars of the Shooting of Mrs. Case

Prisoner is Willing to Return and Stand His Trial

Chief Inspector John H. Boyle, of the Police Commanding Detective Bureau, Springeld, Mass., in an interesting interview with a Review reporter last evening in the White House, afforded the scribe some very astounding facts regarding the Springfield murder for which Albert H. Brodeur, of Chicobee, Mass., is in the cells of the local police station, due to the efforts of Detective Newhall and Constable Meagher. Inspector Boyle accompanied by C. W. Quitley, of the Detective force, Springfield, Mass., arrived in the city Saturday evening, and will leave this afternoon with the prisoner. Mr. Quitley is a son of Police Chief Quiltley of Springfield.

The inspector's version of the affair is to the effect that Brodeur is the son of a well-to-do general merchant of Chicobee, a small town about five miles from Springfield. Brodeur has always been of a roving nature, and has had considerable trouble at one time and another with the authorities. He served for some time in the American Army, and then deserted. For this offence he was arrested and served two years.

Infatuated With Woman

In the month of June, Brodeur met the murdered woman at a celebration and became acquainted with her. He called on her a number of times, and evidently became infatuated with the woman, who was very prominent for her great beauty. Matilda E. Case, the murdered woman, also apparently had considerable affection for the man. Brodeur visited the woman at night when her husband was working.

The woman was in the habit of supplying Brodeur with his meals, and, in fact, boarding him. Their affection became such as to warrant Brodeur to endeavor to induce Mrs. Case to elope with him. She refused, owing to her position in her husband's family. Brodeur, in a fit of anger, partly due to intoxication, struck her down, it is said, and robbed her of a sum of money which her husband had given her that day. Brodeur then went out and purchased a revolver and, returning, it is supposed, to have shot her in his anger. He left and going to his father's, slept in the hall. The shooting is alleged to have taken place about 11 o'clock on the night of Sept. 21st. Brodeur then made good his escape and wandered through Quebec to Montreal, and on to other Canadian cities.

For sometime the affair was the talk of the city, as the murdered woman was exceedingly handsome. Mrs. Case is said to have died with Brodeur's name on her lips. The revolver was found by her side. The police, owing to the fact that the prisoner was last seen at her home, were not convinced that she had shot herself. Brodeur was suspected, and his early departure for parts unknown, increased these suspicions. He has already been indicted on the charge of murder. Brodeur will appear before the Criminal Court in May. Whether his people who are fairly well off, will assist him in his fight for life; Inspector Boyle did not express any opinion.

"I'm afraid it's the first degree for Brodeur," concluded the Inspector, but he continued: "I hope he puts up a fight, as I am ready to prove my end of it."

"It was certainly a great piece of business on the part of your police department," was the verdict of the genial inspector, commenting on the clever arrest of the alleged murderer, by the local detectives.

"What do you think of this Guelph affair?" queried the reporter.

"Well, it's rather hard to say. We sent police circulars to every place with a population of over five hundred," said the Inspector. "You would think that they would recognise the prisoner when he was an inmate of the prison for two months."

"Wasn't it a rather foolish thing for Brodeur to ask for lodging at the police station, in the various cities where he passed through?" questioned the reporter.

"Well, yes, but he no doubt felt secure after beating them at Guelph, and probably on account of being so far away from home," answered the Inspector.

"Oh, no, we will have no trouble in taking the prisoner back, as he has waived extradition papers, and our bench warrant is all that is necessary to take him, and I have never had any trouble before when returning with prisoners across the line."

In Police Court

With a sullen dogged look and eyes bleary from the want of sleep, Albert Brodeur wanted in Springfield, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning and stated that he was willing to go back with Inspector Boyle and Detective Quiltley.

Brodeur has slept very little since his arrest here, and he spends his time walking in his cell. Accompanied by the Springfield officers, Brodeur left on the 4.33 C.P.R. train this afternoon.

C.M.B.A. ANNIVERSARY.

SMALL PILE HOT ASHES

Was the Cause of Small Blaze and Much Alarm.

Saturday, midnight, owners of property and tenants on the east side of Water street, between Hunter and Simcoe streets, were very much alarmed when a small fire broke out in the rear of one of the buildings.

A fierce storm was raging and fears were entertained lest the blaze should get a start on the firemen and destroy the whole block. The firemen would have been at a big handicap because of the strong wind.

The blaze, which had its origin in a pile of hot ashes, was quickly extinguished with the use of chemicals, as the fire department lost no time in responding.

SUSTAINED PAINFUL GASH IN THE HEAD

Snow Plow Man in South Ward Unconscious for Three Hours.

A very serious accident befell Mr. John Kelleher on Saturday afternoon about our o'clock, while he was pursuing his duties of removing the snow off the streets in Ward No. 1. While rounding the corner of Romaine and Aylmer streets, he slipped on the ice and fell. His head struck the plow, with the result that he received a bad gash, and was rendered unconscious. Some passersby removed him to the residence of his son, Mr. Jas. Kelleher, Romaine street, and medical aid was summoned.

Mr. Kelleher was found to be suffering from a slight concussion and it was three hours before he regained consciousness. The effects of the wound and the fall left Mr. Kelleher in a rather critical condition for the remainder of the night, but yesterday he was sufficiently recovered to return to his residence on Lake street. Mr. Kelleher's many friends will wish for a speedy recovery.

Another report says Mr. Kelleher was riding on the plow.

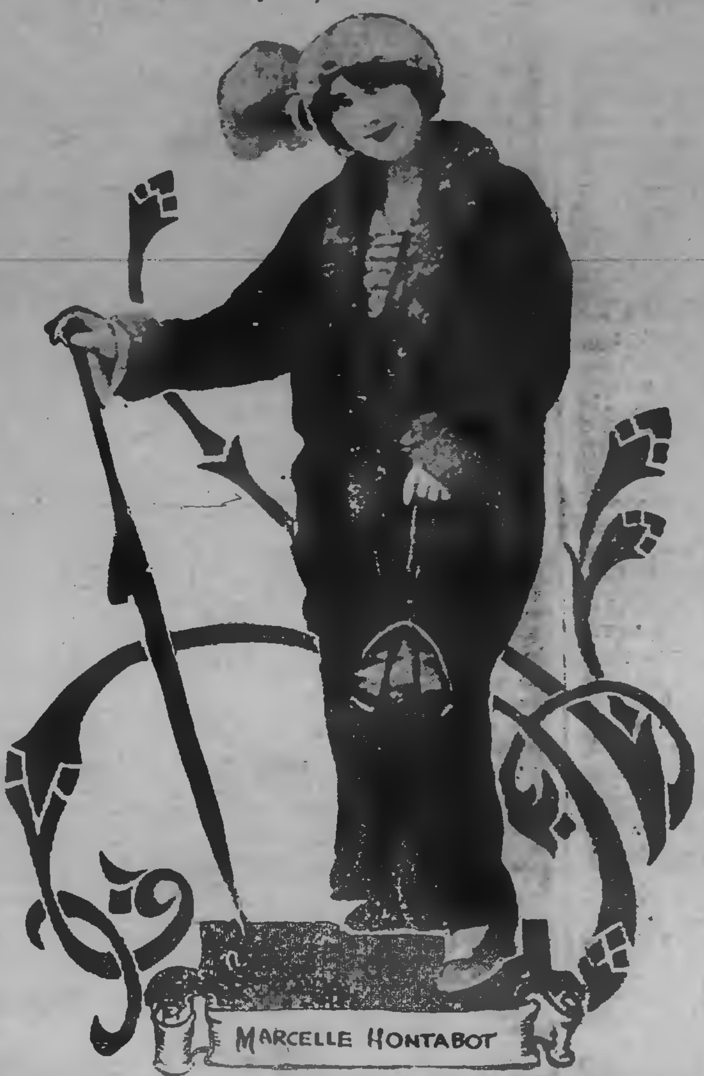
PRETTY FRENCH GIRL WHO LOST SUIT FOR $100,000 AGAINST OPERA SINGER



That Florencio Constantino, tenor of the Boston Opera Company, did not woo little Marcelle Hontabot with his golden notes and promise to marry her was the decision of a jury before Justice Platzek in Supreme Court in New York.

A SELF-CONFESSED MURDERER IN TOILS

Stranger Walks Into Police Station and Says He Murdered a Woman

The local police station was thrown into a state of consternation this afternoon when about 2.30 an Englishman, about 28 years of age, giving his name as Alfred Kimberly, walked into the station and commenced to confess to a murder of a woman in Wiltshire, England, seven years ago. His excuse for the confession was that his conscience was pricking him and that he was ready to go back and face the music. His story of the murder was very short and vividly described as he apparently could see the scene enacted over again.

He, assisted by another man, murdered the woman whom he did not know, and he threw her over a hedge nearby. He then left the place and came to Canada, where he has resided ever since. He came here a short time ago from Toronto. He recalled the name of the Chief and other various surroundings of the scene with remarkable accuracy according to the police.

Kimberly also admitted that liquor had played a big part in his life. The police were inclined to believe that he was insane or was trying to get free lodgings, but his persistant admittals and emphatic statements gave strong evidence of his taking part in the dreadful affair, as he termed it.

He will appear before Magistrate Dumble tomorrow morning, at the regular police court session.

POLICE WOMAN NOTHING MORE THAN A MERE FAD

This is the Opinion of Inspector Boyle of Springfield

Inspector Boyle of Springfield, Mass., who came to the city for Arthur Brodeur, expressed his surprise and pleasure at the sight of such a clean-cut and well-laid out city as Peterboro.

"But one thing that surprised me very much," he said, "was the absence of signs. Being a stranger, I naturally looked for the street signs, but I failed to find them."

"Otherwise, the big genial inspector from the city of one hundred thousand, across the line, was most favorably impressed with the city, and its various systems. He had more than considerable praise for the local police department.

"What do you think of this woman police question?" queried the Review representative.

"Why, it's nothing but a mere fad; they are certainly not proving a success in the American cities," responded Inspector Boyle. "We have," he continued, "a probation system in Springfield. That is, we have a woman to deal with women, after they have been arrested. We find this works out very satisfactory."

The reporter mentioned that the local Chief of Police was rather against the appointment of a policewoman, and the inspector emphatically agreed with the Chief's opinion.

Inspector Boyle thought that a few more officers on the local force would be very useful.

A. E. COULTHARD, PRESIDENT OF AUTO ASSOCIATION

Members Decide to Affiliate With Canada Federal Association

THE COMMITTEES

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Automobile Association was held Saturday evening in the Bank of Montreal chambers. Mr. R. W. Travers, the president, occupied the chair. The most important item of the meeting was the resolution passed to have the local association affiliated with the Canada Federal Association. This will give the members the same privileges through Canada and the States as they now enjoy in Ontario.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Mr. R. W. Travers.

President—Mr. A. E. Coulthard.

Sec.-Treasurer—Mr. G. K. Rackham.

Membership Committee—Dr. Sutton, Mr. W. Collier, Mr. B. Hall, Dr. Turner, Millbrook; Dr. Blaksman, Lakefield; Dr. Greer, Dr. McPherson.

Good Roads Committee—Messrs. J. W. Brightman, F. W. Doan, C. C. Manning, A. Rogers and J. Wood.

Entertainment Committee — Messrs. S. J. Keyes, Cranfield, F. Cressman, R. Dobie, J. J. Duffus, J. W. Greene, Wm. Irwin, and E. V. Warne.

In connection with the election of the last committee Dr. Amys brought forth a good suggestion. He would have this committee united with the lady autoists, the members of the Golf Club, who are autoists and all the military men who are autoists. This should give this committee a wide berth and no doubt would produce a lively year.

The local association is now the fifth largest in Ontario. Those ahead are Toronto, Hamilton, London and Ottawa.

CITY COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

Health Association Will Ask for a Grant of $10,000.

At the meeting of the City Council to-night, a deputation from the Peterborough Health Association will probably make their request for $10,000 to assist in the erection of a sanitarium in this city.

Other business which will go to make up a lengthy session will be the consideration of a recommendation that a central milk distributing depot be taken up by the city.

COASTER INJURED

Youngster Gashed in the Leg When he Fell off Sleigh

Patrick Bissonette, the young son of Mr. F. Bissonette, 478 Elm St., is in St. Joseph's Hospital, with a deep gash in his leg, the result of an accident while coasting on London street hill last Friday night.

Bissonette fell off the sleigh on which he was riding and he was struck by another sleigh which had followed him down the hill.

HE REFUSED TO TELL THE COURT

Blacklister Goes to Jail for Two Weeks.

"I don't defy the court, but I won't tell where I got my liquor, and it won't do any good putting me in the box," said Robert Irwin, a local blacklister, this morning to Magistrate Dumble. Irwin was placed in the box but refused to tell where he got his liquor.

As a result he was sentenced to two weeks on the hill with the prospects of a three months' renewal if he refused to tell when he came out.

ELEVEN MORE DAYS OF BOOSTER PERIOD THE LARGEST VOTE OFFER

Do You Want to Own an Automobile for a Little of Your Spare Time

There's a heap of satisfaction,
  In a contest if you grin,
If you keep your nerve in action,
  And wear a lifted chin.
There's joy in doing something
  That you never did before,
So don't be a deaf and dumb thing—
  Chance is knocking at your door.
It's in overcoming trouble
  That a fellow gets his fun;
It's the shattering the bubble
  That is labelled "can't be done,"
And the harder that your fight is
  Then the greater is your fun,
And the finer your delight is
  In the auto you have won.

It's the love of the game, the laurels of the winner, that makes any athletic game popular; it's the love of the fight, the satisfaction of knowing that you have succeeded that makes life worth the living; and so in a competition like this, it is the fun of working, the interest of rivalry that makes the prizes worth more than their mere cash value. Be "truly game". Go into the contest as if you really mean to win first prize—and mean to. Organize business like methods of conducting your campaign of votes. This is essential to success in contesting for the $2,500 offered in prizes by the Daily Review.

Work hard yourself, collect coupons, solicit subscriptions, make personal canvasses, but exert your best efforts as a director and organizer.

Enlist your family, relatives and friends, business associates, school chums, secret society brother, fellow church members and other people with whom you come in contact. Train them as a well disciplined army to work in your behalf. Do not attempt to shoulder the whole burden yourself. It is a poor friend who will not come to your assistance in the fight for a Daily Review prize.

Enthuse Yourself

The live wire is the only effective wire. Be one yourself. Be full of energy charged to the limit of power. It will not carry you far before it will soon communicate a spark of enthusiasm to the person with whom you are trying to interest in your candidacy. You can't give what you don't possess and unless you feel confidence, energy, and enthusiasm, you cannot arouse interest among your friends. Whenever you feel your spirit flagging, refresh it with one of these thoughts:

You know the prizes are worth a whole lot of effort.

Every single candidate meets with a disappointment now and then. If a friend disappoints you, perhaps some one whom you expect nothing of, may surprise you the other way. Try him.

A Hard Fight Wins Friends

If you are a hard fighter. If you make your struggle for the big prizes, warm and interesting, people will want to help you. They will feel that it is their campaign as well as yours. The normal man likes a good fight and you can make him feel that he is an active important, perhaps determinating factor in a real man-sized prize for the winner.

If you are a leader, a thinker, an organizer, a worker, you can clip out the nomination coupon in this paper, send it in, get busy and come out on top.

Time to Get Busy

The contest is yet young; many are just beginning to realize what it means to procure a handsome touring car for a few weeks' work. This offer really marks the start of the campaign proper and gives an excellent chance to make a good "getaway." No one has, as yet accomplished very much in the way of vote getting, but soon all your rivals will get busy and you can't afford to loaf. Make a strong start now and see to it that no one gains an advantage over you.

The Time Is Flying

The working days of the contest are more than dancing along and if you have neglected to call on anyone, you had better make it a point to see them at once, or some other candidate will secure their subscription. Right now is the time to realize on some of your promises and get them all in on this Booster period which will close Feb. 14th. If you can't land them all today, get right out tomorrow and keep right at it until you have seen every possible subscriber. Don't have anything else on your mind but this great offer, until the 14th day of Feb.

You Have a Large Following

Remember that you have just as many friends and just as large a following as anyone else in the contest, and have just as good a chance to succeed if you get at it in the right manner. You can't fail to win if you try. Instead of asking your friends for a favor, you are doing them a favor when you get them to take the Daily Review. Go to the business men, professional men, mechanics, and men in all walks of life. They are not going to try to get along without the paper that prints all the news. Tackle everyone you meet and see what a big vote you can roll up.

There are many important things about this campaign that the management would like to talk about, but the Booster period of the present is so overwhelming overshadowing, it is blotting out every other consideration temporarily. There is really nothing else so important right now as a proper appreciation of this grand opportunity. If you improve it you will have cause for rejoicing, and if it is permitted to get by you, you will probably regret it when the final count is made. Never again will it be as easy to get votes, and this chance to make good should not be overlooked by any candidate.

Office Open Until 8.

For the benefit of the candidates the contest department of the Daily Review will be open until 8 o'clock and the Contest Manager will be glad to have anyone call before 8 o'clock, as this department closes for the day at this hour. Bear in mind that the contest manager will be in his office until 8 o'clock each evening.

Remember this is "Booster Period" when votes have an extra value. A little effort just now will give you a big start in the race.

CARDINAL GENNARI

Third Roman Catholic Prelate Passes Away in Two Months.

ROME, Feb. 2.—Cardinal Casimir Gennari, prefect of the Congregation of the Council, died yesterday. His death was due to heart disease. He is the third cardinal to pass away in the last two months, the others being Cardinal Oreglia and Cardinal Rampolla.

Cardinal Gennari was born at Maratea, Dec. 27, 1839. He was created and proclaimed April 15, 1910. There are now sixteen vacancies in the Sacred College, and the holding of a consistory at an early date is thought to be necessary. The report, repeatedly circulated that the consistory has been delayed owing to the ill-health of the Pope is emphatically denied at the Vatican.

Prince von Buelow, who was received in private audience by the Pontiff Saturday, declared that he had found him in better health and apparently stronger than in 1912.

PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, FEB. 2, 1914.

APING THE DUKE.

H. QUINN, a Manchester labor delegate, delivered a speech in which he said : "The leaders have left the orange boxes of the street corners to sit on the soft cushions of Parliament. There is too much 'doing the grand' about them. They neglect their work in order to ape the Dukes." There is a great deal of truth in this ; but what is this labor leader complaining about ? Most of the Socialists in England are inspired chiefly by a warm envy of the Dukes and their cushions. They only get on the orange box in the hope of climbing into one of those cushioned seats and when they get there they are naturally tired out with the exertion. If they fall asleep once in a way, Mr. Quinn himself will do the same some day, if he is one of the lucky ones who "get there."

FREE WHEAT.

WESTERN MEMBERS started the debate on Free Wheat on Wednesday in the House of Commons. During the course of the speeches on that question by Hon. F. Oliver and Dr. Neely, Mr. Burnham, of West Peterborough, said as reported in Hansard :—

"Mr. Burnham : If the United States wants our wheat, and if they have no cogent reason for wanting to send theirs into this country, why on earth do they persist in keeping the balance of trade against themselves year after year as they are doing, and in waiting for this House to give them permission to take our wheat in ?

Mr. Oliver : I am not commissioned to answer for the Government of the United States. The ex-President will be in this city on Saturday, and I would suggest that my hon. friend consult him in the matter.

The reply of Mr. Oliver is suspiciously noncommittal.

Mr. Burnham also asked Dr. Neely, the mover of the amendment : —

"Mr. Burnham : Why do they not admit it free if they want to ?

Mr. Neely : It is not so much a question as to whether they want it or not, but they want similar courtesies from the country to which they grant the privilege of their market."

There is considerable amusement in the House over the evident confusion of the Western advocates of Free Wheat, etc. It is undeniable that the repeal of the United States to look to their own interests in this matter is exciting suspicion.

THAT HEADACHE.

THERE MUST BE a lot of headaches in Canada when the Government can publish a bulletin of some 37 pages dealing with the various kinds of "headache powders" and "headache wafers" on the market in the Dominion. Bulletins as a rule are very dry reading and a bulletin on "headache powders" is not particularly inviting. Yet we can learn much from these Government publications as they represent a year's work by some one man or department and these men are paid for safe-guarding our interest in the various departments of our national life.

In regard to headaches and headache powders Dr. A. McGill, chief analyst to the Government, who makes this report says :

"There can be no doubt that harm is done by the indiscriminate use of Headache Powders. In the natural desire to put a stop to pain, too little consideration is given to the fact that headache is merely a symptom of something wrong, and not itself a disease. Over-fatigue, irregularities in digestion or excretion, nervousness, and many other causes give rise to headache as a prominent symptom, and the employment of a sedative drug to allay the pain, instead of seeking the fundamental cause of the disturbance, and treating that, may be very harmful, as it is evidently an unreasoning policy. The drugs to which the efficiency of most of these Headache Powders is due, are powerful heart depressants, and are capable, under certain conditions, of producing fatal results, while, under most conditions, they must do harm.

"Acetanilide (antifebrin) and Phenacetin are most frequently found in these Headache Powders. The Proprietary or Patent Medicine Act requires that when Acetanilide is present in quantity above two grains per maximum dose or Phanacetin above five grains, the name of the drug and the fact of its presence shall be declared on the label. Each of these drugs has other names, but the names given above are the common ones, and the only ones which may be used in announcing the drugs on the label."

Dr. McGill goes on to say that a highly objectionable statement to the effect that the powder is a CURE is found on many labels. Headache is not a disease ; and consequently no cure is needed. Headache is merely a warning of something being wrong and a cure for that fundamental something is what is needed. These drugs are not a cure for indigestion, or fatigue, or whatever else this something may be ; and it is utterly false to describe Headache Powders as a "cure."

The next time you have a headache don't fly to the druggist for a powder, but try and think of what caused the ache in the upper story. Many headaches are closely allied to heartaches and if people would not fret and worry so much their heads would be clearer and their mental vision more serene. But when we attribute headaches to heartaches we have not got at the seat of the disease, we could not cure it by heartache powders. We have to go a little deeper still and get down to something which drugs cannot reach and physicians cannot diagnose.

At the same time most headaches have a physical origin, and many of them wake with us in the morning and keep us company for part of the day. Over-work, over-eating, and oftener over-drinking or drinking the wrong kind of beverage, or over-dancing, are among the chief causes of headaches, and the only cure for the real disease is a little common sense.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

KING LUDWIG III. of Bavaria administered a snub to a society of aristocratic women who asked him to become patron of a movement to establish homes for sick animals. He said : "Do not worry about diseased cats, dogs and horses. Sick animals ought to be killed. Bestow your money on the sick poor and thus do some good with it." He was a bold king to speak thus to a Council of Women !

MAULING by a lion caused the death of Fritz Schindler, a member of an American moving picture expedition engaged in taking pictures of wild animals in their natural surroundings in Africa. Schindler with others belonging to the expedition, was attempting to photograph a lion in the jungle on Saturday when the animal sprang on him and lacerated him so badly that he never rallied. The "lions" of society are not so ferocious with photographers, they generally like being photographed.

THE OTTAWA JOURNAL suggested that Mr. Burnham might go to the States and try to abolish the title of Colonel. We are glad to find that our member had no such intentions from the following dialogue in the House :—

Mr. Burnham : What did the Americans do?

Mr. Neely : My hon. friend is still interested in the Americans ; perhaps he is thinking of moving over there.

Mr. Burnham : Oh, no.

HON. W. S. FIELDING has resigned from journalism. The new Liberal organ, The Telegraph, did not do much except to kill The Witness and was amalgamated with The Herald. This left Mr. Fielding out in the cold. Perhaps he will now go back to politics where he is very badly needed on the Liberal fighting line. Politics in Quebec just now are in a bad way but it is doubtful if politics and social life was ever at a lower ebb in Canada according to the boldly expressed opinions of many journalists, than at present.

WHAT THE WORLD IS SAYING

A Plumber's Valiant Effort.

London Chronicle.

There was a rare spectacle in South Kensington the other night—that of a plumber at a loss how to enter a certain item in a bill to a customer. The plumber had been called in to locate the source of an unfortunate odor. He promptly mauled the house about, but he failed to find a dead rat, or anything else to cause the trouble. Then he put the place together again, and departed to build the bill. What could he charge ? He had discovered nothing, achieved nothing, yet a charge must be made. This is the bill, just received by the householder : "To looking for smell, 8d."

An Eugenic Failure.

Montreal Mail.

Wisconsin's new Eugenic Marriage Law, the drastic nature of which has aroused so much comment, has been ruled as unconstitutional in the courts of the state, and is now a dead letter. A citizen of the State provoked the issue in the courts after being refused a marriage license because of his failure to produce the required health certificate.

The fate of this law carries with it a moral to all who insist arbitrarily upon drastic legislation to put into practice the principles of eugenics. The courts held that the discredited was unreasonable and a material impairment of the inalianable right of the fit to enter upon the marriage state." As a matter of cold fact, hardly more than one per cent. of the physicians of Wisconsin were equipped to make the health test laid down in this law as essential to legal marriage.

Prayer of Richard Lion-Heart.

Once in this chapel, Lord,
  Young and undaunted,
Over my virgin sword
  Lightly I chaunted—
"Dawn ends my watch. I go
Shining to meet the foe.

"Swift with thy dawn," I said.
  "Set the lists ringing.
Soon shall thy foe be sped,
  And the world singing.
Bless my bright plume for me,
Christ, King of Chivalry.

"War-worn I kneel to-night,
  Lord, by Thine altar.
Oh, in to-morrow's fight,
  Let me not falter !
Bless my dark arms for me,
Christ, King of Chivalry.

"Keep Thou my broken sword
  All the long night through.
While I keep watch and ward
  Then—the red fight through,
Bless the wrenched haft of me,
Christ, King of Chivalry.

"Keep Thou the sullied mail,
  Lord that I tender
Here, at Thine altar-rail !
  Then—let thy splendor
Touch it once . . . and I go
Stainless to meet the foe."

—Alfred Noyes.

THE CAVE OF GLOOM

By Walt Mason

James Bonehead runs a ginseng store. His brow with gloom is clouded o'er. He used to have a decent trade, but now it's fallen and decayed. He blames his troubles on his clerks. They are a set of idle shirks," he often says, "and that's no dream ; not one of them has any steam. When I go into other stores and see the clerks skip around the floors, with vim in every move they make, I feel as though my heart would break. Why am I doomed to have employed cheap skates whose heads are but a void ? If I had bright and active clerks you'd see my blamed old ginseng works get back the trade that once it had, and take in buck and bone and scad." James Bonehead soon might cease to fret if he would an example set ; if he would hump around his shack, and smile clear round his face and back, and look and act as though he thought the world a pretty decent spot, he'd find his clerks would do the same ; they'll always play the boss's game. No man with wormwood in his chest can from his hirelings get their best.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE POLICE WOMAN

The Review has received the following letter from a well informed and high authority in Ottawa, which in a very valuable contribution to the subject with which it deals:

To the Editor of The Review.

Sir,—In the Evening Review of Jan. 19th, there appears what seems to be a very full account of the Appeal of the Women's Council and others to the Police Commissioners of Peterboro, for the appointment of a police woman.

At this distance and from what The Review reports, it would seem as if the reception accorded the deputation and the platitudes misstatements and excuses used by the Commissioners, might have the effect of converting every one of the deputation into militant suffragists. To repeat platitudes such as "the evil of impurity has been in the world for ages," "Everything sinful is not a breach of the law," Accosting women on the street implies bad manners and low morality" "Let the pulpits teach morality" etc, etc., is less of a compliment to the ones who use them for arguments than to the intelligence of those addressed.

Mis-statements such as saying that the police women of Ottawa had been on probation for three months and that he understood the appointment in Ottawa had not been entirely successful, were gratuitously made. As a matter of fact, the two women sworn in last summer as women constables in Ottawa had been doing preventive police work as Travellers' Aid officers, for three years, but were paid by philanthropists, not by the city, until 2nd January, when one of them was put on the pay list with the other police. Fortunately Rev. Mr. Peever, from Ottawa, was present and able to state from personal knowledge, that Mrs. Cheney and Miss Campbell had done, and were doing excellent work.

Excuses—that the men police were on their beats day and night, (though admitting the deplorable laxity of manners and morals in and around Peterboro), "they would be making a great mistake by bringing a lady into this town," and last refuge of a public man, "the people do not want reckless expenditure, we must keep down the taxes," etc. That such a delegation representing teachers, doctors, nurses, business men, and nearly all the women voters—a delegation speaking for the best members of the city—and asking for the means of moral betterment of the community, should be met by an attempt "to abuse the plaintiffs' attorney," does more credit to the delegation than to the Commissioners.

The delegation asks for a police woman to PROTECT the girls on the street—and they are blamed for not doing police work themselves!

The delegation asks for a police woman in order to prevent immortality—and are exhorted to build Rescue Homes instead!

Next year no doubt, there will be some changes in the personnel of the Board, but in the meantime many girls will have gone the downward road, many boys will have bene enticed from the straight road of decency and honor, and many mothers will have troubled minds and broken hearts, but then "we must keep down the taxes."

One who knows the benefits of having women police.

OTTAWA.

THE POLICE

To the Editor of The Review,

Sir,—Your interesting answers are not as complete as they might be. The public are entitled to full particulars. It is difficult to see how a decent woman could keep up the position on such a salary.

Yours,
A. R.

P.S.—It is strange how prosperous the agitators are with such vice and immorality. Do they attend the police court?

If A. R. will ask straight questions we will endeavor to give direct answers.—Ed.

TWO FACED RONCONI.

He Could Depict Tragedy on One Side and Comedy on the Other.

In "The Memoirs of an American Prima Donna," by Clara Louise Kellogg, there is a good story of Ronconi, who played second cobbler in "Crispino e la Comare." We are told that he was one of the finest Italian baritones that ever lived and succeeded in getting a degree of genuine high comedy out of the part that has never been surpassed.

"He used to tell of himself a story of the time when he was singing in the Royal opera at St. Petersburg. The czar—father of the one who was murdered—said to him once:

"'Ronconi, I understand that you are so versatile that you can express tragedy with one side of your face when you are singing and comedy with the other. How do you do it?'

"'Your majesty,' rejoined Ronconi, 'when I sing "Maria de Rohan" tomorrow night I will do myself the honor of showing you.'

"And accordingly the next evening be managed to turn one side of his face, grim as the tragic mask, to the audience, while the other, which could be seen from only the imperial box, was excessively humorous and cheerful. The czar was greatly amused and delighted with the exhibition."

Pelicans and Their Pouches.

The pelican is not an attractive bird. He offends both the eye and the nose. But he is commendably regular in his habits. The parent birds catch fish and after eating their fill deposit the others in their pouches under their bills and carry them to their young. These pouches will hold from three to eight pounds of fish. They are elastic and when distended to their utmost nearly touch the ground. When empty the pouch lies close up under the big bill and is merely a mass of wrinkles. It is this pouch that gives the pelican his characteristic and disagreeable odor, caused by particles of decaying fish. The pelican's legs are short and strong, and its feet have large webs. It is not a fast swimmer or a rapid flier, but it is practically tireless in both air and water. On land it is awkward and unwieldy.

The Man as Was Wronged

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.

If it had been a pleasant day and if we hadn't all been out of sorts with our luck we should have had a word of welcome for the stranger as he entered our camp that wretched afternoon. As it was fifty of us saw him leave Chinese trail at Dead Man's Elbow and walk into our camp, and never a man rose up to salute him.

The stranger seemed to expect just such a reception—that is, he didn't seem a bit surprised. He passed down the single street we had named Road to Riches, turned to the left at the lone pine tree, and without once looking around him he staked off a claim and began to erect a shanty.

"Bad man, I'm afeared," growled Judge Slasher as he partly closed one eye and gave the stranger the benefit of the squint.

"Bin bounced out of some camp for stealin'," added the big chap from Kentucky.

"Tell you he's got a hangdog look," put in the man known as "Ohio Bill."

Every man in the camp was down on the fresh arrival and that without cause. Ordinarily we were a jolly set, and a stranger coming among us met with words of cheer, but that afternoon the devil was to pay. The three mules belonging to our camp had strayed off and been gobbled up by the Indians, and on the heels of this discovery came the announcement that we had only salt enough to last two days, while the sugar was entirely gone.

Two weeks had passed, and, while some of us had given the stranger a curt "Good morning," no one shook hands with him or entered his shanty to smoke a friendly pipe. Then a climax came. The six of us, occupying one shanty, were working in company, and our bag of dust was buried in a corner of the fireplace. One morning this bag was missing, and you can imagine that there was a first class row in no time. There was the hole where some one had dug under the stones and carried off the treasure, and whom were we to suspect?

Yes, we were mad, and in the excitement of the first discovery we came near having a free fight among ourselves. It increased our anger to discover that we could not reasonably suspect any one, and this fact made every one of us try harder to pick up a clew. At length Judge Slasher sprang to his feet with the exclamation:

"By the bones of Kidd, I know the thief!"

"Who is he?"

"That hangdog, sheep stealing stranger! Hang me if I didn't dream of his coming in here last night to borrow a shovel, and it was his digging under the stones which started that dream. He has held aloof from us, and that's proof enough that he came here for no good purpose."

It was a straw to catch at. We had lost in a night all we had gained by months of hard work, and we didn't stop to reason. It was decided to lay the charge at the stranger's door, and if he could prove his innocence so much the better for him.

The news that the White House, as we called our shanty, had been robbed spread like wildfire, and as we started for the stranger's claim our crowd numbered a full hundred. As the crowd swooped down on the man he started off at a run.

"Halt, halt, halt, or we'll shoot!" shouted a score of men.

"He's the thief—stop him, stop him!" roared the judge.

Five or six shots were fired almost as one, and the fugitive tumbled forward on the rocks. Three bullets entered his back, and as the foremost men bent over him and turned his white, scared face to the heavens he gasped out:

"You have murdered me! God forgive you!"

"Now to search him," said the judge as he came up, and half a dozen hands made quick work of it. Resting on his breast and made fast to his neck by a ribbon was a package wrapped in oilskin. There was a flutter of excitement as the judge rudely snapped the string and held the package in his hand. It was our dust?

No! We formed a circle around the judge as he sat on a rock and opened the package, and in less than a minute there were white faces among us. What were the contents? A photograph of a fair faced middle aged woman, and on the card was written:

"Mary—died June 19, 1857."

That was the dead man's wife. There was a second photograph—that of a babe about a year old—and the judge read aloud in a trembling voice:

"Our Harry—died April 4, 1857."

That was not all. On a card were locks of their hair. And we were looking down upon these things and feeling our hearts swelling up and our eyes growing misty when up comes our good for nothing, half witted cook with the bag of dust in his hand. In repairing the fireplace he had moved the bag, and in the excitement over its supposed loss what little wit he had was frightened away for the moment. The hole under the stones had been made by some small animal in search of food, and in our haste we had accused and murdered an innocent man!

With sorrow, with tenderness, with hearts like children, we dug a grave and put the poor body into it, and with his own hands the judge planted the headboard and engraved thereon:

"Here lies a man as was wronged!"

Curtains and Color.

Silk of a color that harmonizes with the room and is of a light quality makes a charming finish as side drapery on the windows, but is not essential unless the room is very plain and hard looking, and the silk should not be extended over the window to exclude the light. The old style of having the drapery meet across the window at the top and held back halfway down by loops is out of date.

There are excellent designs also in a thin, silky madras that looks well on the windows, and many other cotton draperies that are suitable and will not keep out too much light cost a great deal less than real silk. Bought by the yard these are far less expensive than when bought made up in curtain form, and as the modern and very sensible fad is to have the curtains reach only to the sill of the window you do not have to buy very many yards.

Perfumes For Clothes Press.

Everybody is familiar with the custom of putting lavender bags in linen closets and clothes presses. At this time of year lavender bags are being made in great numbers. There are, however, other delicate perfumes for the same purpose that are not very generally employed. Two of them notably are rosemary and sandalwood. When the actual substances cannot be conveniently obtained a few drops of their essential oils on raw cotton will produce the same effect.

Queer Eating.

The king or horseshoe crab chews its food with its legs. This is an actual fact, the little animal grinding its morsels between its thighs before it passes them over to its mouth.

Rather Curious.

The frog, owing to its peculiar structure, cannot breathe with the mouth open, and if it were forcibly kept open the animal would die of suffocation.

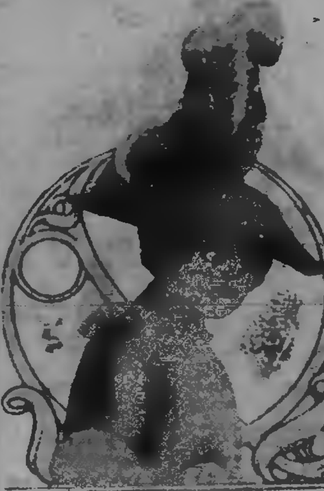
HAT OF THE HOUR.

Paris Approves the New Watteau Model.



OF RUST COLORED MOIRE SILK.

The very newest hats of the season are built on watteau lines, but at the risk of being considered disloyal it must be admitted that only the Parisienne, with her inborn instinct of "knowing bow," can wear them successfully.

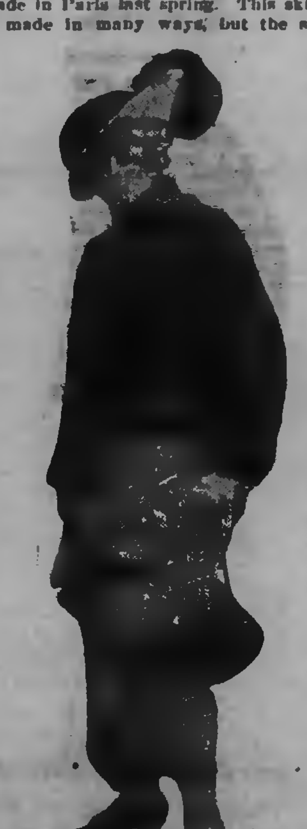
It is doubtful, though, if this extreme style will supplant the popular draped turbans, which have quite as much dash and are generally becoming. Up to this time velvet has been used most extensively for these turbans, but it is suffering from over-popularity.

Panne velvet, moire and taffeta are being used in its place, and some very striking midseason models are evolved in taffeta and tulle. For the dressy hat almost any color rather than black is being chosen. The very practicality of black, which makes it such a good selection for the general utility hat, makes it a poor choice for the dressy hat. If a neutral color is obligatory there are taupe, tete de negre, a very dark blue or a soft brown.

The watteau hat seen in the illustration is of rust colored moire silk, the towering feathers being in shaded apricot and mahogany hues. Under the brim is a facing of dark brown velvet.

The Pegtop Skirt Popular.

There seems no inclination to abandon the so called pegtop skirt, which had its origin in the Turkish skirts made in Paris last spring. This skirt is made in many ways, but the silhouette is always the same—large at the waist and hips and running to narrow foot lines.



SMART, BUT EXTREME IN STYLE.

The costume in the cut illustrates the pegtop effect exactly in checked skirt, and the new squared at the waistcoat is seen carried out in a black damasse material.

Kindergarten at Wellesley.

Wellesley college is to have a first class kindergarten school, in which there will be none of the old fashioned kindergarten work. The college and town will co-operate, and the children in attendance will be from the town. The history, theory and problems of the kindergarten is one of the graduate courses at Wellesley. Another course takes up the practical, the student having actual work in the kindergarten. The building and its maintenance for five years was given by a Wellesley resident, with the understanding that his name was not to be revealed in connection with the gift.

Table Bells.

Very quaint and attractive are some of the table bells shown now. Some are miniature copies of famous church bells. One in silver is a replica of the deep toned bell at Moscow, and the bells of many of the cathedrals in German cities are beautifully reproduced.

Milady's Mirror

Tango For Grace and Beauty.

Do you dance the tango? Of course you do if you make any pretense at being in the fashion, and if you have not as yet perfected all the intricate steps of the dance at least you must practice daily its marvelous gyrations. For the tango has come to stay. It is the dance of the hour.

And the tango craze is not limited to dancing only. It has even spread to millinery realms, where tango hats and tango veils are now claiming feminine attention. Tango red, too, is the most popular shade of the moment.

Hostesses also who want to be popular attach the word tango to any entertainment they may be giving, and the success of their party is assured from the first. Tango teas, tango dinners and even tango luncheons and breakfasts are all up to date forms of entertainment, showing just how far the craze has spread.

In Paris they say the tango is—but perhaps you've heard. Those exhibitions of it seen in New York are highly respectable. If your partner were stuffed with fireworks you could not treat her with deeper respect and discretion.

Another word—you must never forget to hold on to the A in tango as long as though you had forgotten for the moment what came next.

If you ever had any hesitation about taking up the new dance you need hesitate no longer, for now we have the word of a well known physical culturist that the tango is the very best sort of a tonic for good health. For the tango, properly danced, according to this authority, brings almost every muscle of the body into play.

If the people who are out of training would devote a half hour each day to the dance they would keep in good condition and feel all the healthier for the exercise. This applies to older men and women particularly, and, by the way, it is astonishing to find that the new dance has many devotees among the middle aged and even the old.

"I have more pupils over fifty years of age learning to dance the tango than under that age," says a well known dancing teacher. "The reason? Well, it is a great rejuvenator, and every one wants to keep young."

Of course every debutante who expects to be a success is taught the tango quite as a matter of course. This is easily acquired by a talented damsel, but what about her less talented and less leisured partner?

Bitter complaints are heard on every side. The girls have learned the tango, the men have not—the majority, at any rate—and there arises the spectacle of the distracted hostess wringing her hands over the nonappearance of the sterner sex, who are unable to master the intricacies of the new dance.

To watch the tango as danced by experts is a delight; to attempt it yourself, when you are uncertain of the figures, when you seem to have twice your usual complement of feet and a fatal attraction for the toe of your partner's slipper, is no unmixed pleasure.

The Highroad to Good Looks.

The girl who is taught by her mother, in practice as well as by theory, that it is more disgraceful to appear with a soiled collar or a bodice disfigured with perspiration or creased from lack of a little pressing; with hands grimy and gloves stiff from overlong use without being cleaned; with shoes run down at heel, unpolished and with buttons gone or laces untied, than to miss a lesson in mathematics or the lost languages, creates the impression of being handsome or, at the least, attractive wherever she appears. If time is lacking to give much attention to these things and have what is known as a "good time" let an hour of the good time go while these important, if infinitesimal, duties are carefully performed.

There are degrees in cleanliness, although there should not be, but many think it very troublesome to attend to the hair, for example, twisting it up any way, ruining it with curling irons, plastering it with pomades, going to bed with rats and switches and pins until the abused scalp takes the method of revenge most humiliating by causing the hair to fall by the combful; also do such people object to the few moments required for daily attention to the nails, the hands, the teeth and, more particularly, to the careful airing of the bodice worn the day before. This is hung in a closed closet most likely, with its lining damp with perspiration and all the dust settled on it in the wearing still in its folds.

Then a girl or woman who is careless will wipe her face lightly with a not overclean cloth, dab at it with a towel, plaster it with cold cream and use a huge puff to apply a thick coating of powder, fancying she looks all right, especially when she sprinkles herself and her clothing with strong coarse perfume. The creams, the powder and the perfume may cost dollars where a cake of really good soap costing a quarter and a tub of tepid water, with a clean towel and good rubbing, would give her a sweet smelling body that demands clean, fresh clothing only to make her attractive beyond words.

It makes some girls weary to do anything but visit.

HEYDAY OF THE CAULIFLOWER

Novel Ways of Cooking This Delicious Vegetable.

While cauliflower belongs to the cabbage family, it is much more palatable and delicate and far more delicious than any cabbage. For many years cauliflower was a luxury, because it was not raised by gardeners generally, but the advance of information and the growth of the truck farming business have made it possible to produce cauliflower of excellent quality and at very low prices.

Here are some ways of cooking this delicious vegetable:

Cauliflower Fritters.—Cook one small cauliflower until almost tender. Then break off sprigs and dip in a batter made of three tablespoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls breadcrumbs, one-half teaspoonful salt and about one-half cupful of milk, or enough to make a frying batter. Fry the fritters in deep fat until a nice brown. Serve at once.

Cauliflower au Gratin.—Separate the boiled cauliflower into small flowerets. Place them in buttered pudding dish in alternate layers with white sauce and grated cheese. Cover the top with breadcrumbs and bake until the sauce bubbles through the crumbs.

Creamed Cauliflower.—Remove the leaves, cut off the stalk and soak thirty minutes (head down) in cold water to cover. Cook (head up) twenty minutes or until soft in boiling salted water. Drain, separate in flowerets and reheat in one and a half cupfuls of white sauce.

Cauliflower au Parmesan.—Place a whole cooked cauliflower on a dish for serving. Sprinkle with grated cheese, then cover with buttered breadcrumbs and place on oven grate to brown crumbs. Remove from oven and pour a cupful of white sauce around cauliflower.

Cozy Sleeping Porch For Children.

If you have a porch on your sleeping floor, why not fix it up this winter as an open air bedroom for the small members of the family? Have awnings which can be drawn flatly down at the sides in case of a bad storm. It is important, of course, that the children have plenty of warm bedclothes. It is wise to have them sleep between blankets and to wear thick pajamas. Cotton sleeping socks can also be bought at the department stores.

This plan of sleeping has been adopted by many wise parents in the last ten years, though there are a great many others who are "afraid" of the results from such an arrangement. This is all a mistaken notion, as a child who has been allowed since infancy to sleep out of doors is far healthier than the boy or girl who is accustomed to be coddled by his mother and made to sleep in a heated room with perhaps the window pulled down but a few inches from the top.

Fashionable Furs.

There is something very barbaric in the arrangement of fashionable furs.

SET OF POINTED FOX WITH STRIPED SILK

This neckpiece of pointed fox goes but halfway around the neck, one side being eked out with a narrow band of contrasting pelt and some striped silk. The effect is repeated in the muff.

Safety In Window Cleaning.

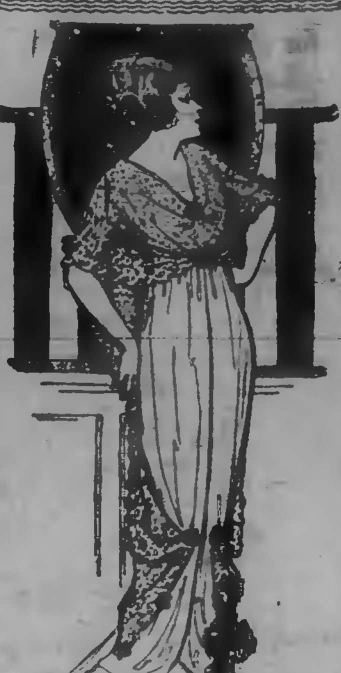
It is no longer necessary to endanger one's life or risk one's nervous system by sitting on a window sill to clean windows. A window cleaner is manufactured that is wonderfully simple and efficient. It consists of a chamois finished cloth on an oblong holder, to which is attached a curved handle that, opening and closing on the principle of a pair of scissors, will manipulate and control the cleaner so that the outside of windowpanes can be cleaned and polished from within the house. The price of this life preserving, nerve saving invention is $3.

A Culinary Hint.

Most people use a tablespoon for mixing batter for Yorkshire puddings or pancakes, etc. If an ordinary kitchen fork is used instead of the spoon it will be found that the lumps can be smoothed in half the time. Also a fork used for beating the batter allows of the air getting in, which helps to make the batter light.

Alas, that the flower of the family may go to seed!

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION



NEGLIGEE IN SHEER EMBROIDERY.

More and more is the negligee becoming a formal affair—as contradictory as that may sound, in which a hostess may appear before guests and which saves indoor wear and tear on street clothes. Here is a dainty one developed in that soft clinging stuff, tango crape, which undulates with the movements of the figure. Over it is posed a sheer drapery of machine embroidery in Colbert lace pattern, held with rosettes of rose velvet, contrasting with the pink of the tango crepe.

A Writing Experiment.

The following is an entertaining experiment in a party of young people. One of those present is asked if he can write his name and will, of course, answer "Yes." He is then subjected to the following test: He is asked to sit down in a chair, a paper folded several times is placed on his forehead, a lead pencil is handed him, and he is asked to write his name on the paper. As little time as possible to reflect should be left him. If he hesitates he should be told to just go ahead, and in most cases it will be found that he starts writing his name at the left temple and to the amusement of the others present writes it so that it is legible only when held in front of a mirror unless one is practiced in reading reversed writing.

CAN ANY GOOD COME OUT OF PETERBORO ? REV. MR. WEBB POINTS OUT THE BRIGHT SIDE

A Wave of Immorality—Praise for the Council of Women — Punish the Scoundrels—Murder Will Out — Officials on Their Dignity — Light or Lightning

"Can any good come out of Peterborough?" This was the text the pastor of Murray street church preached from last evening.

Rev. J .R. Webb is nothing if he is not an optimist, and it was not surprising to see his announcement that he would speak on "The Bright Side of Civic Life." There is a bright as well as a dark side to everything and Mr. Webb preferred to walk in the sunshine rather than the shade. He did not deny the existence of the shadow, he deplored it, but at the same time he pointed out that the very shadow only heightened the brightness of the sunlight.

"Can any good come out of Nazareth?—come and see." Nazareth, said the preacher, was the city of Christ's boyhood. The name "Nazarene" was a spiteful thrust. Of course Nazareth was not the best city in the world, but as we are told "not to think more highly of ourselves than we ought to think," we ought not at the same time to think too meanly of our city.

A Wave of Immorality.

Mr. Webb said that there were periods in which waves of religion sweep over the world and there were also waves of immorality or irreligion and we were not on the crest of a spiritual wave at the present time. It would be foolish and a calamity to cry "peace" when there was no peace. There is a cloud over the moral and spiritual world which must not be ignored by our churches, and it is not being ignored; there are prophets who have spoken out on this question and we know where we are.

Yet we must not discourage ourselves. Mr. Webb went on to say that he had hitherto refrained from making any pronouncement upon the question which had been agitating the public mind for the past few months, except upon one occasion in December. But the time had come when someone must ask "can any good thing come out of Nazareth?"

Is There Any Bright Side?

He thought there was much to be thankful for. Speaking of the liquor traffic in Peterborough, he said that seven years ago, when he came here, there were only 16,000 people in the city and there were 25 licensed houses; while to-day with a population of 20,150 there were only 14 places where liquor was sold over the bar, that was a reduction to one half and with an increased population—"we ought to dwell upon these things," said the preacher.

The same might be said as to the morality of the city. In 1910 there were 3 persons charged with keeping houses of ill-repute and 14 men arrested for frequenting these places—yet in this year, 1914, there were no such cases reported.

Council of Women.

Mr. Webb referred to the work of the Children's Aid in glowing terms, and spoke of the great body of sentiment which prevailed in the city for the protection of the young. He also spoke of the "splendid and heroic work of the Women's Council." Heroic because it had faced opposition. No one opposed the Children's Aid Society, yet the Council of Women had been opposed despite the fact that they had practically the same object, the protection of young life. The women had not uttered a word of criticism of the present splendid police department. They had said it was inadequate—but even the Chief admitted that. "Everyone ought to encourage and support this noble body of women."

Punish the Scoundrels.

It is one of the bright sides that there is an insistant demand among the people that all scroundrels should be punished. He was not referring to misdemeanor. The boy who threw stones and broke a window or the preacher who rode a bicycle on the sidewalk, he was speaking of the men who were at the root of this immorality. People were pleading for fairness in the matter of publishing names in the newspapers and courts. It was not fair that a girl who got drunk should have her name published while the man who made her drunk, or who was the cause of her downfall should go scot free and have his name withheld, or be let off with a fine, which was often no punishment at all.

Murder Will Out.

Moses, when he murdered the Egyptian, buried him in the sand and thought he had done with his crime, but murder and crime will come out —"and I don't care whether it be even a Moses he must be exposed and get out!" said the preacher.

Mr. Webb referred to the manner in which the Women's deputation had been received by the city authorities. He said that this was a democratic age and that no man, however high placed he is, or thinks he is, can ignore the opinion of a great body of intelligent people. That deputation had the whole of the clergy of the city, the nurses and all of the doctors, except one, and also a large body of representative citizens at the back of it—and no man can afford to ridicule the claims of such a body.

Official Dignity.

He was not pleading for a policewoman, but it was no proper treatment to give a flat refusal or to discourage the efforts of a deputation of such a character. The least they could have done would have been to promise to consider carefully their proposal, not get on their dignity and talk the whole thing down. When a man was careful of losing his dignity you may be sure he has not much dignity to lose.

"Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?—the very best things!"

Carlyle had once said:—"If a people refuse to take the light, they would have to take the lightning."

DEALT WITH THIRD ARTICLE ON THE APOSTLES' CREED

The third article of the Apostles' Creed "Conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary," was the subject of Rev. T. J. Mansell's sermon Sunday evening. This very abstruse and much criticised article of the Christian faith, was skilfully handled by the speaker, who said in regard to the first part, that there were many things—mysteries, if you will—that are beyond the understanding of men and, dismissing this part as such, he confined the major portion of his discourse to a consideration of the second part—the Virgin Birth.

He referred in the first place, to adverse criticism which went back to the second century. In the eighteenth century Voltaire mercilessly and indecently assailed the Virgin Birth, and at the present time a great many scholars had regarding this article, very divergent opinions, which gave importance to the criticism of it not only in England and the United States, but also in Canada. The narrative of the Virgin Birth is found only in Matthew and Luke. Mark and John apparently knew nothing of it. It is wanting in Revelations, and is not found in the Epistles, nor was there proof of it in the church before the third century. Possibly the origin of the belief was to be found in Isaiah 7: 14, where Christ's coming was foretold and where he was given the name Emanuel. Or, the belief might have sprung from pagan mythology which often ascribed a superhuman origin to many great men.

Note in the beginning that the great bulk of the opposition to the belief in the Virgin Birth comes from men who refuse to recognize anything supernatural in the life of Christ. The narration of the Virgin Birth was not within the scope of the Gospels of Mark and John, and the almost uniform agreement of the accounts given by Matthew and Luke stamp them as genuine. Both accounts declare Christ was born of the Virgin. The condition of the times made it quite likely that Mark and John did not know that Joseph and Mary resided at Nazareth before going to Jerusalem. There were no daily papers to spread news for example, and men usually knew little of what went on in districts beyond the confines of their own neighborhoods. Mark and John wrote what they did know and Matthew and Luke agree in eight important points.

Few would question the identity of the great Greek poet, Sophocles, or the authenticity of his poetry, yet few of the manuscripts go beyond the Tenth Century. The manuscripts of the Gospels go back to the fourth and fifth centuries, and have long textual histories behind them. Of these, certain parts of Mark and John are not found in some manuscripts, viz: Mark 16: 9, John 7: 53, 8: 11, but Matthew and Luke are practically complete, especially in the first chapters.

In spite of this, there is strong opposition still. Wellhausen, a noted critical writer, omits up to Chapter 3, verse 1. This is an easy way of getting rid of the Virgin Birth, but is it scientific? Others would destroy the integrity of the Virgin Birth, by omitting a couple of verses, but in regard to these criticisms the consensus of modern scholarship is that they are baseless and that the narratives of Matthew and Luke are genuine.

The discourse was concluded by a few reflections. Men should not criticise the church so much, but help it. They should find out what was wrong in their own lives. The carnal mind is always at enmity with the church, and we should be careful to hear both sides. Our inability to understand a subject is no reason for rejecting it as untrue, for we do not understand the meaning of electricity or of life, and the eternity of God is beyond our grasp. So with the Virgin Birth of Christ. He was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary.

Besides the usual announcements, there will be meetings of the trustee and official boards at seven and eight o'clock respectively, on Tuesday evening, and of the Literary Society a week from Tuesday evening.

NO CONCESSIONS LIKELY

British War Office Will Not Permit Canadian Rifle Sights.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(C.A.P. Cable) —The Bisley correspondent of The Morning Post holds out little hope that the War Office will give way and allow the aperture sight to be used by the Canadian team at Bisley; in fact it appears from the correspondence that has passed between the N.R.A. and the Army Council that the whole subject of Canada and the Ross rifle has already been discussed.

"If Canadians have a grievance," adds the correspondent, "it is against the War Office. I don't think there is any likelihood of an exception being made in the case of the Ross rifle, as it would give Canadian marksmen a clear advantage over their comrades who were using open sights on the Lee-Enfield rifle."

AMUSEMENT RECREATION DEVELOPMENT

These Are the Essential Elements of True Pleasure, Rev. R. G. Peever, Says.

Prove all things and chose that which is good. Such was the admonition of Rev. R. G. Peever, before a large congregation at George Street Methodist Church last evening. The subject was "The Essential Elements of True Pleasure."

These elements, the preacher pointed out, were: amusement, recreation and development, the latter being the final and supreme test.

It was not wrong, he said, for youth to be most concerned with the question of how to get the largest amount of pleasure out of life, but when amusement was made as an end of life, it defeated the very end which God intended.

Rev. Mr. Peever explained what was real amusement and recreation and the benefits they should bring by glorifying God in the body, as we are told to do. He advised both young and old against allowing laughter to go out of their lives.

We should chose amusement and recreation that would improve us both morally and physically. Turning to the element of development, the preacher gave as one instance, the hockey players. They were admired, as they stood together, but what about their conduct on the ice or after the game? Did they get drunk as a bunch of young men did, a week or so ago? Did they meet in the hotel and cause scandal as had also been done?

The Prospector

In concluding his sermon, Rev. Mr. Peever gave a synopsis of Ralph Connor's book The Prospector, and pointed to the hero of that story, as the right example and one worthy of emulating.

Before commencing his sermon, the pastor commended the congregation on the interest and spirit of reverence shown. He said he had been impressed evening after evening, and this interest and reverent spirit spoke well for the home; it was a credit to the congregation. He was also glad to see the gallery being filled up by the young men. Here was a work, to get the non-church goers to come to church.

The music by the choir was pleasing. In the anthem: There is a Blessed Home, Miss Millie Kempt and Mr. James Brown took the solo and duet parts, and Miss Lottie Hanson sang The Gentle Shepherd, as an offertory solo.

HE STUCK TO HIS SHIP

German Officer Gave Life to Save His Crew

FALMOUTH, Eng., Feb. 2.—Capt. Lorenz, the first officer, and 17 of the crew of the German bark Hera, from Pisaguay, Chile, for Falmouth, lost their lives yesterday through the vessel striking a rock as she had almost concluded her voyage. The remaining five men were saved through the gallantry of the first officer, who, realising his own end, was near, handed his whistle to a comrade with orders to blow it.

This attracted the attention of the crew of a lifeboat, who rescued the men from the rigging.

The Hera encountered a gale at the entrance to the English channel. She lost her course and struck on the rocks near Porthalla Light. The vessel immediately filled and the men took to the boats, which capsized. Each succeeded in getting back to the ship, but three of them were washed off before the lifeboat arrived. The first officer, who was lashed to the rigging, blew his whistle until the rising tide had almost engulfed him. Then he passed it over with the remark: "Here, chum, you can do better with that than I can," and fell back dead.

Liberals Hold West Durham.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—At a bye-election in Northwest Durham Saturday, Aneurin Williams, Liberal, was elected, receiving 7,241 vote. The Unionist candidate got 5,564 votes. A Labor candidates was in the field for the first time and polled 5,026 votes.

At the last general election in this constituency, the Liberal candidate received 8,998 votes, while 4,827 ballots were cast for the Unionist candidate. The election was occasioned by the appointment of the sitting member, L. A. Atherley Jones, to a London judgeship.

British Sloop Disabled.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 2. — The British sloop of war Algerine arrived here Saturday from Victoria, B.C. having sustained a broken tail shaft and propeller off Cape Flattery while on her way to Mexican waters. British Columbia shipyards demanded more for the repairs than the British Government would allow according to an announcement by the commander

Floods In Brazil.

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 2.—Floods in the State of Bahia, which have been sweeping over a large section of the country districts, are increasing. Several villages have been inundated and one small town has disappeared. The inhabitants are taking refuge in the churches. Many lives have been lost and the damage to property is enormous.

FIRST OF SPECIAL SERMONS BY REV. ROBT. POGUE

He Deals With the Causes of Social Unrest

The pastor of St. Paul's Church began last night a series of sermons on the Social Problem. His subject last evening was Social Unrest. He first gave a number of facts to show that social unrest existed. He quoted W. T. Sead's words: "Everywhere the old order is changing and giving place to the new. The human race is now at one of the crucial periods in its history when the fountains of the deep are broken up and the good of change submerges all the old established institutions and conventions in the midst of which preceding generations have lived and died." He then treated of the causes of social unrest.

The first of these is the spread of popular education. With an increase in intelligence has come an increase in ambition, in appetite and tastes. Religion, like education, is the enemy of stagnation. The desire for liberty, for a larger, fuller, richer, happier life is a divine instinct in the soul of man. Discontent with unjust conditions is not only natural, it is right, it is divine. John Stuart Mill said: "It is better to be a dissatisfied man than a satisfied pig." Men have come to see that they are not mere beasts of burden, that life was not meant for drudgery, that no class of men have a right to exploit the manhood of another, and that all men are entitled to their fair share of the bounties of nature which a loving God has given for the use of all.

Glaring Inequalities

The second cause of social unrest is the glaring inequalities of life, as in seen in the great wealth and luxury of one class and in the extreme poverty and misery of another. He gave illustrations here of great wealth and luxury on the one hand and the great poverty and misery on the other. "Is it any wonder," he asked, "that the man who has walked the streets for days in a vain search for work and stoops to pick up a piece of orange peeling from the gutter to stop the cravings of hunger, and then reads that his late employer, who dismissed him because of the slackness of work, had spent the previous night $100,000 in a banquet to his friends, and had just completed a home for himself costing $51,000,000—is it any wonder that he feels the injustice of things and that he declares war on a social system that permits such conditions to exist?"

The third cause of social unrest is a feeling which is more and more becoming a conviction based on intelligent observation that the immense wealth and luxury of one class are the product of the labor of the other. A true economic science sees ~~and teaches~~ that the only thing which can create wealth is labor, when applied to the natural resources of the earth. Labor, therefore, should have what it creates.

The fourth explanation of social unrest is the spread of the Spirit of Christ in the world. The great movements and social upheavals of our time are due to the leaven of the Gospel writing in the Social System. Religion is just two things, according to Jesus: Love to God and love to man. The whole social movement is largely a cry for justice. The more thoughtful men of our time see that our Social System is built on injustice, and that the Social Question is not so much a question of dollars and cents, of wages and hours, as of justice. And every man who speak a word on behalf of our industrial slaves is as truly a servant of God, a deliverer sent from God, as was Moses when he undertook to deliver his people from Egyptian bondage. The leading Social Problem is a moral problem and that until it is settled right it will not be settled at all. The highest right of every man is the right to do right. It is impossible to be a part of our present Social System and do right. The more Christian men see this the more earnestly will they labor for the destruction of that system that on the ruins of the old there may arise a new, a Christian civilization, in which it will be possible for every man to do right and to be a brother to every other man.

BURIED IN CAVE-IN.

One Well-Digger Is Dead and Another Seriously Hurt.

TALBOTVILLE, Ont., Feb. 2.—Half buried under several tons of clay and bricks, Charles Yeandle, aged 52, was killed and John Ramey, aged 45, almost completely buried, was rescued, but not until he had sustained a serious fracture of the leg in the cave-in of an old well on the farm of Thomas Fife, near this village, Friday afternoon. A third man, Philip Gilbert, scrambled out a minute before the crash came and escaped injury.

The crumbling wall crashed upon Ramey and a solid hour elapsed before he was removed. Yeandle was buried only to his waist, but falling forward on the handle of a shovel he struck his stomach and suffered what is thought to be an internal hemorrhage.

The tragedy happened in full view of several men who were assisting, and among them was Yeandle's son, Blair. The young man slid down into the well with the others and worked like a trojan to rescue Ramey, whose right hand could be seen fluttering above the death-dealing mass.

Bad Fire In Montreal.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—Three fires that broke out within an hour yesterday morning kept Montreal firefighters on the jump a large part of the day, and did damage of about $250,000. The most serious was that which destroyed the premises used by the Merchants' Clothing Co. and other firms at 36 West Notre Dame street, in the heart of the downtown business district.

About the same time in the forenoon the Deaf and Dumb Institute, in the north end of the city, was in flames, and then another occurred in the Canadian Pacific Atlantic Line shed on King Edward pier.

Three workmen on the third floor of the downtown building when the fire broke out were unable to say how the fire started. They escaped over the roof to an adjoining building.

Perhaps one reason why women so often love worthless men is because they feel sure they will encounter no rivals.

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS ASTONISHED

RHEUMA Acts on Kidneys, Liver and Blood the First Day—and Out Goes Uric Acid Poison

Anybody can afford to pay 50 cents to get rid of terrible Rheumatime, Sciatica or Gout, and that's all RHEUMA costs at Warne Drug Co. and they say if it doesn't do all that is claimed for it, money back.

It's wonderful how speedily this simple remedy takes hold and how the sore muscles limber up and the swollen joints come down to normal. Make no mistake—RHEUMA costs but little, but it's the best remedy you can find to drive Rheumatic poison from the system and bring back health to misery-racked bodies.

"I had Rheumatism for a long while, and tried many medicines, but was not cured until I used RHEUMA. I cannot praise RHEUMA too highly. My advice to those suffering from Rheumatism is to use the great remedy, as I believe it will effect a permanent cure in any case."—C. B. Lanham, Sattes, W. Va., April 27, 1912.

Fine Horses Destroyed.

LINCOLN, Mass., Feb. 2—Twenty-one thoroughbred horses belonging to A. Henry Higginson, were lost in a fire which destroyed the big racing stable on the Higginson country estate Saturday night. Only four horses were saved. The total loss is estimated at over $60,000.

Some of the employes think the fire was set. Three of Mr. Higginson's most valuable hunters, Prince Hampton, Sir Worcester and Rose Fenton, worth $5,000 apiece, were lost.

Reformatory Boys Fight Fire.

VERGENNES, Vt., Feb. 2.—Nearly 130 boys, whose ages range from 7 to 19 years, were made homeless Saturday by a fire that destroyed the main building of the Vermont Industrial School, a reformatory institution, of which they were inmates. Although not organized for systematic fire-fighting, the boys worked valiantly, and through their efforts practically all the contents were removed before the flames could reach them. The loss is about $75.000.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The Suez Canal Co., which has been at work for six years in deepening the canal one foot, announces completion of the task, and the waterway has a depth of 29 feet for its whole length. The original depth in 1870 was 24 feet 4 inches, and it remained so until 1890, since when the canal has been deepened four times. It is expected that the company will authorize soon still further dredging, bringing the depth to 30 feet.

Many Bishops Swindled.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The Archbishops of Lyons, Bourges and other cities, and nearly a score of bishops of France are said to be among the victims of the financial operations of Fernand Emil Leconte, a banker, who was arrested Saturday. Le Conte is charged with swindling. His liabilities reach $400,000. He had organized companies with a capital totalling $6,000,000, and placed a lot of stock in manganese mines in Canada.

GEN. BLANQUET CLAIMS TO HAVE BALKED PLOT AGAINST HUERTA

Chief Supporter of Felix Diaz and Some of His Followers Have Been Arrested and Several Hundred Rifles Seized in Mexican Capital.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 2.—With the arrest of Jose Luis Requena, chief of the Felix Diaz political organization, and two or three other men who were also prominent in his support in the later race for the Presidency, and the discovery of several hundred rifles stored in the capital, the War Department believes it has well in hand a new plot, which, it is believed, had as its object an attempt to overthrow the Government to-day.

The case has been handled entirely by agents of Gen. Blanquet, Minister of War, and the chief of police, Col. Francisco Chavez, many of whose men are alleged to be implicated in the treasonable plans, is inclined to doubt the accuracy of the War Department's information.

The arrests were determined upon after the submission to Gen. Blanquet of evidence discovered by a detective, who had represented himself as Juan Ortega, a well-known rebel operating in the State of Michoacan and the territory of Tepic. The detective went to the home of Francisco Serrano, a civil engineer living at Alpam, a suburb of Mexico City, with a letter said to have been written by another revolutionary chief, which appears to have convinced Serrano of the bearer's identity as Ortega.

The detective secured Serrano's confidence and offered to contribute $500 and five hundred guns, promising that one thousand men would join the new cause.

Serrano, it is alleged, sent a note to Requena, asking his opinion regarding acceptance of the offer.

At the department there is a letter supposed to have been written by Requena to Serrana in which Requena advises acceptance of the rebel's offer. As if to corroborate the genuineness of the investigation 500 rifles have been brought to the Government arsenal. These, it is said, were discovered in the place where Ortega said they were hidden.

Pedro Villar, an attorney who identified himself with Gen. Felix Diaz's political fortunes, went to Havana to meet him and accompanied him to Vera Cruz in November, remaining with him until the night of his flight, has also been arrested.

Enrique Fernandez Castello, son-in-law of Requena, and prominent in the political affairs of the capital, is being sought for by agents of the War Department.

The exact development of the plot and the exact form the new government was to take are things on which Gen. Blanquet is uncommunicative, nor do his agents profess to know the details. They claim to have some evidence to indicate that the plan was either to install as temporary president Gen. Fernando Gonzales, an army officer of repute, who is now in Washington on leave, or Gen. Felix Diaz.

Another feature which is interesting those working on the case is the reported disappearance from Paris of Gen. Mondragon, who was Diaz's chief lieutenant at the time of his revolt here a year ago. He was removed from the Department of War and sent to France on a special mission by President Huerta. Information from Paris is to the effect that he has not appeared at the bank to collect his last remittance from the Government, now many days overdue.

JOURNALIST RESIGNS.

Times' Leader Writer Will Not Defend Unionist Politicians.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Since the editorial staff of The Pall Mall Gazette resigned in a body, and with the assistance of the late Sir George Newnes founded the Liberal Westminster Gazette, because a new proprietor wanted to change the political complexion of The Pall Mall Gazette, there have been few episodes in English political journalism which have attracted more attention than the resignation of A. P. Nicholson, who for many years has been chief Parliamentary correspondent of The Times. Nicholson has given up one of the prize positions in the London press because he was unable to accept certain methods whereby the Unionist party in Parliament intend to carry on their campaign against the Liberal Government, and which methods as a writer for The Times he would have been required to present in a favorable light.

From The Times Nicholson has gone to The Daily News, in which to-day he writes on the Unionist plans in a way calculated to stir up considerable dust in the political arena. The Unionists, according to Mr. Nicholson, have just circularized their agents throughout the country to prepare for a general election in May next, and he intimates that it is the intention to bring dissolution about either by creating disorders in the House or some other device.

Parliament meets to-day week for its third session under the Parliamentary act. If the session can be brought to an ultimely end the two years' work which the Liberal party has spent in passing such measures as the home rule bill, to which the Lords refused to assent, will have been unproductive.

WILD FINANCING WRECKED UNION LIFE SAYS THE LIQUIDATOR

Geo. T. Clarkson Files Statement of Affairs of Defunct Insurance Company in Which He Shows That the Union Life Assumed Heavy Burdens in Order to Get Control of Other Companies.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—That the Union Life Assurance Company came to grief chiefly through the heavy financial burdens heaped upon its financial resources in an effort to acquire control of other concerns and the exorbitant operating expenses is the conclusion reached by Mr. George T. Clarkson, the permanent liquidator, who filed the statement on Saturday with Mr. George Kappele, K.C., the official referee, who presided over the investigation ordered by the Dominion Government, at the instance of the English shareholders. Copies of the report have also been forwarded to the Minister of Justice, the Minister of Finance and Attorney-General Foy.

The liquidator showed that the Union Life in its twelve years of existence had a net operating loss of $646,720, and a total loss of $1,236,910. Of this amount the Union Life lost $420,000 by means of ill-judged investments, attributed by the report principally to H. Pollman Evans, the head of the concern. The expenses on the sale of shares to English investors cost $170,190 for stock subscribed to the amount of $789,287. The liabilities of the company at the time the winding-up order was issued totalled about $1,425,000, but the net operating loss of the company was subsequently reduced to $646,720 by the sale of good-will and approximate benefits obtained by reinsuring the policyholders in the Metropolitan Life Assurance Company of New York.

That H. Pollman Evans profited to the greatest extent was shown by the statement that in twelve years his total revenue amounted to $175,664 from the National Agency Company, the Union Life Company, the Canada Investment Corporation, the Home Life Assurance Company, the National Credit Clearing Company, the Agency Land & Security Company and the National Land & Fruit Packing Company. From 1902 till 1913 his revenue from the Union Life Company amounted to $92,827.18. His greatest amount received in 1912, when the report credits him with obtaining $52,357 from the Agency & Land Security Company, and $15,034 from the National Land & Fruit Packing Company, making a total for the year, along with a few other incidental receipts of $79,146.

HYDRO PLANS TO PREVENT BREAKS FOR ALL TIME

Sleet and Wind Crippled the Entire Power Service

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—For the second time within a year the Hydro-electric has been stricken. The storm on Saturday night dislocated the entire Niagara system extending over a radius of nearly three hundred miles for a period varying from six to seven hours. A score of municipalities were plunged into immediate darkness. Street lamps went out, cars were stopped, and the incandescent lamps in stores and homes comprising the immense circuit faded into nothingness. It all happened in a moment.

A hurricane exceeding in velocity eighty-five miles an hour, carrying with it a heavy sleet, struck the main trunk line at Vinemount, about mid-distance between Dundas and Niagara Falls, causing a break in two transmission cables, and the loose ends of these were in turn blown across two other cables, rendering the four useless and paralysing the system. There are six cables in all and any three are sufficient to complete a circuit, but when four went out of commission everything had to wait until repairs could be made.

Hon. Adam Beck, who has just returned from England, lost no time in getting in touch with conditions on the system. When interviewed at London last night as to what the commission proposed doing to prevent a recurrence of trouble like that of Saturday, Mr. Beck said: "This has been the first breakdown of any cable on our system in four and a half years of operation. We did not anticipate it, although we have already increased the size of the cable to be used on the extension from St. Thomas to Windsor.

"The only other trouble we have had was with the insulators last summer, and we are satisfied that we have entirely overcome that.

"With the view of meeting the increased demand for power, as well as insuring an uninterrupted service, the commission decided last autumn to build another double-circuit transmission line from Dundas to Niagara Falls, which will give four complete trunk line circuits. The route of the new line has been surveyed, and is five or six miles shorter than the old route. We expect to have the necessary appropriation from the Legislature in time to begin active work early in the spring. This line will be of extra heavy construction, and will provide a margin of safety that will overcome any stress that may be laid upon it."

Saturday's storm was a terrific one and the linemen who searched for and repaired the break at Vinemount had the worst fight in the history of the system. After the first break rapid tests were made all along the line. Dundas reported everything all right east to Toronto and west to London and Stratford. The trouble zone was narrowed to the trunk section between Dundas and Niagara Falls.

Without waiting for the second casualty, the linemen spread out in pairs over the intervening distance of fifty-five miles, using whatever means of locomotion the circumstances would afford. Automobiles were out of the question. It was dangerous to attempt horseback, so cutters and buggies for the most part were utilized, while some went on foot. It was a cold, tiresome, perilous hunt, struggling for horses against wind and weather.

Towards 10 o'clock the storm abated somewhat and progress was more rapid. Mile by mile the line was patrolled, and finally, at Vinemount, the most exposed part of the escarpment, the two breaks were found close together with the severed strands dangling across two other cables, causing an additional short circuit. Temporary repairs were made, the best that the darkness and other conditions would permit. This done, a telephone message was sent to the transformer station at Niagara Falls to "test out." The report was "O.K.," and the service was restored.

PUT WIFE ON RAILS?

Indian at Brantford Charged With Serious Crime.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 2.—Peter Williams, an Indian, was brought here Saturday morning from Caledonia to answer to a serious charge, preferred against him by his wife, who says her husband Friday struck her with his fists and stabbed her in the shoulder with a knife.

Then, after beating her into insensibility, he placed her body on the Grand Trunk Railway tracks near their home, and then fled to Caledonia, where he was arrested. She regained consciousness before a train happened along and found herself lying across the railway rails. Williams denies this.

Million Dollars' Worth Saved.

SARNIA, Feb. 2.—Over one million dollars' worth of vessels in marine values is what the Reid Wrecking Co., with its fleet of powerful tugs and wrecking outfits, has wrest from the rocks and shoals and brought into port since the storm of Nov. 9. This is a remarkable record and without a parallel in maritime circles. The steamers which comprise this list are: the Matoa, Acadian, Northern Queen, Nottingham, Nicholas, Buckley and the Matthew Andrews. With the exception of the latter, each of the others can be classed as wrecks, being cast up on rocks or beach. The values of the steamers are: Matou, $650,000; Acadian, $125,000; Nicholas, $130,000; Northern Queen, $130,000; Matthew Andrews, $350,000; Nottingham, $250,000, and the Buckley, $20,000.

Turkish Revolutionist To Die.

AVLONA, Albania, Feb. 2.—Bekir Aga, the leader of a revolutionary movement which began here early in January with the object of placing Izzet Pasha, former Turkish Minister of War, on the Albanian throne was condemned to death Saturday after a trial. Nine Turkish officers implicated in the movement sentenced to imprisonment of from three to fifteen years.

TO PREVENT CAR SHORTAGE

Car Efficiency Best Promoted by Co-operation.

The Board of Trade News of Toronto recently printed an article on how best to prevent car shortage, and among other things points out that car efficiency can best be attained in the following manner:

1. By the satisfactory handling of traffic with the least number of cars, which can best be accomplished by the ordering of cars of suitable dimensions and loading same to their full capacity.

As an illustration: Assuming a tonnage of 3,000,000 tons is loaded and transported in 250,000 cars, or twelve tons per car. An increase in the load to 15 tons would result in the same traffic being transported in 200,000 cars, thereby freeing 50,000 cars for other service. A firm shipping 5 cars of 12 tons each per day for 300 working days, by increasing the average load per car to 15 tons, move the same volume of traffic in 120 instead of 150 cars

2. Handling the business in the smallest number of car days. The railways should transport the freight quickly, supplemented by prompt loading and unloading of cars by their patrons. The full free time permitted by the Car Service Rules should not be taken advantage of unless actually necessary.

3. Shippers and consignees should ascertain whether their facilities are amply sufficient to ensure the prompt handling of their freight, and the ordering of cars for loading and unloading should be so arranged as to lose no time in handling when placed.

The News believes that the public as well as the railways have duties to perform to prevent a shortage of cars.

WHITEWASH THEY SAY

Bishop of London's Report Arouses Ire of The Militants

ARE VERY ANGRY

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The militant suffragettes are very angry with the Bishop of London, the Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington Ingram, over his report that there was no truth in the allegations of excruciating torture being inflicted on their comrades who are subjected to forcible feeding in Holloway Jail. They accuse the prelate of being an ally of the Government and Mrs. Dacre Fox, one of the leaders of the Women's Social and Political Union, wrote to him Saturday as follows:

"A whitewash brush has been placed in your hands, my lord bishop, by the authorities in order that the public shall remain ignorant of the diabolical methods used by the Government in its desire to terrorize the militant women."

The writer adds: "The whole truth of the matter is you have allowed the Government and the prison officials to hoodwink you. We hold letters from Miss Rachael Peace, now an inmate of Holloway Jail, describing the torture she has undergone. She has, on two occasions, to our knowledge, broken down under the supreme suffering involved."

Aroused by the bishop's declaration, suffragettes yesterday repeatedly interrupted the consecration services conducted by him at St. Michael's Church. The women set up a chant, in which reference was made to forcible feeding, and they called upon the bishop to put a stop to "the torture of women in English prisons."

The disturbers were quickly removed. An attempt made by the women to reach the bishop as he left the church was frustrated by the police, who were present in force in anticipation of trouble.

Enthusiastic Over Air Fleet.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—The national subscription for the French aerial war fleets amounts to $1,200,000, according to announcement made by Senator Reymond, president of the national aviation committee at a fete at the Sorbonne Saturday, presided over by M. Poincare, President of the republic.

The lists are now closed and the fund, Senator Reymond added, would enable the committee to present to the army 210 aeroplanes, pay for the training of 75 expert pilots and erect 70 aeroplane sheds at ports of call.

LITTLE GIRL IS FATALLY BURNED

CHATHAM, Feb. 2.—Mabel Carron, the seven-year-old daughter of Frank Carron of Charing Cross, was so badly burned Saturday afternoon when her clothing caught fire from a burning stick that she died four hours later. The child remained conscious to the last, despite her fearful burns, and one of her last requests was for a drink of water. The mother was out of the house at the time, and returned to find the clothing burned entirely off the child.

A Few Facts for All Who Want To Make Money

Wise and rich men advise their friends to buy Lots in the way of a growing city. Plain common sense endorses that advice.

All must acknowledge that Peterborough is growing rapidly south and west.

It is generally known that I own a very desirable block of high land half a mile south and west from C.G.E. Works, overlooking the south-end churches and schools, the C.P.R., G.T.R. and street car line, also all the big factories. I have subdivided this land into blocks of two lots, 50x123 ft. to a lane, 12 feet wide. Each lot containing 3,075 square feet. Those lots would be excellent value at $200 each, but because of my desire to be freed from business I have decided to sell for $175, and accept deposits of $5 on one or two Lots to which I will add a bonus of $5, giving a receipt for $10. No interest nor any further payments required until May, when official plan will be registered. All lots properly staked and balance of streets, Cottsmore, Ford avenue, and Western Avenue graded to the Gravel Road.

RESTRICTIONS:—BRICK, BRICK VANEER, CONCRETE, OR STONE HOUSES ONLY PERMITTED.

Other lots 30x127—3,810 square feet for $150, and $200, on same terms. Free deed and perfect title.

CHANCE FOR McNEAL WITH BUFFALO INTERNATIONALS

BUFFALO, Feb. 2.—Norman McNeal, a Buffalo boy, last season a catcher for the Peterboro team, of the Canadian league, will be given a chance with the Bisons next season, it was announced at the headquarters of the Buffalo International league baseball club yesterday. Manager Clymer, when in town, agreed to give the youngster a try-out and the local lad was signed.

McNeal is a well-built lad and has every physical requirement to make a strong man behind the bat. Jimmy Murray boosts him to the skies and predicts that the Buffalo club will not make any mistake by taking him [illegible]. In 86 games behind the bat for the Peterboro team last season, he batted .256 and fielded .970. He is said to be fast upon the bases, and has an arm that will remind the local fans of Hank Gowdy's whip. McNeal played in Buffalo with the Simon Pures and several South Buffalo semi-pro. teams.

EXCURSION TRAIN WILL LEAVE FOR WHITBY AT 5.45

The fans will be glad to learn that it has been definitely decided to run an excursion train to Whitby, next Wednesday night. The G. T. R. train will leave the station at 5.45. The return fare has been placed at $1.50.

It is expected that followers of the game at Port Hope and Bowmanville will take in the excursion, as the rates have been lowered to $1.15 and 45 cents respectively.

It will be a critical encounter for the local intermediates. Belleville plays in Cobourg that same night, and with Belleville winning, the Peter will also have to win to tie up the district.

Merry Battle Promised by Toolmakers and Plumbers

The games in the Mercantile League to-night promises to be well worth seeing. In the first fixture between the Tool Room and the Plumbers there will be a merry old battle, as they are the two oldest teams in the league and naturally there's more or less rivalry among them.

In the second game at nine o'clock, Peter Spratt and the rest of the De Laval outfit, will make an attempt at defeating the Tait and it should be hockey every minute, while the attraction between the Examiner and Bankers should be a good game.

Len Dobson will handle the games.

COUGHLIN WILL NOT GO TO THE COAST

"Jerry" Coughlin, the local boy, who has been playing for Ingersoll this season, has turned down the offer of the Patricks, of Vancouver, to jump to pro. hockey. When speaking of it to The Review scribe "Jerry" stated that he was working at his trade and doing well in Ingersoll, so he declined.

He received a very tempting offer.

GAMES WITH ORILLIA

The curling matches between Orillia and Peterboro for the Neill-Sheppard will take place on Feb. 9th.

PLAYERS ARE SUSPENDED

The Certificate of Local Player is Cancelled

At a meeting of the sub-committee of the O.H.A., on Saturday, the Collingwood episode of January 22, when Referee Harvey Sproule and the Orillia team were threatened by some of the spectators after the first overtime period of the game, and also after the game, was considered. The committee decided to issue a warning to the Collingwood Hockey Club that another instance of the kind would result in a ban being placed on the town and rink. Better police protection for visiting teams and referees must be provided if Collingwood is to remain on the O.H.A. map.

Expulsion Next Time

Jack Burns, of the Collingwood Club, was warned that if he is again reported by an O.H.A. referee, he will be expelled. The same punishment will be meted out to Thomas Riordan, if he is again reported.

Cyril Giroux, captain of the Peterboro intermediate team, was suspended and his certificate cancelled for rowdyism on the ice in the game with Cobourg. Giroux used bad language to the referee.

The certificate of Wm. Ploethner, of Preston, was cancelled. He does not qualify under the residence rule.

The protest of the Centennial Hockey Club of Hamilton against the Hamilton Hockey Club, in which certain charges were laid against Oscar Cox and Frank McEwen, was considered and dismissed as trivial. The certificate of Leonard Crook, of the Centennials was cancelled, he being proved to be a resident of Dundas, and not of Hamilton.

Fifty Firemen Overcome.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Smoke rising from masses of burning tobacco, overcame fifty firemen during a four-hour battle with flames which were brought under control shortly after eight o'clock Saturday night in a four-storey factory building on the upper East Side. Fire Chief John Kenlon said that because of the smoke the blaze was the most serious one of its kind in the department's history. The property loss was estimated at $50,000, suffered by three wholesale tobacco companies. No lives were lost.

Disappointed Swain Runs Amuck.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2. — Running amuck when his sweetheart, Ethel Surrey, refused Friday night to leave her home at Long Pointe, Que., when he demanded it, John McGarr shot the girl in the head, and firing wildly, wounded her brother Evelyn, and brother-in-law, A. W. Cloake. McGarr then tried to get out of the house by the back door, which he found locked. He then smashed a window with an axe and in doing so, upset a kerosene lamp which set fire to the house. The flames were put out by Mrs. Surrey, the aged mother of the girl, who was asleep upstairs, and who also secured medical attention for the wounded. McGarr got away.

TOM TERRISS AT THE GRAND

Mr. Terriss as Nicholas Nickleby—New Play Written on Dicken's "Carol."

Tom Terriss' Company gave two performances on Saturday last in the Grand Opera House. At the matinee the "Christmas Carol" and the "Cricket on the Hearth" was played. In the evening "The Carol" was again presented along with "Nicholas Nickleby."

Mr. Terriss is himself a great lover of Dickens and has given himself up to the reproduction of many of the great novelist's stories in the form of short plays which he has arranged and adapted himself.

He enters into the art of acting with great earnestness and his "Scrooge" is his masterpiece. Those who saw him as "Nickleby" in the evening, after seeing him as an old man, would be amazed at his versatility, for he certainly looked a very elegant young man and a bright contrast to the sombre figure of "Scrooge."

It will interest many people to learn that Mr. Terriss has written a full-length play around the character of "Old Scrooge." This play begins with the boyhood of the old miser, and shows the gradual development or deterioration of the promising youth by a too close application to money-getting. It is to be called "The Ruling Passion," or some such title. It promises to be a powerful play and Mr. Terriss may tour Canada with it shortly.

NEW SPECIES OF TROUT

For some years several very interesting specimens of trout have been taken in the lakes that are found in the boundaries of the Algonquin Provincial (Ontario) Park, situated in the Highlands of Ontario, 200 miles north of Toronto, 170 miles west of Ottawa, and 280 miles west of Montreal.

During the year 1913 specimens were brought in from Delano Lake, within a few miles of the Highland Inn, situated at Algonquin Park station, on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway. These specimens resembled both the salmon and the speckled trout, so much so that the superintendent of the park sent one of the specimens to Professor Prince, of the Fisheries Department, Ottawa, who is probably the best authority on Fish Culture in America. Professor Prince's report on this specimen is a most interesting one to anglers and reads as follows:

"The specimen of peculiar trout have been carefully examined, and it really appears to be a hybrid, namely, the Brook Trout and the Grey Trout (or Lake Trout). The dental features and the nature of the vomer, as well as the peculiar color and the shape of the tail, all indicate a combination of the two species, which as is well known, are now separated further than they used to be. The Brook Trout and the Lake Trout were at one time included under the same Genus Salvelinus, but they appear to be now separated into two Genera, the Grey Trout being put into the Genus Christivomer. A hybrid specially connected with two seperate Genera is a remarkable and exceedingly interesting occurrence. I am most interested in this specimen and intend to look into the question further as the nature of the egg and the features of hybridisation are so remarkable scientificaly that it is worth while trying some experimental work to see if the hybrids can be produced artificially."

THE DAILY REVIEW

Fresh to strong southwest, shifting to northwest winds, generally mild. Fair, turning colder tonight and on Wednesday.

ESTABLISHED 1879. PETERBOROUGH, ONT., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1914. PRICE 2 CENTS

TICK, TOCK AND THE MINUTES ARE PASSING IN THE LARGEST OFFER DURING THE ENTIRE CONTEST

Greatest Number of Votes Can Now be Secured For the Subscriptions in Daily Review Contest Period

The manager of the contest cannot too emphatically urge candidates for honors in the campaign to remember that during "Booster Period" which runs until Feb. 14th, the highest vote offer that will be made during the entire contest is in force. A subscription, new or old, next week will entitle candidates to more votes than at any other time. This is contrary to former contests of this character, but it is right and fair and is the best possible security for workers against persons who might be tempted to try to buy up the grand prize in the end of the contest. As subscriptions during the next week are worth five times what they will be at the end, one can easily see how "we protect our workers."

Turn in Subscription Now.

NOW is the time to make great headway in the contest—so get a good start and accumulate a big reserve vote in coupons. Turn in your orders for subscriptions NOW and you will not regret it later.

To our readers throughout the county, who are mailing coupons for their favorite candidate, kindly remember to put a two cent stamp on the envelope and address it to the Contest Department, The Daily Review, and the coupons will be placed in the ballot box.

And then if you want any information or advice call Contest Department, phone 189, and the manager will talk with you or call upon you. We are at your service.

All records are broken in the terrific balloting by the contestants and their friends and never before has anything equalled this great contest for interest. Coupon votes are coming in by the thousands. Contestants are calling for subscription voting books so as to get an early start in the greatest prize election ever inaugurated in Ontario.

How to Get Started.

If your name has been published send for one of the subscription books and line up all your friends for their new and old subscriptions to the Daily Review. If your name has not yet been published send it to the Contest Manager at once and it will be published in the first issue after being received. Ask all your friends to save the coupons from each issue of The Daily Review, which count for twenty-five votes each.

Boost for Some One.

If you are not in the big vote race, show your loyalty by boosting for some lady or gentleman friend who is working up to win one of the grand prizes. Clip the voting coupons and give them a renewal to your old subscription, or pay them for a new subscription to The Daily Review. Do this right now, as it will encourage them, putting them on the road to success.

About the Prizes.

Do you want to win that beautiful touring car which will be given away as a grand prize? Remember the car is fully equipped with shield, and top cover, foot rest, robe rail and everything that you would desire in a first-class auto. It will run as fast as you like and as slow as you like. It is second to none and it is a beauty. Come in and get the manager to explain the features of this meritorious proposition.

The Early Bird Gets the Worm.

It is a good maxim to keep in mind the early bird gets the worm, and the earlier you get started in the campaign the better your show to win the prize you seek. We should advise one and all—Get Busy Today—and let the future take care of itself. Organize your campaign and interest your neighbors and friends. Someone will get their subscriptions and votes—why not you? If there is anything you cannot fully understand call the Contest Manager at the office of The Daily Review, write him a letter or call at the office in person and he will be more than pleased to give you every help possible. Start right now. Get a subscription book and show your competitors that you are made of the stuff that spells Success.

EX-MAYOR BRADBURN IS APPOINTED TO CITY TRUST

Ald. Johnston Didn't Like Ald. Gordon's Surprise Party

Moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Duffus, that Mr. Jas. Kendry be re-appointed.

Moved in amendment, by Ald. Gordon, seconded by Ald. Stratton, that Mr. W. H. Bradburn be appointed.

These two motions prevented the Aldermen from slumbering about eleven o'clock last night.

It was necessary to make an appointment for the Board of City Trust Commissioners and without the least suspicion, Ald. Johnston moved for the re-appointment of Mr. Kendry. The amendment came like a bolt from the blue.

Ald. Johnston inquired why. He said council had not been given any intimation. "It is hardly fair to bring this on as a surprise party," he said.

Ald. Gordon said that Mr. Kendry's time was occupied with large business interests. He spoke appreciatively of Mr. Kendry. Mr. Bradburn was well acquainted with the business of the city. Ald. Langford held that as a matter of courtesy, the council should have been notified.

Mayor Buller said Mr. Kendry was an old and respected official. He had done honor to the city and he was still able to fill the bill.

Ald. Duffus' opinion was that as re-appointments had always been made as a matter of course, it was only as an act of courtesy that the office be offered to Mr. Kendry again.

Ald. Gordon felt that the honors should be passed around. Mr. Kendry was a man held by him and by all in high regard, but ex-Mayor Bradburn was intimate with the city's interests, and he seemed to be a fit and proper person.

Asked if Mr. Bradburn had been asked if he would take the office, Ald. Gordon replied "Yes."

"Why did you not speak about it before?" asked Ald. Johnston.

Ald. Gordon replied that he had not thought about it till the meeting.

The personnel of the Board is Messrs. E. A. Peck, R. Hall, V. Eastwood, W. H. Bradburn and W. H. Moore K.C., chairman. Each receives a salary.

THE UNEMPLOYED

A delegation from the unemployed called at this office this morning, complaining of an item in another local paper, in which it was said that while six men were engaged by a contractor, they did not start to work the following morning. The men say they would be only too glad to get work.

MOTHER JUMPED INTO CISTERN TO SAVE BABE FROM DEATH

Omemee, Feb. 3.—On Monday a young child of Mr. Herb Jones fell into a cistern, which was being used by the child's mother, who, on discovering the situation, jumped into the cistren and brought the child out, then telephoned for her husband, who was absent, and for a doctor. We understand the child is likely to recover. 'Twas a brave deed for the mother, whom we hope is no worse of the immersion.

RETURNS TO FACE BIGAMY CHARGE

Belleville, Feb. 3.—Fred J. Hall, a Grand Trunk Railway employee, who has been but a few months resident of this city, was yesterday arrested here and taken to Montreal on a charge of bigamy. In Montreal in July last he married Miss Beatrice Snulchy, of that city, and brought her here to live. It now transpires that wife number one is still living and the parties had not been divorced. The accused is 27 years of age and the second wife is but 20 years of age.

LODGING HOUSE IS DESTROYED

Twenty-five Thousand Dollar Loss for the Salvation Army

Canadian Press Despatch.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 3.—Fire early this morning destroyed a five storey building on Prince William street, with the rear of seven stories on Water street, owned by the Salvation Army and used as a lodging house.

Several of seventy-five lodgers overcome by smoke, had to be carried out and taken to a hospital.

The loss is twenty-five thousand dollars.

TO ASSIST THE UNFORTUNATE

Ald. Gordon Suggests That the Council Provide $300.

Ald. Gordon would have the Council provide $300, to be used in caring for young girls who find themselves in distress.

He would have a committee cooperate with the Salvation Army in spending the money.

The City Council heard his remarks last night and decided to allow the question to stand over for further consideration.

Ald. Gordon cited some cases which had come to his notice. Two of them, he said, had been brought to his attention that day. He thought the city should do something.

Communications.

In the communications before the Council, Relief Officer Miller asked for an increase in salary, because of extra duties. He had looked after 108 cases for hospitals.

The 57th Battalion band requested an increase in their grant. New instruments were needed and the band were negotiating for them.

Damages Claimed.

Oziax De LaPlante wrote for his clients, the Peterborough Hardware Company, saying that damages were claimed because of the cellar being flooded and destroyed goods.

Mrs. Geo. A. Cox, Mr. E. W. Cox, Mrs. Ames and Mr. H. C. Cox acknowledged the messages of sympathy from the city.

Dr. C. H. Amys thanked the Council for the honor of appointment to the Board of Health.

Must Make Appointment.

F. A. Gaby, chief engineer of the Hydro-Electric Commission, drew attention to the necessity of the city appointing a wiring inspector.

BRODEUR SMILES HIS FAREWELL

The Curious Congregate to See Him at C.P.R. Station.

With a smile on his lips and presenting a different aspect from the down-fallen man arrested here a few days ago, Albert H. Brodeur, wanted in Springfield on the murder charge and who has caused a small sensation around the city for the past few days, left yesterday afternoon on the 4.33 in company with Chief Inspector John H. Boyle and Detective Quilty of Springfield, Mass.

Brodeur, who was handcuffed to Detective Quilty, walked through the crowd at the station with his head erect and smiling at the stares of the usual crowd. The questions of "Where is he?" caused the prisoner to turn to Detective Quilty and smile and remark "Well, it's a good joke on you." The party was accompanied to the station by Detectives Newhall and Meagher. They will arrive in Springfield some time tomorrow.

$40 FEE FOR CIGARETTES

Ald. Anderson Would Have the Retailers Pay a License

At the next meeting of the city council, Ald. Anderson will move that a license of $40 be provided for the sale of cigarettes. There is no license fee at the present time.

At this meeting Ald. Stratton will also move that a re-adjustment be made in the staffs of the City Clerk, City Treasurer, and City Engineer, and that an assistant be appointed for the City Clerk.

APPRECIATE WORK OF MR. BURNHAM

Ald. Johnston submitted a motion to council last night, expressing appreciation of the work of Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., for his efforts at Parliament on behalf of Peterboro. Ald. Langford seconded the motion and it was passed.

"Is it usual?" asked Ald. Duffus.

Mayor Buller said it was usual, and the same had been done while Hon. J. R. Stratton and others were members.

At the regular Quarterly Official Board meeting of the Mark street Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. C. E. Cragg, B.D., was invited to remain as pastor for a fourth year, at an increase in salary of $100.

This is the third increase in salary that the circuit has made during the present pastorate. The Board was unanimous.

BULGARIANS NOT GUILTY

PICTURESQUE PETERBOROUGH HOW DOES THE NAME SOUND ?

Horticultural Society Have Plans for Civic Improvement

WANT $1000

Evidently the Horticultural Society have something up their sleeves, and they would, if their finances were healthy, do much work to improve the appearance of the city.

Last night, officers of the Association waited on the council, asking for the annual grant and a little more, if possible. They received $900 last year.

President H. Beal explained what work contemplated for Victoria Park would call for $978.60. This would include a sidewalk through the park.

Mr. Cowan said other cities spent a great deal more money than Peterboro for civic improvement. "We have a comprehensive scheme ahead of us," said Mr. Cowan. "We are planning for a line of improvement extending over several years. This would include civic driveways. Peterboro could then adopt some name, such as Picturesque Peterboro. Mr. Cowan asked that the grant be made $1,000 if possible. He was asked to supply detailed information to a committee.

Ald. Anderson said the grant had been increased last year.

ALFRED KIMBERLEY REITERATED HIS STATEMENTS THAT HE COMMITTED A MURDER IN ENGLAND SEVEN YEARS AGO

C. Robinson, Gladstone Ave. Recognizes Prisoner as a Former Chum—He Says the Woman Was Killed and That the Man First Accused Was Acquitted

Prisoner is Sent to Jail While the Police Make an Investigation

Alfred Kimberly, who yesterday confessed to a murder which took place in Kidderminister, England, seven years ago, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning and was remanded for one week pending an investigation of the case.

The prisoner, who walked into the police station yesterday afternoon and poured out the tale of the crime to Constable Patterson, spent a fairly restful night, and appeared in court in very good spirits.

In his confession Kimberly told how he had met a man who informed him he had a job and wanted a hand. He assented to the proposition and assisted by throwing the body of the murdered woman, as he claims, over the hedge, near where the murder is supposed to have taken place.

He left, and going by a roundabout way, returned home. He left his home shortly after and went to Birmingham, where he stayed for a short time, before coming to Canada. He spent a few months here in the summer and then went to Toronto, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

He returned from Toronto a few days ago and yesterday gave himself up, claiming that he could not live with the terrific affair preying on his mind.

Tells Same Story

Although he was put through a rigid examination by the police, he persisted in repeating the same story and adhered to the same facts, which have convinced the police that he must have been an accessory to the crime at least.

"What do you think of it?" the reporter asked the Chief this morning.

"Well, I am inclined to think he must have been mixed up in it somehow to be able to give such a vivid account of it," was the answer.

He claims that the man who stabbed the woman went by the name of "Wall Some Jack." He however did not know the woman.

A man giving his name as C. Robinson, Gladstone Ave., who heard of the affair, went to the police station last evening, as he himself was from Kidderminister, and was startled to find the prisoner a boyhood chum. Kimberly had resided on the same street, only a few houses from Mr. Robinson, in the Old Country.

Woman Was Murdered

Although the police were inclined to think that it was a case of wanting deportation on the part of the prisoner, Mr. Robinson astonished them by giving the account of the murder which startled the neighborhood of Kimberly seven years ago. His version of the affair was that a woman coming from Sommerfield, was murdered and her body thrown over a fence or hedge. The woman was supposed to be a pedlar and was in possession of considerable money, for which she was murdered. This was the theory of the police. A man was arrested for the crime, but was acquitted. Kimberly, after this affair, apparently changed his life and became rather a heavy drinker, and commenced to live a rough life. He left shortly after, and went to the north of England, supposedly Birmingham, and then he came to Canada. He worked here for a time and then went to Toronto, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. On his return here he was seen a number of times by Mr. Robinson, but never made any mention as to anything that might be preying on his mind.

Questioned by the reporter, Mr. Robinson said he had not the slightest idea what the cause of these strange actions of his friend. At the inquest, the stomach of the murdered woman was found to contain alcohol. Mr. Robinson said Kimberly would have to go home past the place where the body was found.

Mr. Robinson also remarked that he had always felt that Kimberly was not "all there" since the murder as he had been different.

"If he thinks by telling this yarn in order to get back to the Old Country, he is taking a big chance," remarked Mr. Robinson, who is a well-dressed smart looking man, of about thirty years of age.

In the meanwhile the prisoner will be examined by medical men, and also his past history and connection with the affair at Kidderminister, will be investigated.

In conversation with the Chief, he said that it had driven him to such desperation that he was ready to take his medicine, even if he were hanged.

In appearance the prisoner is a rather small man, about five feet six inches, and weighing about 140. He is fair complexioned, clean shaven and dressed fairly respectably.

CAUSE OF INCREASE FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD IS EXPLAINED TO COUNCIL

Dr. M. A. Morrison, V. Eastwood and J. J. Turner, jr., appeared before the City Council last night, for the purpose of explaining the cause of their request for an increase of $8,200 in the appropriation for the year.

The increase is made up in the following items:

Salaries of three new teachers	$1710
Health supervisor	670
Total increases in salaries as provided in schedules	4320
Additional fuel for two new schools	400
Night school classes	1100

Mr. Eastwood says the enrollment at the Night Classes was 242. It was not a money-making scheme.

As for salaries, Mr. Eastwood, said they were not as high as Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa. The Board could not retain teachers unless they were paid the same salaries as other cities.

A Dark Day.

Dr. Morrison said that the day that the Board of Education does not come to the Council to ask for an increase will be a dark day for the City of Peterborough. Last year, pupils increased by 200. For five years the increase was 472. The teaching staff numbered 70, five years ago; now it was between 80 and 90.

The salaries in 1908 were $31,578 and $50,048 in 1913, an increase of $18,520.

The value of real estate is $346,672 and new schools have been erected at a cost of $286,000.

Dr. Morrison went on to explain the tax rate for Public schools and Collegiate Institute and pointed out that there had been an increase of only about two mills for school purposes.

Teachers and Salaries.

Teachers had left better salaries to come to Peterborough. One teacher came here last year for $550, leaving a salary of $600 because she wished to live in the city. This teacher was offered an increase of $50 to return to her former school.

He did not think the aldermen would want their boys and girls taught by inferior teachers. They should get the best teachers. Hamilton, Ottawa, London and Toronto were taking our teachers. London had just taken one.

Health Supervisor.

Answering a statement made by Ald. Gordon as to the hours of the Health Supervisor, Dr. Morrison said she would have work that would keep her going till ten o'clock at night. Recently, she had work that claimed her attention, five hours after school hours.

As to the salary of $670, Dr. Morrison said the Health Supervisor had been placed in the position of a first class teacher. The Board had given her that standing. They had also decided on the salary to be paid and then asked for applications.

In reply to Dr. Morrison, Finance Minister, Ald. Anderson credited the members of the School Board with being men of keen business acumen, and working faithfully and acceptably in the educational interests of this city. Still, as Chairman, Dr. Morrison of the School Board in his inaugural address, had taken exception to his (Ald. Anderson's) contention that the School Board was responsible for a big amount of the increase in taxation, he must reiterate his contention, and point out that Dr. Morrison's figures presented to council do not fully answer the expenditure controversy "City Council re School Board." It is worthy of note that all criticism of Council and the tax rate seems to hinge on the wonderful year 1908, when the rate was 17 mills. Well, if the council of 1913 had folded their arms, made no public improvements, closed the fire hall and police station, and refused all demands for expenditure on the streets, etc., the tax rate would then have been 20 mills the dollar. And this year, when people are clamoring for economy, it might be as well to sound a note of warning to the many bodies seeking grants and appropriations, that council must cut wide and deep to keep down the rate, as already there are demands in sight that would more than eat up our increase in revenue. In reply to Dr. Morrison's presentation of the School Board's responsibility for increase in the rate, Ald. Anderson went on to say that in 1908 the school board's rate was 7.33, the city's rate 9.27 mills; in 1913 the Board's rate was 9.99 mills, the city's 15.01, an increase in five years of 2.22 mills for school purposes, and 5.74 for municipal requirements.

But that is not all! The school board has kept apace with the assessment. In 1908 the city's assessment was eight and a half millions, in 1913 ten and a half millions; an increase in five years of two million dollars. $2,000,000 assessment produces $50,000 revenue, of which the School Board has received $36,625.95. That is to say, of the $2,000,000 increase in assessment in five years school requirements have eaten up the rate on $1,500,000, leaving the city the revenue on but $500,000 to meet its increased municipal calls. While handing out bouquets to the School Board for their executive ability and fruitful work in educational matters, Ald. Anderson reiterated his contention that school demands have been responsible for a large proportion of the big jump in the tax rate since 1908. The city has been working practically on an increased assessment the past five years of half a million bucks, and the School Board on a million and a half dollars. And the Finance Minister respectfully offered that a reversal of these figures might reasonably have been expected. If all other civic departments were treated as liberally as the Board of Education, there would be a very much higher rate than 25 mills. "The Board say they are bound down by the legislature as to school conditions and expenditure, if that is so, council should seek legislation to restrict that expenditure where considered practicable and advisable.

Mr. Eastwood said the figures offered by Ald. Anderson did not prove anything to which Ald. Anderson held that they did. He believed that if the other departments of the city were treated as liberally as the Board of Education there would be a much higher rate than 25 mills. Some departments must be cut down more than they should be.

Dr. Morrison held that Ald. Anderson had not figured on the assessment of $2,000,000 before 1908. The increase in the schools had been on $10,000,000 and not $2,000,000 as Ald. Anderson argued. The Board realized that Council were doing all they could to economize. There was no fault to be found.

Dr. Morrison further pointed out that in manning the schools, the Board felt that there should be no disparity. Two schools had to be provided as training schools, for the students of the Normal school, with properly qualified teachers.

It was also pointed out in this connection that a highly qualified teacher could not be placed in one ward and an inferior teacher in another. The people would not stand for it. That was the reason that the city as a whole had teachers better qualified than the department required. The maximum salary has been reached by some teachers. When they leave and new teachers were engaged, the Board saved so much money.

PREMIER MAY BE MOVED TO HIS RESIDENCE

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—"Sir James Whitney had a good night and is progressing slowly," was Dr. Clarke's bulletin this morning. "He is doing as well as can be expected. If he progresses for a week as at present, he might be moved to his home," the doctor replied to a question as to the possibility of moving the patient.

Dr. Goldie said Sir Geo. Ross had not been doing so well in the past twenty-four hours, and his condition had not improved any. The doctor did not think Sir George would get worse. It was just a little set back and the patient would regain the ground lost, be said.

EVERYBODY IS DOING IT

Doing What? Asking for increase in Salary

"Holy Moses, where is it all going to end," exclaimed Ald. Johnston, last night when case after case was referred to, where an increase in salary for city officials was requested.

Ald. Gordon had started the ball rolling by recommending that the salary of the Medical Health Officer be increased from $800 to $1,000, and that of the Sanitary Inspector be increased from $700 to $900.

Ald. Anderson explained that the increase of $16,000 in revenue would be more than taken up by the increases already before the Council.

Two matters of the two increases were left in abeyance.

F. W. Miller, Relief Officer, is asking for an increase in salary as is also Mr. Harry Evans, Street Commissioner. The Police Chief wants more policemen; the Fire Chief wants more firemen. These are a few of the cases.

Mayor Buller said the Council must stand firm. As for himself, he was not going to stand for increases for officials at the expense of the workingmen. Why should not the workingmen receive increases."

PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, FEB. 3, 1914.

GRAIN-FARMING.

The disastrous effect of grain-farming for export and the priceless value of mixed farming for a home-market were never better demonstrated than by the Western Liberal members in the recent Free Wheat debate. The price of best Western wheat has fallen at Liverpool in 3 years from $1.25 to 98 cents. The truth is the world-market is becoming glutted and the agony of the West is really over this fact. Throwing hundreds of millions of acres into the world's markets has had the expected effect. Export farming is always open to this danger. The only reliable market for the farmer is the one at his own door. When the balance is struck if there is too much farm-produce the farmer feels the pinch of poor prices. If too much of any other commodity down goes that price accordingly. It is not so easy to infest a local market. Even Sir Wilfrid Laurier admits that the home market is the farmer's best market. The Western land owners want to repair their misfortune at the expense of the rest of Canada. People usually plunge when the waters arise around them. Any port in a storm.

AN ABJECT APOLOGY.

IN THIS COLUMN the other day, when pleading for an increase in the salary of Sanitary Inspector Spence, we stated that the present salary attached to that offce was only a little over fifteen dollars per week. We have now to apologise to the city fathers, for this, misrepresentation. We have discovered that we were misinformed as to the exact wage received by Mr. Spence.

Such a misstatement was unfortunate and we offer our sincere apologies to whomsoever it may concern. The press ought always to be sure of its ground before it makes an assertion, especially as to the wage of a civic official. The Review is conscious that its readers look to its editorial columns for correct and reliable information upon all things whatsoever. We realize that when the Mayor, the Judge, the Magistrate, the Commissioner, the Alderman, the Chief of Police (or the candidate for police-woman), when these personages take up their evening Review and cast their eyes down the editorial column they heave a sigh of relief and resignation and repose implicit confidence in the editor. We therefore regret very deeply having deceived them on this serious question of the salary of the guardian of civic health.

We repent, and if necessary, will wear sackcloth—but would bar the ashes, as we have to swallow a quantity of these every day over the furnace.

Let it be confessed that The Review was wrong for once. The plain fact is that Inspector Spence receives a little less than thirteen dollars ($13) per week for his able and efficient services as Sanitary Inspector of the City of Peterborough.

We are sure that those who are the disposers of the funds of the city will forgive us for charging them with such extreme generosity and unwarrentable waste of public funds as to bestow upon a Sanitary Inspector with a large family the munificent salary of fifteen dollars per week. We feel also that we owe an apology to Mr. Spence as well for the inference contained in the misstatement. He would be the last man to impose upon the good nature of his employers.

LOOKING FOR A WIFE.

IT WAS ANNOUNCED the other day, says the Westminster Gazette, that an application for a wife by a Canadian had been received by the Chairman of the Nottingham Guardians. The publication of the fact has brought thirty letters from girls and young women from London, South Wales, and the North of England. Some simply ask the man's address. Others give full particulars of themselves, and enclose a stamped addressed envelope. "I am looking for a husband and would be glad to go to Canada," writes one. "I am twenty-three, and a poor working girl." She encloses references. A Birmingham girl asks for "photographs of gentleman." A Southwell girl sets out her business experience, and adds, "Am qualified to make a good home for the man if I liked him."

Marriage has been called a lottery, and in a case like this there would certainly be a great element of chance on both sides. It is possible that among this thirty candidates there is at least one young woman who would make a very excellent help-meet for this lonely son of Adam. But he had better keep his little garden of Eden to himself rather than risk his future happiness by taking to himself a wife at the hands of the Nottingham Board of Guardians. Yet, Adam himself made a bad bargain and lost his hundred acres through his wife.

MR. BURNHAM'S BILL TO ABOLISH TITLES.

READERS have heard a good deal about Mr. Burnham's Bill to abolish titles, and doubtless have wondered what sort of a weapon our member wields with which he intends to try and abolish the Knights of Canada. They will be surprised to find that it is not a very portentious affair. These Knights can be abolished by a few scratches of the pen, and in this, as in many other things, the pen is mightier than the sword. Sir Hugh Graham might well tremble in his "Derby Ties" when he scans the following simple lines from the pen of our champion of democracy; here is the Bill:

HIS MAJESTY, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows:—

1. All titles of honour or honorary titles heretofore created by the Parliament of Government of Canada, and all such titles now attaching to any office or position or appointment created or made or hereafter to be created or made, by the Parliament or Government of Canada are hereby abolished.

2. No recommendation to confer any title of honor or honorary title shall be made by the Parliament or Government of Canada to His Majesty or to the Governor General of Canada or otherwise.

The Montreal Gazette comes out strongly against the continuance of granting titles on Government recommendation. It agrees with the complaints made recently in Britain that titles are more often a source of gain for campaign funds than otherwise. It is the abuse of title-giving that brings it most into ridicule although why people should want to be elected into a class by themselves it would be difficult to say. In fact proper-minded people do not and some think the whole business is played out. All the same, titles of one kind or another will not cease to exist for Mr. Burnham nor the whole of his colleagues. If individual men do not want titles of distinction SOCIETY will insist upon bestowing them upon its favorites.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SPEAKING in the House of Commons on the question of fish transportation, Mr. Sinclair, Liberal member for Guysboro', N.S., said on Monday night last that he did not deny that the home market was the best market. Many reasons combined to make this so. At Newmarket, Ont., Sir Wilfrid said the same thing. Yet in the face of their own statements these same gentlemen pay but little heed to it.

MR. DELA FOSSE'S article on "The Pleasures of Reading" in our issue of Saturday contained an error which we have failed to trace to its source. The name of Charles Lamb was replaced by "Charles Starkley." Who Charles Starkley is, or was, no one seems to know—we certainly never knew the man. There was, we believe, a Sharkey or Starkey, a pugilist; but our librarian was not writing of pugilists but of humorists. This error would appear to be the work of one of our pugilistic printers—and the editor is afraid to approach him. He will leave Mr. Dela Fosse to deal with him.

MR. CHARLES DE ROTHSCHILD has requested the "Daily Mail" to contradict the statement which was reproduced on Saturday from that journal, that he had recently paid £1,000 for a rare variety of flea. He says he has never paid any such sum for a flea of any description. It was a foolish report anyway. Mr. Rothschild or anyone else can produce the choicest specimens of these nimble nibblers at a much cheaper rate at any of the lodging-houses of the East End and there are doubtless a few aristrocratic fleas in the West End. Mr. Clarence Rook, whose genial presence still seems to haunt the "Office Window" of the London Chronicle, might inform his readers and the world at large if there are in London more than one kind of flea. He knows most things about London life and flea-life is one phase of it he has so far ignored.

WHAT THE WORLD IS SAYING

A Baby City Indeed!

Orillia Packet.

Peterborough demands representation in the Senate. But the baby city might be satisfied with a representative in the Commons with the versatility and agility of J. A. Burnham, M.P. Peterborough can hardly expect to monopolise public attention in both houses of Parliament.

Canada's Outlook.

Westminster Gazette.

Some severe criticisms of Canadian finance have recently appeared, but the Dominion is enjoying remarkable prosperity if we may believe the Canadian Press. An American financier, writing in a Vancouver paper, has, at any rate, no doubt about the matter:

Canada's outlook is bright. Instead of one, she will soon have finished three main lines of her great transcontinental railway. The Canadian Northern has 9,000 men employed between Toronto and Ottawa, the Grand Trunk Pacific has 20,000 men working between Winnipeg and the Pacific Coast. These arteries of commerce will thrill the Dominion's activities into lively circulation when operating. The latest bank reports show high-water mark, reaching new records. It has been a great year for Canada's fisheries. The crops of the Dominion are magnificent, being early, heavy, and of extra quality. The new United States tariff opens a market at Canada's door. Ten thousand more men will be needed to care for the crops.

In the meantime, the Western bankers, we are informed, have wisely discontinued "wild cat" speculation in land and city sites. There are, however, we fear, still a number of credulous people who believe that Winnipegs are going to spring up all along the line. We may be certain that if there are bargains in town sites they will be bought on the spot, and no one should invest in Canadian land who is not prepared to prospect it in person before making a purchase.

The Lone Pine.

By H. Bedford-Jones.

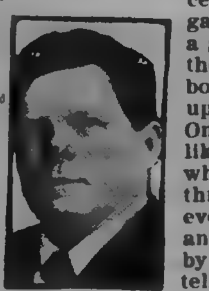
Dawn on the mist; above the trees
A lonely pine uprears
Long ghost-hung branches to the breeze,
Scarred with the olden years.

The mist writhes upward, at the spell
Of some far-hidden bird;
But clearer grows the sentinel,
His brethren dim and blurred.

So stand, my soul, amid thy fears
High over wind and wraith;
Across the darkling drift of years
A sentinel to faith!

PASS CHRISTIAN

By Walt Mason



Pass Christian, which is now on tap, was never known till recently, and then it sprang upon the map with energy, yet decently. I know not if it be a town, nor what the games they're playing there; you cannot keep a good Pass down when Presidents are staying there. Pass Christian, by the public sheets, has boosted been most cleverly, but silence broods upon the streets and in the halls of Beverly. One burg goes up, another on, for burgs are like humanity; humiliation holds one down, while one swells up with vanity. Pass Christian throbbed upon the wires for its brief day, howeverly, while silent were the minstrels' lyres, and hushed the bells of Beverly. Pass Christian by excitement tossed, saw crowded every hostelry, until her citizens were lost in all the crush and jostlry; one day unknown, the next day great, was ever like emergency? Serene and proud she faced her fate, quite equal to the urgency; to entertain her horde of guests she met them all endeavorly, while sorrow filled the manly breasts and chilled the hearts at Beverly.

All honor to the faltering one
Who scorned the idle sneer,
And nobly bore from sun to sun
The burden of the year!

The blanching locks, the tardy gait,
The honest, patient face
Are but nobility's estate
Beside the pigmy race.
That never won or sought the height
Laurelled by true renown—
Self-speaking, grasping transient might,
Missing a starry crown.

For faithful work the guerdon waits;
The work which grows apace,
Expanding still, when pearly Gates
Enclose the winning race.

DIAZ EMISSARY SHOT.

Villa Makes Short Work of Suggestion That He Desert Carranza.

JUAREZ, Feb. 3.—Francisco I. Guzman, who figured prominently in the revolt against President Madero in Mexico City a year ago, was executed in the front yard of a house occupied by Gen. Francisco Villa here yesterday. Guzman had just come from Havana, where it was charged he had been given a secret mission by Felix Diaz to induce Gen. Villa to renounce Gen. Carranza and throw the strength of the revolution to Diaz.

As soon as he heard of the proposal Gen. Villa gave Gusman a conference, and after making sure of the nature of the visit, ordered the messenger to be shot. Within a few minutes after his arrival Gusman was led out of Villa's room, stood up before an adobe wall and with his hands tied and eyes blindfolded, was executed. The shooting was done by a rebel officer in charge of the railroads, who happened to be present when the execution was ordered.

Guzman was formerly a private secretary to Dr. Emilio Vasques Gomez. He was known as one of the promoters of Orosco revolution against Madero, and later joined with Huerta against the late President.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT MADE.

Liberal and Nationalist Leaders Trying To Agree on Home Rule.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—John E. Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, and Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, were closeted with Premier Asquith at his official residence in Downing street yesterday afternoon, and it was understood that the Government had determined to make another effort to conciliate Ulster before the heated debates in Parliament fan into flame the admittedly dangerous situation in the northern province of Ireland.

It is generally thought that Mr. Redmond holds the key to the position, and it is pointed out in some quarters that if he is willing to go to the same lengths as Premier Asquith and the members of his Cabinet are ready to advance in order to placate the north of Ireland, the threats of civil war in that country can be averted.

To Arraign Capt. Berry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Secretary Redfield of the Department of Commerce yesterday directed that charges of negligence be preferred against Capt. Osman Berry of the Merchants & Miners' steamship Nantucket, which collided with and sunk the old Dominion liner Monroe, with a loss of 41 lives, off the Virginia coast last Friday.

Installed as Arch Priest.

ROME, Feb. 3.—Cardinal Merry Del Val, Papal Secretary of State, was solemnly received by the Chapter of St. Peter's, when he took possession yesterday of the post as arch priest, in succession to the late Cardinal Rampolla. The canons and dignitaries paid him homage, after which the cardinal said mass.

Birthdays of Note

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY THIRD

Sir William Van Horne, the distinguished Canadian railroad magnate, observes his seventy-first birthday to-day. His great characteristic has been his remarkable tenacity of purpose which is well illustrated by a story related by one of his friends. The latter was accustomed to play billiards frequently in the evening with Sir William. The great man is by no means a brilliant player, whereas his opponent was quite expert. At first the latter would beat Sir William badly but as the evening wore on and his play became less and less accurate, the margin between the pair would diminish. At last Sir William, who would insist on continuing the game far into the night, would turn the tables on his adversary, winning at the end by sheer persistency and tireless energy in just the same way he has succeeded in the bigger contests of life

HE DIDN'T LIKE DRIPPING.

And No Wonder, After He Had Read About its Strength.

What is dripping?

Everybody knows that dripping is supposed to be the juices, the savory essences, that fall from roasting meats.

That is the supposition. But what really is dripping—the dripping that the poor of England buy by the pound and smear upon their bread in lieu of butter?

The question perhaps will never be answered, but a partial solution is given to it by the fact that a London poorhouse recently bought at $7 a ton thirty-two tons of dripping from—a soap works.

Alfred Noyes used to tell a dripping story.

"A little boy," he would begin, "complained bitterly about the bread and dripping that formed his daily breakfast.

"'It'll kill me,' he whined at last. 'I know it'll kill me.'

"'Kill you? What do you mean?'

"'Why, I've been feeling pretty bad lately, and now I know it's all this dripping what's the cause of the trouble. I read it in a book.'

"'Some pure food rubbish, I dare say! And what, precisely, did you read in this vile book, silly?'

"'I read,' whined the urchin, 'that constant dripping wears away a stone.'"—Exchange.

Father's Ultimatum.

The father of a large family of children was trying hard to read the evening paper.

"What's that terrible racket in the hall, Martha?"

"One of the children just fell downstairs."

"Well," he replied, turning over another page of the paper, "you tell the children if they can't fall downstairs quietly they'll have to stop it."—Lippincott's.

Showing Him How.

"You young scoundrel!" said the father, seizing his disobedient son by the hand. "I'll show you how to treat your mother!"

And he gave him several bangs on the ears and then shook him until his hair began to fall out.

THE LITTLE MEXICAN

By DANIEL C. HALE

I was in Mexico examining a mine for New York capitalists when President Madero was assassinated and Huerta took his place.

Fortunately for me, I had completed my work when the revolution broke out and managed to get a train for Vera Cruz, where I intended to embark for the United States. It was not a pleasant journey by any means. No one knew whether the new government would permit the train to go through or intercept it on the way for the purpose of getting its hands on an enemy or whether adherents of the old regime would take revenge on some one who had been prominent in bringing about the change. At a little station barely ten miles from Vera Cruz the train stopped and remained stationary so long that I concluded to walk the rest of the way.

Everybody went about armed, and I was no exception to the rule. But I had my vouchers about me that I was a United States citizen, and I relied for safety more on being able to prove myself a foreigner than on my armament, though I confess it would have been better for me to have been almost any other foreigner than a gringo.

I am a good walker and believed I would be able to do the distance in from two to two and a half hours. I stepped out briskly, enjoying the stretching of my legs far more than sitting in a train which for all any one could find out might remain where it was till another revolution had been accomplished. As I walked I remembered that I was on the road Cortes and his adventurers passed over when they were beginning their memorable march to the capital of Montezuma. I looked ahead, fancying that I could see their head of column coming up the declivity.

I didn't see the mailed Spaniard, but I did see the back of a man—rather a boy he seemed—walking ahead of me and in the same direction I was going. I soon caught up with him, and from his dark complexion, his coal black eyes and long lashes I knew him to be a Mexican. There was no one near us, and I accosted him in Spanish, which I spoke indifferently, bidding him good day and remarking that it was a fine morning.

He seemed very shy. But the Mexican people have not that self reliance common among us of the United States, and I did not expect him to meet me halfway. Besides, he was boyish looking and even for a boy delicate in appearance. The only sign of ruggedness about him was a color in his cheeks. He looked at me askance and as though he had no desire for my company until I told him that I was a citizen of the United States, when he began to ask me questions about how he should get from Vera Cruz to an American port, when and to what point the steamer sailed, what was the fare and other information desirable for one who intended to make the journey.

I told him what I knew on the subject and then began to talk about other things. I found him willing to converse except upon the subject of the revolution. No sooner did I mention anything, however remotely connected with the revolution, than he shut up like an oyster.

Occasionally I would glance aside at him when I knew he was not aware of it and saw on his face indications that he was under the influence of some powerful emotion. I would have liked to gain his confidence that I might learn what moved him, but I did not believe this possible, so I did not try. However, as we proceeded on our way together he ceased to appear anxious to get rid of me, and before we reached Vera Cruz he seemed to consider me something of a protector.

Finally I ventured to ask him about what he would do at Vera Cruz, and he told me he was going to sail on the first vessel leaving for the United States. I replied that I was going also and we would be fellow passengers together. When we were entering the city he surprised me by handing me his purse and asking me to buy his steamer ticket for him.

Fortunately for us both a steamer was to sail early the next morning, and we were permitted to go aboard at once. The young man retired to his stateroom, and I saw him no more that day.

In the morning I was walking the deck while the ship was making some ten knots an hour over the gulf. I saw coming up the companionway the counterpart of the boy who had been my fellow traveler the day before. But this person was a girl. The first thing that caught her eye on emerging from below was the stars and stripes flying from the peak. A relieved expression came over her face, and I knew she was saying to herself, "Thank heaven!"

"Aha, senorita!" I said. "I suspected yesterday that you were not masculine."

"Oh, senor," she replied, "you were very good to me. At first I wished to get rid of you, but at last I felt that you were my protector."

During the voyage I saw much of the girl and gained her promise on my own promise of secrecy to tell why she left Mexico in disguise. When coming into port she relieved my curiosity.

"My brother," she said, "was one of those who were reported killed while trying to escape. I stabbed to the heart the man who shot him."

HUMOR OF A CANNIBAL.

He Enjoyed It Himself, but It Didn't Tickle the Victim.

A number of natives came to greet us when we landed at Bau, a Fiji island, among them a few whom the consul seemed to know. They volunteered to act as escorts for us and by various expressions tried to convey the idea that they were glad to see us.

A school forms one side of the square. Across from this stands the council chamber, built on the trench where the bodies were roasted for their former feasts. The old headstone against which Cacobau used to dash the brains of his victims still stands, and the anchor and rudder of a French ship wrecked near Bau lie beside it.

Beneath a picture of Queen Victoria I saw an old sword swinging. I examined it and found it was a French weapon, no doubt the arm of the unfortunate French vessel's commander.

During the time this was going on Jim, Ratu Kadavu's servant, who is a particularly good type of a large, muscular race, approached me, ran his hand around my waist and slowly down my thigh and smacked his lips with a wicked smile. I laughed at this display of aboriginal humor, but not very heartily, for the sword of the French captain still swung before my eyes.—Christian Herald.

OYSTERS AND DYSPEPTICS.

When the Bivalves May and When They Should Not Be Eaten.

It is popularly supposed that the oyster digests himself in the human stomach owing to the great size of the liver, which is crushed as mastication begins and is thought to digest the mollusk itself. As the oyster, moreover, contains some 10 per cent of extremely assimilable protein, together with phosphorized fats and glycogen, it has always been freely administered to convalescents, while dyspeptic bons vivants have never hesitated to eat it abundantly.

Dr. Pron expresses the opinion that the oyster may be allowed, therefore, to those dyspeptics whose gastric functions are deficient, in anorexia, gastric atony, ulcer and incipient cancer, and to convalescents from acute disease, as it is likely to improve the appetite and to excite the stomach to increased motor and chemical activity.

But to the large number of dyspeptics whose stomachs are hyperacid or hypersensitive Dr. Pron would forbid the oyster as well as all other stimulating foods. In many of these dyspeptics the gastric secretion is already sufficient, and it is unnecessary and unwise to increase it. — New York Press.

Made the Judge Perspire.

Sir John Charles Day, the English judge who earned the title of the "hooligan's terror," died at the age of eighty-two. In the nineteen years Sir John was a judge of the high court—from 1882 to 1901—he was noted for his gift of solemn humor and for his drastic flogging sentences. In fourteen years he sentenced 137 criminals to 3,766 strokes of the cat. Once he said to a gang of Liverpool ruffians: "I am not going to give you men long terms of imprisonment, but when you go in you get twenty lashes of the cat; when you have been in nine months you get twenty lashes of the cat; before you come out you get twenty lashes of the cat. And then you can show what you have got to your friends." He was perhaps the only English judge who ever did "hard labor." While on a visit to a prison he tried the treadmill, but when he asked to be set free the guard pretended not to hear his request. The judge was perspiring freely by the time he was permitted to abandon his experiment.

Spread of the English Language.

The English language is the richest, most virile and most powerful of all the languages now to be found among men. The men who conceived and made good this nation were Englishmen, and of course they spoke the only language they knew anything about, the language of their ancestors, the English language. The great Dr. Dollinger said of this language that "to it is assigned in the coming age the intellectual supremacy that in ancient times belonged to the Greeks and afterward to the Romans." In 1700 English was the language of 9,000,000 people. Today it is the language of 175,000,000, and by the end of the century it will be the language of 800,000,000 people.—New York American.

ANYBODY BUT BOWELL.

Sir John A. Macdonald Wouldn't Tackle the Belleville Man.

The occasion of the ninetieth birthday of Sir Mackenzie Bowell recently has brought Canada's distinguished ex-Prime Minister and editor considerably into the public eye, and several good stories are told of the veteran's vigorous honesty of purpose, which he took with him into Sir John A. Macdonald's Cabinet.

On one occasion a big commercial house in Montreal was discovered to be "beating the customs." It happened that the head of the house was a strong Conservative, who contributed heavily to the campaign funds of the party. Notwithstanding these circumstances Mr. Bowell summoned him to Ottawa, told him frankly that he had been found out and that he must make immediate reparation.

"Do you threaten me, Mr. Bowell?" fumed the man.

"I most certainly do," answered the zealous Minister.

"Do you know who I am?" shouted the angry merchant.

"Yes, I know who you are, and if this matter isn't straightened up in two hours I'll order your arrest."

"You dare to talk to me like that?" gasped the man.

"Of course I dare," answered Mr. Bowell.

"Then I'll see Sir John at once and we'll find out where you get off."

The man hurried to Sir John and told him that one of his Ministers had the audacity to threaten to arrest him.

"Dear, dear," said Sir John, in his smoothest tones, "I'll have to attend to him, but tell me, which one of the Ministers it was. I can handle them all except one. Which one was it?"

"That fellow Bowell," replied the Montrealer.

"Good heavens, man!" roared Sir John, with feigned concern. "The very man I meant. I can't do anything with him. If Bowell said it, it goes. I'm extremely sorry, but I daren't trifle with Bowell. Take my advice and settle up at once."

It is said that after this the man lost no time in making his peace with the inflexible Minister of Customs.

There is no "side" whatever about Sir Mackenzie Bowell. He is naturally proud of what he has accomplished and the high position to which he has risen, but he is still the working journalist who was once a printer's devil. He has never suffered from "swelled head," nor has he ever exhibited signs of snobbishness. He tells with characteristic enjoyment of having been quizzed on one occasion by a grand British military officer at a banquet in Halifax. It was just after the Riel episode, when he was pretty much in the public eye. The officer assumed first that he was a lawyer. Mr. Bowell denied it. The officer then supposed he must be a shipowner. Again Mr. Bowell shook his head. Seeing that the officer was curious, he held back until, being asked point-blank what calling he followed, he told the surprised military man that he was nothing more nor less than a graduate printer's devil.

Mr. Bowell displayed a good deal of enterprise in his newspaper work. He relates how when the first cable was laid across the Atlantic he conceived the idea of printing a small daily paper that would give the people of Belleville the transatlantic news fresh from the wire. The late H. P. Dwight, president of the G.N.W. Telegraph Co., was then an operator in Belleville, and Sir Mackenzie remembers well how young Dwight used to read off the despatches from the wire to him and he would write them out on a pad. The paper was called The Diurnal, and was a small folded sheet selling at ten cents. It was not a successful venture, lasting only a few weeks.

It makes some girls weary to do anything but visit.

Tactful.

"Miss De Vere," said the lady who was entertaining the popular actress, "would you mind telling me what your real name is?"

"My real name? Oh, yes. It is Tubbs—Sylvia Tubbs. But I hope you will not introduce me to your guests by it."

"Oh, no; you needn't be afraid. I'm just as much ashamed of it as you are."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Pin Money.

It was the bride's first request for money.

"I must have some pin money," said she.

"Certainly," said the bridegroom. "Here's a quarter. That ought to buy five or six papers of pins."—Washington Herald.

Slow, but Not Sure.

"Your daughter is not engaged to young Johnson yet, then? I suppose it is a case of slow and sure?"

"Well, yes—he is slow, and she is not at all sure."

Labor is the fabled magician's wand, the philosopher's stone and the cap of Fortunatus.—Johnson.

Try a Want Ad. in The Review.

SHE'S A WONDER.

SHE'S a woman small and cheery,
Toiling long, yet seldom weary,
If a man may judge by what he thinks he sees.
She is neat and quite the lady,
Still unwed, but not old maidy.
She's a wonder, and she always tries to please.

She is crisp of speech and forceful.
I am sure that she's resourceful.
To depend upon herself she likes, I think.
She can face a crisis surely,
Full of courage, yet demurely.
She can meet each moment's need as quick as wink.

I believe she falters never
When she makes a great endeavor,
But at least she never fails, you can be sure.
She has tact to match her power,
Which she uses every hour,
And her patience through the ages would endure.

No, she is no queen whose glory
Is a grand historic story,
And she is no fabled heroine, you'll find.
It is not so hard to reach her—
She is just a young schoolteacher,
And the wonder is she makes our Thomas mind.

WILL CHIEF HAVE MORALITY OFFICER?

It was said at the Council meeting last night that the Police Chief would ask for four extra men, and one officer would then be given the position of Morality Officer.

The Board of Police Commissioners have not decided on the time of their next meeting. It may be assumed that the Board is investigating the police-woman question and endeavoring to get the opinions in other cities.

I advise you to buy my Lots, as they are perfect in every respect, affording the most profitable safe investment obtainable. Every person who bought from me during the past six years is more than pleased, and have good reason for being so. The lots sold were very fine, but not as high land as those now offered. My reason for offering at this season is that after the holidays all wise people settle down to earn money. Some save, many don't. Do you? Five years ago wise parents, having two boys, 16 and 18 years, just commencing to earn, accepted my advice, caused them to buy lots and impose a must upon themselves to save and pay for the lots; this they did and got their deeds, bought again and sold at good profit, buying a third time, and now owning property worth at least $1400, with about $100.00 to pay.

These are facts I can prove, and this is only one of many similar cases. Am I not justified in urging you to buy, and is it not greatly in your interest to do so? Lots $150, $175, and $200, corners and large blocks. Terms: $5 deposit, on one or two lots; no interest on note, nor any further payments until May, when streets will be graded and all lots properly staked. If satisfied with your lots, pay $10 more, and $15 quarterly. Hereafter on one or two lots, including interest at six per cent. per annum, from May 1st. Six per cent. discount for larger cash payments. This offer good for this month. Call, see plans and select what you want. Your $5 back if wanted.

NOVA SCOTIA MEMBER WANTS SUBSIDY TO SHIP FISH TO BOSTON

Liberal Member is Pointedly Told That Ontario Affords a Far Better Market Than American City.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—For the first time this session business proposed by private members had the right of way. They availed themselves of the privilege by asking 190 questions of the Government, mostly dealing with items of local interest. The greater part of the day was occupied with a debate in which only members from the Maritime Provinces participated, upon a resolution offered by Mr. Sinclair, the Liberal member for Guysboro, in favor of subsidizing a line of steamships equipped with cold storage for the transportaiton of fresh fish from Nova Scotian ports to Boston.

B. B. Law, the Liberal member for Yarmouth, N.S., took occasion to deny the newspaper reports that he was to vacate his seat for the benefit of Hon. W. S. Fielding. He said he had never been asked to resign and had no intention of doing so.

Postmaster-General Pelletier announced that he had cut down the claim of the railway companies for additional pay on account of the parcel post service from $4,000,000 to $786,000 per year.

Mr. Sinclair (Guysboro) addressed the House in support of his resolution, declaring that the Government should at once give consideration to the question of providing better transportation for fresh fish from the Maritime Provinces to the United States. He said that of late years Nova Scotia fishermen had built up a good market in Quebec and Ontario. Through the assistance of the Government they had been able to capture the market of Montreal and Toronto, formerly served by the United States. The industry had been so stimulated that the shipments of fish over the I. C. R. from Mulgrave west had increased from 1,600 tons in 1903 to over 5,000 tons in 1913. At present, however, the home market was not large enough. Two or three cars landed at Montreal would break the market. Fortunately, the United States had removed the tariff upon fish, thus opening a magnificent market at Boston, where the Nova Scotian fishermen could sell their catch at high prices.

Mr. Bradbury (Selkirk) asked whether the price of fish was not as high in Montreal as it was in Boston.

Mr. Sinclair: "I must say that the retail price of fish in Ontario is beyond my comprehension. Fish that sells for 1 1-2 cents per pound with us brings 10 cents a pound in the city of Ottawa. The point I am making is that Boston will take all our surplus and at a high price."

Mr. A. A. McLean (Queen's, P.E.I.) submitted that if the Government had any money to spend in stimulating the fish industry it should be along the line of further developing the home market.

Mr. Kyte (Richmond, N.S.) said the Government was paying a big subsidy for steamship service to the West Indies and South America, and also to South Africa. A much smaller sum expended in subsidising a line from the Maritime Provinces to Boston would yield a much larger return.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, was not in the House, but Mr. Hazen, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, replied on behalf of the Government. The Nova Scotia fishermen, he said, found ever-increasing trade in the upper provinces, which had been stimulated in no small measure by the recent exhibit at Toronto. There was already a line of steamers between Yarmouth and Boston, and he believed that this service would greatly improve now that fish is admitted free of duty into the United States. He intimated that if the steamship company put on a daily service from Yarmouth to Boston that the Government might subsidize a service from other Nova Scotia ports to Yarmouth for the benefit of the fishermen.

DOCTOR DESCRIBES STRANGE SYMPTOMS OF ACCUSED EX-M.L.A.

He is Lingering Between Coma and Unconsciousness And Not Fit to be Examined Either in Court or at Home.

QUEBEC, Feb. 3.—When the legislative investigation into the allegations by The Montreal Daily Mail that J. Octave Mousseau, who has resigned his seat in the Quebec Legislative Assembly, was resumed last night. Dr. Adelstan De Martigny, a Montreal specialist, appeared before the committee and testified that Mr. Mousseau was so ill he could not specify whether he would ever regain his health. He is lingering in a condition between coma and unconsciousness, declared the doctor. He cannot be made to understand questions asked him; he does not sleep or take nourishment.

Mr. Bisaillon, K.C.—"Is there any reason to believe that he is shamming?"

Dr. De Martigny—"Not at all. It is impossible to tell the consequences were he to come here. When I tried to quiet him he wept. To a layman his symptoms might appear strange, but to a physician they seem perfectly possible under the circumstances. The only thing to do is to try to nourish him, and, if necessary, send him to a sanitarium where he may have perfect rest."

Armand Lavergne—"Do you think he is acting a part?"

Dr. De Martigny—"It would require an extraordinary actor. He does not eat. When one of his children was brought to him no recognition was shown."

Mr. Lavergne—"Did you show him money?"

The doctor did not reply.

Though Mr. Mousseau has resigned his seat, the enquiry will proceed, first to determine whether the charges against him of accepting bribes are true, and secondly, to discover if any other members of the Legislature are guilty of the same offence.

Discussing the matter, Hon. L. A. Taschereau, chairman of the committee, said: "We will make the investigation as thorough and complete as possible."

When asked regarding the lines of the report the committee will submit to the House of Assembly, in view of the fact the only member of the House who is accused, has resigned, Mr. Taschereau replied:

"Our conclusions will be based on the evidence. We may lay before the House all the evidence heard, or we may report our findings in the evidence."

It was decided to proceed with the enquiry and leave the question of Mr. Mousseau's appearance adjourned in the meantime.

Mr. Beck, formerly editor of The Montreal Herald, under whose instructions the detectives' investigations were made, continued his evidence relating to Mr. Mousseau's visit to Mr. Hyland, when he spoke of the necessity of "settling with members of the lower House."

Mr. Marechal, counsel for The Daily Mail: "Did Mr. Monsseau admit then that he had collected $1,050 already?"

Mr. Beck: "He did. He was pleading for the balance of $1,050. He said the safest way was to pay the balance due the members of the lower House, as they had acquaintances in the upper House whom they would influence to vote for or against the bill. If, he said, the promises were not kept some of them might be inclined to oppose the bill through their friends in the upper House."

The committee adjourned until today.

The transportation lines in New York city carried last year more people than there are in the whole world, but then the world doesn't treat all people like sardines.

Diplomatic circles would make a great hit if they could only re-establish the entente cordiale that once existed between the consuming public and the great American hen.

In this halcyon era of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art the dropping of another $5,000,000 gift into its ample lap scarcely calls forth comment. It seems to be the natural thing.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Feb. 2.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, the offerings for sale consisted of 900 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 125 calves.

There was very little change in the condition of the market for cattle. Fully 50 per cent. of the cattle offered were carried over from last week, and as the expense to drovers was considerable, high prices were asked, which buyers refused to pay; consequently the trade was almost at a standstill. For full loads of choice Ontario steers, drovers asked $8.50, for which buyers bid $7.50 to $8 per cwt., and as some of the drovers found it impossible to obtain the above price asked, they decided to ship their cattle to the United States market, and several loads were forwarded to Boston today.

Owing to the very limited supply of lambs coming forward of late a strong feeling has developed in the market, and prices have advanced 25c per cwt., with an improved demand for small lots.

To Have Radial Field Day.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The Board of Control yesterday endorsed the Board of Trade's project for a radial field day to be held in London in the near future, and agreed to provide a place for the conference, the Board of Trade to furnish a banquet.

The idea is to have representatives here from municipalities throughout western Ontario, to discuss the radial railways scheme and to come to some mutual arrangement for securing the crystalization of the plans that have been fomenting in various parts of the province.

Settled Claims.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 3. — A definite settlement was reached yesterday of the claims of the three daughters of the late King Leopold in connection with the property left by him. A short time ago they unsuccessfully sued the Government for the entire Congo property, valued at nearly $14,000,000. Afterward the state recognized that they were entitled to some compensation and made them an offer, which they accepted. Most of Princess Louise's share goes to her creditors.

Alvinston Church Destroyed.

ALVINSTON, Ont., Feb. 3.—A disastrous fire destroyed the Presbyterian Church and L. Welsh's residence in this place yesterday morning. The fire started in the church, which is a fine structure valued at about $12,000, and was first noticed when the whole inside of the building was ablaze. Mr. Welsh's residence, being quite near, could not be saved.

RECOUNT SHOWS SCOTT ACT WAS DEFEATED IN WELLAND

Sensation is Sprung at Review of Ballot, When One Ballot Box Shows a Sufficient Error to Give Six Majority to the Antis.

WELLAND, Feb. 3.—A majority of six votes against the Canada Temperance Act was found by Hugh A. Rose, returning officer, when he made his official summing up of the sworn statements of the deputies yesterday. Consequently, he declared, the act was defeated.

In the presence of representatives of both sides Mr. Rose began the work of summing up. During the morning there was little change in the figures until a ballot box was opened which showed 63 against 12 for, a difference of 17 from the sworn statements given by the deputy returning officer to the temperance agent on the day of voting. The officer in question did not deliver his ballot box until Saturday, and then the returning officer had to send for it. He was called to Welland, but left again on the 3.30 train for his home. O. H. Garner, president of the temperance party, says the matter will be probed to the bottom. Investigation, it is understood, will follow in connection with some other circumstances.

Last night, it is alleged, the temperance people heard of designs on the court house, where the boxes were kept, and at their request the mayor stationed special policemen to guard it.

L. B. Spencer, secretary of the B.M.M.A., which opposed the act, intended before the result was known and the act defeated, to enter a protest, as Pelham Township which gave 408 for the act is under the Dunkin Act, and the latter is not superseded by the C.T.A. Therefore, he contends, Pelham had no right to vote with the county.

CHILDREN BACK TEACHERS.

Strike of Elementary School Instructors Is Cause of Demonstrations.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Lively scenes marked the first day of the strike of elementary school teachers in the County of Hereford, Eng., the first of its kind in the British Isles.

Seventy schools are closed and at the other schools the children resented the appearance of new teachers and made demonstrations in sympathy with those who have resigned. When the school at Ross, the largest in the county, should have opened, the boys paraded the town, singing songs and cheering.

Towards 10 o'clock they were induced to enter the school. Immediately there was pandemonium. Inkpots were thrown about and desks overturned. Finally the boys broke out of the building and marched again through the town, the demonstration still proceeding last night, with the apparent approval of the townsfolk.

WILL UPHOLD DRASTIC ACTION

South African Government Introduces Indemnifying Measure.

CAPE TOWN, Feb. 2.—The bill to indemnify the Government for all its acts under martial law, and prohibiting the return of the strike leaders recently deported from South Africa, was introduced in the assembly yesterday by Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, Minister of Defence, and passed its first reading. Prior to this a Labor amendment proposed by Frederic Creswell, the acceptance of which would have been equivalent to a vote of censure, was defeated, the Laborites alone supporting it.

The Unionists voted with the Ministerialists in all the divisions. Their spokesman, Sir Thomas Smartt, defined their attitude as "one of suspension of judgment until all the facts are before the House."

Gen. Smuts promised a full explanation of the Government's action when the bill will come up for second reading to-morrow.

Gladstone Not Responsible.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The Rt. Hon. H. L. Samuel, Postmaster-General, speaking at Harrogate last night, made reference to the deportation from South Africa of the strike leaders. He declared that no responsibility for this act attached to Viscount Gladstone, the Governor-General, because under the constitution of South Africa his assent was not required and was not asked.

Released Convict Deported.

KINGSTON, Feb. 3.—On his being released from the penitentiary, Salvatera Albano, an Italian 25 years of age, was taken charge of by P. Devlin, immigration inspector, for deportation. Albano finished a term of two years and a half for wounding with intent to kill.

Appendicitis Attacks Forget.

MONTREAL, Feb. 3.—Sir Rodolphe Forget, M.P., is confined to his house here through an attack of appendicitis. His condition last night was reported as very satisfactory, and the doctors say no operation will be necessary.

Shrinkage In Receipts.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—Customs receipts for the Dominion in January were $7,065,165, as compared with $7,779,080 in January last year. This shows a falling off of more than $700,000.

PREMIER SITS UP

Sir George Ross is Not So Well as He Was.

TORONTO, Feb. 3. — Much satisfaction is evinced by Sir James Whitney's medical attendants over his continued progress towards convalescence. The Premier sat up for the first time yesterday, and was feeling particularly well under the circumstances. Dr. McPhedran said last night that his condition is very satisfactory.

The reports of Sir George Ross' condition are not so sanguine. It was learned at the General Hospital last night that while his condition is an improvement over that of last week, the outlook is not so favorable as it was a day or so ago.

Ship Channel Nears Completion.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—The 30-foot ship channel between Quebec and Montreal is practically completed. The total length of dredging in the project is 70 miles, and the length yet to be dredged, says the annual report of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, which was published yesterday, is 4.20 miles. This, of course, was at the beginning of the present fiscal year.

MR. GAGE MAKES GIFT.

Founder of Sanitarium Movement Contributes $100,000.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—Mr. Dunbar, treasurer of the National Sanitarium Association, has received a further contribution of $100,000 from Mr. W. J. Gage to assist in providing for the maintenance of needy patients in Muskoka. This sum is to be added to the King Edward Memorial Fund for Consumptives, and makes Mr. Gage's total gifts to this work over a quarter million dollars.

Mr. Gage is practically the founder of the sanitarium movement in Canada, and as a result of his efforts and the interest he has taken in the work sanitaria have sprung up in every province in the Dominion, and there are several institutions for the care of tubercular patients besides the National Association in this province. Counties have taken up the movement.

CONTEMPT FOR ARCHBISHOP.

Mrs. Dacre-Fox Has Hard Words For His Grace of Canterbury.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The only feeling experienced by Mrs. Dacre-Fox, the militant suffragette leader, while she was interviewing the Archbishop of Canterbury at Lambeth Palace on Jan. 29, was "utter contempt," she told her militant sisters at their weekly meeting yesterday.

In reporting to her audience how she had pleaded with the English primate on behalf of the suffragette prisoners who were being forcibly fed, Mrs. Dacre-Fox said the archbishop's chaplain was "a pitiable object, trembling and with chattering teeth."

Mrs. Dacre-Fox said that while the Archbishop of Canterbury was coldly and calmly listening to her account of what was being done to her comrades in Holloway Jail, she knew all the time he had already been in communication with the Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington Ingram, Bishop of London, and that the fate of their efforts had already been fixed.

"That was why I experienced that awful feeling of contempt."

Maeterlinck Is Surprised.

NICE, Feb. 3. — Maurice Maeterlinck, the Belgian author and Nobel prize winner for literature, whose works have been classed as forbidden by the Sacred Congregation of the Index, said:

"It is comprehensible why the theories expressed in my book, 'Death,' have been disapproved by the papacy, but I am unable to understand why the innocent fairy piece, the 'Blue Bird,' the chaste and pure 'Pelleas and Melisande,' the pathetic 'Monna Vanna' and the mystic 'Mary Magdalene' should be condemned."

He was mayor of Goderich for seven years, 1889 to 1895, and afterwards held the position of police magistrate for several years. He conducted a book and stationery store until his retirement a year ago. He was not married and leaves no relatives here.

REBUKE BY SARCASM.

About the Poorest Place to Use it is in the Classroom.

In a well known Boston school there was a boy conspicuously dull at his Latin. He was a straightforward fellow and a gentleman by birth and breeding, but he was a bungler at syntax.

One morning he had tangled himself in a simple phrase. The teacher asked a question that should have cleared him. But the poor lad did not know the answer.

Then the teacher leaned back in his chair, rolled his gray eyes to the ceiling and said for all the class to hear. "I have been told that it is a hard thing to stuff a wildcat with butter, particularly if you have to do it with a hot awl, but that is child's play compared with putting Latin in a boy like this."

Of course the laugh came, but as the boys laughed they despised the teacher.

"Sarcasm," said Carlyle, "is the language of the devil." Be that as it may, it has turned many a schoolroom into a place of torment.

A boy may be too dull to be in school, but while allowed to be there he can never be dull enough to justify a knife thrust from one whose first duty is to help and cheer him.—Boston Herald.

Scents of Justice.

A gentleman visiting a jail noticed a colored man of his acquaintance whom he had never known to be guilty of wrongdoing.

"Why, Jim, what are you here for?" he asked.

"I don't know, suh," replied the negro.

"Well, what have you been doing?"

"Nothin' 'tall, suh—nothin' 'tall."

"What made 'em put you in here, then?"

"Well, dey sez, boss, I was sent up fur fragrancy."—Lippincott's.

THE SPORTING WORLD

TOOLMAKERS DEFEATED PLUMBERS, BANKERS AND TEST WON THEIR GAMES

The opening game in the Mercantile League last night proved an easy win for the Tool Room over the Plumbers, the score being 4—1. It was rather easy picking for the C.G.E. outfit and in no time were they in danger. If they can produce the same class of hockey when they clash with the Test, the game will be well worth going to see.

Barie was the big noise of the game and rather opened the eyes of a few of the spectators with his stick handling. Primeau and Jackson on the wings, worked well, while Robson at centre, set out a fair brand of hockey. Kelly and Hilliard on the defence, showed up well, particularly the former. Egbert has the weight and ability to stick handle, and with a few more games under his belt, he will show anything in the Mercantile League a few fine points of the game. When it comes to goal minding, hats off to Manager "Dinnie" Cassidy. The boy was surely there, and is a big asset to his team.

Reynolds was the shining light of the Plumbers' aggregation, and without him the team couldn't beat a school team.

The teams:

Tool Room—goal, Cassidy, defence, Kelly and Hilliard; rover, Barrie; centre, Robson, wings, Primeau and Jackson.

Plumbers—goal, Dunsford; defence, Reynolds and Mallett; rover Dobson, centre, Helson; wings, Logan and Langre.

Examiners Defeated

The second fixture was another defeat for the Examiner team. They might have won if their so-called manager was as good to act as he is to talk. The Examiner outfit appeared at the scene of battle without a net custodian, and the "sub" who was sent in, was Hill of Lakefield. Hill played last year with the Business College, and he showed real class, but going out last night under a handicap, he failed to produce the goods. It was his first appearance this season.

Of course the work of Hill cannot be given as the real cause of the Examiners' defeat. They were up against a faster team. The Bankers had the speed and class, and the score of 4—0 signifies that they had things fairly easy.

Outside of an odd little fistic encounter, the game was devoid of any startling features. No one on the ice could truthfully be given the credit of playing a good game.

The teams:

Bankers—goal, McCrimmon; defence, Phelan and Corkery; rover, Peyton; centre, Minorgan; wings, Moore and Smith.

Examiner—goal, Hill; defence, Heard and Clancy; rover, Manion; centre, Armstrong; wings; Barringer and Lees.

9—1 for the Test

The game between the Test and De Laval was hardly what one could call a game of hockey. It was merely a practice for the C.G.E. men. Some had said that Peter Spratt would give the Test a run, but the husky defence man injured his ankle the other day and rather than quit altogether, he dropped back in goal. Of course he was a greenhorn between the posts, and the rest of his team could do nothing with the fast forward line of their opponents with the result that when the game ended, the score was 9—1 in favor of the Test

The teams:

De Laval—goal, Spratt; defence Dennie and Ryder; rover, Byers; centre, Todd; wings, Hill and Patterson.

Test—goal, Dwyer, defence, Breckenried and McKennan; rover, McDougall, centre, Carter; wings, Munro and Boone.

Mr. Len Dobson handled all the games and did so to every one's satisfaction.

CUB ROVER WILL WORK FOR PETES AT WHITBY

Grover Halpin to Help Intermediates to Annex the District Honors

Who said Whitby? Everybody did, and everybody with hockey blood will be right there tomorrow night, doing their part to help the team along to victory. Cobourg defeated Belleville last night so to capture the district honors the Petes need tomorrow night's game, and in order to win, they need the support.

The special will leave the G.T.R. depot tomorrow evening at 5.45, and will also stop at the Park Street crossing to take on any person who hasn't time to get up to the station. Tickets may be secured on the train for the same price as at the depot, that is $1.50.

The suspension of Captain Giroux was a hard blow to the team, but let it be known that if Lawson Whitehead had the whole team thrown out, he couldn't kill the good sportsmanship of the Peterboro Hockey Club. Another team would be trotted out and they'd win too. As it is, the club has drafted Grover Halpin, captain of the Juniors, and he can be depended upon to play the game all the time. The team will be:

Goal—Janes.
Right defence—Bond.
Left Defence—Denison.
Rover—Halpin.
Centre—Park.
Right wing—Bradshaw.

Cobourg 5, Belleville 3.

Belleville, Ont., Feb. 3.—An intermediate O.H.A. hockey match played here last evening between Belleville and Cobourg resulted in a win for Cobourg by a score of 5 to 3. Lou Marsh, of Toronto, was referee. The line-up:

Belleville — Goal, Brotherhood; right defence, Gunter; left defence, T. Brant; rover, Dunning; centre, Whalen; right wing, Brant; left wing, Symons.

BASEBALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—To provide funds for the extension of the public playground movement, Assemblyman Mark Goldberg will introduce a bill in the Legislature at Albany probably tomorrow providing for a tax of five per cent. on the gross receipts of the home games of the New York and Brooklyn National League teams and of the New York American League Club. As at present proposed the Goldberg Bill makes no provision to tax minor league teams.

In addition to providing for the five per cent. tax, the bill creates a state baseball commission with power to grant and revoke licenses to clubs. Such a commission, Assemblyman Goldberg believes, will end speculation during world's series games.

Opposition to the measure, it is said, will be developed around the provision to tax only the three big league teams.

EXPLOITS OR Y.M.C.A.

Junior Games To-night Will Provide Fast Hockey

The game to-night at Brock street rink in the Junior City League are causing no small amount of interest. Both the Exploits and Y.M.C.A have gone far without a defeat and are tied for the honors. They clash to-night at 8.15, and it is rather difficult to say just which team will win. Both play good hockey and the game promises to be a merry old battle.

The second encounter between the Wanderers and Alerts should be a good drawing card and one well worth seeing.

Mr. F. Kelly has consented to referee.

LABOR HALL NOTES

Workmen's Compensation Act

After the most thorough investigation and research extending over a period of three years and a half, Sir Wm. Meredith, the Commissioner appointed by the Ontario Government to secure data which would enable them to enact a fair and equitable compensation for injuries Act, has submitted a draft act for their guidance and consideration, with recommendations and reasons why it should be adopted in its entirety.

There should be a big crowd at the Labor Hall on Wednesday evening when Vice President Fred Bancroft of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, will deliver an address explaining the provisions of the proposed Workmen's Compensation Act. Few are better qualified to discuss this Act than Mr. Bancroft, who deserves credit for the splendid manner in which he has devoted time and effort to collect and submit evidence to the Commissioner in the interests of the workers of the Province.

As this will be a public meeting, everyone interested should be present and hear what he has to say regarding this important measure; the Manufacturers' Association are looking after their end of the game and its up to the workers to get busy and see that the Act is not weakened by amendments tending to destroy its usefulness. Every state that has legislated along this line endeavored to place on the statute book the best act possible, and Ontario should not take a back seat to any other state or province in the world.

RINKS FOR THE WADDELL-CAPON CUP

The friendly game between the local curling club and Toronto Granites, which was to have taken place on Wednesday in Toronto, has been called off because of the fact that they would conflict with the Tankard games now being played in that city.

The first match in the curling between Peterborough and Toronto Victorias for the Waddell-Capon trophy will take place here on Friday afternoon. The following are the skips of the local rinks:—Messrs. W. H. Denham, T. F. Mathews, J. W. McDermid, W. M. Lang and W. H. Taylor.

Owing to the decidedly mild weather there will be no scheduled games played at the rink this evening.

TRIED IT FOR ONE MONTH

Prospective Groom Lived With His Future Mother-in-law.

LONDON, A youthful prospective bridegroom has just begun an interesting experiment by taking a house in a London suburb and living alone with his prospective mother-in-law a month before the marriage.

Grave warnings from his friends led him to do this to prove that the old conventional idea that the mother-in-law is necessarily a menace to the peace and happiness of a household has become a myth.

If the experience of the month is encouraging the mother-in-law will remain, and the next and more anxious stage will begin after marriage. He recognizes that the mother-in-law will be on her best behavior but thinks that a month will give him a good insight into her character.

"The first week has passed off very happily," he says, "although we still have the decorators in. The situation is full of hope because my mother-in-law is a sweet-natured woman, always willing to compromise.

"In the morning she sees that the bath water is nicely hot, and if I am late and have to hurry over breakfast she smiles, has the meal ready to the minute on the table, and does not talk while I am reading the paper. She sees that the toast is done exactly as I like it, and that the coffee is properly made.

"If I am working late at the office she tells me on the telephone not to worry about getting home to a very late dinner, but to have a comfortable meal in a town. When I get home my slippers are warm by the fire. If I am very late she does not sit up for me.

"On my part, I gratify her by relating the many charming ways I have noticed in her daughter and how intensely I feel her absence. The mother expresses her determination to leave us after marriage if she feels the least bit of an intruder in the daughter's house.

"I am convinced that by studying each other's likes and dislikes, as we are doing now, we are avoiding all sorts of unpleasant little contretemps that would crop up between two comparative strangers. And what is more important, I am getting a hold on her sympathy. She will not be so disposed to side with the wife, as mothers-in-law are commonly supposed to do."

When the rug curls up, it can be made to lie flat by making it very damp on the under side.

HEALTH ASSOCIATION PRESENTS ARGUMENTS FOR THE SANITORIUM

Committee of the Whole Council Will Deal With the Question

Last night the city council heard the arguments of the Peterboro Health Association, on behalf of a Sanitorium, for the care and treatment of consumptive patients.

The Association asks for a grant of $10,000. They will raise a similar amount and the $20,000 will entitle them to the Government grant of $40,000.

It has not been decided where the Sanitorium will be erected, or at least Dr. Neal would not name the site, when asked for information along this line.

Mr. E. A. Peck, M.L.A., headed the deputation from the Association, and in a few pointed remarks, he explained the object of their visit and of the needs of a Sanitorium and also of the good results which would follow.

"We are coming here tonight with the confidence that the matter is going to appeal to the heart and judgment of every councillor and you, Mr. Mayor," said Rev. J. R. Webb, who spoke briefly.

Facts and Figures

Dr. Neal made an excellent address. He gave facts and figures, showing the position of this city in regard to the White Plague. He said consumption was communicable, preventative and curable. There had been 118 deaths in four years, an average of nearly 30 every year. In this city one out of every three persons between the ages and 20 and 30 had died from the disease.

In 1912 there had been one death every 10 or 11 days. The death rate was higher than in many other cities. It was higher than in London, Hamilton, Berlin and Ottawa. Deaths from this disease exceeded all the deaths from all other infectious diseases and it now exceeds all these diseases plus cancer, diabetes and appendicitis.

Dr. Neal said the Association had a map showing where the disease had and now existed. There were now between 110 and 115 cases. The speaker estimated that the monetary loss by death from consumption last year was $150.000.

In an institution at Troy, N.Y., 52 per cent. of the inmates had been made orphans by death of parents from consumption. Dr. Neal told of the work of the local nurses and gave some cases that had come to light.

He quoted one authority as saying that 75 per cent. of the deaths could be prevented. The death rate in Hamilton had been reduced 50 per cent. and on this basis Peterboro should have had only 15 deaths last year instead of 30. England had the lowest death rate with the possible exception of Australia, because of the educational campaign.

At St. Agathe, in five years, .57 per cent. had returned to work and 25 per cent. are improving.

Asked if it was the intention to take patients from all parts of the country, Dr. Neal replied "Yes, if we have room and they pay the rate." He said they could limit the number. Ald. Duncan asked "Would those affected be compelled to go there?" "There is no law to compel them, but there are a number of cases who would be only too glad.

Pay for Upkeep

"Will the city be called upon for the upkeep of the hospital?" Ald. Langford asked. The reply was yes, for the patients.

Ald. Gordon moved, seconded by Ald. Stratton "That the city's bill for presentation to the legislature contain a provision to allow the city to contribute $10,000 at such times as the council directs, to the Health Association, on condition that the Association raise $10,000 and secures the Government grant, such sums to be expended under the supervision of the city or its officers.

Ald. Langford felt that the council should not worry. They should first see what the cost was going to be. He however was in sympathy with the movement.

Ald. Johnston was of similar opinion. He suggested that the matter be referred to the committee of the whole council, in order to permit of the council, becoming more familiar with the question. The discussion ended with the decision being made to turn the matter over to the committee.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. G. Walter Green went to Montreal last night.

Many citizens will regret to learn that Dr. Moher, at one time one of the most widely known physicians in this city, lies at the point of death in the hospital at Cobourg. Dr. Moher practiced for a number of years in this city, his surgery being at the corner of Simcoe and Stewart streets. Some eight or nine years ago he was appointed physician to the Orillia Asylum for the Insane, and he remained there for a number of years. He was transferred to Brockville, and labored there in the hospital for the insane. Two years ago he went to Cobourg and was connected with the hospital there, until he was taken ill.

He is suffering from bright's disease, and the doctors in attendance entertain no hopes for his recovery.

The Young People's Association of All Saints' church, received a visit last evening from Rev. T. J. Mansell, who gave his illustrated lecture on "A Trip Through Palestine." Needless to say, the evening was enjoyed by all.

EXTRA FINE BILL AT THE ROYAL

The vaudeville at the Royal Theatre this week consists of Orren and McKenzie, novelty entertainers, Jack Edwards, comedy singing and P. Wenzel, contortionist. All the numbers were well received at yesterday's performances, particularly the imitations of sounds, given by McKenzie. He has everything from a country band to a dog fight. The parodies on popular songs which Edwards sings, assist greatly in making a first-class show.

The motion pictures are exceptionally good.

TEMPLE BAND RAISING FUNDS

To Assist in Expenses of Trip to England.

GAVE FIRST CONCERT.

The first musical festival given last night by the Temple Band, Songsters, Orchestra and Boy's Band, was well attended. Each number given on the program was well received by all. Special mention can be made of the solos given by Bandsmen Sandeford and Robinson, also the first appearance of the Temple Orchestra. Their playing of Summer Days was creditably rendered.

At an intermission in the program Band Secretary Hensley gave a few remarks about the object of this, the first of a series to be given at the Temple. The object was to defray part of the band's travelling expenses to England in June to represent Canada at the International Congress of the Salvation Army in June next, as it has been decided that the band will go. Adj. McElheney was in the chair.

It is the intention of the band to give a number of concerts, both in the city and at outside points.

Yaquis On the Warpath.

DOUGLASS, Ariz., Feb. 3.—After several weeks of quiet Yaqui Indians were again raiding ranches in the vicinity of Ures, Senora, according to reports which reached here yesterday. Several Mexican freighters have been killed near Ures, it was stated, and the inhabitants of that region are practically defenceless.

CASES WHERE CONDEMNED PRISONERS HAVE ESCAPED

Nearly a Million Persons, Including Fifty-Two Members of Parliament Signed the Petition That Saved Mrs. Florence Maybrick From the Gallows—The Pardoning of Miss Kitty Biren.

The recent discussion in Ontario regarding the law which makes it possible for a murderer sentenced to death to secure a delay until Court of Appeal meets in the fall, recalls some notable cases where the death penalty has been deferred.

"Nothing rouses the British public like a sense of injustice done to a fellow-creature," said Sir William Harcourt while he was Home Secretary; and not infrequently prisoners have found themselves the subjects of extraordinary demonstrations in their behalf.

Nearly 80,000 persons signed the petition in favor of Daisy Lord, the poor girl recently released after eighteen months imprisonment. She had been condemned to the gallows for the death of her child in the most pitiable circumstances. In thousands of homes the story of her sorrow, of her despair, of her frenzy, had touched the heart and awakened people to sympathy with her and to indignation at what one of our most distinguished judges once described as an "antiquated and monstrous legal form" which had dictated the cruel sentence passed upon her.

"Mrs. Maybrick found guilty: Sentence of death." That news spread through the country one August morning in 1889 aroused thousands of readers of her trial to protest. The night had hardly closed upon the spreading of the news before petitions were being prepared and circulated through the country for signature, praying that the wretched lady might be saved from the scaffold. When completed, the Maybrick petition was the most extraordinary one for a prisoner these islands have ever seen. It bore no fewer than close upon a million signatures, including those of fifty-two members of the House of Commons. One of the most remarkable features of the Maybrick appeal was that something like 35 per cent. of the signatures were those of women.

At eleven o'clock one December night, eight years ago, a cab drove up to the entrance of Holloway Prison and a man leapt out. He was a messenger from the Home Office bearing a sealed despatch from the Home Secretary for immediate delivery into the hands of the governor of the prison. A few moments later the governor, the chaplain, and the head wardress were tramping down the internal corridors of the prison to the cell in which was confined Miss Kitty Biren, the young girl condemned to death a few days previously for the killing of a stockbroker whom she had encountered in the street and mortally wounded with a knife before the spectators could rush to his rescue. Thousands of people hurried to append their names to the petitions in her favor. Even on the Stock Exchange itself people hustled one another to sign the appeal for mercy, and in less than a week 500,000 men and women were pleading on her behalf. The Home Secretary anticipated the presentation of the petition by commuting the sentence, but later on the monster petition was carted into his office urging him to a mitigation of the sentence of penal servitude for life.

Liverpool was the centre of another great agitation for mercy in 1898 when the people of Lancashire were aroused respecting the fate of a young lieutenant in the Royal Artillery, Lieutenant Wark, who had been condemned to death by Mr. Justice Darling at the preceding assizes. Wark was accused of the murder of a young woman. Even though guilty, there were many circumstances that appeared to make his offence one for merciful consideration. The jury had themselves strongly recommended him to mercy, and the public found their hearts in accord with their finding. A manly, but at the same time touching, speech made by the prisoner after the verdict had a vast effect. No fewer than 54,000 persons signed the petition in his behalf, and the sentence was later on commuted to one of merely three years' penal servitude.

From morning till night people flocked to the places in Edinburgh, Glasgow, and in all the large towns in Scotland and the North of England where petitions were lying in favor of the young woman who had been pronounced guilty of the murder of Jessie Macpherson, the housekeeper who had been discovered mysteriously murdered in a house in Sandyford Place, Glasgow. The jury had found her guilty, and the judge had expressed his entire concurrence in the verdict, but the public regarded the case as one of mystery. "McLachlan shall not die!" was the cry of thousands. Crowds flocked to the places where the petition in her behalf were lying, and in the end the sentence was commuted to one of life-long imprisonment.

Antiquity of Bells.

The art of bell founding is undoubtedly of great antiquity. The Saxons are known to have used bells in their churches, although probably but small ones, for the Venerable Bede, writing at the end of the seventh century, alludes to them in terms which seem to show that they were not unfamiliar things. The towers of the Saxon period have belfries of considerable dimensions in most cases, and at Crowland Abbey, in south Lincolnshire, there was a famous peal of seven bells many years before the Norman conquest.—London Graphic.

Clerical Frugality.

In the far-off days of 1766, the year in which Goldsmith wrote his immortal "Vicar of Wakefield," the Universal Magazine contained this obituary notice:

"Lately, Rev. Mr. Mattinson, curate of Patterdale, Westmorland, for sixty years. The first infant he christened was afterward his wife, by whom he had one son and three daughters, all of whom he married in his own church. His stipend was forty years $60 and for the last twenty not $100 per ann. Yet he died at the age of eighty-three worth $5,000, $4,000 of which was saved out of his stipend."

The correspondent of London Notes and Queries who quotes this astonishing record of frugality asks if Goldsmith may not have received the first impetus to the composition of his novel by reading this announcement.

If potatoes are being cooked for salad, boil them with the skins on, They will be less soggy.

FAMOUS SLOVENS

They Had a Fine Contempt For Personal Appearance.

GENIUS IN UNCOUTH ATTIRE.

Turner, the Artist, Dressed Like an Old Time Cab Driver—Dr. Johnson Was Grotesque, and "Old Fitz" Outraged All the Sartorial Conventions.

It is surprising how outrageously careless of their personal appearance many famous men have been. Genius may or may not be allied to madness, but it has certainly very often been linked with an utter disregard for clothes and cleanly habits.

It is said of Turner, the great landscape painter, that his hands were "the smallest and dirtiest hands on record." Perhaps that is an exaggeration, but he was certainly very slovenly in his dress. He wore a black swallowtail dress coat, very much in need of a clothesbrush vigorously used, and in the warmest as well as in the coldest weather he wore round his throat a sort of wrap or muffler, which he would unloose, letting the ends dangle down in front and dip into the colors of his palette. He always worked either with his old hat on his head or with this same large muffler over his head. His appearance was more like that of an old time coachman than of a famous Royal Academician, for he was short and stout, with a red and blotchy face.

Dr. Johnson's slovenliness has almost passed into a proverb. There are many contemporary accounts of his turning out of his house in Bolt court with his wig back to front and his stockings down. When Boswell visited him at 1 Inner Temple lane he records: "His brown suit of clothes looked very rusty; he had on a little, old shriveled, unpowdered wig, which was too small for his head; his shirt neck and the knees of his breeches were loose, his black worsted stockings ill drawn up, and by way of slippers he had on a pair of unbuckled shoes." When it is added that this great man was constantly twitching, grunting, shaking his head, puffing his cheeks and blinking his eyes, it must be admitted that his appearance was not only uncouth but grotesque.

Thomas Carlyle, coming of a peasant race, never conformed to society garb. He was always the inspired peasant. He would sometimes go out in his old dressing gown, over which he buttoned a big coat, gray with age. When he was left alone in the house he delighted in swilling his flagstones with pails of water, and many a distinguished friend found him thus engaged with a kind of smock on and his bushy hair all tousled. He went about all the summer among the highest aristocracy in a frieze jacket which was part of an old dressing gown. All the cabmen and bus drivers Chelsea way knew him. One said, "He may wear a queer 'at, but what would yer give for the 'eadpiece inside of it?"

It would not be seemly to describe Tennyson as slovenly in any real sense. He was a singularly noble looking man, but he did not care a jot what he wore. His old slouch hat had seen unnumbered years and flapped about at all angles, and the Inverness cape which he invariably wore was about as old as his hat. People who met him without knowing his immense distinction would have regarded him as a rather quaint character, and a tailor's cutter would not have assessed him at half a dollar, all told.

This is a description of the daily appearance of Edward Fitzgerald, the immortal translator of "The Rubaiyat" of Omar Khayyam: "Straggling gray hair and slovenly in dress, wearing an ancient, battered, black banded, shiny edged tall hat, round which he would in wintry weather tie a handkerchief to keep it in place; his clothes of baggy blue cloth, as though he were a seafarer; his trousers short and his shoes low, exhibiting a length of white or gray stockings. With an unstarched shirt front, high, crumpled, standup collar, a big black silk tie in a careless bow; in cold weather trailing a green and black and gray plaid shawl, in hot weather even walking barefoot with his boots slung to a stick." Surely "Old Fitz," as Tennyson called him, took the cake for slovenliness of all the immortals!—Pearson's Weekly.

A Useful Army.

Completing the improvements in a conquered town, says Popular Mechanics, is an unusual occupation for an invading army, but this is what happened in Uskub, Macedonia. When the Balkan war broke out the electric street lighting system was almost complete. The town was then taken by the Servian army, and the engineering staff completed the system and put it in working order.

Expert In Handwriting.

Mother was fair, but she wished to be fairer still. Adorned by nature, she sought further beautification. Loveliness was her great goal.

Invited out to dinner, she stood before the mirror, and, having made her yellow locks a trifle yellower, she proceeded to apply the pencil to her eyebrows. This, it may be remarked, is an age of artificiality, and mother had reached this age.

The little daughter stood by and wondered.

"Mother, what are you writing on your face for?"—Popular Magazine.

KAID BELTON SET SULTAN OF MOROCCO ON THRONE

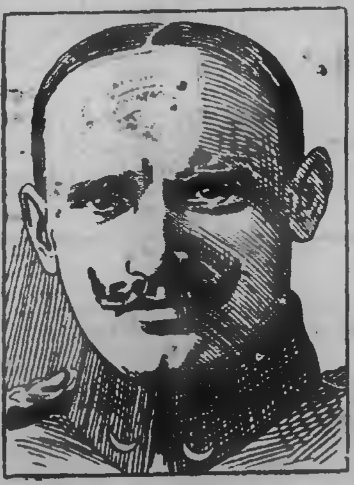
After Eight Months Spent on the Staff at Stanley Barracks He Found Life Too Tame and Went to Learn Aviation—Has Now Married Miss Mamie Babin and Will Live In England.

Kaid Belton, the man who made a Sultan, and won the title of "King Maker," has just done something else which entitles him to distinction—he has married a charming Canadian girl, Miss Mamie Babin, of Ottawa. The wedding took place on Nov. 3, in Liverpool. Miss Babin is gifted with a beautiful soprano voice, and had achieved no little success as a musician.

Kaid Belton was for eight months last year attached to the staff of Stanley Barracks, Toronto, but found the life rather too tame, and went to Chicago to learn aviation.

"The kaid, or in other words the commander-in-chief, for that is the English meaning of the title he gained in Morocco, is a sturdy English officer who won his commission in South Africa for gallantry in the field at the age of nineteen, was appointed commander of the Sultan of Morocco's army at 25, and waged war against Abdul Aziz and put him to flight while still little more than a boy.

The kaid is a Cumbrian who from his earliest years had an ambition for a life of adventure. He was only seventeen when he became a trooper in the Westmoreland and Cumberland Yeomanry, but before long he was a commanding officer and rose to the rank of captain. It was the Boer War which led him to join the yeomanry, and with it he saw active service in South Africa. Six months after he had returned to England trouble arose in Morocco. The information was scanty—just that there was a revolt against the then reigning Sultan—but it was enough for young Belton. Off he rushed without a moment's delay to a shipping office and booked to Tangier. Once aboard ship he began to think things out and decided that his business in life was to get into touch right away with the Moor who wanted to be the new Sultan and organize his army for him. At Tangier his difficulties began. The reigning Sultan, Abdul Aziz, had retired to Fez, but the pretender, Mulai Hafid, was in southern Morocco. Belton quickly discovered that he could not reach his objective in the ordinary way, because the life of no Christian was safe in the interior, and there were no caravans to convy him.



KAID BELTON.

Chafing under all this the Englishman hit on a desperate remedy, pretending that he was going to see a bull fight, and taking the wrong boat. At Laraiche he bribed a Jew to dress him as a Moorish woman, and thus got through to the headquarters of the pretender. Quite coolly the Englishman announced that he wanted to see Hafid, and though sentries barred his way he eventually found himself in a square where the new Sultan's troops were drawn up in the presence of the Sultan and his court. He told Hafid that he was willing to organize his army. Four days later he was given the chance of showing what he could do with the troops, and so well did he manage them that he soon found himself with an army of thirty thousand at his command. In August, 1908, Belton, who has been described as a king-maker, defeated Abdul Aziz and Hafid was proclaimed Sultan. For all these services Belton received no monetary reward. His subsequent history is: Driven out of Morocco by the jealousies of the French; crossed to Canada in the hope of leading the rebels in Nicaragua; joined the 5th Princess Louise Dragoon Guards at Ottawa; spent some months as an officer attached to the Royal Canadian Dragoons at Stanley Barracks, Toronto; began his career at Chicago as an aviator, fell out of his machine and received all sorts of injuries; met Mme. Babin, a French-Canadian singer.

At his little house at Wavertree he said to an interviewer: "I've never made any money. It is about time I started, I suppose. I am settling down in the paper and pulp trade, and we are building mills in Canada." He thinks his last adventure beats any he has had.

On their return from their honeymoon, they will reside at Bowthorne Hall, Garth Drive, Mossley Hill, Liverpool, England.

He Knew.

"I wish you'd put a new glass in my right front lamp. A fellow backed into me to-day."

"Sure thing. I'll fix it. The fellow you ran into was just here to have his tail lamp fixed."

Good Advice.

Keep your fears to yourself, but share your courage with others.

AN UNWARRANTED INTRUSION.

Unavailing Efforts of an Offender to Give Justice Its Due.

The following story is actually true A young Icelander, going across the desert from Reykjavik, met a man riding a pony. Such meetings are very rare indeed in those parts, and, like ships at sea, the two hailed and spoke. And this was the manner and substance of their conversation:

"What is your name?"

"Stefan."

"Whose son?"

"Thorstein's son."

"Where are you going?"

"To prison, for stealing a sheep."

"No one taking you?"

"No; the sheriff was busy, so he gave me my papers"—the warrant for the arrest—"and sent me off to prison myself."

The young men exchanged snuff and a kiss and then parted.

A week later the young Icelander was returning to Reykjavik, and near the same spot he met the same man.

"What," he cried, "Stefan Thorstein! Why, you said you were going to prison."

"So I was, and I went. But they would not let me in."

"Why not?"

"Because I had lost my papers, and the sheriff said he would not take me in without my warrant."

"So they won't have you in prison?"

"No."

"And you are going home again?"

"Yes."

Women and Feathers.

James Buckland, who is fighting for a law in England to prevent the traffic in plumes for hats, calls women who wear feathers on their hats "scented barbarians." He is caustic in his arraignment of women who would have birds killed to supply them with vanity decorations. "The befeathered Herodias," says he, "cannot plead she errs in ignorance. The truth is that, for all their boasted refinement, some women remain in their impulses little else than scented barbarians. They are in such utter bondage to vanity as to be at the mercy of every whim of fashion, and when fashion decrees that feathers shall be worn they are absolutely without conscience or feeling, so far as the treatment of their victims is concerned."

The writer also attacks woman's ideas of art in clinging to feathers as an artistic adornment. He says: "Feathers as a personal embellishment appeal to her only because they are barbaric. What woman but one without cultivation of mind would imagine that she was beautifying herself by carrying about her person the corpse of a bird? To one of matured understanding, who is not usually enamored of the suggestion of death, a woman who exhibits such raw perception of the beautiful excites no other feeling than one of pity and contempt."

We are never too old to learn — the one step.

RAILROAD MAN HAD TO LAY OFF

Until He Took GIN PILLS

Buffalo, N. Y.

"I have been a Pullman conductor on the C. P. R. and Michigan Central for the last three years.

About four years ago, I was laid up with intense pain in the groin, a very sore back, and suffered most severely when I tried to urinate.

I treated with my family physician for two months for Gravel In The Bladder but did not receive any benefit. About that time, I met another railroad man who had been similarly affected and who had been cured by GIN PILLS, after having been given up by a prominent physicians who treated him for Diabetes. He is now running on the road and is perfectly cured. He strongly advised me to try GIN PILLS which I did—with the results that the pains left me entirely."

POLARIZED LIGHT.

Why the Rays of the Moon May Chemically Affect Foodstuffs.

Moon rays are said to make men go blind and mad, and to turn foodstuff bad. There is even quoted by the London Lancet a death the cause of which was officially stated to be exposure to moonlight. Apparently the food most seriously affected by the moon's radiations is fish, and seemingly trustworthy statements have been made as to the ill effects produced in persons who had partaken of fish which had been freely exposed to moonlight.

E. G. Bryant, writing from Port Elizabeth, South Africa, suggests that a possible explanation might lie in the well known fact that the light of the moon, being reflected light, is more or less polarized, and possibly polarized light may exert a peculiar chemical action. Polarized light was obtained by him from a powerful metallic filament lamp, the light being polarized by means of a pile of sheets of plate glass backed with silver and placed at the correct angle.

The experiments showed certain marked results when fish were submitted to this light. When two slices cut from the same fish were hung, one in the direct light and the other in the polarized beam of light, the latter invariably began to decompose before the former, though the temperature of the polarized beam was several degrees lower than the direct light.

A Flatboatman's Honor

By THOMAS R. DUNN

Early in the nineteenth century the means of communication between northern cities and New Orleans was by flatboat on the Mississippi river. The flatboat was a lumber yard loosely put together and derived its name from the fact that its bottom was flat instead of being the usual shape of a boat. These boats were supposed to drift with the current of the big river, though their momentum was occasionally added to by enormous sweeps worked by men on the roof or deck and were always steered by a sweep. On reaching New Orleans they were broken up and sold for the lumber there was in them.

The flatboatman was a crude being not unlike the plainsman of some forty or fifty years later. A crude code of honor existed in both. There were a great many things that they would not scruple to do that we in a more civilized community would consider very wrong, but when their sense of honor was at stake they would fight hard to do what they felt was right.

Roger Dixon was a flatboatman in the early thirties. The boat he was on having tied up in a creek on the Louisiana shore, he went up on to the bank, where he found a gambling den, and there he proceeded to lose all the money he had, but, being convinced that he had been cheated, used a long knife he carried hung between his shoulder blades on the manipulator of the gambling outfit, leaving a considerable wound. Dixon was arrested and put in jail. The flatboat went on south with the current, leaving him devoid of funds and without even his liberty.

The arrest and imprisonment of the culprit occurred just as the court was adjourning for the season and would not be held again for several months. Dixon, having no money, was unable to get bail, which was allowed in his case since the wound he had inflicted was not mortal. He therefore had the prospect of languishing in jail during a hot summer, with the further prospect of being sent to state prison for felonious assault for two or three years longer when the court came together.

The prisoner, being remanded to jail in default of bail, stood before the judge a melancholy sight. He was about to be led away when a planter dressed in the costume of the time—tight trousers strapped over his boots, a coat with a flaring skirt, a ruffled shirt and a bell crowned beaver hat—said to the court:

"Yo' honnah, what's the amount of the bail in this case?"

"Five thousand dollars, colonel."

"I'll go it fo' this man, suh."

"Yo' bettah not, suh. You'll lose yo' money."

The colonel asked the prisoner if he would come back certain sho' if he furnished the bail, and, though the reply was simply "Reckon," Colonel Armstrong was convinced, the bond was executed, and Dixon went free. The trial was fixed for the 4th of November, four months later.

Dixon was a Tennesseean, whose domicile, where lived his wife and children, was on the banks of the Tennessee river, near the site of the present city of Chattanooga. There was no means of getting there by the way he had come, for boats in those days never went upstream, so Dixon cut across country on foot. As he left the place of his misfortune one of a knot of men who stood looking after him said, "There goes your $5,000, colonel."

When the 1st of November came round Colonel Armstrong had not heard a word from the man he had befriended. The kind hearted colonel was an object of sympathy on the part of the inhabitants of the locality, for no one expected that a man was coming away from Tennessee for the purpose of being sent to state prison when he could get off by staying at home. The second and third days of the month passed, and on the morning of the fourth the court came together for the purpose of trying Dixon, but there was no Dixon present. Out of sympathy for Colonel Armstrong the judge delayed matters as long as possible.

Suddenly there was a sound of heavy boots on the courthouse steps, and the culprit rushed wildly into court and said:

"Reckon I ain't too late, judge, am I?"

The bail furnisher embraced the newcomer, while those present cheered.

Then Dixon was asked to tell how he had come. He had made his way down the Tennessee river in a dugout to its mouth, where he expected to be picked up by a flatboat on which he might work his way down the Mississippi river. Having waited several days in vain for one, he continued on in his dugout, over the rest of the way from Cairo, a distance of many hundred miles, to his destination. When the story had been told the prosecuting attorney, considering that the gambler who had been stabbed had recovered and had since been killed by another person he had fleeced, requested the case be dropped, and the prisoner was discharged. Again he set out on his homeward journed through a wild country. He was offered money by the kind hearted planter who had before befriended him, but he declined it, saying:

"I might not hev it to send, and if I hev it I mought not get it yere without bringin' it myself."

Expensive.

"No; I've decided never to accept friendly advice any more."

"Why not? It doesn't cost you anything."

"Well, I've found out that it almost invariably costs you your friends."—Exchange.

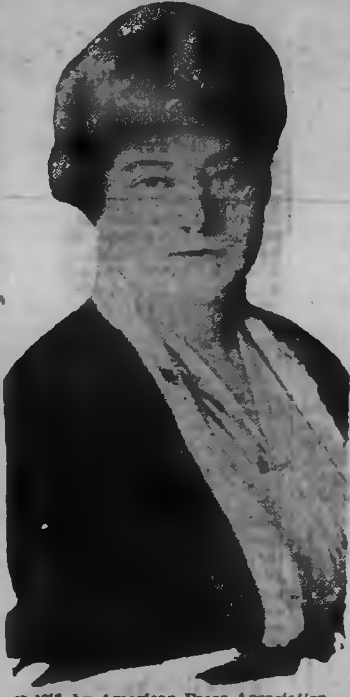
Woman's World

Mrs. John Purroy Mitchel, Wife of Gotham's Mayor Elect.



© 1913, by American Press Association.

MRS. JOHN PURROY MITCHEL.

The election of John Purroy Mitchel brings his wife into great prominence as official chatelaine of the city of New York. Mrs. Mitchel, who before her marriage to Mr. Mitchel was a Boston girl, is the picture of a strong, healthy outdoor woman, and she holds that every one could be healthy if he or she would take regular exercise. She is particularly interested in swimming.

The wife of the new mayor elect is also a strong champion of woman's suffrage and believes that in ten years hence women will have the ballot in New York state. Although a suffragist, Mrs. Mitchel took no active part in her husband's campaign. She is more interested in the work of the woman's auxiliary of the board of health, which is aiding in the fight to stamp out tuberculosis, than in the political game.

In a recent interview Mrs. Mitchel was asked whether she would insist upon her husband putting a ban on the slit skirt and the filmy sartorial effect. Here her devotion to personal liberty came out.

"Indeed, I would not!" she replied. "This is a free country, and I believe that every one should be allowed to dress as she pleases. Of course if any style should be too extravagant it would bring its own punishment. Women should dress so as to make themselves most attractive, and extravagant dress will not do that."

Mrs. Mitchel alluded to the fact that she liked housekeeping and would not be content without her own home. So the natural question was:

"If you like housekeeping, do you like cooking?"

"Shall I tell a lie or shall I tell the truth?" she replied with a charming little laugh. "I'll say that I like to cook in camp, and camping is great. I would like to spend two months in the woods that way every year. All outdoor life is very attractive to me."

Incidental to her remarks about housekeeping, Mrs. Mitchel spoke of the criticism often heard of the higher education of women. Mrs. Mitchel believes that the more highly developed a woman is intellectually the more helpful she can be as a wife. "I am not a college woman myself, but I am sorry that I am not."

The Actress' Retort.

Georgette Leblanc, the actress, wife of Maurice Maeterlinck, was on tour in a French town, where the local company "supported" her in one of her husband's plays.

But the support was weak and halting. The poet's lines were mangled, and several characters seemed unable to understand what they were saying. Mme. Leblanc sought out her manager and spoke to him.

"A writer like Maeterlinck should be treated with more respect."

"Madame," he answered, "M. Maeterlinck is not the first to suffer. Sophocles, Moliere, Racine, Shakespeare, Goethe and other great dramatists are daily murdered in the same way."

"Possibly, but they are not murdered alive, at any rate."

Turkish women are now taking to aeroplaning.

TO FINISH V NECK.

Advice For Home Shirt Waist Makers.

NET FICHU WITH QUILLINGS.

There are many good ways of finishing the neck line. Until the slightly pointed V line in the front goes out of fashion it is a good one to follow, because it is easy to manage and incidentally becoming to most faces. And it is this neck line that is most easily finished with some sort of frill or ruche.

One especially good way of finishing the V neck is with a double tulle or net frill, with a ribbon fastened through the center between the two frills with ends that tie in front.

Double ruching or frilling is expensive, but it can be made quite satisfactorily for most uses by joining two bands of single frilling. For the sort of ruche described the single frilling should be basted with the plaits in place, close to the inside edge, and then ripped from the little band of net or muslin that holds the plaits in place. The two frills should then be basted together and joined under a little strip of net stitched down in place. The ribbon is folded or crushed softly and fastened along this little strip of net that joins the two frills together. The long ends form a tie that covers the front opening.

The home maker of shirt waists should always avoid a tight appearance where the V necked shirt waist closes. Nothing is more ugly than a V neck that pulls tightly about the neck and makes the neck bulge.

There should always be some sort of ruching or bow to finish the neck in the front. These finishes cover up any defects at the neck. Illustrated is a charming fichu made of white wash net trimmed with old fashioned quilling. The model is very dainty and becoming.

Our Weatherwise Hair.

For every fifty folks who look to the barometer for news as to a change in the weather there are hardly five who know that the human hair is not only an accurate and reliable foreteller of rain or drought, cold or heat.

If in dressing your own hair or brushing your small daughter's you find it rough and brittle the weather will keep hot and dry. When the hair becomes soft and smooth again look out for rain. Lasting rain is foretold by curly hair becoming straight and clingy and straight hair flat and less abundant looking. When the hair begins to fluff out and curl again the weather will become pleasant once more. The approach of thunderstorms is heralded by the hair's crackling when being combed and "following" the comb and brush, which electrical tendency grows less and less as the rain comes down in showers. Some people are far more alive to atmospheric changes and conditions, but all hair shows its weather wisdom more or less, the blonder shades more so than brown or black locks.

Homemade Plateau.

Very attractive disks for use under a vase of flowers, a pitcher of ice water or the punch bowl can be made at home at trifling expense by any woman who is in the least ingenious.

Have a piece of heavy glass cut in the shape of a hexagon, each side measuring about five inches. Get a small piece of cretonne having a figure about the same size. Lay the glass over it and tack in place by a small amount of glue along the edge. Bind the edge with gilt gimp about an inch wide. By sewing lightly at each corner it will stay in place. The cost of materials is as follows: One yard gimp, 25 cents; one-half yard of cretonne, 15 cents. The price of the glass varies, according to thickness.

Probing Peat Resources.

The Dominion Government has, through the medium of the Department of Mines, just undertaken a very extensive and exhaustive investigation into the merits of pet as fuel, the commercial feasibility of its manufacture at a reasonable marketable price and the available supply in Canada.

The Government is experiencing considerable difficulty with get-rich-quick men, who, posing as promoters of peat enterprises, induced investors to place considerbale money in ventures that are not based upon intelligent information in regard to the possibilities of the industry.

There is considerable capital invested in Canada, however, in legitimate peat enterprises, and these are to be given every encouragement by the Government, with the end in view of doing everything that is possible to provide against a fuel famine in the future.

Good Form

Breezy Manners of Today.

"We were sitting in the drawing room after tea, Mrs. Callander and I," said a woman recently. "She was a subtlety in velvet and old lace, and I—I was her most complete foil in brown charmeuse. We were both of that old school of thought which is so hoary that it dares to proclaim its conventionality out loud.

"My friend was telling me, in that tender voice so well in keeping with her gentle face and soft gray hair, of two charmingly pretty girls who were presently coming in to see her. 'Every one is raving about them,' she declared. 'With their lovely coloring, tall, slight figures and cameo cut features, they have made dreadful havoc in the hearts of the young men round here.'

"I was on the qui vive for the first sight of these delightful visions, picturing them when they should enter sitting there in graceful pose, framed against the lovely flowers and old oak paneling of my friend's room. How sweet and dainty they would look in their pretty dresses, with their soft, clear voices and graceful ways, that we foolish old fogies imagined the prerogative of budding youth!

"The door opened at last, and the young girls were ushered in. I was amazed at their behavior! They rushed precipitately up the room as though propelled by some unseen force and made a triumphant dart for their hostess (I give their progress as it occurred). Having greeted my friend with a ringing 'how de do' and a hail fellow well met squeeze of the hand, which was irresistibly comic to my matured fancy, they favored me with a stare and an ungraceful nod of their pretty heads.

"The elder girl then 'threw' (this is the only term which fitly describes her movements)—threw her body into an armchair and, crossing one knee over the other, displayed almost the complete length of one slim leg and more than a little of the other. Her sister, settling herself sideways on a high chair with her elbows comfortably supported on the back rail, began to regale us with stories of her prowess at golf, tennis and other games, calling across the room to the elder one for confirmation of her tales. 'Wasn't it so, Jennie? Didn't I do a corking stroke at that seventh hole; wot?' receiving a cheery abbreviated nod by way of answer. Their voices were shrill and uncultured; they clipped their words until my friend and I could scarcely understand. Never once during the hour that followed did they assume a graceful pose or show anything of that quiet charm that, in my day at least, invariably marked the gentlewoman.

"A well known actress once did a delicious piece of work in one of those plays of which she always makes a success. She crossed the room very slowly, in her inimitable way and, sinking gracefully into an armchair, at the same time putting a cushion to her back, said quietly, 'It took me seven years to learn to do this!' Well, it was worth it! What a contrast were her graceful movements with the hoydenish behavior of these young girls. Their shrill voices with her quiet accents! One could imagine them gripping their golf sticks or perhaps dancing, for the word is a catholic one now. But one could not conceive them ever getting into a carriage with that little 'hop, skip, jump' which is apt to arouse the latent humor of the beholder."

Economy Hint For Hostess.

A very clever hostess with an eye to values and efficiency (which means a maximum effect produced by a minimum amount of labor) makes this well laid plan whereby she lumps her obligations, as it were. She gives a dinner one day to eight or ten guests, follows it the next day with a luncheon for eight, which she then concludes with a "tea" for a few more.

She figures it out in this way: The same flowers of the evening before may be rearranged for the luncheon. The little cakes, almonds and sweets, usually untouched, will serve again. A fresh bunch of grapes added to the bowl of fruit, which, though it has been in the ice chest overnight, is still most presentable, as well as many of the other little touches which the home seems to need in honor of some favored guest or social "lion." In this way the decorations will answer for three functions instead of one. But you must be extremely careful not to let any of these entertainments smack of leftovers. Nothing is more insulting to a guest than that.

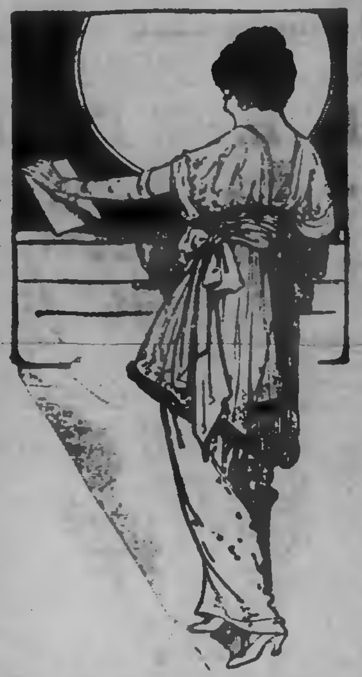
This is truly an original plan for economy and a very sensible one, as usually the accessories of a dinner go begging after the feast, and this innovation makes admirable use of the flowers, fruits and sweets, and this is no small saving as prices are today.

A luncheon, however beautiful, does not give the pleasure a dinner does when the business of the day is over and one is quite keyed up for an evening's enjoyment.

We are all more or less like Peter Pan and refuse to grow up, and there is a subtle excitement in an evening entertainment no daytime function will ever afford.

Why will a girl with six buttons off her boot wear a slit skirt.

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION



LANSDOWNE WITH A TOUCH OF FUR.

A most attractive dance frock, noted at one of the fashionable metropolitan hotels the other evening was developed in creamy white lansdowne in the narrow skirt and full minaret tunic. The transparent corsage was of cream white lace over flesh pink chiffon enriched with a vest effect of beads. A touch of dark fur—and all fur trimming must be just a touch now—around the top of the girdle and the flaring edge of the tunic gave just the right tone to the light dainty affair.

Use for German Carp.

Prof. Prince, Dominion fisheries' commissioner, suggests that the spawn of German carp which were placed in Lake Erie and Lake Huron in 1872, and have flourished exceedingly, could be made valuable for caviare and thus provide a profitable industry in these waters. When properly prepared and cured it is indistinguishable from the caviare made from the sturgeons.

Inquiries from New York and London dealers who report a shortage of supply, caused the examination of which Prof. Prince's suggestion is the result. Up to now German carp has been a despised fish in this country.

Ready-Made Farms In Demand.

The "ready-made farm" idea, which has been in force for a short time by the New Brunswick Government, is showing satisfactory results from every standpoint. Over one hundred and thirty farms have been disposed of to actual settlers.

CRITICAL TIME OF WOMAN'S LIFE

From 40 to 50 Years of Age. How It May Be Passed in Safety.

So. Wellington, B.C.—"For a year during the Change of Life I was all run down. I was really too weak to walk and was very despondent and thought I was going to die, but after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier my health and strength returned. I am very thankful to you and praise your medicine. I have advised several women who suffered as I did to try your remedies. You may publish this if you wish."—Mrs. DAVID R. MORRIS, South Wellington, Vancouver Island, B. C.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. We know of no other medicine which has such a record of success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and we believe it is unequalled for women during the period of change of life.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Showing Up Wily Woman In the Person of Maude Marie.

JOHN HENRY, who for many weeks had been carrying ice cream and chocolates to the home of the beauteous Maude Marie, at last tenderly asked the dear one to change the style of her visiting cards, all of which made Maude Marie stop, look and listen.

The dear one didn't know the size of John Henry's bank account, and in a matter of this kind it was important she should know before committing herself. So she baited a hook and began to angle.

"I don't think I ought to marry you, John, dear," said the maid, ever so softly. "I am afraid we wouldn't get along well. You are too dreadfully extravagant."

"Extravagant!" exclaimed the young man. "On the contrary, dearest, I am very economical. I have to be."

"Then," very emphatically declared Maude Marie, "I can never be your wife!"

"Why?" gasped the astonished John Henry. "Because I am economical?"

"No, John," replied Maude Marie, heaving a soulful sigh. "Because you have to be."—Washington Star.

Natural Query.

Miss Muffitt had recently joined the Band of Sisters For Befriending Burglars and was being shown over a prison for the first time.

One prisoner, evidently a man of education, interested her more than the others. He rose and bowed to her when she entered his cell, apologizing for the poorness of his apartment.

Miss Muffitt could not help wondering how this refined man came within the clutches of the law. In fact, as she was leaving his cell she said:

"May I ask why you are in this distressing place?"

"Madam," he replied, "I am here for robbery at a seaside hotel!"

"How very interesting!" said Miss Muffitt. "Were you—er—the proprietor?"—London Answers.

Dore's Musical Rebus.

Gustave Dore, the famous painter and engraver, once bought a villa on the outskirts of Paris and wrote over the entrance this musical rebus, Do, mi, si, la, do, re. This, properly interpreted, is "Domicile a Dore," or in plain English "Home of Dore."

An Invitation.

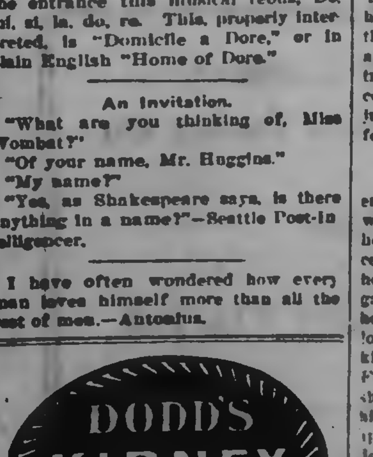
"What are you thinking of, Miss Wombat?"

"Of your name, Mr. Huggins."

"My name?"

"Yes, as Shakespeare says, is there anything in a name?"—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

I have often wondered how every man loves himself more than all the rest of men.—Antonius.



PILGRIM JOE TELLS AN ADMIRING PUBLIC OF HIS NEW REMEDY

The "Knock 'Em Out" Troche Combines All the Healing Virtues of P. J.'s Twenty-seven Different Cures. Startling Testimonials.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.]

IT has been my hope and ambition for years past to combine my twenty-seven different cures for the ailments of mankind into a single one and thereby save the expense of tens of thousands of bottles, boxes, corks and labels to help to reduce the high cost of living.

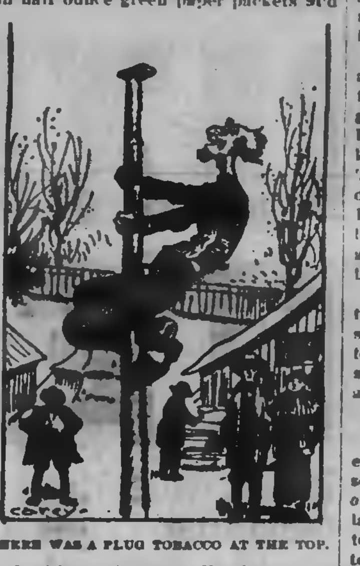
I have got it!

It's marvelous! It's stupendous! It's gigantic!

It reads like a fairy tale, and yet the cold facts are there!

My consolidation is a troche called "Pilgrim Joe's Knock 'Em Out," and doctors and druggists all over the country are shaking in their shoes. It is going to knock them out as well as the ailments of mankind.

No bottles, no paper boxes. Put up in half ounce green paper packets and tied with a red string. You hand over a dime and that closes the deal. You don't get home to find that you have bought a bottle of hair dye or a package of flea powder instead of the greatest cure since the world was a foot square.



THERE WAS A PLUG TOBACCO AT THE TOP.

No liquid is needed to help swallow one of my troches, and therefore there is no excuse whatever for a patient stepping into a saloon or keeping whisky in the house. Knowing that thousands of them would be swallowed by travelers on the desert and explorers on a visit to the poles, I made them with a slippery outer coating. Just make the proper motions and down they go like glass beads.

On Sale Everywhere.

The Knock 'Em Outs will be on sale in dry goods stores, groceries, carpenter shops, blacksmith shops, real estate offices, etc., as well as in drug stores, and they will form a part of the stock of newsboys and bootblacks. The idea is to have them at hand and take them early.

The fixed price is 25 cents a package. Don't try to beat it down. No reduction to ministers. I have been giving them discounts on my remedies for years and have found that their sermons were no better for it.

By reading the following testimonials you get a fair idea of what the Knock 'Em Outs will do for ailing mankind, no matter what the sex, race or color:

A Turk in the rug business in New York city had just sold a seventeen dollar rug to an Albany woman for $125 when he was seized with awful pains in his vitals. He believed it a case of conscience and was about to restore $108 when a friend dropped in and handed him one of my troches. Within five minutes thereafter the pains were not only completely gone, but the Turk was wishing he had put the price up $25 more.

In the same city a police captain who had been grafting for twenty years heard that the district attorney was going to investigate his bank account. He started on the run for the bank, but would have never made the hike in time had he not swallowed a Knock 'Em Out, which he happened to have in his vest pocket. It aided him to reach the bank ten minutes ahead of time and withdraw his graft, and the district attorney not only failed to find a cent of it, but reported to the grand jury that the captain was one of the few honest policemen on the force.

A Marvelous Testimonial.

James Ford of Michigan had been engaged to a widow for several months when he found out that the stock she held in a silver mine wasn't worth a cent on the dollar. He walked over to her house and told her that the engagement was off. Before doing so, however, he had the prudence to swallow one of my troches. The widow kicked and threatened, and as Mr. Ford was retiring from her presence she lugged out a revolver and fired at him. The bullet intended for his disappointed heart passed over his shoulder and killed the widow's only cow. Can you pronounce this remedy anything but marvelous?

A city alderman who had laid up the sum of $20,000 on a total salary of $5,000 was summoned before the mayor to make explanations. He felt that he couldn't make any that would be believed, and he had a pistol at his head when a friend came in and handed him one of my troches. An hour later he had made the mayor and others believe that an aunt had left him a legacy. He even gave the name of the aunt and the size shoe she wore.

Mrs. Schermerhorn writes us from a town in Ohio that for thirty years she suffered with a weak heart and therefore had to knuckle down to her husband in everything. She took three troches and effected a complete cure and then assumed the reins of government and now has her husband under such control that he dasn't say boo.

Doctors Get In Wrong.

Mr. McAdoo of Delaware was told by three different doctors that he had Bright's disease and could only live five days, four hours and twenty-seven minutes. He was making his will when a boy fetched him a packet of Knock 'Em Outs from a cooper shop. After taking one he tore up the will, which had left everything to his mother-in-law. After taking the second he called the doctors horse thieves and New York state senators. With the third troche all signs of his ailment vanished, and he now sees no reason why he shouldn't live to be a hundred years old.

Remember that these troches are prepared under the pure food and drug act, which virtually says that as long as railroad spikes are not one of the ingredients of a remedy it is all right.

Judge Callahan of Missouri was about to sentence a prisoner to death for holding a straight flush in a poker game when his honor fell from the bench to the floor and gave one or two kicks and was supposed to be dead. There was great confusion, and it was only the prisoner that kept his head. He stooped over the body, pried the locked teeth open with his jackknife, and after inserting one of my troches he heroically stepped back.

In five minutes Judge Callahan had taken his seat again, and upon "being shown" he changed the sentence to ten days in a dining car. His honor says that one troche saved his life, and he has ordered a barrel of them.

Lost Greased Pole Contest.

Deacon Arnold of Wisconsin, a man eighty years old and regarded as the soul of integrity, writes us that he was one of the greased pole contestants at a late county fair. There was a plug of tobacco at the top, and the deacon determined to claw it off or die trying. In fact, he had to have it, having been out of plug for a whole week.

While nearing the top of the pole, however, his hands slipped and he came down with an estimated force of 20,000 pounds to the square acre. He was pronounced as dead as a bump on a log, and his widow had got him dumped into the wagon to take home when a drummer who was flirting with a milliner in the crowd paused long enough to administer one of my Knock 'Em Outs. Inside of ten minutes the elder was running a foot race with the boys.

What I have written about some of these cases borders on the miraculous, but it is always that way with a good thing. You have been offered silver mine stock at 7 cents on a dollar and been told that it would go to 80 in a few weeks. When it has not only gone to 80, but to 130, you have stood with open mouth and dumb tongue.

So truly marvelous is the case of Colonel Dinkle of Vermont that we hesitate to give it, though at the same time urged by a strong sense of duty toward suffering humanity. The colonel was at the battle of Gettysburg. That was the main reason why Lee retreated. This statement is made to give you confidence in the colonel's word. He writes that about a month ago he was kicked by a cow, a mule and a horse at the same time. It was a triangular kicking match, with a battle scarred hero as the victim.

Revived by "Knock 'Em Outs."

For half an hour the colonel was thought to be dead, and his relatives were fighting over his old sword of Bunker Hill when he came to. It was only to be attacked by double pneumonia and typhus fever, however, and the seven doctors that had his case said that unless a miracle was wrought he'd fill a grave 'neath the willow.

A miracle was wrought. One of the beef trust agents happened to be in the vicinity looking up veal to make canned lobster and quail of, and he had a packet of my Knock 'Em Outs in his pocket. For a price he was induced to part with three troches. No beef trust man parts with anything for nothing.

The three were sufficient, however. Two knocked out the pneumonia and the other the fever, and in five days the colonel was taking his morning nip from the same old demijohn. Write to him for further details.

Great! Marvelous! Miraculous! And bushels of testimonials coming in through the window every few minutes! Discharge your family doctor. Advise your druggist to trade off his shop for a sawmill! Arm yourselves with my Knock 'Em Outs and you'll begin to feel that life holds a thousand joys for you where before it was only sorrow and mighty thin molasses.

All people are not faddists. For instance, there have been several suicides lately when lead instead of mercury was used.

A professor in St. Louis announces a new law in physics. It is possible that nature is not exempt from the present lawmaking craze?

In an age when men are taking to wearing feathers in their hats it is modest of the women to demand merely a share in the elections.

ROMANTIC WOOINGS.

Sir Henry M. Stanley Was Rebuffed When He Sought Miss Tennant.

Like an aroma, that haunts and colors the thoughts and feelings of our most tender moods, is the romantic odor that clings around the love-making of some of the world's most notable men and women, lending to it an attractiveness and fascination which neither time nor circumstances can effectually diminish.

Even a man like Sir Henry Stanley, resolute, brusque, and absorbed in his life-work, had one of the most romantic wooings imaginable, and certain it is that if any one had told Miss Dorothy Tennant, when she first met the great explorer, that he would one day lead her to the altar she would have laughed the idea to scorn. Dainty, daring Miss Tennant, whose charm and caustic wit had gained here celebrity in London society, openly expressed her indifference, almost dislike, for the famous traveler. This was discouraging to begin with, but Stanley, nevertheless, set himself to pay marked attention to perhaps the only girl in his "set" who did not eagerly welcome a little notice from the most-talked-of man of the year. When, later, he proposed to the much-petted young lady he met with a further rebuff.

Sir Henry went on his way back to Africa to relieve Emin Pasha with unmoved mien, but a very sore heart, and to the onlookers the little drama was closed. But they reckoned without their host, and the sequel to the interesting love tale came when Stanley returned triumphant—again successful in his undertaking.

At a ball in Kensington they met again. Before the evening had advanced far Stanley and his first and only love were alone together for a moment. "I have not changed, Dorothy," he said, simply. "Really?" she asked, raising her beautiful eyes to his face and speaking more softly than was her wont. "I have though." And then Stanley knew that he had won yet another victory.

The wooing of that other great traveler, Sir Richard Burton, was quick and very unconventional. One day when Miss Arundel was walking with her sister in Boulogne, she passed a strange man whose dark eyes, as she afterwards confessed, "seemed to hypnotize her." Turning to her sister she declared, "Some day that man will marry me." The very next day the sisters again met the strange gentleman, who chalked upon the wall this question, "May I speak to you?" Miss Arundel chalked in response, "No, mamma will be angry"—and this was the beginning of one of the most remarkable wooings and wedded lives in the whole romance of love.

It was over a dinner-table that Miss Glynne caught her first glimpse of Mr. Gladstone, to whom she was to devote her life. "Do you see that young man?" a staesman who was sitting next her, said. "Some day he will be Prime Minister of England." No wonder the young girl's interest was aroused; and when, in the winter following, they met again in the lovers' land of Italy, what wonder that the wooing proceeded apace, and that the foundation of one of the most beautiful married lives in history was laid?

The love affairs of famous writers have ever provided an interesting and fascinating topic for discussion, and little wonder, when one recollects the romantic wooings of so many of our great literary men. Few more romantic wooings are chronicled in these affairs of the heart than that of the great dramatist and orator, Richard Sheridan, when he determined to make Miss Linley, the beautiful "Nightingale of Bath" his wife. She counted her suitors by the score; but Sheridan's devotion won her heart. He disguised himself as a coachman merely to have the pleasure of driving her; he escorted her to a French nunnery to rescue her from the persecutions of an odious wooer, with whom he fought two duels on her behalf. And this was but a type of the chivalrous adventures which ultimately enable him to lead her to the altar in April, 1773.

Possibly the happiest and most romantic of all literary love-stories is that of the Brownings'. Their courtship was by no means devoid of difficulties, thanks to Miss Barrett's father, who was a most exacting parent, and seems to have kept his daughter in considerable awe of him. The lovers determined, nevertheless, to get married. To face the anger of her father was, however, too much for Miss Barrett; and, therefore, the marriage was solemnized without his knowledge. Husband and wife parted at the church door; but a week later they met again at a stationer's shop, and set off for Southampton, whence they sailed for that beautiful southern shore which was to witness such happy years of married life — an ideal union, fitly described as one unbroken realized poem."

The love romance of John Ruskin was not without its pathos. Adele Domecq, the beautiful daughter of his father's partner, was the object of his heart's worship. She came on a visit to his home at Herene Hill, and the youth promptly fell "head over heels" in love with her "sweet oval face and graceful figure." But Adele could speak no English, and he knew nothing of her native tongue, Spanish; while his natural shyness made his efforts at love-making so ridiculous that she declared: "If this boy does not desist I shall die of laughing." But for young Ruskin it was the one love of a life-time, and from the day when Adele became the wife of Baron Duquesne his "heart was dead within him."

"Nine Tailors Make a Man."

The often employed phrase, "nine tailors make a man," is said to have originated in the following incident: In 1742 an orphan boy applied at a fashionable tailor's shop in London in which nine journeymen were employed. His interesting appearance opened the hearts of the benevolent tailors, who immediately contributed nine shilling for the relief of the little stranger. With this capital he purchased fruit, which he retailed at a profit. Time passed on, and wealth and honor smiled upon the young tradesman, so that when he set up his carriage instead of troubling the college of heralds for a crest he painted the following motto on his carriage door: 'Nine tailors made me a man'."

The present generation might be termed the automobile race.

Saved by Clean Hands

By F. A. MITCHEL

There was a time toward the close of the attempt of the commune to govern Paris when the communists were fighting a losing battle and the end was not far distant. One morning Louise Desmouliers, a pretty French girl, went out to buy some food supplies for the day's consumption. She was obliged to go some distance from her home for many shops were shut up, and she was absent more than an hour. When she left the street in which she lived was more than usually quiet, for ordinarily persons were going and coming on their daily vocations, whereas while the commune was in power many kept to their homes. When Louise returned she saw a great crowd of excited persons tearing up the stones directly in front of her house and piling them up to form a barricade.

Her mother was alone at home, and Louise knew that she would be much troubled at her absence at a time of such turbulence. But how could she get through this fierce crowd?

Summoning all her fortitude, the girl made a dash to cross the street directly opposite her home. She had reached the opposite curb when she felt herself caught by the skirt, and, turning, saw that she had been stopped by a hag of more ferocious appearance than any woman she had ever seen before.

"Where are you going?" asked the vixen.

"Home."

"Home! You are lucky to have a home. Come, bear a hand here, and help us who have no homes."

She dragged Louise back into the street and, pointing to the pavement, ordered her to join those who were tearing up the stones and piling them on the barricade. Louise knew that should she refuse her career would be ended by one of the stones being buried at her head, and she had no choice but to obey. While carrying a stone to the barricade a young man with a pointed beard said to her in a low tone:

"I have been forced to do this work, as you have. The government troops will be here in a few minutes. I left them at the Place de la Concorde, ready to march. We must not be found here when they come, but I fear we cannot get away."

This was all the man had time to say to her, and she could make no reply. They worked on, the young man keeping near Louise till the cry was raised that the troops were coming. The barricade was not half finished, and there was no organized force to defend it. So the communists began to scatter—that is, they tried to scatter, but the street was filled with them, and it was difficult for them to move in the direction opposite to that in which the troops were coming. Indeed, it was so choked that Louise and her new found friend did not attempt it. Although the girl was not fifty feet from her home, she was unable to reach it.

Suddenly her companion seized her arm and drew her toward a basement door that he saw standing open. Though buffeted by the flying crowd, he succeeded in getting her into this door and closed it after him.

"The troops will be here in a few moments. I have seen them at this work before. They will enter every house near the barricade to search for communists." Then, noticing that they were in the laundry of the house in which they had taken refuge, he ran to one of the tubs and, pulling up his sleeves, began to wash his hands, calling on Louise to do the same. He used soap plentifully and removed all trace of dirt. When Louise had finished her ablutions the man looked her over and saw that she had but little dust on her dress, which seemed to please him. His own shirt cuffs were dirty, and he rolled them up under his coat sleeves. They had no sooner got the dirt off their hands and, so far as they could off their clothes when the door was thrown open and several soldiers hurried in. One of them seized Louise and another her companion and dragged them into the street, where they were placed with other prisoners who had been and were being arrested.

When the officer in command of the troops was satisfied that all communists who had been working on the barricade and who had taken refuge in the houses near by had so far as possible been collected he placed them in the center of the column and gave the order to march.

Half an hour later Louise found herself in a yard surrounded by a high wall. The prisoners were directed to stand against the wall with their faces to it. Then an officer cried out:

"Hold up your hands!"

Every hand went up, and the officer passed down the line, selecting those whose hands were clean and directing them to stand aside in a group by themselves. Louise and the young man who had warned her to wash her hands were among this number. When all those with clean hands had been selected they were marched out of the inclosure and liberated. As they were leaving they heard a volley fired inside the walls and knew that those unfortunates with soiled hands had been shot to death.

As Louise and her friend walked away she knew that had it not been for him she would have been among those who had just been executed. He saw her to her home, where she found her mother in an agony of terror concerning her.

The man who had saved Louise Desmouliers was a young artist.

Engineer's Mishap.

A painful and somewhat sensational adventure befell Mr. Boyd, an engineer, of Didsbury, Manchester, the other Sunday, while he was exploring a "pot-hole" in the limestone district near Ingleborough. He was climbing by means of a rope from the subterranean chamber, when the rope broke, and he fell thirty feet, breaking his thigh. A local doctor spent the night with him, and did what he could to relieve him, and his friends strapped him to a plank, hoisted him a hundred feet to the roof of the cave, then carried him a quarter of a mile through a tortuous passage to the outer world, the task occupying fifteen hours. It was not till four o'clock on the Monday afternoon that Mr. Boyd was safely deposited at the nearest inn.

Hears Own Death Announced.

To be informed that they were dead would shock most people, and it made a Tipperary man lose his temper. At a meeting of Thurles Urban Council a letter was read stating that one of the members, Mr. John Bolton,—who, as a matter of fact was present at the meeting—had been killed in his motor car while attending the demonstrations in connection with the reinterment of the brothers McCormick at Nevagh. The councillors treated the matter as a joke, and laughed heartily. But Mr. Bolton objected to being declared a corpse and made a laughing-stock of. Hot words followed, and he angrily snatched the letter which had been read from the official's hands, and tore it into fragments.

Owned the Isle of Man.

It is not generally known that the Earls of Derby were at one time practically sovereigns of the Isle of Man. They held the island from the crown on the condition of an annual payment of two falcons. But in 1775, on the death of the tenth earl, the lordship of Man devolved on the second Duke of Atholl, whose successor sold it to the British Government for $350,-000.

HEADACHES ALMOST DROVE HER WILD

Until A Neighbor Advised Her To Use "Fruit-a-tives"

NEWBURY, ONT., May 29th. 1913.

"About four years ago, I was in a dreadful run-down condition, weak and hardly able to walk up stairs. Weakness peculiar to women was the chief trouble. I had Headaches that almost drove me wild, and most distressing constipation. I took many dollars' worth of medicine from the doctors without any good results.

A neighbor advised me to take "Fruit-a-tives" and they proved to be the best medicine I ever got and the only medicine to do me any good. Today, I feel as a young girl, and am able to go about my household duties as usual. My health is splendid and "Fruit-a-tives" is the cause of it". MRS. WM. CRIM.

ADVERTISING

A STORE'S importance is rightly judged by its advertising. Not altogether by the size of the advertisement, but by size and tone, and quality of announcement.

What the store has to say is one thing. Quite as important is how it says it.

Given that the clerical force is competent and up-to-date, it will say, over the counter, the very best to be said in reference to the goods enquired for. It may, and should, suggest other goods, not in the customers view.

This implies that the customer is in the store. But what brings him or her there? The wish to buy and the belief it is a good place to buy at.

How is this learned of?

By advertising. The advertisement is a message, an intelligent middleman, doing service between seller and buyer. The space talks to thousands, even while the store is closed for the night.

Use The REVIEW and tell the story of your store and its opportunities for good service.

HUMOR
"A man's intellect and his moral nature can be measured by the things he laughs at."—Page 2.

THE DAILY REVIEW

Wednesday: Fresh west to north winds, some light local snow falls and flurries, but mostly fair, much colder tonight and on Thursday.

ESTABLISHED 1879. PETERBOROUGH, ONT., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1914. PRICE 2 CENTS

BOOSTER PERIOD SLIPPING AWAY DAILY, AND ONLY TEN MORE DAYS REMAIN

The Largest Period of The Entire Contest is Fast Drawing to a Close

But a short time remains between now and Feb. 14. The winners of the automobile will put forth their best efforts to secure all the subscriptions in their power until Feb. 14. while the largest vote offer remains. Just think of it. Only ten days of the largest vote offer remain.. During those ten days you can make your efforts count more than one hundred dollars a day in automobile value.

Set Your Aim

It is said life is what we make it. So in the contest, if you make up your mind you are going to win an automobile, half of the battle is over. Your friends will rally to your support and in a short time you will realise you have formed an endless chain of workers who will glory in seeing you carry off the highest prize of the contest. The number of friends you enlist will depend entirely upon the amount of confidence you place in yourself. If you tell them you will be satisfied with a gold watch, their support will be of the gold watch standard. So you see life is what we make it.

You Can Win

You can win and will win the auto if you possess the determination and this big proposition the necessary effort. Ask any person who ever won a prize how it was accomplished and the answer will be: "I got out and hustled." Ask any prosperous business man to what he owes his success and the answer will be the same.

You will run across reverses. Remember at all times that other candidates are up against the same proposition. Disappointments are in store for all. This is a matter of competition in which it is not necessary to secure a certain number of votes. All that is necessary is to have one vote more than your competitor. The person to win the automobile will not be a person of timid personality. The auto will be won by the person who does not listen to rumors, but keeps after things with an effort. Persons who try to discourage have an object in doing so. Primarily it is to crawl away from giving a subscription. Don't listen to the knockers; they are the menace to ambition and self confidence. Work now as you have never worked before, as one subscription now equals five at the last part of the contest. Why delay? When you can own an auto for a little of your effort.

HEALTH SUPERVISOR REPORTS ON HER WORK IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

64 Out of 170 Pupils in Need of Medical Attention—Thirty Homes Visited and Six Schools Inspected

That the appointment of a Health Supervisor was in the interests of the Public School pupils, was demonstrated beyond a doubt by the first report of Miss Kennedy, Health Supervisor, which was read at the Board of Education meeting last evening.

The report showed that sixty-four out of one hundred and seventy-six pupils were in need of medical aid. Six of these were excluded temporarily, and thirty homes were visited. The number of schools inspected was six. In the majority of the homes she was treated with courtesy and her advice kindly received. The report covers one week.

The south room window of the South Ward school was reported on and the Board was also advised to have a slate board installed as the present one interferes with the scholars seeing their work plainly.

Miss King's resignation from the Public School staff was received and accepted by the Board. Missa Kennedy leaves at Easter.

Mr. J. W. Firth's resignation from the Collegiate staff, was also received.

A communication from Major G. H. Gillespie, Kingston, regarding the annual course of Physical Training for teachers, which commences on March 3rd, continuing for three weeks, was referred to the Supervision Committee.

Mr. Ritchie's letter conveying his thanks to the Board for his re-election to the Public Library Board, was received.

It was decided that the Committee on Appointments appoint successors to Miss King and Mr. Firth.

They Had the Mumps

In submitting his monthly attendance report, Inspector Mowat referred to the prevalence of mumps among the schools which resulted in the slight decrease in attendance.

Committee on Appointments

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education.

Gentlemen:

Regarding the matter of the form of Teachers' Contract, your committee, after a very full consideration, recommend that Clause "6" be amended to read as follows:

"That the Board of Education and the teacher may, at their option, respectively terminate this engagement prior to or subsequent to the expiration of said year, by giving notice in writing to the other of them at least two calendar months previously, but so that such engagement may terminate on the last day of December or August.

That clauses 8 and 9 be eliminated and that the following clause be embodied therein.

8. "Said salary may be increased from year to year, according to the schedule adopted by the Board from time to time."

9. "This agreement shall also be construed to continue in force from year to year unless and until it is terminated by the notice hereinbefore prescribed."

That the secretary be instructed to have new forms printed and a copy forwarded to the Principal of the Collegiate Institute and the Inspector of Public Schools advising them that all the members of the staff will be required to sign the same on or before the 30th of June next.

Respectfully submitted,

W. H. Hill,
Chairman.

SILVERWARE THEFT

Darcy Dunlop is Given Suspended Sentence at Police Court.

Darcy Dunlop, charged with theft of two silver spoons from the Montgomery House, was found guilty by Magistrate Dumble this morning and allowed out on suspended sentence. G. N. Gordon defended the accused, who claimed that he was drunk and therefore did not know what he was doing. Evidence by the proprietors of the hotel was to the effect that they had missed considerable silverware and that Darcy was suspected of the theft. Darcy was arrested by Constables Hayward and Reid and the two stolen spoons were found in his possession.

CONCESSIONS FOR ULSTER

Canadian Press Despatch.

GLASGOW, Feb. 4.—The Glasgow Herald says the Prime Minister will state on the re-assembling of Parliament, that concessions of a most sweeping description are to be made to Ulster in connection with the introduction of Home Rule. The concessions will cover practically everything, short of the exclusion of Ulster from the provisions of the Home Rule measure.

HORSES KILLED

BANCROFT NOT COMING

A telegram received late this afternoon stated that Mr. Fred Bancroft was unable to come to Peterboro. As a result the meeting in the Trades and Labor Hall announced for tonight, is postponed.

UNIFORM RULE FOR MUMPS

Some Children Attend School While Others Are Prevented

A matter of interest to the parents was discussed by the Board of Education last night.

There has been more or less comment when some children have been permitted to attend school when other members of the family were affected with the mumps. In other cases all the children have been ordered not to attend school until after four weeks.

The trouble appears to be that the two acts conflict to some extent.

Dr. McPherson, the Medical Health Officer, does not allow any of the children to attend school until after four weeks. Other physicians allow the children who are well, to attend school without interruption.

The Board has decided that the Health Supervisor will take this question up with the Medical Health Officer, with the object of securing a uniform rule for all cases.

Science Teacher Resigns

The resignation of Mr. Firth, as science teacher at the Collegiate Institute, illustrated a point which the deputation from the Board of Education placed before the council. Mr. Firth has been with the Collegiate for three years. Now he is offered a position at London, at an increase in salary. Other teachers who have resigned local positions to go to other cities, include Messrs. Hodgson, Merrett, Ferguson. These teachers have in every case secured an increase in salary.

Health Supervisor

The report of the Health Supervisor will be found in another column. The Board is convinced that the appointment was not made in vain and that the results will be such as to also convince the parents. Miss Kennedy has had experience in Hamilton where three supervisors are engaged. When this work started in Hamilton three children were sent home. They were found to be the children of a physician. He lost no time in giving attention to their case.

Teacher's Contracts

The teachers have the right to send in resignations either at the end of June or the end of December. If this notice be not given, they must abide by the terms of contract.

PARCEL POST SYSTEM TO START HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Mr. W. Lytle Contracts for the Delivery of all Parcels

Postmaster Jas. Edgar has received official notice to inaugurate the Parcel Post system in the Peterboro Post Office next Tuesday, Feb. 11th. The parcel post rates will be in some cases materially lower than the express rates on parcels. The department has worked out the Canadian rates with regard to Canadian conditions with the result that the schedule is at some points lower and at other points higher than in the United States.

The local zone is expected to be of consiberable benefit to merchants in small centres, who will thus have the advantage of posting at a lower rate than paid by the large stores of the big cities beyond the twenty-mile area.

Limit of 11 Pounds

Eleven pounds is the weight limit under the new system.

After the first four pounds the rate increases two cents per pound. For the first three months, namely February, March and April, the limit will be six pounds, and there will be no insurance although the sender may have a parcel registered similar to a letter for an additional five cent stamp. For all parcels which are sent from one party to another, both being in this city, an additional fee of five cents will be charged. After the first three months parcels may be insured at a rate of 5 cents for $25, and 10 cents for $50.

The Express Companies charge a minimum rate of 25 cents per pound for a radius of 20 miles, but they call for and deliver all parcels, as well as insure their safe arrival at destination. They insure a parcel to the extent of $50, free and upwards at that figure have corresponding rates.

Mr. Edgar stated that the local staff would be increased by two men. Arrangements have been made with Mr. W. Lytle to supply the horses and two conveyances with which to deliver the parcels.

THE POLICE ARE INVESTIGATING

Strange Tale Told by Alfred Kimberly is Puzzling

Nothing startling was brought to light today in connection with the story of Alfred Kimberly, the self-confessed murderer. He has not made any further statements.

Noel Morraity, an employee of the Brinton Carpet Company, in the south end of the city, when seen by a Review reporter, said that he had lived in the Old Country in the same town as the prisoner, and had often played football against him. He remembered distinctly the big sensation the affair caused, and also the trial of the alleged murdered who escaped hanging by the "skin of his teeth." The man's name was Fisher, while the murdered woman was known as Mary Swinebourne, who was a peddlar.

He, himself had passed the spot in company with a few others, a short time before the murder was supposed to have taken place. At the time of the murder Kimberly did not divulge anything in connection with the affair. He worked just across the street from the police court, and could easily have had communication with the police if he had wanted to.

When the inquest and other minor details of the affair were cleared up, Kimberly left the Old Country and came to Canada. He worked for a time in the summer but when some of his old friends from Kidderminster came here, he went to Toronto. Mr. Morraity was born on the same street as the prisoner, and lived three doors from him the greater part of his residence in the Old Country.

Mr. Morraity, with the story of the murder fresh in his memory, is of the opinion that Kimberly might have something more to do with it than is realized, and therefore it has been such a burden to him that he had to confess to ease his mind of the terrible affair The prisoner will be examined by local medical men as to his sanity. The local authorities are also in communication with the Old Country police. Developments in the affair are expected before long.

In connection with this case, Mr. C. Robinson, of Gladstone avenue, wishes to state that he is not morally associated with Kimberley. Mr. Robinson is an abstainer, whose choracter will bear the strictest investigation both in England and in Canada and his parents are highly respected in Kidderminster, England. Of course, living on the same street as Kimberley, he knew him quite well. Mr. Robinson says he is not 30 years of age.

AT YOUR SERVICE.

Two well-known gentlemen, Messrs. C. H. Patterson and G. S. Hogg, will open the Dominion Employment Bureau and Messenger Service at 174 1-2 Charlotte street, on Saturday,

A Whirlwind Speech at Knox Church on Social Conditions—Carnegie Libraries and Shorter Hours of Labour—From Soap-box to Chief Controller

Controller James Simpson of Toronto, was the speaker at the first of a series of week-night services that have been arranged to be held at Knox Church.

There was a good attendance of working men last evening, and the service was varied with selections of music by the choir.

Rev. H. J. Keith, pastor, in introducing the speaker, said that Mr. Simpson had done a good work in Toronto, and had been promoted to one of the highest positions in that city, being returned at the head of the poll, as Controller.

Mr. Simpson is a very voluble speaker. He is not nervous or diffident, he is conscious of his own gift of free utterance and pours out his ideas in torrential floods of eloquence. It was impossible to take down the speech. He admitted to a Review representative that he was the despair of the fastest stenographer, many reporters having tried in vain to take him down in shorthand.

It will explain much by stating that Mr. Simpson is an avowed Socialist, and many of his ideas are familiar with those who have followed the labor movement. His subject was "The Church and the Labor Movement." He said that there were those who looked upon the Church as out of sympathy with the labor movement, and others in the Church who looked upon the labor movement as out of sympathy with the Church. He wanted to bring home to them that these two great institutions ought to work together.

Knowledge and Responsibility

We were living at the beginning of the 20th century with all its knowledge and advantages and we had a great responsibility. We stood in the midst of all the magnificent contributions that science had made to the human race. The speaker surveyed, very graphically, the activities of the various sciences. Coming to the science of biology, he spoke of the struggle for existance in the lower forms of life. How that the lower animals were often victims of environment. But, said the speaker, man has it in his power to change his environment. The science of socialogy teaches us how we should live so that it is possible to develop the best and highest in life.

He believed the object of the labor movement was to bring more sunshine into the homes of the people, and to make the conditions of life such as that hatred and vice would be eliminated and the people would have an opportunity to develop those qualities of love, affection, benevolence and brotherhood which was the teaching of Christianity.

The chief objects of the labor movement were to secure old-age pensions, workmen's compensation, sick and death benefits, and to shorten the hours of labor.

Labor and Libraries

The speaker said that if it had not been for the labor movement, Mr. Carnegie's gifts of libraries would have been useless, for workingmen would not have had the time to spend in those places if they had not secured shorter hours of labor.

Speaking of wealth, he asked if the accumulation of wealth was the finality of all human effort so far as industry was concerned? Mr. Simpson then gave a whirlwind and magnificent description of the great resources of the Dominion of Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific. We boast of our riches, said the speaker, and yet the average wage of the working man of this country is not more than $418 a year, and the women only $140 a year. It had been computed that a decent living wage for a working man in Toronto was $925.

Mr. Simpson said that the working class were largely responsible for their conditions as they had not studied their own environments, and realized the power they had that would enable them to raise themselves.

Cost of Living

He also referred to the cost of living and said that while wages had increased by the action of the labor movement, the purchasing power of the dollar had decreased by the rise in the cost of living, and the working man had thus been robbed of his advantages.

He said that the Church cannot stand aloof from these questions, and the time was coming when the church would have to answer the question whether it was morally right for one man to exploit a man's labor and make him a slave in order to make himself rich.

Speaking of slums, Mr. Simpson gave a vivid picture of the squalor and degredation that existed in the slums of the large cities in Great Britain—Manchester, Liverpool, London, and especially in Glasgow. He said that Canada today was giving more attention to the proper raising of hogs than to the development of the highest type of human being. Humanitarianism should come before the industrial and economic development of a nation.

If the world is going to be made more like the Kingdom of God, there would have to be many radical changes i nthe social and economical conditions of life. The Churches were coming closer and closer to the labor movement. Parliament was concerning itself about the welfare of the masses and he believed we were at the dawn of a better day.

From Soap Box to Pulpits

He told of how he began his public life in Toronto, speaking at the corners from a soap box, and that today the pulpits were open to him, and he had come out of the last municipal election at the top of the poll without the sacrifice of one principle.

Mr. Hartley moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, and said he was pleased to know that Mr. Simpson was a working man, and stood up for the rights of the working class.

Mr. D. Moore seconded and said that he had watched the progress of Mr. Simpson in Toronto with much interest, and thanked Rev. Mr. Keith for being the means of bringing the speaker to Peterboro, to give such an inspiring address. He hoped the words of the speaker would have a wide-spread influence upon the working men of the city.

CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH SOME CHILDREN SLEEP

Over Crowding in Houses Reported by Sanitary Inspector

Overcrowding in houses in Peterborough is acute, according to information received to-day from Sanitary Inspector Spence. When questioned by The Review, he stated that only yesterday, he had met with cases of overcrowding, which was very detrimental to the health of the inmates of the houses.

A recent survey of the city showed a considerable number of overcrowded houses, especially among the poor and foreigners. Families as large as nine and ten members live in one or two rooms, while the younger children are forced to sleep in bedroom closets and dark interiors without proper ventilation.

Mr. Spence has previously pointed out that there are a large number of houses in the city which should be condemned, owing to their insanitary conditions.

Taken on the whole, the sanitary conditions are better but there are some people who apparently do not care and they are causing considerable trouble.

The instance of yesterday which Mr. Spence relates is that two families are living in what is practically a chicken coop. The children are sleeping in a clothes closet, which is hardly sufficent to contain a bed. The air is damp and unfit for a child to sleep in.

The owners of these houses have been notified and unless something is done in connection with the matter police court cases will follow.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 4,1914.

IMPERIAL PRESS GATHERING.

FROM THE MONTHLY CIRCULAR issued by the Empire Press Union, we notice a good deal of attention is being paid to the proposed Imperial press conference in Canada, which is being quite actively developed. A list of the general committee is published in the Circular and it is added that "the Dominion and Provincial Governments will give their sympathy and support"—financially, no doubt, it is anticipated; also that the names on the committee represent "all the important towns in Canada." This may be so, but we do not think it is. While such insignificant places as Simcoe and Stratford have their representatives on the committee, such places as Peterborough, Brantford, Hamilton, London, St. Catharines and other hives of industry are overlooked. Toronto—true to its past record, has no less that six members on the committee. The hosts of the Imperial Pressmen should be representative of the "real" newspaper men of the different provinces, especially if government aid is to be sought, for we understand it will require from eighty to one hundred thousand dollars for the entertainment of the British visitor. It will be a notable gathering and should not be manipulated for anyone's glorification or for the bolstering up of any political party or to the detriment of any place. The Canadian Press Association, no doubt, will see the necessity of changing some of the arrangements already made if the gathering is to be the success it should be, and that the Press of Canada be properly represented, relative to its provincial and local importance.

REAL ESTATE.

THERE IS SOME FEAR among real estate men that the recent criticisms which have been indulged in, both in Canada and in Great Britain, in regard to bogus land booms, is going to have a bad effect upon their business. It is true that these criticisms have not tended to increase their business of late; but the criticisms have come chiefly from people who have been bitten by bad speculation and they have a right to say something on the subject. Mr. Walker, president of the Band of Commerce, speaking of the collapse of real estate speculation says:—

"The stringent money conditions which have prevailed in Canada, as well as in other countries, effectively checked the speculation in real estate, and it is hoped that it will be a long time before we are again troubled with a condition in which outside properties are sold at inflated values. The collapse in real estate speculation has served to confirm the views we expressed a year ago. Residential property of a good class is unaffected, and central business properties in the larger cities have been shown to be strongly held by bona fide investors, and no marked shrinkage in values is apparent. In Winnipeg for example, the bargain hunter has had no opportunity to acquire a foot of property in the best business blocks in Main street or Portage avenues. The losses on inflated outside properties—which will doubtless be severe before the readjustment of values is completed—will fall almost wholly on professional real estate operators and innumerable small speculators. The prosperity of the purely commercial classes, apart from the dealers in luxuries, will be indirectly affected only in a moderate degree; while, as to the banks and mortgage lenders, the collapse in speculative property values has been long looked for by them, and is welcomed as remedying a situation which was doing the country great harm. The falling off, however, in the flow, from abroad, of money for investment in mortgage loans—due more to money stringency abroad than to conditions here—has been a seriously adverse factor, and has prevented the undertaking of many building operations fully warranted by the legitimate development of the country. Doubtless an improvement in European money conditions will before long have the effect of remedying this condition, when building operations must be largely increased."

Bona fide real estate men need have no fear for the future, it is only the sharpers who will go down in the end. All estate of real value, whether east or west, will come up to par when the clouds of stringency have dispersed.

WIT AND HUMOR.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY has been complaining of Canadian lack of responsiveness, in the way of laughter. It would appear that most Englishmen remark this characteristic in Canadian audiences, that they do not instantly appreciate English humor. The reason for this apparent dullness is the adoption of American standards by Canadians as to what constitutes a joke.

Anything subtle, obscurely ironical or sarcastic is lost upon the average American. A joke must hit him full in the face or he does not see it. This is evident from the comic pictures that appear daily in the newspapers, most of which come from America. If the artist wants to depict a man tripping on an orange peel he will draw him standing upon his head and describe a circle from the peel on the ground to his feet in the air, so as to indicate to the dull reader the exact orbit described by the flying feet. In these funny pictures, if the artist is depicting a fight, one punch is sufficient to raise a black-eye immediately. Surprise is shown by the hair standing on end and the hat shooting upward. Perplexity is indicated by a mark of interrogation rising from the top of the head. The direction of a person's gaze is described by a dotted line from the eye of the gazer to the thing gazed at. The same thing is seen in the way the artist attaches utterances to the mouth of each figure in the picture.

The only thing that can be said about this kind of humor is that it is very primitive. It leaves no play for the imagination, it is comic without being either witty or humorous. It is the "tall thin man and little fat man" humor of the pantomine. It is too obvious, too blatant and often sinks into vulgarity or rank idiocy. The effect upon the rising generation is to make them dull-witted and incapable of a full appreciation of rich humor and subtle wit. Every story must be a "tall" one to fetch an Amreican and Canadians have been too servile in their imitation of the Yankee.

A man's intellect and his moral nature can be measured by the things he laughs at. There are jokes that are good, clean and witty. There is nothing so exhilarating as a good, hearty laugh. But there are other kinds of jokes which are too common among men of smart intelligence, but of low moral tone. This debased humor is not confined to America or Canada, it is prevalent in most countries,—like other diseases.

Our educationalists might well enter into the consiredation of the question or humor in regard to the training of our boys. A special lesson upon clean wit and humor would do as much good as one on hygiene, it would give our youth a taste of something better than the stuff that comes over the line and passed off as humor.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER has been mentioned as a successor to Lord Strathcona as High Commissioner. It is an interesting suggestion, but who have the Liberals got to fill his place? At the same time this may be the only chance for the ex-Premier to get into an office of influence. He will never be Premier again.

THERE IS SOME trouble among newspapers and their spelling of "Sanitorium." Some people hold that it should be spelt "Sanitarium," while others insist that Sanitarium should be spelt Sanitorium. It might simplify matters if some one would tell us when a sanitorium is a sanitarium, or vice versa—ad infinitum!

"YOU CANADIANS are a great people," said Mr. Taft in Toronto. Some nations are born great, others have greatness heaped upon them. The weight of our importance is getting a little unbearable. Will nobody have the candour to tell us that we are a conceited lot of spoon-fed whipper snappers?

THE TWEED NEWS takes up the strain of regret that audiences are generally very irreverent during the playing of the National Anthem at the close of meetings or performances. Most people sing "God Save the King" with an arm in their overcoat sleeve, or fishing under the seat for a hat and umbrella. But Canadians are not the only sinners in this respect. Theatre-goers in England regard the National Anthem as a sign for a stampede to the door, and the final strains of the petition for the King often echo through an empty house. No one doubts the patriotism of the Britisher, when the occasion arises he always rises to it and lets his sentiments go, singing with heart and voice :

"GOD SAVE THE KING!"

After Thirty-one Years.

Westminster Gazette.

The recently published Salvation Army Year-Book, to which we have already called attention, makes mention of many striking facts. Here is one. Thirty-one years ago the first party of Salvationists, with the then Major Tucker as leader, landed in Bombay. They were ridiculed and persecuted, and their leader received sentence of a month in gaol. A striking evidence of the change in opinion is shown by the List of Honours on the King's Birthday (1913), in which the Order of the Kaiser-i-Hind was conferred on Commissioner Booth-Tucker, "for public service in India." To-day, Government officials, from the Viceroy and Governors of Provinces downwards, as well as all classes of Indians, regard The Army with respect and confidence.

The Point of View.

American Lumberman.

I am a Nature lover—I
Admire the storm and wintry sky;
I love to hear the northwind roar
And blow the snow and roar some more;
I love to hear its mighty laughter
That rocks the house and shakes the rafter;
I think that there is nothing greater—
When I'm beside a radiator.

I love to hear the rain come down
And soak the woods and flood the town;
I love to hear the raindrops pour
And hear the rolling thunder roar;
I love to see the water sweep
Along the high-way ankle deep,
Until the road's a river wide—
I love the rain—when I'm inside.

I cherish honest poverty,
The humble workman's life of glee;
I love the poor man's simple fare,
The modest clothes he has to wear;
I often tell him he should praise
His poverty through all his days,
Be glad he has no pile of pelf—
When I have lots of cash myself.

CRITICISM

By Walt Mason

We're all so quick to criticise, and show where things are wrong ! If some one makes a batch of pies, or sings a soulful song, "the pies are pretty fierce," we say, "the song is on the blink;" it is our cheerful little way; it's graceful—I don't think. The housewife works about a week to tidy up the flat; then hubby comes and starts to shriek: "Where have you hid my hat?" The windows have been nicely washed, the rugs are bright and clean; around the kitchen wife has sloshed with soap and gasoline. The husband doesn't notice that, but glares upon his frau; he cannot find his darned old hat, and so kicks up a row. "You ought to have some system, Jane," he says, "you should, by jings; it always gives my leg a pain to hunt for missing things. When mother lived—" so he declares, and talks for forty miles, and Jane sits on the cellar stairs and weeps in thirteen styles. Why not improve our carping ways, and cause less sighs and tears? Why not look round for things to praise, say once in seven years?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE CHURCH AND SOCIALISM

To the Editor of The Review.

Sir,—As one of those privileged to be present at Knox Church last evening to hear the splendid address of James Simpson, on the subject of "The Church and the Working Man," I wish to express my appreciation of the services of the pastor of that Church, Rev. H. J. Keith, on behalf of the labor movement. It was explained last evening that this was the first of a series of addresses to be given as illustrating the attitude of the Christian Church in regard to the conditions that exist in the world today—of extreme poverty on the one hand, and immense wealth on the other. Though the audience who listened to the stirring address of Mr. Simpson was a good one in which a large representation of the workingmen of the city was present, the wonder is that the church was not packed to overflowing when one thinks of the need of a serious consideration of things as they are with a view to their betterment. To one actively interested in what is known as the labor movement, the meeting of last evening, together with the courageous stand taken by many of the churches recently on this question, it is more than gratifying to know that the church appreciates the need of emphasising this phase of Christ's teaching, for I take it, that much of what Controller Simpson said last evening, had good foundation in the teachings of the Great Head of the Church Himself, in the relations as taught by Him between "me and my neighbor."

No word comes to us today of all He said that makes the possession of great wealth seem desirable or right, while there are hungry to be fed, or naked to be clothed. A millionaire manufacturer is going to make five dollars a day the minimum wage among the many employed in his great works. Carnegie is using much of his surplus wealth in establishing libraries. These are good deeds and show a hopeful hearkening to the voices of the struggling masses. The demands of socialism have not yet reached to command of Him who during His work on earth, said "Go sell what soever thou hast and give to the poor."

IT WAS OUR TREAT.

To the Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir,—The committee who had in hand the arrangement of the W. O.W. Basket Social, at a meeting held the 2nd inst., passed a unanimous vote to the newspapers of the city showing their appreciation for the free advertising given them for the above social, which helped to keep the sum received intact and which allowed us more money with which to aid the unemployed.

On their behalf I extend your paper most hearty thanks.

Yours truly,
Jos. W. Worth,
Secretary.

Bumptious Cecil.

Cecil Rhodes' masterfulness and sense of importance met with little opposition as a rule, but a little German clerk in the Transvaal Government offices at Johannesburg before the war once taught him a lesson.

"Please attend to me at once," thundered the Colossus, "I can't wait."

"When your turn comes, mister," replied the clerk.

"Confound you, man! don't you know who I am?" asked Rhodes.

"Oh, yes, I know you; but don't worry about me," was the clerk's unruffled reply.

"If you were in Cape Town I'd have you discharged at once!" roared the great man.

"Yes," said the clerk, very coolly "I've heard they discharge people in Cape Town for doing their duty. But this isn't Cape Town—this is a Republic."

Famous Writings Sold.

An excise paper in the handwriting of Robert Burns, with his signature, giving the amount of beer he guaged sold for $130 at Sotheby's, and a collection of letters relating to him some with his autograph, sold for $1,100.

Fifty checks drawn on Coutts Bank by Charles Dickens brought $105, and five autograph letters written to Leigh Hunt by Mary Shelley, second wife of the author, sold for $275. Nineteen letters of the Duke of Marlborough to George III., went for $600, and 23 letters of Alexander Pope to his publisher and others fetched $825.

Birthdays of Note

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY FOURTH

The Hon. Thomas Taylor, minister of public works and railways for British Columbia, and one of Sir Richard McBride's strongest supporters, is forty-nine to-day. He comes from the East, like the great majority of the leading men of the West, and is a native of London, Ontario. He set out as a youth to become a lawyer but never completed his course. When the North West Rebellion broke out, he volunteered and went as far as Winnipeg, where he settled down and entered mercantile life. Three years later he pushed on to British Columbia and took up his residence in the mining town of Lardo, where he conducted a general store for ten years. He then removed to Revelstoke, continuing his business there. He has been a member of the Legislature since 1900.

Everybody Has a Day.

Two little girls were exchanging confidences.

"When I get to be a big lady," said one of them, "I'm going to have a day."

"What kind of a day?" asked the second.

"Why, don't you know? All sosiety ladies has days. It's when you have company or do somethin' nice. Mamma's day is Wednesday, an' the hired girl's day is Thursday. The Lord's day is Sunday."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Buying Browning Letters.

Browning lovers have succeeded in raising $15,000 toward the purchase of the Browning love letters, which it is hoped will be acquired for the British nation.

There was a great outcry last May when the letters were sold at public auction and fell into the hands of a London dealer for about $32,000. He was finally moved to propose ceding them to a public institution at a ten per cent advance on the price he paid. It is an attempt to meet his terms which has brought thus far the subscription of about half of the needed funds.

The case recalls the recent outcry of the sale of the Burns manuscripts, which are now being returned to Scotland as a gift from the purchaser.

Doing it now is the root of success.

TO REDRESS GRIEVANCE.

Iniquitous St. Peter's Reserve Land Deal To Be Voided.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—The Government has decided that the surrender of the St. Peter's Indian reserve in Manitoba should be annulled, and instructions were sent yesterday to F. G. Taylor, K.C., of Portage la Prairie, and C. P. Fullerton, K.C., of Winnipeg, agents of the Justice Department, to take action in the courts to set aside the surrender. The case, which will be threshed out in the Manitoba courts involves the large sum of two and a half million dollars.

The action is the outcome of an inquiry instituted in 1909 by Geo. H. Bradbury, M.P. for Selkirk.

Mr. Bradbury took the ground that the surrender was illegal and would not stand the test of the courts.

The St. Peter's Indians petitioned the Manitoba Government asking restitution of their lands, and the Manitoba Government appointed a royal commission to investigate the conditions of surrender. A majority report sustained the position that the transfer was illegal.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—Baron Von Der Golts, a former lieutenant-commander of the German navy, yesterday was sentenced to serve three months in a fortress for subornation to espionage. He was acquitted of the charge of personally betraying military secrets.

The greatest secrecy surrounded the trial which began Monday, the authorities claiming that the safety of the state was involved. Even the accusation against the prisoner was not read in public.

The baron is a nephew of Field Marshal Baron Kolmar Von Der Golts, the famous Prussian general and Turkish pasha, and formerly acted as the Berlin representative of the Erhardt cannon works of Duesseldorf.

THE SELF SATISFIED WOMAN AND HER LONG SUFFERING PUBLIC

Dear Elsa—I have just been talking to one of the most self satisfied women it has ever been my misfortune to meet. This visitor of mine is so perfectly delighted with everything she does and says and has and is so sure of herself that one feels like giving her a good shake to get some of the smugness out of her system.

Always to feel contented with oneself must indeed be a pleasant sensation for the person concerned, but it surely is an affliction for the rest of mankind.

Now, dear, don't misunderstand me and jump to the conclusion that I consider all self assured people to be suffering from an enlargement of the cranium. But you will admit that this exaggerated complacency is a very common form of the diseased ego.

Not long ago I read somewhere that education would broaden a narrow mind, but there was no remedy for a swelled head. Certainly some philosopher said that. It sounds like one of Pudd'nhead Wilson's sage remarks, but possibly I read it on the calendar you sent me Christmas. How I do love the calendar that doles out wisdom by the day, just enough for one to digest well!

To come back to my text, the man who makes himself heard, whether one wants to listen to him or not, may be a bore, but none the less one admires in an irritated way his very persistence and his ability to gain one's attention. But we women don't feel the same tolerance for one of our own sex who "butts in" on every occasion, in and out of season. We dub her just plain rude or "nervy," and very often both epithets are used.

But I do think a certain amount of worldly assurance the best asset in this life. It makes a person more agreeable, more sought after and more appreciated. Any one who can act well his part in the give and take of social affairs is bound to be more popular than the shy, self effacing person. The beautiful, flowerlike, modest type "born to blush unseen"—where is she nowadays? Surely she's not in evidence in this most rushing of all rushing centuries.

But, talking of people, I saw a real person yesterday, Alfred Noyes, the English poet. My ideas of the physical appearance of a bard were all knocked in the head by this short haired, muscular, wholesome, outdoors looking young man who was as genuine and true in his outlook upon life as in appearance. And this is one of the reasons why his verse and personality are so popular in this country among young persons, especially men.

Margaret D.'s son, a senior at Yale, told me when he was home for the holidays that "Alfred Noyes and his poetry" was the theme for the prize essay in English this year at the university.

He—Alfred Noyes, I mean—reads exquisitely, and as I heard him talk about "Tennyson" he had a fine opportunity in the verse of this great master to exercise his talent. After he had recited "Crossing the Bar" there was hardly a dry eye in the room. But I must stop making such a noise about Alfred, otherwise you'll think me a bore.

Speaking of voices, how seldom one hears the sweet, low affair of fiction! The other day several women and myself were talking about a certain debutante who despite her lack of good looks was carrying all before her in the social world.

"What I like about her," said a man who joined us, "is her voice. It reminds me of the purring of a cat." His simile was correct. The girl's voice was very low pitched and came from the back of her throat in a soft, husky sound, and its fascination was undeniable.

I am going to be very learned and tell you what Rochefoucauld says about the voice: "There is more eloquence in the tones of the voice than in the choice of words." And I do think he proclaims a real truth.

A delightful story of a speaking voice was told to me recently, a voice that could not be bought for gold. It belonged to a hardworking little servant, a chambermaid in a great house, whose speaking voice was so wonderfully sweet as to provoke comment by all who heard her talk.

Her mistress particularly admired its quality and one day sent for the girl to come and speak to the teacher who was giving her daughter elocution lessons.

"There," she said, "I want you to teach my daughter to speak like that." "Alas, madam," the teacher responded sadly, "that is impossible. No man can teach that. Those are neither chest nor throat notes. They come from the heart."

Now, I am tiring you, Elsa, dear, in the most heartless manner with this twaddle, so goodby, ma cherie. Devotedly,

MABEL.

A Delicious Omelet.

The secret of an especially delicious omelet served in a certain home came to light the other day. More yolks than whites are used, and a little rich cream goes in when it is to be plain or is to be seasoned with cheese.

STAGE SWIMMER HURT.

Annette Kellerman Badly Cut When Glass Tank Breaks.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 4.—While giving a performance in the Bermuda aquarium yesterday afternoon, Annette Kellermann, the Australian swimmer, and Herbert Brennan sustained severe injuries owing to the bursting of a glass tank, containing eight thousand gallons of water.

In one of the scenes the pressure became too great and the glass front gave way with a crash. The tremendous rush of water sucked the occupants across the jagged edges of the glass. Miss Kellerman was badly lacerated on the left side, while Brennan was gashed seriously in the arms and legs.

Brennan was removed to a hospital and Miss Kellerman was taken to the hotel where she had been staying.

Three Hundred Killed.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Feb. 4.—Three hundred men of the rival revolutionary armies were killed in the hard fought battle reported in progress Monday at Gonaives, in which the adherents of Senator Davilmar Theodore were signally defeated by the followers of Gen. Orestes Zamor, formerly government delegate at Cape Haitian.

Zamor has proclaimed himself chief executive of the republic.

Woman Took Carbolic.

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 4.—Mrs. George Van Slack, who came here recently from British Columbia with her husband and two children, swallowed carbolic acid during the night and then awakened her husband and told him what she had done. She gave as a reason that their little savings were dwindling, and if she was out of the way there would be more left for the children. The woman was rushed to the hospital and may recover.

Pugsley [illegible] Take a Rest.

DANCING MODEL OF LACE FLOUNCES.

The puffed pannier of this dancing frock is rather extreme in style, but the costume is exceedingly girlish, dainty and new notwithstanding.

It is made of lace flounces, pink satin and rose flowered pompadour silk. Worn by a tall, slender girl, the costume is most attractive and distingue

Wedding Gown of White House Bride.

"What did the bride wear?" This question is asked every time a wedding takes place by curious persons, but now there are thousands of women the world over who have been interested in the bridal finery of Mrs. Francis B Sayre, who was Miss Jessie Wilson, second daughter of the president of the United States.

The wedding gown was of lustrous white satin softly draped and trimmed with real lace, the folds being held in place with clusters of orange blossoms. The bodice was embroidered in orange blossom design, which outlined the open neck and extended down the side of the skirt. The sleeves were also finished with the same design, from which fell a deep frill of lace.

The train was in court style, cut square. The full length veil was of tulle. The head arrangement was a Dutch cap effect, the same lace being used for the cap as that of draping the gown. This coiffure was sprayed with orange blossoms.

The five attendants' gowns were of pink charmeuse, blending harmoniously from deep rose to a pale pink. Two gowns were in the deepest shade and two in the lightest, the palest shade being worn by the maid of honor. These gowns had overdraperies of chiffon and tunics of silver lace. The high flaring Marie Antoinette collars were of a sheer cream lace, and the flowing sleeves were of the same dentelle. The hats worn with the gowns were of pink moire velvet and silver lace.

Mrs. Wilson's gown was of ecru brocaded velvet, with ecru lace and mink tail trimming, with touches of old blue and gold shimmering underneath the lace. The same tones were repeated in a corsage bouquet. The skirt was draped to one side of the front with a fall of lace extending to the bottom of the skirt and a long sash of lace at the neck outlined with mink tailed fur.

Household Conveniences.

True to the Biblical prototype, the modern housewife continues to consider well the ways of her household, and, above all, does she see to it that her kitchen is fitted out with all the convenient appliances that will make her work less burdensome. For instance, there is a tiny vacuum strainer which will take all the cream out of the top of a bottle of milk in a second. It is made of block tin, is easily kept clean and is reasonable in price. It will be welcome to the thrifty housewife who wants to make the daily quart go as far as possible.

The woman who has to carve will be glad to get the so called "leg of mutton" holders" now on the market. There never was a woman that didn't just hate to grasp that mutton bone with one hand while she carved with the other. This new contrivance is a small nickel plated pair of nippers which hold the joint firmly in place while the carving is being done.

They Like Occult Sciences.

Queen Alexandra and the princess royal are said to be interested in occult sciences and have taken to crystal gazing. Queen Alexandra owns the crystal which Napoleon carried with him everywhere, having bought it two years ago on the continent for a large sum. Both she and her daughter are said to have had interesting things "foretold" to them through the crystal.

To Look For Explorers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 4. — A relief expedition to search the Arctic seas for Lieut. Sedoff, the Russian explorer, who started for the North Pole from Archangel in August, 1912, is being organized by the Russian Government.

Lieut. Sedoff, who was said to be using polar bears as draught animals for his sledges, was reported to have been seen at Nova Zembla last October, but this was erroneous.

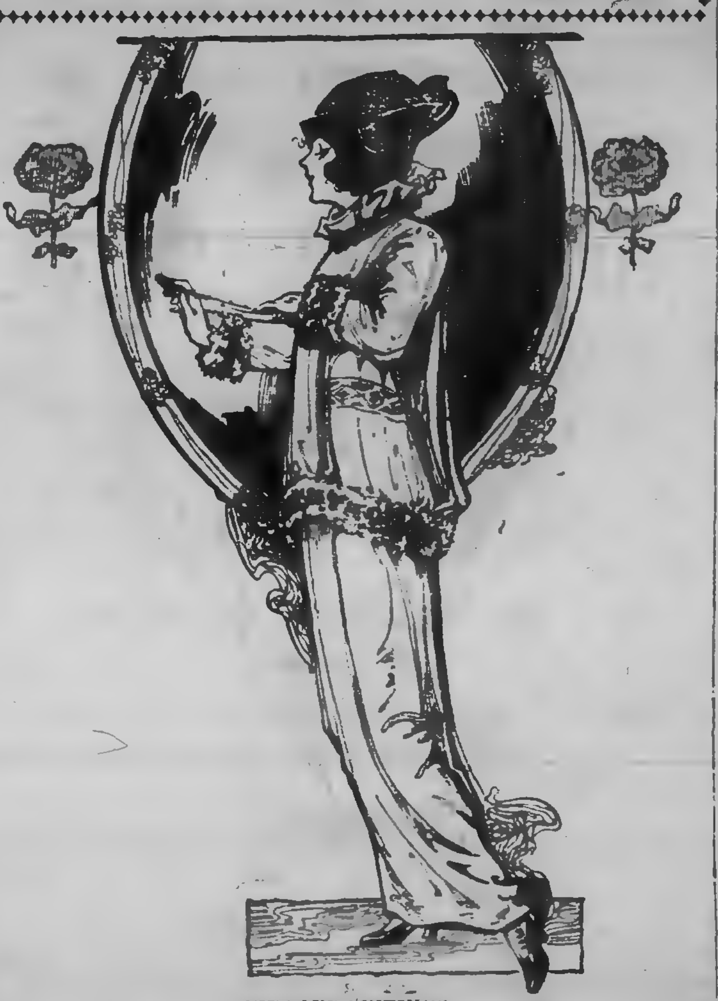
THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION



SUITS AND SUITINGS.

There is a new quality in the suitings that are in vogue at present, they must comply with the necessity of draping, yet at the same time be delightfully heavy. This late winter suit is developed in permo in a cinnamon brown tone, built in a semi-Russian blouse effect and touched with the bit of fur that will adhere to fashionable suits until late into the spring. The inevitable button boots that always accompany the fashionable costume and a hat in the brown tone perfect the toilette.

ABOLISHING DEMOCRACY.

Yuan Shi Kai Uses Mailed Fist on China's New Government.

PEKIN, Feb. 4.—All the district councils in the provinces of China were ordered to be dissolved in a Presidential mandate, issued yesterday by Yuan Shi Kai. This is regarded in authoritative circles here as another important step toward the suppression of popular government in China.

The final move in this direction, it is said, will be the dispersal of the provincial assemblies, a mandate for the dissolution of which is to be submitted to the administrative council in Pekin for the purpose of giving legal color to Yuan Shi Kai's dictatory action.

The administrative council which to approve Yuan Shi Kai's decree consists of two representatives from each province, four cabinet ministers, a representative official from each ministry and eight members of the Presidential secretariat. The council takes into consideration only those questions submitted to it by Yuain Shi Kai and the Government, and owing to its composition is said never to consider them but to take them as orders.

Miss Purser was already an honorary member of the Royal Hibernian Academy.

AYLMER, Feb. 4. — The recount asked for by local optionists of the recent bylaw vote took place here yesterday before Judge Colter of St. Thomas. The recount left the vote as it was at the time of the election. It has not been decided if the local optionists will carry the case further on other grounds, but should they do so the case will be heard at St. Thomas on Feb. 16.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, Feb. 4.—The Nicaraguan Congress yesterday approved the President's decree prolonging the state of siege for 60 days. A series of revival meetings will begin in Bethany Tabernacle on Thursday night of this week and will continue through Feb. 22nd:—Rev. L. J. Long, of Toronto, will be the speaker for the first four days followed by the Mountaineer Evangelist, Rev. Lucius B. Compton, of Ashville, N.C. Both Mr. Long and Mr. Compton are able evangelists, having had a very wide experience in this kind of work. Their messages will be found both interesting and inspiring.

Christians of all demoninations are invited to co-operate in what is expected to be a revival of unusual interest and importance. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

TROUBLE WILL BE AVOIDED

Discretion Finally Prevails In U. S. House Regarding Asiatics.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.— Asiatic exclusion agitation was quieted, temporarily at least, in the House yesterday after a heated debate that brought both Republican and Democratic leaders to the floor with pleas for calmness and deliberation. By overwhelming votes the House stripped from the immigration bill under consideration all amendments which would have placed a bar against Asiatic immigration.

The action was taken after Republican Leader Mann, Representative Sherley of Kentucky and other leaders had made a vigorous fight to overcome the sentiment which Monday night expressed itself by a vote of 111 to 90 in favor of the perfection of an amendment to exclude Mongolians, Malays and negroes. The speakers insisted that there should be no hasty action that might embarrass the State Department in its relations with the Japanese Government.

The House was in confusion, with half a dozen members vociferously demanding an opportunity to be heard, when the tide was turned by Republican Leader Mann, who strode to the centre of the chamber and, quieting the tumult, began in a low, grave voice:

"I have been long enough in this House, I hope, to place the country above party. I do not believe any of these amendments should be adopted at this time. Dealings with our foreign affairs is a matter of delicacy at best.

"I am not prepared to invite war with Japan or any other country; though if that war should come as the result of any legislation, I would not shrink from it."

Representative Mann concluded amid a tumult of applause. The debate continued, and when votes were forced the amendments were decisively defeated.

DR. SYMONDS IN FAVOR OF POLICE WOMAN

Dr. Symonds, vicar of Christ Cathedral, Montreal, who was in the city last evening, when asked by members of the local Council of Women what he thought of police women, stated "I am greatly in favor of police women. It will not be ten years before we will wonder why we did not have them before. I think it would be an excellent thing to have a police woman in Peterboro.

MARTIN HARVEY'S VIEWS OF CANADIAN AUDIENCES

Lack of Responsiveness But Not of Appreciation—Believes Good Drama is Educative and Elevating.

Mr. Martin Harvey, the English actor, arrived with his company in Peterborough this morning from Brockville, to fulfil their engagement at the Grand Opera House to-day and to-morrow.

A Review representative had the pleasure of a long conversation with the celebrated actor, who received the scribe very cordially. Mr. Harvey spoke in a gentlemanly way of Canadians and of his impressions of Canada and Canadian life. Misconceptions are abroad as to something which Mr. Harvey said in regard to the responsiveness of Canadian audiences. Mr. Harvey wishes it to be understood that he was not speaking dogmatically, and that what he said only applied to Ottawa. He said that he had no more right to express a definite opinion of Canadian audiences generally than a man had to write a book on Canadian life who had only taken one trip across the continent. He had only just arrived and so far he had enjoyed his trip.

He said that while there was an apparent lack of appreciation during the progress of the play, all Canadian audiences generally made up for it at the end when they let themselves go in great applause. He thought that when Canadians became more acquainted with English standards and Englishmen got into closer touch with Canadian life and understood their conditions and temperament they would possibly do each other some good.

Mr. Harvey thinks that there is among Canadians generally a reaching out after the higher things of art. He did not agree with the criticism that "Canada was a country without a soul," he thought that it was a question of values and that there was an awakening to the spiritual side of the drama and of art generally.

Asked as to the present position of the drama in England, Mr. Harvey said he believed that the stage had an educative and elevating influence on the whole. Socially, actors and actresses were received on an equal footing with members of other professions. Morally the stage was as pure as any other walk of life, and the fact that more was heard of their misdeeds was due to the profession being of a more public character. He thought that the profession had improved as a medium of conveying high ideals and as an art. There were no outstanding figures on the stage to-day. The same could be said of literature, painting and music, but there was a general high standard of merit among dramatists and actors.

Mr. Harvey is himself an outstanding figure in his profession and he has taken his art very seriously. The story of his stage life is very interesting. He entered the service of the late Sir Henry Irving as a "super" and eventually worked himself into the leading parts of that great actor's company.

The play, which is to be produced this evening, "The Only Way," is an adaptation from Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities," written by Canon Langbridge, and Mr. Harvey himself. It has proved extremely popular with British audiences and has practically been the means of lifting Martin Harvey to the top of his profession.

Mr. Harvey is to be the guest of the Canadian Club, which he will address this afternoon at five o'clock.

TO COST FIFTY THOUSAND

Detective Had Carte Blanche In Quebec Scandal Probe.

QUEBEC, Feb. 4.—Keen interest followed the testimony of Mr. S. C. Maloney in the proceedings last evening before the Committee of Inquiry into the charges made against Mr. J. O. Mousseau, ex-member for Soulanges, of having accepted bribes for assisting the passage of the Montreal Fair Association bil' through the present session of the Quebec Legislature.

This witness, who is an agent of the Burns Detective Agency, told of how he had been sent by Mr. Biddinger to Montreal to see Mr. D. Lorne McGibbon, then owner of The Herald, who sent him to Mr. Beck, who gave him carte blanche to make whatever investigation he pleased. The cost of the investigation be figured would be about fifty thousand dollars. He said that he had acted on the legal advice of L. C. Casgrain, in each step of drafting the decoy measure.

His testimony was mainly a repetition of what has already transpired, except that he told it from the point of view of one dealing directly, instead of, like the others, who heard it over the detectaphone. He told of giving $500 to Mr. Mousseau. He also told of a member of the Upper House whom Mr. Mousseau said he could get for $400 down and $500 on the passage of the bill. This man he called Devinnes, and later Mr. Mousseau said this man wanted $5,000.

He told Mr. Mousseau "that man can go plum to —— before I will give him two thousand dollars, one thousand dollars down." It was arranged on that basis, according to the witness.

The report that warrants for the arrest of the Burns' detectives had been issued in Montreal is denied. Edward Beck says if such action is taken he will immediately secure the arrest of Mousseau, Berard and Bergevin.

THE APPEAL IN THE McCLAY CASE

The following are the facts on which the appeal of the case of John McClay found guilty of supplying drugs to a local girl for illegal purposes, are founded:

1. Was there sufficient evidence as shown, detailed to show that the substances so supplied, were or contained drugs?

2. Was there sufficient evidence to show that the said Margaret Dale intended to use the said substances with the intent to procure miscarriage, and, if not, was the intention of the said Margaret Dale to use the substances for an unlawful purpose, necessary to constitute the offence charged?

3. Was the evidence as herein stated, sufficient to convict the accused of the offence of which he was found guilty.

Leave was further granted to the prisoner to apply to the court of appeal on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

The above was made on the application of his counsel, V. J. McElderry. As stated yesterday, judgment was deferred till Feb. 14th.

NO BECKER DECISION

ALBANY, N.Y., Feb. 4.—No decision was handed down today by the court of appeals in the case of Charles Becker, a former New York police lieutenant, convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal. A Swinging Railway.

One of the most remarkable railroads in the world is to be built in France, to run up the Aiguille du Midi, which rises abruptly to a height of 12,608 feet. The object of the undertaking will be to show the unmatched glories of Mont Blanc and its chain of peaks and glaciers. Instead of running on solid ground, however, like most of the Swiss mountain railroads, it is to go through the air on pylons and cables, swinging from peak to peak, far above the eternal snows and glaciers. The starting station of the line is situated down in the valley of Chamonix.

World's Highest Death Rate.

What is probably the highest death rate of any city in the world belongs to Cochabamba, Bolivia, where there was a mortality of 75 per 1,000 last year. This extreme mortality is said to be due not so much to climatic or other natural causes as to the lack of knowledge among the lower classes of the most elementary rules of hygiene, a fact which is corroborated by the percentage of infant mortality, about 40 per cent of the deaths being children under five years of age.

Unfortunately, the man who loses his temper always finds it again.

FORTY-TWO ABOARD THE MONROE DIE AS SHE SANK,

THE MONROE

CAPTAIN E. E. JOHNSON OF THE MONROE

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS R. HARRINGTON BOTH SAVED BUT MRS HARRINGTON DIED OF EXPOSURE.

THE NANTUCKET

Dipping her nose slowly and deeply into each high running sea, her discordant siren wailing regularly into the fog bound atmosphere ahead to warn of her approach, and with double lookouts on duty, the Monroe, finest and largest steamship in the service of the Old Dominion Steamship Company, was rammed early on the morning of January 30 by the Nantucket, of the Merchants and Miners' Transportation Company, and sank within twelve minutes, carrying forty-one of her passengers and crew to death in her eleven steel sides.

Ninety-nine persons were saved. It was the coolness of Captain Johnson, on the bridge of the stricken ship, and of Captain Barry, on the bridge of the Nantucket, that did it. While the Monroe was receiving her death stroke Captain Johnson, having scented the disaster, had lifeboats swung from the davits and into the water in the remarkably short time he had to act. Captain Barry in the foggy morning sent lifeboats over the side even before he knew that the Monroe had gone down, and between the quick work of the two officers twice as many persons were saved as were lost.

The passengers who were drowned, including women and men, had no time to save themselves. The crash came while they were asleep, and before they could gather their senses and realize that the vessel was heeling over and was sinking the water was roaring into the passageways, crashing in the cabin doors or swirling into the dark rooms and washing the passengers out of their berths even before they were awake. Some of those who had been able to flee from their cabins clambered onto the slanting, slippery, fog-wet deck and then, as the doomed vessel heeled over, climbed to her rails, over the side and then onto the upturned side of the vessel. There they hovered until a sea washed them off or until the last minute, when the Monroe sank, dragging the unfortunate persons down into a typhoon of water from which there was no escape.

Every survivor who was brought to Norfolk, Va., by the Nantucket sings the praise of the captains and crews of both steamships. The unwritten rule of the sea, "Women first," was obeyed to the fullest sense, and many women owe their lives to men who took from their own waists life belts and handed them to the women, giving up their lives willingly.

Miss Sally McCombs, of the Macaria Dramatic Company, was among those saved.

Suggested Loan of Rifles.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—In view of the fact that owing to a War Office decision, only open sights, as used on the British service rifles, will henceforth be permitted at Bisley, which excludes the Ross rifle with its peep sight, it is understood that a suggestion will be sent from Canada that the Militia Department here loan the British territorials sufficient Ross rifles to equip all those competing at the N. R. A. meet, thus puttin all competitors on the same plane and giving Canada an opportunity of sending over a team.

TORONTO POLICE ROUND UP WHOLESALE MOTOR BANDITS

Series of Burglaries of Small Stores and Dwellings Culminate in Capture of Five Men Charged With Shop-Breaking and Two With Receiving—Autos Were Taken to Carry the Spoils.

TORONTO, Feb. 4. — One of the biggest clean-ups made by the Toronto police in many years was concluded last night by the arrest of seven men, on charges of shopbreaking and receiving. The arrests are the culmination of several days of hard work on the part of every detective and policeman on the Toronto police force. These men, it is claimed, for months have been burglarizing stores and dwellings and making their getaway each time in motor cars which they would steal from streets and leave standing on other streets after they had no further use for them.

The men held on charges of shopbreaking are: James Walker, no address; Jack Goldsmith, 42 Beverley; A. Surat, 42 Beverley; Howard Phoenix, no address; John Mott, no address.

Those held on charges of receiving are: Herman Silverman, 126 Huron; Herman Starkman, 115 St. Patrick street.

Albert Crittenden, 82 Shaftesbury street, who is believed to be the brains, organizer and leader of the gang, has been in custody since last Friday night, when he was arrested while attempting to enter a tailor shop at 226 Spadina avenue. At that time he gave his name as Smith, but subsequent investigations by the police justified their suspicions that he is the leader of the seven men arrested last night.

The gang operated principally among small tailor shops, from which large supplies of cloth would be taken, whisked away in the stolen motor cars to the shops of Silverman and Starkman, and then shipped out of town.

The local detective department state that over a dozen downtown clothing and tailoring stores have been entered and robbed by members of the gang within the past six weeks. Although the matter had been kept quiet pending police investigations, shop breakings in the downtown sections were of almost nightly occurrence, and the police list of missing articles runs into thousands of dollars. In Starkman's tailoring store on St. Patrick street alone, Detective Guthrie unearthed over a thousand dollars' worth of stolen goods. Silverman is a junk dealer who has been in the hands of the police before on similar charges. His place was searched, but nothing found.

In every robbery pulled off by the gang, a stolen motor car was utilized for the purpose of carrying the booty and making a quick getaway. Crittenden was caught Friday at midnight in the act of burglarizing a tailor shop at 226 Spadina avenue. The officer on the beat walked into a lane at the rear, and found the man picking the lock on the back door. Two of Crittenden's pals made their escape by scurrying up a ladder and along the roofs of nearby stores. Whether they are among the number now under arrest, the police do not know. Standing on St. Andrews street about a block away from the scene of the arrest, police officers found the gang's motor car, which had been stolen that evening from a garage at 80 West Wellington street.

Silverman and Starkman were got yesterday afternoon at their stores by Detectives Taylor and Plainclothesman McConnell. Detective Guthrie arrested James Walker walking along Queen street last night. Goldsmith and Surat were detained at their Beverley street rooming-house by Guthrie and Holmes at three o'clock yesterday morning, and Phoenix and Mott were caught walking together along Queen street last night by Plainclothesmen Koster and Scott.

Sarnia Fears Influx.

SARNIA, Feb. 3.—Following the morality clean-up being made in Port Huron is a certain uneasiness among officials of the town, who are more or less afraid that if there is an exodus in Port Huron of disorderly characters, Sarnia may receive the influx. ATMOSPHERE IS HEATED Welland Temperance Forces Allege Serious Irregularities.

WELLAND, Feb. 4.—The arrest of Deputy Returning Officer E. Coulthurst at Bridgeburg Monday night, charged with irregularities in connection with the vote on the Canada Temperance Act in Welland County last Thursday, was followed by a mass meeting of the temperance workers in the Baptist church here yesterday afternoon, when the whole situation was thoroughly discussed and committees were appointed, which will likely result in an application being made for an official scrutiny before the County Judge. The temperance forces declare that the irregularities are a deliberate plot to steal the county from them.

Coulthurst's arrest was on information laid by William Christian, who was scrutineer for the temperance party, and he is now out on $3,000 bail, $1,000 provided by himself and the remainder by two other sureties. The preliminary hearing will be held before Magistrate House at Bridgeburg to-morrow morning.

I advise you to buy my Lots, as they are perfect in every respect, affording the most profitable safe investment obtainable. Every person who bought from me during the past six years is more than pleased, and have good reason for being so. The lots sold were very fine, but not as high land as those now offered. My reason for offering at this season is that after the holidays all wise people settle down to earn money. Some save, many don't. Do you? Five years ago wise parents, having two boys, 16 and 18 years, just commencing to earn, accepted my advice, caused them to buy lots and impose a must upon themselves to save and pay for the lots; this they did and got their deeds, bought again and sold at good profit, buying a third time, and now owning property worth at least $1400, with about $100.00 to pay.

These are facts I can prove, and this is only one of many similar cases. Am I not justified in urging you to buy, and is it not greatly in your interest to do so? Lots $150, $175, and $200, corners and large blocks. Terms: $5 deposit, on one or two lots; no interest on note, nor any further payments until May, when streets will be graded and all lots properly staked. If satisfied with your lots, pay $10 more, and $15 quarterly. Hereafter on one or two lots, including interest at six per cent. per annum, from May 1st. Six per cent. discount for larger cash payments. This offer good for this month. Call, see plans and select what you want. Your $5 back if wanted.

YOUR EFFORT MEANS YOUR SUCCESS

OUR PROPOSITION

It may be that you have not thought seriously about this great campaign. Perhaps you are laboring under a false impression that it may take some of your time away from your business. Disabuse your mind at once of such an opinion. The prizes may be won during your labor time. It is not like working with a pick and shovel. It's "dead easy" (if we may use the word). You'll enjoy it if you'll only persuade yourself to get into this race. That's what we are trying to help you do. When we have succeeded in this, no further argument is necessary—as far as you are concerned. The proposition is so absurdly simple, and yet withal so stupendous, that it is little wonder that you at once jump at the conclusion that there is something behind it all with which the public is not supposed to be acquainted. But it is not. Here is the proposition in a nutshell: The Review wants to increase its circulation—to secure new subscriptions. We figure that it can be done cheaper by having our friends do it, even though we give them in return thousands of dollars' worth of valuable prizes and paying all who work a liberal remuneration, than to bear the enormous expense of advertising and help which would necessarily follow did we attempt to increase the circulation in any other way. It is very simple when you have it explained to you. We will be glad to explain it further if there is anything about it you do not thoroughly understand.

"Go to the Ant"

No doubt you remember the fable of the ant and the cricket. You will recall that the cricket went almsgathering, and, having acquainted the ant with his financial difficulties, was advised that, inasmuch as he had sung all summer he might as well dance all winter. The parallel is found in every day life. How often do you encounter some unfortunate (?) individual, who, being unarmed with the weapons of energy, determination, inclination, has made no provision for the future, and who has a story to tell which is well calculated to bring tears to the eyes of a graven image. Listen to his story and mark its utter absurdity. Take a lesson to this rule. Don't despair. Remember that as long as there is breath in your body you are alive; and as long as there is life there is hope; hope lost, all is lost. There are a thousand other quotations which might well be used here; but it is presumed that a few suggestions may set you to thinking. When you have begun to think yourself, you have achieved SOMETHING anyway. You're started then. KEEP GOING. You shouldn't have to drive yourself to it. REASON with yourself. You have brains; USE them.

FREE ENTRY OF ARMS INTO MEXICO IS ALLOWED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

U. S. Chief Executive Takes Long Threatened Step Against Huerta by Giving Rebel Forces Right to Import Guns and Ammunition From the States.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—President Wilson yesterday issued a proclamation rescinding the official embargo placed on the exportation of arms and ammunition from the United States into Mexico. Through the removal of restrictions on such shipments the Constitutionalists will be able to obtain munitions of war from this country, and will be given the opportunity to prove their claim that with the embargo raised they will drive Gen. Huerta from power in short order.

With free shipments of arms permitted, the matter of withdrawing a large portion of the American regular troops on the Mexican border is said to have been considered, and developments in this connection are predicted. Recognition of the Constitutionalist as composing the de facto authority in the Mexican territory, their control is expected to be proclaimed shortly as a second step in the program of affording material aid to the revolutionary cause initiated by the President's proclamation concerning arms and ammunition.

In his proclamation, President Wilson gives as his reasons for lifting the embargo that conditions "have essentially changed," and "it is desirable to place the United States with reference to the exportation of arms or munitions of war to Mexico in the same position as other powers."

The understanding that shipment of arms to the Huerta Government from Japan and other countries had been a matter of serious concern to the Administration appears to be confirmed by this quoted extract from President Wilson's proclamation. The Administration felt that the Constitutionalists, unable to obtain war materials from the United States, their only source of supply, were being placed in an unfair position by this Government.

Grave Step Says Telegraph.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—Few of the London newspapers this morning comment on President Wilson's proclamation lifting the embargo on arms at the Mexican frontier.

The Daily Telegraph, however, describes the proclamation as a grave step, which finds no parallel in modern history.

The Daily Chronicle considers that it was impossible for President Wilson to remain indefinitely a spectator of the chaos of which in some sense, it says, he is the cause, and that he had to choose between suppressing Huerta himself or in helping the rebels suppress them. The newspaper adds that the American problem is to eject Huerta from the Presidency, but to replace him by anybody who is better than he.

WHITNEY SEES FOY.

Sir James Has Conference With the Acting Premier.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—Indications are that Sir James Whitney is on the high road towards recovery. He is able to sit up in his room for extended periods, and his medical attendants are permitting him to be interviewed by members of the Cabinet. He had a long conversation with Hon. J. J. Foy, acting Premier, on Monday, after which he showed no signs of fatigue.

Asked if Sir James is really out of danger, Dr. McPhedran declared that while the unexpected may happen, the patient is reasonably expected to recover. It is understood that the Premier will be removed to his home in about two weeks. No more bulletins will be issued.

Sir George Ross was declared to be just a little better at a late hour last night, and had rested comfortably during the day. The doctors believe that he will regain his strength, though slowly.

Negotiating Peace Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, had a long conference with Secretary Bryan yesterday, regarding the formulation of a peace treaty between the United States and Great Britain similar to those the Secretary already has negotiated with eleven countries, six of which have actually signed the convention.

Great Britain has approved Mr. Bryan's plan in principle. It is not regarded as probable, however, that the provision for stopping the development of armament for a year while international commissions of inquiry are at work would be included in a British-American peace convention.

GOVERNMENT'S SHIPS TO BE IN CANADA, SAYS MR. HAZEN

Entire House, Irrespective of Party, Applauds Minister of Marine When Statement of Policy is Given.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4.—The House spent practically all of yesterday in committee of supply. The Opposition was not at all truculent and the civil government estimates, never very contentious, were pretty well disposed of.

Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine, was heartily applauded by all the members, irrespective of party, when he announced that all vessels for his Department would be built in Canada so long as he was Minister. He thought that Canadian ship building should be encouraged, but it was impossible to encourage it by imposing tariff duties, against British vessels, and he was not certain that public opinion would favor the payment of bounties to Canadian ship builders.

Replying to a suggestion that Government vessels should be built in Canada, Hon. Mr. Hazen announced the policy of his Department. All tenders calling for the construction of vessels for the Marine and Fisheries Department required the vessels to be built in Canada. The Canadian shipbuilding industry in his opinion had a great deal to contend with. No tariff protection could be afforded them because we could not exclude ships of British register from Canadian waters.

Ships built in Britain, not only came in duty free, but so did all their equipment, even to china and glassware. Wages and material were cheaper in England than in Canada, and the Department believed that the Canadian shipbuilders should have a monopoly of the Government business. Several dredges and other vessels had been contracted for, and within a few days the contract would be let for an icebreaker to cost $500,000 and to be constructed in Canada.

When the customs estimates were under review, E. M. MacDonald (Picton) demanded a satisfactory explanation of the recent voyage of the revenue cutter Alert from Sydney to Victoria County, C.B., where a bye-election was in progress. He repeated the charge recently made by Mr. Carroll (South Cape Breton), that the Government vessel had been used by the Conservative candidates and organized for election purposes, and that these gentlemen had been carried to the scene of action, together with a considerable amount of liquor intended for distribution among the electorate.

Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Customs, promised an immediate investigation. If there had been any misconduct it had been committed by the local officials without any direction from Ottawa. He could not undo what had been done, but he would deal with the matter as the facts of the case could be ascertained.

Hon. Charles Murphy described a mysterious yacht which put in port at Valleyfield, Que., while the Chateauguay bye-election was in progress. The name-plate had been removed, and there was no clue to the identity of the vessel, which was supposed to belong to the Government. One of the men on board introduced himself to the townspeople as secretary to the Minister of Public Works. The yacht then proceeded to the Government shipyard at Prescott, Ont. Mr. Murphy demanded some further information from the Government.

Dr. Reid said he knew nothing of the affair. He was sure no such boat belonged to his Department.

When civil government estimates for the Railway Department were reached, Hon. J. D. Reid took the laboring oar. He said that Hon. Frank Cochrane's physician had forbidden his attendance upon the House in the evening sittings. Good progress, however, was made with the estimates, Dr. Reid promising to bring down the famous Gutelius-Bosworthy agreement, and all correspondence and papers relating to the present arrangement by which Canadian Pacific passenger and freight traffic is carried by the Intercolonial between Halifax and St. John, N.B.

Mr. Macdonald took the Railway Department to task for buying American coal in Pennsylvania, instead of purchasing Nova Scotia coal, and carrying it over the I.C.R.

Dr. Reid defended the Railway Department upon the ground that the Canadian coal was not available when needed. With this statement, the member for Pictou took issue, and further information upon the subject will be furnished from the House later on.

Students To Make Diet Tests.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—Next Tuesday 30 students of the normal school of physical education, affiliated with McGill University, will start a three months' diet test. Five will take a meat course three meals per day. Fifteen students will adopt a modified meat-vegetable diet, four more will try out strict vegetarianism, while others will endeavor to subsist for 13 weeks upon a "strictly scientific" bill of fare. The students will show up on June 3 for medical examination, and the experiment is being watched with interest.

Opposed to Suffrage Committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—House Democrats, at a caucus last night, went on record against the creation of a House committee on woman suffrage. By a vote of 123 to 57 the caucus adopted a resolution declaring this a state question, and rejecting the Raker resolution to create the committee.

BOSTON EXPLOITS AND ALERTS WERE WINNERS

Good Hockey in the Junior City Hockey League

On rather soft ice the Boston Exploits strengthened their claim to the Junior City League championship last night, when they handed the Y.M.C.A. a decisive defeat by a score of 6—1. The winners were clearly the better team and could have run up a much higher score had the ice been harder. They have several individual stars and while they don't play a great deal of combination, the ability of Butcher to keep up and slam in rebounds wins their games.

The Exploits have a collection of wonderful boys, and in a few years there is bound to be a number of championships come this way if they stay together. It would hardly be fair to select one and say he was the shining light, for they all were in to win and set out their best brand of hockey. The "Y" boys are not to be considered by any means weak because of their defeat, for they are fast and they rely on good combination more than individual rushes. It was no discredit to them to be defeated by a team of the Exploits' class.

Y. M. C. A. Scored First

The Y.M.C.A. secured their first goal a few moments after play began, Cranfield scoring after a nice rush. The Exploits pressed hard and in a few moments succeeded in beating Darling, Butcher doing the trick by slamming in the rebound of Rose's hard shot. Graham contributed a long rush and scored and not long after Butcher slammed in another rebound. This ended the scoring of the first half.

A few seconds after resting period, Rose made it four, after a nice rush and for a while the teams battled with honors about even. Finally a combined rush enabled Graham to scoop one in and a few seconds latter Butcher made the six.

Mr. L. Dobson refereed and did it to the satisfaction of any one who knows the game. Several hyenas [illegible] the boards were continually calling him for handing out so many penalties, but that is the only way to handle a game. "Dobie" handles the game well, and makes the boys play hockey.

The teams:

Exploits—goal, Latimer, defence, Phelan and Regan; rover, Graham; centre, Butcher; wings, Rose and Wolfe.

Y.M.C.A.—goal, Darling; defence Cranfield and Smith; rover, Stevenson; centre, Quinn; wings, Knapman and Jackson.

Walker's Goat

The second game between the Wanderers and Alerts resulted in a win for the latter, by the score of 4—0. The game in the first half was rather loose owing no doubt to the very poor ice.

With the people in the gallery getting Walker's "goat" the Alerts notched their goals in the first half. In the last period it was a battle royal and although no goals were scored, the goal minders had several red hot sessions. Good stick handling and combination was rather minus but at that there was some nifty plays.

The teams:

Wanderers—goal, Walker; defence, Guerin and Revoy; rover, Brotherston; centre, Patterson; wings, Primeau and May.

Alerts—goal, Legros; defence, Davidson and Legrendre; rover Bartley; wings, Lowes and O'Connell.

Mr. L. Dobson refereed.

About a hundred spectators who hung around the Arena after the St. Andrew's U.C.C. game yesterday afternoon had the privilege of seeing the world's two greatest walking exponents work out. FRONTENACS AND BELLEVILLE TIED KINGSTON, Feb. 4.—The Frontenacs and Belleville juniors played a tie game here last evening in the first of the semi-finals for the junior O.H.A. series, for groups Na. 1 and 2. The game ended with the score standing 4 to 4. At the half time the Bellevilles were leading by 2 to 1. The largest crowd of the season was present at the game. An excursion of about two hundred fans from Belleville came down with the team. The return game will be played in Belleville on Thurasday evening. The Frontenac Hockey Club will run a special train to Belleville. The ice on Tuesday evening was the worst surface which any team has played on this season. Pools of water were on the ice in many places.

CURRENT SPORTING GOSSIP

Speaking of the appointment of "Curley" Blount as manager of the Peterboro team, the Youngstown, O., Vindicator, says: "Blount made a visit to Peterboro last week and had a conference with the team owners. He declared he was pleased with the Canadian city and believes that they will have a profitable season. The Canadians are to be congratulated upon securing the services of the local man. Blount is a dependable .300 hitter, and speedy on the sacks. The best wishes of a host of friends will accompany the hustling little boss to his new job."

All hockey players take notice—It is unwise and unhealthy to play with the Examiner Hockey team. They substituted Hill, Monday night when their goal custodian failed to put in his appearance, and now look what's befallen Hill. He was the next morning found to be suffering from the mumps, and had to go to his home in Lakefield, last night. It is rather hard luck for the boy, but he would take a chance.

Referees who endeavor to stop all rough work should be encouraged by the spectators and not hooted as Len Dobson was last night, when he officiated in the Junior City League games. Too much care cannot be taken in dealing with the young players.

Ken Tracey has been heard from. He has joined the majority under the High Cost of Living banner, and asks for a few extra greenbacks for his services in the firing line this summer with the local Canadian League team.

CURLING

The curling bonspiel, which was to take place on the local ice from Feb. 11th till Feb. 14th, has been called off, so as not to conflict with the Oshawa bonspiel.

Owing to the mild weather there was no curling last night.

Utterly Mistaken.

"How can I be mistaken?"

The Modern Maid.

It was getting late at night when the servant girl returned from the shops with various domestic purchases. As she explained the transaction to her mistress she cried out suddenly, "There—if I haven't forgot the 'am an' eggs for breakfast!"

"That's a pity," observed the mistress, but added, with kind philosophy: "Never mind. The shops will all be shut now. We shall have to manage in the morning with bread and butter and marmalade." The girl started. "And what shall I have?" she inquired.

"Well, Ellen, I suppose you'll have the same as we do," replied the mistress.

"Yes, Mrs. X.," responded Ellen, with some severity, "but let me tell you I can't do my work unless I'm properly fed."—Manchester Guardian.

Two brothers living in southern Illinois run a country store, and they have a large trade in wool, on barter. One of the brothers joined the church and became exceedingly religious. He soon got a habit of talking to his brother about the beauties and comforts of religion and tried to persuade him to join the church.

"Yes, Brother Jim, I know that it must be comforting and altogether helpful to body and soul to be a good church member," said John, "and I would like to join. But jest look ye, Jim, there has got to be somebody here of the firm to weight this yere wool."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

The members of the Young Ladies' Bible Class of the George Street Sunday School, taught by Miss Ferguson, and the Excelsior Young Men's Club, to the number of sixty, held a most enjoyable sleigh drive and oyster supper last night. Gathering at the church about 7.30, the young people invaded the neighboring townships in sleighs, and for the time at least inoculated the country roads over which they passed with life, laughter, song and music.

On their return to the city a sumptuous oyster supper was served in Coleman's, and the provisions that had been prepared by Messrs. Coleman Bros., were consumed with evident appreciation by those present. Miss Ferguson presided at the banquet, and discharged her duties in a most acceptable way.

A brief but enjoyable program was successfully presented, including music, by Mr. Asa Huycke, a splendid piano solo by Mr. C. Walton, and a vocal solo in her usual inimitable style by Miss E. Kemp.

A toast to "The Sunday School" was proposed by Mr. E. E. Logan, in a short speech and responded to by Mr. Wilson Taylor, superintendent of the Sunday School.

Mrs. (Rev.) R. G. Peever proposed the toast to the two classes, which was responded to by Miss Morrow, and Mr. Hadcock, on behalf of the two organizations.

Towards the close of the banquet a helpful address was given by the Rev. R. G. Peever. The affair was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," and three rousing cheers for Miss Ferguson and Mr. Logan, the teachers of the two classes.

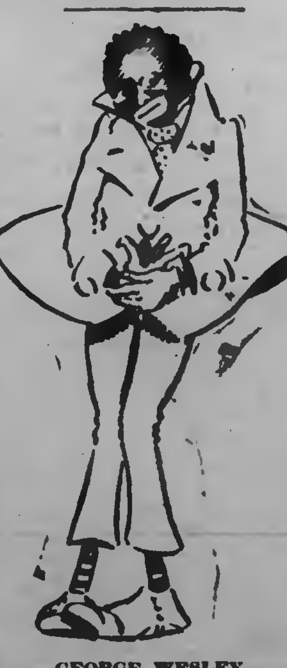
THE VETERANS OF MINSTRELSY

Coming to "The Grand" Next Monday

Coming to "The Grand" next Monday George Primrose and Lew Dockstader, veteran stars of the minstrel world, who have reunited their respective minstrel companies after remaining apart for nearly ten years, will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House Monday night, Feb. 9, coming here direct from The Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto.

Messrs. Primrose and Dockstader will be accompanied by an all prominent aggregation of burnt cork vocalists, instrumentalists and fun makers in what is heralded as the most joyous minstrel event of a decade—a performance that sets a new high-water mark both in rounded excellence of delineation of negro character and picturesque sumptuousness of adornment. "The Temple of Mirth and Melody" is the title of the first part. Tom Brown will be seen at one end of the half circle as the curtain rises and "Happy Jack" Lambert at the other. Harry Sievers will occupy the interlocutor's chair. Raymond Wylie, the phenomenal male soprano and other excellent ballad singers will be heard prior to the entrance of Mr. Primrose and Mr. Dockstader. In the first part Mr. Primrose will sing to the accompaniment of which he will execute the famous Primrose soft shoe dance, that has made him known as "America's most graceful dancer," and Mr. Dockstader will tell some of his inimitable stories. The olio will open with a musical idea of camp life in the Phillipines by the Four Meteors, an exceptionally able coterie of vocalists. They will be followed by Mr. Dockstader in his impersonation of the Bull Moose Chief, Colonel Roosevelt and his speech to the suffragettes. Mr. Primrose, assisted by Foley and Murphy, will present a series of novel terpschorean divertisements. Then comes the Six Musical Brown Brothers, who will present what is said to be the best musical act on the American stage. The afterpiece "Down Home" is from the pen of Mr. Primrose. The playlet is in four scenes, which are said to be most elaborate. The entire company takes part in this number. A street parade will be given on the day of the performance at noon, headed by Messrs. Primrose and Dockstader. The tour is under the personal management of Earl Burgess.



GEORGE WESLEY

Singing "Cross the Mason-Dixon Line."

Fun fast and furious will be kept to the front in the Belmont Club Minstrel's big show this season. A lot of things done by a lot of different people that can do things. No waits, something doing all the time. Holly Shepard does not produce amateur shows, but does produce a finished up-to-the-minute attraction with local people. Things that you look for in the amateur performance are never seen in his shows.

Miss Winnifred Fick will be seen in a coon song, "Baby Bumble Bee," in which the entire company take part, that will be as finished a specialty as was ever presented to Peterborough audiences. Everyone selling tickets. Dates, Feb. 12th and 13th.

Review Candidates in Prize Contest Are Taking the Advantage of Big Vote Offer

"Strike while the iron is hot," is a timeworn adage containing more truth than poetry, which should be observed by candidates in The Review Great Prize Contest.

The interest in the contest is becoming more intense each day. Each day many readers of the Review discover they have a favorable candidate in the contest. Each day more and more friends are becoming interested in the race being made by the various contestants.

The Iron Hot

The time is "ripe" for results now. The iron is hot. The contestant should lose no time "striking their friends and acquaintances for subscriptions and votes. Everybody in this part of Ontario is willing to help the candidates secure one of the beautiful prizes that will be given away very soon. But in order to get this assistance, which is there for the asking, the candidates must let their friends know they want help themselves. If the candidates want the "golden apple," they must go to the garden to get it.

The "Booster Period," the great special vote offer which was announced in The Review a few days ago, is now on, and will end at 8 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 14th. The candidates can turn in a two year subscription and secure 135,000 votes, as explained elsewhere. It is not necessary to wait. Start out after subscriptions to The Review. Start now.

New Candidates

New candidates can enter the club now, today, and with a few hours' work, secure enough votes to place their names among the leaders.

You stand an excellent chance of winning a prize if you enter now, as there is plenty of room and subscriptions will come easy during Booster Period."

"Booster Period"

"Booster Period" means that now is the time for every reader of The Review to boost a friend in the contest by paying a subscription and giving him or her the credit of the extra votes offered now when so many votes are given Just remember that a subscription turned in before Feb. 14, will count the same. A yearly subscription during "Booster Period" counts 10,000 regular votes and 40,000 extra votes, making a total of 50,000 votes. During the last of the campaign a yearly subscription will only count 10,000 votes.

A two year subscription now counts 35,000 regular and 100,000 extra votes, making a total of 135,000, whereas a new two-year subscription during the last of the campaign will count only 35,000 votes.

Celebrations to be Held at Lindsay and Havelock

Lindsay, Feb. 5.—The most enthusiastic and largest meeting ever held under the auspices of the County Orange Lodge of Victoria, convened on Tuesday, in the Orange Lodge rooms of L.O.L. No. 557, when upwards of a hundred delegates were present from the primary and district lodges of the county.

Cottingham, P.C.M., to draft an address of welcome to the Grand Orange Lodge of Eastern Ontario, which will meet in Lindsay on Wednesday and Thursday, March 18th and 19th. 1914.

The meeting was one of the best ever held. The following are the principal officers elected: J. A. Garratt of Havelock, County Master; Henry Thistlewaite, of Belmont, Deputy Master; R. G. SOME MORE QUERIES

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—1. What are the receipts and expenditures of the Police Department?

2. The salaries of the officials and payments to them from all official sources in Canada or elsewhere ?

3. Is it true the police are underpaid and overworked?

4. What becomes of every cent received at the Police Court ?

5 .Are the laws and rules governing police business observed in Peterborough ?

Yours,
A. R.

Answers:

1. The receipts for the Police Court last year were $3,212.99. The expenditures for the department were as stated before, $9,675.

2. The members of the department receive their salaries, and the off-duty policeman generally attends inquests. He receives a small fee.

3. The schedule of salaries is not as high as in some other places, the same size or smaller than Peterborough. They are not overburdened with work.

4. Except in cases where government officers make the charge, the fines go to the civic treasury.

5. There have been few complaints.

SIX MONTHS FOR RIDYARD

He Pleads Guilty to Bigamy When Tried at Sudbury

Thomas Ridyard, who married a young lady of Norwood, when it was claimed he had a wife and family in England, has been sentenced to imprisonment for six months.

He was tried at Sudbury and pleaded guilty to the charge of bigamy. Sentence was deferred, pending a further inquiry, and later the sentence of six months' imprisonment was imposed.

In this case Ridyard, who has spent some time in Peterboro, was working in Norwood and after leaving that place, he communicated with the young lady, asking her to come to Chapleau, as he was unable to come for her. She joined Ridyard and they were married before the ceremony could be prevented by the father. The information which lead to his arrest, came from Peterboro.

ANOTHER CHAPTER TO THE HEBERT-CLOUATRE CASE

Mrs. Hebert to Sue for Declaration That Marriage Was Valid

Montreal, Feb. 4.—The famous Hebert-Clouatre marriage case will reopen as the result of a decision rendered by Mr. Justice Greenshield yesterday, giving permission to Mrs. Hebert to enter suit against Eugene Hebert for a declaration that their marriage was valid, and also to sue for a declaration that the decree of Archbishop Bruchesi pronouncing the marriage void is of no effect and illegal. The case hangs upon the question whether or not the marriage law in Quebec follows the ecclesiastical law, or, in other words, whether the Ne Temere decree of the Roman Catholic Church, directed against the marriage of Catholics by a Protestant minister, and against marriages between Protestants and Catholics, is effective in law. It is nearly three years since the case first came before the courts. The marriage was declared null by Judge Laurendeau in 1911. Judge Charbonneau reversed this decision, and then the Court of Review upset the ruling of the latter judge, bringing on the application which was decided yesterday.

ARREST IS EXPECTED SHORTLY IN MURDER AND ROBBERY CASE

Blood Stains Were Found Near Coal Shates at Havelock

POLICE HAVE CLUE

Murder and robbery is suspected by the authorities here in the case of N. Doloff, a Bulgarian, employed on the C. P. R., who was reported missing last week by others of his nationality.

According to the statement made by the interpreter here on Wednesday last, the man who reported the case to Constable Post, Doloff has been missing since Dec. 6th, last. He was working on the night of the 6th of December, and no trace has been discovered since of his whereabouts. The interpreter further stated that he saw blood stains around the coal shutes the morning the man disappeared, and his trunk and clothing have remained in the boarding car unclaimed ever since. The missing man's cheque for $12.58 was cashed here by some one on the 29th December. Constable Post, in investigating the matter, had his attention drawn to a man suspected of cashing the cheque and interviewed him. This Bulgarian, named Kola Volceoff, denied the accusation but the next morning, (Thursday) he too was missing, and is reported to have gone west, taking with him a large sum of money.

The Provincial Department was notified of the case, and Detective Boyd of Toronto, came here on Friday to investigate the matter, but pending the apprehension of Volceoff, has not much to go on.

The authorities have received a clue as to where Volceoff fled to and expect to effect his arrest in a few days.

Efforts will probably be made this week to find the body of Doloff, by dragging the pond south of the coal shutes.—Havelock Standard.

Y.M.C.A. LADIES' AUXILIARY HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Mrs. Shook and Mrs. Clegg Re-elected as President and Secretary

At the adjourned annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary for the Y.W.C.A., on Monday last, Mrs. J. C. Shook was re-elected President, and Mrs. S. Clegg was re-elected Secretary.

Mrs. Shook opened the meeting with devotional exercises.

Secretary's Report

The Secretary's report was as follows:

In presenting our annual report, I feel in looking over our work for the past year, we have been of some material benefit to the association. Our work may seem small, but viewing it from some standpoints, it is of great importance. Our city has no more valuable asset than its young men, and to be of some aid in helping along a work that has for its object character building, is a work worthy of our best efforts.

We entertained the boys to a banquet in April, which they thoroughly enjoyed.

We also gave a banquet in November which was a success financially as well as socially. The money realized from this banquet was applied on a rug for the sitting room which adds greatly to the home-like appearance of that room.

We furnished new curtains for all the dormitories which improves their appearance. The thanks of the auxiliary are due to the ladies who so kindly made the curtains up.

Our musicale, which we held in March, was enjoyed by all who had the privilege of attending, and also aided us financially.

We have held during the year, five regular and one special meeting with an average attendance of eight. This may seem small but we feel that our members are all interested in the work. When any special work has to be done they always respond most heartily.

I am sorry our recent entertainment could not have been given in December, 1913, so we could have included it in this report, however our auxiliary appreciate the kindness of the Ladies Aid of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church in giving their entertainment for our benefit.

IN THE CANADIAN CLUB'S "HOSPITABLE CLUTCHES"

Martin Harvey is Guest at the Savoy — The Spiritualizing Power of Art—The Back-ground of the Union Jack

Mr. Martin Harvey was the guest of the Peterboro Canadian Club yesterday afternoon, which met for dinner in the Savoy. There was a good gathering of city men and a very bright and pleasant hour was spent.

Mr. G. C. Wainwright, the president, presided, he introduced Mr. Harvey as one of England's finest actors, and said that they looked forward to the visit of many of the leading lights of the English stage, through the enterprise of the British-Canadian Theatre Organization.

Mr. Martin Harvey on rising, said that the Canadian Club of Canada was making itself a world-wide reputation by its hospitality to strangers. "No European traveller escapes your hospitable clutches!" The first message that he received when he sailed up the St Lawrence River, bore the insignia of the Canadian Club.

He had been asked many times since his arrival to give his impressions of Canada, but he did not intend to emulate the globe-trotter who, after a trip through Canada, went home and wrote a book on the past, present and future of the country.

One thing that had struck him as a stranger, was the picturesqueness of Canadian life, the sleighs, the snow-shoes, and the winter sports.

He said that there were many things in Ontario which made an Englishman feel at home, even the names of the towns were familiar; Peterboro, Truro, Windsor, Halifax, etc., along with the friendliness of the people. He and his wife would always remember the warm welcome they had received in the different places they had visited; the new friends in the new world were added to the old friends in the old. Above all, he was glad to find a warm devotion and loyalty to the Empire wherever he had gone. Turning to the Union Jacks which draped the walls behind him, he said: "That's the right sort of back ground."

Speaking of the rapid development of Canada and its great prosperity, Mr. Martin Harvey said that the time had come when Canada must attend to another kind of development. "The Scripture tells us that man cannot live by bread alone," there were other things. He was not speaking of the practice of religion, Canadians were not lacking in reverence for religion, but he referred to that other spiritualizing agency—Art. He hoped by the humble effort of men of his profession, the standard of stage productions would be raised to a higher level.

Mr. Harvey also spoke of town-planning and exclaimed: "What a field you have in Canada for the beautiful setting out of cities!"

One reason for his visit to Canada was because he wanted to see the Dominion and another was, he wanted to present to the people of Canada, who spoke the English tongue, some of the great works of English dramatists and writers, by so doing, he thought he was helping to keep fresh those bonds of union which bind the farthest parts of the Empire.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, FEB. 5, 1914.

A DRY FOUNDATION.

SIR CHRISTOPHER WREN when he planned St. Paul's Cathedral in London, no doubt created a magnificent and stable structure, but it would appear as if that great architect did not give sufficient attention to the foundation which is of good blue clay, but which is said to be getting dry. The reason for this dryness is in the fact that the pavement in the vicinity of the great edifice has been made water-tight by concrete base. The pavement used to be cobble-stone and this allowed the water to soak into the ground and this kept the clay moist and firm. The authorities are devising a means of getting moisture into the foundation by an arrangement of pipes piercing the earth and thus conveying water into the thirsty ground.

VOCATION AND VACATION.

The LONDON ADVERTISER heads its report of Dr. J. W. Robertson's address thus:—"ANOTHER MILLION FOR VACATIONAL TRAINING OF BOYS." This is of course a mistake, it should have been "vocational," but it is very suggestive and Dr. Robertson might well turn his attention to the consideration of what our boys do during their vacations. Many educationalists afirm that the summer vacation is too long and that the children are at a disadvantage on returning to school after the long holiday, owing to the fact that they have forgotten half of what they learnt.

If our educational authorities are going to take the responsibility for the education and training of the child and the youth of the nation, they should not neglect their work for three months of the year. No other business or profession in the world can afford to do so. One well-known professor has pleaded for shorter vacations for our schools, but it is not likely that this will be taken up by the rank and file of the teaching profession, as no one would curtail their holidays voluntarily. But teaching is no more strenuous a life than many other vocations, and there are others which tax the patience and nerves far more. Journalism, for instance, is a profession which takes more out of a man than the teaching of a class of youngsters. Yet a journalist has to keep his nose to the desk every day of the year and never can take a proper vacation. We are not envious of teachers and their vacations, but we insist that many of our boys and girls are wasting their time during a most important and impressionistic part of the year, which might be made use of in the way of some kind of training, if it is only in out-door exercise or nature studies. Many of our scholars spend longer in a "book" than is necessary because the teaching is not thorough enough and owing to this waste of time during long vacation.

There is another point that needs emphasis in this matter of teaching and which, while we are on the subject, we will dare to venture upon, although it is dangerous ground. Most of our teachers, and perhaps our young lady teachers more particularly, have a very peculiar notion of what teaching really is. They go about their duties in a stereotyped and formal way, as if a class of children were a set of automatons which have only to be wound-up and the figures will work. They become impatient if the figure will not work, or does not know how to work. They forget that their profession as a TEACHER entails the task of TEACHING, and the last thing some of them will do is to teach, because teaching is too much trouble.

To teach involves the studying of an apparently dull child, the drawing out of the backward child, who may not be dull at all but only needs a moment's personal consideration and encouragement. The child that is quick to learn is often very superficial and gets all the favors of a teacher, while the backward child is regarded as a dullard and is neglected and does not get a fair chance. What we want to emphasize is that the duty of all teachers is to TEACH, and not merely to fill in their time boxing the ears of their pupils for some trivial and childish mistake, or for a turn of the head while the lesson is being automatically gone through. The teachers of Scotland, to whom Dr. Robertson referred the other day, were men who took their vocation very seriously; in these days it is to be feared that the only thing some of our teachers take seriously is their vacation.

BLIND GUIDES OF THE GRAIN GROWERS IN THE WEST.

ON THE QUESTION of free wheat there seems to be some indecision among the ranks of Conservatives. A Conservative member of the Manitoba Legislative Assembly has introduced a motion recommending the removal of the tariff on wheat, and this is regarded by some as very significant, and as indicating an inclination on the part of the Borden Government to consider the proposal favorably. It is urged that although the present Dominion Government is pledged to the policy of Protection, it might well yield to the demands of the grain-growers and put wheat on the free list . While this would be somewhat inconsistent, and a departure from protectionist principles, it would be no worse than the action, or the non-action, of Liberals on the question of free-trade seventeen years ago.

When the Liberals were returned to power they were pledged to the hilt upon free-trade, but they made no reduction in the tariff, they adhered to the protectionist policy of the Conservative Government for fifteen years. Not until Sir Wilfrid Laurier saw that his power was waning and that his lease of office was drawing to a close, did he remember his free trade pledges and turn his attention to the subject of the reduction of tariffs. At the tail end of his term of office he sought to catch the voter and secure the support of the farmers by his Reciprocity proposals. The country happily saw through the game and would not approve of the selling of its birthright for a mess of American pottage. Sir Wilfrid Laurier may have been sincere in his Reciprocity proposals, but it certainly looked very suspicious that he should only think on to be sincere when his government was getting to the bottom of the hill and needed a pull up for another toboggan ride of power.

The question of free wheat is a debatable one, and one that must be considered carefully by both sides; there is nothing to be gained by rushing the matter through. The western farmers are very clamorous, but the west is always in a hurry and needs a little more conserving energy and a larger vision.

Canada must be studied as a whole, it is a Dominion; each province has its rights and each province has a right to consider the rights of each other province. Ontario is of far more importance than North Dakota. The very first man to profit by free wheat is the man over the line and the first man to lose by it is the man in Ontario. On their own admission the grain-growers of the West are thriving and increasing their profits yearly under present conditions—what more do they want? Is all the money and the enterprize which the cast has put into the west to result in practical separation, and shall the American step in and reap the harvest that Canada has sown?

We are crying out against the high cost of living, but if our wheat goes south instead of east we may be sure that we will have to pay a good price for it when it returns to us in flour. America will take all the wheat the prairies can raise, and once they get a foot-hold in the market they will take it all too—then pity help the east!

Mr. Borden will be wise to consider all these possibilities, and take a broader sweep than the narrow visioned and self-centred Grain-Growers' Association, which is merely a business concern without a national conscience. "The Grain-Growers' Guide" is about the most insular journal that comes in our exchanges, it is unique in its solitariness, and as flat as the prairies themselves. It is opposed to any sort of naval policy, we doubt if the editor in his heart believes in the existence of the Atlantic or the Pacific Oceans. The Empire to this journal is a fairy tale, and the only place on the earth (if there is any other place except the American market) is the land of the western grain-growers. It was not thus that Canada or the Empire was built up and it cannot be sustained in that way.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

ARCHDEACON CODY declares himself upon the side of the Kikuyu Anglican missionary, who dared to acknowledge his brother Christian missionary in communion. This Kikuyu problem is causing a good deal of controversy in England and is worrying the Archbishop of Canterbury. What is worrying us is how to pronounce that name "Kikuyu.".

MR. J. M. BULLOCK, editor of The Graphic, London, whom we quoted recently on the subject of the height of the Highlander, writes the editor of The Review to say, "that a slight mistake occurred with regard to the original estimate of the heights of the recruits in the Gordons; it was given at 5 ft. 3 2-3 in., whereas it should have been 5 ft. 5½ inches." All the same we cannot get rid of the conception of the kilted Highlander as a tall, brawny six-footer.

A LOCAL PAPER in its report about the Englishman who gave himself up to the Peterborough police the other day and confessed to the murder of a woman in Kidderminster, England, some years ago, said that the prisoner admitted the next morning that he was "only kidding." Our staff punster remarked that you might Kidderminster with impunity, but it was a dangerous thing to try and kid a chief of police.

Honest Printers.

From the Stratford Beacon.

Pretty good evidence of the general honesty of printers was found recently in the Illinois State penitentiary at Joliet. It was decided to publish a monthly paper to be edited by the convicts, but the prison officials were in a difficulty when it was found that there was not a single printer among the 1,500 inmates of the institution. A former banker under sentence for frogery will be the editor. In the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus it was necessary some years ago to discontinue the publication of the prison paper because there were no printers in the prison, although there were fifty bankers.

How Sleep the Brave?

By William Collins.

How sleep the brave, who sink to rest
By all their country's wishes blest!
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallow'd mould,
She there shall dress a sweeter sod
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.

By fairy hands their knell is rung;
By forms unseen their dirge is sung;
There Honor comes a pilgrim grey,
To bless the turf that wraps their clay,
And Freedom shall a while repair
To dwell, a weeping hermit, there!

JOHN MASEFIELD

By Walt Mason

Another noble bard has risen, "a planet new swims in our ken;" no lily-fingered muse is his'n, he sings for strong, bewhiskered men. With things to say, he says them plainly, so any man may know his thought; he sings his songs and sings them sanely, and gives his harp a rugged swat. Life is too short and man too busy to wrestle with the highbrow bards, who with allusions dim and dizzy are always loaded to the guards; who waste good ink and pen bewailing Prometheus upon his rock, or round the shores of Greece go sailing to get a string of gods in stock. John Masefield writes for folks now living, and of the people now on earth; in every line he writes he's giving a lot more than your money's worth. His verse is great, and when you know it, you'll murmur, as his lines you scan: "Here speaks a Man who is a Poet, here sings a Bard who is a Man!"

TAX ROLL DESTROYED

Burning of Union Bank Branch Brings Disaster to Township.

MOUNT BRYDGES, Feb. 5.—An unusual loss was sustained in a fire which destroyed the branch of the Union Bank here yesterday, when the tax-roll of Caradoc Township was destroyed.

Manager Lee, formerly teller in the head office, when it was located in Quebec, and who was absent in London at the time of the fire, had collected considerable money during the past week for the township, taxes being payable at the bank. The tax roll, it is understood, was not placed in the vault Tuesday night, and as the fire occurred yesterday morning before office hours, there was no one to save the township records.

The bank was located in the best business property in the village, a large general store, conducted by Mr. Walter Snelgrove, adjoining. The fire broke out in the basement of the bank about 8 o'clock, destroying the entire building, with most of Snelgrove's stock. As the building alone cost upward of $10,000, the total loss will be quite heavy.

WHY MEN CLIMB MOUNTAINS.

Sir Martin Conway Says It is a Hereditary Instinct.

Sir Martin Conway, explorer, mountaineer and author, who was recently a guest of the British Authors' Club, discussed the problem why people should want to climb mountains.

The problem, he said, had never been solved and never would be. The most one could say was that in some persons it was an hereditary instinct. He took it that it was the desire to look over on the other side that was the great secret and compelling force which induced people to climb mountains.

Among the Buddhists mountain-climbing was the chief element in obtaining sanctity. Buddhist saints derived much of their sanctity from the report that they had climbed such and such a mountain. Mountains had always been regarded as the home of peculiar creatures, such as demons, fairies, gnomes, or dragons. In the Himalayas the belief was generally spread abroad that on one big peak there was a palace of crystal inhabited by royalties among the fairy folk.

On another, he was told, when the clouds formed the fairies were cooking their bread. According to the inhabitants, a man once went up a third peak and when he returned had lost his reason because the fairies had taken it away. "They warned us," observed the speaker, "that if we went up much farther the same thing would assuredly happen to us, if it had not already happened and was not the cause of our coming."

Sir Martin described one of his adventures in the Bolivian Andes. "I was 'chivvied' with considerable velocity from one mountain which I had essayed to climb with a theodolite, and I was glad to escape with my life. I was pursued fifteen miles by the enraged population of the neighboring village, and if they had not been good enough to throw stones, which hit my mule, I should have come away in a very different condition."

Training Down Daddy.

Ethel—I declare, Elsie, how well you father looks! He belongs to that downtown business men's gymnasium, doesn't he?

Elsie—Not daddy. Dad's more up to date than that. Mother and we girls talked him into joining Miss Martin's tango classes, and the improvement has been simply wonderful.—St. Louis Republic.

GERMANY'S LATEST CRAZE.

The Country Has Gone Mad Over the Mesothorium Cancer Cure.

Germany has got a craze for mesothorium, the latest of the multitude of "cancer cures" to be announced. The London Times asserts that "there is hardly a town of importance in the country which has not voted a large sum from the public funds for the purpose of purchasing some of the costly material, and where public funds are not forthcoming concerts, bazaars and such like means are adopted for raising money for the same purpose."

Mesothorium is said to have the power of emanating rays similar to but much more effective than radium, and the cost seems to be almost as great. The substance is derived from the thorium waste in the manufacture of gas mantles, and it is used in tiny portions inclosed within a silver covering in which extremely small holes are pierced. The silver box is then placed upon the part affected with cancerous growth.

One surgeon related his sole experience with mesothorium. In a case of cancer of the stomach the silver box containing the precious substance was attached to a string and given to the patient to swallow. He got the unusual pill down all right, but bit through the string and swallowed this too. The surgeon who related the story was called in to operate upon the patient in order to recover the mesothorium from his inside.

Lloyd-George's Struggles.

The Hon. David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer had many a hard struggle with poverty in his early youth. When he was sixteen Mr. Lloyd-George was articled as a clerk in a solicitor's office in Aberystwith. He had passed his preliminary law examination when he was but fourteen.

Both he and his uncle performed almost prodigious feats of saving in order that the ninety or a hundred pounds necessary before he could study for his chosen profession could be scraped together.

The money was obtained, however, and for nearly six years Lloyd-George worked and studied, and when at length he found himself a full-fledged solicitor, he was without the necessary money to buy his robes!

Now this was a tragedy indeed, for in Wales a solicitor may not appear in court without his robes. The robes cost about three guineas, and the young solicitor could get the money nowhere. However, he got a case and a way was opened to him. Without loss of time he hunted up possible clients, got two or three more cases, obtained payment in advance, purchased his robes, and duly appeared in the court.

TWO YEARS WASTED.

How Time Could Be Saved In Our Present Plan of Education.

There is a waste of at least two years in the present plan of American education. This is the conclusion reached by a committee of prominent educators in a report on "Economy of Time In Education," just issued by the United States bureau of education.

This conclusion follows an investigation lasting nearly ten years by a committee of the National Education association, of which President James H. Baker of the University of Colorado is chairman. The committee have endeavored to form a plan that would do away with the two year loss. They propose that six years be assigned to the elementary school instead of eight as at present; that the high school period be from age twelve to eighteen, divided into two parts, of four and two years each; that college work extend from eighteen to twenty or sixteen to twenty, according to the method of distributing the last two secondary years, and that graduate or professional work at a university cover the years from twenty to twenty-four. This would enable boys and girls to get ample vocational training after the age of twelve; it would enable those who go on to college to get through their college work at the age of twenty, and it would save the professional man from having to wait until twenty-seven to start his professional career.

The report insists that the present elementary course is too long; that the ground now covered in eight years can be covered just as efficiently in six, allowing secondary work to begin at the age of twelve. To save on elementary schooling they urge: "Choose the most important subjects and the most important topics; make a distinction between first rate facts and principles and tenth rate. Confine the period of elementary education to mastering the tools of education. Include the last two years of the present elementary school in the period of secondary education and begin the study of foreign language, elementary algebra, constructive geometry, elementary science and history two years earlier than at present."

Cleaning With Naphtha.

To clean a gown successfully with naphtha remember to treat it exactly the same as if it were being washed in water. Use high grade naphtha, which costs a few cents more per gallon than the other kind. Have a covered tub—something that will not give off rust or paint. Enamel is excellent. If garments are much soiled use plenty of soap (naphtha or benzine soap) and let them stand awhile in warm naphtha. Clothes should be thoroughly brushed and all spots well rubbed with soap and naphtha before they are put into soak. Naphtha can be safely heated by putting a jug of boiling water, tightly corked, into the tub, and this seems to be the secret of successful home cleansing. Light goods need to be rinsed.

An Exceptional Occupation for Women—The Sunshine Lady

Dear Elsa—Women who never in their comfortable lives have earned a cent are nowadays breaking out into the most unexpected occupations. One of the strangest ways of earning a livelihood is being carried on by an acquaintance of mine. She markets sunshine and good cheer. Did you know that these qualities were being commercialized?

Well, to tell the story of this girl from the beginning: Several months ago, upon the death of her father, the wage earning of the family was thrust upon her. She had, unfortunately, no business training and, as far as she knew, no business ability. But necessity again became the mother of invention. Summing up her personal assets, she found that they consisted, for the most part, of a cheerful disposition and a pleasant smile. She determined to turn these assets to account.

Her plan was simply to charge a fee for the sunshine and cheerfulness she contributed.

"You know," she said to me the other day, "I realized that there were lots of people who would pay for being put into good spirits. This is the reason why theaters are so successful. But there are as many more persons who prefer the quieter forms of amusement, playing cards or checkers or even discussing the latest fashions. What they desire most is cheerful human companionship. It was to these people that I decided to sell my services."

Her decision, from all appearances, was a wise one, as the sunshine business, even in this short while, is a flourishing industry, and her clients all pay cheerfully for her unusual commodities.

Of course her duties are varied, and to be a professionally cheerful person is a tax upon one's sense of humor. This plucky girl tells stories to invalids, cheers up the sick, gossips with the ladies, old and young, if need be; plays games with those who are lonely, amuses children or entertains at luncheon or dinner for a hostess who is called away. So you see my friend is indeed a sunshine lady.

Speaking of ill people, Margaret D. is at St. E.'s hospital convalescing from the effect of a severe operation. I went to see her yesterday and found her surrounded by the most beautiful floral offerings from friends. Remarking upon the loveliness of the blossoms brought forth a very pertinent question from the invalid:

"Why do friends smother an ill person with flowers during the first few days of an illness, when she is too exhausted even to look at a bouquet of flowers, much less to endure their fragrance? Why do they not save them for the tedious days of convalescence."

It never occurred to me that this is exactly the way flowers are sent to the sick. The moment one hears that a friend has to undergo an operation or is in for a siege of fever off one goes to the florist. This duty performed, there is probably not a thought of sending any more flowers.

Wouldn't it be much better to wait a week or two until the first rush of bouquets is over and until the patient is in a condition to enjoy flowers before sending them?

It is too often the case that during the first period of illness the flowers are really nauseating, and the only pleasure the patient gets from them is to read later the cards of those who bombarded the sickroom with choice but really unappreciated offerings.

So, dear, you liked the frosting "particularly" on the cake I sent you by parcel post and want to know how I did it. Certainly you shall know. Make ordinary boiled icing and, after you have beaten it stiff enough to hold its own firmly on a cake, empty it into a double boiler. Place the boiler over a good fire that will keep the water in the lower pan at a brisk boil. Do not stir the frosting at all, but watch it until it begins to fudge around the sides of the pan.

Then take it from the stove and beat it in the pan until it is cool enough and thick enough to swirl on your cake, holding its own in whatever position you wish it to penetrate.

If you let it get too cool it will harden in the pan, perhaps, before you have finished frosting your cake. This will happen if you are frosting small cakes which take time to cover one by one. If it does harden, a little hot water beaten in will remedy the difficulty.

It is the double boiling, dear, which gives the frosting the enviable fudgy, marshmallowy consistency that you liked.

And be sure not to use a knife to put on the frosting when you want it to have a swirling, irregular appearance. Use a fork handle and you will make just as good frosting as yours faithfully,

MABEL.

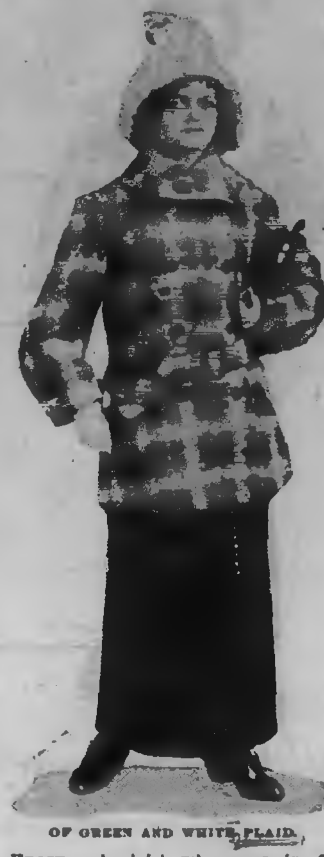
CURE SICK HEADACHE.

FOR SKATING TIME.

Every Girl Will Want a Mackinaw.



OF GREEN AND WHITE PLAID.

Every schoolgirl who goes in for sports will want a cozy mackinaw this winter—so easy to slip on and off, practically indestructible and exactly the right thing for skating, when a long coat or skirt is so in the way.

The mackinaw illustrated is a jolly looking affair in green and white plaid barred off with black lines.

General Rosalie's New Venture.

General Rosalie Jones is to teach the A B C's of suffrage in a peripatetic school on Long Island.

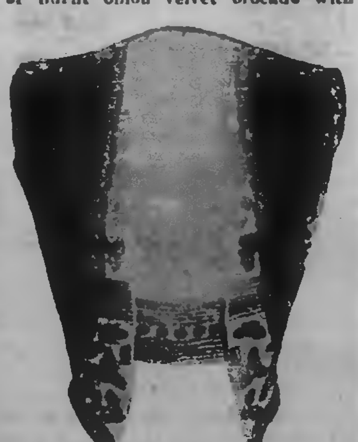
Yes; the valiant leader of the suffrage hikers will continue to hike, but in the intervals of her hike she will pause to instruct the uninstructed, and instead of General Rosalie Jones she will now be Principal Rosalie Jones, with her former captains and aids-de-camp acting as members of her faculty. Miss Ida Craft has been given the position of teacher of parliamentary law, Miss Elizabeth Freeman will head the department devoted to voice culture, the argument class will be under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Lewis, and Miss Jones will deliver a series of lectures on the history of suffrage.

School will be held in a vacant store in the main streets of the towns through which the followers of Aristotle pass. A huge bell will be intoned, and the pickers up of learning crumbs will gather to hear suffrage wisdom voiced by General (or, rather, Schoolmarm) Jones.

The Jones institute will merely start to quench the knowledge thirst of Long Island suffragists. Its members will give one or two model lessons and will then pick out capable instructors, upon whom they will let their mantles descend and will pass on to another town with their suffrage scripts and textbooks.

Beads Add Color to Smart Waistcoat.

Nothing smarter to wear with a dark tailored suit could be found than the vivid waistcoat pictured. It is made of burnt onion velvet brocade with facings of mandarin orange silk and is further beautified with a design in beads of various hues.



THE BOLERO EFFECT.

For an afternoon tea or an informal bridge party this little accessory will bring the street suit right up to the requirements of the occasion.

The Tango Coiffure.

The tango coiffure is the latest in the perfectly coifed head. It is a decidedly simple effect and yet at the same time a charming one. Waved hair is combed back straight from the forehead, with a slope upward, and coiled in the prevailing invisible chiffon. Ears are again a la mode, sometimes the lobes exposed or merely the tip glimpsed through curls caught high at the side of the head. There is not any fringe across the front of the forehead, but curls drop at the sides, sometimes in clusters of three and again in one full ringlet falling low. One single ringlet always accompanies the tango coiffure on each side of the face.

Mildew may be removed by soaking the garment in buttermilk.

Cookery Points

Cherry Rolls.

Drain the juice from a pint of canned cherries, preferably red Morello cherries, which have been sweetened when canned. While the cherries are draining make a biscuit dough of one and one-half cupfuls of flour, two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one heaping tablespoonful of lard and a little sweet milk. Roll out about one-fourth of an inch thick and cover with cherries. Roll up in a long roll and pinch the edges together, then cut into as many pieces as you have persons to serve. Put these pieces in a buttered pan and pour over them the following sauce: One cupful of granulated sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, lump of butter the size of a walnut and one cupful each of water and cherry juice. Bake in a moderate oven, basting the rolls often. Serve while hot with their sauce poured around them, and on each one place a large spoonful of whipped cream. Fresh cherries may be used in their season.

Spanish Hash.

One large onion sliced; fry in one tablespoonful of lard, butter or bacon fat; add five large tomatoes, peeled and sliced; add three sweet green peppers, sliced and seeds removed; salt to taste (one level teaspoonful); cover and cook thoroughly over a slow fire one hour; add three small boiled white potatoes sliced. Cook until a soft mass and just before serving stir in lightly two well beaten eggs.

Tastes vary in different households, and the housekeeper after the first trial may use her own judgment as to the amount of each ingredient.

Spanish hash is an excellent dish to have when the appetite is jaded, and it can be used admirably in place of meat. The long, slow cooking renders the vegetables digestible, and the eggs being added at the last moment do not become tough through overcooking.

Sparerib Potpie.

This will be found to furnish a very economical and hearty dinner. Have the butcher cut the ribs once across and then into strips. Stew gently in boiling water until the meat is almost cooked, then take it out and put into a kettle a layer of thickly sliced potatoes, then a layer of meat sprinkled with salt, pepper and celery salt and cover with small squares of baking powder dough, made up as if for biscuits. Dot this with bits of butter and continue with alternate layers of the different ingredients until the kettle is nearly filled. Have a layer of the dough on top, pour in two cupfuls of the liquor in which the meat was cooked, cover closely and boil for three-quarters of an hour. Be careful not to lift the lid of the kettle while the potpie is cooking or the crust will be soggy.

Delicious German Nut Cakes.

Two pounds of English walnuts, one pound of butternuts, one-half pound of almonds, one pound of citron, lemon and orange peel, one third each. Put this all through a fruit grinder; then add a tablespoonful each of spices, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add this to dough made of one and one-half dozen of eggs, three pounds of sugar, one tablespoonful of baking powder, five cents' worth of rosewater and enough flour to make a drop dough. Drop on a buttered and floured tin, drops of dough the size of an egg. Bake quickly. Be careful not to make dough too stiff.

Oyster Salad.

Scald twenty large oysters in their own liquor; let them stand for five minutes, then lay them on a clean cloth to dry and cool and set them on the ice, where they will become thoroughly chilled. When ready to prepare the salad mix the oysters with two cupfuls of chopped endive, crisp and cold; a teaspoonful of minced parsley and sufficient mayonnaise or boiled dressing to moisten. Arrange in individual portions in nests of crisp lettuce leaves, pour over each a teaspoonful of the dressing and garnish with grated egg yolk and a few capers.

Old Time Sugar Cookies.

One pound of sugar and one-half pound of butter. Mix until it creams. Add four eggs, one-quarter of a nutmeg, ground, and enough flour to make a soft dough that can just be rolled. Cut out; then wipe top of them with rosewater and sprinkle crushed sugar on the top. Do this after putting in floured tins. Bake quickly.

Lemon Cream.

Into one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water stir two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch dissolved in a little cold water. Add beaten yolks of three eggs, one cupful of sugar and juice of one large lemon. Boil five minutes and then stir in the whites of eggs beaten stiff. Serve very cold plain or with whipped cream.

An Eggless Cake.

Take one-half cupful of butter beaten with a cupful of sugar (either brown or white), add a cupful of sour buttermilk with a teaspoonful of soda stirred in a teaspoonful of nutmeg, two cupfuls of flour with a cupful of raisins chopped and rolled in. Bake slowly till done.

Cut off the legs of old stockings and use them for sleeve protectors.

WOMAN IN TERRIBLE STATE

Finds Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bellevue, Ohio.—"I was in a terrible state before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back ached until I thought it would break, I had pains all over me, nervous feelings and periodic troubles. I was very weak and run down and was losing hope of ever being well and strong. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I improved rapidly and today am a well woman. I cannot tell you how happy I feel and I cannot say too much for your Compound. Would not be without it in the house if it cost three times the amount."—Mrs. CHAS. CHAPMAN, R. F. D. No. 7, Bellevue, Ohio.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has remedied many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and it may be exactly what you need.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

TELEPHONE COZY.

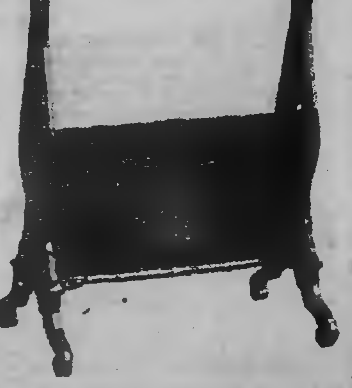
The Latest Accessory In Smart Household Trimmings.

NOVELTY IN FORM OF DOLL.

Tea Cozies Take on New Vogue and Appearance This Season—Foundation Nothing More Than Miniature Hoop Skirt—Portable Book Rack.

Quite the latest thing in the way of a telephone accessory is the telephone cozy, which furnishes an ornamental disguise for the instrument in a handsomely furnished room or hall.

This novelty usually takes the form of an elaborately dressed manikin, whose full skirt is mounted on a wire foundation of a size to conceal the telephone as it stands on table or desk. At the waist line the skirt is attached to the upper part of a doll's body. The head and shoulders of the figure serve as a handle for the cozy, so that it can easily be lifted off like a bell when the telephone is to be used.



PORTABLE BOOK RACK.

Another model, not so simple of adjustment, has the fullness of the skirt arranged to open under a front panel, allowing the telephone to be drawn forward for use, leaving the manikin in its original position on the table.

The introduction of the elaborate telephone cozy has brought about a noticeable change in the tea cozy, and many of the same unusual features are shared by the two. In the case of the tea cozy a wadded interlining is, of course, necessary in order to make it useful as a conserver of heat.

Considering the fancy price asked for one of these ornamental trifles, $20 being the average charge, the woman clever with her needle will probably study the store models and then do a little home copying. The wire foundation for a cozy of either type can easily be arrived at by making a miniature hoopskirt, narrowing it toward the top, where the doll's body is attached. Any woman who knows how to dress a doll cannot fail to be successful in the making of the modern cosey.

Another new piece of furniture pictured is a portable rack, in which favorite books and current magazines may be kept. The rack may be lifted about easily wherever the invalid's chair is wheeled, and books and periodicals will always be within reach.

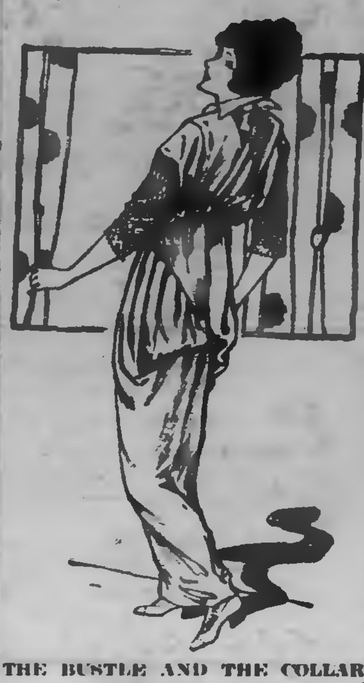
THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION



THE BUSTLE AND THE COLLAR THAT ARE NEW

A peacock blue mohair in a soft part wool weave, has been used by Premet as a medium for developing the newest ideas in the bustle drapery that has come into extreme favor for the spring. Of course it is not a really bustle at all, only a bouffant draping of the material. The collar of white organdy in this plain shape seems to be, in part at least, taking the place of the frill.

Two Eggless Recipes.

Cabbage or Salad Dressing.—Melt in a double boiler one generous tablespoonful of butter. Add to it one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of made mustard, three dashes of paprika, one quarter teaspoonful of salt, white pepper to taste. When these are well blended add slowly, stirring constantly to avoid lumps, one-half pint of boiling water and three drops of Worcestershire sauce. Continue stirring until thick. Cook five minutes; if too thick put in a little more water. Should the dressing be for cold slaw pour it while hot over finely shredded cabbage; if for salads use when cold.

Surprise Molasses Cake.—Put into a deep agate pan one-half pint of baking molasses, two generous tablespoonfuls of sweet lard, the grated rind of one orange, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt and one small teaspoonful of baking soda. Put these on the fire for two minutes to melt; remove, heat for two minutes; pour in one gill of boiling water, stir up and add one pint good measure of sifted flour, beat long enough to remove lumps. Grease twelve large muffin pans and put in batter, which will seem thin; bake twenty minutes in a brisk oven; take care that it does not burn.

Knew His Man.

James MacNeill Whistler and Oscar Wilde did not love each other overmuch. Constantly they met in London drawing-rooms where each enjoyed a reputation as a wit, and it was not unnatural that jealousy sometimes fanned the fuel of their hate. On one occasion Whistler made a particularly apt remark that won applause even from Wilde. "By Jove, Whistler," he exclaimed, "I wish I had said that!" "Never mind," said Whistler, nonchalantly, "you will."

Oh! he never goes to a real restaurant; he just goes into one of those eat-off-your-coat-sleeve places.

"GOOD LUCK" CHARM WORKED

The Woman Might have taken the Whole Roll.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—Two women posing as gypsies and charged with conducting a clever flim-flam game were arrested by detectives yesterday on the complaint of Molson Lalonde, a grocer, who claims that they relieved him of $25. A number of complaints have been made to the police of women temporarily renting small stores, telling fortunes, and by sleight-of-hand work extracting bills from rolls of money banded them to have a "good luck" charm put upon it.

The women arrested gave the names of Katherine Helena, aged 55, and Alexandra Frederica, aged 22.

Mr. Lalonde states that after mumbling incantation one of the women handed back his roll apparently in the same condition she received it, but he later missed from it two bills, a $20 and $5.

WATCHERS SILENT AS BODY OF WRECK VICTIM IS BROUGHT ASHORE

FABER PHOTO

BRINGING BODY OF MRS THOMAS HARRINGTON ASHORE AT NORFOLK.

One of the most pathetic of the stories told by the survivors of the Monroe, which sank off Hog Island, with a loss of forty lives, was the struggle of Thomas Harrington, of Bridgeport, Conn., to save his wife.

Mrs. Harrington was only twenty-four years old, handsome and possessed much musical ability. After the Nantucket had plunged half way through the Monroe Mr. Harrington and his wife reached the boat deck of the Monroe to find a place in the boats which had been lowered. Knowing the Monroe would go down under their feet in another moment, Mr. Harrington, well known as an athlete, took his wife in his arms and leaped overboard with her. She could not swim, but her husband took her long braid of brown hair between his teeth to hold her up and began to swim with her toward the Nantucket.

It was more than half an hour before they were picked up. Mrs. Harrington was unconscious, and Mr. Harrington lost consciousness the moment he felt the clutch of one of the Nantucket's sailors.

The crew of the Nantucket worked hard to revive them, but the shock and exposure had been too much for Mrs. Harrington, and when her husband recovered consciousness an hour later she was dead.

COL. SAM HUGHES WAS QUIZZED BY GRIT MEMBER

Drill Day in House of Commons Results in Voting of Items of Supply But Opposition Lacks Vigor.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5.—The House of Commons was in the doldrums yesterday and spent most of the time passing estimates. The Opposition raised several small points, but seemed to lack direction. The most exciting episode of the day came when a Liberal member undertook to quiz Hon. Col. Sam Hughes concerning his travels of the past summer. He got breezy characteristic replies for his pains, but no political capital.

At the question hour Col. Sam Hughes answered a number of interrogations about his trip to England and the famous visit with Sir Ian Hamilton to Queenston Heights. The cross-examiner was Mr. Proulx (Lib., Prescott) and he asked if the Minister of Militia had accompanied Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton to the political picnic of Ward Four Conservative Association at Queenston Heights in July last wearing a badge inscribed "Borden and our Empire," and was so photographed.

Col. Hughes said that he was there with Sir Ian as his guest on the day in question, inspecting Queenston Heights from a military point of view, that there were a great many picnics going on, that he wore a badge showing "a stalwart young Canadian grasping, across the Atlantic, the hand of John Bull," that the Minister and Sir Ian was photographed some score of times that day "with a lot of fine people," and "doubtless many of them, apparently intelligent, belonged to the Conservative Association."

With regard to the trip to England, Hon. Col. Hughes said there were 21 officers, a private secretary and her assistant, and two orderlies in the party, no wives and daughters were in the party "officially." The expense of the ladies were borne by their husbands and fathers, and the expenses of the party paid by the Government amounted to $24,262. The officers, while on the trip, received pay according to rank, amounting to $3,984, and for subsistence and other allowance received $10 a day. Members of the party other than officers received actual expenses and their permanent pay.

The officers saw the French, Swiss and British manoeuvres, while the Minister of Militia visited the German divisional manoeuvres, and the Dutch and Belgian military centres.

Mr. Michaud was told that men enlisted for military service to resist the Fenian raid in 1866 consisted of 122,031, divided as follows: Upper Canada, 12,199; Lower Canada, 7,598; Nova Scotia, 59,379, and New Brunswick, 44,055.

In the year 1870 the men called out numbered 43,541, divided as follows: Ontario, 20,956; Quebec, 15,066; Nova Scotia, 4,192, and New Brunswick, 3,327. The total called out to resist the two raids numbered 166,572.

Col. Hughes stated that already 16,470 bounty payments had been made. There are many more applications still coming in, the influx being now principally from Nova Scotia.

MUST RAISE STANDARD

Farmers Awakening to Needs None Too Soon, Says Mr. Creelman

CHATHAM, Feb. 5. — Visitors to the annual corn show which opened here Tuesday were given an official welcome at a largely attended meeting in the auditorium of the I.O.O.F. building last night by Mayor McCorvie and G. W. Sullivan, M.P.P. Afterwards interesting addresses were given by Hon. James Duff and Dr. Creelman of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Mr. Duff deprecated the spirit that permitted an agriculturist to speak of himself as "only a farmer." Self respect was the first step towards gaining the respect of others. He was glad to be present at a gathering in that section of Ontario destined in all probability to become the seed plot of a continent.

Dr. Creelman pleaded for a higher standard of rural life, the speedy coming of which he predicted. The farmer was now thinking for himself, said Dr. Creelman, and was moreover able to go upon the public platform and discuss his business. The country school and the country church were awakening to a new vision of their mission in rural life and not before it was time.

"Why not have a short course for country preachers at the college?" asked Dr. Creelman. "Then these men could teach morals and religion to farmers in the terms of their daily life."

The large audience appreciated the point when the speaker described the plight of the country boy in the past "when he sat in the woodbox whittling a stick and whistling for want of thought."

Lips Made From Forearm.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 5.—With a part of his forearm substituted for new lips, Ross Allen, a young Canadian, at a hospital here, seems to be in a favorable way to have practically the whole of his face newly shaped.

Allen entered the hospital about two months ago with his face disfigured from an accident in a sawmill five years previously. His nose and lips were missing.

When Allen accumulates sufficient strength for another operation, the surgeons will try to build him a new nose.

Hon. W. T. White Ill.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5. — Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, will not be able to be in the House for some weeks yet, according to statements made yesterday. The results of the operation upon his ear, which was rendered necessary after a severe cold, have not been so satisfactory as was expected.

Boiling Point.

Mrs. Longwedde—Such a charming husband Mrs. Von Pickle has! So tender after ten years of marriage.

Mr. Longwedde—Quite natural. It would make a rhinoceros tender to be kept in hot water for ten years.—New York Evening Journal.

Lettuce for salad should be well dried, as well as cold.

NEARLY READY FOR THE TRIP

Aeroboat for Flight Across Atlantic is Almost Completed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Plans for flying across the Atlantic Ocean in an aeroplane, which has long been a matter of imaginative speculation among airmen, were reduced yesterday, according to an announcement made at the headquarters of the Aero Club of America, to a definite proposal to cruise through the air lanes from Newfoundland to the west of Ireland during the present year. Not only was an announcement made that a transatlantic trip will be attempted, but it was given out that the construction of a giant aeroplane, or rather aeroboat, in which the trial is to be made, was commenced six months ago at Hammondsport, N.Y., and that the machine is now rapidly nearing completion. Rodman Wanamaker is the backer of the transatlantic expedition, and the aeroboat in which it is to be attempted has been designed under his supervision by Glenn H. Curtiss.

It is the intention of Rodman Wanamaker to have the giant flying boat driven to Europe by two aviators especially selected by the Secretary of the Navy from the navy's aeronautic corps.

WHEEL WRECKED HOUSE.

It Rolled From Auto and Crashed Through Window.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Feb. 5. —The wheel of a large automobile, said to have been going a mile a minute, went through the pantry window of Mrs. Isabelle Seymour's home here yesterday, sending dishes in all directions. Then it entered the kitchen, knocked the stove to pieces and set the house on fire. Next it hit the other side of the house, which stopped it.

The wheel, which weighed more than one hundred pounds, was broken from the automobile of William Ricker of New York, as it was coming down steep Armory Hill.

The wheel gained momentum for a hundred feet or so, then knocked over a fence at the side of the road and went down a precipitous incline to Mrs. Seymour's home.

Life Assurance

Fifteen years ago a prominent merchant on George Street took out a 10 pay 15 year endowment policy No. 69879, for $2000 on his life at age 45 in the Sun Life of Canada, premium $189.50.

Had this man taken a non-par policy his premium would have been $172.50 or $17.00 per year less.

PARTICIPATING RESULTS.		NON-PAR RESULTS.
$2637.75	Total cash 1st Dec. last	$2000.00

Now, this man paid $17.00 per year for 10 years only, or $170.00 all told and it yielded him $637.75 in profits. Just figure out what rate of interest that is on the $17.00 per year, paid extra for profits, and see if you would not like to invest a few dollars at the same rate. TWO MEMBERS OF QUEBEC INQUIRY COMMITTEE RESIGN

Hon. Adelard Turgeon and Hon. Mr. Champagne, Among Others, Are Mentioned in List of Names Given by Mousseau to Hyland as Requiring to be Fixed.

QUEBEC, Feb. 5.—The session of the special committee of the Legislative Council yesterday to inquire into the accusations of bribery against two members of the council in connection with the "Montreal Fair Bill" was brief and dramatic.

Further names of Quebec legislators were put into evidence by Editor Edward Beck as having been named by P. O. Mousseau when quoting prices to Mr. Hyland, the Burns detective. As a result of the evidence two of the men mentioned, Hon. Adelard Turgeon and Hon. Mr. Champagne, resigned from the committee of inquiry.

Mr. Beck, continuing his evidence, told of Mr. Hyland's payment of two five hundred dollar bills to Mr. Mousseau, who received them with the exclamation, "Magnificent." Discussing the prices of different members, Mr. Beck interrupted his evidence to remark to the committee that he himself took no responsibility for what he was about to say, but that he was merely repeating what he heard Mousseau tell Mr. Hyland.

The list he gave was as follows: Hon. Mr. De Varennes $1,000, Hon. Mr. Berard $2,000, Mr. Mousseau $1,160, Mr. Lanctot $500, Hon. Mr. Turgeon $200, Hon. Mr. Gilman $200, Hon. Mr. Perodeau $500, Hon. Mr. Bergevin $100.

The conversation over this list, as told by Mr. Beck, displayed the fact that, according to the evidence, Mr. Mousseau was anxious to cut down the prices and save as much money as possible for Mr. Hyland. It was the latter who thought of Mr. Gilman, said Mr. Beck. Hyland said: "What about Gilman?" whereupon Mousseau said: "Oh, by God, yes! You will have to do something for him."

Hyland was willing to allow $500 for Hon. Mr. Turgeon; but Mousseau thought the price too high, and also objected to $1,000 for Mr. Lanctot. He thought $100 would do for Hon. Mr. Bergevin, though Mr. Hyland said he did not believe in giving anything so individually small.

Mr. Beck continued: "Mousseau said' 'Put $100 down for Hon. Mr. Champagne.' Hyland replied that it had better be made $200, but the same was not put on the list at all. There were no other names," concluded Mr. Beck.

Following Mr. Beck's evidence, Hon. Mr. Turgeon declared that, while he did not consider his honor attacked, under the circumstances he thought the best thing for him was to resign from the committee. He added: "I deny in the most solemn manner that I was ever approached in connection with said bill by any person whatsoever, or that I was influenced in any manner, either directly or indirectly, by offer, promise, or payment of any sum of money, advantage or benefit."

He then read a notarial statement, signed by Mr. Mousseau, in which Mousseau declared that any allegation that he had approached Hon. Mr. Turgeon in relation to the bill in question was not true.

Hon. Mr. Perodeau also made similar declaration of innocence and read a similar notarial document signed by Mousseau.

Hon. Mr. Champagne did likewise and added his resignation as a member of the investigating committee, remarking: "Even though my name was not left on the revised price list I feel I should resign as a member of this committee." This left but two members of the committee, but to conclude the formalities of the sitting Mr. Turgeon consented to act for the time being and then he resigned again.

At the inquiry which is being conducted by the Legislative Assembly Hon. Louis Philippe Berard, formerly of the upper house and one of the accused politicians, was chief witness yesterday. When asked during his examination if he had met a man named Sampson at the Chateau Frontenac, the witness said after a long pause:

"On the advice of my lawyers I declare that I refuse to answer a question which might incriminate me."

To a dozen questions on the same point and on his knowledge regarding the Montreal Fair Bill he returned the same answer. His evidence was accordingly suspended pending the completion of the testimony of other witnesses.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM SAYS VON JAGOW

Germany and Britain Are on Excellent Terms.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Anglo-German relations are "very good," according to the German Foreign Minister, Gottlieb Von Jagow, in a speech before the Ways and Means Committee of the Imperial Parliament yesterday. This utterance is the strongest official characterization of the relations between the two countries that has been expressed in years.

The Foreign Minister declared that the one-time tension was steadily decreasing and that the relations of the two Governments were now marked throughout by mutual trust.

Admiral Alfred Von Tirpitz, Minister of Marine, declared he had nothing to add to his statement of last year that England's proposed fleet ratio of sixteen to ten as compared to that of Germany was acceptable to the German Empire.

Both Herr Von Jagow and Admiral Van Tirpitz expressed the opinion that the unofficial suggestion of a year's naval shipbuilding holiday made by Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, was impracticable.

Their view was shared by the representatives of all the parties with the exception of the Socialists.

Admiral Von Tirpitz refuted the argument that Germany was setting the pace in naval armaments, and showed by statistics that Germany had increased her naval expenditures during the last five years by 55,000,00 marks ($13,750,000), as compared with an increase of 216,000,000 marks ($54,000,000) by Great Britain, not counting 60,000,000 marks in the anticipated supplementary estimates. In the same period the naval expenditures of France increased 134,000,000 marks, and Russia 302,000,000 marks.

Insurance Rates May Go Up.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—The council of the Board of Trade yesterday agreed to endorse the representations to the City Council of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association with regard to the repeated shortages and stoppages of the water supply, particularly during the last eighteen months, that unless the investigation asked for by the Board of Trade and other organizations is held without delay and prompt action taken on the resulting report, the underwriters would be compelled to make a heavy increase in the rates in the city.

The income of $15,000 is placed in trust for him, and he receives outright real estate in Pictou, Nova Scotia.

This was disclosed when the text of the will was made known yesterday by the late peer's attorneys in this city. Smith was the son of Lady Strathcona by a former husband.

MARTIN HARVEY'S GREAT DRAMA "THE ONLY WAY" AT THE GRAND

Impressive Story of the French Revolution Depicted With Powerful Effect—A Study in Contrasts— A Sad and Tragic Play — "It is a Far Far Better Thing"

"THE ONLY WAY" is very tragic and very sad.

This was the impression left upon the mind after witnessing the play last evening by Martin Harvey and his company at the Grand Opera House.

Many would express disappointment that it did not have a happier ending. Most people crave for and demand that every story should end up with the marriage bells.

This one ended with the marriage bells, but you could not hear them, for they were ringing in happy England and the clamor of the rabble and the clash of the guillotine in Paris drowned the music; and the central figure of the drama went down in blood.

This is art. If you want the other thing Martin Harvey is not the one to give it to you. No one reflecting upon Dickens' great drama could conceive of any other way out for the disappointed and disreputable, and yet lovable Sydney Carton—it was indeed "The Only Way."

To see Harvey in this play is like reading a classical tragedy, or rather, seeing one enacted in flesh and blood—and plenty of blood. The horrors of the French Revolution were depicted with cruel reality. There was never anything more horrible put on the stage than the Tribunal scene, and to realize the state of France at the time of that awful social cataclysm, makes one very thankful for arriving a little late in the history of the world, and that bloody revolutions are not popular in Peterboro, as they were in Paris at one time.

The English garden scene with its peaceful green enclosure was a beautiful picture and perhaps accentuated the horror of the Tribune Chamber by the power of contrast.

While Martin Harvey was the central figure, the whole cast was made up of first class actors. Miss De Silva, as Mimi, looks and acts her part naturally and without effort. Maude Rivers made a charming Lucie Manette, and it was no wonder two men fell in love with her, if she had only chosen Carton and let the Frenchman go to the guillotine, the story would not have been so sad, but women are—women.

The final tableax is historic in stage productions and no one could but be moved by the scene with Sydney Carton standing against the red dawn and uttering the words: "It is a far, far better thing that I do now than I have even done. It is a far, far better rest that I go it than I have ever known."

There is some compensation for the tragedy in these final words of the fate-led Carton.

Eugene Wellesly, Alfred Ibberson, Charles Glenney nad Kenheth Black are all fine actors. Mr. Glenny made a rather boisterous Ernest Defarge, but doubtless that democrat had reason to be, as he had revenge in his blood.

This evening Martin Harvey and his company are to present a very difficult kind of play. Sydney Carton is only one of the great English actor's many "egos."

This may be the only opportunity of seeing Martin Harvey in Peterboro for some time to come, as the English stage is very jealous of its great actors and does not like to part with them for long. The Company is touring the whole of Canada from east to west, visiting the prairie cities, and on to Vancouver, returning to England in May. Thus far they have been received by full houses and enthusiastic audiences, and a good crowd is expected tonight to witness "The Breed of the Treshams.

A TRIP ON THE KONGO.

Care Free Voyaging on Small Wood Burning Steamboats.

A trip by steamboat on the Kongo river has its lazily amusing attractions as you descend from Stanleyville to the railway at Leopoldville, a voyage of twelve days. The boats, small, stern wheel affairs, carry from twenty to thirty cabin passengers each. On the lower deck are the black travelers, sometimes in a stifling crowd, sprawling over the cargo. Most of the captains are Swedes, Russians or Germans, and the engineers are picked up in Sierra Leone. Two companies run boats, and several of the mission stations have steamboats of their own besides.

Some of the boats have small dining rooms; others set the tables on deck, protected from the sun by awnings. The food is not luxurious, and very little fresh meat is to be had. The fuel is wood, and every five or six hours the boat must stop to replenish the supply from a heap of cut sticks on the bank. These piles of wood are made by natives or by scattered traders, often where no habitation is near, and in such cases the captain pays for the wood by putting money in a box that the trusting woodsman has provided for the purpose.

Every boat carries a drum, and as it approaches an inhabited district the drum is beaten to tell the natives that goats, fruit or vegetables are wanted. Every night the steamer ties up against the bank, and all the black passengers go to sleep on shore. But they devote most of the night to merrymaking and keep those on the boat as wide awake as themselves.—Youth's Companion.

It takes some women a year to learn to talk and then it takes them the rest of their lives to learn not to.

KING AS AN ANGLER.

His Majesty Is an Enthusiastic Wielder of the Rod.

If Izaak Walton could be re-incarnated it is quite certain that King George would have no greater admirer or more loyal subject than the genial "Father of Angling," who has never had a more enthusiastic disciple than His Majesty.

King Edward was an expert wielder of the rod, and caught many a fine salmon in the waters of the Dee and the Tweed; but, as old Donald Morgan used to say, His Majesty was "not awfu' enthusiastic," a description which, we may be sure, Donald Stewart, King George's devoted companion and henchman on many a fishing expedition, would never apply to the present occupant of the throne of England.

"I love a gun," King George confessed recently, "but I am never quite so happy as when I am fishing the pools of the Dee, with the long day before me." And it is while fishing these pools in the royal preserves of Abergeldie and Balmoral, remote from courts and the crowds of men, that His Majesty has spent some of the most delightful days of his life.

Every spring for many years past the King has spent several weeks at Abergeldie, indulging to the full in his favorite pastime. Usually with only one companion, Sir Charles Cust, he makes his headquarters at a small, two-storeyed house, Abergeldie Mains, a few yards distant from the ancient castle. Here he leads the simple, primitive life, rising early, faring plainly, and living entirely for his sport. He usually starts at about ten o'clock in the morning, with his companion and a couple of attendants—Donald Stewart, His Majesty's head gamekeeper, and Arthur Grant, the gillie, have mostly been his companions of the humbler sort—and he devotes the whole day to the rod, smoking mild cigarettes almost incessantly.

About noon a carriage brings luncheon to the pools where His Majesty is working, and after a smoke and rest on the bank fishing is resumed as long as the light lasts, when the return for dinner is made. A postprandial cigar and a gossip over the day's sport follow, and then it is early to bed for a good night's rest before the next day's fishing.

It was at these waters of Abergeldie that the King first learnt the gentle art of wielding a rod, nearly forty years ago, with his father and John Brown as mentors, and he still recalls his delight at landing his first fish one spring day in the early 'sixties, and Brown's enthusiastic "Guid! Ye'll mak a braw feesher some day, Prince Geordie."

The King, we are told, uses an 18-foot, split-cane, steel-centred rod, in preference to the greenheart beloved of Dee fishermen, and most of his fish have been taken with the fly. As a caster he has few equals, and he is an expert in every form of tackle. Not long ago, it is said, so keen was he on testing a new form of tackle which had been sent to St. James's Palace for his inspection that he actually left a levee which was in progress in order to gratify his curiosity.

The weather has no terrors for His Majesty, and during one terrible week of blizzards, frosts, and howling gales he was out all day at Abergeldie, and counted himself amply rewarded when, at the end of the week, he creeled a beauty of 9lb. with the very last cast of the day.

Ill-Fated Steamer Located?

LONDON, Feb. 5.—What is believed to be the sunken hulk of the James S. Carruthers, the ill-fated freighter which went down with all hands on Lake Huron in the terrific storm early in November, has been found north by northeast of Alpena, by several fishermen.

LUCK AND LOVE.

First He Won the Father, and Then He Captured the Heiress.

A dozen years ago, fresh from the school of Versailles, came a young under lieutenant of artillery in his new uniform, returning from Normandy, where he had been to see his brother. On the train the young officer found himself seated beside an old man, who, like himself, was going to Paris.

They entered into conversation. An amiable intimacy was established between the two travelers. At the west station the old gentleman, taking leave of the young officer, said, "I need a son-in-law like you."

Three months later the officer returned to Normandy. He narrated the incident of the journey to his brother and questioned him about the strange companion.

"I know this old fellow," responded the brother. "Do you know that he offered you a very pretty partner? His daughter possesses an income of 100,000 francs."

"Where is she? I'll go after her," said the officer.

The brother made a sorrowful gesture. "Alas! you are a little late."

"Eh, what! Is the young girl to be married?"

"No; her father was buried eight days ago."

The lieutenant was silent for a moment. "But I knew her father. A visit of condolence is imposed upon me."

Dressed in his best uniform, he called upon the lady. He spoke in the most tender terms of the old gentleman. Without doubt the prestige of the uniform was not without effect on the young provincial, and the story as in the pleasant dramas, ended with a marriage. The lieutenant is now a prominent member of the chamber of deputies.—Cri de Paris.

TALES OF TWO DANCES.

London Society at First Rebelled Against Waltz and Polka.

When the waltz first appeared in London it raised a social rumpus. The dance came from Poland to London by way of Portsmouth, where its advantages were at once apparent to the women, though the men did not much like seeing other men clasping their wives. It was first danced at Almack's in London by Lady Jersey and two or three of her friends, and society was riven from top to bottom into the waltzers and anti-waltzers. In spite of Lady Jersey's powerful influence, there seemed little chance of the acceptance of the waltz. In 1816 the allied sovereigns came to London and visited Almack's. There they joined in the waltz and removed it from the realm of discussion. The waltz needed but three sovereigns to make it respectable.

The polka excited almost as much controversy as the waltz on its first introduction into England. Lady Dorothy Nevill recalls a scene at a ball in the late thirties when a deputation of ladies begged the hostess, Mrs. Spencer Stanhope, to allow the polka to be danced by six ladies who understood it. Permission being accorded, the six stepped out with their partners, all of them, curiously enough, dressed in black, which caused people to say it was a chimney sweep's dance. Extraordinary excitement was created by the innovation, Lady Jersey, the Duchess of Bedford and a number of other women clambering up on the chairs and benches to gain a better view.

History of the Saw.

The earliest tool that has been traced in Egyptian history is the saw. It was found first in the form of a notched bronze knife in the third dynasty, or about 5,000 years before the Christian era, and was followed in the fourth and fifth dynasties by larger toothed saws, which were used by carpenters, but there are no dated specimens until the seventh century before the Christian era, when the Assyrians used iron saws. The first knives on record were made out of flint and were, in fact, saws with minute teeth. They probably were used for cutting up animals, as the teeth would break away even on soft wood. Rasps, which are but a form of saw, were first made of sheets of bronze punched and coiled round, but the Assyrians in the seventh century used the straight rasp made of iron similar to the modern type.

An old catalogue kept near the stove is handy to set a sooty pan on in an emergency.

GRAND TRUNK TEAM WINS ANOTHER TROPHY

The second competition between teams from the shops of the various companies interested for the Canadian Ambulance Association trophy presented by the Dominion Bridge Company, was held at the Railway Y.M.C.A., Sebastopol Street, Point St. Charles, on Saturday afternoon last. Four teams competed—The Dominion Bridge Co., The Canada Steel Co., The Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk. This trophy was held last year by the C. P. R. team. The Grand Trunk team carried off the honors. The members of the winning team being as follows:

No. 1—A. Poitras, Rolling Mill staff.

No. 2—E. Castles, Wheel Shop staff.

No. 3—H. Slack, Freight Car Shop Staff.

No. 4—F. Russell, Iron Foundary Staff.

No. 5—R. Reed, Boiler Shop Staff.

The judges were Drs. W. J. Patterson, Robert Wilson and H. B. Carmichael. The result is specially complimentary to the winning team as this is the second important competition in which they have captured the honors, having won the Wallace Nesbitt Challenge Trophy on Jan. 16th.

The work that is being carried on by the St. John Ambulance Association is a very praiseworthy cause. The Grand Trunk centre was first organized at their Point St. Charles shops in 1911 with about 12 members, today the membership numbers 45, and the work of organization is being extended to all terminal points on the system. Classes are now being formed at Ottawa, Toronto, Stratford and London, and it is the ultimate intention to extend work to the trainmen and even the general offices.

I advise you to buy my Lots, as they are perfect in every respect, affording the most profitable safe investment obtainable. Every person who bought from me during the past six years is more than pleased, and have good reason for being so. The lots sold were very fine, but not as high land as those now offered. My reason for offering at this season is that after the holidays all wise people settle down to earn money. Some save, many don't. Do you? Five years ago wise parents, having two boys, 16 and 18 years, just commencing to earn, accepted my advice, caused them to buy lots and impose a must upon themselves to save and pay for the lots; this they did and got their deeds, bought again and sold at good profit, buying a third time, and now owning property worth at least $1400, with about $100.00 to pay.

These are facts I can prove, and this is only one of many similar cases. Am I not justified in urging you to buy, and is it not greatly in your interest to do so? Lots $150, $175, and $200, corners and large blocks. Terms: $5 deposit, on one or two lots; no interest nor any further payments until May, when streets will be graded and all lots properly staked. If satisfied with your lots, pay $10 more, and $15 quarterly. Hereafter on one or two lots, including interest at six per cent. per annum, from May 1st. Six per cent. discount for larger cash payments. This offer good for this month. Call, see plans and select what you want. Your $5 back if wanted.

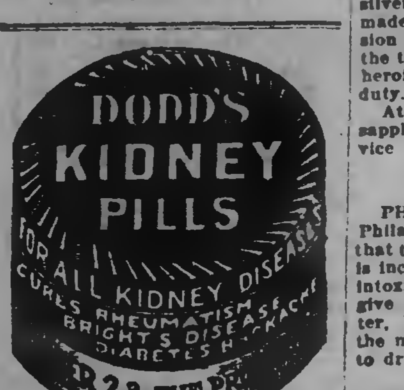
GEN. SMUTS SAYS IT WAS A PLOT

He Accuses Leaders of South African Strikers With Conspiracy.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 5.—Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, Minister of Defence, was cheered by all sections except the Laborites when he arose in the Assembly yesterday to move the second reading of the bill to indemnify the Government for its acts under martial law. After he had spoken for nearly four hours in justification of the Government's action in declaring martial law and deporting the strike leaders, the House adjourned. Gen. Smuts will resume his speech to-day.

The Minister of Defence argued that the Government had to deal with no ordinary strike, but a Syndicalist conspiracy of the worst type. The Trades Federation had attempted to paralyze trade and transportation, and terrorize and starve the community in order to compel surrender to its demands. To defeat this conspiracy and prevent the country from succumbing to anarchy, it became necessary to mobilize a larger military force than was employed in the Boer Republics at the outbreak of the war. He declared that Secretary Bain of the Trades Federation, one of the men deported, was the most prominent in inciting violence. He had known Bain when he was employed in the secret service of the Boer Government, and declared him to be one of the most desperate characters he had ever encountered.



"LET THEM DIE?"

"Do the Unfit Get Too Much Coddling" Asks Sir Wm. Ramsay.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Sir William Ramsay raised the question whether the unfit should be left to die, at the annual dinner of the Institute of Sanitary Engineers last night. He surprised his audience by asking whether it was right that people should be "so coddled as they are." Were they not doing something to prolong lives of the unfit? Would it not be better to let some of them die out? They insisted on children getting education, and the result was that many went to school starved; they had to give them breakfast and had to find them boots. Ultimately they would have to take over the children entirely. Where was that sort of thing going to stop, he asked.

Rate War Will Aid Immigration.

MONTREAL, Feb. 5.—The shipping rate war, in the opinion of local agents, is likely to lead to a large increase in the immigration of Europeans of the laboring class, providing ample material for railway and other construction work. This may result in lower wages being paid to laborers in Canada. Further reductions in third-class steamship passages are anticipated.

Heroic Captain Rewarded.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Captain Francis Inch, commander of the steamship Volturno, which was burned in mid-Atlantic on Oct. 11, 1913, with a loss of 135 lives, was presented yesterday with the freedom of the City of London in a silver casket and also with a gold medal, a gold watch and chain, a purse of gold and Lloyd's silver medal. The presentation was made by the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House. He told Capt. Inch that the tokens were in recognition of his heroism and staunch allegiance to duty."

At the same time a diamond and sapphire pendant and a silver tea service were presented to Mrs. Inch.

Bonus For Abstainers.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5. — The Philadelphia Quartz Co., believing that the efficiency of the working man is increased by total abstinence from intoxicating liquors, has offered to give employes of the plant in Chester, Pa., a ten per cent. bonus to the men who sign an agreement not to drink.

Antiquity of Football.

At Derby a game of football was played as early as the third century, in commemoration of a victory over the Roman legion at Chester. The first football used in the annual game, still played each Easter, is said to have been the head of a Danish invader. In the isle of Purbeck, too, says The London Chronicle, the free quarrymen from time immemorial have perpetrated their claim to a grant of land by kicking a football across it. In the 14th century the game was so popular as to call forth an edict forbidding it, on the ground that it interfered with the practice of more martial exercise. In later times Shakespeare referred contemptuously to the game, but perhaps few would be able to turn up readily the passage in King Lear describing "a base football player."

LEAVING THE SERVICE

How the British Soldiers Fare Seeking Fresh Fields.

What next? That is the problem which confronts the man who is about to leave the British military or naval service, and he finds it by no means easy of solution. Work of some kind he must obtain. First question: What kind is going? Second: Where is it to be obtained?

It used to be no easy matter for a man who had for years been used to the routine of a soldier's life and was getting on in years to fit himself into a place in which he could earn enough to live on in comfort. Nowadays, however, things are different, and many occupations are open to him.

The principal field for ex-soldiers and sailors is the Civil Service, many appointments in which are now specially reserved for them. Numerous vacancies of what are officially styled the "messenger class"—housekeeper, office-keeper, etc.—are filled from the ranks of time-expired men, who are likewise eligible for such positions as postmen, telegraphist, clerk, assistant storekeeper, prison warder, etc.

For any of such posts a candidate must have an exemplary character. In general, also, he is required to pass an examination, which is usually simple and non-competitive. But army reserve men and discharged soldiers who possess an army second-class certificate of education are eligible for some appointments without examination.

An important concession is made in favor of all ex-soldiers and sailors. Service may be deducted from the actual age. If, for instance, a man is, by the irrefutable evidence of his papers forty years old, he may, by knocking off the number of years he has spent in the army or navy, bring himself well within the usual age limits (21—35) for the "messenger class."

To obtain a position in a Government department, application should be made to the secretary to the Civil Service Commission, Burlington Gardens, W. A register is kept of candidates' names, and from this vacancies are filled up as they occur.

But, though the civil service is the largest field open to time-expired men, there are many positions outside it for which they are preferred, some of them of an unobvious character.

Ex-soldiers are frequently selected as instructors in drill and gymnastics, R.S.P.C.A. (Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals) inspectors, school-attendance officers, etc. Those appointed as gymnastic instructors under such bodies as the London County Council must hold the first-class certificate for physical training of the Royal Military Gymnasium, Aldershot; but no such qualification is required for the post of assistant instructor; though, of course, a candidate must satisfy a council that he is competent to assist the instructor.

In the case of R.S.P.C.A. inspectorships, ex-soldiers are liked on grounds of character and discipline, and educational bodies regard them with favor because they are used to filling up forms!

Old bluejackets are in demand for certain work owing to their well-deserved reputation for "handiness." A curious proof of this is that certain cinematograph firms have recently appointed some of them to their staffs for the purpose of dealing with the many difficulties which crop up in the preparation of plays for filming. All manner of contrivances are wanted, and experience has shown that in inventing and making them, the ex-sailor is second to none.

Our Wooden Shoe Wearers.

According to a government announcement, the wooden shoe industry in America is growing. These shoes cost from about 60 to 75 cents a pair and are good for two years. They are worn by those who have to work in cold or wet places, such as tanneries, breweries and livery stables, and by workingmen in steel mills and glass factories who must walk on hot grates or floors.

Jews Oust Habitants.

The character of an entire parish near Montreal has been changed, Jewish agriculturists gradually ousting habitant farmers. The parish is Ste. Sophie de la Corne, county of Terrebonne, seven miles from St. Jerome. Mixed farming has to a great extent, been displaced by extensive tobacco culture, Turkish tobacco being grown in surprising quantities. Originally the district was a Scottish settlement, but French-Canadians farmers took it over slowly. The new invasion by Jews came, and now there are only three French-Canadians and on English farmer in the entire parish. In the event of a sale of property it is always turned over to a Jew. They have a school and own the village store. Summer residences for Jews of the city are now being built. The establishment of a sanitarium is now contemplated for the use of Jewish patients exclusively.

INTERMEDIATES WIN DISTRICT HONORS--DAVE ROWAN FAVORED AS MANAGER FOR THE HAMILTON CLUB

BLUE AND WHITE INVADE WHITBY AND CAPTURE DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP

Whitby Scored the First Two Goals, But the Petes Got Them Back Before Half-time and Remained in the Lead---Final Count Was 6-4

By Staff Reporter

District champions 1913-14. That's the honors the local Intermediates won last night when they swooped down on the Whitby aggregation, and came home with a 6—4 victory. There should be nothing to it now and if the boys deliver the same calibre of hockey when they go higher up the ladder, this old burg will hold the Intermediate O. H. A. champions.

With some predicting a defeat, and others an easy win, over 100 wooden-lunged rooters accompanied the septet on the special and sleepy old Whitby was raised from its trance about 8.30, when they arrived. To say that the Whitby rink is a pretty fair rink would be no misrepresentation, although no person came away last night with the impression that it had anything on the Arena in Toronto. It is just an average rink, a little shorter than Brock and perhaps a trifle wider. The lights are fine.

The game commenced about nine o'clock and it sure was some game. Excitement and noise reigned supreme. Right off the reel the homesters had the nerve to actually score twice, but the Petes came back strong and once they tied it up, and made it one to the good, there was nothing to it. After half time the home team attempted a come-back, but they lasted about as long as Bob Fitzsimmons will if they give him a chance. It's not to be supposed they were not going for they surely were. They peppered Mr. Janes until the Whitby rooters started to sigh and exclaim: "Aw, what's the use!"

Speaking about Mr. Janes, it might be well to mention that the boy was there all during those sixty minutes. The first one that slipped by him was one of those long bounding shots that even Tilly Schaefer might have missed. It had its good effect however, for the rest of the evening they thought that "Skid's" weak spot was on the long shots, so they were contented most of the time to shoot from outside the defence, and of course the shots were a light lunch. If some one ever does find Janes' weak spot, they want to rush the news to some of the teams up west, for that is the only way they can ever beat the locals. It's the championship sure as long as Bert hangs hard.

Percy Bond came in for a goodly share of the honors, and while he didn't figure in the scoring, he was indirectly responsible for two of them. His long rushes suited the fans to a nicety, and he received the glad hand on several occasions. Denison was right at home on the big ice and the big fellow tore around like lightning. He didn't get started for the first five minutes or so, but after that the only way they could stop him was to trip him. Smith was the main offender along this line, getting Dennie twice just as he was about to shoot. Fred's rush in the first half from one end to the other, which resulted in a score, was the feature of the evening.

Halpin Was Good

Grover Halpin, formerly of the Juniors, was worked at rover, filling the vacancy caused by the suspension of Captain Giroux We have seen the boy play several times, but never did he set out the class of hockey he displayed last night. His back-checking in the first half was one of the main causes of Whitby's defeat. Some were undecided as to whether Halpin could stand the pace or not, but there is no need for any more worry along that line, because last night's encounter was very strenuous and Grover was going as well in the last ten minutes as he was in the first. Park was running in rather hard luck in the first half, but he found his bearings in the last period, and he had Rice almost worried into a premature grave. Kelly was a trifle off color in the first few minutes of play, but came to later and worked hard. Bradshaw played one of his best games last night and no small share of the honors fall to him. He had Blanchard played off his feet. Bradshaw is a tower of strength to the team, and his experience is often pressed into service at opportune time.

Whitby are not to be looked upon as easy picking, for they put up a game fight. As was expected, Rice was their brightest star, and if the rest of the team were anyway near his class, they would have to be reckoned with all the time. McIntyre and Blanchard were the other bright lights.

"Chad" Toms refereed and did so to the satisfaction of every one who was sober. A few of the Whitby supporters thought him a trifle strict and used rather strict language in telling him about their ideas, but they were in a good state of preservation and no offence was taken.

The teams:

Peterboro—6		Whitby—4
Janes	goal	Jubb
Denison	r. def.	Smith
Bond	left def.	McIntyre
Halpin	rover	Lavery
Park	centre	Rice
Kelly	left wing	Blanchard
Bradshaw	right wing	Watson

The Play

The puck was scarcely dropped when Whitby assumed the aggressive and set out a terrific pace. Both teams were bunching and very little combination was displayed, but the homesters soon found their bearing, and the speed of their forward line gave the Peterboro fans a feeling of anxiety. Denison contributed a long rush, but didn't score, and after play being centred around Whitby's goal for a few moments, Blanchard broke away from the rest of the forward men and shot from outside defence. It was one of those long, low, bounding shots with which more than one goal has been scored, and fate would have it bound badly, as it neared Janes, with the result that Whitby secured their first tally. Time 4 minutes. Peterboro—0, Whitby—1.

Denison and Bond came into limelight when they made a few individual rushes but no score came. Grover Halpin at this stage, appeared to be about the best man on the ice, his back-checking working wonders. The Petes lost several chances to tie it up, but hard luck seemed too prominently on the bill-o'-fare. Denison started behind the goal on one of his rushes, and at the same time Blanchard conceived the idea that his lace should be tightened. The result was a face-off near the Petes' nets, in which Rice slammed the disc in. Time 8 minutes, Peterboro—0, Whitby—2.

Gradually but surely were the blue and white men rounding into form, displaying better combination and back-checking. The pace was fast, for everyone was working hard and for a while it looked as though Peterboro would have to step lively if they wanted the district honors. Percy Bond came through with the greatly needed rush and passed to Kelly, who found no difficulty in beating Jubb. Time 5 minutes. Peterboro—1, Whitby—2.

Watson broke a skate and Halpin retired with him. Janes tore off a few sensational stops and then Denison delivered one of his famous zig-zag rushes, and after beating every man on the forward and defence, he completely fooled Jubb. Time 3 minutes. Peterboro—2, Whitby—2.

Rice was cut over the eye and went off for repairs, accompanied by Bond. Both Watson and Halpin were on again immediately. Lone rushes were quite in order, so "Bud" Kelly presented a beauty which contained a lot of Kelly's old-time speed. He bored the rubber at Jubb from close in and scored. Time 1 minute. Peterboro—3, Whitby—2.

The Peterboro fans began to breathe freely again and were given an opportunity to yell, when Kelly shot from outside a scrimmage in front of the homesters' net and scored again. Time 1 minute. Peterboro—4, Whitby—2.

Smith drew the first penalty of the game for tripping Denison, and for a while both teams battled bravely. Halpin was setting out a grand class of hockey for the locals, and worked more like a senior than a junior. It was with the hardest of luck the Peterboro forward line over-skated the puck, giving Lavery a lift on Janes. "Skid" had been kicking them all out, but he was hardly given a chance to see this one from Lavery's stick. Time 4 minutes. Peterboro—4, Whitby—3.

Smith returned and a few seconds afterwards the half time gong sounded.

Second Half

Bang! and Whitby were working Janes overtime. They bombarded the boy from Cavan for further orders and only for the great work of Bond and Bradshaw, those Whitby people might have had a few more counters. Denison broke away but with no result. "Brad" drew a penalty for accidental tripping and while he was off, Whitby pressed hard and try as they may, the Petes couldn't get out of the corners. Janes was in prominence all through his part of the game. His work was superb. Denison contributed another nifty rush, but was tripped by Smith, who was cooped. Finally, after a hard session of fast hockey, Bond made a sensational dash up the side and passed to Park who scored his first goal of the game. Time 14 minutes. Peterboro—5, Whitby—3.

The ice was very heavy and the speed of the first part of the game began to lessen a trifle. Smith was caged for tripping, but returned ere any scoring was done. He was closely followed by Lavery for the same offence, but he too came back before anything worthy of note could happen. Park started from mid-ice and after a beautiful rush up centre ice, he scored. Time 8 minutes. Peterboro—6, Whitby—3.

Whitby come to life and for a while they pressed hard, which resulted in a goal by Smith, from a scrimmage. Time 3 minutes. Peterboro—6, Whitby—4.

The lakeshore boys made a gallant attempt at "coming back" but Janes was there.

The summary:

	—First Half—
1—Whitby	Blanchard	4 min.
2—Whitby	Rice	8 min.
3—Peterboro	Kelly	5 min.
4—Peterboro	Denison	3 min.
5—Peterboro	Kelly	1 min.
6—Peterboro	Kelly	1 min.
7—Whitby	Lavery	4 min.
	—Second Half—

THE MAPLES WON FROM SHAMROCKS

The Maples defeated the Shamrocks at Brock Street rink last night by 3 goals to 1. All the scoring being registered in the first half.

The star of the battle was Baby Antony, who is but 12 years of age, stands 3 feet 9 inches and weighs 95 pounds. "Rabbit" Russell handled the bell. The Miner, Dunnett melee is reputed as being a lively affair. It ended it is said, with the latter running down George Street, yelling for a policeman.

The teams:

Shamrocks—goal, Mahoney; defence, Weatherhead and Hayes; rover, Kendry; centre, Tobin; wings, Tobin and Miner.

Maples—goal, Antony; defence, Hall and Corbett; rover, Lawrence; centre, Duggan; wings, Young and McCallum.

FORMER LEADER OF WHITE CAPS MAY PILOT THE HAMS

The Herald Suggests That Rowan Might Land Dave Hilliard

Hamilton Herald.

Davey Rowan, former manager of the Peterboro Canadian league club, may be the next manager of the Hamilton Canuck leaguers. His application, along with that of Al. Breckenridge, of Coast league fame, is now in the hands of A. L. Garthwaite, the prime mover in the local stock company, and popular opinion seems to favor Rowan.

Rowan has done remarkably well as a manager, and he would prove a welcome successor to Knotty Lee. Two years ago he took over the Peterboro club but a short time before the season commenced, and he did even better than the directors of the club expected under such conditions. Last season he accomplished another feat in keeping the Petes up in the hunt when they were one of about two clubs in the circuit that adhered to the salary limit, and it must be admitted that he possesses the ability to get the best out of the men. Previous to his sojourn in the Canadian league, he managed the Peoria club, and led them to a pennant. So it will be seen that he has "made good" in the managerial role. Rowan was in Hamilton yesterday and talked over the situation with the local men, who seemed to be of the opinion that he would fit in very nicely here.

An example of Davey Rowan's ability to get the best out of a ball player can be gleaned from the showing made by Harry Brant, the former London shortstop When Brant was with London and under the watchful eye of Frank Bowerman, he booted away many a game, merely because Bowerman did not take the pains to coach him. With the change of uniform Brant became a changed boy Instead of booting the ball around and throwing wildly to the bases, he developed into one of the best and speediest shortfielders in the Canadian league, and herein lies the secret. Every time he erred he was not jumped on and bawled out by Rowan, as he had been accustomed to, and which he came to expect.

The fact that Rowan was not re-engaged by the Peterboro club this year does not at all detract from his ability. It was pointed out by the Petes' representative at the Canadian league meeting that Rowan was a good manager and had done well with the club, but they had fears that he was not in the best of health and for that reason did not go after him. It is true that at the fag end of last season Rowan was not himself, but he has rounded to again and is better than ever.

Should Rowan come here, there is a chance that Hilliard, the fence-busting slugger of last year's Peterboro club, who went up, will be here. It would encourage the fans to have outfielders of the hitting ability of Corns and Hilliard facing the opposing pitchers in a crisis.

CURRENT SPORTING GOSSIP

The fans in Belleville and Cobourg will be wondering. At home, Belleville lost to Cobourg. Last night Cobourg entertained the Belleville team and were defeated. It was ever thus.

Dusty Bullock, the third corner custodian of the Senators, wants a boost in salary. We would like to see the movies on Dusty making his application in person to Frank Shaughnessy.

Berlin won at home last night from Preston after 110 minutes of overtime. This brings to mind the memorable battle between the Petes and Trenton in Belleville, three years ago, when Trenton won the district after three periods of extra play. The teams did not stop playing till 12.15.

The benefit game between the Old Boys and the Petes for Charlie Ray, will likely be played on Saturday, February 21st. It is necessary that the game be played on Saturday night, to permit the Old Boys to make the trip.

GAMES IN THE CHURCH LEAGUE

Presbyterians Defeat Methodists in Senior Contest.

A very interesting game took place at Brock Street Rink last night between seven and eight, when Knox defeated George St., by a close score of 4 to 3. George St. lead at half time by 3 to 1, but Knox came back strong in the second half. For the winners, Webber starred, and for the losers Palmer and Helson did good work. Len Dobson refereed satisfactorily. The teams lined up as follows:

Knox		George St.
Boswell	goal	Johnson
Bradbury	defence	Palmer
Webber	rover	Peever
Hillier	centre	G. Helson
Williamson	r wing	Armstrong
Munroe	left wing	C. Helson

Junior Church League

The second game in the Junior Church Hockey League was played at Parker's rink last night, Charlotte St., and St. Paul's furnishing the attraction. After a very close contest, Charlotte St. won out, score 2 to 1. Harold Lowes handled the bell in perfect fashion.

Knox team meets All Saints' tonight from 7 to 8.

The games in the Junior Church League for next week are:

Feb. 9th.—St. Andrew's vs. St. Pauls.
Feb. 10th.—All Saints vs. Y.M.C.A.
Feb. 12th.—Charlotte St. vs. St. Andrews.

All games from 7 to 8 p.m.

RINK AT LAKEFIELD.

The Lakefield open air rink was opened on Monday evening for the first time this season, the rink management being Mr. Morley Macdonald, assistants, Messrs. Hull and Davis.

PUCKERINGS FROM PUCK

The Alerts and Exploits will practice tonight from 8 to 9, at the Brock street rink.

The R. U. Well Club septet meet the Midnights sons aggregation in a game of shinny tonight in Brock street, between 9 and 10. The line-up of the R. U. Well club will be as follows:

Goal "Butcher" Grady, left defence, "Razor Blade" Rylie, right defence, "Go Some" Le Barr; rover, "Poke" Murray; centre, "Hook" Donahue; left wing "Claw Hammer" Lazure; right wing, "Tootie" Lavasseur.

Orillia and Midland clashed in Orillia last night and the homesters won, 3—2, thus ticing up the round. They will play off in Coldwater, either on Friday or Monday night.

Kingston Juniors play in Belleville tonight in the last game of the round.

Brownton rink was the scene of a very fast game of hockey last night between 7 and 8 o'clock, in which the Arrow seniors and the Brownton septet participated and as a result of many brilliant rushes, and some nifty stick handling, the Arrows won to the tune of 4 to 3.

Campbell starred in goal for the winners, handling some very hard shots. The return game will be played on the Brock street rink this week.

A meeting of the Mercantile hockey league executive is called for tomorrow night in the Examiner office, to discuss the re-instating of Kennealley, of the Tool Room.

CURLING

The Fitzgerald-Bottum Shield, for which Peterboro and Bobcaygeon curling clubs were to play yesterday, was postponed till a later date. The soft ice made it impossible to play any schedule matches yesterday.

His Golden Rules.

A Toronto banker hangs up these golden rules of conduct:

"Have something to say.

"Say it.

"Stop talking."

These are fine rules for special occasions and places, but not for general application. They make no allowance for the necessities of conversation nor for the helpfulness of intercommunication.

They recall with their taciturn suggestion the golden rules that hung over the desk of a western mine owner:

"State your business.

"Shut up!

"Get out!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Peterboro friends of Rev. Father Kelly will be interested in the following which is taken from the Norwood Register:

The Norwood basket social—one of the most looked forward to and popular social events of the year—given by Rev. Fr. Kelly and congregation of St. Paul's Church, was held on Tuesday evening in the town hall. It was as usual, both successful and enjoyable in every way. Considerably over four hundred persons were present, including a large number from Peterboro, Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock and the nearby townships, Rev. Father McAuley of the Sacred Heart Church Peterboro, being among the guests.

A concert in which adept talent from Toronto and Peterboro took part, was held in the fore part of the evenin. Mr. Le Roy Kenny, the well known comedian, and who has appeared here on a previous occasion, was the chief entertainer and kept the audience convulsed with laughter during the numbers.

The selections by the Grand Opera House Orchestra, of Peterboro, were a treat; as was also their playing for the dance. Mr. E. Hanrahan of Peterboro, a youthful singer in appearance and who possesses a remarkable voice, merited strong applause with his solos, while Mr. J. Minicolo's tenor singing was much appreciated. Mr. W. C. Thomson acted as accompanist for Mr. Kenny.

Following the concert the sale of baskets commenced, with Mr. W. J. Andrews of Havelock, as auctioneer. Here much amusement was provided especially when there was a "run" of bids on a certain basket, coveted by some young gallant.

The baskets were beautiful and varied in design and color. To Mrs. Guy Popham of Peterboro, fell the honor of contributing the basket which secured the highest bid—$11.50. The cards on the basket were afterwards handed in and a draw was taken, the successful couple being Miss Eva Tagney of Peterboro, and Mr J. Heffernan, of Campbellford, to whom prizes were presented. When lunch had been concluded, the floor was cleared and the remaining hours were spent in tripping the light fantastic. Mr. W. J. McLaughlin was floor manager. The net proceeds amounted to $320.

For the accommodation of the guests from the west an order was secured for the 4 a.m. train to stop.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Birdsall of Asphodel, announce the marriage of their daughter, Minnie, to Mr. John C. Lancaster, of Otonabee, on Wednesday, January the 28th, at their residence, "Bellevue," Birdsall.

Mr. M. Weller of Peterboro and Mr. Bruce Elmhirst of Campbellford, were the guests of honor at a social in the basement of St. John's Church on Wednesday, of last week, when the occasion was taken advantage of to present them with handsome electric reading lamps, accompanied by addresses, as a token of the esteem in which both young gentlemen are held in Havelock by the choir and congregation of St. John's, of which they were until lately, valued and energetic workers in the different schemes of the church and Sunday School.—Havelock Standard.

Mr. Weller is now with the local branch, Bank of Toronto, and has identified himself with All Saints' Church.

The Ladies' Literary Society in connection with St. Peter's T.A.S., will hold their regular meeting in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum on Friday evening. Mr. V. J. McElderry will feature the meeting by an address on "Drama." A musical program will also be given.

The opening of the Armouries at Norwood will take place on Friday, February 13th, and not on Wednesday, the 11th, as previously announced.

Mrs. W. A. Logan, 14 Murray street, will not receive this month.

Mr. W. White, of Ottawa, was a guest in the city yesterday.

Mr. D. W. McLean, of Montreal, is among the guests at the Oriental.

Mr. A. W. Peart, of Brantford, is a visitor in the city.

The friends of Mrs. W. T. Mathers, Mathers' Corners, will regret to learn that she is in very poor health.

Miss Gladman's dancing class will be held in the Conservatory tonight. night.

Militia Orders of December 16th have the following of local interest: Regimental Medical Services, 57th Regiment—to be Major:—Captain J. H. Eastwood, 21st November, 1913.

The Sodality of the Blessed Virgin of the Church of the Sacred Heart held a very enjoyable At Home last evening in St Alphonsus Lyceum. Cards, refreshments and dancing made up the evening's programme. Mr. O. Laplante and Miss A. Desantel were the winners at the cards. The music for the dancing was well rendered by Miss O. Letellier and Miss A. Levasseur. The happy gathering dispersed shortly after twelve o'clock.

Mr. Walter Miller of Montreal, the well known hockey player, is a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Finch Miller, Water Street. Mr. Miller who has been with the Wanderers and Ottawas during the season, is home to recuperate from a recent illness.

Figgerative.

"A schoolboy of eleven," said Professor Thomas R. Lounsbury, Yale's authority on English, "once gave an apt illustration of figurative usage. He gave it in a composition, writing:

"'A figgerative saying is, "to keep the wolf from the door." It does not mean to keep a real live wolf from the door. A good instance is when the landlord comes for the rent. He knocks at the door and you keep awful quiet, in the hope that he will think there is nobody in and go away.'"—Washington Star.

The Paragon.

"Have you any employee who doesn't talk baseball, horse racing and prizefighting all the time, to the exclusion of business?"

"Yes."

"Where did you get him?"

"It isn't a him; it's a her."—Pittsburgh Post.

Was It?

"I gave Walter a beautiful necktie of my own make for a birthday present," said Mabel.

"Was he pleased?"

"Oh, yes; he said its beauty shall be for no other eyes than his own. Wasn't that lovely of him?"—Lippincott's.

Friendship is love without his wings.

ENTHUSES AND DELIGHTS

The publishers of the Endeavor Herald says of Rev. Dr. Speer:—Stalwart in form, with a voice strong and flexible; possessing a splendid platform presence; rich in intellect, fluent in speech, with dramatic powers of a high order; full of Celtic fire and vigor; a great word painter; a lover of wit and humor; his subject and himself always under perfect control, he never fails to enthuse and delight his hearers.

Rev. Dr. Speer will give one of his best lectures, "Songs and Singers, Grave and Gay," in George street Methodist church on Monday night next, February 9th. Tickets 25 cts.

A Seventeenth Century Organ.

Made in 1625 by the master artisan, Nicolaus Mandescheit, and described as the finest instrument of the kind in the world, an organ has been purchased abroad by an American dealer, who is said to have paid $100,000 for it. The purchase is linked with the name of Henry C. Frick. The instrument is of large cabinet size, with a keyboard about three feet long. The case is richly carved, and inside are the maker's portrait and inscription giving his age and the honors accorded him. The organ was found in an old chateau in the Ardennes region of France, where it is said to have rested for 200 years. Saint-Saens played on it some years ago and pronounced it the finest he had ever touched.—Argonaut.

You'll Find These Useful.

Combined measures and funnels have been seen for some time, but they are not even now in general enough use. Instead of having a separate "two quart" or "quart" measure, with separate funnels, it is much more efficient to have the measure and funnel in one so that the liquid readily pours without the need of holding the funnel steady and without the need of handling and washing an extra utensil.

Especially if one has a blue and white kitchen, the new shapes in vinegar and oil cruets decorated in blue will be attractive. Many are found in the shops, placed on a stand or in a little rack which can be placed near the kitchen table. Other novelties are the many imported spoons, dippers, skimmers, etc., which have china handles and which form decorative bits for the kitchen walls.

There have been several kinds of pads made especially to accurately fit different sized dining tables. A new kind, just brought out, is in two sections, folding invisibly, and is covered with canton flannel. A cover of pebbled oilcloth of fine quality comes with the pad and can be easily removed. The cover and pad are so made that arrangement can be made for extra table leaves if desired.

ART GRAHAM

Singing "Beans—Beans—Beans," Belmont Club Big Minstrels.

When Art Graham prances to the centre of the stage singing his Beans, Beans, Beans song, it will be your cue to laugh and enjoy yourself. Art is a born minstrel and will never be heard to better advantage. Miss Willa Blewett sings "Mamma's Angel Chile," with the assistance of the entire company, this song is a musical gem in the minstrel line. Miss Blewett has a remarkably clear soprano voice and will render the song in a truly professional manner that will be a surprise to her many admirers. Master Harold Golop, the boy wonder, will be in evidence in the big show, both in the big cabaret scene, also in the olio. Harold is a wonder and when he sings his "Has Anyone Seen Rover," number, it will long be remembered as a comedy triumph. The show this season is made up of nothing but good things and a great many surprises. Advance sale opens for ticket holders Feb. 9th. Two nights only, Feb. 12th and 13th.

SAVED BY A CAMERA.

A Photographer's Narrow Escape From an Enraged Orang.

As a rule, orang outangs are caught young and tamed before they are shipped to Europe. Mr. W. P. Dando tells in "Wild Animals and Cameras" of such an animal that arrived in London with the best of characters. He was considered a docile, steady going old thing, and Mr. Dando was engaged to photograph him.

I entered the orang's cage as I had entered scores of others. I had not exposed many plates before I saw that the animal was intent on mischief. He was a very powerful beast, and I should have stood no chance at all if he had attacked me.

My only chance was to use the camera as a weapon. Making a sign to the keeper to keep silent, I pointed my hand camera at the orang and with slow and steady step approached him. The keeper was outside the door, ready to open it, but neither of us uttered a sound. I was relieved to see the orang retreat gradually and at the same time slowly rise from the crouched and menacing position he had taken. Once he was on the move, I knew I had a chance. I succeeded in working him round to the corner farthest from the door, which the keeper had silently and slowly opened.

Still pointing my camera at the orang, I very, very slowly backed out of the cage, the door was slammed to, and I was safe. Even when I was partly through the door opening any quick movement on my part would have been a fatal mistake. The animal could have reached me in an instant.

Receipts Were Poor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—Four dollars and fifty-five cents, the net result of a lecture tour of seven weeks, was one of the reasons why Mrs. Helen Ring Robinson, Colorado state senator, did not pay Miss Helen Ducy, her press agent, $75.

Miss Ducy had the senator in court. She admitted owing the $75 and left the Hotel McAlpin for Albany a few minutes later. A trunk left at the hotel was levied upon.

ESTABLISHED 1879. PETERBOROUGH, ONT., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1914. PRICE 2 CENTS

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET BEST RESULTS WHEN ONE SUBSCRIPTION IS WORTH FIVE

Busy Days Are On for Contestants Entered in the Daily Review Contest

It requires some work on the part of your friends to cut the coupons out of the paper each evening and bring them to the office, and it is only in justice to your friends that you should bestir yourselves and see if you can not win the first prize and not spend your spare time idly and allow your name to fall when it is within your power to prevent it.

Office Open Evenings

The office of the contest department will be open evenings until 8 o'clock and if there is anything that you do not understand, call at the office at any time and it will be explained to you. It has been the desire of the contest manager to see everyone in the contest, but time has not permitted. It is his wish that all candidates call at the office as there are many things that could be explained that would be of great benefit to them.

Don't Forget Saturday, Feb. 14.

All candidates must remember that they must get in their subscriptions by 8 o'clock Saturday evening, Feb. 14, in order to receive the big vote. Don't think that Monday will be just as good, for it will not. Don't leave a stone unturned to get a subscription between now and Feb. 14. One single subscription may be the means of your winning the Grand Prize, if it is turned in by the above date.

Phone 189 for information or suggestions. The contest manager and his assistant are here to help you in any way possible.

These are the days that every live candidate is busy hunting in every nook and corner for subscriptions. Most every one is meeting with fair success. So far the race has been very even and it is a great question in the mind of the contest manager who the real workers of this great campaign will be. Each day there emerges from the large list of names in the paper, new workers and although these people have had a late start they seem to have the right motto. These are the people that will win the prizes if some do not wake up and get busy.

Saturday Feb. 14, at 8 o'clock closes the first great epoch in this campaign. At the end of that time one must be in the lead of the other contestants. Are you going to be that one or are you going to be one of the tail-enders? There will be a great many in this class and it is safe to say that 99 per cent. could have been close to the lead if they had made the best of their time.

Stop and look yourself as others see you. Are you doing your best to win the grand prize touring car? When your friends nominated you in this campaign, it was their object to see you crowned with one of the greatest honors ever presented in your county. Did you ever stop to think how many people are interested in your candidacy? Look at the large number of coupon votes that you are receiving each evening. Who is sending them? Is it you or your friends?

PACKING FOR PARCEL POST

Six Pounds is the Limit for First Three Months.

Specific suggestions as to how the various articles should be packed for safe transit through the mails are given by the Postmaster-General in the regulations for the parcels post which will begin on February 10th. Eggs, for instance, should be packed in a papier mache, wooden or other box of rigid material, with a tight-fitting lid. It is also recommended that each egg be wrapped in newspaper or other protecting material to fill up the vacant space.

Liquid, oils and fatty substances are subject of special regulations. They must be packed in heavy cardboard or wooden blocks or tubes, with some absorbent material to soak up the liquid in case the container should leak. It is recommended that manufacturers or others whose intention it is to send quantities of such articles through the mails, submit a sample package to the authorities so that, if necessary, recommendations may be made for their improvement.

Apparently it is the intention of the department to use the ordinary mail bags for the parcels post, and not to introduce baskets such as are used in England. It is understood that there have been few preparations made as yet for handling the increased number of parcels beyond setting aside the additional floor space that will be needed. To facilitate the reckoning of postage separate cards have been issued for each province with the rates tabulated, but the clerks will have to figure them out for themselves in many cases, and this will doubtless lead to delay in the beginning.

Six pounds is the limit for parcels during February, March and April, and during the same period an extra charge of five cents is made on all parcels to be delivered by letter-carriers. It is practically only in the same parcels that the postal system has any material advantage over the express rates, though in numerous instances the rates charged are higher than those at present in force in the United States.

PHRSICAL DIRECTORS.

The physical directors for this district convened here to-day in the Y.M.C.A. parlor with Dr. John Brown, of New York, presiding.

Among those in attendance are: Messrs. C. M. Copeland, Toronto; Shepard E. Dingman, Ottawa; M. Powers, Belleville; F. Dingman, Oshawa, and J. J. Thompson, of this city.

To-night the visitors will be banquetted by the local association and to-morrow evening they will be the guest of the Senior Leaders Corps to a banquet.

OPINIONS DIFFER AS TO THE EX-MAYOR'S ELIGIBILITY TO SIT ON CITY TRUST BOARD

Does ex-Mayor W. H. Bradburn qualify for a seat on the Board of City Trust Commissioners?

Opinions differ and Mr. Bradburn says himself that he is not sure that he is eligible. While he appreciates the honor extended to him through his appointment by Council, he is not worrying.

One opinion expressed to The Review this morning was that there were no legal objections to Mr. Bradburn being a member. Another was that there were objections.

Mr. Bradburn said he was as surprised as Ald. Johnston at the turn of affairs at the council meeting. He said he had been spoken to about the matter, but that was two weeks before the meeing. After that the matter had not been discussed with him. Mr. Bradburn further states that he has not accepted or declined.

It is possible that some discussion may take place in regard to this matter, when council meets as a committee tonight.

THE SANITORIUM

The committee of the whole council wil further deal with the request of the Health Association for a grant of $10,000, at a meeting tonight.

GEN. BADEN-POWELL

LONDON, Feb. 6.—A national appeal for an endowment fund of £250,000 for the boy scouts was launched yesterday by General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, in support of which he published a letter from the Duke of Connaught. The Governor-General's letter says that the boy scout movement has stood the test of a five years' trial successfully, and all opinions seem to agree that in proper hands it will achieve a great national work.

General Baden-Powell, in his appeal, declares: "From the top to the bottom of the social structure, we have too many drones, with resultant misery, discontent, selfishness, thriftlessness, and irreligion. Among the boy scouts we seek to eliminate the drone and provide that the next generation shall be one of workers. With the money we propose to place headquarters on a sound financial basis, give a regular training to scoutmasters which will enable them to start work with the senior scouts, and provide a farm to be conducted on scout principles."

THE VILLAGE WAS SHOCKED

Parents Incensed at Teaching of Sex Hygiene

London, Feb. 6.—The village of Dronfield, in Derbyshire, is in a ferment over the teaching of sex hygiene. It is alleged that Miss Outram, who has been headmistress of the local school 21 years, explained the origin of birth to certain girls who were leaving the school to go out into the world. This statement shocked the village, and Miss Outram's dismissal was earnestly urged. The local school managers forwarded the request for the dismissal to the county educational committee, which has replied that it does not see its way to ask Miss Outram to resign. This has so incensed the villagers that they are withholding their children from the school. The school teachers' union is handling the case on behalf of Miss Outram, with the knowledge that other teachers have been permitted to refer to the subject with elder girls. Miss Outram declares that she did not touch upon sexual matters, but admits that she might have done so if the circumstances required. She has expressed her regret over the incident to the county authorities and now declines to discuss the subject in any way.

"NICK" DOUROS TELLS OF THE BATTLES IN THE BALKANS

Campaigning Was Harder Than Engagements With the Turks

Mr. Nicholas Douros, the popular proprietor of the Boston Cafe, is, to the joy of his fellow countrymen and many friends, back to this city, after taking a very active part in the Balkan war. Three weeks ago today Mr. Douros left Athens for Pataras and from there set sail on the Cunard line, arriving in New York a few days ago.

A year ago last September when the King of Greece sent the call of "Come now or never" to her many sons on the American continent, Mr. Douros responded immediately, bidding farewell to this country perhaps for years, and perhaps forever. He did not for a moment consider the perilous work ahead of him, but rather thought only of his duty to the land that gave him birth and to his King.

Battle at Mpizane

He arrived in Athens and repaired immediately to the army headquarters, enlisting and being fitted with a uniform. For five days he and other soldiers were busily engaged in being allotted to various companies, and when this was completed, they were sent to the first battle of Cagada. This was only a small affair, but a few days later the famous battle of Mpizane began. The mountainous conditions of the land around Mpizane and the fact that winter was at its height, caused the soldiers no small amount of hardship. With no tents available, the soldiers slept on the snow-covered ground by night, and marched and fought by day. In some manner the provision wagons became separated from the main division of the army, thus they were fighting not only the Turks, but also the cold and hunger, the latter being the hardest to combat.

A very encouraging fact was that the King and Crown Prince were right in the thickest of the fray, although general after general prevailed upon them not to run such chances. One incident Mr. Douros related to a Review scribe today, was as follows:

The King was around inspecting the ranks and consulting some officers when a bomb fired from a gun fell within ten feet of him. The close escape however, did not tend to unnerve him, as he only smiled and went on.

Took 25,000 Prisoners

After a month of hardship the Turks finally surrendered and the Greeks took 25,000 prisoners. This was the last stand of any note the Turks made as the powers intervened. Although the battle had been won, it had one bad result, and that was that many of the soldiers were victims to cold and hardships, pneumonia being very prevalent. Mr. Douros was one of these unlucky ones and spent a great portion of the winter in a hospital in Athens.

Just after he left there the trouble with the Bulgarians, their former allies, began and this resulted in war between the two nations. Mr. Douros figured in the first encounter, which was in many ways similar to Mpizane. Mountains were everywhere and it took the Greeks twenty-two days to work out a victory. This, Mr. Douros says, is the greatest battle in Greek history. The remaining engagements were less strenuous with the exception of the one at Cressina, the name given a long, narrow valley between two mountains. It was in the centre of this road that the armies met.

Inch after inch, and foot after foot the Greeks crowded the Bulgarians back, every one fighting like a lion at bay. Men were killed by the score, but nothing could cause a halt. One division of the Greek army ran out of ammunition and rather than give up their dearly earned position, they fought the enemy with stones. After three or four hours of fighting, the Bulgarians were crowded back and the Greeks emerged victorious. Excepting the battle of Jumae, this closed the war.

Mr. Douros was rather inclined to be silent when asked about any outrages committed, as it brought rather unpleasant sights to his memory. The work of the Bulgarians when they were being defeated, was too horrible to relate.

Those who participated in the war were all men over 21 years of age and all men under forty. The others and the female population were left to till the soil and perform other domestic duties. When asked as to what effect the wars had on the country, Mr. Douros stated that everybody was happy. It is true that many lost friends and relatives, but the honor of winning both the wars and so much land, rather suppresses all sorrow.

Statesmen of Greece, Mr. Douros said, are now laboring with the question of abating the exodus from that country to America. The land that has been conquered needs tillers, the men who have been killed must be replaced, and most of all, Greece needs her men at home for protection, hence it is very probable that something will be done to keep her children at home.

Mr. Douros went through all the battles without receiving a scratch.

SAW AND BED MANUFACTORY AT GALT IS WIPED OUT BY FIRE; 150 MEN LOSE THEIR JOBS

Canadian Press Despatch

GALT, Feb. 6.—Fire which broke out in the temporary department of Shurly Dietrich's, Ltd., Saw and Bed factory, at four this morning, and was still burning at nine o'clock, destroyed the entire plant, except a newly erected brick warehouse.

Most of the buildings burned like tinder and even the stone office structure went with the rest.

The loss is about two hundred thousand dollars, and one hundred and fifty men are thrown out of employment.

In an interview this afternoon J. C. Dierich, who owns the controlling interest in the Shurly Dietrich Co., said the loss would total a quarter million dollars, with eighty-five thousand insurance, divided among several companies. He would not however, give particulars of the insurance.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF AGED HOMESTEADER WHO INTENDED VISITING SISTER IN NORWOOD

Some Suspicion That He Was Robbed of Ticket and Money

The following is taken from the Moose Jaw Times:

A sudden death of an old homesteader from this district occurred at the C.P.R. depot, Winnipeg, on Saturday night. Gillian Cooper, who was a homesteader, 26 miles south of Moose Jaw, and who was 76 years of age, recently sold his farm which was the southwest quarter of 33-12-25, for $2,000.

Some five weeks ago he turned up at the home of Charles Glover, a well known farmer south of the city, and asked to stay the night, but eventually stayed there for five weeks. He was anxious to get to a sister in Norwood, Ont., and has already bad some of his money transferred there, and last Friday morning Mr. Glover brought the old fellow into town and secured his ticket, and made arrangements for him to leave for the east on the night train.

Apparently he was robbed or lost his ticket and money between here and Winnipeg, for the next thing Mr. Glover heard was an enquiry about him from Winnipeg and he came in and secured fresh transportation for him, but late on Saturday night word was received that the old man had dropped dead suddenly in the depot, where he was about to take the train for Toronto.

A despatch to the Times this morning from its Winnipeg correspondent briefly mentioned the death and Mr. Glover was able to add these particulars over the rural line this afternoon.

MONTREAL STAR HAD CHANCE TO PUBLISH CHARGES

Mr. Beck and Another Man Made Sir Hugh Graham the Offer

Canadian Press Despatch

QUEBEC, Feb. 6.—Sir Hugh Graham, proprietor of the Montreal Star, appeared before the graft inquiry committee of the Legislative Council this morning. Before being examined, he made a statement to the committee that he had not known of these graft charges until January 18th. On that evening Mr. Beck formerly editor of The Herald, and another man, had offered him the charges for publication in The Star. His lawyer was present by an arrangement, and advised him not to use them. A long and acrimonious argument followed when Sir Hugh, on the advice of his counsel, refused to say whether he owned the Herald, or not.

The Committee of the Legislative Council refused to allow Sir Hugh Graham to answer questions as to ownership of The Montreal Herald, claiming they were irrevalent.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—That a farm hand who hires with an employer on a yearly contract and who leaves in violation of such an agreement, is not only not entitled to his wages, but is also liable for damages sustained to the crops of his employer, was the ruling established this morning, when County Judge Talbot Macbeth handed down his finding in a suit recently tried at a special session.

REV. MR. PUGSLEY AT LAKEFIELD

Next Lord's Day, Feb. 8th, Rev. Wilson A. Pugsley, evangelist, will (D.V.) commence a fifteen days' series of revival services with the Baptist Church at Lakefield.

Mr. Pugsley has rendered efficient and successful service in both the pastorate and evangelistic effort, in Canada and the United States, and enjoys the confidence, good will and endorsement of his brethren. His efforts it is hoped, will result in spiritual strength and uplift to all concerned. The success of his meetings of the last month, is fairly well known. The crowds at Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church and at the Union services at Selwyn indicate great appreciation and interest of the people of those communities. In both places many persons professed faith in Jesus.

TITLES IN THE DOMINION WILL NOT BE ABOLISHED

Resolution Offered by Mr. J. H. Burnham is Defeated in the House

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—The House of Commons failed to concur in the proposal of Mr. Burnham (West Peterboro), that all titles of honor or honorary titles created by the Parliament or Government of Canada be abolished, and that no recommendation be made hereafter by Parliament or the Government to the King or Governor-General of any person for such an honor. It rejected the bill introduced by Mr. Burnham when it was presented for second reading yesterday afternoon.

In moving the second reading, Mr. Burnham said that modern titles sprang from names which were formerly descriptive of real offices or occupations. Those names were appropriated first for ornamental purposes and had gradually given rise to class distinctions. To create class distinctions was contrary to the spirit of a democracy such as Canada. Moreover, the use of such titles was unscientific. To describe a greedy feeder at the public trough as a "homo sapiens" would be a mistake. Mr. Burnham said that there was a danger of a traffic in titles and honors springing up. An alarming condition had been revealed in England. In that country there had been sales of honors which were, of course, detrimental to the honored themselves and the people at large.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster declared himself opposed to Mr. Burnham's bill. He said that Mr. Burnham had not mentioned the titles to which it referred.

Mr. Burnham—To those created by the Militia Act, for instance.

Mr. Foster replied that those were so numerous that they could hardly be considered as "honorary." He thought that titles came from the source of all honor—the King. The King should be allowed to be the judge as to whether or not honors should be conferred. "I don't think," said Mr. Foster, "that we, as a Parliament, have anything to say about it." He was not sure that in spite of the veneer of democracy there was not a recognition that men did differ from one another and that there were grades of excellence. He did not think that the State was injured or the individual suffered when a man was honored for his service to the State. A great deal of the best service in our Empire was performed without the hope of pecuniary reward. Mr. Foster could see no reason why an honor might not be bestowed to hold up before the people great deeds which had been done.

Sir Wilfred Laurier could not support the bill. He said that the question should have been approached by an address to His Majesty, the King, rather than by a bill because the conferring of titles was a Royal prerogative. Sir Wilfred was inclined to agree with the principle of the proposed measure, however. His own title, he said, was a relic of a feudal state, and for his own part he did not think that feudal titles could take root in Canada. At the same time the Crown had exercised the prerogative of granting honors for centuries, and he did not think any exception could be taken to the manner in which it had exercised that prerogative.

The motion for a second reading was declared lost.

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, FEB. 6, 1914.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

THE THEORY OF granting equal rights to women appeals to everybody. But the practice is what daunts the hearts of men. Slowly but surely the belief is spreading that the struggle between the sexes is on. Men and women are not the same, however much theoretically they may appear to be. Women do not regard men as women and vice versa. That men will ever surrender their supremacy is doubtful. At least such would appear to be the conclusion to be drawn from the recent action of the American Congress and the British Parliament. It looks as if women must continue to look to men for their inspiration for some time yet.

LAKE ONTARIO GONE DRY.

IN GLANCING over the Christian Guardian the editorial eye caught a phrase which looked at the first glimpse like—"Let us Make Lake Ontario Dry." In a flash of imagination this prodigious proposition was accomplished; Lake Ontario was empty and the people of the surrounding country were flocking into the fertile valley in the dry bed of the great lake. Farms sprang up here and there, cattle were grazing—or, in the words of the poet Gray:—The lowing herds were winding slowly o'er the lea—to the milking machine. The ploughman in his dress suit was tripping to the banquet of the Grain Growers' Association to hear a lecture on free wheat. . . Much more would have transpired had not the editorial eye steadied and the passage in the Guardian article stood out bold and clear, dry and unproductive, thus:—"Let us Make Ontario dry."

The reader must not uncharitably attribute this optical aberration to a wet diet, for so far as we are concerned the bar is already abolished, in fact it never existed. But we wish that the Guardian would speak or write English that will not mislead the hurried reader, and also that it would not mix up its articles upon "Abolish the Bar," with others on "Crossing the Bar," the justaposition is most incongruous and often disconcerting.

The article in question, on a third glance, we find is entitled:—THREE COUNTIES GONE DRY. Now we contend that that is a false statement and is enough to ruin the agricultural prospects of Ontario and of those counties in particular. Any German newspaper editor reading that heading in the light of a German-English dictionary would translate it literally, and this would form the basis for another tirade against emigration. Dr. Creighton is a good man, and one of the best editors the Guardian has ever had, but he sometimes loses his sense of proportion—like the eye of the editor of this paper.

SOCIALISM AND INDIVDIUALISM.

DR. INGE OF ST. PAUL'S cathedral, is a man who can take in and size up a situation, and he has been saying some very sensible and forceful things about modern movements and modern life. In a lecture delivered in London, England, the other day in which he dealt, among many other things, with socialism, he said he doubted whether the theory of socialism had taken hold in England, except where it was regarded as a machine for expropriating landlords and capitalists. He declared that socialism was really an individualistic movement. He believed that the spiritual current on which the labor movement and every revolutionary agitation floated and which was miscalled socialism, was really an individualistic ideal. It was so with the women's movement, at the bottom of which was the desire that every woman as well as every man, shall be able to make the most of her or his life.

The current of social reform, Dr. Inge said, had invaded the pulpit. Many ministers found in politics a welcome refuge from preaching dogmas in which they no longer actively believed and which bored their congregations. The doctor declared that anybody must be either a saint or a humbug to preach the gospel pure and unalloyed. The majority of the preachers were neither one nor the other, but any average citizen could talk on temperance, the woes of poverty, and the iniquities of landlords, and thus they had the acute secularization of Christianity.

There is a general belief among socialists that socialism is synonomous with Christianity, but many socialists are the last to bring Christianity into their socialism. Even Christ Himself has been dubbed a socialist and thus placed on the same level with Marx, Blatchford and Tom Mann.

Mr. James Simpson, who made such an eloquent speech on socialism the other day in Peterborough, is himself a living example of individualism. In a socialistic state such men as Simpson would upset the whole utopia if they were not placed in positions of power. Mankind was always ruled by individuals and always will be, as Dr. Inge says: . . "If such a system of government was ever possible it could only be as an almost omnipotent bureaucracy, controlled by men of the Napoleon or J. Pierpont Morgan type. These gentlemen, judging from experience, are apt to demand rather high payment for their services. A nation so organized might be powerful and prosperous, but only on certain conditions. Discipline would have to be iron repression and very severe."

So that in a socialistic state the law of the survival of the fittest, or the strongest, would be even more in force than under present conditions. Socialism as an economic or social ideal is all right and we need the idealist, but as a practical proposition or as a religion and a substitute for Christianity it is a poor and hopeless gospel either in regard to this world or the next.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE RESULT of the Borden Government's reference of the Lancaster Bill to the courts is seen in the action before the courts against Archbishop Bruchesi. The law having been "declared" by the Privy Council, any statement to the contrary may give serious results.

THE WHITE STAR LINE have reduced their rates in competition with the German Hamburg Company. The White Star now offers its third-class berths at $22 going either east or west and by all steamships without distinction. It is said that booking is slow just now. We may be able to take that trip to the old land yet—when it comes down to five dollars.

THE BELLEVILLE ONTARIO makes an interesting point when it asks:—"Has the rural mail system taken away from the people of the country the social time that used to be spent in going for the mail to the post office? Are the farmers more isolated on that account. Of course there is more general use of the 'phone to combat the isolation, but as a meeting place for neighbors, nothing has yet been brought out to equal or surpass the rural post office." It is a strange law or fate that we cannot gain a new blessing without losing an old one.

THOSE WHO fancy themselves at dancing the Tango may be interested in the following taken from Evid Events:

Do not fancy, gentle maiden,
While you're lightly prancing through
Tripping trot or tangled tango,
That your dancing something new.
This was one of the divisions
Of old prehistoric man,
And they danced it in the jungle
E'er the human race began.
All the dances we are dancing
Are legitimate successors
Of the old orangoutango
Of our early predecessors.

WHAT THE WORLD IS SAYING

A Parable.
Montreal Mail.

John D. Rockefeller gave a penny to each one of a large number of Sunday school children, telling them to invest their money and increase it. Here is a good chance for a demonstration of the parable of the talents.

Those Furs and Feathers.
Hamilton Herald.

Mrs. Plumptre, of Toronto, urges the members of the Women's Canadian Club of Hamilton, not to wear furs or plumage, because the wearing of these adornments encourages the slaughter of birds and fur-bearing animals. But much of the furs and plumage worn come from animals and birds of prey that live by slaughtering other animals and birds. Why discriminate in favor of the beasts and birds of prey?

A Terrible Journey.
Westminster Gazette.

In the days when Lord Strathcona was a fur trader in the wilds of Canada he was suddenly threatened with snow blindness. He decided to go straight to Montreal, although that means a journey of 500 miles in October over fields of ice and snow. The city was reached after extraordinary hardships, and a surgeon operated on the young factor's eyes. As soon as he was fit to travel, the patient insisted on starting back to his post. "I had my duty to perform," he said, in recalling this incident many years afterwards, "and everything must give place to one's duty, you know. The Indians insisted that they could never reach the post alive, the snow was so deep. They were right, poor fellows—two died before we bad gone half-way; the other when we were a hundred miles from the post. I completed the journey alone."

The Keyboard.
(William Watson.)

Five and thirty black slaves,
Half a hundred white,
All their duty but to sing
For their Queen's delight.
Now with throats of thunder,
Now with dulcet lips,
While she rules them royally
With her finger tips!

When she quits her palace
All the slaves are dumb—
Dumb with dolour till the Queen
Back to court is come;
Dumb the throats of thunder,
Dumb the dulcet lips,
Lacking all the sovereignty
Of her finger tips!

Dusky slaves and pallid,
Ebon slaves and white,
When the Queen was on her throne
How you sang to-night,
Ah, the throats of thunder!
Ah, the dulcet lips!
Ah, the gracious tyrannies
Of her finger tips

Silent, silent, silent,
All your voices now;
Was it, then, her life alone
Did your life endow?
Waken, throats of thunder
Waken, dulcet lips
Touched to immortality
By her finger tips.

PESSIMISM
By Walt Mason

I never knew a man to sing or wear an optimistic smile, when going out o' doors to bring a load of stovewood from the pile. I've studied men for many years and never one I've known has worn a cheery smile when neighbors' steers broke in his field and ate his corn. No man has ever danced a jig of happiness, full well I know, when trying to escort a pig the way it didn't want to go. No sunshine lights the eye or brow of any man who leaves his bed on snowy morn, to milk a cow in some old windy, drafty shed. Oh, there are times—not far between, when mortals cannot sing and smile, when they are feeling dour and mean, and wish that sackcloth were in style. And then the optimist who's wise will hide himself behind a cloud; foolhardy is the man who tries to force his sunshine on the crowd. In our town there's Sunny Jim who works the sunshine tap too much: he has a beefsteak on his glim, and cannot walk without a crutch.

THE TORONTO GENERAL TRUSTS

Shareholders Listen to a Good Report

On Wednesday last the shareholders of the Toronto General Trust Corporation met in the Company's offices in their building in Toronto. The best report in the whole history of the company's thirty-two years years successful operation, was presented by the Vice President and General Manager, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, who not only originated the Company, but has been its chief executive since the beginning.

The collection of interest due on the mortgages shows the phenomenal record of 98.4 during the twelve months. This is indicative of the careful selection of mortgages, exercised by the Toronto General Trust Corporation.

The large volume of new business assumed by the corporation amounting to over $11,000,000.00 and the increasing number of wills being filed, show the growing confidence of the public in this institution.

The profits during the last year were $299,016.47, and the increase in Assets was $9,203,319.82, making the total Assets $63,055,833.97. To the reserve was added the sum of $400,000, making it equal to the capital stock.

Conservative and careful management has always characterized the conduct of the business of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, and that this policy is a wise one, is shown by the increasing growth and strength of this institution year by year.

Cigar Stump Exchange.

Without a doubt the most novel mart in the world is the cigar stump exchange which is held in the End-end of London every Sunday morning. Here the dwellers in the common lodging-houses that abound in the locality bring the cigar ends—"snipes" they call them—they have collected during the week, and sell them to swarthy, alien-looking men for good, current coin of the realm.

What becomes of them afterwards nobody seems to know, but it is generally surmised that they are made up into cheap cigarettes, after being shredded, and probably mixed with other tobacco or tobacco dust.

The sellers bring their wares in paper bags, in cardboard boxes, or tied up in grimy handkerchiefs or old rags. There is no dealing in futures. Each broker sells only the cigar ends actually in his possession, getting the most money he can for them.

The price on the Cigar Stump Exchange vary from time to time, just as they do on other exchanges. In summer, during the height of the London season, they rule low. In winter, when fewer persons smoke cigars in the streets, the sellers get ten or fifteen per cent. more for their stumps.—Pearson's Weekly.

Birthdays of Note

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY SIXTH

The Venerable Archdeacon W. J. Armitage of Halifax, N.S., one of the most prominent clergymen of the Church of England in Canada, celebrates his fifty-fourth birthday to-day. Dr. Armitage has the distinction of being the rector of the oldest Protestant Church in the Dominion, St. Paul's, Halifax, the pro-cathedral of the first colonial bishop ever appointed and sent out by the mother church in England. Dr. Armitage's hobby is Canadian history, particularly that part of it dealing with Nova Scotia. He is president of the Nova Scotia Historical Society and was appointed two years ago to the Archives Commission of the Dominion. He is also secretary of the committee of the Church having in hand the revision of the Prayer Book.

The First Aviator.

Was Harold the last of the Saxon Kings, our first aviator? This is a point seriously maintained by ancient biographers of the Saxon King who perished in the Battle of Hastings. In the course of an article in The Windsor Magazine a writer recalls a tradition which cannot of course be either disputed or disproved to-day, but was of sufficient interest to be retold even by the poet Milton in his "History of the Anglo-Saxons," where the poet-historian says: "Harold was, in his youth, strangely aspiring had made and fitted wings to his hands and feet; with these on the top of a tower, spread out to gather air, he flew more than a furlong; but the wind being too high, came fluttering down, to the maiming of all his limbs; yet so conceited of his art, that he attributed the cause of his fall to the want of a tail, as birds have, which he forgot to make to his hinder parts. This story, though seeming otherwise too light in the midst of a sad narration, yet for the strangeness thereof, I thought worthy enough the placing."

An Extraordinary Shower.

Daniel O'Connell, the Irish agitator, once complained in the House of Commons of a report of a speech in a London newspaper which, he said, put into his mouth opinions he had never expressed. He vowed that if the editor did not apologize he would move that he be brought to the bar for a breach of privilege. Next day the reporter of the speech waited upon O'Connell and gave a most remarkable explanation. He stated that during his walk from the House to his office in Fleet street the rain streamed into his pockets and obliterated the notes of his speech.

"I accept the explanation," said O'Connell good humoredly, "but let me say that it must have been a very extraordinary shower of rain, for it not only washed out of your note-book the speech I delivered, but washed in another of an entirely different character."

Kangaroos.

Kangaroos use their hands very readily to hold food in and to put it to their mouths. As their fore legs are so short that they have to browse in a stooping position, they seem pleased when able to secure a large bunch of cabbage or other vegetable provender and to hold it in their hands to eat. Sometimes the young kangaroo, looking out of the pouch, catches one or two of the leaves which the old one drops, and the pair may be seen each nibbling at the salad held in their hands, one, so to speak, "one floor" above the other.

Source of His Information.

"This story of yours is all right," said the editor, "but your description of the hero's automobile is simply impossible. If there was an automobile made as perfect as the one you describe I'd buy one to-morrow. Where in the world did you get your ideas?"

"That was easy," replied the author. "I got my friend Bragley to describe his new car."

DANGERS OF WIRELESS.

Its Powerful Electric Waves Seriously Affect the Operators.

The latest in the list of occupational maladies is "wireless operators' disease." A German authority reports that the men suffer from impoverished blood, headaches and other untoward symptoms. That these are directly due to the powerful electric waves sent out by their machines has not been directly proved, but incidents are cited that make this appear at least probable. A German scientific journal says:

"Wireless telegraphers are subject to anaemia, in which the number of red blood globules as well as their content of hemoglobin is diminished. The strong ozonization of the air, due to the use of alternating currents of high frequency to send the message, plays an important part. Similar troubles, such as paleness, headache, loss of appetite and bad digestion have often been noted among the electrical workers employed in high tension plants, such as those at Niagara."

Bull Fights Are Expensive.

During 1911 in the 392 rings of Spain 4,394 bulls and 5,618 horses met their death in the bull ring. Ten toreadors were killed and 160 injured. Seven million spectators have spent on this "sport" 21,000,000 pesetas in that poor country. There are forty-four old matadors and 324 so called novilleros. The number of banderilleros, piccadores and chutos amounts to 1,128, who annually get more than 4,000,000 pesetas in pay. Machaquito, the most famous "espada," alone earned in sixty bull fights 360,000 pesetas. Annually the value of the killed bulls amounts to 500,000,000 pesetas.—Animals' Guardian.

Banishing the Cradle.

Rocking the baby to sleep is now forbidden by law in London, England. Just how the health department of that great city expects to enforce the ordinance it has just passed is not explained. There are many reasons that can be cited against the old fashioned rock-a-by cradle, but they may be summed up by saying that a baby should go to sleep without rocking, which gets it into the very bad habit of being unable to go to sleep without that swinging motion. Modern doctors insist upon regular hours for feeding and sleeping.

We assume the New York crusade against the mashers is a conspiracy to quadruple the police force.

MONTREAL PUBLISHER ON WAY TO GIVE EVIDENCE AT QUEBEC

Introduction of Sir Hugh's Name in Connection With Circumstances Surrounding the Publication of the Legislature Scandals Leads to Request That He Present His Version.

QUEBEC, Feb. 6. — Application that Sir Hugh Graham be asked to give evidence was made yesterday afternoon, when the re-organised investigating committee of the upper House met under the direction of the new chairman, Hon. Thomas Chapais, leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Council. Sir Hugh Graham's name was introduced after Mr. Edward Beck had given evidence regarding the circumstances of the start of the investigation into conditions in the Legislature. Mr. Beck explained that Messrs. Nichols and Macnab had heard of the investigation after its conclusion, and had demanded proofs before consenting to publish the evidence in the public interest.

Hon. Mr. Chapais, chairman of the committee, gave Mr. B. A. Macnab, editor of The Daily Mail, permission to ask a question. He wanted Mr. Beck to tell to whom he had first shown documents in connection with the investigation. Mr. Beck asked permission to decline to answer that question. Mr. Macnab then submitted another question. He wanted to know to whom Mr. Beck had sent his letter of resignation as president of The Herald Company. Once again Mr. Beck asked permission to decline to answer.

Mr. Macnab then asked that a subpoena be sent to Sir Hugh Graham, requiring him to give evidence before the committee. At the end of the meeting it was decided to request Sir Hugh Graham to give evidence, and a wire was sent to him in that sense.

When the committee resumed its sitting last night, word was received from Sir Hugh to the effect that he was leaving for Quebec in answer to the request of the committee.

B. A. Macnab, editor of The Daily Mail, last night also requested the committee of the lower House that they examine Sir Hugh Graham as well regarding the justification of The Daily Mail in publishing charges in the House against three legislators. A subpoena will therefore be served on Sir Hugh Graham to-day by the committee of the lower House.

It transpired during a further examination of Edward Beck, that after The Montreal Herald had changed owners recently he had submitted evidence of corruption to the new owners of The Herald, but for reasons of their own they had declined to publish it. Mr. Amand Lavergne asked who were the new owners of The Herald; to what person he submitted the information and whether it was to Sir Hugh Graham. Mr. Beck declined to reply to any of the questions.

Mr. Achille Bergevin, one of the three legislators accused of corruption by The Daily Mail, was summoned before the committee of the lower House by L. T. Marschall. Like Mr. L. P. Berard, he refused on advice of his counsel, to answer questions "which might incriminate him."

As Mr. Bergevin positively refused to answer he was allowed to go and the committee adjourned.

Evidence supporting The Daily Mail charges against Messrs. Berard and Bergevin, late of the upper House, was given by Messrs. Beck, Biddinger (Hyland) and Maloney (Sampson), as well as Keyes, the stenographer. Both the accused, Messrs. Bergevin and Berard, were present and listened intently to the evidence against them. In justification of Mr. Achille Bergevin, Mr. Maloney stated that he believed that Mr. Bergevin would have helped in passing the Montreal Fair Association bill without any bribe. At no time did Mr. Bergevin ask for a dollar, although he finally accepted money.

"He was different from the others," Mr. Maloney said. "The others were grasping and avaricious."

At the morning session of the Legislative Assembly an apology from Charles Lanctot, Deputy Attorney-General, for the attack on B. A. Macnab on Wednesday night was read.

WOOD FROM THE MOON.

Queer Decision of the Most Primitive Race on Earth.

The "north pole natives" alluded to by Captain Amundsen in a recent lecture were discovered by him while he was navigating his little craft, the Gjoa, through the Northwest passage in 1903-7.

He christened them "Nechilli" and considered them to be the most primitive race on earth. No white man had ever before invaded their icy fastnesses. Consequently they were ignorant of the use of iron. Their fishing implements were long spears, fashioned out of reindeer horn. They knew no other method of procuring fire than that of rubbing two pieces of wood together. They were, in short, still in the stage of civilization reached by our ancestors of the stone age.

So cut off were they from others of their kind that they imagined their tribe was the only one in the world and displayed the utmost astonishment when told of populous countries far to the south, where neither ice nor snow was. The Gjoa and her crew they thought to have dropped from the Moon, and the first Nechilli to come aboard felt the deck, masts, boats, oars, all the while whispering to one another in amazement, "How much wood there is in the moon—how very much!"—London Standard.

Too Eager.

There is a lady in Richmond who has in her employ a darky servant of a most curious disposition.

"Did the postman leave any letters, Lily?" the mistress asked on one occasion on returning from a call in the neighborhood.

"There ain't nothin' but a postal card, ma'am," said Lily.

"Who is it from?" asked the mistress craftily.

"'Deed, I don't know, ma'am," said Lily, with an air of entire innocence.

"Well, any one that sends me a message on a postal card is either very stupid or impertinent," suggested the lady of the house.

"Excuse me, ma'am," said Lily, with dignity, "but that ain't no way to talk 'bout yo' own mother!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Population of Earth.

The population of the entire earth is around 1,600,000,000. Of this number, Asia has over half, 850,000,000; Africa, 127,000,000; North America, 120,000,000; South America, 45,000,000; Australasia, 5,000,000; Europe, 390,000,000; polar regions, 300,000. There are no means of estimating the increase in the earth's population, owing to the paucity of statistics and the comparatively recent date at which any sort of statistics were possible. But it is safe to say that from now on, owing to the spread of science the human increase will be greater than ever before.—New York American.

HE WAS IN DIRE DISTRESS.

But He Would Not Follow His Friend's Kindly Suggestion.

"EXCUSE me, Wombat," said the well dressed one, "but personal friendship prompts me to speak."

"What is it, old chap?"

"I fear that unless you improve your personal appearance, you may lose your job."

"I hope not."

"You need a new hat."

"Um."

"You need a new suit."

"Um."

"You need shoes. Man alive, your feet are on the ground!"

"Quite true," admitted Wombat, with a sigh.

"Then take this week's salary and spruce up."

"Can't squander any money on myself, old man. My wife is worse off than I am."

"Dear me! How is that?"

"She needs a new feather in her hat."—Judge.

The Way of a Man.

"And why," she asked, "do you think the world is better now than it was twenty-five years ago?"

"Because you were not in it then," he replied.

"Ah, I am afraid you wish to flatter me. I am nearly twenty-eight."

"Is it possible? Well, in a way, I'm glad of it."

"Why?"

"You see, I'm thirty-seven, and I don't believe any man ought to be more than eight or nine years older than his wife."

"Oh, Horace! How romantic you are! I wonder if any other man ever adopted such a lovely way to let a girl know that he cared for her?"—Chicago Record Herald.

His Modest Wants.

"I don't want to be very rich."

"That so?"

"No. I have no desire to have a great fortune."

"Then what do you want?"

"I'd be perfectly happy if I were rich enough to give my wife an allowance every week instead of having to take my pay envelope home intact and receiving an allowance from my wife."—Detroit Free Press.

A Guileless Chinese Artist.

In the fourth century A. D. there lived in China an artist who was also a poet. His name was Ku K'ai Chih. In London there is a painting, a long scroll, which for at least a thousand years has been treasured as his work, and, though that cannot be proved, it is in all probability a painting by his hand. One day, we are told, he intrusted to a friend a chestful of paintings which he had collected. For better security he fastened the lid of the chest and sealed the fastening with a seal. The friend, however, coveted the paintings and hit on the simple expedient of removing the bottom of the box and so abstracting them. When the box was restored to Ku K'ai Chih he broke the seal and found it empty. But he suspected no theft and expressed no surprise. Beautiful paintings, he said, communicate with supernatural beings. They had changed their form and flown away like men when they join the immortals.—Louis Binyon in Atlantic.

GROWTH OF OUR COUNTRY.

Wonderful Progress We Have Made in the Past Century.

A century survey of the growth of the United States in population, commerce and industry is presented in a pamphlet, "Statistical Record of the Progress of the United States, 1880-1913," just issued by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce. The publication contains monetary, commercial and financial statistics of this country and, in less detailed form, those of the principal nations of the world and the share which the United States supplies of their imports and takes of their exports.

In area the United States is shown to have increased from 892,135 square miles in 1800 to 3,026,789 in 1913 and in population from 5,308,483 to 97,028,407, exclusive of the island territories now under the American flag. Meantime the production of basic articles of industry shows marked growth: Coal, from 20 tons in 1814 to 477,000,000 in 1912; pig iron, from 54,000 tons in 1810 to 30,000,000 in 1912; copper, from 100 tons in 1845 to 558,000 in 1912; petroleum, from 84,000 gallons in 1859 to over 9,000,000,000 gallons in 1912; cotton from 73,000 running bales of 500 pounds each in 1800 to 14,000,000 in 1912; wheat, from 84,000,000 bushels in 1840 to 730,000,000 in 1912, and corn, from 378,000,000 bushels in 1840 to over 3,000,000,000 in 1912, while similar increases are noted in other products of agriculture, mining and manufacture.

The tables of the pamphlet show a corresponding increase in foreign commerce: Imports, from $55,000,000 in 1821 to $1,813,000,000 in 1913, and domestic exports, from $52,000,000 in 1821 to $2,420,000,000 in 1913, while the share which manufactured products (including prepared foodstuffs) form of the total exports increased from less than $18,000,000 in 1821 to $1,500,000,000 in 1913.

"A Very Monstrous Great Ship."

In her "Life of James IV.," Miss I. A. Taylor says that James was untiring in his efforts toward the realization of a good Scottish fleet. In 1511 the building of the St. Michael, "a very monstrous great ship," was completed. "All the woods in Fife, save one, had been laid waste to build her," and material was also imported from Norway. According to Lindsay, this wonder ship, which was 240 feet long and 36 broad, "cumbered all Scotland to get her to the sea." Her sides were ten feet thick within walls of oak, and she cost the king, all told, some £40,000. He paid her daily visits when she lay in the roads, often dining and supping on board, and exhibiting her to the lords and ladies he brought with him. Henry VIII. was covetous of her, but when the singular request was preferred that James "would grant Henry the loan of the apple of his eye, the great St. Michael, the king's reply was to the effect that if he would make peace with France he might command all his ships." Six months after their king's death the Scottish government sold this desirable ship to Louis XII.

A Salad, Pretty and Palatable.

For a very effective as well as palatable salad take lettuce, green peppers and canned asparagus tips. Make a bed of lettuce leaves. Cut the peppers in rings about one-half inch thick (the inside taken out, of course). Stand the ring upright on the lettuce and while holding it place the asparagus tips in (lying flat, not standing) until the ring is over half full. After that the ring will stand of itself. Serve with French dressing. The idea of not entirely filling the ring is to give the effect of a basket. It is more convenient to serve on separate or individual plates.

A Trade In Mummified Cats.

There were 180,000 cats mummified in the hope of nine blessed hereafters once found by a laborer who dropped into a pit at Bem Hassen, about 100 miles from Cairo. At the bottom of the pit he discovered that he had chanced upon a cat cemetery. An Alexandrine speculator brought the lot, for the Levantine merchant will traffic in anything. He shipped them in the steamers Pharos and Thebes, consigned to order in Liverpool. Here they were sold at auction by Leventon & Co., being knocked down in ton lots at a figure that averaged 10 cats for a penny. The ultimate utilization of the sacred animals was to enrich the English fields.

Slighted His Chance.

At a singing contest at Frankfort, Kaiser Wilhelm, who attended, was served by several high school boys as pages. According to Jugend, he was attracted by the bright face of one of them and asked his name.

"Korner, your majesty," said the boy.

"And your first name is Theodore?" said the emperor, thinking of the patriot poet Theodore Korner, whose war songs stirred Germany.

"I'm sorry," replied the uncourtier-like youngster, "but it's only Wilhelm."

When Kaiser Wilhelm broke into a hearty laugh at the answer the page realized his missed opportunity.

Her Little Confidence Game.

"We're playing railroad train," she said as she pulled her father's paper away, "and I'm the conductor. Tickets, please."

He took a card from his pocket and handed it to her. She looked at it intently for a minute and then handed it back. "That was issued yesterday," she said, "and isn't good to-day. You'll have to pay cash or get off the train."

He gave her a dime. He knew he had been "worked," but what else could he do?

A NOVEMBER TRAGEDY.

"The Sorrow of the Skeffingtons" Passes Its Tercentenary

Just three centuries ago on November 4th there occurred a tragedy which set all fashionable London a-ringing, but it is probably now only remembered in the family of Lord Massereene and Ferrard, the representative of those mostly concerned. Sir William Skeffington, of the ancient Staffordshire family of the name whose seats at Skeffington and Fisherwicke rivalled every Midland mansion in hospitality, died and left a very handsome widow. After due mourning Lady Skeffington mixed again with the world, and, being well endowed, she had many suitors. Some most important would-be second husbands were rejected; then came the astounding news that the attractive and rich widow had married her own groom, Michael Bray.

The mesalliance was naturally particularly displeasing to the Skeffingtons, as Lady Skeffington had, under her husband's will, great power over the family estates. Disputes arose, and eventually there was a Chancery suit between Bray and Sir William Skeffington's brother John. Just before the case came on the litigants were persuaded to try and compromise, and a meeting was arranged at a Gray's Inn tavern. Matters seemed likely to be satisfactorily arranged, but Bray, preceding Skeffington downstairs, stopped at the bottom with sword drawn and inflicted a mortal wound on his fellow-litigant. The latter, on seeing Bray with sword in hand, drew his own, and in falling mortally wounded the ex-groom. In a few minutes both were dead. It was a deliberately-planned murder by Bray, but nothing could be done.

The family estates were inherited by the four sisters of the murdered John Skeffington and the deceased Sir William, one of whom married a relative, Sir John Skeffington, from whom the Viscounts Massereene are descended. For the rest of their lives the sisters bore about them a settled gloom, "the sorrow of the Skeffingtons," which deprived them of a beloved brother, making a lasting impression. The mother of these sisters was a Byron of Newstead, and when Lord Byron (the poet's great-uncle) was tried for the murder of Mr. Chaworth an attempt was made to draw a comparison between the two cases. The Skeffington pedigree states that Lady Skeffington's second husband was killed Nov. 4th, 1613, and under John Skeffington's name is the entry, "Killed by Michael Bray, Nov. 4, 1613. Ob. Coelebs," but history is silent as to what became, after the tragedy, of the lovely woman whose marriage to an inferior brought such sorrow to a noble family.

He Heard Plenty.

Farmer Parsnip had a good day at market. His cattle fetched good prices, and so he bought a nice piece of cloth to have made into a suit of clothes. But on his homeward way he lost it, a misfortune which annoyed Mrs. Parsnip very much. Overburdened with her grievance, she told a neighbor about it the next day, strongly condemning her husband's carelessness. A week later the neighbor met Mr. Parsnip. "Good morning, Mr. Parsnip," said the neighbor. "Heard anything yet about your cloth?" Parsnip smiled sadly. "Yes," he said solemnly and mournfully, yet philosophically, "I have—morning, noon and night!"—London Mail.

Up Two Stumps.

Little Johanny was in the habit of wanting more victuals put upon his plate than he could eat. His papa decided to break him of the habit. One day as Johnny insisted upon being served until his plate was well filled his papa said, "Johnny, if I give you this you will have to eat every bit of it or I will punish you." Johnny promised that he would, and bravely did the little fellow try to do so, but in vain. It was too much for him. He would try again and again and then look sorrowfully at his papa. Finally, laying down his fork, he said:

"Papa, if you was me which would you rather do, get a licking or bust?"

The Oldest Epigram.

An epigram must pass through many hands and get much polishing before it is a perfect jewel. You may remember, says the London Chronicle, how Oscar Wilde sent (on the stage) the man of the world through the drawing room door with the epigram, "There is one thing I never could resist; that is temptation." But you may trace it from the garden of Eden, where the masculine plea for mercy was that the "woman tempted me."

Earthquake Records.

An average of 186 earthquakes a year has been recorded at the seismological observatory of Rocco di Papa, near Rome, during the last twelve years. Of this number forty-four have originated within a distance of sixty-five miles, while eighty-five had their source more than 3,000 miles away.

More Appropriate.

"Shine 'em up, sir?" cried the young bootblack. "I'll polish 'em so's you kin see yer face in 'em, sir."

"Thanks, my good lad, but I'm entirely satisfied to see my feet in them," replied Fogg, and on he went.—Boston Transcript.

"Yes—after the emergency has passed."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Jailbirds.

It is estimated that in the United States 132 persons out of 100,000 are in prison on any given day, in Italy 217, and in the United Kingdom 46.

For the Children

Prince Henry of England Tramping in the Hills.

© by American Press Association.

Royal princes look very much like ordinary folks when you don't know who they are. The boy in the picture is Prince Henry of England, third son of King George V. The prince is in his fourteenth year and, like all the children of the English ruler, he has been trained in a common sense way. Queen Mary is a rather strict disciplinarian and her boys are brought up much as are other English boys of good social standing. When Prince Henry was snapped by the camera man he was tramping with his brother, Prince George, who is two years younger. The picture was taken in the hills of Wales.

Tree Toad's Change of Colors.

A correspondent of Farm and Fireside has the following to say about tree toads:

"When a boy the writer often read of a wonderful animal, called a chameleon, which was said to have the power of taking the color of the object by which it was surrounded. But he never saw a chameleon and always felt a little 'Thomas like' in regard to its existence. However, he has since learned that there is an animal that has some of the powers attributed to the chameleon. That is the tree toad. Its life history is similar to that of the toads and frogs in the early stages.

"To show these various changes we took one that was found on an old board and placed it in a white pitcher. When placed in it the toad was a dingy brown, but after a few hours in the pitcher it was white with a slight creamy tint and with a few pale brown dots. On being placed in a window beside some green moss it soon took that color. Make the experiment of putting one in various colored locations and see the changes. You will be greatly interested."

Self Irrigating Pans For Plants.

One of the best ideas is the self irrigating basket or pan. This is made up in all styles and has a reservoir of tin, which sets in the basket with a pipe extending up to the height of the basket. This pipe is entirely hidden when the ferns or plants are placed in the basket.

All the watering is done through this pipe, the reservoir holding enough water to last ten days. There are two openings in the reservoir with sponges in them, and the plants absorb the water through these sponges in quantities required. Ferns and plants grow better in these baskets than in the ordinary receptacles for them, as they are never given too much or too little water at a time.

Woven Name Tapes.

For the methodical housewife woven name tapes are a boon. For $2 you can have your name woven in twelve dozen little lengths of white tape. The weaving is in red. These twelve dozen tapes would mark much of your household linen for years to come, doubtless, for, of course, it would not do for table linen. For sheets and pillowcases, towels of all sorts and underwear nothing could be neater or more durable. It takes three or four weeks for the manufacturer to fill each order.

As all the world's supply of radium could be put in the hollow of the hand, figuratively speaking, the use of the world's "radium depot" seems a slight exaggeration.

It is predicted that internal medicine will surpass surgery in value to the human race within twenty-five years. It is an operation that will be watched with interest.

The Mexican practice of passing death sentence on generals on the other side before they are caught is a time saving device which requires their assistance to prove successful.

In view of Shaw's opinion of Shakespeare, the presiding genius at Mme. Tussaud's must have a certain grim humor to place their figures where they can glare at each other.

A domestic remedy which is often employed for asthma is made by saturating white blotting paper in a solution of one dram of nitrate of potash dissolved in one ounce of water. From one to six papers may be employed as an inhalation for the relief of an attack.

Life Assurance

Fifteen years ago a prominent merchant on George Street took out a 10 pay 15 year endowment policy No. 69879, for $2000 on his life at age 45 in the Sun Life of Canada, premium $189.50.

Had this man taken a non-par policy his premium would have been $172.50 or $17.00 per year less.

PARTICIPATING RESULTS.		NON-PAR RESULTS.
$2637.75	Total cash 1st Dec. last	$2000.00
1895.00	Total prems. paid	1725.00

Almost 40 p.c.	Percentage returned over prem paid	almost 16 p.c.
1299.70	or, Cash returned and a paid-up Policy of $2000	661.25

Now, this man paid $17.00 per year for 10 years only, or $170.00 all told and it yielded him $637.75 in profits. Just figure out what rate of interest that is on the $17.00 per year, paid extra for profits, and see if you would not like to invest a few dollars at the same rate. If so, call at or 'phone the Sun Life Office, 402 Water Street.

The above policyholder thinks he had a splendid result. Don't you?

MR. BICKERDIKE'S BILL TO ABOLISH DEATH PENALTY

Montreal Member's Measure Finds a Warm Supporter in Hon. Mr. Graham, While Hon. Messrs. Foster and Doherty Feel That Society Must Protect Itself Against Murderers.

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—Knighthoods and detectophones, the Dominion Elections Act, and the death penalty were among the subjects up for discussion in the House of Commons yesterday.

Great interest is manifested in Mr. Bickerdike's bill to abolish capital punishment. Judging from the debate, the bill would have had many supporters upon a division, but it was not acceptable to the Government, and upon motion of Judge Doherty the debate was adjourned.

Mr. Bickerdike, in moving the second reading of his bill, said he believed it was morally wrong for the state to take the life of a citizen. A man not fit to live was certainly not fit to die. It was shocking to witness the Government of a Christian country contracting with a hangman to put people to death.

After the rebellion of 1837, Mr. Bickerdike reminded the House, a large number of people had been executed in Montreal, and several in Toronto, upon a charge of treason. These executions, in his opinion, were legalized murders and so deeply did they shock the community that no Governor-General would consent to capital punishment being inflicted in this country for twenty years thereafter. No hangings in Canada occurred between 1838 and 1868, yet no increase in homicides was noticed.

Hon. George E. Foster hoped the day would come when capital punishment would be unnecessary, but he hardly thought that the House should commit itself without considerable thought and discussion to the principle of Mr. Bickerdike's bill. Society had a right to protect itself against vicious individuals.

Mr. Carvell (Carleton, N.B.), opposed the bill. Immigrants, he said, were pouring into the country and also foreign laborers. They should be taught that human life was sacred in Canada, and that the extreme penalty would be inflicted upon the murderer.

Hon. George P. Graham spoke with eloquent vehemence in support of the bill. No men or set of men could confer upon themselves the power to kill a human being. Capital punishment was morally wrong, and so in his opinion was the legalized killing by wars. Our histories and other books did not teach the sacredness of human life but glorified the men who killed their fellows. Our monuments should be erected not to honor those who slaughtered but to honor those who served and saved their fellowmen. It was right to have statutes authorizing the killing of dogs, wolves and other animals for certain offences, but such laws should not apply to human beings.

Mr. W. F. Nickle (Kingston), said many countries which had done away with capital punishment were forced to return to it because murders increased.

The debate was continued by Mr. Thompson, who favored the bill, and Dr. Edwards (Frontenac) who approached the subject with an open mind, but advised against hasty action.

Mr. Verville favored the bill as also did Mr. Proulx (Prescott). Hon. Frank Oliver defended capital punishment, and Judge Doherty, Minister of Justice, also intimated his disagreement with Mr. Bickerdike's proposal, moved the adjournment of the debate.

Mr. Verville (Maisonneuve) introduced a bill to amend the criminal code. It seeks to prohibit the employment of armed men and also to place under severe destrictions the detectophone and like devices.

Regarding the first proposal Mr. Verville said that when there was a strike, as at Buckingham a few years ago, men were employed ostensibly as workmen or watchmen, but they were strike-breakers used for the purpose of overawing the men on strike and the community generally.

The detectophone he denounced as a greater menace to society than the revolver. Its unrestricted use would permit intolerable espionage.

Mr. E. M. Macdonald (Pictou) complained that the steamer Alert had again left Sydney harbor for Victoria County, C.B., and was conveying Conservative politicians to the scene of the election in that county.

Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Customs, said the first trip made by the Alert was caused by a well-grounded report that United States fishermen were fishing within the three-mile limit, the vessel being unable to effect a landing, had returned to North Sydney. Her departure yesterday had been without any orders from the Department and he had suspended the collector of customs and ordered the vessel out of commission.

NOT OPPOSED TO $40 FEE FOR CIGARETTES

Sale Would be Restricted to the Tobacco Stores.

One tobacconist, with whom The Review conversed this morning said he was not opposed to the move of Ald. Anderson that a license fee of $40 be provided for the sale of cigarettes.

He pointed out that the sale would to a large extent, be restricted to the retail tobacco stores, and it would also have a tendency to stop the three-for-a-quarter sale of cigars and tobaccos, which should not be at present, because of the increased price of tobaccos. This would be necessary to make up for the $40 fee.

French Detective's Revenge.

M. Calchas, the famous French detective, was noted for his skill as a "shadower." Having quarreled for administrative reasons with M. Lepine during the latter's reign at the prefecture, he threatened to have his vengeance.

"It's no use trying to kill me," said the prefect genially, "I am too well looked after for that."

"I've a much better and less obvious plan than that," retorted the detective "Just wait and see."

A week later M. Calchas appeared in the prefect's study and presented an ominous document. It was the record of M. Lepine's doings day by day, hour by hour, almost minute by minute, since their last interview, and it was with rather a wan smile that the prefect perused it. Satisfied with his characteristic vengeance, the detective assured M. Lepine that the "dossier" for that week would not be given to the world.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

TO USE AEROPLANES

Mexican Rebels Will Import Flying Machines at Once.

CULIACAN, Sinaloa, Feb. 6.—Military aeroplanes will be among the war munitions to be ordered at once from the United States by Gen. Carranza, the rebel chieftain. This was announced yesterday after Carranza had made hasty arrangements to take advantage immediately of the American Government's action in lifting the embargo on the exportation of arms. The aeroplanes will be used in campaigns in northern Mexico.

Fourteen thousand rifles with sufficient ammunition for a long campaign have been ordered.

It was also stated that the insurgents would import artillery with mounts suitable for use aboard vessels which will be armored for operations against the Pacific coast seaports still held by the Huerta forces.

The organization of a aerial war fleet will be effected by Gen. Angeles, sub-secretary of war in the Carranza cabinet. It will be commanded by Captain Frederico Cervantes, who recently returned after having spent three months as a student in military aviation camps in France.

Only Mexican aviators will be used, including two members of Carranza's staff, who are qualified air pilots.

The 14,000 rifles contracted for will be used to equip rebel troops in Chihuahua and Zacatecas.

Early Start in Crime.

STRATFORD, Feb. 6.—Two charges of obstructing railways, two of theft and one of malicious injury to property, to all of which he pleaded guilty yesterday in the police court, have earned for Harold Heathfield, a young lad about 16 years of age, a three months' stay in the county jail, the sentences to run concurrently.

PRES. WILSON WANTS CONGRESS TO REPEAL PANAMA TOLLS

He Comes Out Flatly For a Fair and Equal Treatment of All Nations Whose Ships Use the Canal and Says Hay-Pauncefote Treaty Includes the U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. — President Wilson announced yesterday that he would endeavor to have repealed at the present session of Congress that provision of the Panama Canal Act which exempts American coastwise ships from the payment of tolls. He made his position clear to callers yesterday in unequivocal terms.

The President believes the Hay-Pauncefote treaty with Britain guarantees equality of treatment to all nations including the United States, in the matter of tolls, and that the United States is in honor bound to charge American vessels the same tolls it imposes upon those of foreign nations.

The President impressed upon his callers that he would use every legitimate influence at his disposal to have the exemption clause eliminated from the Panama Canal Act.

This announcement was expected by administration leaders at the capitol. The President's views will be carried out in the House with little difficulty, according to Representative Adamson, chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Commission, who said last night Congress undoubtedly would act quickly by "a straight out repeal."

Not so certain, however, are some of the Democratic leaders in the Senate that the President will be sustained in his resolve on this question, which has agitated American relations with Britain for several years and has been a subject of internal controversy since the passage of the Panama Canal Act in August, 1912. Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the interocean canal committee, which had charge of the bill, and who led the victorious fight in the Senate to exempt American coastwise vessels from tolls last night, declared his purpose to stand by his convictions and fight the President's desire.

Other Senators pointed to the recent action of the foreign relations committee in recommending the British general arbitration treaty for an extension as an indication that the Senate is ready to rescind its action on the tolls question, fear of having to submit it to arbitration having delayed its extension by the Senate last summer. Senator Stone, who voted for the provision, has said he would vote for the repeal, taking the position that under the treaty the United States still has the right to levy any tolls it wishes, the exemption should be stricken out in deference to international good feeling and in line with a desire to avoid any ill-feeling with Great Britain.

GAMBLERS CONDEMNED

Fall Fair Fakirs Must Go Say Delegates to Convention

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—A strong stand was taken by the delegates to the fourteenth annual convention of the Ontario Association of Fairs and Exhibitions, which opened at the Foresters' Hall yesterday, in the matter of making the annual fall fair a "day of agricultural schooling" rather than a day set apart for the filching of the pockets of the younger generation by fakirs, etc.

Heated discussions following every suggestion for the elimination of questionable features of the midways from the fall fairs were participated in by the militant agriculturists from as far north as New Liskeard and Manitoulin Island, and from points stretching from Essex to Glengarry. Something of a furore followed the reading of a resolution asking the Attorney-General to summarily dismiss any magistrate who, after finding a fall fair trickster guilty of gambling, allows him to go on suspended sentence. But the resolution was carried.

"I regret to state," declared Supt. Leckie Wilson, "that a number of directors of agricultural societies in 1913 permitted the use of gambling devices on their grounds. The department has not been disposed in the past to deal harshly with these societies which are breaking the law, but leniency does not seem to have the desired effect."

You Might Try These.

If Cranberries Are Tough.—Sometimes cranberries in the market are not all the housewife could wish, but a bit of baking soda removes much of the bitter taste and improves the sauce or jelly. Sort a quart of berries carefully, discarding all soft ones, as they impair the flavor. Wash them and cover with cold water. Add half a level teaspoonful of soda and bring quickly to the boiling point. Watch carefully, and as soon as the berries begin to pop open pour off the dark colored water and cover again with fresh water. Cook till all the berries are soft, rub through a coarse sieve to remove the tough skins. Add as much sugar as you have berry pulp and cook together about five minutes. Pour into a mold to cool.

Cranberry Pie.—Select large cranberries and cut each one in half with a sharp knife. For one pie you will need a cupful and a half of berries. Mix with them a tablespoonful of flour, one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of butter. Line a pie plate with plain pastry, fill with the berries, then cover with strips of pastry laid on crisscross, latticework fashion and bake slowly until the crust is brown. If preferred, the cranberries can be stewed first before putting into the crust.

Blankets, after being washed and dried thoroughly, should be well beaten with a carpet beater.

BROUGHT IN A WILD MAN

Provincial Police Get Insane Hermit After Hard Fight.

FORT WILLIAM, Feb. 6. — A year's nomadic life in Western Ontario has evidently blotted from the mind of George Georgeson, who has been apprehended after a long chase by Provincial police, all memory of, and certainly all liking for civilization, was placed in a cell yesterday afternoon, after having fought over every foot of the twenty-six miles he was taken.

Several weeks ago the provincial police received a petition signed by numerous settlers saying a wild man was terrorizing the district and that their families lives were in danger. A search of the country revealed only a man's footprints leading to a dilapidated cabin, barren of furniture, save a broken stove and a few quilts.

Scarcely a shadow of the man who came from Minnesota a year or so ago to fish, hunt and trap, he was yesterday stealthily approaching his cabin.

He seemed bewildered at the sight of the constable, who singlehanded, took him into custody. When nearing the city limits he succeeded in breaking away and was recaptured only after a long chase. He may be deported.

READY TO BUY LAND.

Baron de Forest Accepts Earl of Derby's Offer.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—A big land deal is likely to result from a political controversy. Maurice Arnold de Forest, who is a hereditary baron of the Austrian Empire, has accepted an offer recently made in a public speech by the Earl of Derby to sell him his estate in Baale, a suburb of Liverpool, for $7,500,000. The property was purchased in 1724 for $35,000, and in a contribution to the land enquiry committee's report, Baron de Forest cited this as a striking example of unearned increment. He estimated the annual income from the property as $500,000 and the value of the property as between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

In his speech proffering the land for sale, the Earl of Derby declared that the estimates were grossly excessive and referred contemptuously to Baron de Forest as "an alien gentleman for whom I have no love, who has come here to tell us landlords what we ought to do."

SIR GEORGE HAS GRANDSON.

Senate Leader's Room In Hospital a Centre of Jubilation.

TORONTO, Feb. 6. — When Sir George Ross was last night greeted by his newest grandson, born the day before to Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Ross, the veteran statesman fairly glowed with joy, and the family circle in the hospital ward were exuberantly happy. Sir George, who was slightly better than earlier in the day, took the child in his arms and kissed him fondly.

Much improvement was noted in Sir James Whitney's condition throughout yesterday and his ultimate recovery seems assured.

POLE ARRESTED

Rifle Went Off With Fatal Results During a Scuffle.

NORTH BAY, Feb. 6.—J. Tomuwk, a Pole, will be committed to North Bay jail from Whitney, charged with causing the death of John Brown, another Polack, in a row which occurred in a lodging house frequented by foreigners in Whitney. The men in the house had been drinking and when the fight started a rifle was produced and several of the men struggled for its possession, the weapon being discharged in the scuffle, and John Brown, who had just come down the stairs, attracted by noise of the melee, was struck by a bullet, which passed through his body.

He fell mortally wounded, dying before reaching Pembroke, to which place he was taken for medical attention.

The man who is alleged to have been the cause of the trouble by threatening to shoot Tomuwk, now under arrest, was fined $10 and costs and set free.

Fishermen Caught In Ice.

CURLING, Nfld., Feb. 6.—The United States naval tug Potomac, not only failed to free the fishing schooners Hiram Lowell and Frances Willard in the Bay of Islands yesterday, but narrowly escaped being caught in the ice which was driven in heavily from the Gulf of St. Lawrence before a northwest gale.

The crews remain on board their vessels, but it is believed that they will be able to reach shore if the schooners succumb to the force of the ice pressure.

The Potomac will make another effort to rescue the fishermen when the ice and wind conditions are more favorable.

Schmidt Found Guilty.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. — Hans Schmidt was yesterday found guilty of killing Anna Anmuller, a young woman he had married through a self-performed ceremony while acting as a priest at St. Joseph's Church. The penalty of the crime is death in the electric chair. He will be sentenced next Wednesday.

Schmidt's defence was insanity.

PREPARING FOR OLD AGE.

If You Reach Sixty-five Years What Will Be Your Condition?

Actuaries say that of each thousand men living at the age of twenty 500 will still be alive at sixty-five. Economists declare that of the 500 living at sixty-five 200 will be in want; that eight-ninths of the pauperism in America is among people who have passed this same age of sixty-five.

A man is, of course, sometimes brought to want in old age through accident, through continued illness of himself or his family, through a dozen and one mischances against which even the wisest is helpless adequately to provide. In spite of this, however, there are certain tried and proved recipes by which a young man may guarantee at least the probability that he will not be found among the unfortunate 200 after the age of sixty-five.

Avoidance of wasteful, destructive habits; thrift, economy, the practice of spending habitually less than one earns, the habit of study, which increases one's usefulness and earning power—such are a few of the stable qualities which distinguish the young man approaching an independent old age from the one approaching a condition of want. Stand the actuary's thousand men in a row, divide them into two groups, the one possessing the habits and qualities noted above and the other lacking them, and there would be little difficulty in telling from which group will come the 200 and from which the 300.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

I advise you to buy my Lots, as they are perfect in every respect, affording the most profitable safe investment obtainable. Every person who bought from me during the past six years is more than pleased, and have good reason for being so. The lots sold were very fine, but not as high land as those now offered. My reason for offering at this season is that after the holidays all wise people settle down to earn money. Some save, many don't. Do you? Five years ago wise parents, having two boys, 16 and 18 years, just commencing to earn, accepted my advice, caused them to buy lots and impose a must upon themselves to save and pay for the lots; this they did and got their deeds, bought again and sold at good profit, buying a third time, and now owning property worth at least $1400, with about $100.00 to pay.

These are facts I can prove, and this is only one of many similar cases. Am I not justified in urging you to buy, and is it not greatly in your interest to do so? Lots $150, $175, and $200, corners and large blocks. Terms: $5 deposit, on one or two lots; no interest nor any further payments until May, when streets will be graded and all lots properly staked. If satisfied with your lots, pay $10 more, and $15 quarterly. Hereafter on one or two lots, including interest at six per cent. per annum, from May 1st. Six per cent. discount for larger cash payments. This offer good for this month. Call, see plans and select what you want. Your $5 back if wanted.

Commission of Doctors Understood to Have Found Him Very Ill.

MONTREAL, Feb. 6.—Doctors O. Leclerc, A. Simard and E. Lebel, who were named by the committee of the Quebec Legislative Assembly yesterday to examine J. Octave Mousseau and report as to his condition, arrived here last evening and visited the home of the former legislator on St. Hubert street. After fifteen minutes' examination, in company with Jules Patry, clerk of the legislation committee of the Legislative Assembly, they were able to agree upon a report.

While the committee of course refused to state what their conclusions are, it is understood the doctors are in agreement with Dr. Demartigny, who testified before the Quebec committee on Monday last to the effect that it will be absolutely impossible to submit Mr. Mousseau to an examination on the charges of alleged graft for some time.

The medical commission left Montreal last night for Quebec to report to the legislative committee to-day.

BREMNER IS DEAD.

Radium Failed to Save Congressman Suffering From Cancer.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 6.—Robt. Gunn Bremner, member of Congress and editor of the Passaic, N.J., Daily Herald, died yesterday of cancer at a city sanitarium, where he had been undergoing radium treatment since last December. He had been suffering from the disease for four years. He had $100,000 worth of radium embedded in his shoulder.

Mr. Bremner was 39 years of age, and married, but childless. He was born in Scotland, but went to Canada, with his parents at an early age, settling at Orangeville, Ont. Twelve years ago Mr. Bremner came to New Jersey and entered politics a few years later. He was a close friend of President Wilson.

Fisheries Question Raised.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Upon the suggestion of Senator Root the Senate yesterday passed a resolution asking the Secretary of State whether the Joint Fisheries Commission of 1908 between the United States and Canada had completed its work.

The Senator explained that many regulations agreed upon by the commission were sent to Congress, but because other regulations were still under consideration by the commission Congress took no action. He added that the preservation of a great food supply depended upon these regulations.

J. W. Stewart's Career.

The fact that Mr. John William Stewart, the Vancouver millionaire, has purchased a great tract of land from the Duke of Sutherland recalls a remarkable romance of the Highlands. Mr. Stewart, who is a native of Sutherlandshire, is of crofter birth, and many years ago emigrated to Quebec, landed with 10s. in his pocket, and was engaged as a farm hand. Then he went to British Columbia and found work on the railway. He drifted to Montana, and it was his handling of a big engineering contract which pushed him up the first rungs of the ladder of riches and fame. Ultimately he became a partner in the firm of Messrs. Foley and Welch, a firm which to-day carries out huge contracts in the West, and employes an army of men. Mr. Stewart, it might be mentioned, remains to the core a Highlander, and speaks Gaelic as his mother tongue.

AUDITORS' REPORT.

We, the undersigned, beg to report that we have made a full examination of the books, accounts and vouchers of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation to the 31st December, 1913, and find same to be correct and properly set forth in the above statements of Profit and Loss and Assets and Liabilities. We have examined, and find in order, all the mortgages, debentures, bonds and scrip of the Corporation, as well as those negotiated for the Supreme Court of Ontario, and Trusts, Estates and Agencies in the Corporation's hands, and we have checked same with the mortgage and debenture ledgers and registers. The Banker's balances, after deducting outstanding cheques, agree with the books of the Corporation.

We have also examined the reports of the auditors of the Winnipeg, Ottawa and Saskatoon Branches, and find that they agree with the Head Office books.

R. F. SPENCE, F.C.A., "Can." } Auditors
GEO. MACBETH,

Toronto, January 19th, 1914.

The President, Hon. Featherston Osler, K.C., in moving the adoption of the report, which was seconded by Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., said in part:—

In moving the adoption of this report, I feel it is of such a character as not to require from me any extended remarks, especially as the general body of shareholders have had the report in their hands for several days. You can gather from this report and from the information conveyed to you by the reading of the different statements what a thoroughly satisfactory year the Corporation has passed through, and how in regard to all the activities with which it has been concerned there has been a general increase, and a continuation of the vigor and life which the Corporation has manifested during the long period of its existence. I will not take up your time, as you will all wish to hear from the General Manager of the Company who has guided its destinies up to the present time. I will just say to the shareholders—I do not speak to the kings of finance, who know more about these things than I can ever hope to—but to the general rank and file of the shareholders I wish to say that each one of them can make themselves a centre of a circle of influence by advising in all cases where it is convenient for them to do so the employment of the Corporation as executor, administrator or agent. We have a thoroughly trained staff for the management of affairs of this kind, a staff which can be relied upon to handle efficiently a man's affairs as agent during his lifetime, and administer his estate after his death.

The President then called upon Mr. J. W. Langmuir, Vice-President and General Manager, to address the shareholders.

Mr. Langmuir spoke as follows:—

On a reading of the Report and the financial statements accompanying it (which have been in the hands of the Shareholders for the past two weeks), I am confident that not only the Shareholders, but also the many thousand beneficiaries and others interested in The Toronto General Trusts Corporation will have reason to be satisfied with the results of the year's operations. I say this without hesitation, that the report is in every respect the best in the history of the Corporation, now extending over nearly a third of a century.

The net profits, after charging up all expenses of every kind, and providing for all possible losses for the year, amount to $299,016.40, being an increase of $85,100.47 over the net profits for the preceding year. These profits represent earnings of 19.93% on the paid-up Capital Stock of $1,500,000, or 9.96% on the total amount of the Corporation's paid-up Capital and Reserve, namely, $3,000,000.

Your Directors, acting on the authority given them by the Shareholders in 1912, made a further issue of new stock to the extent of $250,000, which was offered to the Shareholders at $185 per share. The entire issue was taken up and fully paid during the year, netting a premium of $212,773.36. This premium, together with the net profits for the year, and the balance of $86,471.08 carried forward to the credit of Profit and Loss from 1912 enabled your Directors, after paying the usual 10% dividend and writing off $16,753.80 from the Head Office premises, and $4,373.27, the amount of the Office Furniture Account, to transfer to Reserve the sum of $400,000, and carry forward to the credit of Profit and Loss $42,232.75. The transfer of the $400,000 to credit of Reserve brings this fund up to $1,500,000, or a sum equal to our present paid-up Capital Stock, which is one of the gratifying features of this Report.

Coming now to a review of the Assets and Liabilities statement, this account shows a volume of business in the hands of the Corporation as at the 31st of December aggregating $63,055,883.97, or a net increase over 1912 of $9,203,319.82. The new Estates, Trusts, Agencies and other work assumed during the year, apart from Trusteeships in respect of Bond Issues and work of a kindred character, amounted—as will be seen by the Inspection Committee's report—to the sum of $11,297,090.36. If these figures are compared with the net increase in assets of $9,203,319.82, it will be obvious that a very large percentage of the new estates and other work coming into the hands of the Corporation remains with it in trust, for care and management.

While commenting on the statement of Assets and Liabilities, I wish to take this opportunity of answering a criticism which one sometimes hears to the effect that Trust Companies are frequently in no hurry to invest the trust funds committed to their care. In this connection let me direct your attention to the fact that of the trust assets in the Corporation's hands (apart from our guaranteed funds), aggregating over $50,000,000, as shown in the statement, only some $505,948.59 remained on deposit in the various banks at the 31st of December last, a large percentage of which was revenue for distribution as at the 1st of January. It should be borne in mind that in the conduct of a large trust business there must always be funds, to a considerable amount, that are not available for permanent investment. In such cases, as far as it is possible or advisable, the Corporation loans the money at call on the security of municipal debentures, in order that the beneficiaries may obtain the best possible interest return. It will also be obvious that a Trust Company, keeping its trust funds distinctly separate and apart from its own moneys—as is the practice of this Corporation—has nothing to gain, but rather something to lose in the way of commission by allowing the funds belonging to estates under its control to remain uninvested.

Our policy—except in cases where we are otherwise directed by the will or trust instrument under which we act—is to practically confine our investments to first mortgages on improved real estate. The interest return from such investments is not only as a rule better, but mortgages are more convenient and satisfactory to deal with when it becomes necessary to distribute the estate, and particularly so where the beneficiaries desire cash rather than securities, as they frequently do.

In referring to our mortgage investments I have pleasure in stating that, notwithstanding the unusual money stringency which prevailed for the last seven or eight months of the past year, the mortgage interest, and, indeed, the instalments of principal maturing, have been most satisfactorily met. In respect of the mortgage investments in Ontario, aggregating $14,194,[illegible], 98.40% of all the interest that fell due in 1913 was paid before the close of the year. The promptitude with which the interest is paid on mortgages of this class makes such investments, in this particular, almost as satisfactory as municipal debentures, while at the same time the interest return is, of course, much higher. The average rate of interest on this entire volume of Ontario mortgage investments is 5.824% per annum, an increase over the average for last year of .24%, or practically a quarter of one per cent. The average rate obtained on Ontario mortgage loans negotiated by the Corporation during the past year was 6.39%.

I am also glad to inform you that our borrowers throughout Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have during the past year met their payments of interest and instalments of principal in a very satisfactory way. These western mortgage investments amount to $7,744,893.05, and 77.64% of the entire amount of interest maturing in the year 1913 was paid during the year, notwithstanding the fact that the interest is, in the case of nearly all western farm loans, payable annually, and a very large percentage of it matures during the last two months of the year.

With these results it will be obvious that the Corporation's loaning policy is a conservative one, not only in the selection of its districts for operation in the West, as well as in Ontario, but also in the selection of its loans within such districts, both in regard to the security offered and the character of the borrower.

You will be pleased to learn from our statements that, notwithstanding the tightness of the money market, especially during the latter half of the year, we have, owing to the extended sources of money supply available to the Corporation, been in a position to negotiate new mortgage loans to the extent of $5,858,548.83, representing, after the deduction of repayments on matured loans, a net increase during the year in mortgage investments of $2,621,586.94.

In dealing with the investments made by the Corporation, I wish to draw your attention to what is called our Guaranteed Plan of Investment. This is a department of work entirely separate from our Estates business. You will observe from the statements that the Corporation has now in its hands guaranteed funds to the extent of $8,785,687.87, which have been entrusted to it by companies, institutions and individuals for investment under a guarantee from the Corporation that it will return the fund intact at the end of the investment period, together with a fixed net rate of interest per annum, payable half yearly. Practically all of these moneys (with the exception of some special funds which we received for investment in municipal debentures) are invested in first mortgages on improved real estate coming within the terms of the Trustee Investment Act.

These Guaranteed Accounts are each kept distinctly separate in the books of the Corporation, and to each is specifically allocated a mortgage or mortgages earmarked as the property of the investor, which, with the Corporation's guarantee, makes it a particularly attractive form of investment. It is not only an eminently safe investment for the guaranteed investor, but it is also a peculiarly safe class of business for the Trust Company, as the risk of loss to the Trust Company in connection with its guarantee to the investor is, owing to the class of investments taken and the system of allocation, reduced to a minimum.

This is a class of work that should be developed, for, while it is a safe business for the Corporation, and attractive to small as well as large investors in Canada, the United States and also Great Britain who have not the facilities for making loans or looking after their investments, it is at the same time of immense value to the development of our Canadian agricultural interests. These funds, gathered from many quarters by a Trust Company having a proper loaning organization and other necessary equipment, should help materially in supplying the needs of the farming community, particularly throughout our western Provinces. Sir George Paish, in one of his recent addresses, pointed out that Canada, in the completion this year of the transcontinental systems of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern, would no doubt reach the end of what might be called its great railway expansion period, and in the immediate future should, as far as possible, give its attention to the development of the Dominion's agricultural resources. In order that this may be done the Trust and Loan Companies should, in my opinion, be encouraged by our Governments in the acquirement of funds along the lines I have indicated, to the end that the farmer may obtain on mortgage account, at reasonable rates of interest, whatever funds may be necessary to enable him to properly carry on his agricultural pursuits.

Turning now to our Trust Estates business, let me say that the confidence of the public which we are enjoying is not alone evidenced by the very large increase in the volume of the assets under our control, as shown by the Assets Statement, but also by the increasing number of Wills that are being filed with the Corporation, in which we are named as Executor and Trustee.

For your information I may say that as the business increases we are careful to add to our staff, in order that no single officer or member of the staff may have more to do than he can efficiently accomplish. With the experience that our officers and members of the staff have gathered from year to year in connection with the varying duties that an Executor and Trustee is called upon to perform, it goes without saying that we are in a better position to-day than ever before to carry out successfully the administration of Estates and Trusts comprising all manner of assets.

I desire to take this opportunity of informing the Shareholders, as well as the public generally, that the expert services of the officers and staff of the Corporation may be had in the administration of Estates and Trusts and the management of collecting and investing agencies, at certainly no greater cost than is usually awarded to private executors and trustees on the passing of their accounts, or allowed to individual agents for similar services. A Trust Company cannot, as one frequently hears stated, charge whatever fee or commission it may be disposed to charge, any more than a private trustee, but must accept the allowances that are made by the courts on the passing of its accounts, unless the commission has already been agreed upon as between the parties interested. The management of the Corporation invites inquiry on the part of the Shareholders and the public in connection with any department of its affairs, as a good deal of misapprehension still exists in the minds of many people with regard to the services rendered by Trust Companies and the remuneration received for such services.

Again let me repeat what I have said at former Annual Meetings, that the functions of a Trust Company having the care and management of estates, and the consequent investment of Trust Funds, surely provide a sufficient volume and variety of work, involving great responsibilities, without it entering upon speculative transactions in real estate or stocks, or assuming work other than is required in the performance of duties as executor and trustee and investor of funds under the provisions of the Trustee Investment Act. Not only does it devolve upon a properly-constituted Trust Company to administer and wind up estates, but it has to obtain and keep invested the funds belonging to such estates during the time the trusts are in operation. As time goes on the work of investing trust funds constitutes a large part of the work of a Corporate Executor and Trustee. In corroboration of this statement I may say that The Toronto General Trusts Corporation to-day is not only an Executor and Trustee of Estates, but in its capacity of investor of trust funds has perhaps the largest loaning business in mortgages and municipal debentures in Canada. I cannot, therefore, too strongly press for the confinement of the work of Trust Companies to their legitimate functions, eliminating all speculative transactions, whether in real estate or stocks or underwriting transactions, or in receiving moneys, as bankers, on deposit subject to withdrawal by cheque.

In concluding my remarks I wish to thank the members of the Advisory Boards of the Corporation at Ottawa and Winnipeg, and also the members of the staff at the Head Office and its Branches, for their efficient services and the loyal manner in which they have, on behalf of the Corporation, discharged the duties devolving upon them throughout the year.

HOLIDAY DATES AND SUNDAYS FOR ERIE CLUB

ERIE, Feb. 6.—Every arrangement for the playing of Canadian League ball in Erie this season was completed yesterday afternoon when the Erie Exhibition Company, holders of the Perry field lease, turned their holdings over to George H. O'Neil, of London, Canada, owner of the Erie franchise.

In buying the lease O'Neil pays the $600 due the ground owner by the Exhibition Company and $1,400. The settlement was larger than the directors of the company hoped for and as it was satisfactory to O'Neil, the new owner of the Erie franchise will have the full support of the men who have supplied Erie fans with baseball in the past.

Get Holiday Games

The Erie team will run into many holidays during the season, for while at home they will have their Decoration day, Fourth of July and Labor Day games, abroad in the Dominion they will find holidays May 24, the anniversary of Queen Victoria's birthday; June 3, the King's birthday; July 1, Dominion day; July 12, Orangeman's day, the different civic holidays in August and Labor day is also observed.

The schedule makers will meet in March, and at that time O'Neil will try to have his team home practically every Sunday. Thomas J. O'Connor, president of the Erie Exhibition Company, will probably attend the schedule meeting and offer suggestions, for with the transfer of the holdings of the company Mr. O'Connor and other men connected with baseball in the past will aid the new owner in every possible way.

Thomas J. O'Connor, speaking for the directors of the Erie Exhibition Company, said: "Mr. O'Neil was absolutely on the square with us, and we will be with him. He will find that we will give him all our support, and there is every reason to believe that he will put a real team in Erie."

CURRENT SPORTING GOSSIP

In April, Honus will start his 18th year in the major league, and to bat over 300 every year is a record to be proud of, and exceeded only by Cap. Anson, who has twenty years to his string, but they are not consecutive.

Wagner was offered the managership of the Pittsburg Federal League team, but he wouldn't consider it for a moment, as his present contract has two years to run and he expects to finish his career within the fold of the Pirates.

TWO GAMES IN THE CITY LEAGUE

The game in the Junior City league to-night at Brock street rink have aroused considerable interest. In the first game the Alerts will endeavor to defeat the Y.M.C.A., and in the second the Wanderers are banking on giving the speedy Exploits their first trimming. The games are at 8 and 9 o'clock respectively.

The Boston Exploits will line up as follows:

Goal, Latimer; defence, Regan and Phelan; rover, Graham; centre, Butcher; wings, Wolff and Rose.

Mr. L. Dobson wil referee.

HEFF TO PLAY

Frank Heffernan will be on the T. R. and A. A. line-up tonight when they play the T. R. C.

BASEBALL

All of the changes proposed by the rules committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America were adopted by a vote of the members of the organization, except the one known as the "Cincinnati base hit." The result of the balloting was announced by Secretary Weart, who said that 25 members voted against the "Cincinnati base hit" and 26 in favor of it. Opposition to this was particularly strong among the New York and Chicago writers.

The only other proposed change that did not meet with almost unanimous approval was that giving a stolen base and a battery error on the same play. This suggestion, however, was carried three to one. It is now up to the rules committee of the major leagues to adopt those changes. They are as follows:

Sacrifice Hits.

Rule 85, Sec. 5—A sacrifice hit shall be credited to a baseman who when no one is out or when one man is out, hits a fly ball that is caught, but results in a run being scored on the catch or would in the judgment of the scorer so result if caught.

Fielding Records.

Rule 85, Sec. 7.—The number of times, if any, each player assists in putting out an opponent shall be set down in the fifth column. One assist and no more, should be given to each player who handles the ball in aiding in a run-out or any other play of the kind, even though he completes the play by making a put-out.

Errors.

Rule 85, Sec. 8.—An error shall be given in the sixth column for each misplay which prolongs the time at bat of the batsman or prolongs the life of the base runner to make one or more bases when perfect play have insured his being put out.

Rule 85, Sec. 8.—An error shall not be charged against the catcher or an infielder who attempts to complete a double play unless the throw be so wild that an additional base be gainempt from an error a player who drops a thrown ball when by holding it he would have completed a double play.

Stolen Bases.

Rule 85, Sec. 9.—In event of a base runner making his start to steal a base prior to a battery error he shall be credited with a stolen base, and the battery error shall be also charged.

FRONTENACS PUT BELLEVILLE AWAY

Sutherland's Boys Were the Better Team on Hard Ice.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 6.—By a score of 3 to 1 the Frontenac junior O.H.A. team last evening defeated the Belleville team, thus winning the first and second districts. It was a fine exhibition of hockey, witnessed by a record crowd of spectators. The Frontenacs were accompanied here by several hundred supporters and a brass band. In the first half of the game the score was 2 to 0 in favor of the Frontenacs and in the second half both teams scored a goal. It was in every respect a clean game and the ice was in excellent condition for fast hockey. The teams:

Frontenacs—Goal, Mills; defence Angrove and Godard; rover, T. Millan; centre, H. Millan; wings, Cook and Derry.

Belleville—Goal, Nurse; defence Pimlock and Moore; rover, Box; centre, Finkle; wings, Mills and Goyer.

Referee—A. Kinder, Preston.

PUCKERINGS FROM PUCK

Quinn Butterfield, the junior Orillia rover, who has been on the sick list for some time, will be back in the game tonight against Victoria Harbor. The latter have a three-goal lead.

The game tonight in Kingston between the senior Frontenacs and St. Michael's is causing a great deal of interest.

The executive of the Mercantile hockey league are reminded of the meeting tonight in the Examiner office.

The 'Never Do Wells" hockey aggregation hereby challenge the hockey seven known as the R. U. Well Club, to a game of hockey, not shinney, to be played in the Brock street rink, some time next week.

The entire seven of the challengers are all imported and will hand out a few surprises.

MIDNIGHT SONS WON

The Midnight Sons maintained their title last evening by defeating the R. U. Well Club, ten to one, in a game of what was supposed to be hockey. The R. U. Well Club, now known as the R. U. Sick Club, scored the first counter, but failed to come through with the necessary pep to win out.

The teams:

R. U. Well		Midnight Sons
Gracy	goal	Outram
Rylie	r. def.	Ballard
Lebar	left def.	Fair
Murray	rover	Keanneally
Donahue	centre	Hamblin

Hit by Bale of Hay.

KINGSTON, Feb. 6.—At Harrowsmith, on the line of the C.P.R., a farmer named Barnabas Guess, aged about 60, received probably fatal injuries while engaged baling hay. A bale fell from a pile and hit him on the head and shoulder, inflicting serious injuries.

Havelock May Take Hydro.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 6.—The council of Havelock has decided to request the Hydro-Electric Commission to send an expert here to look into the lighting and power question with a view to ascertaining the best system advisable to adopt.

Author Goes To Jail.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Frank Harris, formerly editor of Vanity Fair, and now editor of Modern Society, was summoned before the courts Wednesday by Earl Fitzwilliam in consequence of his having published articles in the latter journal in reference to the divorce suit in which the earl is a party, in which the names of high personages in the realm were mentioned. The court viewed the article complained of as the highest contempt of court, and asked Harris to apologize. He refused to do so and was committed to prison for an indefinite period.

New Altitude Record.

CHARTRES, France, Feb. 6.—The French aviator Garaix Wednesday established a new altitude record with five passengers, ascending to a height of 7,382 feet. He made the flight in the new biplane built by Paul Schmitt, an engineer, which Tuesday reached a height of 5,000 feet with seven passengers.

The previous record for altitude with five passengers was made by the Austrian aviator Sablatnik last October at Johannisthol, who reached an altitude of 3,281 feet.

END OF A FAMOUS OLD INN.

Built and Owned by Washington, It Has Now Got to Go.

Known as the Washington inn, built and owned by George Washington and further enjoying the distinction of being the only structure ever owned in the national capital by the first president, this time stained pile will soon come down to make way for the new park that is to connect the Union station with the capitol. It stands half a block north of the capitol grounds and years ago was known as the Kenmore House and still earlier as the Hillman House. In its present form it is a reconstruction of two houses built by George Washington, and all but the lower portion retains the original walls.

In December, 1798, Washington wrote a letter to William Thornton, an architect, "to proceed in laying in materials for carrying on my buildings in the federal city." In the same letter, which was written from Mount Vernon, he said: "I saw a building in Philadelphia of about the same front and elevation that are to be given to my two houses, which pleased me. It consisted of two houses united, doors in the center, a pediment in the roof and dormer windows on each side of it in front, skylights in the rear. If this is not incongruous with rules of architecture, I should be glad to have my two houses executed in this style."

The architects and builders carried out Washington's request. Washington paid $936 for the two lots on which the houses were built and valued the houses at $15,000.—Argonaut.

Origin of Life Again.

Others besides Dr. Bastian have been working upon the question of the origin of life. At the meeting of the British association Dr. Benjamin Moore of Liverpool made the claim that he had proved that strong sunlight or the light from a mercury lamp acting upon certain solutions can convert the lifeless into living matter. Sir Oliver Lodge objected that the investigator had only succeeded in securing potential living matter, a physical and chemical vehicle which could be made use of by life. Most of the specialists dealing with chemical reactions deceive themselves in just this way, mistaking the appearance of life for life itself.—New York World.

Canker Sores.

Canker sores in the mouth result from a badly balanced diet. The stomach digestion may be satisfactory and yet cankers may develop. To cure cankers burn them with some aromatic sulphuric acid applied to the ulcers with a wooden toothpick. To prevent them eat regularly, properly and slowly. The diet should be a proper balance between vegetables, fruits, meat and bread. Constipation must be prevented. Cankers have a purpose. They warn. If the warning is not heeded more serious trouble follows.

Mrs. H. A. Yenney received for the first time in her new home, Barnardo Ave., Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. She was assisted by Mrs. A. W. Turner, and Miss Hallett was in the tea room.

Last night was an ideal Canadian winter's night. A bright moon, plenty of snow and frost, and calm as a summer sea. The many hills surrounding the city which might be termed the "City of Seven Hills" were well patronized with young and old of both sex, for tobogganing. The skating rinks too were crowded with merry skaters and "Young Canada" disported itself to its full extent in healthful enjoyment. What place on earth can compare to this glorious Canada of ours?

Mr. J. McCormick of Belleville, was in the city yesterday.

Ald. G. Walter Green and G. H. Duncan returned to the city yesterday ,from a two day's business trip to Montreal.

Mr. Harris Ardiel formerly of the Dominion Bank here, has been made accountant of the Church street branch of the same bank, in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pearson, 238 Dublin street, entertained a few friends in honor of their sister, Mrs. G. Thomson, Spokane, Wash., who has been visiting her mother since Christmas.

TWO DAYS PICTURES

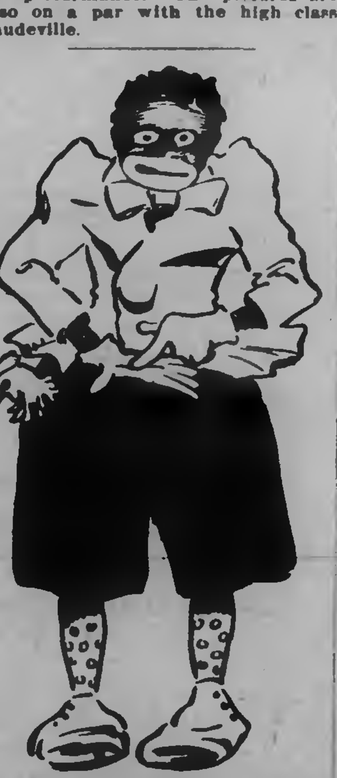
At "The Grand" This Week

Matinee Tomorrow at 2.30 p.m.

Tonight and tomorrow (Saturday) matinee and night, a high class program of motion pictures will be shown at The Grand. The feature for tonight will be a Victor film in two reels, entitled "A Bride from the Sea," in addition to which there will be four other complete reels of pictures comprising comedy and drama, as well as the Animated Weekly, showing many of the famous happenings all over the world. The management of this big commodious and airy playhouse are leaving no stone unturned to give the public a select variety of pictures, and to merit the splendid patronage so far enjoyed. If you have not yet taken in the pictures at The Grand, make it a point to do so tonight, or tomorrow matinee and night. The evening performances commence sharp at 7.30, the second show commencing at 9 o'clock, the matinee starts sharp at 2.30 p.m., running continuous, the second afternoon show being over at 5.30 p.m. The prices are adults 10c, children 5c. The opera house orchestra is in attendance at all performances and the pictures change daily.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE AT ROYAL THEATRE

The vaudeville at the Royal Theatre still keeps up to it's high standard. The week-end show is exceptionally good. The big feature is Dr. Aitkenson, ventriloquist, who affords more fun in five minutes than the majority of men in his line do in a week. On Saturday afternoon he will give a special show for ladies and children which should be well attended. The assassinator of sorrow, Mike Down, made a big hit yesterday when he rendered "What he would do if he was Mayor of Peterboro." He certainly would have the hydro and a police woman. The Allen and Burk troupe in novelty and quick change acts, greatly assisted in making an up-to-the-minute performance. The pictures are also on a par with the high class vaudeville.



FRED COLE

End Man with Belmont Club Minstrels

All the acts are now in rehearsal for the big performance and by next week will be dead letter perfect. The cabaret setting will be an absolute novelty. All the songs are of the whistling kind. The foot work of the end man will be an inovation. Something doing all the time. The burglar act with Harold Galop and his six pals, will be a hit. The Black Flora Dora introducing twelve of the Belmont clubs' best actors, will be a scream. Advance sale opens Monday morning for ticket holders. Tuesday for the general public.

Bathing and Bellowing.

Primitive man boiled his water with hot stones. That was not the only use he made of them, at any rate, if he was a Scythian. The Scythian practice described by Herodotus has been claimed by some as the first recorded case of smoking. Having spoken of a kind of hemp that grew in the country, Herodotus proceeds: "Now, the Scythians, taking the seed of this hemp, go into their tents and then throw the seed upon the stones heated white hot. As it is thrown on it is burnt into smoke, producing so much that no Greek vapor bath could surpass it. And the Scythians, delighting in it, bellow. This takes the place of washing for them." It seems as though they had discovered the Turkish bath and the cigarette.

THE BREED OF THE TRESHAMS

Martin Harvey and Company Please Their Audience Again

"The Breed of the Tresham's" was the play presented last night in a very able manner by Martin Harvey. One felt throughout the whole play that the actor was always greater than his role, that is, he put so much life into the part that it always seemed subordinate to him, or, in other words, that the limitations of the play did not give Mr. Harvey the range for the full exercise of his powers. That is indeed an enviable position for any man to reach in regard to his work. Life always has something yet to be done for the man who idealizes his chosen field of action and makes it promise something more than it actually is, and thus promotion comes, a well earned and satisfying success. Hence the impression Mr. Harvey leaves is that his best work is yet to come, even though he has already attained a large measure of success.

The play portrayed a romance of the stirring times of King Charles I. and his struggle with Parliament, or Oliver Cromwell. Those days were indeed stormy, fraught with treasons, strategems and spoils, filled with the clash of arms, the cry of battle and the sound of camp and garrison—A splendid setting for the romance that is intensified by the hazard of war. But beyond this fact the play never reaches the tragic depths or the sublime heights that one might imagine a love tale of such a time would bring forth. One can easily imagine that the days of King Charles would have caused the play to be greater than it is. The strength of the play is in the individual personalities that act the parts, in the strong contrast that is shown between a magnanimous and generous nature in the "Rat" and the mean, cowardly selfishness of Clement Hungerford, well acted by Charles Glenny. The heroine, Margaret and her lover, Francis Tresham, though well portrayed by Maud Rivers and Eugene Wellesley, are but minor characters, throwing into stronger contrast the two central figures of the story. For this reason the strength of the portrayal depends more on the work of the actors, particularly the leading man, than is usually the case. A strong supporting company is therefore necessary and such it is. Miss De Silva as Batty, was picturesque, but her part was not a heavy one. The play may not have exhibited as much depth as "The Only Way," but it was a very interesting story and acted so well that one felt it true to the life and action of those long past times.

Cold Facts.

The attorneys for the plaintiff in a suit before Federal Judge Smith McPherson of Iowa were attempting to introduce into the record of the case the diary of the deceased mother of the defendant, which contained references to a love affair between her daughter, a widow, and the defendant, also dead, against whose estate the suit was brought. The court finally ruled that the diary might be admitted, but before so ruling he told the jury this story:

"Down in my country," said Judge McPherson, "Bill Leveridge was trying to keep from paying his landlord the rent due on the farm he had been working. It was necessary for Bill's attorneys to show that the winter had been an especially hard one. To prove the extent of the difficulties under which Bill had labored Bill's diary was introduced, and among other entries laid before the jury was this:

"'Nov. 27.—Ground froze on this date and stayed frozen all winter!'"—Saturday Evening Post.

Rabies In India.

Although a number of Pasteur Institutes have been opened each year in India, rabies is still on the increase.

The Coonoor Institute has now been in existence for six years and last year the cases reached 1,240, the largest number ever treated, being an increase of three hundred over the previous year.

The increase is stated to have been due to the special prevalence of rabies in Quilon and adjacent parts of Travancore in the autumn. Of the 1,240 patients who underwent treatment 1,207 were treated for being bitten, scratched or licked by dogs, eighteen by jackals, seven by men, three by horses, two by monkeys, two by cats and one by an ass.

Why do they call it the "Hesitation" when every one seems so crazy about it?

REVIVAL BEGINS IN TABERNACLE

Rev. L. J. Long Speaks Highly of Evangelist Compton.

The revival meeings previously announced, began in Bethany Tabernacle, last night, with Rev. L. J. Long of Toronto, as the speaker. Mr. Long gave a very strong and forceful message, dwelling at length upon the subject of faith and love. In his introductory remarks he paid a glowing tribute to Evangelist Compton, who is expected in the Tabernacle next Monday night. He said he considered Mr. Compton one of the greatest living evangelists, and that Peterboro had been highly favored in securing his valuable services for two weeks.

The service will begin tonight at 8 o'clock. All are welcome.

Use for German Carp.

Prof. Prince, Dominion fisheries' commissioner, suggests that the spawn of German carp which were placed in Lake Erie and Lake Huron in 1872, and have flourished exceedingly, could be made valuable for caviare and thus provide a profitable industry in these waters. When properly prepared and cured it is indistinguishable from the caviare made from the sturgeons.

Inquiries from New York and London dealers who report a shortage of supply, caused the examination of which Prof. Prince's suggestion is the result. Up to now German carp has been a despised fish in this country.

FLOWERS IN HISTORY.

Some Costly Bouquets and Floral Wreaths—Queen Victoria's Rose.

It is stated that over $250,000 was paid to Covent Garden alone for flowers to be made into wreaths for Queen Victoria's funeral. It is safe to say that this large sum has been more than doubled in the purchase of floral mementoes for that of our late King, for many of the wreaths—like that of the Sultan of Zanzibar, which was 14 feet by 7 feet and contained over 500 chosen orchids, and that of the Emperor of Japan, which measured 5 1-2 feet in diameter—cost considerably over $500 apiece.

Flowers have played an important part in the world's history.

In the national insignia see what a place they take—the rose standing for England, the thistle representing Scotland, and the shamrock Ireland.

For a flower the late Count de Chambord lost France. There came a moment when the throne was offered "King" Henry. But he must accept, with the sceptre and the gilded chair, the tri-colored flag. Another man would have taken the bauble and the seat, the crown and all its troubles; but Henri Cinq was not that sort of pretender. "Either I have the lilies and the white flag, or I remain an exile," he said, and with this he crushed all the hopes of the Bourbons.

It was with a white rose that Queen Victoria wooed and won Prince Albert. "I gave him a flower," she writes in her diary. "It was a white rose." As the monarch of a great country, she could receive no proposal from a prince of a small state, and till she gave him the rose he could not aspire to her hand. With what feelings he received it is told in the story of his life.

Flowers have played a great part in politics. There were the Wars of the Roses—red and white; and Lord Beaconsfield's flower, the primrose, has a million devotees to-day in England.

A fight took place not many years ago over an artificial forget-me-not. A gentleman sent it to a damsel whom he knew, and it fell into the hands of the elder brother of the lady. There was nothing in the letter that contained the flower to indicate why it was forwarded, not a word of all the epistle alluded to it, but the brother challenged the sender. Each fired at the same moment, both fell dead, and to this day no one knows why the artificial forget-me-not was sent.

COULTER'S QUEER STORY

It Was Thought He Had Discovered Hades, but He Hadn't.

At a gathering in Milwaukee a well known minister was called on to tell a story, and this is what he told:

"Did you ever hear of Coulter's hell? Of the two men lost by the great Lewis and Clark expedition of 1803 on its long journey through the northwest one was a man named Coulter. He was captured by Indians, who stripped him and set him to running the gantlet.

"Outrunning their blows, he snatched a spear from the last Indian, killed him with it and ran into the mountains naked and wounded, but at last free and armed. Wandering toward the southeast, he presently found himself in a land where the forces of nature appeared to have gone mad together. Rivers from which he sought to drink ran hot water, boiling fountains gushed hundreds of feet in the air, volcanoes of black mud vomited at him, bubbling fountains of snow white mud gushed around, with others of crimson and blue and green. A mountain of pure sulphur crystals rose on one hand, and from beside a stream rose another composed of black glass almost as clear as a window pane.

"At last, escaping from the place, he was found by some trappers, who clothed him and took him to St. Louis, where they reported him as one whose mind had been wrecked by his experiences. Wherever he told of the frightful country which he swore he had seen men roared with mirth at the yarn and made him tell and retell it till within a few years it went all over the west as an example of the effect of the horrors of being lost on the human mind. It was commonly known as 'the story of Coulter's hell,' and under that name it frequently appeared in the eastern papers in the early thirties and forties. Coulter himself finally died regarded to the last as a hopeless maniac.

"And then in 1860 some Montana trappers wandered into the region and came back with the astounding tale that Coulter had told the truth and had never been insane at all. The government immediately rushed soldiers and scientists into the country, and before long it became the Yellowstone National park. And that is the story of Coulter's hell."—Milwaukee Journal.

The "A 1 Demons."

It was a little boy, who had been taken to see the pantomime at Drury Lane Theatre, who thus described the Salambos, who, as the wizards of the lamp, did so much for Aladdin. The Salambos comprise Mr. Salambo and his wife and daughter. Previous to appearing at Drury Lane, they had for four years been traveling all over the world. As a boy Mr. Salambo was apprenticed to a cabinet-maker; then he became a fruit buyer in Los Angeles; then an engine-driver on the Southern Pacific Railway; and ultimately acquired that knowledge of chemistry and electricity which he has turned to such good account on the stage.

In India their fire-blowing act caused the Parsees to really worship them, for fire is the Parsees' god, and when they saw the Salambos toying with flame and exchanging volumes of fire with each other by merely blowing sheets of flame from the bare lips, they seemed to think they were their gods come to earth. As a consequence, they were followed from town to town, and were bowed and salaamed to whenever they were seen in the streets.

A Sailor's Compliment.

As Miss Margot Tennant, Mrs. Asquith electrified London with her beauty, her wit and her high spirits. Mr. Gladstone admired her, and the novelist Benson owed his success to the portrait that he drew of her in "Dodo."

Galdstone, Tennyson and other distinguished persons made a cruise to Norway one summer in Sir Daniel Currie's yacht. Miss Margot Tennant was among the party and her gayety and beauty enchanted all on board, from Tennyson and Gladstone down to the cabin boy.

Mr. Gladstone and Miss Tennant, promenading the deck one morning, paused and talked awhile with a sailor.

"Are you married?" Miss Tennant asked him.

The sailor touched his cap and answered:

"Yes, ma'am; I'm sorry to say I am."

Impeachment.

In England it was the old practice to impeach for conduct out of office. Private citizens could be impeached. Dr. Sacheverell was impeached for preaching an unpopular sermon, the Duke of Richmond for proposing an adjournment of the house of lords and Inigo Jones for tearing down a church. But in America impeachment has been restricted to men in office for conduct in office.—Argonaut.

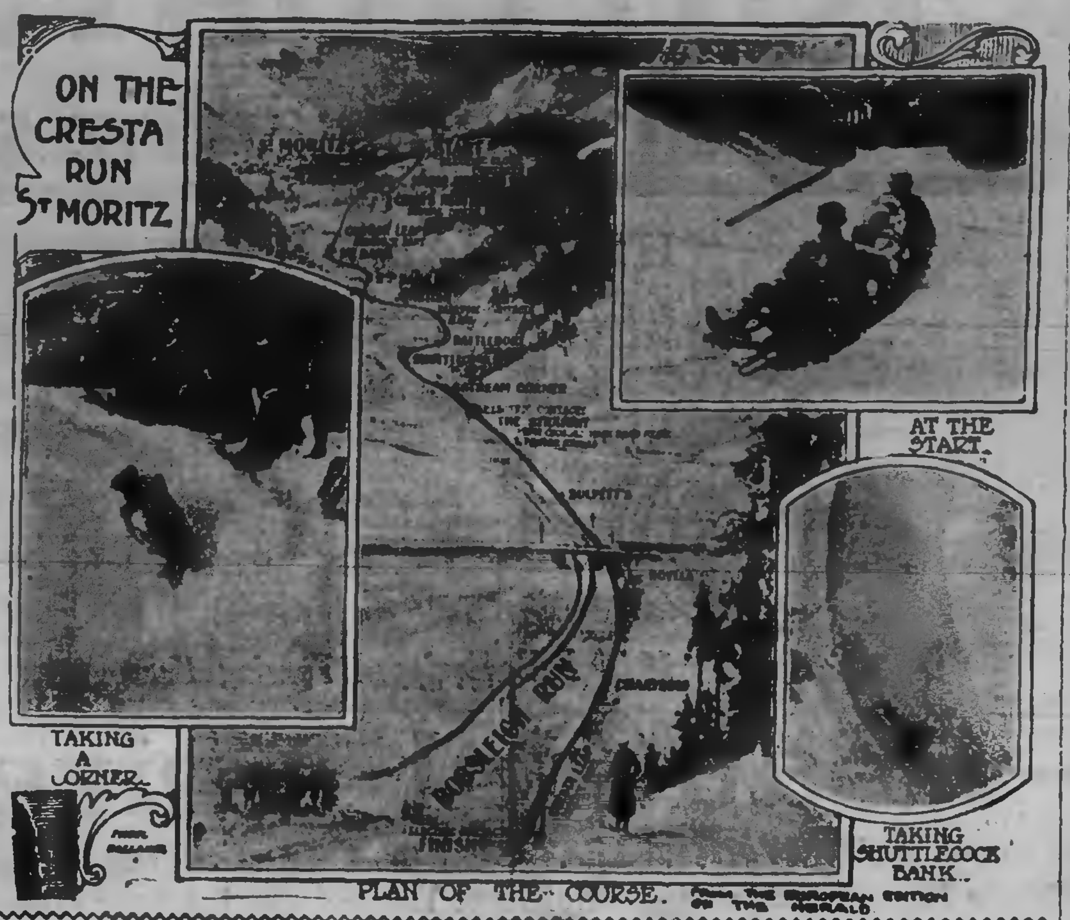
Crazy as a Loon.

"Before I sentence the prisoner I should like to ask the attorney why he thinks that the defendant is insane."

"Your honor, he admits that he had a perfectly fair trial."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Holding on Tight.

You can't always tell; the young man who holds on to you as tightly as a vine before marriage, girls, may hold on to his money the same way afterward.—Florida Times-Union.



PLAN OF THE COURSE. FROM THE EUROPEAN EDITION OF THE HERALD

THE HEIGHT OF TREES.

A Hundred Feet Is All That Is Usually Attained In Britain.

A tree 100 feet high, accurately measured, is not as tall as it looks. There are not many trees in the gardens of England that exceed 100 feet, notwithstanding the records of reputedly much higher trees than this. We have been told that the highest tree in Kew Gardens, carefully measured with a tape, was 103 feet and that the tallest pine, a Corsican near the entrance, is 86 feet, says The Field.

There are some fine specimens of Atlas and Lebanon cedars in these gardens, but not one of them is 70 feet high. A larch that had been drawn up by surrounding beeches and was looked upon as a giant, was blown down in 1902 and it proved to be 110 feet long. Beech, among the tallest of our trees, rarely reaches 100 feet, though Dr. Henry measured one in Kilkenny in 1904 which was 117 feet. The famous deciduous cypress, Taxodium distichum, in Syon Park, Brentford, is, according to Mr. Elwes, 110 feet high, the tallest of its kind in Europe.

The same authority gives 105 feet as the height of the tallest horse chestnut he had seen, though there are others estimated to be even higher than this. The tallest walnut is from 80 feet to 85 feet, and the tallest black walnut, at Marble Hill, Twickenham, was 98 feet high when measured by Dr. Henry in 1906. Oaks have been measured up to 130 feet, but they are quite exceptional, 100 feet being above the average for our tallest oaks.

The height of trees is influenced by the company they grow in. For example, a larch growing in the open would most likely fail to reach 100 feet in height, whereas larches growing close together or pressed upward by other trees have been known to exceed 130 feet in this country. The California giant trees of the Wellingtonia owe their great height to the same influence. Not even in that country would this tree have grown to 300 feet or more if it had not been forced to grow upward because it could not grow outward.

According to Mr. Elwes, one of the tallest Wellingtonias in England is at Fonthill Abbey, which in 1906 measured "certainly over 100 feet and probably 105 feet high." This is at least 10 feet higher than the tallest at Strathfieldsaye. It is next to impossible to ascertain the correct height of a tree by any other means than that of careful measurement; there are, we know, ingenious contrivances for doing it otherwise, but they are not reliable. Of course the approximate height may be near enough and yet be a long way out.

Big Sheep Runs.

They have some pretty big sheep runs out New South Wales way. Dunlop is one of four large grazing grounds, mostly owned by one man, on the Darling river. Dunlop is 1,000,000 acres; Toorale, next door to it is also a million; Fort Bourke, next to Toorale, is 400,000; and Nicoolech on the back of Dunlop, on the Paroo River, is 800,000. They make practically one enormous property of three and a quarter million acres. They reach along one bank of the Darling for 90 miles as the crow flies or as the river winds 280 miles. There is one fence, on Dunlop that runs something like 90 miles.

In Memory of Seddon.

In the crypt of St. Paul's Cathedral, the Duke of Argyll the other day unveiled a bust placed there by colonial and other friends in memory of Mr. Richard J. Seddon, the late Prime Minister of New Zealand. "Dick" was a great empire builder, and had the grit of the marble of which this fitting momento is formed.

Fire at Bombay.

A most destructive fire occurred at Bombay, India, recently, a number of grain, seed, and oil warehouses being gutted. The damage done by the outbreak, the cause of which is unknown, is estimated at from £100,000 to £133,000.

The Illegible Writer.

A protest which Michelangelo once made to his nephew against his sending letters in illegible handwriting will arouse a great deal of sympathy in the breast of modern sufferers from the same form of rudeness. It is contained in a letter given in the "Life of Michelangelo."

"I never receive a letter from you without being thrown into a fever before I can read it. I am at a loss to know where you learnt how to write! Little love here! I believe if you had to write to the biggest ass in the world you would take greater care. I threw your last letter into the fire because I could not read it. I cannot therefore reply. I have already told you, and constantly repeated, that every time I get a letter from you fever attacks me before I succeed in reading it."

Insurance and Assurance.

They were talking, the little group of agents, about the words insurance and assurance, some claiming that the first and some that the second was the better word to use.

But with a scornful laugh a Boston agent in gold rimmed spectacles said:

"You are all very ignorant. Insurance is no better and no worse than assurance. Each has a special significance, and each is equally good in its place. The place for assurance is where precaution is taken against a certainty—against, that is, death. Life assurance, we should say if we spoke with perfect correctness. The place for insurance is where precaution is taken against an uncertainty, such as fire, shipwreck, burglary. Fire insurance, marine insurance, we should say."—Exchange.

When Macaulay Was a Boy.

At one period of his boyhood Macaulay's fancy was much exercised by the threats and terrors of the law. He had a little plot of ground at the back of the house marked out as his own by a row of oyster shells, which a maid one day threw away as rubbish. He went straight to the drawing room, where his mother was entertaining some visitors, walked into the circle and said very solemnly, "Cursed be Sally, for it is written, 'Cursed is he that removeth his neighbor's landmark.'"—From G. O. Trevelyan's "Life of Macaulay."

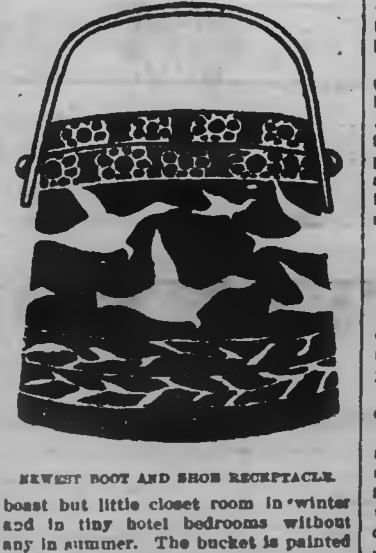
THE "TOTEM BUCKET."

Grandmother's Old Sugar Pail Put to Practical Use.

By the introduction of the "totem bucket," though it is but the sugar bucket of our grandmothers' day in disguise, is added a real household convenience to those of us unfortunates who are doomed to live in flats that boast but little closet room in winter and in tiny hotel bedrooms without any in summer. The bucket is painted black on the outside and decorated with stencil designs or hand painted colored patterns.



NEWEST BOOT AND SHOE RECEPTACLE.

On the inside the bucket is lined with blue denim, having pockets all around the sides to hold shoes and slippers, and it has straps on the inside of the cover to hold the shoehorn and buttonhook, while in the bottom of the bucket the shoe polishing outfit and the brushes may be kept. Quite conveniently the bucket may be carried from room to room, and the lining may be chosen to match the hangings of the room wherein it is to be used. It takes but little space, is rather decorative in appearance and is altogether a practical fancy.

An Estate in the Moon.

After the Franco-German war, in which Camille Flammarion, the famous astronomer, fought as a captain, he settled down to his astronomical labors in Paris and later founded an observatory at Juvisy specially to study the planets. On the occasion of his scientific jubilee he was presented with a silver medal depicting him standing on a cloud, flanked on one side by the planet Mars and on the other by his Juvisy observatory. A region on the moon has been named after him, but in whispering this fact to an interviewer M. Flammarion hoped it would not be published. "The budget commission," he added humorously, "may want to tax it as being landed property."—Westminster Gazette.

BERNARDO'S MONSTER

Gigantic and Unique, Once the Glory of the Medici Garden.

In the Demidoff garden at Pratolino, some eight or ten miles from Florence, there still crouches the monster in stone and stucco called the "Appennino," once the glory of the famous Medici garden. Some sixty or seventy years ago the statue was more talked of, but nowadays it appears that few folk know or care for such things. It is a good specimen of its style, and a reminder of its existence is just as well. Its height, if erect, would be about 100 feet, or say one-fourth the height of St. Paul's cathedral. At the back one can enter into rustic grottoes built into its interior, and from underneath the hair of the head a cascade may be made to flow forth at will over the shoulders and body of the colossus, creating a sparkling effect in the sunshine.

Buontalenti, the protege of Cosimo di Medici, who schemed this gigantic thing in 1569, employed the best talent available for the setting of it up, sculptors, masons, etc., and we are told that its abnormal size led to some of the artists losing all sense of proportion and being rendered unfit for ordinary work, one of them losing his reason as a consequence of helping to build the monster.

The audacity of the conception is worthy of the great genius, who, trained under the eye of Michelangelo, hesitated at nothing, knowing that the Medici money was at his back and he had only to ask when a daring idea of his needed funds.

This famous boy Bernardo (Buontalenti) seems in his day to have outshone the Admirable Crichton, being painter, sculptor, architect, engineer and mechancian and much besides.—London Sphere.

Morphine a Pain Producer.

"Morphine," says a woman who was a morphine fiend and then saved herself, "does not give pleasure. It creates pain. This is its ultimate and positive effect. The pleasure it is supposed to produce is a mere temporary form of anaesthesia. The exhilarating effect is the first thrill of pain vibrating so rapidly one does not recognize it as such. Let that be written in letters as tall as the mountains. Morphine is a pain producer. Morphine is a nerve destroyer. It weakens the will, it disrupts the foundations of the mind."—American Magazine.

A Mystery of Diplomacy.

Of disappearances, most mysterious was the case of Benjamin Bathurst, who vanished on Nov. 25, 1809, while engaged on a secret mission for the British foreign office. Vienna was the young diplomatist's objective and, with a friend and valet in a postchaise, Perleberg, a small posting town in North Germany, had been reached. Here Bathurst supped and slept, awaiting the arrival of fresh horses. Waking, he asked if the horses were ready and passed out of the inn door to make inquiries. Eight people saw him go out, but none ever set eyes on him again. Various theories were set afoot—Napoleon's spies, robbers, illness. About three years ago, in the forest near Perleberg, a skeleton was discovered with a hole in the skull as from a heavy blunt instrument. Was it that of "the English lord," as Perleberg people surmised?—London Tatler.

STORY OF "MONA LISA"

FAMOUS PAINTING IS WORLD'S MOST CELEBRATED PORTRAIT.

Leonardo da Vinci's Masterpiece, Whose Recovery In Florence Has Been the Talk of the Civilized Globe is Chiefly Notable For Her Smile — Musicians and Jesters Used to Secure It For Painter.

Art circles the world over are rejoicing in the recovery of Leonardo da Vinci's priceless painting, the "Mona Lisa," also known as "La Gioconda"—in French "La Joconde," "the smiler"—stolen from the Louvre museum of Paris two years ago. It is the most celebrated portrait in existence. It was reported at one time that the British Government had offered $5,000,000 for the work. The offer was declined.

Leonardo da Vinci's model was the third wife of Francesco del Giocondo, a Florentine of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. When Da Vinci painted her she was about thirty years old. She is shown seated in a low chair, on the left arm of which she is leaning. The gown is simple and drapes the figure in easy folds. Dark hair, hanging loosely, drapes an oval face with expressive eyes and aquiline nose.

Abouth the mouth is seen the smile which has been the chief characteristic in making the painting famous. It is said that Da Vinci, in order to obtain this effect, had musicians, singers and jesters near his subject to amuse her as he painted. The picture is not very large, less than 30 by 24 inches.

Poets have found a peculiar fascination in Mona Lisa's smile. "If Don Juan had met her," wrote Theophile Gautier, "he would have been saved the writing on his list of the names of 3,000 women—he would have written but one, and the wings of his love would have refused to carry him further."

"The smile and the name," wrote Sir Claude Phillips shortly after the picture disappeared from the Louvre, "are by this time inextricably interwoven, and the title of 'La Joconde' will ever call up the glance, which is not so much one of youthful buoyancy and joy in existence as an interrogation penetrating into the very being of the onlooker, but allowing no penetration, no divination, on his part in return."

The artist spent almost four years on the work, from 1500 to 1504, and even then pronounced it unfinished. Soon after the picture was painted it was purchased by King Francis I. of France for 4,000 ducats (about $9,200). King Francis was an ardent admirer of Da Vinci's work, and he afterward appointed him his court painter. Da Vinci died in France in 1519.

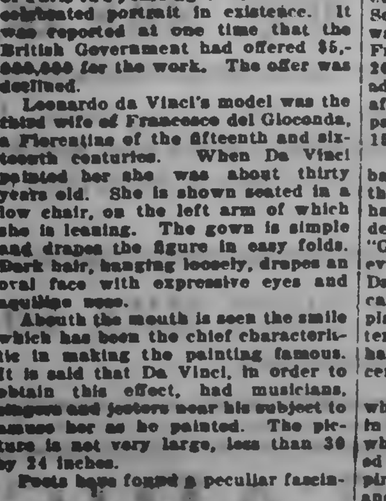
Though the picture would seem to have an unbroken "pedigree" since the day that the king bought it, there have been and still are critics who declare that it is not the original "Gioconda." The best opinion, however, is that this is the work on which Da Vinci labored with such minute care, even arranging to have music played to bring to the face of his sitter that strange, baffling smile that has captivated lovers of art for four centuries.

"She is older than the rocks among which she sits," wrote Walter Pater in a passage in "The Renaissance," which has become almost as celebrated as the picture. "Like the vampire, she has been dead many times, and has learned the secrets of the grave, * * * and has trafficked for strange webs with eastern merchants, and, as Leda, was the mother of Helen of Troy and, as St. Anne, the mother of Mary. And all this has been to her but as the sound of lyres and flutes and lives only in the delicacy with which it has modeled the changing lineaments and tinged the eyelids and the hands."

The lack of motive has always been the stumbling block in the way of the story of robbery until the explanation that the Italian who committed the theft did so to avenge the taking out of Italy by Napoleon of the famous art collection which France acquired through the emperor's invasion.

Many stories and theories had been circulated. It was with such particularity that the story that the "Mona Lisa" was not stolen, but was destroyed by carelessness while being cleaned, was told and retold, that it came to be generally believed. Artists especially credited it.

Another story that the actual theft took place long before Aug. 1, 1911, the date when the story of the disappearance of the picture was put into circulation. It was said that the original had been replaced by a copy and that when the officials discovered this they evolved the story of the robbery. This yarn was rather circumstantially told, but there appeared to be little to support it, except some vivid imagination.



It Was a Lengthy Trip.

The girl who had just returned from her six weeks' tour of Europe beamed compassionately on the woman who modestly confessed that she had been abroad only once.

"Too bad," said the girl patronizingly. "I always feel so sorry for anybody who is not able to get back a second time. How long were you there?"

"Ten years," said the woman.

The six weeks' tripper changed the subject.

HE DIDN'T LIKE DRIPPING.

And No Wonder, After He Had Read About its Strength.

What is dripping?

Everybody knows that dripping is supposed to be the juices, the savory essences, that fall from roasting meats.

That is the supposition. But what really is dripping—the dripping that the poor of England buy by the pound and smear upon their bread in lieu of butter?

The question perhaps will never be answered, but a partial solution is given to it by the fact that a London poorhouse recently bought at $7 a ton thirty-two tons of dripping from—a soap works.

Alfred Noyes used to tell a dripping story.

"A little boy," he would begin, "complained bitterly about the bread and dripping that formed his daily breakfast.

"'It'll kill me,' he whined at last. 'I know it'll kill me.'

"'Kill you? What do you mean?'

"'Why, I've been feeling pretty bad lately, and now I know it's all this dripping what's the cause of the trouble. I read it in a book.'

"'Some pure food rubbish, I dare say! And what, precisely, did you read in this vile book, silly?'

"'I read,' whined the urchin, 'that constant dripping wears away a stone.'"—Exchange.

IS AN OLD TIMER.

A. D. Braithwaite Had a Vigorous Life In the Far West.

Mr. Arthur Douglas Braithwaite, recently appointed assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal, and who is widely known in fashionable circles of Eastern Canada as a society man and generous patron of art and wholesome sport, is widely and popularly known throughout Alberta as an "old timer." He was connected with the Bank of Montreal during the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and it was his lot to pass along from one frontier office to another, as the Bank of Montreal established branches behind the rail head. In this way he came to be at Regina when it was in its infancy, and he was manager of the important branch at Calgary during the crucial period when that place was developing from the canvas and shack frontier post into a well-built and substantial commercial centre. During the eighties, Mr. Braithwaite was one of the leading and most popular citizens of Calgary. Of splendid physique, and being a good rider and athlete, he entered heartily into the sports of the country, and before he had been long in Alberta, he could ride bucking bronchos with the best cowboys in the country, and the pick of Texas, Wyoming and Montana found their way into Alberta in these days. At a time when influence of the most evil kind threatened to obtrude themselves into the sport of horse racing on the Canadian prairies, Mr. Braithwaite induced a number of his friends to associate themselves with him for the purpose of directing the development of that good sport according to the best traditions of the British turf, and shady practices on the pioneer race tracks in Alberta were put down with a strong hand. Mr. Braithwaite himself owned a famous racehorse, which was always fairly and squarely run to win, and old timers in Alberta still recall "Harkaway," not only as a wonderful performer on the track, but as the champion of true sportsmanship at a time when an example of that excellent quality was very much required.

Mr. Braithwaite was also one of the originators of the bachelor's ball at Calgary, an annual event which did much towards setting, for all time, a high standard for social entertainments throughout Alberta. He was also a patron of the Calgary public library and the local hospital. As became a man born in an English rectory, the institution which perhaps attracted most of Mr. Braithwaite's attention, while a resident of Calgary, was the little English parish church, which has since developed into the Cathedral Church of the Redeemer. He sang in the choir, was sidesman and churchwarden, and occasionally took service as lay reader in outlying settlements, for clergymen were few and far between in Alberta in those days. Since removing to Toronto, Mr. Braithwaite has been churchwarden of St. James Cathedral and a delegate to the provincial synod. Wherever he has gone, he has shown the same public spirit as made him popular in the Far West. From Calgary he was removed to Hamilton, Ont., as manager of the bank's branch there. When he left Hamilton, the citizens presented him with a public testimonial. He then went to New York, to take charge of the bank's agency there, returning to Toronto, as manager, seven years ago. Mr. Braithwaite was then appointed general manager of the Ontario Bank, which had just gone into liquidation, the act of winding up affairs being in the hands of the Bank of Montreal. For some time past he has been superintendent of Ontario branches of the Bank of Montreal, and for two years has been chairman of the Toronto Clearing House. He is greatly interested in musical affairs in Toronto, and he was president of the Elgar Choir at Hamilton. He was also treasurer of the South African Patriotic Fund in Toronto. Mrs. Braithwaite is a daughter of the late Mr. William Hendrie, the millionaire contractor of Hamilton, Ont.

Wanted Them All.

Julia Ward Howe was once talking with a dilapidated bachelor, who retained little but his conceit. "It is time now," he said pompously, "for me to settle down as a married man, but I want so much. I want youth, health, wealth, of course; beauty, grace"—

"Yes," said Mrs. Howe sympathetically, "you poor man, you do want them all."

Married Man's Progress.

An Ancient Pension.

A curious revelation regarding the origin of a $1,500 pension which falls to the Lord Mayor of Dublin was made in reply to a question asked in the House of Commons the other day. It was explained that the pension was granted in consideration of services rendered to Charles II. The sum in question is a perpetual annuity granted by the Merry Monarch to the mayor of the day and his successors, for eminent services rendered at the time of the Restoration. For many years it carried with it the rank of captain in the army, with its corresponding privileges regarding command and so forth. The latter privileges have become obsolete, and the Lord Mayor of Dublin performs no military service; but the annuity is still paid out of the Consolidated Fund.

The Discovery of Blotting-Paper.

Blotting-paper was discovered purely by accident. Some ordinary paper was being made one day at a mill in Berkshire, when a careless workman forgot to put in the sizing material. The whole of the paper made was regarded as being useless. The proprietor of the mill desired to write a note shortly afterwards, and he took a piece of waste paper, thinking it was good enough for the purpose. To his intense annoyance the ink spread all over the paper. Suddenly there flashed over his mind the thought that this paper would do instead of sand for drying ink, and he at once advertised his waste paper as "blotting." There was such a big demand that the mill ceased to make ordinary paper and was soon occupied in making blotting only, the use of which spread to all countries.

Finds Mammoth's Tooth.

A strange find was made on the Yorkshire coast the other day. As a man was walking over Filey Cliff he saw a piece of ivory projecting from the cliff face. He worked at the object with his walking-stick, and disclosed the tooth of a mammoth in perfect state of preservation. It is that of a large ruminant, and weighs 12 pounds 13 ounces. Along the gum line it measured a shade over twelve inches, whilst it stands eight inches in height and is close upon four inches thick. The ivory is as fresh as when the huge animal died. Mammoth remains have been previously found along the Yorkshire coast at long intervals, but nothing approaching a tooth of such giant dimensions as this one has ever been discovered.

Didn't Owe Them Anything.

In the course of an educational lecture the speaker made this assertion: "We owe much to heredity and environment."

When he had finished and the audience had arisen a man whose knowledge of the dictionary was limited walked up to him and remarked: "You said in your speech that we owe much to heredity and environment. Now, I never heard of that firm before, and I know I don't owe them one cent."

LEGAL PHANTOMS.

Many Statutes That Exist Only In the Imagination.

EXAMPLES OF "NO SUCH LAW"

Popular Beliefs Which Have Sprung Up, No One Knows How, and Become Fixed Ideas, Yet Have No Foundation in Legislative Enactments.

Many people have the idea that if one owes a bill and goes to his debtor and tells him that he is willing to pay and then offers some trifling sum on account, say $1 or even less per week or month, the creditor is obliged to take it, utterly regardless of the fact that if creditors were obliged to receive payment in that way it would put most of them out of business in a very short period.

There is no such law.

In the minds of very many people, especially in the country districts, there is another firmly fixed idea that if one person strikes another first the person assaulted may then all but pound the other to death.

There is no such law.

A person assaulted has the right to defend himself, but he may not use any more force than necessary to do that. To use more than necessary force completely turns the tables, and the assaulted becomes the aggressor and liable for his excess of zeal in damages commensurate with the damage done. A person has the right to order an undesirable person from his premises and to use sufficient force to eject him if he does not go when so ordered, but he has no right to accelerate his movements with one or more well placed kicks.

Many people who owe bills labor under a strong impression that it is the duty of their creditors to come to them for their money.

There is no such law.

There is a proverb which says, "The borrower is servant to the lender." The bank will not come to you if you owe a note which it holds for collection. Out of courtesy it will send you a notice that your note is due (it is not compelled to do that), but you must go to the bank to make payment.

In the country frequently and in the city sometimes one is told that, if a person dies leaving children and grandchildren, the children of a deceased child, the grandchildren, are not entitled to the share of the estate which their parent would have taken, as the father or mother having died there is no way whereby the inheritance can pass over from the deceased to the grandchildren—in other words the line is broken.

There is no such law.

The statutes expressly provide that the children of deceased heirs take the share that would have gone to their parent.

A person owns a fruit tree and its branches overhang the land of his neighbor. Many think because of that the neighbor is entitled to the fruit on the overhanging branches.

There is no such law.

If the tree set upon the line between the estates the neighbor would be entitled to one-half of the fruit, but being wholly on one side the owner is entitled to all the fruit and may go upon his neighbor's land and gather it without being guilty of trespass. If the neighbor does not like this arrangement he may take his ax or saw and cut the limbs off at the line between the estates, but he must throw them on his neighbor's land, as the wood of the tree belongs to him. The owner of the tree may not like to have his tree treated thus, but he cannot help himself.

Two men own adjacent lots of land. One wishes to have a fence between them; the other does not. Many people think that one may build the fence and compel the other to pay for half of it.

There is no such law.

In such a case one owner may call in the fence viewers and have them ascertain the line and designate which part of the fence each shall build. Neither party, however, can compel the other to build any particular style of fence. The mover in the matter may want a fancy fence, but the other may build his half of any material satisfactory to himself, and so long as it is a legal fence he cannot be compelled to build any other.

Many shopkeepers demand that finders of lost money or valuables in their stores shall deliver them over to them, as they own the articles because they were found on their premises.

There is no such law.

The finder of money or other valuables on the floor outside the counter in a store is the owner of the same against the whole world except the loser, but it has been held that if the owner left the money or goods upon the counter or on a table in the store they were practically in the care of the storekeeper and he had the right to their custody, while he could not make such a claim to goods which were found on the floor.—Boston Globe.

Young, Inexpert Fish.

Tommy, new to the country, went fishing in the creek with Luke, the hired man. Tommy returned in the late hours in true fisherman's style, empty handed, but with an excuse.

"It wasn't our fault," he said. "We had some bites and got three fish right up into the air, but they were little ones and didn't know how to hold on."

Father's Ultimatum.

The father of a large family of children was trying hard to read the evening paper.

"What's that terrible racket in the hall, Martha?"

"One of the children just fell downstairs."

"Well," he replied, turning over another page of the paper, "you tell the children if they can't fall downstairs quietly they'll have to stop it."—Lippincott's.

Showing Him How.

"You young scoundrel!" said the father, seizing his disobedient son by the hand. "I'll show you how to treat your mother!"

And he gave him several bangs on the ears and then shook him until his hair began to fall out.

THE MISTLETOE.

An Emblem of Cheer to Some and of Ill Omen to Others.

The good old custom of hanging the mistletoe from the ceiling at the Christmas festivities is said to have its origin in the idea that since the plant did not have its roots in the ground no part of it should ever be permitted to touch the earth.

Among the Saxons the fact that mistletoe was suspended from the roof of a dwelling intimated to the wayfarer that the hospitality of the house was at his disposal, and beneath its branches friend and stranger, vassal and lord, gathered together in comradeship and good cheer.

The religious aspect of the mistletoe tradition, which had its origin in the Druidical rites and the gathering of it by the Archdruid with his golden sickle, merged later into a purely social symbol, and the idea of simple hospitability developed into one of merrymaking and a somewhat riotous entertainment.

The kiss of the Scandinavian goddess expanded into the custom of a kiss given for every berry that grew on the bough. Small wonder that, in spite of the mistletoe having originally existed in the odor of sanctity, the church came to regard it as an entirely pagan symbol and refused to allow it to participate with the holly and the evergreen in the Yuletide decorations.

There is an ancient belief that the mistletoe was the tree from which the Holy Cross was hewn and that after this was made the plant withered and ever afterward became a mere parasite growth, clinging for support to other and sturdier trees.

Other stories, however, credit it with divine gifts in the healing of disease and the expulsion of evil spirits.

Ram, the high priest of the Celts, received in a dream the intimation that by means of the plant he would be enabled to save his people from the plague which was decimating them. To celebrate their delivery he instituted the Feast of Noel (new health), a midwinter holiday which has come to be considered coincident with the new year.

In many parts of the United Kingdom the silver berries and the gray-green leaves of the mistletoe are looked upon as anything but an emblem of good cheer; on the contrary, the plant is regarded with dread as being the bringer of ill luck and the sign of ill omen. This superstition exists both in Devonshire and in Ireland, and, strange to say, in neither of these places does the plant flourish.

"Capping" Was Boycotted.

The graduation ceremony at Glasgow University recently was the strangest in the long record of the university. To mark their disapproval of the sentence meted out by the Senate to one of the undergraduates for disorderly conduct at a previous function the students decided to boycott the ceremony. Pickets were posted at all the cloisters to ensure that no student other than the graduands would attend. About 140 graduands were "capped," and not a single student was present, the hall being merely occupied by friends of those interested. Prof. Ferguson, owing to the illness of the principal, Sir Donald MacAlister, officiated. The students captured a photographer who had secured a snapshot and made him deliver up his plate, but was not so successful with a reporter whose notes they desired to censor. The graduation was carried through in almost perfect silence.

Antiques Found.

An antiquarian find has recently been made in the Isle of Oxna, a barren, sea-vexed spot near Scalloway, Shetland. It is one of the most ancient and interesting gold ornaments ever found in Scotland. A crofters' son observed a brownish-yellow object protruding from a spot where turf had been taken for farm purposes. He picked it up and found it was a heavy, curiously-plaited bracelet of rustic or rude make, and, from its weight, seemingly gold. Recently it was shown the schoolmistress of a neighboring district. She wrote the Antiquarian Society describing the bracelet, and suggesting purchase. An offer of $100 was made, and at once without further inquiry or advertisement, accepted by the holder, James Fullaton, Hammo Voe, Burra Isle. The bracelet now rests in special case and on special pedestal in Edinburgh Museum.

Broke Old Tradition.

By selling 19 acres of land in the heart of London, centering around Covent Garden, the Duke of Bedford violates all the traditions of his family. His ancestors have held the property since the dissolution of the monasteries by Henry VIII., at which time it belonged to the monks of Westminster. When it is remembered, however, that the Covent Garden estate is the smallest of the three large estates in London of the Duke of Bedford, and that other lords of the soil in the British capital own still larger holdings than his, it is the value of the land sold rather than its extent that is of the greatest significance.

Portraits of Dogs.

The latest craze of wealthy women who are dog-fanciers is to have the portraits of their pets painted in oils. It is not going too far to say that there is a colony of artists, with headquarters in London, who spend the greater part of their time in fulfilling commissions at shows in all parts of the country.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Coasting Is One of Winter's Most Enjoyable Sports.

AN EXPERT ON HER FLIER.

When Old Boreas Brings the Snow Along All Children Are Happy—Curious and Interesting Tales — Games and Puzzles.

Nearly every healthy youngster shouts with glee when the north wind comes howling and growling, bringing with it a mighty fall of snow. Sleds that have lain idle for many months and the new ones that Santa Claus brought are quickly put to work, and the hills resound with merry shouts and chatter. The swift glide down a long hill is a glorious sensation, and climbing up to the top again for another whirl fills young lungs with fresh air and brings roses to round cheeks. Surely no other sport is quite so much fun as coasting. In large cities little folks don't have so free a fling as do those in the country, but they enjoy the snow just the same.

Grandmother's Cat.

This is a good table game and should be played with counters and a pool. Beans or bits of paper will answer for counters and some candies for the pool. Every child must have twenty-six counters—one for every letter in the alphabet. Each player has to find a different adjective to describe "grandmother's cat" all through the alphabet. For example, A begins, "Grandmother's cat is an aristocratic or antiquated cat." B—Grandmother's cat is a beautiful or benevolent cat. C—Grandmother's cat is a cautious cat or cataleptic cat. And so on through the alphabet.

Each letter must go the round of the table, and no one must repeat an adjective used before. If he or she does so one counter must be given up, and when a player's counters are exhausted he is out of the game. A counter is forfeited also if the word used is not an adjective or if the player fails to think of a word within a given time.

A Geographical Game.

Procure a large map of America with the states outlined on it. Cut out each state separately and with these as patterns cut from white cardboard two patterns of each state. Divide the company into sides, providing each captain with a set of the states and floor space on which to make the map. The side putting the map together correctly first scores highest.

A Happy Moment.

When grandma says to me,
"Stand up against the wall,"
I know she's going to see
How many feet I'm tall.
She measures up and down
While I stand very straight,
And, with a smiley frown,
She tries to calculate.

She says: "H'm! Let me see—
He's four years old." And then
She whispers, "Forty-three,"
Or is it "Three feet ten?"
I scarcely breathe at all
Till she says, measuring more,
"This boy is just as tall
As his father was at four!"

GEM-DIGGING.

What a Life of Liberty Is Like In Maoriland.

Of all the many jobs I have had the only one I really liked was gum-digging, says a writer in London Answers. That was a jolly time! Few have heard of gum-digging, and no wonder, for New Zealand is far away, and there is no other place on the globe where gum-digging is done.

The gum comes from a magnificent tree called the kauri. This tree is now pretty scarce, but ages ago immense forests must have covered most of the northern part of the North Island. These forests were swept away by fire, and to-day the landscape is mostly low brown hills with occasional swamps.

Gum burns very easily, but such as was covered by the dank forest debris escaped the fire. Hardened and preserved through uncountable ages, this is the gum the digger seeks today.

By simply paying 5s. a year you may wander and dig where you like over enormous areas of Government lands.

All you require is a spear to locate the gum, a spade to dig it, and a bag to put it in. When you get home at night you scrape and assort it according to size and quality. The whole business can be learnt in a day or two. After that it is all a matter of luck.

Perhaps you will begin to think there is nothing so very enjoyable in all that. But really there is. In digging you enjoy the excitement of gambling without incurring the sin. And then to work for yourself when you like, where you like, and how you like is delightful beyond belief. Also you are free to live as your fancy turns, and to have as many friends as you wish or—as few.

My own choice was a beautiful tent pitched within a stone's throw of a lovely inlet at the foot of a high, steep, forest-clad hill. I may not pause to describe the exquisite details of my dwelling. Suffice that it was an artist's dream of light, loveliness, sweetness, and convenience.

A spring of crystal water bubbled at the door. Magnificent big trees grew on every hand, bursting into clouds of snow, or gold, or crimson, according to their species or the season of the year.

Then there was my little sailing boat, snow white with green relief. It lay on the soft sand in the shadow of the "Christmas" tree at the ebb or danced to the dimples on the water when the tide was in.

The waters of the inlet swarmed with fish of the most delicious varieties, and the ease with which they might be caught is seen in the fact that when I fancied a fish for tea or breakfast I would stand on the rocks with my line and, to save the trouble of cutting up, throw back the fish as they came until I hooked one not only of a favorite sort, but also of a size to fit my frying pan. Of course for sport I used to go out in my boat.

I was fairly lucky at digging, averaging 7s. 6d. for every day I worked. But I didn't work every day. About twenty days a month were plenty for me. The other days were given to pleasure or repose. Extra hot days I would lie in my hammock, swung between two enormous trees, reading or drowsing, or go for an occasional swim.

During most of the year the climate is delicious. Pyjamas rolled up to the knee make an ideal costume, but a bathing suit is just as good. Of course, you don't go to work in these.

On Sundays I would receive visitors or pay visits to the camps of neighboring diggers, but this was a courtesy likely to happen any day of the week.

Walnuts as Food.

A London medical journal recently published some interesting facts concerning walnuts as food. According to this authority, "thirty large walnut kernels contain as much food value as two and three-quarter pounds of lean beef." With beef worth approximately 20 cents a pound, this means that each walnut is worth about 2 cents as a food product as compared with beef. That these facts will greatly encourage the production and consumption of walnuts is hardly to be expected. There is some consolation, however, in the thought that when meat has become a luxury, to be indulged only by the rich, the general consumer can keep his dinner very well—somewhat like Peter Pumpkin Eater's wife—in a walnut shell.

An exhibition of temper is a free show that isn't worth the price.

Survival of a Custom.

On gateposts you will frequently find a stone ball. Who would ever suppose that the balls on the gateposts were the heads of family enemies? It was once the custom to stick your enemy's gory head as a trophy on the gatepost. On the gates of towns were stuck the heads of traitorous persons. In old London, for instance, the bridge gate and Temple Bar were always decorated with ghastly relics of the kind, and the memory of the custom survives on the gateposts of modern suburban villas.

Church Becomes Theatre.

A number of workmen are transforming an old building in Praed street, Paddington, London, into a "luxurious cinematograph theatre"—as the notice-board has it. The transformation is of somewhat unusual interest, notwithstanding the number of derelict chapels that have shared a similar fate. The building is the chapel where Dr. Clifford first commenced his ministrations.

ADVERTISING

A STORE'S importance is rightly judged by its advertising. Not altogether by the size of the advertisement, but by size and tone, and quality of announcement.

What the store has to say is one thing. Quite as important is how it says it.

Given that the clerical force is competent and up-to-date, it will say, over the counter, the very best to be said in reference to the goods enquired for. It may, and should, suggest other goods, not in the customers view.

This implies that the customer is in the store. But what brings him or her there? The wish to buy and the belief it is a good place to buy at.

How is this learned of?

By advertising. The advertisement is a message, an intelligent middleman, doing service between seller and buyer. The space talks to thousands, even while the store is closed for the night.

Use The REVIEW and tell the story of your store and its opportunities for good service.

True Romance In Astor-Huntington Engagement.

© Campbell Studio

MISS HELEN DINSMORE HUNTINGTON.

There was nothing strange about the recently announced engagement of Vincent Astor to Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington to those who had seen the gradual ripening of friendship into love between the young couple.

The romance began away back in nursery days when Vincent was six and Miss Helen four, for at that early age they were pals in pinafores. Though Vincent Astor was thus his playmate's senior, his physical delicacy put them on an almost equal footing, and the boy and girl got on beautifully.

The Astor and Huntington country estates are on each side of the old Dutch town of Rhinebeck, and romping through the woods and fields of their estates, the playmates had royal good times. No better medicine could have been devised for young Astor than outdoor play with a sympathetic playmate, and companionship with Helen Huntington had an excellent effect on his mind too. Mrs. Huntington, the daughter of the multimillionaire president of the Adams Express company, Mr. Dinsmore, never intimated to her daughter that Vincent Astor should be treated as something more precious than an ordinary boy. But there were those brought into close contact with the heir of $65,000,000 who saw the child wearing an aureole of gold and bowed down before him. Not so Miss Helen, for later on when her playmate was a little inclined to be "superior," she would pull him up sharply by remarking firmly but kindly, "Vincent, don't put on 'side' just because your father is dreadfully rich."

Young Astor's experience at Eton, the famous English boys' school, was not a happy one. There was no one there to prohibit "side" to him, and in consequence the boy was a bit too magnificent for the school. After a brief stay at Eton Vincent Astor came back to Ferncliffe, a tutor and Miss Helen. Then came horseback rides, motoring and sailing trips together. No one in the neighborhood of Rhinecliff was surprised to see them together. It was only when they appeared less frequently in each other's company that the wiseacres wondered.

Between the ages of fourteen and eighteen young Mr. Astor had many sweethearts among the girls of the smart set, but the friendship with Miss Huntington was always a real thing.

After the divorce between John Jacob Astor and his first wife, who was a Miss Willing of Philadelphia, Vincent and his father went abroad "to show him the ropes," as his parent expressed it. A few years later came his father's marriage to Miss Force and several months later the Titanic disaster, when Colonel Astor gave up his life as a willing hostage for his girl wife.

In his great grief it was only natural that the young heir to $65,000,000 should turn to his old playmate for comfort, and that he found abundant sympathy is evidenced by the recent announcement of the engagement.

Miss Huntington is a sweet, wholesome girl, fond of society to a certain extent, but most devoted to outdoor sports and to charitable work. To quote the matron of a home in which both the young people have been interested for years, "Miss Helen is not so pretty that every man is going to fall in love with her after she's married, which is a very good thing." But the matron adds that she's a "lovely looking girl," and some one else has described her as a living Gainsborough portrait. After the marriage, which will take place in the spring, the young couple will live at Ferncliffe.

In Praise of Woman.

Professor Hugo Munsterberg, author of the much discussed "Psychology and Industrial Efficiency," whose experiments to determine the efficiency of many types of industrial workers through psychological tests have awakened widespread interest throughout this country, recently made the statement that women form their opinions and judgments just as rapidly and accurately as men. After experimenting with a group of Harvard men and Radcliffe women Mr. Munsterberg also came to the conclusion that once women have formed their opinion they stick to it, and no amount of discussion can change it.

DANCING FROCKS.

Girls of Ten or Twelve Wear Exquisite Net Models.

Little net dresses are especially pretty and dainty as dancing school frocks for girls of ten or twelve. They are generally mounted over a colored silk slip, and very often the ribbon tracery is applied to the slip, the net veiling this ribbon or flower trimming. One particularly effective dress of white net was mounted over a lining of net, and the wreaths of pink rosebuds and forgetmenots were attached at irregular intervals to the net lining. A bolero was simulated by bands of insertion, partially veiling the sash of pink chiffon, which was knotted at one side of the front and its ends twisted into rosettes with flower centers. The frock pictured is of white accordion plaited net, with a black satin vest introduced on the waist.

A Brave Young Sailor and His Little Ship.

It is a fine thing to have a boat even when icy winds blow chill. Some day the sun will shine warmly and the ice will dissolve into sparkling water. Then one can go boat sailing. In the meantime the proud owner of a sailing vessel can get a good deal of comfort out of the thought that brooks and ponds are not always frozen. Not that a good skating pond isn't pretty nearly the best thing that young folks could wish for. The joys of open water vanish quickly when smooth ice confronts a young person who owns a fine pair of skates. Still, for just a fleeting moment this young sailorman would like to see an open space of water, so that his new boat, probably a Christmas present, could show its ability to breast the waves. But he won't grieve much over it because this is the time for winter sports.

New Year's in Japan.

Did you know that the Japanese celebrate New Year's day? It is one of their greatest festivals. The celebration of the 1st of January is of heathen origin. It is called "The Day of Four Side Worship," which means a day of worship from all directions. Then again it is every one's birthday on New Year's in Japan. Think of it, all the people celebrating their birthday at once! Is it a wonder that it is a great occasion? On this day the houses and gates are decorated with greens and garlands of heavy rope made of nice straw. From the center of these garlands is sometimes suspended a large orange, which adds to the beauty. Over the door is tacked some dried fish of a certain kind. Everything in these decorations has its special meaning and must be placed in its own peculiar way.

Conundrums.

What is the difference between a dollar bill and a silver quarter? Seventy-five cents.

What is the relation between a door and a doormat? A step farther (a stepfather).

Why is a dog larger in the morning than at night? Because he is let out in the morning and taken in at night.

What is the first thing a man does when he falls overboard? Gets wet.

Origin of Limousine.

The word limousine, now applied generally to closed automobiles, originally meant the woolen cloak worn by public carriers in France. Later the word came to mean the top or canopy of the carrier's cart, then the whole cart, and finally any vehicle with an inclosed space for passengers.

A New Year's Resolution.

Once there was a little boy,
And he never would believe
When nursey read nice fairy tales,
And he made his mother grieve
Because he listened to wild west,
About Indians chasing children.
He liked to hear about robbers that
Stole gold—perhaps a million!
He was such a naughty boy
He chased poor hens and pullets
With wicked, cruel popguns
That shot the BB bullets.
He loved to hide behind a tree
And scare sweet little girls—like me.
And so—one New Year's eve it was—
That boy began to brag.
The fairies hitched him to a cart,
And then they made him drag
Just like a horse all night.
They taught him such hard tricks
Because he didn't believe in them.
They punished him with sticks!
They played wild west, Indians and zoo;
They chased him round with popguns, too;
Then, when with fright he was most dead,
The fairies took him home to bed.

When his kind nursey said, "Get up,"
He didn't wait a minute—
Before she said once, "Hurry up,"
He'd had his suit and—in it!
He said he always would be good.
He believed in fairies, yes,
And said he'd do the best he could
Not to make any mess.
He'd be so kind to dogs and cats
And always wipe his shoes on mats
Before he came in the front door—
All this he promised and lots more.
He hung his clothes up, oh, so neat,
And kissed his parents dear,
And wished the little girls he knew
A happy, bright new year.

The Kitchen Floor.

Kitchen floors that are not covered become worn and splintered often with much scrubbing. Rather than suffer risk getting splinters from them have the floor planed smooth and the cracks filled with a wood filler. Then rub crude oil over it repeatedly at intervals. The oil hardens, and stains do not readily sink into the wood. Never wax or varnish a floor that must be washed with water. Water will quickly discolor polished hardwood floors.

Alcohol and the Hair.

If the hair is dusty and unmanageable after a journey of any sort try using alcohol to make it fluffy. The alcohol will dry in a few moments, and the hair will be ready then to arrange. Many women who have taken a railroad journey of several hours' duration to a wedding or dance have found their hair, owing to the heat and dust of the journey, quite heavy and dirty and have despaired of getting it in shape in time for the festivities. A shampoo takes too long to be indulged in while one is dressing, and sometimes it leaves the hair too fluffy for immediate managing.

To get back to the alcohol treatment, part the hair and rub a little alcohol on a piece of gauze on the scalp until it is free from dust. Then rub the hair about the brows and ears and the nape of the neck with the alcohol. Of course it should first have been brushed as free as possible from dust. Then let the hair hang loosely until the alcohol has dried out. The hair will be light and fluffy.

A HOBBY PARTY.

Merry Entertainment For the Jolly Church Sociable.

We all have hobbies, whether we ride the "horse" hard or not. There is always just some one thing we like to do or to have better than anything else, so to enliven a church social the entertainment committee asked each guest to wear an article to represent his or her favorite fad. There was the boy who had the stamp collecting fever at its height. He appeared with a stamp for a scarfpin, another glued on to a huge ring as a setting and four or five glued to his coat lapel in lieu of a bouquet.

The silk quilt worker had her frock plentifully patched with silk squares of the patterns she was making or desired to make, and the would be artist had water color and pen and ink sketches on her dress, with a peaked hat made of water color paper, which had marine scenes upon it.

The airship fiend had a miniature flying machine (found at the toy counter) worn around his neck and a golf suit. The sailor boy was in white duck, with a "middy" cap, and the young miss who was learning to cook carried a ring and chain, from which dangled spoons, egg beater, flour sifter, etc. It is needless to say that this was the merriest kind of a party, far different from the average church social.

There was no lack of animated conversation, and to make things more interesting, when all sat down to refreshments, which were served at small tables, each one was asked to tell in two minutes the merits of his especial hobby.

This meeting turned out to be quite an exchange not only of ideas, but of materials, for every one found out what the other fellow was interested in, and some saved stamps and others silk pieces, and others gave cherished recipes, and all found that even those whom they thought dull and stupid were most interesting when led to talk upon what was uppermost in their minds.

Time For the Actor to Stop.

On the subject of playing the same part over an indefinite number of times David Warfield says:

"There is no such thing as playing a part too long. The mellowing process should never cease, but if it does, if spontaneity fails, if the actor feels that he is becoming at all mechanical in the part, he should abandon it at once—for his own salvation.

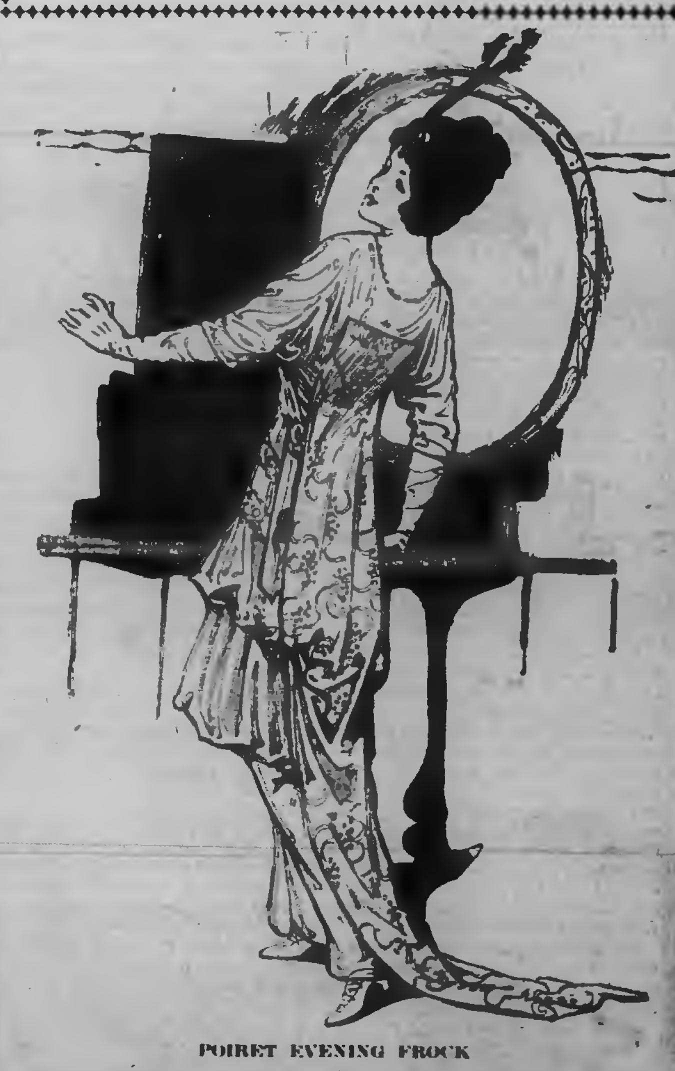
"The surest danger signal is half hearted applause. From this the actor knows that he has lost an essential quality of the character, and the tragedy of it is he cannot tell what that quality is or how he lost it. An actor may tell a joke a thousand times and provoke laughter, but suddenly it fails of response. That's the time for him to stop."—American Magazine.

A Cure For Mosquitoes.

The people of London have learned of an agreeable way to keep their houses free from flies and mosquitoes. They burn sandalwood, which has a pleasing odor, but one that the summer pests much dislike. The idea comes from the orient, where it has long been practiced.

The sandalwood can be bought at almost any Turkish or Japanese importing house. You prepare it for burning by cutting it into pieces about half an inch thick and three inches long and then bake or dry it in a slow oven for twenty-four hours. You light a piece of the wood and put it in a metal urn or saucer. After it has ignited well blow out the flame and leave the red ember to smolder until the wood is wholly consumed.

THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION



POIRET EVENING FROCK

The present vogue of transparent effects has been delightfully developed in this dinner frock from Paul Poiret, recently imported. The corsage and three flounces of the skirt are of tulle gathered to a tight underskirt of silk. Over the flounces is posed a beaded tunic, which meet the wonderful Watteau train of brocaded crepe satin. The high coiffure is decked with an Oriental head dress attached to a band that is hel below the high hair by means of snug snap fasteners.

REPORTERS RETIRED FROM THE MEETING WHEN HYDRO ELECTRIC WAS DISCUSSED BUT THE STREET GOT THE INFORMATION

It Was Carried Through the Streets Next Morning Says the Mayor

The committee of the whole council had a breezy half hour last night. It might have been " a tempest in a tea pot" and again the incident might have a deeper significance.

Ald. Johnston, at the request of Mayor Buller, reported on the results of the conference on Wednesday with members of the Hydro Electric Commission. This conference had to do with the city's application for legislation, defining more clearly the property of the Peterboro Light and Power Company, which the city has been given the rights to expropriate.

Ald. Green asked a question, which Mayor Buller questioned the advisability of answering. He said at a former meeting the Press had been asked to retire, and in spite of this, the news was carried through the streets the next morning. He did not think the ammunition of the city should be given to the opposition.

Ald. Johnston spoke along similar lines, referring to the necessity of the information being held solely by the council. He said he had found the Press honorable at all times, as when the reporters had been asked not to report certain facts they had done so. Then he read from an evening contemporary an item which appeared the evening succeeding the meeting, which referred in a humorous way as to what transpired after the reporters retired. Ald. Green was quoted as having asked a question and fireworks followed. The item in question did not convey any further information as to the actual business transactions of the aldermen but at all events, according to Mayor Buller, the news was noised abroad that morning.

Ald. Green said he did not give out any information to the papers. It was not his practice.

Both Mayor Buller and Ald. Johnston assured Ald. Green that they did not accuse him of imparting any information.

Then Mayor Buller asked the aldermen if they wished to hear the full details of the conference. Ald. Duffus said it would not be fair to the press as with the reporters present and the information being circulated although not reported in the papers, the reporters and not the aldermen would be blamed.

Mayor Buller said he would talk over the whole thing with any alderman who so desired it. Ald. Duncan said he was a member of the Power Committee and had intended to take this step. Finally the reporters were asked to leave the meeting and it is assumed that any information desired was given to the aldermen.

A QUESTION OF FIRE EQUIPMENT

..Galt had an expensive experience with fire yesterday, when a big manufactory was destroyed and 150 men lost employment. Galt has not got the fire fighting equipment that it should have. Perhaps in the future the City Dads will open the civic treasury and expend more money on the fire department. The Peterboro City Council has been asked to appropriate money to increase the efficiency of the local department, but some of the aldermen are of the opinion that this expenditure can be held off for some time yet. Apparently Galt has made a fatal mistake. As Ald. Green said at the Fire, Water and Light Committee meeting, the question is: "Can we afford to do this, or can we afford not to do it?"

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF PEACE MAY BE CELEBRATED HERE

Peterborough has been chosen as one of the centres for the celebration of the one hundred years of peace between United States and the British Empire, and it is possible that the celebration will be held here in 1915.

The celebration will take place in cities throughout the United States, England, Canada and other British Dominions.

The Organising Secretary of the Executive of the General Committee has written to the City Council and last night it was decided to call a public meeting and ask him to come here.

One of the aldermen asked what benefits the city would receive and it was explained that the celebration would draw the people from other places similarly to any other celebration and much money would be spent in Peterborough.

The Mayor and Mr. G. C. Wainwright are members of the General Committee.

PRAISES THE STREET LIGHTING

None Better Throughout Canada, Says W. M. Tiffany.

More praise for Peterboro. This time it comes from a man who has travelled from coast to coast, namely Mr. W. M. Tiffany, general sales manager of the Northern Electric Co., of Montreal.

Mr. Tiffany was in the city about a week ago on a business trip to Fire Chief Howard, in connection with the installing of a new storage battery. Today the Chief received a letter from Mr. Tiffany, part of which is as follows:

"In closing I want to compliment you upon possessing one of the best lighted towns in Canada, especially as regards the lighting of your main streets. I have been all over Canada from coast to coast, but can truthfully say I have never seen a better lighted city than I saw in Peterboro. I think I spoke to you in regard to this when in Peterboro, but it made such an impression on me, I cannot refrain from again commenting on it."

IF CHRIST CAME TO PETERBOROUGH

In St. Paul's Church on Sunday morning, the pastor will take as his subject: "If Christ came to Peterboro," and will treat it with special reference to local social conditions. In the evening he will preach on the "Effect of Social Unrest upon the Church." He will show the extent of the alienation of wage earners from the church, and will indicate some of the ways by which the Church may yet retrieve the ground that she has lost.

DEATH OF NAP. GUERIN

He Constructed and Repaired Many Miles of Board Sidewalks

Napoleon Guerin, one of Peterboro's oldest and perhaps most widely known citizens, passed away early this morning at the age of 84 years. Born in the Province of Quebec, and of the French-Canadian stock, the deceased went through the hardships of the pioneers of this country.

Some sixty-five years ago the late gentleman came to this part of the country, and had resided here till his death. For upwards of forty years he was engaged in the city in building and repairing the board sidewalks, and while serving in that capacity, he became widely known.

His wife predeceased him some twenty-five years. He leaves to mourn his loss, one daughter, Mrs. A. Barbeau, 112 Aylmer St., in whose home he passed away, and three sons, Paul of Sudbury, Joseph and Adelard, of this city.

The funeral will take place on Monday morning at 9 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. A. Barbeau, to the Sacred Heart Church, and to St. Peter's Cemetery.

Brayman pleaded guilty to the charge. He was also charged with getting a horse from the Jones' livery under false pretences. His Worship contended that Mr. Jones had not proved that there was a fraud.

As Brayman is without funds, he will spend the next ten days on the hill, a guest of Castle Nesbitt.

"We are not a collecting agency here, and when there is no representation or fraud, we cannot convict,' remarked Magistrate Dumble, at the conclusion of the case.

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

Notes by Official Scribe.

The meeting this week which was to have been public, was somewhat disappointing as Mr. Fred Bancroft announced as the speaker of the evening, and whose topic was to be the Compensation Act, was unavoidably detained. President J. J. Hartley expressed regret to those outside the council who had come to hear Mr. Bancroft, and announced that the absent spokesman would no doubt be heard next meeting night, Feb. 18th. Before dismissing the gathering the President called on E. A. Peck M.L.A., to speak a few words.

Mr. Peck said that all should endeavor to hear Mr. Bancroft, that gentleman being excellently posted on all the phases of the Bill. He, (Mr. Peck), had always seen two inequalities in Workmen's Compensation. The first was that the man had to prove negligence on the part of his employer, and the second was the necessary legal expenditure. The bill would be taken up about two weeks after the Legislature convened, and the two aforementioned clauses would eventually be amended. To prove negligence on the part of the employer would no longer be a combative point and compensation would be granted minus legal expense. The Bill was favored by both parties in the Provincial House, and its enactment meant nothing less than a distinct recognition of labor. Mr. Peck concluded with a repeated recommendation to hear Mr. Bancroft, when he does favor the city with a visit.

The visitors then withdrew and the regular business of the council was proceeded with.

Mr. Burnham Writes

Mr. Burnham sent a letter acknowledging the council's protest of the proposed legislation to disrupt Canadian unions, and informed the council that Mr. Crothers was to bring in a bill to grant a half holiday on polling days.

A Municipal Committee

A committee was named by the President whose duties will be to attend the public meeting of the city council and report. That the whole Trades and Labor Council be a committee, was the idea of some energetic members, but more definite, the work of a few was the ultimate result of the debate.

A Free Concert

Representative Hugh Robertson called attention to the fact that the Hall Trustees had installed a piano and to put the instrument to a good use, he suggested that as there were a lot of unemployed around the city, why not give a free concert and try and enliven the dull period. This idea "looked good" to the delegates and a committee was formed to draw up a program. The date fixed is Friday, Feb. 20, and everybody is invited, whether members of an organized body or not. Further particulars will be announced later.

SANITORIUM BY-LAW TO BE VOTED BY THE PEOPLE

The Hon. H. Burton, K.C., Minister of Railways and Harbours, in South Africa.

DEBATE ON TITLES' BILL

Mr. Burnham, in writnig to a friend in Peterboro, regarding the debate on his Abolition of Titles Bill says that the debate was a most interesting one so far as it went, but that the early intervention of Sir Wilfred Laurier and Hon. G. E. Foster held down a large number who were prepared to speak. The debate shook up the House on the question and will be a warning that the country will not excuse the creation of classes here. The recent disclosures elsewhere helped the bill materially. Although it did not go to a committee the bill was admittedly constitutional and probably necessary if Canada was to remain a democracy. Mr. Borden's absence was the real cause of the bill not going farther.

WOULD NOT TELL

QUEBEC, Feb. 7.—The committee of the Legislative Assembly investigating the charges of corruption will have to dispense with the evidence of the only accused members of their House, as the medical commission last night reported that J. Octave Mousseau, who has resigned his seat in consequence of the graft charges against him was quite unable to appear. Dr. Edouard Lebel described Mousseau's condition as being very serious. He added: "He may remain that way for weeks, for months and perhaps for years. But it is not possible to tell yet if it will prove fatal."

Asked to tell the committee the nature of the case, the doctor said he could not do so as he had not made a diagnosis of the case. He was not asked to do so, but merely to ascertain if he was able to appear before the committee.

Armand Lavergne: "But if you don't know the nature of his illness how can you tell that he is likely to remain like it for years?"

Dr. Lebel: "I cannot answer that question. It is a professional secret."

Dr. Lebel's two colleagues corroborated the serious nature of Mr. Mousseau's illness.

Plenty of towel rails around the bathtub are advisable, if the room is used by more than one person.

The woman who wants to economize on labor in her home will have as little bright metal as possible.

Committee of Whole Council Decide for the Will of the People

The people will say whether or not they want to spend $10,000 in assisting the Health Association to erect a Sanitorium. The association offers to pay the cost of submitting the by-law.

Last night when the Committee of the Whole Council discussed the matter with a delegation composed of Mr. E. A. Peck, Dr. Neal and Mr. W. H. Dunsford, several of the members said the people should decide. A motion to this effect was moved by Aldermen Johnston and Saunders.

An amendment that legislation be applied for giving the right to grant the $10,000 without a vote by the people was moved by Aldermen Anderson and Duffus, but it was lost.

Some fears were expressed as to the cost of maintenance. At the present time the city is charged 70 cents per day for every case of consumption being treated in outside hospitals. The city would be called upon to bear the same expense in the event of a Sanitorium being provided here, but the Government contributes $3 per week for each patient.

Ald. Green pointed out the fact of there being two hospitals here. He understood they were willing to admit consumptives. Why could they not be treated there?

Dr. Neal said that these hospitals did not want consumptive patients. Some entered the hospitals, without a full diagnosis of their case being made. He did not think it was the desire to have this class of patients in the same ward as others.

Ald. Duffus was willing to support the Sanitorium question, but he pointed out that there was no law to compel patients to enter the institution.

Mr. Peck said that the Government could not enact a compulsory law until the accommodation was provided. Dr. Neal pointed out that for every bed at Muskoka, there were ten persons on the waiting list. This situation was general.

Another point brought out by Mr. Peck was that the association had faith that they would receive funds from persons, which would permit of an endowment for the Sanitorium such as the Protestant Home has at the present time.

Mr. Dunsford spoke of the good work accomplished by the association. Since June of 1912, over $5,000 had been raised and $2,877 had been expended. At first one nurse had been appointed and another nurse had been added.

Mayor Buller said that this work was appreciated.

Mr. Hall, the City Solicitor, offered that the city was singularly fortunate as the two hospitals did not cost the city anything.

Ald. Duncan deprecated the practice of re-papering rooms used by consumptives, over the first paper. He had seen paper placed over the original layer, which had been covered with sputum. This should be prevented, he held. He did not think consumption could be cured.

Dr. Neal said the Sanitorium at Hamilton has lowered the mortality by fifty per cent.

Schmidt Will Not Appeal.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. — Hans Schmidt, who was found guilty of murder of Anna Aumuller, is seemingly content with the verdict and declines to permit his counsel to appeal.

Schmidt will be sentenced next Wednesday to die in the electric chair.

Schmidt seemed to have prepared for the verdict. Since his arrest on Sept. 14 he has refused to be shaved or to have his hair cut.

He has worn a silk handkerchief in lieu of a collar and his appearance has been unkempt.

WILL ASK THAT WOMEN BE GIVEN RIGHT TO VOTE

SHIPMENT OF FORDS RECEIVED

Alderman J. J. Duffus has received six car-loads of Ford cars already, making 18 machines, most of which have been placed with customers. Not only are the people purchasing these cars now, for the purpose of having them for early spring use, but mostly for the reason that in receiving cars which have been already manufactured before the rush season is on, it ensures them the very best workmanship and also allows the paint and varnish to be well seasoned before being put into use.

THE NEXT GAMES

The local club was notified this afternoon that Peterboro Intermediates would play off with the winners of the Midland-Orillia game, which will be played tonight. The first game is away from home, on Tuesday, with the second game here on Friday night.

Mr. E. A. Peck, to Present Bills at Session of Legislature

At the coming session of the Legislature, Mr. E. A. Peck, M.L.A., may father a bill, asking that women be given the right to vote. Mr. Peck sees no real reason why women should not be given the franchise but he is not sure that the women would exercise this right, in the same proportion as do the men.

Neither is Mr. Peck of the opinion that the country would be better governed, with the women marking ballots. Legislation, it has been shown, Mr. Peck says, is not sufficient to cure all grievances. Much good has been done by the women and much more can be accomplished by their united efforts and without the franchise.

Other Bills

The local member will also introduce the city's application for special legislation, also bills for the Radial Railway Company, and St. Andrew's Church. The Railway Company are making application to increase their bonding power, and St. Andrew's Church asks that real estate owned by the congregation be placed under the general law; so that with the consent of Presbytery the property could be sold.

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY, FEB. 7, 1914.

THE WOLF AND THE LAMB.

ALL THE GUSH and commiseration that is being bestowed upon the Hon. W. S. Fielding over his renunciation in the Telegraph and Herald mix-up is not altogether flattering to that gentleman. If Mr. Fielding has been duped or victimized in taking any part in the business, it can only be said that he was a very easy mark and nothing short of a simpleton.

We do not profess to know the ins and outs of the newspaper situation in Montreal, but even at this distance we could see, hear and feel things which would warrant us coming to certain fairly definite conclusions. Those who are pitying or praising Mr. Fielding are pitying him because he walked into a trap, and had the good fortune or the pluck to get himself out of it.

The Toronto Saturday Night joins in the gush and commiseration and says:—"That the Hon. W. S. Fielding has felt called upon to retire from the newspaper field in Montreal is not surprising. Indeed, it would have been a matter of astonishment if a man of Mr. Fielding's well known rectitude and conscientiousness could have further allowed himself to be made a cat's paw of by those who now command the daily newspaper situation in that city.

"That the ex-Finance Minister was fooled to the eyes when he undertook the presidency and editorship of 'The Telegraph,' now merged with 'The Herald,' is made evident by his own statement, published in various Canadian newspapers—outside the 'combine'—some days since. It appears that when Mr. Fielding was asked to accept the editorship of 'The Telegraph' he was assured that the control of the paper was in the hands of a prominent Liberal (the name Mr Fielding does not give) and this Mr. Fielding did believe until subsequent events proved to his satisfaction that Sir Hugh Graham, proprietor of the 'Montreal Star,' really controlled both 'The Herald' and 'The Telegraph.' Thus it was that Mr. Fielding suddenly found himself hunting with hounds and running with the hare, an impossible position, and one, of course, which a man of his stamp and calibre could not for a moment countenance. But the really astonishing thing about the entire series of transactions, none of which are creditable, nor in the interests of clean, independent journalism, is the thought that even an attempt would be made to capitalize the ex-Minister of Finance and utilize him as the figure head in an intrigue of this character."

Of course Mr. Fielding may be the victim and the hero that he is said to be; but anyone who could draw conclusions from the evidence on hand at the time, could scarcely fail to have a strong suspicion that Sir Hugh Graham was more or less connected with the launching of the Daily Telegraph. Whoever that "prominent Liberal" was, the fact that Sir Hugh had a hand in the game and that he had all the winning cards, ought to have given Mr. Fielding some reason for pause before he walked into the trap, if such it was. We do not blame Mr. Fielding for retiring from an impossible position, but it is not very clear as to how he got himself into it unless he poses as the lamb in a wolf and lamb story.

As for newspaper monopolists, there is little to be said in favor of so many papers being under the control of one man of such autocratic power. Newspapers in the smaller towns suffer a great deal from having to compete with the cheap rate at which they supply outlying districts. The average reader cannot understand why he can have a mighty big paper (plenty of paper!) sent to him, printed and postal paid, for one dollar per year. It is little wonder he complains when he has to pay four dollars per year for a much smaller local paper. This unfair competition could be rectified by legislation.

O CANADA, O!

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, from time to time, is a subject for discussion in the papers, and the Canadian Courier takes it up again in answer to a correspondent; it says:—"What is called the National Anthem of Great Britain cannot be considered in an equal degree the National Anthem of Canada. Inasmuch as it is not a case of degree, but of plain fact, it cannot really be the National Anthem of Canada at all. Why? There is but one test. A national hymn or song must express some simple, general aspiration of the whole people in the form of a patriotic sentiment. 'God Save the King' does not express such an aspiration for the kind of people pictured by our correspondent. Many of the peoples in Canada come here to forget about kings. They have a vague yearning for what editors and public speakers call democracy." But the Courier makes this concession: "Nevertheless, it is officially quite correct—nothing more—to use "God Save the King" at concerts and public gatherings of various sorts, just as it is correct to fly the Union Jack over our public buildings and our mastheads." For so much as that from the Courier, many thanks!

The Courier goes on to say that "The Maple Leaf" does not instil national ideals, it exalts the shamrock, thistle and rose, it says nothing of the fleur-de-lis, it insults the Yankees—"it says nothing about the hundreds of thousands of Americans who have brought millions of dollars into Canada. . . Nor of the hundreds of millions of American capital invested in Canada." Are we to infer that a Canadian national anthem must contain some reference to American capitalists?

The Courier further remarks that, "during the past ten years there has been a brave attempt in Ontario and even in the West to popularize the French-Canadian song, "O Canada." School children and concert audiences and park-concert crowds have been made familiar with a great melody. More than a hundred people have tried to write either translations of the original French or English versions to fit the time. They have failed. Because, in its own way, "O Canada," with all its splendid dignity as a piece of music is as provincial to New France as "The Maple Leaf" is to New Britain. There seems to be no possibility of our song-writers making a hybrid of English words and French tune that will make it 'get across' to the people of all Canada."

The song, "O Canada," may not be a bad piece of verse composition, but as an anthem it is about the mournfullest and dreariest thing that was ever written. It would have made a better dead-march. The man who put the "O" in "O Canada" deserves the same satire as the poet whose drama contained the line:

"O, Sofenisba Sofenisba, O!"

one wag turned the line into:

"O Jimmy Thomson, Jimmy Thomson, O!"

But James Thomson's mistake was excusable, as it occurred in a romantic play. When the same poet set out to write a national song he put some vim and dignity into it,—

"When Britain first at God's command Arose from out the azure main."

PITCH HOLES.

THE KINGSTON STANDARD has an interesting suggestion for dealing with pitch holes. It says:—"Those people who never leave the city during the winter have no idea of the pitch holes on the roads leading into it. Those who do, appreciate the difficulties and even dangers which these deep holes present to traffic. There can be little doubt that they stop a great many people coming into Kingston, and thus seriously affect business for a long time. It is worth while then to call attention to a system used in Vermont and in certain parts of Canada. Huge wooden rollers are constructed, wide enough to roll a proper sized road. Each township possesses one or more, and immediately after a snowstorm they are taken out with four or more horses, and the main roads connecting the various townships. Sufficient men go with them to cut down drifts and fill up pitch holes. In this way good roads are kept up all through the winter, much to everyone's advantage and comfort. Why should the system not be introduced here?"

Why not? It has always been a mystery to some of us how country people endure the miserable roads in winter time—or in summer time for that matter. These pitch holes are most aggravating when a fellow is in a hurry and yet we doubt if ever the average farmer gave two thoughts to the question of how they might be removed.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM'S titles Bill has been rejected by the House of Commons, and so our ambitious publicists can still live in hopes of acquiring a set of spurs or a coronet.

PRINTERS are said to be scarce in the prison. No reason is given for the lack of crime among the typos. It may be that they are no better than any other class only their evil deeds are not found out—the editor having to bear them all.

MONTREAL MAIL remarks:—"If they really are considering the advisability of establishing 'Tango wards' in the hospitals, why not provide similar accommodation in the lunatic asylums?"—There is no need for such a provision, they are all tangoist there.

"AN INVERTED DINNER" was held by the loop-the-loop aviators in London on Jan. 16th. It was given in honour of two somersaulting British aviators. The tables were arranged upside-down, with their legs in the air. Possibly by the time the dinner was over the tables would resume their normal position.

AS A PROOF of the candour and honesty of the newspaper craft, the following is surely conclusive; it is taken from a Toronto paper's advertisement columns:—

"Conservative paper and job office, Western Ontario; excellent and good business as a rule, but absolutely rotten just now; that's why I want to sell."

What other business would be so candid, and what other party?

BILL SHAKESPEARE

By Walt Mason

In almost every modern home you'll see Bill Shakespeare's splendid tome. It stands by Bunyan, Pope and other scrolls of highbrow dope. In every home old Bill's on hand; he ranks with the umbrella stand, the antlers o'er the study door, the bearskin rug upon the floor. Remote from Poe and Richard Realf, Old Bill is standing on his shelf, and there he stands from year to year, in solitude, majestic drear. He's like the German eight-day clock which never more will go tick-tock; it stands upon the hallway floor, an ornament, and nothing more. No home's complete without Bill's book, yet no one, in the inglenook, e'er ponders o'er his ripping plays, or reads his vital, red blood lays. He's like the stuffed goose in the hall, the crocodile upon the wall; he's there, with other master minds, because he'll match the window blinds. The father, while his housewife darns, reads George McCutcheon's screaming yarns; the elder daughter, plunged in thought, is reading Rhoda Broughton's rot; the son is reading Rex. E. Beach, and now and then lets out a screetch. The smaller kids, Jim, Willie, Ruth, are reading up Nick Carter, sleuth. Southeast of Poe and Richard Realf, Old Bill sits lonesome on his shelf.

SIR HUGH DID NOT TELL

Montreal Newspaperman Refuses to Answer Questions

QUEBEC, Feb. 7.—The chief witness at the enquiry into the allegations of corruption against certain provincial legislators was Sir Hugh Graham, admitted proprietor of The Montreal Star and the reputed controller of the newly-amalgamated Herald-Telegraph. Acting, as he said, on the advice of his counsel, Sir Hugh absolutely refused to answer questions regarding the alleged "conspiracy of silence" manifested by certain Montreal newspapers in regard to the charges of corruption finally published by The Montreal Daily Mail.

This refusal on the part of Sir Hugh Graham was made before the investigating committees of both Houses of the Legislature. Sir Hugh Graham had been summoned before these investigating committees as an important witness in regard to the so-called "conspiracy" against the Legislature.

It was shown before both committees that the charges against members of the Legislature had first been submitted "to the new owners of The Herald." Sir Hugh Graham admitted yesterday that this evidence of corruption had first been submited to him. But when asked categorically whether or not be now owned The Herald, Sir Hugh Graham, "acting on the advice of his counsel, positively and absolutely refused to reply."

There was a dramatic episode in the committee of the upper House when Mr. Macnab, editor of The Daily Mail, explained that he had had twenty-five years' personal experience with Sir Hugh Graham and asked permission to put a few question to the witness.

Mr. Macnab first of all explained to the committee that witnesses before the committee had been required to swear to an oath which contained a statement concerning "a conspiracy among parties unknown." It was submitted that that was the reason why Sir Hugh Graham should be examined. The Daily Mail bad published the revelations in the public interest. Sir Hugh Graham had been shown the evidence in the first place, and he had refused to publish it, once more "acting on the advice of his counsel."

Mr. Macnab said that in his long experience of Sir Hugh the latter did not pay much attention to the advice of counsel, but published what he pleased.

Still Sir Hugh Graham maintained silence, and Hon. Thomas Chapais, chairman of the investigation committee, declared that the matter did not particularly concern the investigation entrusted to the committee.

Jean Prevost called the attention of the lower House, during its sitting yesterday, to the summary adjournment last night of the assembly special committee. He said he had asked that Mr. Biddinger be examined immediately by the committee, but the chairman of the committee bad seen fit to adjourn, and now Mr. Biddinger had left the city.

"I think it is better for the honor of members of the Legislature that Mr. Biddinger be recalled," Mr. Prevost said. "I declare from my seat as member for Terrebone that Mr. Biddinger had a very formidable declaration to make, and it is useless to cause the disappearance of a quorum of the committee to prevent him from speaking."

The Hon. L. A. Taschereau, chairman of the committee, in a vehement speech, said that Mr. Marechal had declared that he had no further witnesses to call except Mr. Mousseau.

Birthdays of Note

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY SEVENTH

Hamar Greenwood, M.P., the Canadian barrister who has made quite a name for himself in British politics, reaches his forty-fourth birthday to-day. His career may be well illustrated by a story of his student life in Toronto which is still repeated by his fellow-students. They say that when he arrived at the University from the country, he wore a disreputable "blazer" or tennis coat of many and glaring colors, trousers with a pronounced stripe and somewhat frayed at the bottom and a dilapidated straw hat. In this garb he was a mark for student satire. Next year however the raw freshman blossomed out in a frock coat of delicate grey, with neatly pressed trousers, flower in buttonhole, patent leathers and silk hat. In much the same way he has come to the front in England whither he originally travelled, it is said, aboard a cattle-ship.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY EIGHTH

Dr. George R. Parkin, C.M.G., organizing representative of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust, celebrates his sixty-eighth birthday to-day. Dr. Parkin is a New Brunswicker and a graduate of the University of New Brunswick

He was for many years principal of the Collegiate School in Fredericton, N.B., after which he received the appointment of Upper Canada College, Toronto. He is particularly famous for his advocacy of the cause of Imperial Unity and is one of the small group of men who are constantly speaking and writing on the subject. He has written several books, among which his life of Sir John A. Macdonald in the Makers of Canada Series stands out prominently.

HELPLESS AND OLD

When weary and worn with the toils of the way,
And dark fall the shadows round
life's closing day.
With loved ones departed, no home
and no friend,
And nothing to hope for on earth
but the end,
Then, Father in Heaven, their sorrows behold,
And pity the helpless and old.
Tho' destitute now, is it any disgrace,
That they fell, through misfortune,
behind in the race.
Perhaps when once prospects beamed
brilliant and fair,
Like others, they built splendid castles in air;
But reduced in frail age to pale
Charity doled,
O, pity dear Lord, then the helpless
and old.
When lonely, sore racked by diseases
and care,
Scare able to whisper a faltering
prayer;
Thro' the long silent night when no friend lingers near,
To the dark, gloomy valley, their pathway to cheer.
Then Lord 'neath Thy wings, to Thy bosom enfold,
In tenderest pity, the helpless and old.
When life's sinking tide is fast ebbing away,
May Thy smile be their light, hope strength, staff and stay.
The cords of their tent at last gently release,
Through the swellings of Jordan,
then bear them in peace.
To the land afar off with its city
of gold,
And the mansions prepared for the helpless and old.

MAN IS KILLED AND TWO GIRLS HURT AT ASHGROVE

Robert Wright, a Farmer, Dies From Injuries Received When Grand Trunk Eastbound Train Strikes Buggy Near Guelph—Mildred Bessey is Seriously Injured and Sister Escapes With Bruises.

GUELPH, Feb. 7.—Robt. Wright, about 40 years of age, of Ashgrove, three and a half miles from Georgetown, was killed, and Mildred Bessey, aged 15, is lying seriously injured at the Guelph General Hospital, as a result of being struck by a Grand Trunk passenger train going east shortly before five o'clock yesterday afternoon, while driving in a buggy.

The fatality occurred at a level crossing on the seventh line of the Township of Esquesing, two miles west of Georgetown.

Pearl Bessey, aged 12, who also was an occupant of the buggy, escaped with a bruise on one knee. Her brother, Roy, aged 8, and David Marcellus, another lad of about the same age, who were sitting in the back of the buggy, jumped in time to save themselves and were uninjured.

Wright, who died as he was being lifted from the train at Guelph station, had been in attendance at an auction sale on the seventh line of Esquesing, as had also John W. Bessey, the father of the injured girls, but Wright left for home first, fearing that the snow storm might block the road. He picked up the four young people on the way, as they were going home from school.

It was snowing hard and Mr. Wright could see only a short distance ahead of him, but he evidently heard the train coming and kept telling the girls to watch out for it. Just before they came to the crossing the train came thundering down the track, and the horse becoming unmanageable, bolted directly in front of the engine. It was killed instantly and the occupants of the buggy were thrown some distance.

The train was brought to a standstill as quickly as possible and the injured were placed in the rear coach and taken to Georgetown, where physicians were summoned. The injured were placed on the westbound train for Guelph, but as stated, Wright died as he was being lifted from the train. It was later discovered that his back was broken.

An examination proved that Mildred Bessey's right thigh was broken a d her left arm also, and she has not regained consciousness. Her condition is serious. Mr. Bessey came up on a later train and is at the bedside at the General Hospital.

It was stated last night that the whistle of the engine was not blown before it reached the crossing, but this matter will come out at the inquest which has been called for this afternoon.

Robert Wright, the dead man, leaves a widow. He had been married about two years.

A HAMILTON MIRACLE

Whole Country Amazed at Wonderful Cure of Mr. John Herman

573 JAMES ST. NORTH, HAMILTON, ONT.

Gentlemen,

Four years ago I was taken down with Inflammation of the Bladder. During the attacks, which occurred more and more frequently, the agony was unbearable, and I became so weak I could not walk across the floor. The doctors could do nothing to relieve or cure me.

My wife sent for a box of GIN PILLS to try and see if they would help me. From the first they did me good—the pain was relieved at once, and the attacks began to come at longer intervals. I continued taking the pills for six weeks, and then, to my surprise and delight, the stone I sent you some time ago came from me and my pain stopped. It is now three years since GIN PILLS cured me. I have had no return of the trouble, and I have not lost a day's work on account of it since.

There is not the slightest doubt that GIN PILLS saved my life.

Yours gratefully,
JOHN HERMAN.

GIN PILLS are wonderful in their action on the Kidneys and Bladder. They neutralize Uric Acid, soothe the irritated Bladder, and completely cure suppression and incontinence of the urine. They are also mildly laxative and help to regulate the Bowels.

If your dealer does not handle GIN PILLS, do not take substitutes, but order direct from us, enclosing the regular retail price—50c for one box or $2.50 for six boxes. Money cheerfully refunded if GIN PILLS do not do all that we claim for them. Sample free if you mention this paper. National Drug and Chemical Co., of Canada Limited, Toronto.

If your stomach and bowels are out of order and you need a stronger laxative take a few NATIONAL LAZY LIVER PILLS. 25c. a box. 290

COL. HUGHES TAKES DEFINITE STAND ON RIFLE QUESTION

Entire House Applauds Attitude of Minister of Militia in Refusing to Submit to Arbitrary Ruling Against Service Arm of Canadian Forces.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—The most important item of the sitting of the House of Commons yesterday came just before going into supply yesterday when the members irrespective of party heartily applauded a statement by Hon. Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia and Defence, regarding the refusal of the British War Office to permit the use of the Ross rifle at the Bisley matches.

Before going into committee, E. M. Macdonald, the Liberal member for Pictou, N.S., moved the adjournment of the House for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of public interest to it, the reported refusal of the Dominion Government to send a rifle team to the Bisley competition.

Mr. Macdonald said he thought it important to have an official statement from the Minister of Militia respecting the press reports that Canada was not to be represented at Bisley next summer. As he understood it, the National Rifle Association of Great Britain, which controls the competition, objected to the use of the national arms of Canada. The Ross rifle was the Canadian service weapon, but Canadians, as he understood it, would not be allowed to compete unless they use the Lee-Enfield rifle, with the open sight, instead of the Ross rifle with the aperture sight.

Col. Sam Hughes did not leave the House long in doubt as to his position. He said that the Bisley meeting had been established by the late Queen to encourage rifle practice throughout the Empire, and that Canadians had as much right there as Englishmen. The British War Office, which financed the undertaking, however, had laid down the rule that the Ross rifle with the aperture sight could not be used. This was a most arbitrary performance, and it was intended to force Canadians to discard the finest weapon in the world and to use instead the obsolete Lee-Enfield, still in use by the British army. "No volunteer," he continued, "shall leave Canada with that yoke upon his neck." (Applause.)

Replying to questions, Col. Hughes said that the aperture sight was a part of the service rifle in the United States, Canada and many other countries, and would be included in the new rifle the War Office was designing. He was quite willing that the British competitors at Bisley should be as well armed as the Canadians, and would loan them Ross rifles if requested.

When the House went into committee of supply and Mr. Crothers presented his estimates for the Department of Labor, F. B. Carvell charged the Government with withholding from the public information to which they were entitled respecting the happenings on Vancouver island during the coal strikes at Nanaimo and other places. He read from The Labor Gazette to show that the magnitude and importance of the strike had been minimized, and declared that it would be a good thing to abolish the Minister of Labor, the Labor Department and The Labor Gazette. Mr. Carvell said also that the Minister had appointed his law partner, Mr. Price of St. Thomas, as a royal commissioner to investigate conditions on Vancouver island, but had done nothing himself to ward off the strike or to bring about a settlement.

Mr. Crothers, in reply, said that the partnership between himself and Mr. Price had been dissolved years ago. The strike at Nanaimo had occurred on May 1, 1913, and the Department only learned that it was to be ordered on the preceding day. He (the Minister) had gone to the scene and labored to bring the parties together. Both sides refused to apply for a board of investigation under the industrial disputes act, the men saying they were not on a strike but a holiday, and the mine owners denying the existence of a lock-out. The mine owners were willing to meet the men, but would not deal with the union known as the United Mine Workers of America, while the men demanded recognition of the union before they would treat with the employers. The strike had been on for many months, just as the coal strikes in Nova Scotia continued for twenty-two months.

E. M. Macdonald (Pictou) thought it curious that Mr. Price's report should have been dated on Aug. 14, 1913, just before the serious trouble occurred in Nanaimo. Mr. Crothers replied that the date upon the report was a true one, and paid a tribute to Mr. Price's high standing in Ontario.

Considerable discussion went on in which the mine owners, the militia and the provincial police were freely criticized.

Mr. Shepperd, Nanaimo, and Mr. Stevens, Vancouver, defended the course of the Dominion and Provincial Governments.

TO DROP MILITANCY.

Christabel Pankhurst's Attitude Forces Sylvia To Secede.

LONDON, Feb. 7. — Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, daughter of the militant suffragette leader, yesterday announced her secession from the Women's Social and Political Union, the militant women's organization. Her east end of London federation, which hitherto has been a branch of the parent organization, will henceforth be entirely independent.

MISS CHRISTABEL PANKHURST.

The rift among the militant suffragettes is said to be due to Miss Sylvia Pankhurst's ultra-revolutionary aspirations, which the leaders of the Women's Social and Political Union are beginning to believe are damaging their cause.

Reports of dissensions in the inner circles of the militant organization, involving the Pankhurst triumvirate, have been in circulation for some time. According to these, Christabel Pankhurst is anxious to end her long exile in Paris and return to London and take control of the organization.

But Christabel, the reports have it, desires to come back under conditions that will not necessitate frequent terms of imprisonment for her under the "cat and mouse" act. Therefore, it is said, she wants militancy dropped.

Sylvia Pankhurst, on the other hand, is not prepared to abandon militancy until she has fully tested the fighting capacity of her "people's army."

FACTORY IS WRECKED.

Fire in Shurly-Dietrich Plant at Galt Will Cost $250,000.

GALT, Ont., Feb. 7.—Fire, which broke out early yesterday morning in the Shurly-Dietrich, Ltd., saw and bed manufactory, gutted practically the whole plant, which covers the greater portion of a block. Only a solid brick warehouse, recently erected, remained, the rest of the building not so solidly constructed having burned like tinder. Although at one time it was thought the solid stone office would be saved, the fire got it. It is expected that the loss will reach about $250,000, and 150 men will be thrown out of employment. The insurance is $85,000.

The fire started in the tempering department and Joseph Moore, night watchman, tried for a time to fight it with a single hose of the factory department.

Murder and Suicide.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 7.—Sitting upright, the bodies of John McFadden, aged 20, and Miss Anna Lutz, aged 20, were found in an automobile two miles east of Ligonier, Westmoreland County, early yesterday. The girl's arms were around McFadden's neck. Each had been shot through the heart. The county authorities believe McFadden killed the girl and then shot himself.

STRUCK BY LIMB.

Boy and Chum Cut Down Tree to Get a Raccoon.

CHATHAM, Feb. 7.—Otto Boyes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Boyes of the 13th concession of Raleigh, was killed yesterday afternoon through being struck by a flying limb of a falling tree.

Boyes and another young man named Herbert Pardo were cutting down a tree in the former's bush to get a coon that had sought refuge in the branches. The felled tree struck another in falling and one of the branches was knocked off. It struck young Boyes on the head, fracturing his skull. Death was instantaneous.

The victim was about 25 years of age and had been married only six weeks. He and his wife were living at his father's home.

The unfortunate young man was a brother of Alex. Boyes, who was killed three years ago when a threshing machine engine broke through a concrete bridge in Raleigh.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS MAKE WOMEN WELL

Just because she is a woman, there are times when every woman needs help and strength in the form of a blood-building tonic.

To thousands of girls and women Dr. William's Pink Pills have proved a blessing because they enrich the blood, give strength and restore tone to the aching nerves. The anaemic girl who is languid and pale, the wife whose back feels like breaking; the matron whose health fails as she reaches middle age—for all such sufferers, Dr. William's Pink Pills are invaluable, because ill health in woman is usually caused by poor blood or insufficient blood. These pills have cured thousands of others, why not you? Mrs. D. Morine, Wallbrook, N.S., says:—"It is impossible for me to say too much in praise of Dr. William's Pink Pills. I have been a great sufferer from those troubles that make the life of so many women an almost constant misery. Pains in the back and side racked and tortured me. My nerves seemed to give out, and at times I could do no house work, and only women who have similarly suffered know what I endured. I tried medicine after medicine without any benefit, and was finally persuaded to try Dr. William's Pink Pills. Soon after starting the pills I found an improvement, and as I continued their use my health and strength returned, and I now feel as well as ever I did in my life, and I am relating my experience merely in the hope that it may lead some other suffering woman to renewed health. I may add that my mother suffered from rheumatism, so badly that she had to use a crutch and Dr. William's Pink Pills completely restored her to her usual good health.

Always get the genuine pills with the full name "Dr. William's Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. If your dealer does not keep them, the pills will be sent postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing The Dr. William's Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"TRAVELLER" GIVES HIS VIEWS ON POLICE WOMAN

To the Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir,—

Peterboro is making a desperate effort to be original. That is the conclusion to which a thoughtful citizen must come to who has perused the good, mostly bad and indifferent efusions of those disgorging themselves of a cure-all for Peterboro's immorality. Forsooth, there are certain energetic persons who are becoming frantic to establish a police woman in our midst, as though that were the one thing needful. Let us hope that all this letter-writing to the editor, all these deputatings to officialdom, all those pulpit thunderings, will evolve something more abiding and effective than the placing of the morals of Peterboro's females in the care of one, poor, little, over-burdened police woman, however disinterested and earnest for the city's welfare she might be. Does it not sound preposterous even to hope that the conditions delineated so strikingly by all those revolting details of moral turpitude, and which formed so large a part of a recent letter to the Editor, would be effectively met by the appointment of a police woman? If the location in which those breaches of moral rectitude took place are considered, I thoroughly believe that the appointment of a police woman would be doomed to failure, if regarded as a measure intended to meet in any adequate degree, the problem that has arisen in the city of Peterboro. Can any one woman, let me ask, police George Street, and east and west to the Lift Locks and to the West Ward School? Could any one woman stop girls from being accosted from the Public Library to the C. P. R. station? The problem it seems to me, is far beyond the capacity of any one police woman.

There is another side to this problem, or have we heard both sides? We hear a great deal about men accosting young girls, but are there no girls in Peterboro who invite such things? Note the McClay case—the girl was "picked up." The writer has lived a while in Ottawa, where they say a police woman appointment has been a success, and he knows that two young men could not walk down Spark Street, the main thoroughfare, on an evening, without having at least one pair of girls giving them an inviting smile, or significant look which meant that here was a good opportunity for a "pick-up." True, much of this "picking up" was harmless, even though it was a serious breach of maidenly reserve and social etiquette. I maintain that a great deal of the immorality so emphatically laid at the door of Peterboro's males by the insistant argument that the girls must be protected, is not by any means due to the perverted actions of men alone. A woman usually knows that since the time of Adam her subtle charms prevail against the wills of men, and an unguarded exercise of this power is undoubtedly the cause of much harm.

Again, you may say that all this agitating is for more than a police woman. If so, for what, may I ask? So much emphasis has been placed on the appointment of a police woman that I fear if it were made, that worthy body, the National Council of Women would sit down at their ease, complacently believing, as many have done in the past, regarding a hoped-for reform, that "God's in His Heaven, all's right with the world." The problem in Peterboro is far larger than all this agitation for a police woman would lead one to believe, and this falling short of the problem to be met, is what is surely and effectively bringing into being a stubborn opposition, which is balking the appointment of a police woman, not because it is adverse to this innovation, but because it cannot tolerate a half-measure that is not a proper answer to the question involved.

Now, what is the problem? It is a sex problem. There is no use mincing matters with any pretence at false modesty. The question is one of the proper relation of men to women, and that is fundamentally beyond the pale of the police department, whether men or women police. The question is a problem for the home which is the really effective place to inculcate those principles of honor and virtue and chastity in both men and women, and on which the stability of the whole race depends. When I observed the widespread prevalence of this "picking-up" system of social intercourse in so many Canadian towns, I said to myself, there is certainly something wrong in the social state of Denmark. Have any of those estimable ladies of the National Council of Women, have any of those who signed the petition for a police woman seriously asked themselves why such a thing should be? Men crave the society of women, women desire the society of men. That is a condition of nature and is certainly not a sin. Youth in both sexes is impatient and restraint or self-control is a characteristic that comes only with long training, struggle and hard knocks, yet there is the problem—how are the demands of nature to be restrained, how are men and women to have social intercourse and not violate the standards of manners and morality? What opportunity has a young, usually pretty and romantic English girl, who is a maid in a Peterboro household, to have relaxation from work, to meet young men and to enjoy those healthy pleasures which will alone satisfy those demands which her very nature craves. How is a young girl working behind the counter in a fifteen cent store, to get something else out of life besides three meals and four dollars a week? I will tell you, she does not get much else as society exists now. That is the reason why there are plenty of "pick-ups" on Sparks Street, in Ottawa, St. Catharines Street, in Montreal, Princess street in Kingston and so on in nearly every Canadian city. Dancing, a very beautiful healthful pleasure or social intercourse, when virtuously performed, is banned by many people, and the public dance hall is partially a result, and where many acquaintances are made. How many ministers know how dancing is conducted in such places which exist in Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston, Hamilton and most cities? They may not be called dance halls, but that is only a term. A young fellow walks along the wall and seeing a "dame" that strikes his fancy, says "Come on kiddo, have a dance?" with an expressive curve to his index finger. Or there is a tag dance, which is a very easy, informal way of getting numerous partners. Why are there so many young people in these places? Where do they come from? Escort some of them or follow them and they will retire in the great majority of cases to homes—homes which have for various reasons ceased to perform a function far more important than bringing them into the world, that of training the girls in womanly virtues, and the boys in manly honor. To do this and make home the sacred place, it ought to be and once was when the father was priest within its bounds, scope must be supplied for the gaiety and sportiveness of youth, even more than for the memorizing of long catechisms which young people often do not understand. Youth will express itself. Youth is the hope of the race; youth "morituri salutamus." One police woman, or a dozen police women, will not, they cannot, perform this function. What is wanted is five thousand police women to try to understand this problem and regulate their own homes so that the hand of the spoiler bring them not to sorrow and shame when they least expect it.

The problem is moreover, highly complicated by certain social customs that are a part of Canadian national life. I have heard the Church blamed for much of the evil that arises from the conditions causing immorality. How many church members have invited strangers to their homes in the past year, or six months? How many of those poor, unprotected girls and young men have the members of the National Council of Women made happy by inviting them to their homes with some friends, for an evening? Be it said to the great credit of the National Council of Women, that some of its members have done so. Possibly they could be counted on my fingers, but they have displayed an admirable civic interest in breaking away from the frigid reserve that causes so many strangers to exist close to our very doors. But these are exceptions, and society at the present time does not expect this of its members. Neither the church nor its members seriously consider it their duty to go out into the by-ways and hedges and compel people to come in socially as well as reilgiously, or if they do, such duty is dormant and over-ridden by class distinctions.

There are differences of wealth—a very powerful factor—differences of position, education, occupation etc. We wait to find out something about this young man or woman before bringing them into our homes. They must prove themselves, and then they are assigned unconsciously to whatever class they belong. We wait for introductions, according to our etiquette, we must be reserved, and so we might as well accept our social standards and not expect the rich and educated to be bosom friends of the poor and unlettered. They have always been incompatible and such will be the case for a long future. If a young person has been brought up according to the prevailing social standards, he or she will be connected with some church which will afford an opening to society. I will just observe here, however, that a church and a congregation can get into a rut as easily as any institution under the sun, and when a young man can go six months to a certain church and attend Sunday School and meet only one family in that church, it is just possible that there is a shade too much of reserve and with-holding of hand shakes and Christian fellowship. When there are bad moral conditions in any city, rows of empty pews on Sunday and full houses for the nickle shows and theatres, the time is indeed pertinent for the church to ask itself if it is relating itself to the life of the community, as closely as it should, or if it is falling behind in the swift development that has struck such a fast pace in the Canadian Dominion. There are various institutions for facilitating acquaintanceship in our national life, doubtless they could be much improved, but the church certainly has a great opportunity to improve that home life which is the only adequate answer to the problem which the police woman agitation has raised. Will the addition of a police woman to those institutions influencing social life, have a result commensurate with the money expended for the end in view? The magnitude of the problem and the emphasis placed on the appointment of a police woman seems a disproportionate adjustment of problem and solution. Failure would appear to be the outcome.

I am,

A TRAVELLER.

TRUE TO THE END.

And After Many Years Came Her Tragic and Pathetic Reward.

A number of years ago some miners in Wales, in exploring an old disused pit, found the body of a young man dressed in a fashion long out of date. The peculiar action of the air of the mine was such as preserved the body so perfectly that it appeared asleep rather than dead.

The miners were puzzled at the circumstances. No one in the district had been missed within their remembrance, and at last it was resolved to bring in the oldest inhabitant, an old lady over eighty years old, who had lived single in the village all her life.

When she was taken into the room where the dead man lay a strange thing occurred. The old lady fell on the corpse and kissed it and addressed it by every term of endearment spoken in a bygone generation. He was her only love, and she had waited for him her long life. She knew he had not forsaken her.

The old lady and young man had been betrothed sixty years before. Her lover had disappeared mysteriously, and she had kept her faith during the long interval.

The miners removed the old lady to her house, and that night her faithful spirit rejoined that of her long lost lover.—London Telegraph.

Wise Eskimos.

Everything in the Eskimo dress has a reason for its existence, writes Captain Roald Amundsen in "The Northwest Passage." The members of Captain Amundsen's expeditions had become accustomed to the Eskimo dress and had adopted it, but many of them thought it ridiculous for grownup men to go about wearing fringe to their clothes, so they cut it off. I had my scruples about this, says the author, as I had already learned that most things in the Eskimo's clothing and other arrangements had their distinct meaning and purpose, so I kept my fringe and put up with the ridicule. He laughs best who laughs last. One fine day the anovaks, a sort of tunic reaching below the knee, made of deerskin, from which the fringes had been cut off, commenced to curl up, and if the fringe had not been put on again quickly they would soon have looked like neckties.

SUFFERED AWFUL PAINS

For Sixteen Years. Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Moretown, Vermont.—"I was troubled with pains and irregularities for sixteen years, and was thin, weak and nervous. When I would lie down it would seem as if I was going right down out of sight into some dark hole, and the window curtains had faces that would peek out at me, and when I was out of doors it would seem as if something was going to happen. My blood was poor, my circulation was so bad I would be like a dead person at times. I had female weakness badly, my abdomen was sore and I had awful pains.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash and they certainly did wonders for me. My troubles disappeared and I am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. W. F. SAWYER, River View Farm, Moretown, Vermont.

Another Case.

Gifford, Iowa.—"I was troubled with female weakness, also with displacement. I had very severe and steady headache, also pain in back and was very thin and tired all the time. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am cured of these troubles. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. INA MILLSLAGLE, Gifford, Iowa.

DRAMA WAS THE SUBJECT

Mr. V. J. McElderry Gave Address to Literary Society

The Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S., held a meeting last evening in the hall of the Lyceum, when Mr. V. J. McElderry gave a very scholarly and instructive address on "The Drama." The evening opened with a good musical program, which was as follows:

Instrumental Duet—Misses B. Giroux and H. Pearce.

Vocal solo—Miss Helen Warrington.

Violin solo—Mr. O. McCabe.

Vocal solo—Mr. J. Minicolo.

Accompanists—Misses O. Tangney E. McCabe and B. Giroux.

Mr. McElderry took as his subject "The Drama" partly because of the interest the younger portion of the Society has always manifested in amateur theatricals, and because the drama in Canada just now is forcing itself more on the attention of the people.

The drama has, in every age, exercised a great influence on the thought of the people. At the present day the moving picture shows seem to have almost as much influence in this direction as the press itself. The drama is a branch of the fine arts, and it is true that a greater degree of literary perfection is reached in most of our modern plays than in many of the modern novels. The dramatist has the whole world of history, fiction and everyday events to draw from. The modern drama has fallen away from earlier standards. Now as a rule, owing principally to the enormous expense of scenery and costumes, we have three acts, in which the first may portray a scene in London, the second one in Hong Kong, and the third wind up in the Sahara Desert, while the time may extend anywhere from one week to six months or to years. The rules observed by Beaumont and Fletcher, Shakespeare, in fact, all the earlier dramatists, were those which divided the play into five separate parts, or acts; the first really an introduction, in which the author explained the circumstances and introduced the characters, the second, showing the progress of the plot, the third to develop the idea to its height, the fourth, the unravelling of the plot, and the fifth, to draw all loose ends together, and bring the play to a more or less satisfactory conclusion. One of the greatest faults of the modern dramatist, who gets his plot to a certain distance, and then is compelled to bring in some extraneous matter to help it out, was thus avoided, and this unity of idea, place and time is exemplified in the ancient Greek drama, on which our modern drama is based. Their plays, however, although perfect in form, are of too cold a perfection, and wanting in the human element and romance which distinguish the present-day productions. They were divided sharply into comedies and tragedies but the comedy was more in the nature of satire and one may look in vain for any spark of humor. As the speaker remarked: "One might very well split one's head over them but one would never split his sides." The speaker gave Aristotle's definition of tragedy. The Greek tragedies were extremely sad, and were designed to create pity and inspire awe. The three great classic Greek dramatists were Sophocles, Euripides and Aeschylus, who embody in most of their work, the central idea of fate, the will of the gods overruling mortal wishes. The drama in Greece was more like a national sport. Whole cities went to see a play enacted and the municipalities provided money for them. In the centre of the city of Athens rose the hill of the Acropolis, on the southern slope of which was erected the theatre of Dionysius. Of the sixty-seven marble seats in the first row of this ancient theatre, sixty still remain to this day, on which inscriptions may be deciphered. The speaker described the theatre, and the customs of that day, which seem strange to modern minds. The actors walked on short stilts, and appeared in masks that covered the whole face, while in front was a space for the twenty or thirty persons who formed the chorus. This chorus probably evolved from the war dances and adding a lyric element to the drama, recited poetry, which explained the action, pointed the moral, and formed an intermission between acts.

Mr. McElderry then gave a short version of Hecuba, one of the plays of Emipides, as an illustration of the ancient Greek method, which was greeted with much applause.

The Chairlady, Miss Ethel Hayes, then called on Rev. Dean McColl, who thanked the speaker for the splendid intellectual treat he had given the audience.

HUMILIATED WOMAN

Would Not Attend Social Functions Because of Her Hair.

There are many women in this world, handsome in features, perfect in form, graceful of movements and brilliant of mind, who keep in the background just because they have thin, colorless and lustreless hair.

In Paris they understand things about the hair that we do not know in this country. It was a Parisian, Dr. Sangerbond, who discovered that thin hair and dandruff are caused by a microbe.

It is Parisian Sage that proves Dr. Sangerhood's theory to be correct, for it is rigidly guaranteed to kill the dandruff germ and cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

Parisian Sage is a delightfully pleasant hair dressing and invigorator; it is not sticky or greasy. It should be used freely in Spring and Summer as it keeps the scalp clean and cool and free from odors.

Parisian Sage comes in large 50 cent bottles and it is for sale by The Warne Drug Co., and leading druggists everywhere on the money-back plan. "The Girl with the Auburn Hair" is on every package. Made in Canada by The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont.

EDITOR ATTACKED.

L. D. Taylor of Vancouver Assaulted by Enraged Variety Actress.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Feb. 7—Marie Lloyd, the English comedienne, yesterday afternoon called at the office of The World newspaper and viciously attacked L. D. Taylor, the manager and a former mayor of Vancouver. The police were sent for, and a big crowd had gathered before the trouble was stopped. Miss Lloyd used a heavy trunk strap and struck Mr. Taylor several sharp blows across the face before bystanders interfered.

The singer was enraged at an article in The World, criticizing her performance in a local theatre, and referring to her difficulties at the hands of the immigration officials.

To Punish Careless Freight Handlers.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7.—Rough handling and pilfering of perishable shipments will be made a criminal offence if an amendment, to be proposed by J. E. Armstrong of Lambton, becomes law. Under the Fruit Marks Act shippers are penalised if they do not pack their fruit in a certain way or up to a certain standard, yet the handling by express employes or others is often so rough that whole shipments are seriously damaged. The only redress is by thes low progress of damage claims.

Mr. Armstrong will propose to amend the act so as to make fruit inspectors, cargo inspector at big shipping ports.

Advance sale opens for the Big Performance Monday morning. This is the third Belmont Club production under the direction of Holly Shepard, and it will be the classiest affair ever staged by him in Peterborough. Those who have enjoyed the Shepard productions in the past go this season and witness what will undoubtedly be his last attraction in Peterborough and a production that will go down in history as the most professional local entertainment ever seen on the local stage. Every song, specialty number and piece of business is top notch. The show will smack so of the professional, you will doubt at times you are looking at your own townsman. We present the show as advertised, strictly upon its merits.

Citizens of Peterborough

I advise you to buy my Lots, as they are perfect in every respect, affording the most profitable safe investment obtainable. Every person who bought from me during the past six years is more than pleased, and have good reason for being so. The lots sold were very fine, but not as high land as those now offered. My reason for offering at this season is that after the holidays all wise people settle down to earn money. Some save, many don't. Do you? Five years ago wise parents, having two boys, 16 and 18 years, just commencing to earn, accepted my advice, caused them to buy lots and impose a must upon themselves to save and pay for the lots; this they did and got their deeds, bought again and sold at good profit, buying a third time, and now owning property worth at least $1400, with about $100.00 to pay.

These are facts I can prove, and this is only one of many similar cases. Am I not justified in urging you to buy, and is it not greatly in your interest to do so? Lots $150, $175, and $200, corners and large blocks. Terms: $5 deposit, on one or two lots; no interest nor any further payments until May, when streets will be graded and all lots properly staked. If satisfied with your lots, pay $10 more, and $15 quarterly. Hereafter on one or two lots, including interest at six per cent. per annum, from May 1st. Six per cent. discount for larger cash payments. This offer good for this month. Call, see plans and select what you want. Your $5 back if wanted.

GRIT IS REQUIRED TO WIN IN THE BIG REVIEW SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST

Hustle Candidates as the Best Offer You Will Have During The Entire Contest is Fast Drawing to a Close

You'll win if you don't give up.
When you're called on to drink some bitter cup.
Drink it and smile as a brave man should,
But don't retreat.
Life is a game that you've got to play;
It is not all worry and not all gay,
Some of it's bad, and some of it's good,
And bitter is mixed with the sweet.
The world is kind to a strong man, when
He falls, if he fights, to get up again,
But it has no place for a man who fails
And stands in his tracks and moans and wails.
Never bow down to the weight of the yoke;
Laugh at a knock as you laugh at a joke.
Cut out the work and cut out the doubt,
And you'll win.

Yes, half of greatness is grit. When intelligence is backed by determination there is nothing impossible under the sun. So in this contest the secret of success is having enough to stick in the game to the finish and doing your best each day and letting the future take care of itself.

Many a contestant has failed to win the prize he wanted at the last moment because he did not have grit and tenacity enough to stick to the game and win. He gave up hope at the very time when he was near the goal of success and a few more subscriptions would have put him over to the land of plenty votes.

The special offer for extra votes will solve the problem for any candidate who is in doubt as how to win one of the prizes. This offer ought to be incentive enough to make you want to work night and day to secure every new and old subscription possible.

Did you ever stop to figure out what a two-year Review subscription would give you if turned in on the offer this week?

The contest is now just under way. Just a few more weeks and it will be over and the prizes will be awarded. If you put forth the effort next week that you should, you will probably be numbered among the lucky winners. If you shirk your work and dilly-dally away your time, it is more than likely that you will fail utterly in your attempt to land a prize. If you want success to be your lot, put forth the energy this week to be a winner. The prizes are not going to be won with a small vote, but with a very large one—yes, much larger than you now suppose. Better have a few thousand votes too many than a few hundred too few.

The contest manager has advised you time and again—and yet we repeat it—that this week and next week are the best of all weeks of the campaign. Those who do the best work this week and next will win. Don't come in with one subscription when you could have gotten ten of them. If you do you will have cause to regret it at the close of the contest. Take this warning and win.

Remember the special "Booster Period," when subscriptions have their highest value, runs all next week. Closing Saturday, Feb. 14, yearly subscriptions are worth 50,000 votes. It is worth while to hustle NOW.

Don't fail to keep in touch with the contest manager, phone 189.

Bigamist Gets Five Days.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7.—Judge Lect made no comment yesterday afternoon when he sentenced Fred. Charles, alias Fred. J. Hall, to five days in jail for a charge of bigamy to which he pleaded guilty.

Both first and second wives of the man were in court, the father and mother of the second wife, who came from Belleville, being present to take their daughter back to her home.

BRITISH PRESS APPROVES.

Wilson's Attitude Commented Upon In London Papers.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Several of the morning newspapers print editorials on President Wilson's announcement that he would use his influence to have the provision of the Panama Canal Act exempting American coastwise vessels from the payment of tolls repealed.

The Daily News says experience has shown that President Wilson's use of his legitimate influence is, for practical purposes, irresistible.

The Daily Chronicle, expressing the hope that President Wilson will carry the Senate with him, remarks that it makes little difference whether the objectionable clause be repealed or referred to arbitartion since it is unable to conceive that any arbitartion court would decide the issue otherwise than in favor of Great Britain. The Chronicle thinks, however, that repealing the clause would be the more friendly, dignified and courteous course to pursue.

Condemns Deportation.

CAPE TOWN, Feb. 7.—In the debate in Parliament yesterday on the bill to indemnify the Government for its acts under martial law, Patrick Duncan, former Colonial Secretary of the Transvaal, strongly condemned the recent deportation of the strike leaders as not having been justified by their acts, and as not being conducive of industrial peace.

Mr. Duncan said if the principle of right of judicial trial were thrown aside there would be nothing before the country but government by revolution.

"Black Hand" Murder Justified.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Carmini Lyonziata, on trial for murder, told a story of Black Hand persecution to a jury in general sessions court Thursday that resulted in his acquittal. Lyonziata shot and killed Luigi Giordano. He testified that for a year he had been followed by Giordano's gang, who had put four bullets in his body at different times, and that once they had placed a bomb in his brother's store.

Disorders In Hayti.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Rioting and pillaging broke out in Cape Haitien Thursday to such an extent that Commander Bostwick of the gunboat Nashville landed 80 men to protect the lives and property of foreign residents.

ALERTS AND Y.M.C.A. PLAY THIRTY MINUTES OVERTIME BUT SCORE REMAINED TIE

Each Team Scored in Overtime Periods— Exploits Defeated Wanderers

As was expected the Junior City Hockey League game last night between the Alerts and Y. M. C. A. proved to be the best game played in that class this season. It was one of those lightning fast games of hockey where a player, unless he be in good condition, is hopelessly outclassed. The order of the day is overtime and twenty minutes' overtime was played last night in an effort to break a 3—3 tie, but at the end of the first ten minutes of overtime each team had secured a goal, and after a short rest, ten more minutes were played and once again did each team score. In view of the fact that another game had to be played last night, the game was then stopped and the tie will be played off at the end of the season, if it effects the standing of the league.

At half time the score stood 3—1 in favor of the "Y", but after the resting period the Alerts came strong and tied the score. For the last five minutes the teams battled strenuously but to no avail. It was then decided that it would be better to play the tie off in ten minutes' overtime, five minutes each way.

The "Y" boys broke into some very lively combinations and for a while it looked as though they would win. Knapman who had been putting up a nifty game, came down the centre of the ice on a lone rush. He circled one defence man and then passed to Smith, who beat Legros on a waist-high shot. The first five minutes ended with the score 4—3, but a few seconds after the teams changed end, the Alerts' crack defence man, Legrendre, broke away on a long individual rush and scored thus making it four all. The Alerts fought like tigers, but were held at bay and the overtime period finished with the score a tie.

It was expected that the Y.M.C.A. owing to their superb condition, would come out in the next period and sweep the Alerts off their feet, but these expectations did not materialize. On the contrary, the Alerts assumed the aggressive and Darling was given an excellent chance to demonstrate his worth. For a short period the puck centred in the Alerts' territory but Doughty and Lowes broke away and the latter shot from outside the defence. Darling handled the shot all right, but didn't clear quick enough with the result that Doughty slid in on top of him and slammed the disc in. The first half of this period was over with the score in favor of the Alerts.

In the last half the Y. M. C. A. came a little stronger and Legros was called upon to handle several hard shots, which he did without a miscue. Knapman was working like a demon and in fact, was playing the whole Alerts' team. He rushed several times and only the fast work of the Alerts' defence saved goals. At last "Sliver" was rewarded for his efforts when he sailed in and scored. The goal came none too soon for a few seconds afterwards the final gong rang. It was then decided to call the game off, to be played as stated above.

There is talk of the "Y" protesting the game because of a ruling given by Referee Len Dobson. When the first half was finished, according to watches in the penalty box, the "Y" timekeeper wouldn't ring the gong, and before he and the other timekeeper were finished wrangling, the Y.M.C.A. scored. When Mr. Dobson learned from the penalty timekeeper that the time was over, by two minutes, he ruled that the game had gone on when it should have been called, and therfore the goal could not count. The teams:

The last game between the Exploits and Wanderers proved to be another win for the former. They led the way all through, as the score 6—0 will indicate. They had a good work-out and claim to be in great shape for their game next week with the Alerts.

The following were the teams:

Exploits—Goal, Latimer;; right defence, Phelan; left defence, Regan; rover, Graham; centre, Butcher; wings, Rose and Wolff.

Wanderers—Goal, Walker; right defence, Guerin; left defence, Coughlin; rover, Brotherson; centre, Patterson; wings, Brown and Primeau.

PETERBORO CURLERS WIN TROPHY EVENT

They Also Secure 32 Shot Lead For Competition This Season

Yesterday afternoon and evening the Toronto Victorias played the local curling club, here in the competition for the Waddell-Capon Cup.

Last year Peterboro went to Toronto and played the first round of the games. In that contest they were 10 down but soft ice prevented the Vics from coming here, so they held the cup, although the return game had never been played. The question as to who should have their name on the cup caused an agreement to be made by which the final round of last year's game would be played yesterday afternoon. The result was as follows:

WALKING TO ASIA.

This Is Not Difficult When Bering Strait Is Frozen.

On Aug. 15 we sailed through Bering strait and were at last in the arctic. The straits are thirty-six miles wide, with East cape, a rounded, dome shaped mass of black basalt, on the Asiatic side and on the American side Cape Prince of Wales, a headline of sharper outline, but neither so lofty nor so sheer. In between the two capes and in line with them lie the two islands of Big and Little Diomede. Through the three narrow channels between the capes and the islands the tide runs with the swiftness of a river's current.

The Eskimos constantly cross from continent to continent in small boats. In still weather the passage can be made in a light kyack with perfect safety. The widest of the three channels is that between Big Diomede and East cape, and is, I should say, not more than fifteen miles across. While we were passing through the straits we saw a party of Eskimos in a skin boat paddling leisurely across from America to Asia. They no doubt had been on a visit to relatives or friends on the neighboring continent. We were told that in winter, when the strait is frozen solidly, the Eskimos frequently walk from one continent to the other.—From "A Year With a Whaler," by Walter Noble Burns.

Traveling Ballroom.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—A big freight car, filled with a hardwood wax floor on which passengers may dance, will be part of a special train that will take a number of Chicagoans to the Mardi Gras at New Orleans on Feb. 21, according to announcement yesterday. The freight car will be transformed into a traveling ballroom by means of tapestries and artificial flowers.

KEPHALDAL

Allays Fever and Cures Colds and Grippe

The quick, sure action of Kephaldol in reducing body temperature to normal health standard, gives to this great natural remedy an altogether priceless value in the treatment of every kind of fever and feverish cold.

Though it is just being introduced into Canada, Kephaldol has been prescribed by physicians and used in the hospitals of Great Britain and the Continent for many years. It relieves the burning heat and fulness in the head which comes with a "grippy" cold—allays pains and aches, soothes the nerves, and brings that sweet rest which means speediest restoration.

For colds, influenza, catarrh and similar complaints Kephaldol is unequalled. A tablet or two taken at the first indication of trouble will unfailingly arrest development and restore health.

Get a 50c tube of Kephaldol tablets from your druggist, and be ready to check a cold the day it attacks you. Kephaldol Limited, 31 Latour Street, Montreal.

JOSEPH MARTIN ILL.

Canadian M.P. In British Commons Forced to Break Trip to England.

TORONTO, Feb. 7. — Taken ill while coming from the west, on his return to England, Joseph Martin, the Canadian M.P. who represents St. Pancras in the British House of Commons, was forced to leave the train when it reached Toronto yesterday, and on being taken to the King Edward Hotel, was confined to his room, being too ill to see anyone.

The Canadian member of the British House had left his home in Victoria, B.C., at the beginning of the week, and had expected, by making close steamship connections, to be present during the opening week of Parliament in London. Owing to his illness, however, he was compelled to discontinue his journey at Toronto. He expressed the hope to some friends that a rest of a few days here would enable him to resume his trip.

His indisposition is in the nature of a nervous breakdown, and it is possible it may lead to his postponing his return to England for an indefinite period.

MILES—McDONALD.

Mr. Archibald Miles and Miss Jessie Fraser McDonald, both of Dummer, were united in marriage at the Knox church manse, Wednesday afternoon, by Rev. H. J. Keith.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles will reside in Dummer.

STEWART—STEWART

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. James Matchett, Maple Avenue, Otonabee, on Feb. 4th, 1914, when her niece, Miss Lizzie Jane Stewart, was married to Mr. Ormiston Stewart. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. McConnachie, pastor of Stewart Memorial Church. Miss Mary Laing played the wedding march.

The bride, who was unattended, and given away by Mr. Beecher Matchett, looked pretty in a costume of lace over white satin, trimmed with real Irish lace, and seed pearls, and carried a sheaf bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful set of Persian Lamb furs and to Miss Laing, a gold brooch.

After congratulations, guests to the number of seventy-five, partook of a dainty wedding supper. The tables were prettily decorated with smilax, roses and carnations.

Amid showers of rice and confetti, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left for their home, the bride attired in a suit of navy blue serge and black velvet hat with large black plume and tiny rosebuds.

The large number of beautiful, useful and costly presents testified to the popularity of the contracting parties. Their many friends in Peterboro and vicinity wish them a long and happy life.

That the day when the police woman is to be a great factor in a city's betterment is at hand is predicted by the chairman of the committee of amusement resources for working girls, in New York City.

She says:—

"The good, sensible mother type, who understand life, not from the sociological, but from the human point of view, one taught by experience — a married woman, and a mother if possible—that is the police woman for our work.

"There will be plenty of work for them without interfering with or usurping the maintenance of order or patrol duty. The men can do that. But the amusement centres, the dance halls, the beaches in the summer, the moving picture shows, the street corners—these are the places where women police officials may introduce the ounce of prevention in social troubles that is worth a pound of cure.

"It is only natural that women are better adapted to deal with problems affecting women than are men. Men do not see the approaches of evil as do women, who know what a young girl's life and temptations are.

"Four years I worked at the other end of the rope helping girls who had gone wrong. Now I believe in reaching a girl before it is too late, and that is just where the police-woman is going to be of great service.

"Too many men take it for granted that a girl who is apparently indiscreet is bad. They are apt to regard the wayward girl cynically, as lost and beyond help.

"Women realize that no girl is utterly lost.

Prevent things before they really happen; that is our dectrine. It is important to avoid trouble.

The executive of the Women's Council will meet Thursday afternoon, February 12, in the Board Room of the Public Library.

Yesterday afternoon from 4 o'clock to 6, the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's Church entertained the ladies of St. Paul's congregation to an informal At Home in the Sunday School room, which was prettily decorated with flowers for the occasion. The object was to promote a feeling of sociability among the members and attendants of the church. Miss Jean Hill gave several brilliant piano selections and Miss Mather, several recitations, which were much enjoyed. Delightful refreshments were served and an enjoyable time spent by all present.

ESTATE IS $31,500,000.

Strathcona's Wealth Shrank a Third in Three Years.

MONTREAL, Feb. 7. — The most reliable estimates of Lord Strathcona's estate place it at $31,500,000. Three years ago it would have been $45,000,000, the difference being attributable to shrinkage in Northern Pacific stock. The death duties will aggregate about $5,000,000.

The Messrs. Garsor of Edinburgh, Lord Strathcona's lawyers, and Mr. Sterling of New York, as administrators, will divide 7 1-2 per cent. amongst them, totalling $2,200,000.

The legacies will probably aggregate $4,000,000 apart from his daughter, Lady Strathcona, and a special provision entailed for her heirs. Thus Lady Strathcona will have control of $20,000,000 inclusive of the special provision for her heirs of $2,500,000. Her family consists of one daughter (Mrs. Kitson), married to a lieutenant in the navy; one unmarried and three sons, Donald, Harold and Arthur, the eldest of whom will become Lord Strathcona with an entail of $2,500,000 and a probable revision of $4,000,000 more.

Astronomy.

If there were any money to be made in astronomy everybody would be studying it. About all we can see is figures, and these are so big that they stagger the understanding. Every child in the United States knows how to find the north star from the pointers of the dipper, but no child can appreciate the statement that this star is distant from the earth 210,000,000,000,000 miles—two hundred and ten trillions! A railroad train traveling at one mile a minute would have to run without stopping for 479,000,000 years in order to traverse this distance. If light really travels 187,500 miles a second a ray from the north star would be thirty-six years in reaching the earth.

Right In His Face.

A group of grieving depositors stood on the sidewalk before the closed doors of a recently defunct bank. It wasn't a merry scene. One man who had lost his all was trying to brace up a colored grandpa whose white wool bobbed up and down into the folds of a bandanna.

"Don't cry, uncle," he said. "Banks burst every day, you know."

"Yes, sir; I know it, but—huh huh, huh—dis bank—huh, huh—done bus' right in mah face."—Harper's Weekly.

THE DAILY REVIEW

ESTABLISHED 1879. PETERBOROUGH, ONT., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1914. PRICE 2 CENTS

Fresh to strong westerly winds, a few local snow flurries, but generally fair today and on Tuesday, with much the same temperature.

ONLY FIVE MORE DAYS OF BOOSTER PERIOD

Every Twenty-four Hours Now Will Mean Either Success or Failure, Which of These Two Do You Wish to Be?

All but five days of this great vote offer have gone. What have you done? You must make every day count, now, if you expect to win. The Great Contest grows shorter every day now means either success or failure to you. Think of these things, candidates, and think what it would mean if after the votes were counted you should find that if you had worked a few hours during the campaign that you would have won an automobile instead of some of the smaller prizes. Think what it means to have one of the valuable prizes. Look at the great honor and distinction connected with this proposition. It is the greatest of its kind ever attempted in this part of Canada and very likely it is as large as ever will be attempted. Think what it will mean to be the winner of the grand prize.

How Many Votes Will It Take to Win?

This is the question that comes to the contest department every day. The only answer to this question,, just a few more votes than your strongest rival. That may be one, and it may be more. It all depends upon how much you have been doing since the contest was announced. One thing is certain, and that is, it will take only about one-third as many as at the last of the endeavor. This is a little warning to those who are waiting for some better opportunity, and think that some time later will count more.

Keep at It, and Success Is Yours.

The candidate that keeps working is the one that is sure to be the winner of the grand prize. Like the tortoise and the hare, it is not the more fleet of foot that always wins the race. It is the one that ever-lastingly keeps running who is usually the winner of the valuable prizes in competitions of this kind. At the present time the race is just getting interesting. Some candidates have done very well, others are waiting for tomorrow to do their best. To these candidates a word of warning is given. There is no tomorrow in this world—today is all we have in sight, and the one that expects to accomplish anything must do it today. Make resolution this week, that each day you will have more subscriptions than yesterday. Look over the past and see the idle moments that have been wasted and resolve that this great demon shall not conquer you.

Not Too Late to Enter the Contest

While the Daily Review Contest has been running for the past few days, it is not too late for a live, energetic person to enter and win the Grand Prize touring car. While there are several candidates in this little struggle for fame and fortune, there are none who have really done any great amount of work compared with what they might have done—or at least they have no results to show for the same. This seems very peculiar that in a city and surrounding territory inhabited by such progressive people some of the real energetic ones do not take hold of this great opportunity and win for themselves not only the greatest honor but the beautiful Touring Car that The Review is giving away. The Review is giving many valuable prizes and does it seem right that when opportunity knocks at your door that you do not let it in? Think of these things, and if you would like to have an automobile of your own in which to spend the summer evenings, either call us by phone or fill out the nomination blank and a representative will call and show you how it is possible to have an automobile of your own for a little of your time. It positively is not too late to enter and win.

PASSING OF DR. CALDWELL

A sudden gloom was cast over the city yesterday when it became known that Dr. William Caldwell had passed away at his residence, 201 Brock Street.

Dr. Caldwell had been in failing health since the latter part of last summer. He passed away at 7.30 yesterday morning.

He was unmarried and leaves to mourn his death, one sister, Miss Annie Caldwell of Peterboro, one half-sister, Mrs. Brodigan, of Toronto, and two half-brothers, Mr. J. C. Henderson of Rochester, and Mr. S. Henderson, of Toronto.

GLADSTONE RECALLED

Sydney Buxton Will Go to South Africa as Governor General.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The Daily News has authority to confirm the rumor, which gained currency during the past week, that Viscount Gladstone, first Governor-General of South Africa, has resigned, but learns that he will not return home immediately.

The News says that the Rt. Hon. Sydney Chas. Buxton, President of the Board of Trade, will succeed him and receive a peerage, and that Rt. Hon. C. F. Masterman will enter the Cabinet as successor to Mr. Buxton. The News also predicts that other Cabinet changes are imminent.

The Cape Town correspondent of The London Daily Mail says that Viscount Gladstone's retirement is due to the state of his health, and is in no way connected with the recent industrial crisis.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR SERVICE

"Opportunities for Service," formed the subject of a very interesting and instructive address to about 60 members of the Life Problem Club of the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon by Mr. E. S. Webb, physical director of the Y.M.C.A. at Orillia. The speaker's vivid interpretation of life's opportunities offered many valuable hints for the members of the club.

CONVENTION CLOSES.

REDUCES RATES FOR LIGHTING

Power Company Declares Battle Against the Hydro

CONSUMERS BENEFIT

BRANTFORD, Feb. 9.—The crash has come. The Western Counties Electric Company has reduced its lighting rates. It might be presumed that the inspiration to the Cataract interests to give Brantford lower rates came from the introduction of Hydro Electric. In fact it is frankly admitted that there is no libel in making such a statement.

Here are the new rates:

Six cents per kilowatt hour with a discount of 10 per cent. for prompt payment. This discount is secured by those signing a one year contract.

In case a consumer signs a five year contract he gets a discount of 20 per cent.

There will be no more meter rentals and charges will be based entirely on current used. It is further annoucned with a flourish that there will be no floor space charge.

As regards commercial lighting, the Company officials state that it is reduced by 50 or 60 per cent. and is based on the installed lighting capacity.

The former domestic lighting rate was 8 1-2 cents per kilowatt. The company says that unless anyone ties up to contract, this rate will still apply. They must have a contract, preferably of course, a long term affair. The decision to reduce was arrived at some time ago, but as will be noticed, was not carried into effect until Hydro has been partially turned out for domestic use.

Hydro Electric officials have anticipated a fight and are prepared for it. They declare that present Hydro prices are lower than the reduced rate offered by the private company. At any rate they submit that Cataract reduction is one of the first benefits secured from the introduction of Hydro and a benefit long deferred. It is estimated that the Western Counties Company has over 6,000 light users in this city.

CLAIMS HUSBAND DOES NOT GIVE SUPPORT FOR FAMILY

Husband Says he Has Done all he Intends to, as he Leaves Court

FROZEN POTATOES

Once more the troubles of the family were aired in court, when Harry Castle appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning on the charge of non-support. The case was enlarged for one week. Mr. G. N. Gordon defended the accused, and Mr. V. J. McElderry acted for Mrs. Castle, the complainant.

"I've done all I intend to do, and it's jail for mine," remarked Castle as he left the court room.

"Yes, if I were a man I'd lick you," retorted the angry seventeen-year-old daughter.

"It's a man's job," announced the parent.

"I don't know about that," admonished the husky fifteen-year-old son, who eyed his father.

The Evidence

Both counsels requested for a private hearing, and after some hesitation, Magistrate Dumble spoke to the spectators and suggested as it was a family matter, that they leave.

Mrs. Castle said she was the wife of Harry Castle, and had been married since 1892. They had two children. She thought her husband was a carpenter. He earns in the neighborhood of $86 per month, said the wife.

"Who owns the house?" enquired Mr. McElderry.

"My husband, he is paying for it. He has not been living with us for the past month. My daughter earns $5 a week, and my son $1.00 per day. Both live at home."

"The girl" she said "had given her all her wages since her husband had left her."

The son contributed about three or four dollars a week to the upkeep of the family. She had only received $5 from her husband since he left her a month ago. She had no money on hand at present, and was very much in need of money. Her husband had supplied her with a half ton of coal, but she paid for it out of the $5. The money she had been receiving, was insufficient for her support.

"You must prove that they really necessitate assistance," remarked Magistrate Dumble.

"How much have you received from the children?" asked her counsel.

"About six dollars."

"Well, you said $5 and $3 a while ago," remarked Mr. Gordon.

"Oh, well, I paid out some money for some furs for the girl.

Questioned by her counsel, Mr. McElderry, witness could not accurately say how much money she had received. Their food and fuel was exhausted, and the home barren of necessities. She expected to get $4 today "You can collect all their money, they are infants," remarked Mr. Gordon.

This resulted in the fifteen-year-old son jumping to his feet with a grunt and stalking from the court room, slamming the door. The girl also voiced her sentiments with disfavor. The youth returning, was admonished by His Worship if he did not leave quietly, he would be locked up.

"What's this check for $10 that came to the house?" questioned Mr. Gordon.

"I have it."

"Are you willing to hand it over?"

"No, sir."

"Are you willing to endorse it to your wife?" he asked the husband.

"No sir."

The wife claimed it was her boy's.

"Where did you get the money?" asked Mr. Gordon.

"From my own boy."

"Your husband left you after the last police court case?"

"Yes."

You told him that instead of another assault case in police court, it would be a murder case."

"I didn't."

The wife denied that her husband had left food for her and the children.

"Tell us how much the children have given you."

"Well, I am here to tell the truth and I can't remember."

The 17-year-old daughter in her evidence, stated that today was the second pay that had passed since her father had left a month ago. She had given $10 to her mother. The daughter then outlined the various articles they needed. They had no meat, and never did have unless her father wanted a good feed and bought meat and cooked it himself. She had to have clothes and like the other poverty stricken people, she was forced to buy on the instalment plan. The daughter offered to bet Mr. Gordon that he didn't eat frozen potatoes. She also asked Mr. Gordon if he had a daughter, would he make her support him.

The son said he earned $1 per day. His last pay was $10.65. He gave all but 65 cents to his mother. It was about a month today since his father left. He was up every month.

To. Mr. Gordon, he said he had been working since he was 13 years old. At present he was greatly in need of clothes and shoes.

His Worship thought that things might work out satisfactorily during the week, so he enlarged the case.

"PLANK" SMUGGLED IN

Exemption of U. S. Ships Not a Basic Democrat Doctrine

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The provision favoring free passage for American ships through the Panama Canal was injected into the Democratic platform without the knowledge of the majority of the resolutions committee at the Baltimore convention, according to the assertion yesterday of Representative Adamson of Georgia, chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Commission. He had met but three or four members of the convention, he said, who knew of the existence of the tolls plank before the platform was promulgated.

Branding the tolls exemption provision as "heretic doctrine" Adamson issued a statement Saturday paving the way for congressional debate on a repealing bill, to be introduced in accordance with the determination of President Wilson that the United States should recognize the claim of Great Britain exemption for American ships is in violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

Senator O'Gorman, who will fight the repeal provision in the Senate, and Representative Broussard of Louisiana, the Senator-elect from that state, were members of a subcommittee at Baltimore, which wrote the tolls exemption plan into the platform. It was done, it was stated on Saturday, without the consent of a majority of the full committee or Secretary of State Byran, chairman of the resolutions committee.

"I am not at all troubled about the cry," said Representative Adamson, "that repealing the exemption violates the Democratic platform. A subsidy is not a cardinal doctrine of the Democratic party. In fact that exemption is a contradictory interjection into an anti-subsidy plank in the platform and is utterly void.

CLAIM FOR $400 IN COUNTY COURT

Judgment in Complicated Case is Reserved.

Before His Honor Judge Huycke in the County Court on Saturday afternoon, Mr. G. Revellos of Toronto entered action against Mr. M. Pappas, agent for Mrs. Pappas, his wife, to recover $400. The case arose out of a business deal concerning the leasing of a shoeshine parlor on Queen Street, Toronto, which belonged to Mr. Miles Vokes, of that city.

It appears that Revellos had had possession of the store for some time, but intended to retire from that line, and he asked Mr. Vokes to release him from the agreement. This was done in writing. Revellos then sold the fittings of the premises to Mr. Pappas for $1200, and the latter thought that the lease was included.

Mr. Vokes, the owner of the property, rented the store to another party and before Mr. Pappas took leave of the building the contract between the new tennant and Vokes was broken, thus causing expense to the latter. Mr. Vokes then sued Pappas in Toronto and the latter had to pay $115 for rent and the damages for the broken contract. Mr. Pappas was then aware that he could not legally remain in possession of the store for which he paid the $1200 so he stopped payment on his last check of $400, and it was for this that Revellos was suing. Mr. Godfrey of Godfrey & Robinette, of Toronto, acted for the plaintiff, while Mr. D. O'Connell of O'Connell & Corkery, defended Pappas.

Mr. Revellos when called to the stand, gave great evidence of his ignorance about Canadian business matters. He swore that he didn't know what he was signing when he signed the document drawn up by Lawyer Hall of Toronto, which gave Pappas the fittings and also a lease on the property. Pappas had not asked him how long the lease was good for, and if he did, he could not have answered him as he didn't know.

Mr. Pappas, the defendant, when called to the stand, stated that he was acting as agent for his wife. He arranged with Revellos to buy the business and understood the lease was included, but he didn't know just how long. He denied anyone ever mentioning that it was for less than two months.

Lawyer Hall was called to the stand, and stated that he did the business for the two men in the case, but didn't mention lease to either of them. He had however, heard some one of the two, or the two men who were with them, mention something about two months, but just what the connection was, he did not know.

Several other witnesses were called to the stand and it was clear from their evidence that neither Pappas nor Revellos understood much about the transaction.

His Honor reserved judgment.

APPEAL OF STEAMSHIP COMPANY IS DISMISSED

Clause Exempting the Company From Liability is Invalid

Canadian Press Despatch.

London, Feb. 9.—The Court of Appeal to-day dismissed the appeal of the White Star Steamship Company on a decision from the King's bench, given out last June, declaring illegal the condition printed on steamship tickets exempting the company from liability for loss even though the negligence of the company's servants.

This case was brought on by an Irish farmer, claiming damages for the loss of a son in the Titanic disaster.

In delivering judgment, Lord Justice Sir Roland Vaughan Williams said the Titanic was neither unforseen nor unforseeable and that precedent did not justify the vessel to maintain her speed when warnings of dangers ahead were such as the Titanic received. The clause on the back of tickets exempting the company from liability for negligence was invalid.

SERIOUS RIOTS IN BARCELONA

BARCELONA, Feb. 9. — An attempt was made yesterday to kill Senor Ossorio-Callardo, who was governor of Barcelona at the time of the disorders in 1909. The ex-governor escaped and, in his stead, an inoffensive citizen was shot dead.

A great mob gathered outside the building, and in spite of repeated charges of the police forced their way to an automobile in which it was supposed the ex-governor was riding. A volley of revolver shots was fired into the machine, and when the body of the victim was taken out it was found to be that of a civilian. In the meantime Senor Ossorio-Callardo drove off by a roundabout route.

Barrie Gives $50,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The reason Sir Ernest Shackleton has been able to announce that he has finally collected the necessary funds for his Antarctic expedition is that Sir J. M. Barrie, the novelist and playwright, has come forward with the remaining sum desired.

The Barrie contribution, without which the expedition would not have been possible, was made with the single stipulation that it should be kept private. The sum with which Barrie rounded out the funds deemed necessary for this newest dash to the South Pole is $50,000. The entire equipment needed can now be furnished according to the estimate of Sir Ernest Shackleton.

THE WEATHER

Although the manner in which the people were holding their ears and hustling to-day, would lead one to believe that the mercury was away down, the official report on the registration of the thermometer was only one degree this morning, while yesterday it registered five below.

CHARLOTTE ST. METHODIST TO START WITH NEW CHURCH

As soon as the weather conditions permit, operations for the erection of a new church for the Charlotte street Methodists will be commenced.

The new edifice will cost between $50,000 and $60,000, but for the present only church accommodation will be provided. The Sunday school and other church department will be conducted for some time yet in the present building.

The site for the church is that property known as the Aaron Cox property lying between Reid and Rubidge Streets and one street north of the present location.

There were no disorders on the arrival of the revolutionists from Gonaives. Congress met at two o'clock yesterday afternoon and elected Zamor President by a vote of 93 out of 105 ballots cast.

KIMBERLY HAS CHANGED HIS MIND

He Now Says he Knows Nothing About the Murder

Dr. Morgan Makes Examination and Declares Him Sane

Alfred Kimberly, the self-confessed murderer, confined to the County Jail, was examined by Jail Surgeon Dr. Morgan today and pronounced sane. In conversation with the doctor, Kimberly explained that his story was told so as to effect deportation to the Old Country. He had nothing whatever to do in connection with the crime.

Kimberly will appear before Magistrate Dumble tomorrow morning on the charge of vagrancy, but in all probability he will be remanded until word is received from the Old Country authorities regarding the affair.

While confined to jail he has shown considerable anxiety and sleeps but little. He continues to eat his meals heartily.

Thirteen more, it is expected, will pass a similar resolution at their next meetings of council, and with an array of towns, villages and townships back of the request, the commission will have no alternative but to start an immediate survey.

PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, FEB. 9, 1914.

A SANITORIUM FOR PETERBOROUGH.

THE PROPOSAL to establish a Sanitorium in Peterborough ought to be carefully considered and not lightly turned down. Whether consumption can be cured by Sanitorium methods may be doubtful, but there is no doubt that at certain early stages it can be checked in its development by such treatment . If we wait until someone comes along with a sovereign remedy we may wait a long time and many will die who might be saved by using what knowledge we have.

None of the Sanitoriums in Great Britain take in cases of advanced tubercular affection. A Sanitorium is more in the nature of a preventative, and we have no doubt but that if the people of Peterborough had the matter put explicitly before them there would be little difficulty in the way of the establishment of one of these institutions which have become as essential to a modern city as fever hospitals.

WHAT IS THE MATTER ?

THE REVELATIONS at Quebec are not much worse than the revelations of conditions of life elsewhere. Britain was stirred first with the Marconi scandal and now with the alleged "sale of honours." The truth of the matter is, that it has come to be but little disgrace to be "found out." Human nature has not changed. It is not likely that it has got worse. But formerly the dread of public opinion was such that bad men paused before taking the final plunge into wickedness. Nowadays a few liberal contributions will square the public and a small but united clique can carry through the bluff. Until we get back to calling a spade a spade and until we imitate the Almighty a little more by severely punishing transgressors, conditions will not improve.

CLEANLINESS AND GODLINESS.

THE SANITARY INSPECTOR of Peterborough referred the other day to the number of insanitary dwellings that exist in the city and described some of them as nothing better than "hen-coops," he asserted that there were families living and sleeping in one room. This latter is not merely insanitary and injurious to health, it is obviously an immoral and degrading condition and should not be permitted in a civilized community. The Sanitary Inspector of course, has no right or power to interfere in cases like this, as it does not come within his prescribed duties. But why not give him the right and the power to act, or at least to set someone else acting by making a report as to the moral conditions along with the sanitary condition. There seems to be a disposition on the part of the Council to appoint a morality officer; but we venture to think that this is an unnecessary multiplication of officials, and is only introduced in order to shelve or off-set the policewoman question. If a morality officer was appointed he would only go over the same ground as the present Sanitary Inspector. We are told that cleanliness is next to Godliness, it is also true that dirt is next to devilishness and degradation. An insanitary house, such as described above, is the breeding place for the immorality of the future. You cannot expect to breed civilized and clean-minded citizens under such barbaric conditions, which are no better and perhaps worse than the domestic life of a savage in a kraall.

Why send two men over the same ground, when one will do ? Pay one man a decent wage, so that he will feel the responsibility of his position and have some encouragement to take an interest in the city which takes an interest in him. Give him the power to act in rooting out these nests of infamy. This is no new proposition, it is done in all the large cities in Great Britain, and with a man of the ability and character of our present Sanitary Inspector we will be sure that the work will be done conscienciously and systematically.

As for the Policewoman question, that is one worth considering apart. If a man or a woman was to be appointed to look after the moral welfare of the city they would come into the work practically ignorant of the particular condition of this city. They would spend at least twelve months before they grasped the situation; whereas here is a man who has made a close study of the seamy-side of our city life and could do more in the next six months, if he got to work, than a Morality Officer or Policewoman could do in two years.

The Review is not in favor of the appointing of a Policewoman nor of a Morality Officer—the true morality officers are the ministers and deconesses of our churches. We are in favor of the appointing of a female inspector with power to act in all cases of social depravity and to remedy the conditions that are at the bottom of those evils.

While we have said in this column that the Council is as much responsible for the moral conditions of the city as for good water and sanitation, we do not mean that the people can be saved by the policeman and the sanitary inspector—or the Policewoman either. If this were so there would be no need for our schools, and our preachers would have to go out of business—and that would be an awful thing ! Our teachers and preachers are to lead men and women into the paths of righteousness and virtue, and our inspectors and policemen are to force those into that path who refuse to be led. If these two forces—pressure and persuasion—were to work together harmoniously and diligently some real good might be done..

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SPEAKING on the subject of the present revolt against pain, Dean Inge said that everybody felt Christian sympathy with those who perished on the Titanic; but surely the groan of horror that arose from the whole people, and the letters that were written asking how the disaster could be reconciled with belief in a good God, was carrying humanitarianism and dread of suffering and death to an extent much too far and too unmanly.

MARQUIS DE SOVERAL, former Portuguese Minister at London, says former King Manuel authorizes the denial of the story printed in New York and elsewhere to the effect that he had renounced his claims to the throne of Portugal. The former King says the story of his abdication is absolutely unfounded and preposterous. The question as to whether he has renounced the throne of Portugal or not is not important; the trouble is that Portugal has renounced him.

MRS. TOM THUMB is reported seriously ill at Latrobe, Pa., and her manager has cancelled her engagements in Kent, and other Ohio towns. She may never be seen in public again owing to her condition. She is seventy-two years old, and has appeared before the public for fifty-six years in every civilized land. How many people knew Mrs. Thumb had any existence in these days outside of a fairy tale book—penny plain and twopence coloured ?

"WOULD YOU ACCEPT the position of Canadian High Commissioner in London ?" The News asked Hon. Adam Beck on Friday last.

Mr. Beck laughed heartily and replied: "Don't you think I would be in a better position to answer that if the honor were offered to me?"

"Well, if it is offered to you, will you take it ?"

"You had better come and see me again some time about that," replied Mr. Beck as he walked away in high good humor.

Mr. Beck has been threatened with all the vacant offices of importance recently. It must be tantalizing.

MARIE LLOYD, the English comedienne, called at the office of the World newspaper and viciously attacked L. D. Taylor, the editor, and a former Mayor of Vancouver. The police were sent for and a big crowd had gathered before the trouble was stopped. Marie used a heavy trunk strap and struck Mr. Taylor several sharp blows across the face before bystanders interfered. The singer was enraged at an article in the World criticizing her performance in a local theatre, and referring to her difficulties at the hands of the American immigration officials. We just state the above facts without further comment lest "Sweet Marie" should come to Peterborough.

WHAT THE WORLD IS SAYING

The Actor Scientist.

Brockville Times.

An English school-boy wrote in an examination paper:

"The circulation of the blood was invented by Martin Harvey."

Hardly; but Martin Harvey has certainly stimulated the circulation of the blood of a great number of the human race by his remarkable ability as an actor.

Whose is the Credit ?

Kingston Standard.

How is it that the Opposition does not claim credit for the introduction of the Parcel Post ? They can say, however, they did think of it, and did nothing. They can also say this as regards the Navy Bill, and the high cost of living.

Those Phantom Ships !

John Bull.

What did we tell you? The Bill for the addition of three Dreadnoughts to the British Navy "is not to be reintroduced at present." And Mr. Churchill, as an official statement, delcared that these ships were vital to the safety of the Empire. And Mr. Bonar Law actually asked for a date to vote an Address of thanks to the Dominion for its gift . And do you notice the essentially English name of the leader of the opposition to the Bill—Laurier ? Talk about Canada as a great British Colony! "Steward !"

Our Canadian Clubs.

Brockville Times.

A number of esteemed Liberal contemporaries had their finer feelings horribly lacerated when at a Canadian Club dinner in Ottawa some months ago Sir Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, boldly declared that Canada should aid the British navy immediately and substantially. The Liberal editors declared that never, no never had there been such a dreadful piece of bad manners—and right under the august nose of Sir Wilfrid Laurier too!

And now we regret to report Sir Wilfrid Laurier has actually had the termerity to talk Reciprocity politics at a Canadian Club dinner given to ex-President Taft in Ottawa ! It is said that the company showed resentment, and that many of Sir Wilfrid's followers were deeply pained at the Old Chieftain's indiscretion.

Why make any fuss about what either Sir Wilfrid Laurier or Sir Richard McBride said about reciprocity or the navy ? They simply gave their own honest opinion on two important national issues in which evehy Canadian is interested. Why be so thin-skinned as to object to a little honest opinion, especially at a Canadian Club dinner ?

We fail to see why any serious objection should be taken to the remarks either of Sir Richard McBride or Sir Wilfrid Laurier. If the Canadian Club members cannot stand such utterances they ought to design and join a vegetarian club or a Nestle's Food Club. It is said that in many places the local Canadian Clubs are languishing owing to lack of attendance. The reason probably is that the members have got tired of milk-and-water topics, back-to-the-land essays, and exaltations of Canada and the Canadians, and require something with more zip to it to keep them interested.

CANDIDATES

By Walt Mason

The candidates are coming forth, a fierce and noisy crew, and East and West, and South and North, they sound the loud bazoo; they sound the loud bazoo, my friends, the same familiar notes, and ere the weary campaign ends they'll have our divers goats. They're weeping for the men who slave with sweat upon their brows; the starry flag again they wave, and vow the same old vows; they vow the same old vows, my boys, we heard in days of youth; they so beguile us with their noise, we think they speak the truth. And so we'll all neglect our work, and waste the golden days, to hear the ten cent modern Burke goldbrick the easy jays; goldbrick the easy jays, my lads, and fill us full of bunk, when we should work to earn the scads, likewise the bone and plunk. They'll teach us that our fate depends on going to the polls, and voting for our windy friends who spring long rigmaroles; who spring long rigmaroles, my dears, but never ply the saw; who never yield the spade or shears—they only wield the jaw. They'll fool us with the same old tricks, and lead us by the nose, and we shall look to politics for cures for all our woes; for cures for all our woes, my chums, which statesmanship can't help; and when the day of waking comes, just watch us whine and yelp!

THE MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO. OF CANADA

For nearly half a century The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada has been quietly, yet insistently, pressing its claims upon the attention of the Canadian people. The policy of the Company has been to combine progressive with conservative methods. The result is that from ocean to ocean the name of The Mutual Life of Canada has become a household word, and is everywhere a synonym for commercial integrity and justice. Now, after these many years the policy of the Company is beginning to bear its natural fruit, and new business almost unsolicited is being written.

It has been said that some men have fame thrust upon them, and with a slight modification this might be applied to The Mutual, which has literally during the last few years had business thrust upon it. In proof of which we may say that, though it was a matter of congratulation for the Directors to report a 10 per cent. increase in the amount of new business written in 1912 over that of the preceding year, this ratio of increase leaped up to 30 per cent. in 1913, and this without the use of what are known as "hot house" or "high-pressure" methods. The business of the Company in force at the end of the year amounted to $87,392,026, representing a net increase over that of the preceding year of $9,470,882.

The assets of the Company have increased step by step with the progress of the Company in other respects, and today The Mutual holds in securities of the very highest quality $22,252,724, representing a surplus by the Dominion Government's 1915 standard of $3,816,612.65.

The Company has been fortunate in another matter of vital importance, viz.: its mortality experience. The reserves are calculated on the basis of the mortality indicated in the standard Government tables, but fortunately they have had a mortality loss of less than 46 per cent. of the expected during the past year. This is a matter of moment to every individual policyholder of the Mutual Life, and of course in all prospective policyholders, as it indicates the extreme care taken in the selection of lives protected by The Mutual Life.

The year has been a phenomenal one in many respects. While some companies on the continent on account of the financial stringency which prevailed, have been suffering severely in the amount of business, and their agency staffs complaining bitterly of cancelled applications and lapses. The Mutual Life of Canada with no undue effort, has had altogether the most successful year since it was instituted in 1869.

Birthdays of Note

MONDAY, FEBRUARY NINTH

The Hon. Arthur Boyer of Montreal, member of the Dominion Senate and a man who is deeply interested in art and agriculture, is celebrating his sixty-third birthday to-day. He was born and brought up in Montreal and when quite a young man was elected to the provincial legislature. The late Premier Mercier was impressed with his abilities and gave him a seat in his cabinet, though without portfolio. Later he was given charge of important missions for the Canadian government and five years ago was elevated to the Senate. At the time the former lieutenant-governor's term expired, Mr. Boyer was mentioned for the position.

CAUGHT BY A POSTAL TRAP.

The "Twopenny Detective" is Often Employed in England.

Detectives, lawyers' clerks and others often experience great difficulty in obtaining an undoubted specimen of a certain person's signature. In one case recourse had to be had to a marriage register. In another the only signature procurable was on the fly leaf of a book which the suspect had presented to a relative, and only two or three years ago a testimonial to a sea captain was brought into court, because among the signatures to it was one for which the police had long hunted in vain.

One of the most common expedients resorted to for overcoming this difficulty is employing the "twopenny detective"—that is, sending a registered letter to the person whose signature is wanted. And this is frequently successful. Thinking the postal packet contains money or valuables, the addressee unsuspectingly signs the receipt only to discover that inside the envelope there is nothing but a "faked" letter.

This trap once caught an anonymous letter writer—a woman—who, on being interrogated shortly before, had declared that she could not write, and whose friends believed her to be illiterate. It was, in fact, mainly instrumental in getting her six months' imprisonment.

The receipt for a registered letter, it should be carefully noted, is not given up to anybody, but can be obtained only in certain cases to further the ends of justice.—London Tit-Bits.

THE AUTOMOBILE BACK.

Medical Advice Shewing How It May Be Avoided.

The automobile is coming into such general use that any advice to its users is of general interest.

A great many people in cranking their cars strain their back or "drop a stitch," and if this is once started it usually happens more easily another time. Many people, after riding for any length of time, are tired in the back when they get out. If this is kept up the pain or weakness increases until many times the person is laid up with what is called lumbago or rheumatism. Both of these conditions are commonly due to the wrong way of using the muscles of the back.

In cranking keep the back straight, like "the oarsman's back." Bend from the hips, snapping the crank over by straightening at knee and hip, but do not bend at the middle or the waist line.

In sitting in the car keep the back straight also. Get the hips well back against the back of the seat, and, if the upholstery make the shoulders droop put a robe, a cushion, a book or anything at the hollow of the back to prevent this. Do not slouch in the seat and do not sit on the lower part of the spine. This reverses the normal curves of the spine and must mean strain, with at times much crippling.—Journal of American Medical Association.

WIRELESS WAVES.

Puzzling Problems With Which Scientists Have to Contend.

What we don't know about wireless telegraphy is still by far the larger part of that science. Practical efforts to use this means of communication are constantly hampered by difficulties that cannot be overcome or only partially overcome by clumsy makeshifts because they are not understood.

For example, the characterization of the waves used in wireless telegraphy as artificial is justified because the ether is in a state of constant pulsation with waves of enormous length about whose origin we know nothing or next to nothing. Some of them are due undoubtedly to lightning, but they are continuously rolling in on antennae properly tuned when there is no thunderstorm within thousands of miles. It has been suggested that they are of extra terrestrial origin, perhaps the result of electrical disturbances in the sun. Some ingenious speculators have even attributed them to the Martians or some other of our planetary neighbors.

But the fact is that we don't know where they come from or how they are generated. They manifest themselves in the shape of troublesome noises in the telephone receivers at wireless telegraph stations. Another puzzling question, perhaps of more practical importance to the wireless worker, is the action of the weather on his trains of waves. When these signals have long distances to travel the weather often plays havoc with them in ways as yet not well understood. The different carrying capacity of the ether in the daytime and at night is another practical problem still awaiting definite solution.—New York Post.

A Doctor's Story

The Problem That Grew Out of a Queer Night Call

This is a story, told by a well known physician, of a problem that suddenly confronted him and how he interpreted the ethics of his profession and acted on it.

"I was roused one night," he said, "by a telephone call. An unfamiliar voice asked me if I could attend a man who had been injured. I answered that I could if the case was urgent, but before I could ask who was calling the speaker answered:

"'All right, doctor; I'll call at your house in ten minutes with a carriage.'

"Almost before I had time to dress the doorbell rang. I unlocked the door, and a man wearing a long ulster, a dark hat and a pair of colored glasses entered.

"'Doctor,' he said, 'before we start I want to make a request. This case, as I told you, is urgent. But before we start I must have your assurance that you will treat this visit as a confidential mission. I can't say any more, except to add that you're running no risk of any kind in helping me.'

"There was nothing about the man's appearance that seemed suspicious. He was quiet and self possessed. There wasn't a trace of nervousness about him, and he was well dressed. I thought there was no reason for refusing to make the agreement.

"I took my hat, and we started. The carriage was a closed one. We got in; the man turned on a small electric light and then drew the blinds over the windows.

"'Doctor,' he said, 'I'm going to ask you to take this trip without knowing where you're going. I'll assure you it's all right. I want you to blindfold yourself before we leave the carriage until we get inside the house.'

"Well, I didn't like the look of this, but I was in and didn't like to back out. By the time the carriage stopped I didn't have the least idea what part of the town we were in, he had made so many turns. I put on the blindfold, as my visitor requested, and we went into a house.

"Upstairs I found my patient. He had been shot twice. Revolver bullets they were. The wounds weren't dangerous, but they were painful because they had not been treated earlier.

"I dressed them, told the woman who was there what sort of care the patient ought to have and then told them that I'd have to see the man at least two or three times more before I could answer for his safe recovery.

"The man with the dark glasses quietly assented to this, but insisted that he should bring me at night, as he had that time. I agreed.

"The next morning the papers told of a robbery in which a householder had been wounded after shooting one of the burglars, who succeeded in escaping. All the facts of the case indicated that my patient of the night before was the burglar who had been shot. The householder recovered quickly.

"The question stared at me: Did the ethics of the medical profession allow me to go to the police and tell them what I knew, or did my promise bind me to secrecy? I thought it over all day and finally decided that I had no right to say anything about the matter. I made three more trips in the same manner. All this time I watched the papers, but no trace was found of the burglars. When I made my last visit I told the man who had first called me that my fee would be $50. He took from a large roll some bills and handed them to me without a word. He drove me home, and that was the last I ever saw of either of them.

"That was a good many years ago, but I've often wondered whether I did right in not violating that man's confidence."

"I don't think you did," said a member of the group. "The medical profession has no right to shield a criminal. Women and children should be given the greatest protection we can give them, but no word given a criminal is binding."

"But suppose it had turned out that the man was not the burglar in question? I believe he was, but it might have been otherwise."

"That's true," said a third. "It was all right to keep your promise so long as you had no actual knowledge that the man was a criminal. Where you made your mistake was in making such a ridiculous agreement in the first place."

"And let a man, dangerously injured, suffer?" asked the first speaker. "Remember, when I first agreed to secrecy the case had no particularly suspicious appearance. I could cite a dozen different circumstances in which a serious accident might happen and which the persons connected with would, with a perfect right, go to great lengths to keep secret. So could either of you."

Which of the three was right?—New York Telegraph.

SURE SIGNS OF DEATH.

Guided by Them, There Is Little Danger of Premature Burial.

There is a widespread belief among educated persons that burial while still alive is, though not probable, at least possible. As evidence of this belief one has but to notice how many persons leave instructions in their wills for the taking of special precautions to guard against this most dreadful of catastrophies.

When embalming takes place, of course, there is no possibility of being buried alive, yet being killed by embalming fluid instead of being allowed to revive and spend many more years on earth is not the fate one would select.

Although there is but one infallible sign of death—namely, putrefaction—yet there are many other signs, no one of which is incontrovertible, yet that when taken together, even in the absence of putrefaction, make the diagnosis absolutely sure.

The heart may stop beating, but this does not necessarily mean that the patient is dead. The writer recalls a case in his personal observation when a woman's heart stopped beating thirty-four times in twelve hours and each time was started up again by injections of brandy and of nitroglycerin. That is more than six years ago, and the woman is alive and strong today.

It is often very difficult to tell the precise moment of death, but when the heart refuses to respond to stimulation, when the body becomes rigid, when the blood coagulates and the eyeballs become flaccid and lose their tension, then there is no doubt that death has come. The greatest safeguard against premature burial is the length of time that in this country elapses before the body is consigned to the ground.—New York World.

ROAR OF THE THUNDER.

Its Length and Strength Depend Upon the Lightning Flash.

Lightning is the glare of a prodigious electric spark that is turned loose from some place no longer strong enough to hold it and forms a tremendous blazing arc as it leaps from cloud to cloud or from cloud to earth. The little spark of a laboratory machine makes a crackling noise, and the gigantic one in the sky makes a correspondingly great one as it tears through the air and sets up vibrations of tremendous intensity.

But it is noticeable in a thunderstorm that the thunderclaps are of very different loudness and quality of sound. The length and strength of a thunder peal, as a meteorologist points out in Knowledge, depend mainly on the size of the accompanying lightning discharge, but the loudness and sharpness of the crack that comes before the peal depend chiefly on the direction taken by the electric current relative to the hearer.

The first crack or rending noise comes from the flash itself; the peal that follows consists of echoes from the clouds or mountain sides when hills are near. Furthermore, the noise of the actual flash comes to us from all along the lightning's path. We hear first that at the beginning of the flash and later the noise made toward the end of its path. When this is short and we are so situated with reference to it that the whole report reaches our ears almost simultaneously, say in a quarter of a second, it sounds like one terrific thump or crash. But if the electric arc is long and the noise takes two or three seconds to reach us completely it translates itself into a long, tearing roar. Thus you may judge of the character of a lightning flash from its own report of proceedings.

A Useless Pause.

Calhoun Clay was getting married. Little and lean, he stood at the altar beside a tall and robust bride of 180 pounds or more. The ceremony proceeded regularly until in the bride's reply the words "to love, honor and obey" were pronounced.

At this juncture Bridegroom Calhoun Clay held up his right hand. A pause ensued. In the silence Calhoun said:

"Excuse me, pahson, but Ah would have us wait a moment an' let de full solemnity o' de words sink in—especially de last two. Ah's been married befo'."—Washington Star.

Persian Bread.

The Persian native bread today is very little different from that used a thousand years ago. The Persian oven is built of smooth masonry work in the ground and is usually about the size of a barrel. Many of them have been used for a century. The dough is formed into thin sheets about a foot long and two feet wide and slapped against the side of the oven. It bakes in a few minutes.

Dramatic Progress.

"What became of that play you wrote five years ago?"

"The managers decided it was too daring to produce."

"Send it on again."

"I did. They say it's too tame now."—Pittsburgh Post.

A Cruel Dig.

Dolly—No, dear, I can't go any place with Molly. I hate her, the cat! Polly—But, darling, you used to be chummy with her. What did she do? Dolly—She told me a lot of the nasty things you said about me, dear.—Cleveland Leader.

Erudite.

"Oh, baby," exclaimed the Boston mother, "what does make you cry so?"

"I really cannot say," was the unexpected answer. "I have never indulged in introspection."

THE FRUGAL PAST

A Pair of Trousers Went a Long Way In the Good Old Days.

WAIL OF A MAN IN A GROUCH.

His Wife's Reckless Gift to a Tramp of One of His Battered Castoff Garments Moved Him to a Touching Discourse on the Vice of Extravagance.

"A poor man came to the door this afternoon and asked if I had any old clothes I could spare," said Mrs. Jamesworthy. "I gave him those gray trousers of yours, as they were too badly worn out for you to use them again. They were all faded and full of holes."

"The next time you undertake to distribute my raiment among the proletariat, Mrs. Jamesworthy," returned her grouchy husband, "you might at least consult me. You are assuming altogether too much when you take it for granted that I am done with a pair of trousers. As things are going now in the business world I find it expedient to wear such garments so long as there is any way to fasten my suspenders to them.

"Times are growing worse and worse, and the financial stringency is breaking all records, and the man who strives to support his family has troubles enough without coming home to find that the wife of his bosom has given his purple and fine linen to somebody's wandering boy.

"I had expected to get two seasons' wear out of those trousers, and I had a sentimental fondness for them, as I wore those trousers on that red letter day when, three years ago, I stood in the White House and proudly shook hands with the illustrious president of this great and glorious republic. I hoped to hand them down to my children's children, so that when I am cold in my grave they might contemplate those historic trousers with streaming eyes and recall the glorious occasion I have referred to. Now I no longer have a souvenir of my meeting with the president, and posterity is robbed of a great privilege by reason of your heedless course.

"I'd never think of giving away anything of yours without your approval, Mrs. Jamesworthy. Time and again I have been tempted to call in some poor but respectable widow with a large family to support and give her your false hair, which has become an eyesore to me, as I find it lying around wherever I go, but I felt it would be doing you an injustice and refrained. Yet when an unknown hobo comes to our door asking for refreshments you hand him my cherished trousers, which are more to me than pride of ancestry or pomp of power.

"Your action is a fair sample of the extravagance which keeps men forever walking in the shadow of the poorhouse. I have no doubt that my sainted mother would roll over in her grave if she could know of such doings. Under her wise and skillful management my father had a chance to accumulate a few piasters for his old age. He wore his trousers until they were full of holes; then my mother took them and half soled them and made them as good as new, and he wore them for another term of years until it was impossible to tell what their original color might have been.

"When they were too far gone for further use mother made them over so the older son could wear them, and when he had used them five or six years there still was enough sound material in them to make a pair for the youngest son. I was that youngest son, and all through my boyhood and even in early manhood I was wearing expurgated editions of my father's trousers.

"You may make as many faces as you please, Mrs. Jamesworthy, and point the finger of scorn until the cows come home, but that doesn't change the fact that it was economy of this sort that kept our parents in ignorance of such things as the bankruptcy court and the associated charities. When I had worn those historic trousers for a few summers and winters, until they would answer the purpose no longer, my mother cut them up into strips and made rag carpets of them, and those rag carpets were more sensible and more serviceable than the tailor made affairs you have strewn over these floors.

Concrete Bells.

The peculiar vibratory or nonvibratory properties of concrete are strikingly shown in bells made of this material. A bell cast in concrete will ring almost like a metal bell, but a slight touch of the hand serves immediately to stop vibration and the resulting sound. This is due to the lack of homogeneity from the standpoint of sound transmission.—London Standard.

WEIRD TALE OF THE SEA.

When Death Was Cheated by a Rope's End in a Raging Gale.

Few living men have ever looked death so square in the face as a certain Captain Hodson, who was for years connected with the customs service at Honolulu. Before that he was a shipmaster, and the remarkable adventure of which he was the hero occurred while he was in command of a schooner that traded in the Pacific.

On this occasion the vessel was several days out from land, in the midst of the ocean, when it was overtaken by a severe gale and thick weather. For a time Captain Hodson tried to keep the schooner's head up into the wind, but the storm became so violent that there was nothing for it but to run before the gale. He brought the vessel about and, pursued by a heavy following sea, scudded it under almost bare poles to the northward.

The captain himself stood by the wheel to give the helmsman directions. The rest of the crew, having made everything as secure as possible, were crouched in the lee of the deck house.

A flaw in the wind took the schooner aback for a moment, and in that instant a tremendous wave that was following close behind mounted over the bulwarks and swept several feet deep from stern to bow.

Every one but the captain had something at hand to cling to, although the wave wrenched the man at the wheel from his hold and threw him on his face. However, he brought up against the deck house and scrambled to his feet just in time to see the rushing water carry Captain Hodson overboard.

Hodson's case was as nearly hopeless as it could well be, for it was, of course, quite impossible to put out a boat in such a sea or even to bring the schooner about to pick him up. But at the very moment that the catastrophe happened the ropes that held the gaff of the foremast in place broke and let the stick drop to the deck. One end hung out over the side of the schooner, and several broken ropes dangled from it. As Captain Hodson swept by these rope ends struck him on the head. Instinctively he seized one of them and clung to it with desperation.

The schooner tore on through the water, and her master at the end of the dangling rope was drawn in close under her bulwarks and dragged along through the waves. He could not have long withstood this sort of treatment, for the sea beat him about fiercely and flung him again and again against the side of the vessel.

But presently a gust of wind lurched the schooner well over, her lee rail plunged beneath the water, and at the same instant another wave picked the captain up and tossed him sprawling on the sloping deck. Battered as he was, he had enough strength left to seize the standing rigging and cling to it, while the water poured back again into the sea.

The helmsman had seen Captain Hodson swept away to death, as he firmly believed, and his astonishment at seeing him back again on deck may be imagined. Hodson was not seriously injured by his experience, and his vessel weathered the storm and brought her cargo safe into port.—Youth's Companion.

The Gaelic Tongue.

The Gaelic language was once spoken by a considerable number of the human race in the British isles, the Isle of Man, northern France and Spain. There is evidence that the Gaelic branch of the Celtic breed was widespread. For instance, it is maintained by some excellent authorities that the Cimbri, who threatened at one time to overwhelm Rome and who were stopped by Marius, were of Gaelic speech. The ancient language is found today in the Isle of Man, Wales, the highlands of Scotland, western Ireland and in Brittany, northern France.—New York American.

Great In Little Things.

George Washington's surveying done 150 years ago with the comparatively simple instruments of the day has been checked up by government surveyors of today and found perfect. Experts in other lines might check up other works and qualities of his—his patriotism, his common sense, his foresight, his persistence—and find pretty nearly the same degree of excellence. Washington was only nineteen years old when he ran his lines through the forests and over the hills of Lord Fairfax's estate in Virginia. But the youth was father to the man.—Baltimore Sun.

Gigantic Neptune.

Neptune, owing to its remoteness, shines as an eighth magnitude star. Its diameter is 35,000 miles, or a little more than Uranus. Its mean distance from the sun is 2,746,000,000 miles. It has one satellite, which revolves at a distance of 220,000 miles, or about the same distance as our moon. However, of the planet itself we know very little, but it seems probable that it is little more than a globe of very heavy gas.

SUNDAY SERVICES AND SERMONS

THE CHURCH AND MASSES ARE NOT IN SYMPATHY

Rev. Robert Pogue Quotes the Reasons of Working Men for Not Going to Church

Rev. Robert Pogue last evening continued a series of sermons on Social Problems, the first of which he preached the Sunday previous. The subject for last night was "The Church and the Social Question." He quoted at length the reasons offered by working men as to why they did not take an interest in the Church.

Among which were the following:

Too much churchianity and not enough Christianity.

Too much collection box. A working man is too self-respecting to have the box stuck in front of him twice on Sunday and not give something.

Ministers cater and preach only to the rich.

The churches are not interesting and attractive.

A general feeling that the churches are largely controlled by the wealthy and are conducted as social clubs, and that the clergy and members are not in sympathy with the toiling masses.

The churches are full of men who are a disgrace to the religion taught by the founder of Christianity.

The churches are hostile to labor.

The churches are totally indifferent to the working masses' material welfare.

Preachers do not understand the social question or they are afraid to preach on it.

Mr. Pogue said that he by no means endorsed all these things. But they represented the feeling of the masses outside the churches, and there was a good deal of truth in the charges. He said the problem for the church was to retrieve the ground lost and to show that it was the working man's best friend.

There was no doubt that the labor movement was being carried on by many men who were entirely out of sympathy with the churches, and for the most part atheists.

Mr. Pogue in an eloquent appeal, said that the social movement would be futile and ineffectual without the guidance of religion, and he urged workingmen present to ally themselves with the church and for church members of all classes to study more sympathetically the social wrongs of the masses.

MORNING SERVICE

"If Christ Came to Peterboro," was the title which the Rev. R. Pogue took for his sermon on Sabbath morning in St. Paul's Church. He based his remarks on the familiar passage in the first chapter of Mark, which describes the life of our Lord in a city for a single day. He said: "I want to see how our Lord employed Himself during those twenty-four hours, and to find a probable answer to the question: How Would Christ Spend a Day in Peterboro?" Before dealing directly with his theme he said that every citizen should take a patriotic pride in the city which he has made his home. There may be things in it that are unworthy, there may be dark threads in the gold of its life; but just because it is his home city he should love it and should seek to promote its highest interests. This ought to be true more particularly of the Christian citizen. It has been said that Augustus found Rome brick, and left it marble. The Church of Christ is in the city to change its clay into marble, its dross into gold, and to cleanse away its sin and make it pure.

A Sanitorium

Christ was in the city as a Healer. We read: "He healed them that were sick of divers' diseases." We are to be in the city as He was in it. We cannot work miracles and multiply loaves and fishes to feed hungry multitudes. We cannot heal the sick. But as Christian citizens, we can see that no one goes hungry while we have every hand to spare, we can see that the sick are nursed, and that they receive the best hospital and medical attention. The speaker here made a plea for a sanitorium for tuberculosis patients, and expressed the hope that when a by-law would be submitted not a vote might be cast against it.

Christ was also in the city as a Fighter of its evils. We read: "He cast out many demons." He was manifested to destroy the works of the devil. Behold Him thus at work! fighting its demons of uncleanness, and casting them out and arraying Himself against the powers of evil.. Behold the goodness and severity of God! Behold the severity of Jesus as with a whip of chords He drove from the Temple the men who had desecrated that sacred place by their unholy traffic. What would Christ do if He came to Peterboro? Would He not set Himself to fight its wrongs, cast out its demons, and cleanse its filthy places?

Would Use a Whip.

Would He not take a whip of chords, or of scorpions, to its unclean men who walk its streets to seduce young and helpless girls and rob them of virtue and purity? Would He not use the same whip to drive from office the men whose duty it is to see that evil is detected and punished, innocence guarded and womanhood honored, if they proved recreant of their sacred trust. And what would He have us do? He would have us take our place by His side in this fight against the demons of impurity. He would have us feel as Paul felt as he saw Athens given wholly to idolatry. We read that he was in a paroxysm of rage. That is how a Christian man feels in the presence of discovered wrong. He is filled with a burning anger against it. He does not excuse it, or speak of it as a necessary evil. He does not say the social evil has always been in the world, and must ever continue in it. He sees that it is never necessary to break the ten commandments, and that it is his duty to see that no one else break them, and if they do to invoke the law for their detection and punishment.

Followers of The Master

If this be a fair deduction from the example of Christ and the teaching of the New Testament, then the committee of citizens who waited on our police commissioners were only performing their duty as followers of the Master when they told them of the existing of certain evils in our city and asked them to take action for the suppression of these evils. The law must be invoked in such cases. We do not under-estimate the value of other agencies, the influences of the Christian Home of the Christian Church, and institutions of reform. but where evil flaunts itself in public, when the seventh commandment is openly and flagrantly broken, then the first thing to do is to arrest and punish the offenders. And there is only one thing that self-respecting servants of the public ought to do in the circumstances. When a committee of citizens lay before them the facts, when they ask for a course of action, and their request is supported by nine-tenths of the best public sentiment of the city, they should at once reply: "Certainly, ladies, if things are as you tell us, we will give you what you want. We are but your servants and that of the public to do your bidding. Our duties as civic officials and protectors of its morals are to cast out the demons of impurity from the body politic, and to throw around the women and girls of our city the strong bulwark and protection of the law.

The Home and the Church.

The speaker also pointed out that Christ was in the city as the Defender of those institutions which are the foundation of all civic and national righteousness—the Home and the Church. From the narrative we have that during that day He spent in the city He visited the home of one of His desciples, thus doing honor to the family relationship; and He also found His way to the synagogue, thus showing His reverence for the things of religion. In speaking of the place of the home in its influence upon the moral life of the city, he quoted W. T. Stead, who tells us that in conversation with the keepers of two houses of ill-fame in Chicago, both said that unhappy and unchristian home conditions are responsible for practically all those who have turned from a life of purity. There is nothing we need more than the multiplication of Christian homes.

FOURTH ARTICLE OF THE APOSTLES' CREED

The fourth article of the Apostles' Creed, "Suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified dead and buried," was the subject of Rev. T. J. Mansell's sermon Sunday evening.

The speaker said the sufferings of Christ were foretold and that He Himself advised His disciples not to speak of many things until after His resurrection. No one could deny that Christ was the annointed One, in fact one critic who set out to disprove this fact, ended by being convinced of its truth and the record of history is that Christ suffered as it is written.

Three principal reasons were given for Christ's suffering. First, the indifference of men was described by reference to a famous painting representing Christ as unheeded by the great mass of the people, and heeded only by a nurse and a distressed woman since they were accustomed to look on suffering. The second was loneliness—Christ was a stranger in vast multitudes of people.

The third was contact with sin. He sorrowed for the immorality and degeneration of the times but bore it silently.

Christ's suffering appeals to people because of its humanness which is the open door to His divinity. Christ must have a place in the hearts and lives of people if they do not despise and reject Him.

Music by the Choir

The musical part of the service was exceptionally good. The choir sang two anthems and Miss Richardson rendered "With Verdure Clad," a composition requiring a good deal of musical taste and culture to fully appreciate. This fine adaptation of the spirit of springing verdant life to music was a distinctly beautiful part of the service. At the conclusion of the second anthem the pastor spoke in high terms of Miss Clarry, who has rendered such good service to the church as organist. Sunday evening was her last evening as organist and the congregation stood up in silent approval of the pastor's words of praise for Miss Clarry.

REV. LUCIUS B. COMPTON.

He will give evangelistic addresses at Bethany Tabernacle, commencing to-night.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS AT BETHANY TABERNACLE

The evangelistic meetings which are being held in Bethany Tabernacle have already proven a great blessing to many. There was a good attendance at both morning and evening services yesterday. In the morning Mr. Long preached on the "Crucifixion of Christ." There was a very deep and conscious presence of God's power throughout the service, and many were moved to tears and at the close of the service knelt at the altar in humble confession, asking Christ to pardon their sins and help them to lead a Christian life.

At the evening service Mr. Long took for his subject, "After Death the Judgment." The message was indeed heart-searching. The speaker described many interesting things which take place in earthly courts and made it remarkably clear how in the great court of heaven the Eternal God will proceed with His judgment.

He showed how the Bible revealed the fact that there would be no missing ones there, and that every unsaved person would be required to give an accurate account of all the deeds done in the body whether good or bad.

His description of the scene of parting from God and heaven was most pathetic and at the same time startling in its revelation. So overwhelmingly convincing was the truth that a number of persons present responded to the invitation given to accept salvation at once.

The meetings have marked a steady increase in spiritual power, and every indication points forward to a far-reaching revival, such as has long been prayed for.

Rev. Lucius B. Compton, who will speak to-night, is a preacher and revivalist of unusual power. His messages have brought thousands to the Saviour. He is one of the most consecrated men of our day. Let the ministers and members of our city churches fail not to hear this remarkable man.

STRUGGLE IN PROSPECT AT SESSION OF BRITISH HOUSE

Opening of Parliament To-morrow Marks Beginning of the Hardest Fight in Career of Asquith Government---Home Rule, Welsh Disestablishment, Voting Bill and Navy Points of Contention.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—After the longest vacation that members have enjoyed since the Liberal party came into power eight years ago, Parliament reassembles to-morrow for a session that promises to be full of hard work and excitement.

There are not only the home rule and Welsh disestablishment bills, which come up for third passage and then to become law, despite anything the Lords may do, but there is a great mass of other business which will compel the Government to fight continually to hold the confidence of the House of Commons. From start to finish of a session a British Government must keep on the alert to prevent an adverse vote, which, if it has the backing of a majority of the members, means the retirement of the Ministry. The danger will be more acute than ever during this session.

From the moment that King George leaves the House of Lords after delivering his speech from the throne opening the proceedings, the Government will be under fire, not only from their Unionist opponents, but on several questions from Liberals as well. Fortunately for the Government, it probably will have the support of many Unionists on the questions that the revolting radicals will chose for their attacks.

In taking up regular measures it is understood that the Welsh disestablishment bill will be given precedence over home rule, which will be left until the last in hope that some compromise will be forthcoming. Between these two big measures will be introduced the bill to abolish plural voting, which has already passed once under the Parliament Act, and which Liberal election agents are deeply anxious to see made law before another election, as they believe most of the plural voters are Unionists.

There is still much interest as to how the House of Lords will receive the home rule and Welsh disestablishment bills. The Liberals contend that under the Parliament Act no matter what the Lords do the bills will become law on receiving the signature of the King. There are some Uninists, however, who believe that as the act distinctly says they shall become law on the Lords rejecting them for the third time, if the Upper Chamber simply refuses to consider them they cannot be rejected, and, therefore, cannot become law. The House of Lords, however, would require a lot of urging to take that view, remembering as they would that the people have already endorsed the Parliament Act and any attempt to evade it might have serious consequences for the Unionist party. The Government, therefore, is looking with confidence to a smooth passage for its two chief measures.

It is reported that the latest Unionist device to force a dissolution of Parliament and thus defeat home rule for Ireland is for the House of Lords to reject the annual army budget bill. If this were done the army would cease to exist, and the Government would be compelled to appeal to the country.

It is believed that such an extreme course is hardly practicable, and the milder suggestion is said to be favored of amending the bill in such manner as to put the army out of existence in Ireland alone, and thus prevent it being employed to coerce Ulster.

WHEN REBEL ARMS ARRIVE THERE WILL BE A SOUTHERN MOVEMENT

Tampico Will be the Objective of the Operations of General Villa's Troops, But Another Line of Attack Will be Made on Cities in Path to the Capital.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9. — President Huerta has succeeded in the past week, without much fighting, in reopening the lines of communication to Tampico and Laredo and between Saltillo and Torreon. This apparent advantage is explained to some extent by the rebels having received instructions to cease operating in small bands in those districts, where they had been persistently cutting the lines, and join the concentration movements near Torreon, the middle districts, and about Tampico, on the gulf coast.

The indications are that there will be a lull in the military operations until the rebels have supplied themselves with additional arms and ammunition, which are now available from the United States, and that when Gen. Carranza and Villa and other rebel leaders have completed their preparations for an advance, several important engagements will be fought.

In the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, and in the adjoining regions extending north, both east and west of the capital, numerous rebel organizations are operating, but the interest in their campaigns has grown less.

The opinion is held here that the rebels in the north from now on will direct their energies along two lines of campaign, one looking to the capture of Torreon, Zacatecas, Aguascalientes and other towns in their path to the capital, and the other to the capture of Tampico, with Monterey and San Luis Potosi as secondary objectives. The moral effect of the capture of Torreon and the other towns along the first line of campaign would be great, but military men point out that the strategic value of Tampico would be still greater, as it is the source of the fuel oil supply. That the rebels are full cognizant of the importance of the strategic position of Tampico there is no doubt, and a bitter struggle for its possession is anticipated.

Huerta Seized Oil.

VERA CRUZ, Feb. 9.—The straits to which the Mexican Government is reduced for fuel with which to continue the operation of the National Railway lines is shown by the commandeering yesterday morning of practically the whole fuel supply of Vera Cruz, thus threatening the speedy suspension of all traffic between this city and the capital.

The Government Saturday night sent a train of eighteen oil cars, with a capacity of 12,000 gallons each, to Vera Cruz. Yesterday morning an officer at the head of a squad of troops made a formal demand on the agent of the Aguila Company to surrender all the oil in its possession.

The agent replied that the oil had already been sold to the Mexican Railway, which is a British corporation, and was told that it was immaterial to whom the oil belonged. The engineer in charge of the pumps refused to fill the oil tanks and was arrested. Later he was released, but was compelled to obey the order.

There now remains in Vera Cruz only a six days' supply of oil for the operation of the Mexican and Inter-Oceanic Railways, and there is no prospect of receiving more oil from Tampico. Under the circumstances it is believed it will be impossible to maintain communication with Mexico City beyond the end of the week, except in cases of trains for government service.

It is asserted that the next move of the Mexican Government will be to seize the locomotives and rolling stock of the Mexican Railway to replace the engines and cars recently destroyed in the north. It is possible quickly to transform oil burning locomotives into coal burners, but there is practically no coal in the country.

It is reported, apparently on the best of authority, that a decree has been prepared and only awaits the President's signature doubling the duties on all imports from the United States.

Mexican Aviators Recalled.

VERSAILLES, Feb. 9.—Seventeen officers of the Mexican army who have been studying aviation here received orders by cable yesterday to return to Mexico on the first steamer and rejoin their regiments.

BUILDS MODEL HOUSES.

King George Gives Orders to Remodel His Property In London.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—It is not generally remembered that King George or the Prince of Wales, as the beneficiary of the estates of the Duchy of Cornwall, is the landlord of one of the worst slums in London. There is a part of Kennington on the south side of the Thames which belongs to the Duchy of Cornwall, and consists of a maze of small streets and alleys, constituting a veritable Alsatia. At the King's personal instigation the committee which controls the revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall has taken in hand the task of doing away with the conditions prevailing there, and the whole area has been subjected to a cleaning-out process. Old houses have been torn down, new streets laid out, and a number of artisans' dwellings of the latest model will be constructed.

A tribute to the work started by the King in this connection was paid by Sir James Crichton-Browne at a meeting of sanitary engineers on Saturday. He said: "In the reconstruction work being carried out under the direction and supervision of his Majesty on his estate in Kennington, he has declared that the object to be kept in view is to make people happy and comfortable. His Majesty also recognized the fundamental principles that are to be observed if that object is to be attained, for he insisted on the planning of substantial, commodious and comely dwellings, with every modern improvement.

SPEECH CRITICIZED.

King Gustave of Sweden In Hot Water on Armament Question.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 9. — King Gustave's speech to the 30,000 peasants who attended the demonstration Friday in favor of the increase of Swedish armaments, threatens to lead to a serious conflict in the Cabinet, the members of which hold that the speech was tantamount to severe censure of their policy and that the language was stronger than a constitutional monarch was justified in using.

During the court of his remarks the king said that the problem of defence was one which must be solved without loss of time, and declared that on that point he was determined not to yield.

The whole Cabinet intimated its desire Saturday to resign, and in both chambers the king's speech was severely criticized. What is considered the awkwardness of the king's position is increased by the unwillingness of the Conservatives to form a Cabinet.

HERMIT FOUND DEAD.

Recluse Living Near London Discovered Frozen Stiff.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 9.—Wm. Fulton, known locally as the hermit of Springbank, from the fact that for many years he has lived the life of a recluse in a three-roomed shack on the bank of the Thames, was found dead yesterday by neighbors, who, not having seen him for some days, and suspecting that something was wrong, broke in his door.

The body was lying right behind the door and was frozen stiff, but a doctor who was summoned expressed the opinion that death had been due to heart failure, and that the freezing had occurred subsequently.

An inquest will be held.

Sent to Death In Tunnel.

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 9.—Locked in the cars of a Mexico Northwestern Railway passenger train by Castillo's bandits and sent to their death in the burning Cumbre Tunnel, near Madera, Mexico, was the fate of ten American officials and employes of the railway and of more than thirty passengers, according to a despatch sent to the officers of the company here by a party of officials who are searching for the victims at the burning tunnels.

Want a Private Board.

HAMILTON, Feb. 9.—The agitation to have the proposed new mountain hospital removed from the control of a number of private business men has been revived, following the opposition to the mountain site by the City Council at its last meeting.

Germany Would Like To Stop.

LONDON, Feb. 9. — Admiral Von Tirpitz, the German naval minister, has made the interesting confession that his refusal to entertain Winston Churchill's proposal of a "naval holiday" was mainly due to industrial reasons. He states that England, having such a number of shipbuilding contracts from abroad, could cease building for the British navy without danger of demoralizing her labor conditions. Germany, however, would be compelled to shut down her shipbuilding yards during a naval holiday.

Cornwall's First Robin.

CORNWALL, Feb. 9.—The first robin of the season reported in this section, was seen Saturday by Louis Chevalier. It was sitting in a tree on Water street west, chirping away as merrily as though it were the month of June instead of February.

Can't Testify For Fortnight.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—Dr. DeMargny, who is attending Mr. J. D. Rousseau, who is charged with being bribed by the Burns detectives, said Saturday afternoon that his patient would not be able to testify at Quebec for at least two weeks.

FIREMEN NEARLY KILLED.

Thirty Men Are Taken From Burning Elevator After Explosion.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Thirty firemen had a narrow escape from death in the blaze which early yesterday destroyed a big grain elevator owned by the Armour Grain Co. Twenty minutes after the fire was discovered and when it was believed to be under control, an explosion occurred, and for a time all the firemen in the building were given up for lost. All escaped, however, although a number were overcome by smoke and had to be carried out by comrades.

The loss was estimated at $900,000. The elevator had a capacity of 1,500,000 bushels and contained a large quantity of wheat.

The building was entirely destroyed. A second explosion brought down the wall facing the Chicago river and a third caused the remaining walls to crumble inward.

DERBY WILL NOT SELL.

Noblemen Says Baron de Forest Misrepresented His Offer.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The Earl of Derby has declined to sell to Baron de Forest his Bootle estate in the suburb of Liverpool, as at one time appeared likely, on the ground that the Baron had wilfully misrepresented the terms of his offer.

Recently in a contribution to the land enquiry committee's report Baron de Forest cited the Bootle estate of the Earl of Derby as a striking example of unearned increment. The property, which was purchased in 1724 for $35,000, he estimated to be worth at between $15,000,000 and $20,000 000 at present.

Lord Derby declared that the estimates were grossly excessive, and said he would sell the Bootle estate to Baron de Forest for $7,500,000.

No Feud With Sylvia.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—Miss Christabel Pankhurst said yesterday it was untrue that there was any personal estrangement between herself and her sister or her mother, or that she intended to return to England.

"There is nothing new," Miss Pankhurst said, "in the relations between Sylvia's East End Federation of Suffragettes and the W.S.P.U., Sylvia's movement having been independent. They always have had even separate funds, and there has been no connection between the two bodies."

GUNMEN NUMEROUS.

New Yorkers Just Finding Out Extent of Desperado Population.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Revelations of the great number of gunmen and desperate characters that infest the city were made yesterday to Magistrate McQuade, in police court by Police Commissioner McKay's "clean-up" squad. This squad, under the direction of Commissioner McKay, has been waging war against gangs in all sections of New York, where these outlaws are active.

Warfare began as a result of the recent gun fights among gunmen on the streets of the lower east side, in which several persons were shot and one man killed. The result so far has been that in the last 21 days 326 revolvers and 27 blackjacks have been confiscated. Besides this the squad has raided 18 alleged gambling places, made three arrests for larceny, captured one outfit of burglar tools and recovered thousands of dollars' worth of stolen property.

YOUTH IS ARRESTED.

He Is Believed to Be One of a Gang of Factory Burglars.

MONTREAL, Feb. 9. — In Joseph Gilmour, 17 years old, arrested Saturday on a charge of burglary, the Montreal police believe they have landed one of a gang of ten youths who have been extensively looting factories in the east end of the city. The gang is said to have stolen thousands of dollars' worth of goods. Gilmour is held in connection with the theft from the Metal Shingle Co. of goods valued at $300 which were sold for $7. Three other youths, said to belong to another gang which has been operating in departmental stores, were remanded last week.

The rooming house which they occupied was searched and revealed quantities of boots, clothing and other articles which had been reported missing.

Secrets on Film.

BERLIN, Feb. 9. — The auction sale of personal effects of Col. Rodl, the Austrian traitor and spy for Russia, who killed himself several months ago, has disclosed some of his operations. A high school boy in Prague bought at the auction three rolls of film. When he reached home he discovered that on one roll of supposedly unexposed film there was cleverly hidden the photographic copy of a secret military order of the highest importance, signed by the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, and intended only for the eyes of the corps commander of Prague and the chief of the Prague general staff. It was promptly delivered to the army authorities.

Fever Started In One Family.

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 9.—Dr. McNally, district health officer, arrived here in connection with the recent outbreak of scarlet fever, the dozen cases of which are confined to the pupils of Ryerson days. This particular outbreak is supposed to have originated with one, who neglected precautions to prevent the disease spreading.

CORRUPTION IS ALLEGED

Manitoba Liberal Accuses Agents of Roblin Government.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9.—Charges of corruption and intimidation by Provincial Government workers in the Gimli bye-election of last May were made in the Provincial Legislature by T. H. Johnson, Liberal member for West Winnipeg, on Saturday morning, and created a sensation. Gimli was carried by L. E. Taylor for the Roblin Government. The charges will probably be probed after the Government has replied.

Mr. Johnson opened the matter by reading the following statement in the House:

"I, on my responsibility as a member of this House, charge: that public moneys were improperly and corruptly employed in influencing electors to vote for E. L. Taylor at the bye-election in the constituency of Gimli on the 12th day of May, 1913, clear evidence of which is to be found in items of the public accounts aggregating some ninety-three thousand dollars expended directly by the Government; that bribery was extensively practiced in this bye-election on behalf of E. L. Taylor; that corrupt treating was carried on throughout the constituency to a degree never before known; that liquor was dispensed freely by the agent of Taylor in local-option territory and elsewhere; that intimidation was largely practiced; that employes of the Manitoba Government and officers of the law were personally guilty of acts of intimidation, bribery, corrupt treating and distribution of liquor; that violators of the law were protected by officers of the Government charged with enforcement of law and order: that prominent among the workers and agents of E. L. Taylor were owners, managers, employes and habitues of notorious drinking resorts in Winnipeg and 'clubs of that class'; that this campaign of corruption, intimidation, bribery and illegal use of liquor was directed and managed by prominent members of the Manitoba Legislature."

Johnson also cited over 100 special instances of alleged corrupt practices during the Gimli campaign.

The Government has not yet replied.

Steamships From Europe Report Bad Weather and Icebergs

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Steamships arriving, overdue, from European ports yesterday, reported rough weather and the presence of icebergs at sea. The Megantic of the White Star Line, coming in from Liverpool after a nine-day voyage, passed through a northwesterly gale, which reached its climax of effect on this ship on Jan. 31, when a giant wave dashed over the starboard rail, awakening the 350 passengers, sweeping away a lifeboat, partly flooding the corridors, and entering the funnel, dampening the fires.

The Megantic saw no ice, but received reports of bergs, field ice and numerous "growlers," including one berg 150 feet high and a quarter of a mile long, in an area of broken ice, extending from 40 to [illegible] miles east of St. John's, Nfld.

JUDGE BARHORST DOES HIS DUTY TO RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

If you suffer from Rheumatism and don't read this advice, then the terrible disease must have robbed you of your power to be fair to yourself. Read it:

"I, John Barhorst, Justice of the Peace of McLean Township, Ft. Loramie, Ohio, do certify that after treatment by three doctors, without result, I have been cured of a very bad case of Rheumatism, by using two bottles of RHEUMA. It is now two years since I used the remedy, and I am still as well as ever. Previous to using RHEUMA I was a cripple, walking with crutches, and I feel it my duty to let other sufferers from Rheumatism know what it will do. The result seems almost miraculous to me. I have advised RHEUMA to at least a dozen persons, and each one speaks as highly of it as I. I will answer any one suffering from the disease, if a two-cent stamp is enclosed.'—May 31, 1912.

You can secure a bottle of RHEUMA for only 50 cents at The Warne Drug Co., and they say if not as advertised, money back. It's just as good for Gout, Arthritis, Lumbago and Sciatica.

ORILLIA WON IN ROUGH TUSSLE WITH MIDLAND

Coldwater, Feb. 9.—Orillia intermediates defeated Midland here Saturday night in the play-off for group 11 of the O.H.A. Half-time score 1 to 1. Full-time, 3 to 2. The game was fast and very rough, twenty penalties being handed out. Midlanders were the principal feature on the fence, although Drury was easily the fastest man on the ice, and starred for Midland, but resorted to rough tactics, and spent a good share of the hour on the fence. Orillia have a fast and well balanced team, and should go a long way in the intermediate series. The teams:

Orillia—Goal, Corborould; defence, Harvie and Perryman; rover, Carter; [illegible], Ross; wings, Jupp and McNabb.

Midland—Goal, W. McDonald; defence, Farrell and Drummond; rover, Beatty; centre, Drury; wings, Grant and R. McDonall.

CURRENT SPORTING GOSSIP

Mr. Eleric White of the Oak Hall staff, has been doping out an all-star team of the Junior City League with the hopes of arranging a game with the local Junior O. H. A. aggregation. After the games on Wednesday evening, a few more details will be available. If such a game can be brought about, there will surely be no small amount of interest in it.

◆ ◆ ◆

The Lindsay Post says Pete Spratt is selecting a team of local players to play in Lindsay next Thursday evening against a team picked from the Town League.

"A lover of clean hockey" writes to The Toronto Star, making an interesting suggestion in regard to the grading of towns in the Ontario Hockey Association so as to more equalize the playing strength of the various teams, and put the smaller places on a more even basis with the larger centres. He says:

"Having been a life long supporter of the O.H.A., I think I have a proposition that would benefit the O.H.A. and a great many smaller towns and villages. What I propose is that the O.H.A. divide the present Intermediate and Junior series into two parts, one for the villager of lesser population than 1,800, (if this be suitable), and one for the places over that limit, junior and intermediate, and have the championships same as at present, three series.

"Don't you think it would give them more heart to keep their team together, and the public more and cleaner hockey. If you take notice nearly all the smaller places are out of the running already this season.

"It is on the same principle as if Packey McFarland tried to fight Johnson. He is out of his weight; well, these smaller places are giving too much weight, so make a class for them."

KENNEALLEY REMAINS OUT

Cannot Play With Toolmakers in Mercantile League

At the Mercantile Hockey League executive meeting on Saturday night the question of reinstating Kennealley of the Tool Room, was brought to a close. The members of the executive split the vote and President Nelson cast the deciding vote against his playing.

WIN FOR TEST GIVES TEAM THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Good Mercantile League Bill for the Brock To-night.

Tonight is Mercantile night at Brock street rink. The last games in the schedule will be played and if the Test defeat the Plumbers, and the Examiner defeat the Tool Room, the league will be concluded with the Test holding the honors. On the other hand, if the Bankers, Test and Tool Room win, there will have to be extra games played to decide the championship.

The Test have won all their games excepting the one with the Tool Room and this will have to be played off. If the Tool Makers can come out ahead, they, with the Test and the Bankers, will be a tie, each having one loss. It is little wonder then that there is such interest in these finals.

The bill for tonight will be:

8 o'clock—Bankers vs. De Laval.
9 o'clock—Test vs. Plumbers.
10 o'clock—Examiner vs. Tool Room

Mr. Len Dobson will referee.

PUCKERINGS FROM PUCK

Owing to other arrangements the R.U. Well Club septet deem it unwise to play the Never Do Wells. The reputation of the speed artists of the latter has leaked out also their intention of making it a benefit game for the "Toast and Coffee Club." The R. U. Wells wish to have the challenge passed up.

The committee of enquiry of the "Never Do Wells" will hold a meeting this evening in the customary place to discuss the advisability of taking in the trip to Keene. The septet wish to challenge the "Midnight Sons" to a little game of hockey.

More than a few have been wondering how the dope goes for the Peterboro-Orillia series of which the first game is played in Orillia on Tuesday night, and the last game is played here next Friday night. There are many fans who believe that Peterboro can win both in Orillia and here. The locals have been putting up a nifty game of hockey and they have shown that they can work together. Early in the season the locals started out with a much different team than they have now, and for a while a new man appeared almost every game but the last while the team has been the same and in the above mentioned game and their recent practices they displayed the greatly lookedfor combination. With cold weather prevailing, the ice is sure to be hard, therefore their speed and combination will not in any way be effected, and it is these two features that win games.

Bert Janes, our nifty little goal minder, is an old Orillia boy, and will no doubt, be extremely anxious to show his class to his old pals. It is predicted that "Skid" will play the game of his life tomorrow night, and if he but plays the hockey he did in Cobourg or Whitby, there will be nothing to it.

Every game the Orillia teams have played this year their shining lights have been Ross and Jubb. The latter is their right wing man and he officiated in that capacity with the Younkers, who played here two years ago, against the Bear Cats. His main assets are speed and stick handling of which he appeared to be overflowing when he made his appearance here. He comes out from the boards and circles around the defence for a shot, making himself extremely difficult to stop, yet Lovering Jubb has a mighty hard contract on his hands when he is checking Kelly. Kelly has rounded into superb form and can be depended upon to give the speedy boy from the north a terrible go.

Ross, at centre man, is the selfsame "Hounder" Ross who played with the local Intermediates last year. When he was here he was past that stage when he could develop so he hasn't become a "Newsy Lalonde" in one season, therefore, it is safe betting that he has nothing on Maurice Park. If he had anything on him last year, he would have been on the senior team, but he lacked class. Ross is game and can plug, but it takes the classy stuff to win games.

The Orillia fans are the best in Ontario, and call continually for clean hockey, hence the game will be made up of the best article of hockey. The boys will leave tomorrow morning and return Wednesday, and here's hoping they come home with a victory.

CURLING

The competition for the Neil-Sheppard Cup between the local curling club, and Orillia, is on today. Four rinks play in Orillia this afternoon and four Orillia rinks play here tonight.

The local rinks playing here are:

At Orillia—

J. E. A. Fitzgerald, W .G. Morrow, H. T. Foot and R. Neil.

At Peterboro—

S. T. Medd, J. H. Connal, R. M. Naddell and D. Davidson.

NERVE IN BASEBALL.

Result of a Wild Throw to Third With the Bases Full.

Charley Dooin, one of the famous catchers of the National league, tells a story to the effect that after a brief trial with the St. Paul club in 1889 Charles A. Comiskey, then its manager, advised him to return to the tailoring business and stick to it.

Another yarn concerning Dooin tells how a little later on and when he was still little more than a youth and weighing in the neighborhood of 115 pounds, he wished himself upon Manager McKibben of the St. Joseph club. When Dooin reported Mac walked around him twice and then announced that he wanted a catcher and not a jockey. Injuries to regulars, however, gave the boy his chance, and he was sent in to backstop for "Big Jim" Wiggs.

In his first game Dooin wanted to prove that in addition to being a catcher he was some thrower. When he heaved to second the baseman would have needed a ladder to get the ball; to third his pegs were low, and his shoots to first nearly took the sacker off his feet. After his wild throws had filled the bases in one inning he threw to third again to catch a runner off the cushion. The ball went so high the left fielder almost got to it on the fly, while "everybody came home."

When the inning was over Dooin had four errors charged against him, and he walked to the clubhouse and began to pack up his clothes. McKibben stopped him, saying his nerve in daring to throw to third to catch a man off with the bases full, caused by his previous bad throws, deserved another chance. Dooin stuck and caught almost every game that season. His next jump was to the Phillies, and his reputation was made.—Ed A. Goewey in Leslie's.

ORIGIN OF THE TELEPHONE.

It Sprung From Bell's Efforts to Teach the Deaf to Speak.

Professor Alexander Graham Bell is reported to have explained in a lecture how he came to invent the telephone as follows:

"My father invented a symbol by which deaf mutes could converse, and finally I invented an apparatus by which the vibrations of speech could be seen, and it turned out to be a telephone. It occurred to me to make a machine that would enable one to hear vibrations. I went to an aurist, and he advised me to take the human ear as my model. He supplied me with a dead man's ear, and with this ear I experimented, and upon applying the apparatus I found that the dead man's ear wrote down the vibrations.

"I arrived at the conclusion that if I could make iron vibrate on a dead man's ear I could make an instrument more delicate which would cause those vibrations to be heard and understood. I thought if I placed a delicate piece of steel over an electric magnet I could get a vibration, and thus the telephone was completed.

"The telephone arose from my attempts to teach the deaf to speak. It arose from my knowledge not of electricity, but as a teacher of the deaf. Had I been an electrician I would not have attempted it."

"Belling the Cat."

"Who will bell the cat?" is a curious old proverb, famous in parable and in history. The mice, says the parable, held a consultation how to secure themselves from the cat, and they resolved to bang a bell about the cat's neck to give warning when she approached, but after they had resolved on doing it they were as far off as ever, for who would do it?

Both parable and proverb have immortalized themselves in history. When the Scottish nobles met at Stirling in a body they proposed to take Spence, the obnoxious favorite of James II., and hang him and so get rid of him.

"Ah," said Lord Grey, "that's very well said, but who'll bell the cat?"

"That will I," said the black Earl Angus. He undertook the task, accomplished it and was called "Archibald Bell the Cat" until his dying day.—Glasgow Times.

His Foot in It.

"Well," said the hostess, bidding her guest good night, "you have a long drive home, but it's a lovely evening."

"Yes, isn't it a fine night?" answered the guest addressed.

"So you'll have a nice drive and won't wish you hadn't come to see me."

"On the contrary, I assure you, I always think that the drive home is the very best part of affairs like this."

Another one of the things that might have been put differently if one had had time to think it over.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NEWSBOYS ON HORSEBACK.

Carriers Make Quick Time to the Suburbs in Montevideo.

Most American newsboys think themselves well off if they own a good suit of clothes, but in the Uruguayan capital of Montevideo there are over fifty newsboys who own horses and peddle their papers on horseback.

Montevideo has 300,000 inhabitants, but it spreads over more territory than an American city of the same population; there are almost no tenement houses, and there are several large parks.

Like Americans, the Uruguayans want their evening paper as soon as possible after it comes from the press. The horseback newsboys supply this demand with astonishing rapidity. La Razon, one of the leading evening journals, is issued at 5 o'clock. About twenty minutes before that hour the newsboys, mostly young men from eighteen to twenty-five years of age, gather in the street in front of the newspaper office. When the papers are brought out the clerk hands a bundle to each, and away he starts at a full gallop. All the business in the center of the town is done by ordinary "foot newsboys;" the horsemen race away to their "beats" in the suburbs, shouting with all their might, "La Razon! La Razon!"

A customer who wishes to buy a paper steps to the sidewalk and holds out his arm. The horse knows the signal and pulls up so short that it is a wonder the rider is not catapulted over his head.

So efficient is this system of equestrian newsboys that a dweller in the outskirts of Montevideo gets his evening paper almost as soon as the man who lives in the very heart of the city. —Youth's Companion.

A Witty Reply.

A witty but not over-industrious Celt was one of a street gang. A few minutes before noon one day he threw his shovel into the gutter, sat down on the curbstone and proceeded to light his pipe. Just then the superintendent of streets came round a corner and, seeing Pat, roared out:

"Here! What are you throwing down your shovel for at this time of day?"

"To cool it, surr," said Pat.—London Telegraph.

"Giving Quarter."

The phrase, "Giving quarter," originated in an understanding between the Dutch and the Spaniards that the ransom of an officer should be one-quarter of his pay. Hence, to beg quarter was to offer a quarter of their pay for their ransom, and to refuse quarter was to decline the money as a ransom.

Bemoaning His Youth.

Fontenelle, when nearly 100 years old, stumbled when trying to pick up the fan of a young and pretty lady," says The Pall Mall Gazette. While she helped him to reach it, "Ah," he cried, "if only I was eighty again!"

Cost of living gone up! I should say so. I had to pay $25 for my Mendelssohn course tickets, and I used to get them for $8.

If new enamelled saucepans are placed in a pan of warm water, allowed to come to a boil and then cooled, they will be found to last much longer before either cracking or burning.

The White Star liner Teutonic has arrived on her first voyage to St. John. The voyage was a tempestuous one occupying eight days. Among the passengers were Lawrence Irving, son of the late Sir Henry Irving, and a company of thirty players, who are to tour Canada.

The invasion of English actors continues. Following Mr. Martin Harvey, another eminent London favorite is on his way to visit us. Mr. Lawrence Irving will make a trip across Canada in a repertoire, the chief feature of which is to be "The Typhoon." This drama has been used for two seasons on the continent by Walker Whitesides, and was a big hit in London last spring.

Lawrence Irving will appear in the Grand Opera House, Peterborough, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 20th and 21st.

The many friends of ex-Warden R. N. Scott, Chemong Road, will regret to hear he is confined to his home, owing to inflammation of the eyes. It will be some time yet, before he will be around.

The W. A. of St. John's church will meet to-morrow at 3 o'clock instead of 3.30. A member of the Toronto Diocesan Board will address the meeting.

The many friends of Miss Caldwell and Mrs. Brodigan will extend heartfelt sympathy to them in the death of their brother, the late Dr. Caldwell.

Invitations are out for a St. Valentines Party to be given by St. John's C.W.A. in St. John's school house, Friday evening, Feb. 13th, from 8 to 10 o'clock.

Mrs. C. B. McAllister New Westminster B.C., is the guest of Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Brock street.

Miss Lillian Bullock is visiting Mrs. Geo. Bullock, Lakefield.

Miss Lexa Denne, entertained at luncheon Friday in honor of her friend, Miss McLaren, of Toronto.

The many friends of County Magistrate Edmison who fell some time ago, and injured his hip, will be pleased that he will be able to resume his duties in a few days.

Reports from St. Joseph's Hospital state that Mr. Geo. Kelleher is rapidly convalescing.

Mr. Holland Hill returned to Toronto this morning, after spending the week-end with his parents.

Mrs. F. S. Schneider, London St., was hostess of a very enjoyable At Home Saturday afternoon. The tea room was charming with pink roses, the tea table being presided over by Mrs. G. K. Lech, and Mrs. Frederick, assisted by several yound ladies, whose pretty gowns added a fitting touch to a dainty tea room.

Delightful solos by Mrs. Renwick and Mrs. Perrin were very much appreciated.

The local young ladies of the P. C.I., were defeated by the charming ones from the L.C.I., in a fairly fast and interesting game of basket ball on Saturday afternoon in Lindsay, by 24 to 20. The local girls played exceptionally fast basketball, but the young ladies from the Northern village also played well and they gathered in the big end of the score.

After a few hours' enjoyable skating, the party returned home. Among those who assisted in the ceremonies, rooting etc., were Misses Annetta Peever, Kathleen Moore, Isabel Morphet, Phyllis Cumberland, Phyllis Young, G. Rountree, Agnes Neill, Leta Brownscombe, Madeline Pierce, Irene Scott, Isabel Nesbitt, and others.

Vesper Service.

FINE CITRUS CROP

California Has Banner Year—General Outlook Promising.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—E. O. McCormick, Vice President of the Southern Pacific Railway, in an interview today at The Chicago Club, stated:

"I recently spent several days in the Orange Groves of Southern California. Growers estimate this season's shipments will amount to at least 40,000 cars of oranges. Weather conditions have been ideal and the fruit has matured perfectly. In fact, I have never tasted better oranges.

"The recent rainfalls on the Pacific Slope while unusually heavy, have been of immense benefit to orchards and agriculture in general. At no period in my knowledge of California has the outlook been so favorable for good crops and prosperous conditions for employer and employee."

DEVELOPMENT OF PRINCE RUPERT B.C.

General business conditions and the developments in and around Prince Rupert, B.C., the Pacific Coast terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, are healthy and good.

Latest reports show Customs returns for the month of December, amount to $36,836.00, an increase over the same period last year of over $25,000. For the year 1913, the total customs receipts were $234,326.70, an increase over the previous year of $100,000.00. These customs figures reflect the general growth and prosperity of the city.

Excavation for the new Grand Trunk Pacific Hotel, The Prince Rupert, is proceeding rapidly, a large force of men being engaged.

The work on the $2,000,000 dry dock is also proceeding very satisfactorily.

A large apartment block is being erected in the city and several other permanent and substantial buildings are being constructed with all possible speed and the citizens are looking forward to mid-summer when the Grand Trunk Pacific, the all-Canadian Transcontinental Railway, will be linked up from coast to coast, and at which time it is prophesied that a great empetus will be given to this coming metropolis.

Their list of properties being exceptionally good value and well worth inspecting.

SECURITY OF A LLOYD'S POLICY

The following is an extract from "Syren and Shipping," England:

The security of a Lloyd's policy is not a corporate one, but dependent solely upon the solvency of the individual names subscribing it, an important factor when it is realized that the question of the litigiousness of Lloyd's seems to be increased considerably. Claims and losses which at one time would have been met without question or demur, have recently been contested on one ground or another. "Concealment of material fact" was the ground on which one case was fought and taken to the House of Lords, where the underwriters were badly beaten. In another case "no interest" was pleaded; in other words, that the plaintiff had only got a "wager" or "honor" policy, which was not enforceable in a court of law. The underwriters, of course, secured the verdict, but where the honor lay, we leave our readers to form their own opinion.

Now comes our contemporary's disclosure of the Statute of Limitations being pleaded with equal success, and in a more recent case still we hear of the "Stamp Act" being pleaded to bar a plaintiff's claim. All this is bound to have a most damaging effect upon Lloyd's, but will be heard of without regret by the majority of fire and guarantee companies, whose business preserves Lloyd's has enroached upon. Fire Insurance brokers have not hesitated to tell the companies "If you wont take this risk at such and such a rate, I shall do it with Lloyd's," but now the companies can turn around to such and say "You talk about taking your business to Lloyd's, here's the sort of treatment that you may expect."

If you have not access to a hot water bag when it is needed, a good substitute is a flannel bag filled with hot sand or salt. A good idea is to keep half a dozen little ones filled and ready.

ARMY DEMORALIZED.

Terrors of Rampant Militarism Are Seen In Russia.

The conditions of service in the Russian army are unbearable, according to the correspondent of a London periodical that treats exclusively of Russian affairs. This correspondent declares that the spy system and utter lack of consideration for enlisted men by the officers, and their brutality in dealing with civilians have crippled Russia's fighting force and reduced to a low ebb the spirit of the army. The article says:

"All military writers agree that at least half the strength of any army depends upon the spirit prevailing in its ranks. If they are to fight well and successfully the men must be united by comradeship, have faith in their officers and feel that they are risking their lives for something worth fighting for.

"Looking at the Russian army from this point of view, we cannot but be startled by the facts of every day life among the Czar's soldiers. Comradeship is practically made impossible by espionage.

"It must not be imagined that spies confine their attention to privates. The officers are not immune from the same treatment. Until recently political charges made by the secret police against officers of the army had to be inquired into and verified by the Ministry of War. But the gendarmerie naturally disliked this procedure, as it often exposed the worthlessness of espionage. The chief of the secret police therefore applied to Gen. Sukhomlinoff, the Minister of War, asking that any information about any army officer coming from his agents should be accepted by the military authorities without question. M. Sukhomlinoff fully agreed to this suggestion, gave orders accordingly, and added that the police reports should be kept secret from the officers concerned. Thus every officer is now at the mercy of every turncoat and spy without being given a chance to refute the allegations against him.

"Duelling is encouraged and sometimes forced. An arrogant attitude toward peaceful citizens, especially if they are independent in their political opinions, is interpreted as a laudable manifestation of "military honor' and loyalty, while heartless, cruel treatment of the rank and file is regarded as 'good discipline.'

"A writer named Kulchitsky has published a volume entitled 'Advice to Young Officers.' In this book, which deals, among other things, with possible quarrels between officers and civilians, the author says: 'Kill on the spot and with a single blow. A living man may harm you, while a dead one is harmless (i.e., as a witness) in case of a trial.' This book is recommended by commanders to their young officers on leaving a certain military school.

"This encouragement of lawlessness certainly does not strengthen the necessary discipline in the Russian army. While exacting from the private absolute obedience to a superior's order, however idiotic or lawless, and absolute conformity to formal rules which have nothing to do with the military efficiency of the soldier, the bullying officer no longer acknowledges any binding discipline so far as he himself is concerned."

Quick Switch.

Two men who went to a hunting camp together soon found that neither possessed any skill in cooking. After two days of continuous complaining about the food they made the agreement that the first man who grumbled should pay $10 to his companion. At breakfast the following morning one of the campers began upon some flapjacks made by the other member of the party. "These are about the toughest imitations of the real thing I ever ran against," he observed sourly, but as he saw his companion's face light up at the prospect of obtaining the forfeit he quickly added, "But that's the way I like 'em."

The Walking Stick.

One does not look to one's walking stick to tell the date, but earlier sticks often combined the functions of almanacs and staffs, for our first almanacs were simply "the courses of the moones of the whole year engraved upon sticks," and those who went on distant pilgrimages soon saw the advantage of turning the heads of their staffs into almanacs. Their sticks were at once props and guides to assist them in arriving at the recognized assembling places of pilgrims at the correct time.—London Globe.

Granted the Request.

The Irishman in France had been challenged to a duel. "Shure," he cried, "we'll fight wid shilialahs!"

"That won't do," said his second. "As the challenged party you have the right to choose the arms, but chivalry demands that you should decide upon a weapon with which Frenchmen are familiar."

"Is that so, indade?" returned the generous Irishman. "Then we'll foight it out wid guillotines."

Pulled Out His Own Teeth.

An inmate of the lunatic asylum at Chalens, France, had the obsession that his breath smelled so bad that no girl would accept him as a husband. Brooding over this totally imaginary defect, he decided that his teeth must be the cause of it. He abstracted a forceps from the surgeon's case and, when he found himself alone, carefully pulled out all the teeth. The wounds healed rapidly, and the poor maniac confessed that the operation had been very painful.

Kindred Jobs.

"So you want to be a baseball umpire, eh?" said the magnate. "Are you prepared to give up all your friends?"

"I never had any," replied the applicant. "I used to be a weather man."

When a man is afraid to think for himself, it's time the wedding bells were ringing.

MURDER TRIALS.

Holland Has a System of its Own For Dispensing Justice.

A learned and capable jurist has asserted that the French method of legal procedure, which, contrary to our own, presumes an indicted person guilty until he is proved innocent, comes nearer dispensing actual justice than our own system.

But in Holland the courts have, in some respects, a better system than that of the French. The accused in every case has the benefit of the doubt, and circumstantial evidence as the only foundation for a plea of conviction is in disfavor.

The Dutch do not have juries, and there is no battle of wits among counsel. All questions, whether by the prosecution or the attorney for the accused, are put to the witness through the judge after he has weighed the justice of the interrogation.

This feature of their system has some pronounced advantages over our own. It eliminates the practice of confusing the witness or the accused by misleading questions. It renders impossible the abominable practice in our courts known as the "browbeating" of witnesses, which unfortunately is permitted to an extent that causes the intelligent observer's blood to boil at times because of its unfairness and cruelty. It makes the solemn business of dispensing justice a common trade instead of a heavenly vocation.—Sioux City Tribune.

VENUS HOT AND COLD.

One Half the Planet Burns, While the Other Half Always Freezes.

Venus, the "evening star" of the poets, the most brilliant object in our western sky, that planet which revolves around the sun in a path inside ours, must if inhabited have beings of a very different type from ourselves, for Venus has always had one hemisphere turned toward the sun and one turned away from it. Consequently it is always daytime and summer on one-half of Venus, always night and winter on the other half.

As Venus is more than 23,000,000 miles nearer the sun than we are, it must be twice as hot on her day side as it ever is at our equator. And on her night side, where a ray of sunlight has never shone, it must be so cold that the air is liquefied, if not solidified. There must be a constant uprush of hot air from the scorched surface and a corresponding inrush of icy air from the frigid side. Along the boundary between the two hemispheres this must cause a violent and perhaps almost perpetual rainfall.

Seen through a small telescope or field glass Venus often appears like a crescent. Then are visible the projections that can be nothing but mountains of great height.—New York World.

Scared Out of the Duel.

One day M. Edmond About called upon Grisier, the most celebrated fencing master of his day. "I am in a quandary," said About. "I allowed myself yesterday the pleasure of a joke in bad taste, and a duel is to be the result. I know nothing whatever about fencing, and, as you can see, I am fat. Will you give me a lesson, so that I may not make myself too ridiculous?" The lesson was given, but About proved a very poor pupil. On his way out he saw a photograph of Grisier. "I suppose," he said, "I must not ask you for one of these?" "With the greatest pleasure," said the fencing master. And, with a chuckle, Grisier wrote across the photograph, "To M. Edmond About, the best pupil I have ever had." A few hours afterward the seconds of About's adversary called on the writer, saw the photograph on the mantelpiece and, fearing for their friend at the hands of so redoubtable a swordsman, arranged the affair without any duel.

Birds as Large Eaters.

It may not be thought that of all animals birds are among the largest eaters. This means, of course, in proportion to their weight. Some birds are known to consume two and one-half times their weight of food in twenty-four hours. The heron, which has a light weight of four pounds in spite of its size, is a striking example. One was lately caught which had just swallowed two trout of one and one-half and two pounds. Wild pigeons are among the foremost eaters, and they make a most copious repast whenever an abundance of food is found. Thus a single pigeon picked up a thousand grains of wheat in one day.—Scientific American.

Effects of Time.

Mr. Evans entered a New York restaurant and saw a friend seated at one of the tables.

"Hello, Lovell," he said, "how are you?"

"Oh, pretty well," replied Lovell.

"What are you doing now?" inquired Evans.

"Well, when I came in here," said Lovell, "about two hours ago I was not in business, but I've changed since then. I'm a waiter now."—Pulitzer's Magazine.

Always Counting.

"Your husband says that when he is angry he always counts ten before he speaks," said one woman.

"Yes," answered the other, "I wish he'd stop it. Since he got dyspepsia home seems nothing but a class in arithmetic."

Labor is the instituted means for the methodical development of all our powers under the direction and control of the will.—J. G. Holland.

KING GEORGE REALIZES THAT THE SITUATION IS GRAVE

Regrets That Efforts to Solve Problems Have Not Succeeded

Asks for Co-operation of all Parties and Creeds to Bring About Settlement

Canadian Press Despatch

LONDON, Feb. 10.—King George and Queen Mary, wearing crown and robes, drove in the state coach, drawn by eight cream colored horses from Buckingham Palace through the Pall Mall across the Horseguards Parade and along Whitehall, to the King's entrance to the House of Lords to open Parliament.

The weather was ideal and great crowds assembled to watch the procession. The scene in the House of Lords was a brilliant one.

The Home Rule was the paramount subject referred to in the King's speech and His Majesty, by the emphasis placed on his words and the solemnity of his manner as he read, indicated his personal realization of the gravity of the situation. "I regret that efforts which have been made to arrive at a solution by an agreement of problems connected with government of Ireland, have so far, not succeeded. In this matter in which the hopes and fears of so many of my subjects are keenly concerned and which unless handled now with foresight and judgment, and in a spirit of mutual concession, threatens grave future difficulties; it is my most earnest wish that the good will and co-operation of men of all parties and creeds may heal the dissension and lay the foundations of lasting settlement."

"Besides the Home Rule bill and the Welsh disestablishment bill, legislation foreshadowed in the speech, includes the reconstitution of the House of Lords and a bill providing for imperial naturalization.

BLACKSMITH BAGS FAMILY OF SEVEN COONS

Discovered Them in Winter Quarters and the Rest Was Easy

Mr. Len Duffy, a Downeyville blacksmith, killed seven coons on Friday last, the animals having had their winter quarters in a hollow tree in a nearby wood. Mr. Duffy, like William Penn, used neither sword or gun in the capture. With an axe in one hand and a wagon spoke in the other he proceeded to the bush. Len knew the coons were there from diver's tracks and sundry reports heard from the people who traded in his blacksmith shop. He located the tree without difficulty, and after stuffing the aperture which the coon family had used as an exit to and from their nest on their excursions around the country, he directed his attention to a point in the fallen trunk where he thought the animals were resting. With several, well-directed strokes from his keen axe which penetrated the timber, he succeeded in making an opening in the trunk which permitted the animals to rush out, and as they did a sharp stroke on the dome of thought left each one ready for the hunter's scalpel.

He sold the pelts in Lindsay on Saturday for $2 each and as he walked up Kent street with the skins thrown over his shoulder he excited more curiosity than a wild westerner, from a number of morbidly curious.

Mr. Duffy said the seven coons were all one family and the five young ones would be not more than one year old. The fur was in first-class condition, well striped and rich in color.

HEALTH BULLETIN FOR EACH MONTH

At the Board of Health meeting this morning, it was decided that the Med. Health Officer should have published a health bulletin, in the local press, each month. The Board felt the health hints would be of helpfulness to the public.

LICENSE CHINESE LAUNDRIES

Inspector Reports on Conditions as he Finds Them

A short detailed report of Sanitary Inspector Spence presented at the Board of Health meeting this morning, was such as to warrant the Board in passing a resolution that the Chinese laundries of the city be licensed. The report showed that in several instances the surroundings, not only to the inmates, but to the general public, were very detrimental. Cases were reported as follows:

Case No. 1, four employees, fairly good condition.

Sleeping quarters, 420 cubic feet. Two men sleep off room used for laundry business. In fairly clean condition.

Case No. 2, very dirty condition, three employees. All three sleep in a small room partitioned from the laundry room.

One other instance is that three men sleep in a 10x12 room. Some of the proprietors of these shops pay as high as $25 a month for rent.

BIG INCREASE IN BUSINESS ON TRENT CANAL LAST YEAR

18,637 Lockages Made During The Past Year and 166,666 Passengers Were Reported — Big Increase in Grain and Other Freight

The returns from the lockmasters in charge of the locks on the line of the Trent Canal, show that business done last year is far in excess of the year previous. The amount of logs passing through the locks shows a decrease but this is accounted for in the gradual slowing down of lumbering operations. More grain and other freight is being handled, as might be expected, and this growth will be shown more and more in the future.

During the past year there were 18,637 lockages and 166,666 passengers reported by the lockmasters. At the George Street wharf there were 41,837 passengers, at the Peterboro lock 40,300, at Young's Point, 33,728, at Fenelon Falls, 11,750, and Rosedale, 11,264.

Some of the comparisons for the two years in lockages and passengers are as follows:

	lockages	passengers	lockages	passengers
Hastings	20	325	1,169	3,615
Young's Point	2,281	25,777	2,195	33,278
Lock No. 7	1,067	24,012	1,307	40,300
Fenelon Falls	658	8,515	698	11,750
Rosedale	1,481	8,055	1,177	11,264

Improvements Made

The pontoons at the Peterboro Lift Lock have been scraped and repainted, Dickson's graphite being used to advantage and the whole work was done at a cost of $3,000. This was a much needed work, the first in six or seven years.

Pavilions were erected at Whitfield's Landing, Smithson's, Hales' Bridge, Trent Bridge and the local dock. Much grain has been handled to advantage since the pavilion was provided at Whitfield's. The convenience for passengers cannot be over-estimated.

The wharves at Rice Lake have been repaired and the Keene River buoyed. Dredging operations were carried out at the entrance to the river from Rice Lake and new lights placed at the forks of the river as well as lights, one of which remains lighted, at Tick Island, during the winter.

At Lakefield the dam has been practically rebuilt, and new piers added together with a retaining wall on the west side. The banks at the reach above the locks have been rip-rapped and on this work and other repairs $2500 was expended.

A new Blau Gas Lighting system was instituted at Stoney Lake and with the commencement of this season it will be in full operation. At Buckhorn, a new sluiceway was provided while at Bobcaygeon a new wing dam was cut in. The dredge was at work for some time at the river near Lindsay and afterwards moved to Balsover to make improvements on the Lake Simcoe Balsover division. Considerable riprapping was also done in this vicinity and new lights were arranged for Southwood, near Orillia, and also at Atherley dock.

Good work was accomplished in clearing the Omemee River so as to permit of navigation to the Scugog. More of this work will be done this season. Extensive operations have been carried on at the Severn River and at Henley Falls, and now it is stated the canal will be in complete operation by the first of August.

An appropriation of $700 has been provided in the estimates for further work at the local dock this spring and as is generally known, the Government will build a dry dock at Lock No. 6. Below will be found the returns by the lockmasters for the past year and for 1912.

PUPILS AND THE MUMPS

Sick Children Must Stay at Home for Four Weeks

On account of the epidemic of mumps in the Public Schools and in order to check the spread of the disease, the following instructions have been sent to the Public School teachers:

Pupils coming to school from homes where mumps exist, must have a doctor's certificate before they will be admitted.

Pupils who have had mumps are not to be allowed to return to school before the expiratino of four weeks.

Teachers will be required to have medical certificates in all suspected cases.

No Motion for Appointment of Assistant to Sanitary Inspector No Seconder for Motion Compelling Vendors to Sell Milk in Bottles

The Board of Health meeting this morning, was the scene of a rather varied discussion, when the various recommendations of the M. H. O. were rehashed.

Dr. McPherson spoke of great necessity of an assistant to Mr. Spence. He would greatly like to see Mr. Spence have certain office hours. An assistant would be a great help and if the work increases, as it will undoubtedly, it will necessitate Mr. Spence staying in his office more each day.

Mayor Buller—The city is paying Mr. Spence for outside duties. We can get cheaper labor for office work. I feel that the plumbing inspector combination is a good suggestion. I can't see that this is such an enormous institution and I have supported Mr. Spence and will continue to support him as long as he does his duties. I don't think the time is opportune yet to have an assistant. To appoint another official is to burden this city down with taxes and I certainly am not in favor of it. Every department has increased this last year.

Dr. Amys—"Will anyone put a motion for the appointment of an assistant inspector?"

Mayor—"I say no. We don't need one. The Board has nothing to do with hiring these officials.

Extension of Garbage System

The M. H. O. spoke of the need of extending the garbage area. This would lessen the nuisances and flies. He would recommend that the Board recommend to the city council the extension of the garbage area. It would not however, be wise to extend it over the whole city. It would be an expense as a considerable part of the extension is broken.

East City is not touched at all, pointed out the Mayor. Other people had claimed they did not need it, but it was a valuable suggestion. I'll explain the recommendation to the Property Committee.

Moved by Dr. McPherson, seconded by the Mayor, an extension be outlined and submitted to the Property Committee tonight.

Licensing of Scavangers

The M. H. O. suggested that to have these work under control of the M. H. O. would be of advantage. Oftentimes the work is not satisfactory and there is no recourse.

"I agree with the M.H.O." was the verdict of the Mayor.

The motion was moved and carried.

Disinfection

"We disinfect for the protection of other people, it is our duty to the general public and we can't get away from it," said the M. H. O. in speaking of the disinfecting of homes for infectious diseases. The only way to do it is to do it thoroughly."

"It certainly matters to the outside people," remarked Dr. Amys.

"It's the general public that get the advantages of fumigation. If you have disease once, you won't have it again but it is for the safety of the general public. The stuff doesn't cost much and look at the benefit to the general public," concluded Dr. Amys.

The Mayor sugested that when the party were unable to pay, the city pay and when they were able to do so, collect from them.

"It's cheaper when you buy in large quantities," remarked the M. H.O.

This question is now in the hands of the Property Committee.

Bottling of Milk

I'm not against people getting their milk in bottles, but I am against making it compulsory, claimed Mayor Buller. It's nothing but a humbug. It's the same as issuing an order stopping people eating beefsteak, and ask them to eat pork.

ARE IN A MUSICAL ZONE SAYS REV. J. C. SPEER D.D.

A Fortune Waiting the Some One Who Can Write Another "Bogie Man"—The Power of Song in the Making of History

George Street Methodist Church anniversary services were concluded last evening with a lecture by Rev. J. C. Speer, D.D., of Toronto.

The title of the lecture was "Songs and Singers." Dr. Speer said he was not going to give a lecture on the science of music, such would be superfluous as they had a very efficient choir at George Street. Music was a science, he said, all music was based upon scientific principles, from the music of a mosquito to the choir of archangels in heaven. We would have to get to heaven to understand everything about music.

The lecturer went on to say that we had in Canada drifted into a "musical zone." There had been more done toward the development of music during the last quarter of a century than ever before in history. He believed that in time to come music would be used generally in cases of nervous diseases.

Dr. Speer gave a graphic and interesting survey of the world's national music, and spoke of the great power of song in the making of history, quoting the passage: "Let me write your songs, and I care not who makes your laws."

Speaking of the home, he said that "nothing outside the Gospel itself goes so far and leaves such an impression as the songs that mother sang." The common people know nothing about the great classics. The simple lullaby such as the "Bogie Man," had circumnavigated the whole earth in a few weeks, it was on every tongue and had lightened the labor of men in all kinds of employment. A fortune was waiting the man who could write a simple song like those today.

Dr. Speer told some very amusing stories and gave mimic illustrations of different kinds of singing. He kept his audience interested and enrapt for over an hour.

THE LARGEST VOTE OFFER OF THE ENTIRE CONTEST ENDS SATURDAY FEB. 14

Do You Want to be the Winner of That Auto or Are You Going to Let Some One Else Win

Saturday night, Feb. 14, will mark the close of the first great epoch in the greatest of Prize Contests. Some one will be in the lead at the close of this great opportunity to get extra votes. Will it be you? Ask yourself this question candidates, and look at yourself as others look at you. Don't think that it is going to be any snap to pull down that beautiful touring car that someone is going to have for their own within the next few weeks. It will take work and it will take votes to win. It is true that any person that puts forth the proper effort can win, but they must do this and from the observation of the contest manager it appears that many candidates expect to win in this great competition without putting forth any effort. Some candidates seem to have the right idea and are storing up a big reserve vote, but the majority are spending their time telling their friends what they expect to do, and are trying to frighten some of the other candidates out of the contest. WAKE UP to the fact that you are in the greatest competition that you ever had the opportunity to be. Do this before it is too late. Realize that in this race of fame and fortune that you are measured by your results. Not what others think that you have.

Five Equal Ones Today

Did you ever stop to think that very likely at the close of this great contest that the grand prize winner would win by a very small majority? Did you ever stop to think that perhaps one single subscription might mean the difference of an automobile or a small prize to you? 60,000 votes are a large number, yet they are given with every subscription that you bring to the contest department of the Daily Review by 8 p.m., Feb. 14. It does not have to be a new one, but just a single subscription for one year, to The Daily Review. Every candidate in this great contest has friends which is evident by their present high vote standing. Every candidate can get subscriptions, if they try, but this they must do if they expect to win. It is safe to say that there is not a candidate in the entire contest who could not be the grand prize winner if they but organize their friends and procure their subscription during this great vote offer.

Only Four More Days.

This is the alloted time of this the greatest opportunity to store up extra votes. This is a very short time but many a tide of battle has been changed in a few hours. It has been the experience of the contest manager in other fields that the strongest candidates often are the slowest to start. But one thing is certain that they will have to soon wake up here in Peterboro or some one will be riding around this summer in a beautiful touring car for a very little energy. Every day new candidates enter the friendly race, and from the present outlook some are going to make the fight of their lives for the grand prize touring car. After reading, throw down this paper, get out and get a subscription, right now, do something and get some results, you can be the grand prize winner if you try. Always remember the old motto: "It is better to fail trying than not to try." You will never realize how many friends you have until you enter a contest of this kind. Call 189 and let us help you get started. Right now, this moment. Coupon to be found on page nine of this paper tonight. Look for it.

SELL ISOLATION HOSPITAL TO HEALTH ASSOCIATION

Cottage System More Adequate for Infectious Diseases in the Opinion of Dr. Amys—Mayor Buller Says Hospital is Too Expensive

Dr. Amys, chairman of the Board of Health, sprung a surprise this morning when he suggested the selling of the Isolation Hospital to the local Health Association. This, he pointed out, would be an excellent thing for the council and also a great advantage for the Health Association.

He claimed that the cottage system was better and more adequate for infectious diseases. He had advocated this at the time when the hospital was being constructed.

Mayor Buller heartily endorsed the suggestion. He stated he had advocated this step when the question of continuing the hospital, came up.

"This Isolation Hospital is too extravagant and expensive, and Dr. Amy's version of the suggestion is correct, and I'll support it," concluded the Mayor.

A QUAKE IS FELT

Montreal, Toronto and Other Places See Effects of Shock

ALSO FELT HERE

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—At one thirty-five this afternoon a distinct earthquake shock was felt here lasting from ten to fifteen seconds, sufficiently powerful to cause tables and chairs to sway and send a tremor through buildings. The same effect was simultaneously perceived in Montreal, where the Herald building was reported shaking and telegraph operators there compared experiences with distant points.

That a seismic wave passed over, or under a portion of the city of Peterborough to-day is the opinion of a few citizens who felt a distinct trembling of their houses at about half-past one o'clock. One gentleman living on the hill at the top of Bethune street noticed the trembling and for the moment attributed it to a passing vehicle or train.

Upon coming down stairs his wife asked him if he had felt the house shaking. She had been sitting at the table and had noticed it tremble under her hand. This confirmation led the gentleman to make one or two enquiries and he found that other people had noticed the tramor at about the same time—somewhere between 1.30 and 1.45.

The Review received further confirmation of the above this afternoon, that a slight earthquake had occurred. As far south as the De Laval works the shock was felt. One member of the office staff says he was sitting in his chair and felt as if the chair was being moved by some unseen force across the floor.

It was also reported that some plaster was shaken from the ceiling of one of the rooms in the De Laval and similar reports come from other parts of the city.

KIMBERLY IN COURT

He Pleads Guilty to Charge of Vagrancy and Gets Jail

Alfred Kimberly, the "bad man," from England, who recently became as humorous as Joe Miller, and sprung a story on the local police department about breaking the fifth commandment, was arraigned before Magistrate Dumble this morning on the charge of vagrancy. He pleaded guilty and was given two months in the county jail.

The local department intend to hold him till word comes from England. His finger prints and photograph were taken this morning.

FIRST PARCEL FOR LAKEFIELD MAN

System of Parcel Post Commenced at Midnight.

The new parcel post system was inaugaurated last night at midnight. The first parcel to pass through this city was a parcel for Mr. Wm. Lackenson of Lakefield. A considerable number of parcels have passed through the local post office today.

"Oh, everything will be O. K. in a few days,' remarked Postmaster Edgar to a Review reporter this afternoon in speaking of the new system.

While they anticipate a rush for the first few days, the postal authorities do not think the increase in parcel post business will be much greater than usual for the first three months.

PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, FEB. 10, 1914.

THINGS EVEN UP

THE STRUGGLE between the middle-West farmers and the land-speculators and the rest of the people of Canada is on. Wheat on the British market has sunk in three years from $1.20 to 98 cents. The effect on a wheat-growing country can easily be imagined. The position of the Western farmer to-day is just like that of the Eastern farmer twenty years ago. The opening up of the West and cheap Western wheat put the export trade of the Eastern farmer out of business. To-day increased production and cheaper Russian and South American grains are putting our own Western farmer in a quandary. He will have to do in the long run as we have done, viz., raise a home-market and provide for it. There is no quality in production or any other basis. Freights, rings, combines, etc., skim the cream of all export and long distance trade in the long run. They are sure do it. If it were not for the opportunity to do it capitalists would not go into transportation at all. The one thing governments can do is to provide the transportation. In other words the people must provide their own means of transit. This would hold down the Atlantic shipping pool and similar concerns but even that is not a final remedy. Evenly balanced home-market trade is the well-spring of all commercial happiness and none other.

A VISION WITH A FOUNDATION

THE DOMINION HOUSE, which the ex-Governor of Canada proposes to erect upon the Aldwych site in London, looks as if it was going to be more than a castle in the air. Many regarded the proposal as a little visionary and doubtless it is a vision; but there never was a real castle on the earth that was not preceded by one in the clouds. Earl Grey is a visionary, but his dreams do not come from an ill-digested supper; there is method and order and beauty in this one. It has at least a very solid and remarkably appropriate foundation. All poets must work from an economic basis, and the ex-Governor has an eye to the economic advantages of the realization of his dream.

He would raise a monument to Canada in the heart of London, but while it is to be "a thing of beauty and a joy for ever," it is to be a thing of utility as well. The scheme is for the concentration of the Dominion Government's offices under one roof in the centre of London and for the promotion of inter-Imperial trade. We have received a book from Lord Grey setting forth the scheme and giving a full account of the progress of the movement, with comments on the scheme from the press of different parts of the Empire, including Canada. There are one or two rather ominous omissions in the list of these press comments. One is the absence of anything from the omnivious pen of The Globe editor. There is one commendatory editorial from The Globe (N.B.), but its fellow sphere in Toronto does not rise and shine upon this Imperial project. The great volume of opinion of Canada appears to favor the scheme, and if energy and faith in Imperial patriotism can accomplish anything this fine vision of Lord Grey's ought soon to be realised in solid stone.

CHURCH AND SOCIALISM.

REV. ROBERT POGUE, of St. Paul's Church, has undertaken a rather difficult task in endeavoring in a series of Sunday evening discourses, to reconcile the church and the social movement. It is true that many ministers of religion have espoused the social cause in its entirety and given themselves wholly to the consideration of the social and material welfare and uplifting of the working classes.

It would be noticed that all the authorities quoted by Dr. Pogue upon the subject were either British or American. No Canadian Socialist, or writer on social problems was quoted; for the reason, we presume, that there are none. We do not mean that there are no Socialists in this country, but there are no Socialists of authority. It has been said that we have no social problems in Canada, and as compared with other countries it might be accepted as largely true. Even Mr. James Simpson, who gave an oration on socialism the other evening in Peterborough, could not wax eloquent only over the vast resources of the Dominion, and he reserved his most heated denunciation for the slums of Glasgow. He said very little, if anything, about the slums of Toronto his own city.

This proves to some extent that the social movement in Canada draws its inspiration from other countries and is somewhat artificial at the present time.

There are unemployed in Toronto every winter, and this constitutes a nucleus of a serious social question for the future. Casual employment is one of the direct causes of poverty and loss of independence. When a man is out of employment for any length of time and gets the habit of accepting "charity" he is branded or brands himself as one of the lower classes, he loses some of his self-respect and dignity. This is the tragedy of social life. Caste is as much a dominant factor in Christian countries as in the country of the Hindu. It does not go to such cruel lengths, it is less barbaric and more refined; but it is there, and is an iron law that crushes the weak and unfortunate slowly but surely down.

We are not pleading for one dead level. There are great men and there are small men, there are servants and there are masters—born masters and born servants. There is nothing more beautiful in social life than the harmonious inter-dependence of master and servant where the right spirit prevails between the two. We want less independence and dependance and more INTER-DEPENDENCE. This is the work and the gospel of the churches. Christianity is not a system of social economics. If Jesus Christ was a Socialist or a reformer merely he could not claim originality and he was a very tame one. There were a host of social wrongs in His day to which He never even referred. As a Socialist Jesus could not stand on the same platform with Lycergus who lived a long time before the lowly Nazarine.

Some good might be done by the clergy giving a closer and more sympathetic consideration to social questions and the labor movement; but all these movements are in the main political, they seek to gain their object by either checkmating the capitalist or the Government, or by pressure in the form of strikes, etc. The tendency of the labor movement is to widen the gulf between master and man by creating a spirit of antagonism as if their objects were dissimilar. If the church can do anything it has a splendid opportunity for creating a bond of sympathy between Capital and Labor to show both sides that they owe respect to each other and that where one suffers the other must suffer eventually. Jesus Christ was not a party politician, he comprehended both parties and all parties, he represented humanity as a whole and preached the binding of all classes in one bond of brotherhood under the Divine Fatherhood.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SOME RIVAL journals are taking a lot of fun out of The Montreal Star for its violent attacks on Mr. Burnham, M.P., since his Abolition of Titles Bill was brought up in the House of Commons. The owner is a "Knight."

IT WILL BE NOTICED that whenever The Globe re-prints anything favorable to liberalism from a Conservative paper, it almost invariably calls the paper "Independent Conservative." This we presume is by way of compliment as well as explanation. Of course The Globe is itself an independent Liberal—eh! What's that?

THE MONTREAL GAZETTE remarks:
"Mrs. Alice Stebbins Wells, of Los Angeles, the pioneer policewoman of America, who has been lecturing in the cities of the United States and Canada ever since her appointment, is to speak in Toronto soon. Many people would like to know when the officer finds time to patrol her beat. She is seldom in its neighborhood.

PROF. H. S. HELE-SHAW, the noted authority on engineering, has invented a machine for recording the human gait. He contends that a person can thereby be identified by his manner of walking as easily as by finger prints. One paper remarks that there is "no hope for the bow-legged crook."

ADMIRAL VON TIRPITZ, the German Naval Minister, makes the interesting confession that his refusal to entertain Winston Churchill's suggestion of a "naval holiday" is mainly due to an "industrial reason." England, he says, having so much work for abroad, could cease building for the British navy without demoralizing her labor conditions. The German yards, on the other hand, would be compelled to shut down during a naval holiday. This is a valid reason for making machine of destruction, but it might be applied to war itself. The Admiral might well argue next that they must fight somebody in order to use up the amunition to keep the factories going.

WHAT THE WORLD IS SAYING

A Job For Mr. Asquith.
Mail and Empire.

Sylvia Pankhurst has quarreled with Christabel, and set up a rival militant camp. Now that the militants have split, the public would be willing to act as an interested spectator, and appoint referees.

Broad Justice.
Hamilton Spectator.

Says the Lethbridge Herald, "The Borden government is hostile to the Western farmer." Entirely untrue. The government is anxious to do justice to all sections of this broad Dominion, but does not propose to be ruled by a small section of it.

Iceland.
(From the London Advertiser.)

I'd like to live in Iceland,
They have no telephones,
The gossips do not have a chance
To rattle old dry bones.

I'd like to live in Iceland,
They have no taxis there;
A man might save a buck or so
And have some change to spare.

I'd like to live in Iceland,
No sewing circles meet
To chew the cud of scandal there
Of scandal that is sweet.

I'd like to live in Iceland,
They do not pay a cent
For ice or gas or coal or coke,
For groceries or rent.

They burn whale blubber, eat it, too,
High cost of living's nil;
I'd like to live in Iceland,
And never get a bill.

METHUSELAH
By Walt Mason

Nine hundred years, and then a few, Methuselah hung on; he kicked around as good as new when all his friends were gone. He saw the generations rise and live and meet their doom; he saw the brave, the good, the wise, all gathered to the tomb. The tribes of both the hemispheres drank from Death's bitter cup, and still, for almost countless years, the Reaper passed him up. And, doubtless, in the twilight gray, this man, still hale and strong, would tell his visitors the way he stayed on earth so long. "I always sleep up in a tree," methinks I hear him cry; "no musty sleeping-rooms for me! They make the people die. I walk twelve miles before the bells have summoned men to toil; my breakfast is of walnut shells washed down with castor oil. I turn ten handsprings every hour, and stand upon my head, and drink three quarts of milk that's sour before I go to bed. The man who'd live must never cease his exercises hard; I rub my joints with axle grease and wash my feet in lard. I steam my head three times a day, which is a goodly plan; my dinner is a bale of hay, my lunch a pail of bran. I think the people are but fools who, young, lie down and die; if you'll adopt my simple rules, you'll live as long as I." The old man's hearer, startled much, no doubt in wonder cries: "The mantle of Doc Woodsy Hutch upon his shoulders lies."

Birthdays of Note

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY TENTH.

Dr. R. A. Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, who is forty-seven years of age to-day, is said to have been considerably surprised when he was informed that he had been selected as head of Canada's largest university. There were nearly one hundred names under consideration by the committee of governors. He was unknown to nearly all the members of the committee and under the circumstances it seemed hardly possible that he would be appointed. On the eve of sailing for a holiday trip to the Mediterranean, he was sent for and came hurriedly to Toronto, where he was duly "inspected." Nothing was done at the time but when he was in Italy on his vacation journey he was apprised by cable that he had been chosen president. Dr. Falconer was born in Prince Edward Island brought up on the island of Trinidad and educated in Edinburgh.

Jackson is now under criminal indictment for fraud under duress.

Sometimes a woman believes everything her husband tells her. But she has her fingers crossed and both ears stuffed with cotton.

Women ought to be interested in the good roads movement. The better the roads the less excuse hubby will have for getting home late.

It is no task for a clever woman to manage a young man—during courtship.

WOMAN SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She was Finally Restored to Health.

Hammond, Ont. — "I am passing through the Change of Life and for two years had hot flushes very bad, headaches, soreness in the back of head, was constipated, and had weak, nervous feelings. The doctor who attended me for a number of years did not help me, but I have been entirely relieved of the above symptoms by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, and give you permission to publish my testimonial." — Mrs. LOUIS BEAUCAGE, Sr., Hammond, Ont., Canada.

New Brunswick, Canada. — "I can highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any suffering woman. I have taken it for female weakness and painful menstruation and it cured me." — Mrs. DEVERE BARBOUR, Harvey Bank, New Brunswick, Canada.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

BOY CONDUCTOR BEFORE THE CZAR

Russian Royalty Honor Willy Ferrero, Aged Seven

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 10.—The Italian child conductor, Willy Ferrero, aged seven and a half years, who recently conducted the Imperial orchestra at a command performance before the Czar, also gave a performance before the Empress Marie and other members of the royal family. He was presented by the Czar with a gold watch with the Imperial arms set in diamonds and pearls. The Empress was so delighted with the way he conducted the Imperial Orchestra that she gave him a large box of chocolates, and promised to send him toys.

Young Ferrero was born in America. His parents are on the stage, and listening to music became part of his daily life. At two he began to show signs of talent. Paris was the first scene of his appearance in public three and a half years ago.

PRIZE FOR RIFLEMEN.

Special Trophy for Individual Competitors Given by Militia Council.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—Members of the various civilian rifle clubs throughout the Dominion will in future have a new incentive for shooting straight.

The militia council has decided to offer a special individual prize to be known as the Dominion of Canada prize.

The prize will consist of a nickel-silver ornamental salver ten inches in diameter, bearing the coat of arms of the Dominion.

To be eligible for the prize it will be necessary for the association in question to hold four competitions during the season in which at least forty per cent. of the members must take part. The ranges over which the competition will be shot will be 200, 500 and 600 yards, seven scoring shots at each range to count.

Urges Aldwych Site Scheme.

MONTREAL, Feb. 10. — Advocating the adoption of the Aldwych site as the Canadian centre in London, and part of the imperial scheme which is backed by Earl Grey, Lord Chelmsford addressed the Canadian Club here yesterday. He pointed out the central advantages of the location, and said that the London County Council had broken their rule and offered to sell it on a freehold basis, besides granting other valuable concessions. People wanted the site for commercial uses, but as London homes of the Dominions it was of the highest importance, both for administrative and business reasons.

M'GIBBON TO TESTIFY

Montreal Financier Called in Quebec Legislative Inquiry

MONTREAL, Feb. 10.—All investigations in connection with further enquiries of the investigation committees of both Houses appointed to look into the charges made by The Montreal Daily Mail against J. O. Mousseau, Achille Bergevin and L. P. Berard were postponed until to-day on decision of the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon.

Important witnesses, when the enquiry is resumed, are likely to be D. Lorne McGibbon and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux. Mr. Lavergne, in the lower House yesterday afternoon, requested Mr. Taschereau, chairman of the investigating committee, to summon D. Lorne McGibbon, and Mr. Taschereau promised that he would. The summoning of Hon. Mr. Rodolphe Lemieux is a direct result of the statement of C. P. K. Carpenter of Gaspe, to the effect that Mr. Lemieux had given him a letter introducing him to the promoters of the Montreal Fair Association bill. Mr. Lemieux has expressed his desire to be heard before the committee, and he will therefore be called.

On the understanding that the investigating committee of the lower House would proceed yesterday afternoon, M. E. Nichols, president and managing director of The Daily Mail, and L. T. Marechal, K.C., counsel for The Daily Mail, arrived last night. They were surprised when they heard the investigation had been postponed until to-day. B. A. Macnab, editor of The Daily Mail, will arrive in Quebec to-day.

"From present indications," said Mr. Taschereau yesterday, "I should say that the main evidence is completed. Although it is impossible to state definitely, I do not think that the investigation of the lower House committee will take more than a couple of days or so." As for the presentation of the report to the House he could not be sure, but it would be before the end of the present session.

PAID SURPRISE VISIT.

Bishop of London Finds No Torture at Holloway.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Another surprise visit to Holloway jail to investigate the conditions under which two militant suffragettes, Miss Kitty Marion and Miss Phyllis Brady, who are incarcerated there, was made by the Bishop of London in response to a request from the Women's Social and Political Union, the militant organization, yesterday.

Miss Marion is serving a sentence of three years' penal servitude for arson, and Miss Brady is awaiting trial on a similar charge. The bishop says Miss Marion, as a protest against her continued imprisonment, always gave four or five shouts or screams when subjected to the operation of forcible feeding, but she did not look ill as a result. She made no complaint of harshness.

WHITNEY GETS UP.

Premier Dresses Himself for First Time Since Illness.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—Sir James Whitney's condition is now regarded as being past the danger line, and his improvement yesterday was the signal for him to get out of bed and dress himself.

Sir George Ross is gradually improving, although he is far from strong. His cheerful temperament stands him in good stead. Altogether the signs attending the two distinguished patients are that they will again take more than an ephemeral interest in life.

It is quite likely that Sir James Whitney will go abroad for a prolonged rest when he leaves the hospital.

Workman Nearly Drowned.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 10.—Bernard Sheppard of First street, Niagara Falls, N.Y., an employe of the power plant of the Electrical Development Co., had a narrow escape from drowning in the company's forebay. He was forced off the racks by a ten-ton iron beam swinging free from a hoisting boom. For about twenty minutes he was in the water, his head held fast above water against the iron screen over a penstock intake by the force of the inrushing water. Sheppard succeeded in pulling himself up on the racks.

To Hold Party Caucus.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Repeal of the provision of the Panama Canal Act exempting American coastwise ships from tolls, favored by President Wilson, is to be made a subject of consideration and action by a Democratic caucus of the Senate. That this would be a wise and necessary course in the interests of party harmony and the nation's foreign policy, is the conclusion of administration senators who have discussed the subject with the President within the last few days.

Villages Join Power Union.

DRUMBO, Feb. 10.—As a result of the voting on Hydro-Electric bylaws yesterday, Drumbo, Plattsville and Princeton have joined the power union. Large majorities were polled in all three villages. The results were as follows: Princeton, for 50, against 23; Drumbo, for 58, against 9; Plattsville, for 90, against 2.

Dr. Burke May Be Bishop.

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 10. — It is stated here yesterday that Bishop Mathieu of Regina will shortly become Assistant Bishop of Quebec, while Rev. Dr. A. E. Burke of Toronto will be the next Bishop of Regina. Bishop Mathieu is at present in Quebec.

MARVEL OF WIRELESS.

Signor Marconi Can Now Light Lamp Six Miles Away.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Signor Marconi has furnished another illustration of the facility with which modern science can perform feats surpassing those of the legendary magicians of the middle ages. He announces that he can light a lamp by wireless power at a distance of six miles. The bulb of a lamp is attached to a wireless receiver, connected in its turn with a receiving aerial wire. At the other point of the experiment a transmitter in space was linked up with the power of one hundred horsepower. As soon as the power was applied, the bulb, six miles away, lighted up and remained alight as long as the power kept on. This experiment, Mr. Marconi hopes, may be the forerunner of the use of wireless power for lighting and heating houses.

To Keep Navigation Open.

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 10. — Between $35,000 and $40,000 is to be expended by the Dominion Government during the rest of the winter in breaking the ice in the bay and up the Kaministiquia river, the keeping open of the channels in the local harbor and other harbor work. For harbor improvements, building of wharves, widening of channels and the customary dredging, the amount set aside by the Government this year is $1,000,000.

PARCEL POST STARTED

Souvenir Mail Bag to Duke is First Packet Carried

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—"First packet sent by Canadian parcel post, Feb. 10, 1914."

Such was the inscription in raised letters upon three brass bars affixed to the face of the handsome leather mail bag which was despatched as the first parcel post to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught by Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, at 12 o'clock last midnight.

Without any ceremony or formality the Canadian system of parcels post was inaugurated and the first parcel forwarded to its destination. The mail bag will be used in future to convey His Royal Highness' mail to and from Government House and the postoffice here. Below the inscription is the royal coats of arms and the initials of H. R. H.

Mr. Pelletier did not wait until midnight to post the first parcel. He called at the Ottawa postoffice early in the evening, purchased the necessary stamps, affixed them to the parcel and mailed it. At midnight the Department automobile called at the postoffice, picked up a mail bag containing the parcel and carried it to Rideau Hall, where it was received by the secretary, who had been instructed to await its coming.

The officials and staff of the Ottawa postoffice mailed Madame Pelletier a beautiful bouquet of flowers as a souvenir of the inauguration of the system.

In the various postoffices of the Dominion the staffs have been busy for several months past digesting new rules and preparing for the inception of the system. The railway companies demanded something like four millions for the extra carriage, but eventually settled for an amount less than $600,000 above the present payment for carrriage of the ordinary mails.

It will take some months for the system to emerge from the organization stage, but the Postmaster-General believes it will be a paying proposition.

G. T. R. Tower Station Burned.

PORT COLBORNE, Feb. 10.—The new Grand Trunk tower station, of the recently installed interlocking system, was totally destroyed at an early hour yesterday. The loss will be several thousand dollars. The efficient work of the Port Colborne hose company saved the adjoining buildings.

Ottawa's Mayor Very Ill.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—The condition of Mayor Taylor McVeity, whose illness has developed into pneumonia, was stated by his physician yesterday to be very serious.

PROROGATION IN MAY?

If Redistribution Is Not Contentious Session May Be Short.

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—It is predicted to-day that unless the redistribution bill should prove unusually contentious Parliament will prorogue about the end of May. The bill will be brought down this week. Aside from these the chief business of the session includes civil service legislation, trust and loan company regulations, consolidation of the Shipping and Railway Acts and some smaller measures which are not expected to prove contentious.

Chief interest to-day is centred in the possible revelations contained in the G. T. R. report.

Cannot Disclaim Liability.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The Court of Appeal yesterday dismissed the appeal of the White Star Steamship Co. from a decision of the King's Bench Court on June 30, declaring illegal the condition printed on the steamship tickets exempting the company from liability for loss by a passenger, even through the negligence of the company's servants.

The question of legality of this exempting clause had been raised in a test case brought by an Irish farmer, claiming damages for the loss of his son in the Titanic disaster.

OBITUARY

Death claimed an old and highly respected resident of the community, in the person of Mrs. Margaret Dwyer, who passed away at the advanced age of 79 years.

The deceased lady, whose maiden name was Margaret Butler, has been a resident of Lindsay for sixty years, was born in Tipperrary, Ireland, and came to Canada at an early age. Her parents settled in Percy township, Northumberland county, and over a half century later she moved to Lindsay. The Butlers were pioneer residents of Asphodel township, Peterboro county, and were honored and respected by all classes.

In 1866 the late Mrs. Dwyer was called upon to mourn the loss of her husband, Patrick Dwyer. Since his death she has made her home with her son, James, of Lindsay, who, with two other brothers, John of Gooding, Idaho, Joseph, of Peterboro, a daughter living in Lindsay, and a sister, Mrs. O'Reilly of Brickley, Northumberland County, are left to mourn her loss.

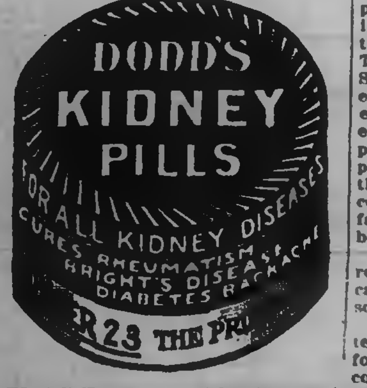
The funeral will take place from the residence of her son, James Dwyer, 15 Glenelg St., on Wednesday at 8.45, a.m., to St. Mary's Church and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.—Lindsay Post.

LOCHLIN J. CAMPBELL

The death took place in Woodville on Saturday of a former well known resident of Lindsay, in the person of Lochlin J. Campbell. The deceased gentleman left Lindsay with his family some fifteen years ago to his farm about seven miles from Beaverton, where he has resided ever since. He is survived daughters. The sons are Messrs. L. daughters. The ones are Messrs. L. J. Campbell, Beaverton, J., on the homestead; Frank and Kenneth in the West, the daughters; Elizabeth at home; Sister Augustine Almonte, Sister St. Paul, and Sister Emilda, Peterboro, members of St. Joseph's Community.

The funeral took place this morning to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

A matter of vital consideration in a successful home is the color of the rooms. It should be simple and restful always, because home is a place of refuge.



THE VALUE OF NEWSPAPERS

Debate at Meeting of Normal School Literary Society

At the regular meeting of the Normal School Literary Society last Friday afternoon, the teachers-in-training listened to a very fine debate, the subject being, Resolved, That Newspapers do More Harm Than Good. There were some very good points brought out on both sides. Miss Marion M. Van Nest, in her remarks, as leader for the negative side, endeavored to show the educational, moral and social value of newspapers. Miss Van Nest said:

Mr. President and fellow pupils:

My colleague and I are here to defend the newspaper, to prove that although it still has faults, these faults are completely overbalanced by its benefits to mankind as the bearer of tidings, the herald of commerce and a more or less accepted guide in the matters of politics, theology, morals, arts and sports. It will be my duty to prove that the newspaper has been and is of great value, educationally, morally and socially.

Prior to the advent of newspapers the world was governed by the church; it was to the interests of that church to keep mankind in ignorance. But following the Renaissance the invention of printing in 1477 soon made it easy to scatter the new ideas far and wide. G. M. Wrong's History tells us that the newspaper made men partly independent of the living voice and in time it placed the best efforts of the human mind within the reach of everyone.

Dr. Coloquhoun says—"The newspaper is one of the great educative forces of the period, it deals with every factor which makes for the enlightenment and uplifting of mankind and no effort is thrown away which tends to perfect its methods and stimulate its power for good.

Let me prove this:—The newspaper acts as a teacher; it teaches interesting lessons in geography, its subject matter is composed of such events as Steffanson's exploration in the north and Shackleton in the south. The newspaper teaches Science. Take the visit of the famous American naturalist, John Burroughs to Toronto last year. The press published very interesting and instructive accounts of the work of this man in the field of Science. The Toronto Globe employes a Nature Study expert who writes very clever editorials on flowers, animals, trees, etc. Newspapers record historical events as soon as they have transpired. Those who have read in the papers the last week an account of the life and works of Lord Strathcona, will have learned more real facts about the man than any text book could ever teach them.

Sanborn has said: "The careful readers of a few good newspapers can learn more in a year than most scholars do in their great libraries.

Newspaper editorials are very often along educational lines. Take for instance, the space in editorial columns devoted recently to the bilingual question. Some papers notably the Toronto Globe, are giving a page for the use of young people, in this way affording an opportunity for the developing of literary talent.

Goldwin Smith spoke truly when he said: "Certainly in power, literary excellence, creation of opinion, and scope of subjects, the press has gained."

Surely a well edited newspaper is the best instrument for conveying literature, politics, everything that is good for the human mind.

Poor Man's University

Someone has said: "Give a man the newspapers, an atlas and a dictionary and he can gain what is equivalent to a college education." The newspapers are the poor man's university.

Turning to the moral side of the question, let us first consider the prominence given to the pulpit in newspaper columns. Many sermons are printed in full and thus by the printing of church programmes, notices, as well as sermons; the clergy is using the newspaper to strengthen the church's influence. A glance at the Peterboro papers will confirm this. Recent sermons on social problems have been printed almost at full length.

Social unrest is one of the big problems of the day and newspapers are realizing this. Every day they are publishing articles from the pen of men and women who have opinions to offer concerning this and other questions. Thus they encourage the exchange of ideas and opinions.

The newspaper is the mouthpiece of the nation. It was a Frenchman who wrote: "Suffer yourself to be blamed, imprisoned, condemned, suffer yourself even to be hanged, but publish your opinions! It is not a right, it is a duty." The discussion of the reasons for the depopulation of the country districts of Ontario have occupied much space in papers recently, and will serve to illustrate my point.

Bishop Horne writes:—"The follies, vices, and consequent miseries of the multitude displayed in the newspapers are so many admonitions and warnings, so many beacons continually burning to burn others from the rocks on which they have been ship-wrecked." Surely it is better to have light than darkness. The effect of such reading depends altogether on the character of the individual.

In the case of children, the mother's power of guidance has to be exercised. Sensationalism is not the fault of the newspaper, the newspaper is a record of the world's doings. When men become perfect, then will our newspapers be perfect.

Editorials frequently follow tendencies in modern life, thus awakening the public to a realization of present day evils and encouraging a discussion of remedies.

Newspaper editorials have done much toward securing, for example, proper laws regarding the attendance of young children at moving picture shows. The opposition has made much of the yellow journalism trend in newspapers. Medill McCormack, a well known New York newspaper man, says: "The purpose of ideal journalism is to hold the mirror up to nature, to tell the tale palatable or unpalatable, to unsparingly uncover fraud and corruption. Such journalism has been an inspiration to free people for a century."

Considering the social value of the newspapers, it is evident that its chief benefit to mankind is in the pleasure it affords him. It widens his social circle, broadens his views, brings him into touch with current events and movements, the world over, and so brings out the best in the individual and thus makes for social efficiency.

The newspaper as a convenience and economizer of time cannot be over-estimated. A couple of hundred years ago men congregated in coffee houses and discussed despatches, one another's opinions and any events which had happened in their narrow sphere of life. They might spend hours there and get little enough for their pains. Modern men can master the news of the past twenty-four hours as he travels to his office in the morning.

Every newspaper acts as an employment agency. The Toronto Telegram is an outstanding example of this, as it publishes several pages of want ads of all classes.

The newspaper as a means of distributing information, is invaluable. The business man goes to it to learn the state of the market and to keep posted on prices of productions all over the world. The man in the world of finance goes there for stock quotations. The Toronto Saturday Night devotes a whole page to the discussion of financial problems, and settles such by legal authority, before publishing it too.

Thus the newspaper has now become indispensable to the business world. The housewife goes to Ruth Cameron, Rose Rambler, Poly Rule, or Kit, for ideas concerning her particular calling, and to the advertisements for bargains and economical purchasing. The clergyman goes to the newspaper to learn of social conditions, and that student would be a fossil indeed, who does not keep in touch with the newspaper.

MORE DISCUSSION BY BOARD OF HEALTH

"It's a success in other places," said the M. H. O.

Mayor Buller offered to bet the cost of a test that the they could not be put in force in this city by a by-law.

The M. H. O. contended that it was easier to wash a bottle than a tin can.

Dr. McPherson moved that the milkmen be compelled to sell milk in bottles only. There was no seconder.

Smallpox Hospital

Then the M. H. O. outlined the great necessity of a smallpox hospital. The tent and equipment they had now were rotten. "You are putting yourselves in a position for damages if you have not adequate quarters for smallpox patients," he said.

The various accounts amounting to $458.16 for the month, were ordered to be paid.

Sanitary Inspector Spence recommended that a sewer be constructed on Bethune Street near Dalhousie and Sherbrooke. It was decided to recommend that the sewer be built.

CLARINA NEWS

Special Correspondence

CLARINA, Feb. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. R. Rutherford spent a few days visiting relatives here last week.

Mrs. J. Drain and Mrs. R. Cluffe spent Wednesday afternoon the guest of Mrs. J. Lloyd.

Miss E. Drain has returned after spending a couple of weeks with Miss F. Easson of Otonabee.

Miss J. Puffer who is attending Norwood High School, spent Sunday at her home here.

The men around here are busy taking out cordwood.

Mr. Wm. Puffer and sons are busy putting up a saw mill which they intend to do a big business in the near future.

The young people are getting scarce in this settlement. Two marriages have taken place lately, that of Miss Annie Rodgers to Mr. Murney Rodgers of Tweed, and Mr. Archie Miles to Miss Jessis MacDonald, of Norwood.

Mr. Alvin Drain and Miss Irene Adamson spent Sunday at Warsaw.

THEATRICAL

The Temple of Mirth and Melody, as presented by the Primrose and Dockstader minstrels at the Grand last night, delighted the fairly large audience. George Primrose and Lew Dockstader are as popular as ever, and their own work and that of the company was of a very high standard.

Two of the popular songs were: "Sit down You're Rocking the Boat" and "When any oldSchool Boy Meets an Old School Girl." As usual, Lew Dockstader had plenty of local hits.

Probably one of the most enjoyable features of the show is the work of the saxaphone sxetette. Raymond Wylie, tenor, was a big favorite.

The motion pictures will be continued at the Grand tonight.

MET WITH MISHAP AFTER VISITING AT THE HOSPITAL

Miss Chamberlain Falls and Fractures Right Wrist.

On returning to her home on Sherbrooke Street, west, last evening, Miss Chamberlain slipped and fell, breaking her right arm between the wrist and the elbow.

Miss Chamberlain was taken to Nicholl's Hospital. She had visited her sister, Mrs. H. C. Winch at the hospital in the afternoon and had alighted from the street car at Sherbrooke Street. It was only a few minutes later that she met with the accident.

Mrs. Winch, it will be remembered, was taken to the hospital suffering from a fracture of the leg.

Beats Even Canada.

Canadian farmers have many wonderful records to their credit, but recent exhibitions show that the achievements of English farmers are something to boast about. A shorthorn which weighed just over 23 hundredweight, a new seedling potato, on tuber of which has produced a family of 414 tubers; a turkey, only seven months old, weighing 37 pounds, and priced at $125; and yard-long carrots from the estate of the Duke of Portland are among the wonders of the agricultural shows which have been held in London and Birmingham lately.

Grape jam with whipped cream on it is a novel and pretty dessert.

REDISTRIBUTION TO-DAY; PREMIER WILL INTRODUCE BILL AND OUTLINE POLICY

Boundaries of Ridings Will be Blank and First Discussion is Expected on Thursday

OTTAWA, Feb. 10.—Premier Borden to-day will introduce his bill for redistributing the seats in the House of Commons, in accordance with the last census, and will make a brief statement as to the policy and position of the Government. No discussion is anticipated until the second reading of the bill, which will probably be moved on Thursday, when a special committee will be named. As already announced, the schedules of the bill will be in blank, so that no indication will be given as to the boundaries of the various ridings throughout the country.

Most of yesterday's sitting was taken up with a debate on the changes of winter ports made by the Canadian mail steamers. The discussion was adjourned to await a statement from Hon. Mr. Hazen.

Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Customs, has given notice of an important resolution which will be followed by a bill to amend the Export Act to prohibit the exportation of crude or partly manufactured petroleum obtained in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia, the Northwest Territories, or the Yukon.

It is interesting to remember in connection with this proposed measure that the Government has arraigned with the British Admiralty that the navy will have the first call on the produce of the oil fields of Canada, should this be necessary for fuel for the ships of war of the British Empire.

Upon the orders of the day, several Opposition members claimed that what purported to be a list of the supplementary estimates of the Public Works Department for Victoria County, C.B., was being distributed in an effort to influence the pending by-election, and Hon. Mr. Rogers denied that anyone had any knowledge or authority on the subject.

A. K. Maclean (Halifax) addressed the House in support of his resolution calling upon the Government to produce a copy of all papers in connection with the adoption of the port of St. John, N.B., as the port of call of the mail subsidized transatlantic steamers, Royal George and Royal Edward, for the winter season for 1913-14.

Mr. Maclean said that the Government had made a contract with all the big steamship lines for the carriage of the transatlantic mails under which every company was free to choose either Halifax or St. John, N.B., as the winter port. This was followed by the announcement that the Royal Edward and the Royal George steamers, belonging to the Canadian Northern, would change their port from Halifax to St. John.

Mr. Maclean contended that the Canadian Northern had been compelled to remove the Royal steamers from Halifax by the Government. To meet a political exigency pressure had been brought to bear upon the Canadian Northern, which it was unable to resist, being "a suppliant for financial favors from the Government."

Mr. Carvell, who followed, said there had been some extraordinary juggling on the part of the Government, by which Canadian Pacific steamers had been transferred from St. John to Halifax and Canadian Northern steamers from Halifax to St. John. The sufferer had been the Intercolonial, which was now carrying traffic for the Canadian Pacific at a figure away below cost.

In order to induce the Empresses to go to Halifax the Canadian Pacific, according to Mr. Carvell, had been given great concessions by the Intercolonial under the Gutelius-Bosworth agreement.

It was to make up for this loss that the Intercolonial had advanced all freight rates to the general public between Montreal and Halifax about 20 per cent.

Postmaster-General Peleltier said the steamship companies were unwilling to call at both ports and had been given the choice of sailing either from Halifax or St. John. It had so happened that practically all the steamship lines except the Canadian Northern decided on St. John and so advertised. Then suddenly the Canadian Pacific and the Allan Line and the White Star all decided to remove to Halifax. It had created a bad situation and the Government would have been justified in trying to remedy it in any proper way. No undue pressure had been brought upon the Canadian Northern. He pointed out that Mr. Carvell and Mr. A. K. Maclean were riding in opposite directions. One claimed that Halifax had been discriminated against, the other St. John. They could not both be right.

Premier Borden said he did not claim to be a traffic expert, but he believed that the Gutelius-Bosworth agreement was fair and just to the Intercolonial. The Government had proposed submitting it to the Dominion Railway Commission if the citizens of St. John so desired, and were quite ready to submit it to any railway authority.

It appeared that the two Canadian Pacific steamers had removed from St. John to Halifax and two Canadian Northern steamers from Halifax to St. John. Neither port, he thought, had gained anything by the exchange. Unfortunately, the facilities at both ports were inadequate, but when the great works now in progress at Halifax and St. John were completed by the Government, those ports would have facilities equal to any ports on this continent or indeed in the world.

The PrimeMinister indignantly repudiated the suggestion that any undue favor had been shown that Canadian Pacific or that any undue pressure had been brought to bear upon the Canadian Northern.

W. F. Maclean, Hon. H. R. Emmerson, E. M. Macdonald and Mr. Turgeon also spoke and Hon. Robert Rogers moved the adjournment of the debate.

SPEECH HAS EFFECT.

Hughes Criticism of War Office Will Result In Conference.

LONDON, Jan. 10. — The pointed speech of Col. Hughes in the Dominion House last week apropos of the new regulation issued by the Army Council excluding the use of the aperture sight at Bisley, has proved effective. Though denial of the fact was made by home officials Monday, the Canadian Associated Press is able to state that the War Office are already moving in the matter, and yesterday consulted Col. Hughes as to the utility of sending a War Office official immediately to Canada to discuss the whole situation. They of course recognize that for Canadians to compete with sights they never used would be an unfair handicap on them. On the other hand, they argue it would be equally unfair to permit them to use a kind of sight which was forbidden to others. Although debarred from using the aperture sight in territorial competitions Canadians would probably derive a compensating advantage in "open to all comers" competitions. This and cognate questions will doubtless be fully threshed out at the forthcoming conference between the British and Dominion authorities.

TO SAFEGUARD ULSTER.

Irish Economic Reformer Suggests Threefold Scheme.

LONDON, Feb. 10. — Sir Horace Plunkett, noted for his advocacy of agricultural co-operation and technical education, whose opinion in Irish matters carries great weight with all parties, outlines in The Daily Mail a novel plan for settling the Ulster problem. He is firmly of the opinion that the passage of the home rule bill as it stands will lead to serious sectarian riots, perhaps to civil war in Ulster, and to avert such a disaster he proposes that the Ulster Unionists should accept the bill upon three conditions:

First, that a clause should be inserted enabling it to be decided by a plebiscite after a certain number of years, whether any section of Ulster desired to continue subject to the Irish Parliament.

Second, that both sections of Irishmen should be invited to suggest to the Government any amendments which could be incorporated in the bill by consent.

Third, that the Ulster volunteers should be given an opportunity to become organized as a territorial force, with the double object of adding a valuable body to the nation's defensive forces, and preserving intact for the Ulster Unionists an ultimate safeguard, on which, rightly or wrongly, they can rely for the preservation of their liberties.

Sir Horace contends that acceptance of this scheme would furnish a valuable experiment for the various sides in the home rule difficulty.

WILL NOT IMPEACH.

Archbishop of Canterbury Will Not Take Action In Dispute.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The Archbishop of Canterbury yesterday decided definitely against instituting impeachment proceedings against the Bishops of Uganda and Mombasa, Church of England prelates in Africa, on charges of heresy and schism arising out of their action at the Kikuyu conference, East Africa, last June. An attempt was then made to unite all Protestant denominations against the increasing power of the Roman Catholics in East Africa, and a general communion service was held.

The matter is now to be referred to the consultative body of bishops of the Church of England, which meets in July. The bishops will then be asked to decide whether the scheme for a federation of Protestant missionary societies proposed at the Kikuyu conference contravenes the principles of the church order, and whether the holy communion service which closed the conference, at which many of the communicants where not members of the Church of England, was consistent with the principles of the Church of England.

New Zealand Fears Influx.

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z., Feb. 10.—The Dominion Government is becoming alarmed at the great influx of Hindus that is taking place into New Zealand. For the past seven months there has been a steady increase in their numbers. Premier Massey declares: "Something must be done at once to prevent this undue influx," and expresses his intention of dealing with the matter firmly.

DE LAVAL HELD BANKERS TO SCORE OF 3-1 TEST AND TOOLMAKERS WON THEIR GAMES

Two Good Games in the Mercantile League — Last Contest Was One-sided

The Mercantile Hockey League games at Brock street rink last night were decidedly close and interesting yet there were no surprises for the three teams who were expected to come through with victories did so. The ice was in perfect shape, perhaps the best of the season, and anything along the line of good hockey that any of the players had up their sleeves was brought out.

In the first fixture the Bankers and De Laval clashed and the latter threw out a big scare when they held the speedy money men to 3—1, all the scoring being done in the first half. Both teams battled exceedingly hard in the last period. It was thought that the Bankers could walk away with their opponents at leisure, but when they attempted to rush things they found the going a trifle rough. Peter Spratt was the only man the Bankers watched and for a while they had two or three men on him. Peyton hung on Peter's trail all night and don't think for one minute that he wasn't going. This rover is no school boy, but rather he plays a hard, heady game of hockey and might assist in making the Intermediates a trifle stronger.

George Minorgan contributed a few nifty rushes, while Brown, the Bankers' new defence man, is a find. He is big and uses his weight right, which combined with a little speed, makes him a valuable man. McCrimmon in goal, had a rather easy night, although Pete Spratt's shots are none too soft. "Mac" sets out some nice work at times. Of course Spratt was the fast man for the De Laval, but at that the other boys worked hard in an effort to win their game.

The teams:

De Laval—Goal, Dennie; defence, Spratt and Ryder; rover, Byers; centre, Todd; wings, Hill and Patterson.

Bankers—Goal, McCrimmon; defence, Phelan and Brown; rover, Peyton; centre, Minorgan; wings, Moore and Smith.

Test 4. Plumbers 2.

Thanks to Joe Dwyer, the Test have still to lose a game. If ever they were given a go it was last night, when they clashed with the Plumbers It was predicted that the Test would have an easy victory, but the dope went bad and for a while it looked as though it was going to keep them hustling to come out with a win. The score at half time was 2—1 and right after the resting period Dwyer was given a terrible hard session. He was attacked from every angle, but the "red guy" was there and the Plumbers only scored once. The final count was Test 4. Plumbers 2.

The most conspicuous man on the Test team was Carter, their centre man. He was going all the time, and ife he wasn't on the septet, the C. G. E. would surely have gone down to defeat. The Test are going to make a big bid for the league honors, as they are steadily developing good team play. All their forward line work well and check back very fast. For the Plumbers Reynolds, their fleet defence man, showed up, and had they but another with his class, they would surely figure in the running. The rest of the team worked hard, but Dwyer was a little too much.

The teams:

Plumbers—Goal, Dunsford; defence, Reynolds and Mallett; rover, Dobson; centre, Helson; wings, Logan and Langre.

Test — Goal, Dwyer; defence, Brekenridge and McKennan; rover, McDougall; centre, Carter; wings, Munro and Moore.

Adieu Scrubbers.

The last game was about a par with the worst exhibition of hockey ever played in the city since hockey was first invented. The Tool Room and the Examiner team clashed and it's hardly necessary to say who won. As far as we could make out it was 10—1, but at that we could have missed three or four for they were going in at regular intervals. Someone is going to bring up a very good proposition at the annual meeting by which the Examiner team will be kept out of the league unless the price of adding machines comes down a peg or so. The Examiner team cannot help it, we suppose, but at that they ought to have a little more consideration for the newspaper scribes who are trying to keep the score.

It would not be a bit surprising to see an ad in the daily papers to-day or to-morrow advertising the uniforms and sticks for sale. They certainly will never be used again for the team will surely have sense enough next year to go into a public school league, where they will be in their own class. If they do enter the league next year, here's hoping they sign up a manager.

In last night's amusement the Tool Room had a fairly good work-out and appear to be in fine shape for their big game next Monday night with the Test. Barrie was about the fastest man on the ice and scored almost at leisure.

The following are the line-ups of the teams, although we aren't quite sure of the Examiner men's positions, as they are all more or less rovers:

Tool Room 10—Goal, Cassidy; defence, Hilliard and Robson; rover, Jackson; centre, Barrie; wings, Primeau and Fleming.

Examiner 1—Goal, Cook; defence, Swanson and Clancy; rover, Heard; Centre, Armstrong; wings, O'Brien and Primeau.

CHARLEY RAY BENEFIT GAME SATURDAY FEB. 21

The first meeting of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the Charley Ray benefit game on Saturday, February 21st, met last evening in the Dominion Bank chambers, with Mr. Peter Campbell presiding.

It was decided that the game be called at 8.30 and that the tickets be placed at 25 cents, 50 cents and $1. The east side will be 25 cents, as usual; the reserved section at the west and the gallery $1, and 50 cents for the remainder of the west side. The seats in the reserved section will not be numbered, so as to eliminate any possible confusion and inconvenience.

The Old Boys will have a strong team. They have such players as Derocher, Burritt, Crane, Heffernan, Campbell, Clancy, Matthews, Morrow and others, from which to pick a team to make the local Intermediates go the limit and thus provide a rattling good game of hockey. All the boys from the west will pay their own expenses.

It is possible that Jack Maynard, the Varsity star, will referee, and if it should be that he is unable to come, the Old Boys will make sure of securing a referee who can be relied upon to handle the game properly.

Tickets will be sold commencing almost immediately, but notice will be given later as to where they will be placed on sale.

The meeting appointed Mr. R. Neill, chairman of the general committee, and Mr. J. P. Bond, secretary. Messrs. Walkey, Picard and Bond were appointed as a Printing and Advertising Committee and a committee was also appointed to make arrangements for the rink.

The general committee is: Messrs. R. Neill, W. H. Denham, Dr. McPherson, R. Dobie, H. R. H. Kenner, P. Campbell, F. M. Dela Fosse, L. J. Picard, J. J. Thompson, George Lynch, F. D. Craig, C. E. Curtis, C. H. Clementi, W. H. Walkey, J. P. Bond and W. M. Lang.

WANT DENISON FOR GAME WITH PRINCETON

Ottawa College Wants Him at Rover for Saturday.

Ottawa College expects to land Fred Denison for their game with Princeton in Ottawa next Saturday. The Ottawa Free Press says:

The president of the O. H. A. has been written to and permission asked for the playing of Denison. Denny was the big bower on the College American tour, and is now with his home town, Peterboro, in the O.H.A. Hubert Thebo and Derocher are possibilities for goal. Denison should he play, will revolve at rover. The Toronto pros have been scorching the wires in an effort to land him, but so far he has turned a stoney ear to their appeals.

OVER ONE BILLION GALLONS OF WATER

Heavy Increase in Pumpage at the Waterworks Plant

One billion, forty million and thirty-two thousand imperial gallons of water were pumped at the water works station during the year 1913, the Superintending Engineer, Mr. A. G. Fawcett, reported to the Water Commissioners yesterday afternoon. This is a big increase over the previous year. The comparative statement for seven years was given as follows:

	Imp. Gals.
1907	571,146,920
1908	621,466,800
1909	636,825,120
1910	695,164,840
1911	750,375,734
1912	802,525,615
1913	1,040,032,009

The Secretary Treasurer reported as follows:

During the year $29.563.14 was expended in laying mains and setting hydrants and $3,997.04 in laying services, a total of $33,650.18 in this construction work. The expenditure of laying mains includes the cost of the new duplicate force main from the pumping station to Auburn. For totals and plant $1,539.69 was expended, which includes the air compressor and gasoline engine for caulking mains.

The net water rates, including special frontage rates, amounted to $50,994.75. Adding the charge for the use of the dam for power purposes this item is increased to $52.-994.75. The expense accounts, including interest and sinking funds, and amount written off tools and plant for depreciation, amounted to $48,561.77, showing a profit on the year's business of $4,432.99.

The debentures for the cost of the duplicate force main and other construction work of the year not having yet been issued the expenditure on these accounts is in the meantime carried in the bank.

It was decided to ask the city council to issue debentures for $10,-000 to pay for extension and improvements in the waterworks in 1913.

A report was read from the collection on the application of Peter Hamilton Co., for the remission of the rate charges to No. 263 Water St., which had been taken down. It was decided to remit the rate.

The report on remission to W. A. Hall was dealt with in the same manner.

A comunication read from the collector regarding the rent charged for meter at the Armouries. It was resolved that the authorities be informed that the Commissioners would sell the meter for $200.

A communication was received from City Engineer Parsons regarding the laying of street mains this year.

A letter was read from the C.P.R. to their agent, regarding an account of $4.00 for time of section men when the main was laid under their track on the Monaghan Road. It was decided that the Secretary reply that under the order of the Railway Board the Commissioners were not liable for the account.

The letter of application of Gertrude Archer as stenographer was received.

Dr. A. W. McPherson submitted his report for 1913. The Secretary was instructed to write Dr. Clinton District Officer of Health, and ask him if the steamers are being compelled to desist from emptying the sewage into rivers and lakes.

No action was taken regarding one Jas. Flynn, asking for a discount on his house rates, as he was away when they became due.

The communication of J. L. Wyatt for a rebate, was received, but no action taken.

The John McDougal Caledonian Iron Work Co., asked that 50 per cent. of the contract price of pump furnished by them be paid and endorsing other accounts. It was decided that 50 per cent. of the contract price of pump, namely $4,-868.00 be paid the company.

A GOOD RUN

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra Company, who played an engagement in Toronto recently, returned to Chicago via the Grand Trunk Railway and were handled on a special train consisting of one baggage car, one coach, four sleeping cars, and a dining car, leaving Toronto, February 5th at 11.12 p.m., and arriving at Chicago at 9.55 a.m., the following day—a run of 516.15 miles being made in eleven hours and forty-two minutes, an average of forty-four miles per hour, a remarkable run, deducting the loss of time for stops and other operating purposes.

BIG COMPANY AT THE ROYAL

Crowded houses greeted the afternoon and evening performances at the Royal Theatre yesterday. This is the largest and best show ever put on at any of the local moving picture shows and is in fact too good a show for the price of admission. Twenty actors present a light drama intermingled with lively specialties. They will be here all week and they change their entire entertainment every other day, hence the show to-night will be the same as last night's while the one tomorrow will be different, but just as enjoyable. The motion pictures are also very fine.

The Fate of Old Buildings.

Many of Britain's ancient buildings, famous for their historical associations, are being lost to the nation, owing to the progress of this utilitarian age.

At one time or another millionaires have offered to buy old houses connected with famous men of past generations, while other are maintained in a state of repair by the money subscribed by visitors.

Just over twenty years ago the cottage at Chalfont St. Giles, Buckinghamshire, in which Milton took refuge from the plague while finishing "Paradise Lost," was only saved at the last moment. Americans were arranging to buy it and take it to the United States, where it was to be reerected. Fortunately public sentiment was too strong, and a fund was at once raised—to which Queen Victoria was a contributor—to buy it for public use.

Scene from "A Butterfly on the Wheel," Grand Opera House, Saturday, Feb. 14th. Big Bargain Matinee, 25c., 35c. and 50c. Seats on Sale Thursday.

"A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL"

Great interest is aroused in the forth coming appearance of "A Butterfly on the Wheel" at the Grand Opera House. A play that has met with such universal success. In London and in New York it was acclaimed one of the complete triumphs of the season thus proving the appeal of its theme to be worldwide. It has "a punch" of course, all great plays have and this one is its realistic English Divorce Court Scene that holds the auditor intensely absorbed in the gruelling of a poor frail butterfly of a wife by a pitiless prosecuting attorney to her final undoing.

Its direct dialogue is of the gripping kind and holds one spell bound by the cunningly devised deductions on the thoughtless actions of the Butterfly and transforms them into convincing accusations of guilt.

With a talented cast, great acting, and a masterful play, the combination appears perfect for downright enjoyment. Saturday, Feb. 14th, matinee and night.

COLLEGIATE GIRLS PLAY BASKETBALL

Had Fine Trip to Lindsay—Return Game on Saturday.

The P.C.I girls' basketball team met defeat through the skill of the L.C.I. girls by a score of 24-20 on Saturday afternoon.

The Peterborough team, accompanied by Misses McBride and Weir, arrived on the 9.15 G.T.R. train Saturday morning and were met at the station by the captain and several other members of the Lindsay club, who allotted them to the homes of the players.

Shortly after two o'clock the two teams lined up in the Collegiate gymnasium, under the leadership of Captains H. Metherall and Bessie Hopkins, the umpires being Misses Nugent and Harstone, while Mr. E. W. Jennings was referee.

Both teams played beautifully, but L.C.I. gradually forged ahead and by half time stood 13—6. The Peterborough girls were undismayed by the turn of events and strove to regain the ground lost. Fine combination plays were made by P.C.I., only to be checked by a similarly brilliant counter-play of the local team. At the final play, the score stood 24—20 in favor of the local Collegiate girls, and everyone said it was a fine exhibition of first class basketball. It would be hardly fair to pick out stars on either team, because each young lady played her position perfectly, and both teams had combination and great speed, the locals having the advantage in the former, particularly.

The girls play a return game next Saturday in Peterborough.

Line up:

L.C.I.—Forwards, M. Anderson, J. McCulloch; centre, E. Sutcliffe, M. Woods, E. Sproule; defence, L. Balfour, B. Hopkins, (capt.); extra, D. Clarke, K. Woods.

P.C.I.—Forwards, G. Rountree, P. Cumberland; centre, H. Metherall, (capt.), A. Halpin, J. Ross; defence, A. Dobbin, M. Morrison; extra, P. Young, G. Collison.

Umpire—V. Nugent, Miss Harstone.

Try this once, and you'll want to use it often.

LEADER OF HIS SECT IN CANADA IS A WEALTHY MAN

President of the Mormon Settlement in Alberta Has Charge of the Social, Religious and Business Life of Seven Thousand People

One of the most popular men in Southern Alberta is Edwin J. Wood, president of the Mormon Church in Canada. While Mr. Wood is greatly attached to his church, he is nevertheless broad enough to believe in tolerance to all denominations holding religious worship in the confines of the large stretch of country which the Mormon people have taken over to themselves.

It is now 26 years since Mormon settlement of Southern Alberta began. In that year Charles Ora Card, after whom Cardston, the Temple City of Alberta, came with a dozen Mormons and settled along the St. Mary's river in Southern Alberta. This was the nucleus of the 7,000 Mormons to be found in Canada today.

President Wood has entire control of this Mormon population in so far as their relation to the Church is concerned, and relation to the Mormon Church means business, social, and religious affiliation. Everything the Mormon does is controlled by the Church. His business is better known by the president than by his banker. His goods are the Church's if the Church wishes to use them. Over matters of his kind Mr. Wood has direct jurisdiction.

PRESIDENT E. J. WOOD.

When the Church undertook to purchase the old Cochrane ranch in Southern Alberta, it was Mr. Wood who did the business for his organization. Some 65,000 acres were involved in the deal, and the Canadian president has had the selling of this tract in small parcels to Mormon people from Utah and other Mormon colonies.

Edwin J. Wood is also the stockman of the Church. When the large tract of land was purchased a number of cattle went with it. The herd has now increased to several thousand and these this man has under control. He sells to whom he pleases. No one in Canada asks where the money goes. No good Mormon dare doubt the integrity of President Wood.

The responsibility of finding material for a $300,000 temple is now engaging the attention of Mr. Wood. The new structure is to be at Cardston in Southern Alberta, and it will be the first on British soil. Marble must be secured, arrangements made for hauling material, workmen employed, and a thousand other things to engage his attention.

A Mormon president does not receive any salary. President Wood is supposed to do all this gratis. He is a man of considerable wealth, amassed probably before his appointment to the presidency, and can afford to give the time.

It has been said that his wives number more than one. This has been disproved on several occasions. Mr. Wood, however, believes in the principle of polygamy, although he advises his people to refrain from the practice because the law of the land forbids it.

How He Uses His Hands.

Some curious facts about Mr. Townsend, the art editor of London Punch, are narrated. He is a curious instance of ambidexterity. His drawings are done with the left hand, but his letters are written with the right hand. He is left handed as a billiard player, but right handed as a card dealer. And when he plays cricket he is a left handed bowler but a right handed batsman.—London Answers.

His Hunt For Home.

On one occasion De Pachmann, the famous pianist, with his nervous and irritable temperament, was summoned to appear before Queen Alexandra at Buckingham palace. He obstinately refused to go. His friends labored with him for hours and at last persuaded him not to commit an impertinence which would never be forgiven by the English people.

Finally he was dispatched in a cab. The night wore on to morning, and the frantic wife of the pianist and his friends could learn nothing of what had become of him. At last a forlorn looking cab drove up to the house, and De Pachmann dismounted. On leaving the palace he had forgotten where he lived and could only tell the cabman that it was in a square with a church in it. So all night long he had been engaged in making a round of the innumerable squares of London.

MYSTERY OF THE SALMON.

Their Annual Mad Rushes and Death After Spawning.

The world's greatest salmon runs are to be found along the shores of the north Pacific ocean, in the states of Washington, Oregon and California, the province of British Columbia and Alaska, on the American side, and Siberia and Japan, on the Asiatic side. So far, however, but few salmon have been canned on the Asiatic side.

To one who has never witnessed these annual runs it is almost an impossibility to convey an adequate impression of the countless numbers of fish that swim in from the sea in the late spring and summer, all imbued with the same desire—to gain suitable grounds in the upper reaches of the rivers, some of which are from 1,500 to 2,500 miles in length, where they may perpetuate the species.

No obstacle appears too great to be surmounted in this feverish rush. Jumping falls, shooting rapids, dodging nets, bears, birds, mink, otter and other enemies, fighting with other males, whom the near approach of the breeding season renders especially savage—all these are taken as a matter of course.

And yet one sometimes wonders if the heroic struggle is worthily repaid, for the moment of victory is also that of death, as, sad to relate, these valiant voyagers can breed but once and then must die, their wasted bodies, which have received no nourishment since leaving salt water, becoming the prey of any prowling bear or carrion bird which may chance upon them. Why these fish should all die after spawning still remains one of the great unsolved mysteries of the scientific world.—Wide World Magazine.

Pocket Hunters.

There is no more interesting character in California than that class of prospector known as the "pocket hunter." In certain sections of the mountains the rich gold deposits are contained in small scattered pockets near the surface. The pocket miners often discover many rich deposits by tracing the particles of gold in the soil to their sources. As soon as a pocket is gouged out and colors of gold are no longer shown the place is abandoned. In one pocket in Trinity county as much as $45,000 was yielded in a few feet.—Argonaut.

IMPROVING THE BREED.

ONE eminent surgeon says that old age is caused by germs in the larger intestine and that man would live longer with it amputated. Another wants to ward off possibilities of indigestion by cutting out the stomach. A third would lop off the appendix right at the start without giving it a chance to get gay, and a fourth is for clipping off the tonsils. Perhaps the child of the future as soon as nature has turned it out in the raw state will at once be turned over to the surgeons for the finishing touches.

Who knows but what mankind as soon as he has been perfected will be fitted out with an internal gasoline engine to perform the functions now done in a hesitating manner by the organs of the body. There may come a time when the sick man instead of going to the doctor will hie himself away to the repair shop for treatment.

Worth Its Cost.

When something for nothing
By chance you may get
It's worth what it costs you—
On that you can bet.
And still more distressing
Some things that you buy
And pay for with money
Of worth are as shy.

The bargains in landscapes,
In mines and in stocks
That cost but a trifle
If taken in blocks
May go up a-kiting
And dividends pay,
But most of them travel
The opposite way.

The dollars and doughnuts
You capture with pain,
That come with a struggle—
The hard worked for gain
May not be of value,
But if it is not
You know how you got it,
And that helps a lot.

This something for nothing,
As you are aware,
Is but a delusion
And likewise a snare.
Indeed, you are lucky
And working it strong
If something for something
Pans out right along.

COURTESIES OF WAR.

Christmas Boxes the Boers Dropped Among the English.

When the Boers advanced on Ladysmith in the Transvaal war the late Melton Prior was one of the twenty newspaper correspondents who threw in their lot with the English army instead of making the hurried retreat that was still possible. In his book, "Campaigns of a War Correspondent," he tells many interesting incidents of the siege.

The enemy succeeded in placing thirty-two guns on the heights above the town and kept up such an incessant fire that the troops and civilians were soon engaged in digging bomb proof shelters. In a short time they learned to distinguish the different Boer guns by their sound and gave them amusing names. Three of the large ones they called "Long Tom," "Puffing Billy" and "Weary Willie." Then there was "Silent Susan," so named because the bursting of a shell was the first warning we got that it had been fired. "Bloody Mary," as you may suppose, was looked upon as a beast of a gun.

In spite of the havoc that the cannon worked, the soldiers soon grew accustomed to the shelling. One day the Second Gordon highlanders were playing football, when a shell plumped in among them. Fortunately, no one was hit, and they went on playing. The Boers were so interested, apparently, that they gave up firing and actually sat on the edge of the hills, watching the game. Then, when it was all over, the firing started afresh.

But this was not the only courtesy the enemy showed. On Christmas day they saluted the happy morn by salvos of shells. The first two that fell into the camps of the carabineers and the Imperial Light horse did not burst. When the shells were picked up it was found that wooden plugs had been inserted in place of the fuses, and inside the shells were plum puddings. On the outside were the words, "With the compliments of the season."

THE CRUSH OF WORLDS.

It Will Come When the Solar System Falls Into the Sun.

The whole of the present solar system is ultimately to fall into the sun, causing an explosion that may result in a new solar system. Such is the theory put forward in the Journal of Natural Science by Professor Philip Fauth, a well known astronomer, whose reputation has rested principally upon his researches into conditions on the moon.

The novel feature of Dr. Fauth's theory is that it is based upon the supposition that a great part of the known solar system, including especially the planets Jupiter, Uranus and Saturn, are not composed of mineral matter at all, but are tremendous masses of ice, or balls of ice surrounding a mineral kernel. Furthermore, he declares, a part of what is now known as the Milky way is not mineral or gaseous, but "a ring of ice dust," masses of particles of ice suspended in space, the outer planets receiving a constant addition to their ice mass from this source.

Professor Fauth declares that the world already at some remote period has had a similar experience, resulting in the death of nearly all animate nature, and that all species of life as we know it have arisen since then. Eventually the planets swinging through their narrowing orbits will fall into the sun, causing a new explosion and perhaps the birth of a new solar system, but for thousands of years before that time all life, either on earth or elsewhere, will have disappeared.—New York Sun.

His Conceit.

'Abbe Pradt, a minor light of Napoleon's time, was a most conceited man. The Duke of Wellington met him in Paris at a dinner given in honor of himself. The abbe made a long oration, chiefly on the state of political affairs, and concluded with the words, "We owe the salvation of Europe to one man alone." "Before he gave me time to blush," said the duke, "he put his hand on his heart and continued, 'To me.'"

All In Harmony.

"Have you been in Mrs. Glider's new home?"

"No."

"It's furnished perfectly exquisite. You ought to see the antiques! Everything is just as old as it can be. Why, she hasn't neglected a single period."

"Indeed!"

"Yes. What do you think? She's even got a Queen Anne vacuum cleaner!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Oath of Silence.

In certain districts of Western Australia there are women who take an oath to remain silent after the death of their husbands. In some cases they will remain mute for two years after the funeral, and very often the oath is kept also by the mother and mother-in-law of the deceased.—Paris Revue Medicale.

To Make Light Omelet.

Use one teaspoonful of cold water for each egg in place of milk and the omelet will be lighter and will not fall.

IT FORMS A FASCINATING STUDY IN HUMAN DEVELOPMENT

For All the Improvements in Means of Locomotion Man Has Not Been Able to Do Without the Wheel For Purposes of Locomotion.

The history of the evolution of locomotion, as well as an infinity of other studies of the keenest interest, could all be centred in the wheel, states a writer in The Lady. Without wheels we should have no watches, no steering at sea. We should be unable to utilize the waterfalls as motor force, nor should we have hundreds of other things of the utmost attraction and utility. All our modern civilisation has come to us on wheels. All we have learned about other countries, all the commerce we have established throughout the world, and our means of wealth we owe to the wheel. It is difficult to imagine what the world would come to if suddenly all wheels vanished from our midst. No war, no famine, no revolution could be one-hundredth part as effectual in putting us back centuries as the lack of wheels.

The first men, when they wished to move their goods from one place to another must have joined together a few planks of wood, placed them on the trunk of a tree, and dragged this primitive cart along the uneven ground. But very soon after this first step they must have made another, for the necessity of wheels must have been felt by them. The first wheels were made of massive stones or wood, and they became throughout the ages ever lighter as they became more perfect. The axle and the wheel were formerly all in one piece. Then they were made separately. Afterwards the felloe and the spoke were introduced. The first records of carts have come to us from China, then from Egypt.

In the early days of man's civilization there were strange superstitions as to locomotion. It was thought that every existing thing which moved had to be carried on some form of cart. They went so far as to believe that the moon was thus wheeled round the earth on a cart drawn by bulls. In Roman times a primitive shape of cart or basket conveyance was called by them "plaustrum," the wheels of which had no spokes, being solid, and nearly a foot thick. Sometimes they were made of boards nailed together or sawn whole from the trunk of a tree. A wagon of basket work, called "benna," had wheels with many spokes. This vehicle is still used in Italy and other Southern States.

But it is undoubtedly the chariot which appeals to one's imagination most, for the chariot, besides being a vehicle of transit, was part of the luxurious life of the Greeks and the Romans. Their triumphs and their greatest prestige can all be reconstructed by the recollection of their various chariots. The names of the chariots varied according to the number of horses they had harnessed to them. When drawn by two horses they were called "biga," with three "triga," with four "quadriga." Horses were driven abreast, and there are records of as many as 10 having been harnessed to one chariot. But the quadriga was particularly favored. As an emblem of victory it was at times placed on a triumphal arch, and even kept as a heirloom in the homes of some distinguished nobleman whose ancestors had won them as trophies of victory. At this time the chariot wheel was large, prominent, and most important. The typical ones had four spokes fixed on a felloe, with flexible wood arcs, and bound outside by an iron tyre.

The wheel seems to have lent itself to gruesome work from olden times to comparatively recent ones, though as an instrument of torture (which was suppressed by the Revolution) the wheel only became a legal instrument of torture in France at the end of the reign of Francois I. (1534), and was inflicted as a punishment on highwaymen and other culprits. Yet as a means of punishment its use dates back to Roman times, when criminals were crushed to death under the wheels of carts. The Assyrians made wheels even more deadly and fearsome. They looked upon their carts as means of attack and defence, and to their wheels they added sharp blades which literally cut down their enemies. The shape of chariots did not vary much in Jerusalem, Persia, Assyria, India, Greece, or Rome, but it was the Romans who brought them to an artistic perfection unsurpassed. To some of their most beautiful triumphal chariots the Romans attached captive kings after a victorious battle. We can hardly fathom the pride of the conqueror or the humiliation of the conquered at this time.

When we arrive at the period in history of locomotion in which carriages put in an appearance, the romance of wheels begins to wane. The first of these is mentioned by Xerxes on his invasion of Greece. He is then said to have possessed a carriage as well as a chariot. The Roman transport cart, with its powerful wheels, has come down to us unchanged, and is still used in country districts. At the end of the 18th century carriages were in general use, and could be hired. Then a variety of shapes came into—and went out of—fashion: mail-coach, omnibus, tilbury, stanhope, dogcart, cab, hansom, brake, wagonette, buggy, victoria, landau, phaeton, tramcar, and, finally, motor vehicles replaced horse-drawn conveyances. But they had one thing in common—all of them went on wheels.

To Keep Rice Grains Whole.

Have plenty of water boiling rapidly in a large saucepan, add to it the strained juice of a lemon, put in the rice, stir with a cooking fork (never stir rice with a spoon), boil hard for fifteen minutes uncovered. Now add the salt, stir well, boil ten minutes longer, pour it into a colander, shake well, put into a warm over for five minutes to dry, serve in a hot uncovered vegetable dish. The lemon juice does not flavor the rice.

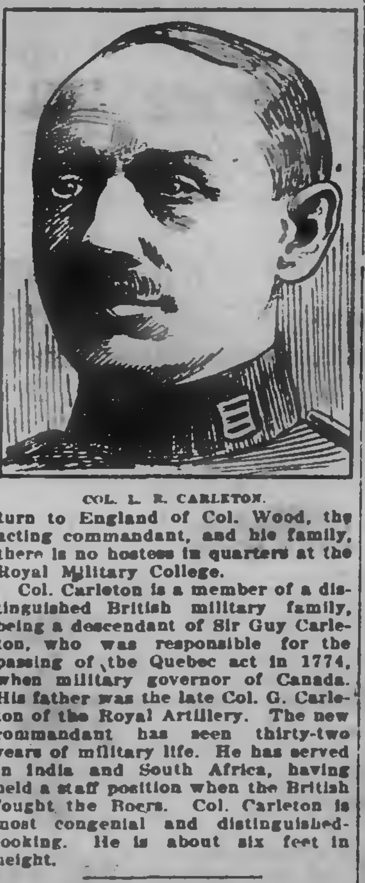
COL. CARLETON IS A BACHELOR

COL. CARLETON IS NEW COMMANDANT OF R. M. C.

There Will Be No Hostess In Quarters at Kingston's Military School as a Result of the Choice Which the Militia Department Has Made—Col. Carleton Has Thirty-Two Years Experience.

The Royal Military College at Kingston is now presided over by a bachelor commandant in the person of Col. L. R. Carleton of the Essex Regiment. Whether the Minister of Militia purposely chose a man of the Kitchener type to rule at Point Frederick is being debated. However, the fact remains that, with the return to England of Col. Wood, the acting commandant, and his family, there is no hostess in quarters at the Royal Military College.



COL. L. R. CARLETON.

Col. Carleton is a member of a distinguished British military family, being a descendant of Sir Guy Carleton, who was responsible for the passing of the Quebec act in 1774, when military governor of Canada. His father was the late Col. G. Carleton of the Royal Artillery. The new commandant has seen thirty-two years of military life. He has served in India and South Africa, having held a staff position when the British fought the Boers. Col. Carleton is most congenial and distinguished-looking. He is about six feet in height.

POSTPONED PLEASURES.

I'D like to in a flying ship
Go gayly aviating
Above the people who below
Were with their fears debating.
I'd like to sail above the town
And say, "Ah, there, my hearty!
Come up today. The air is fine,"
To some fat, ancient party.

I'd like to circle in the clouds,
Around, above and under
A summer storm that I might see
Just how they made the thunder,
And to discover how and where
Its noise, ear splitting, hatches,
And with the lightning light my pipe
When I ran out of matches.

Above the housetops I would dodge
And round the windows flutter
To hear the screams the frightened girls
On seeing me would utter,
And then I'd pick a pretty one,
Behind a curtain hiding,
And ask her to put on her hat
And come with me joy riding.

It's me to thread the Milky way,
Where cream is for the asking,
To skip around among the stars,
In first hand sunshine basking.
But, as I haven't got the price
Nor friends who stand for touches,
I'll wait until they rig the thing
With patent safety clutches.

The more money a woman has the less use she has for a man.

SPECIAL CORNER FOR AFTER DINNER READERS

Carrazini

He Was a Famous Sicilian Bandit.

By RUTH E. STEADMAN

One of the most interesting regions in the world is the island of Sicily. The schoolboy who reads his Vergil is carried along its eastern coast with the hero of the poet's great work, the "Aeneid," under the smoke of Mount Etna. He may see the enormous stones hurled by the Cyclops at the retreating ships where they fell, not far from the coast, and discern in the distance the Libyan shore. All these things are still there as they were when Vergil built about them a story which lives today as it lived when it was written, nineteen centuries ago.

But these regions, so full of interesting antiquities, have passed from their greatness into a state of decay. In none of them has the bandit flourished to a greater extent than in Sicily. On a plateau at the base of Mount Etna, where one may look down upon the waters over which sailed the little fleet of vessels bearing the Trojans, whose descendants were destined to build eternal Rome, one of these bandits had his lair. From the plateau he would swoop down on unsuspecting travelers and return to repeat the process when the spirit moved him.

But after Garibaldi with his thousand men made Sicily a part of united Italy there began a process of reformation. A government was established with a national police capable of hunting down brigands and bringing them to justice.

Carrazini, as the bandit of Mount Etna called himself, had for twenty years robbed undisturbed. He had built himself a house in which he had reared a family and had money in the bank at Palermo, but all this had been achieved when the business of levying tribute or ransom on travelers was considered one of the fields of enterprise of the country. Now that the national police had stepped in and interfered with his calling Carrazini saw that his days for accumulation would before long be ended. But he had passed the heyday of youth, his children were nearly grown, and a different future was before him from that when he was an active young man.

Nevertheless the bandit resolved to make hay as long as the sun continued to shine. His first move was to send his family away to Naples, where his eldest daughter might receive an education at a finishing school for young ladies and his eldest son might fit himself for college. Until this removal was effected the father remained passive, then recommenced his depredations.

During the following year Carrazini added materially to his accumulations, sending the proceeds to a bank in Naples to which he had removed his deposits from Palermo. Freed from the care and responsibility of his family, he took risks that he had never taken before. The police heard of him through those whom he had robbed, but never saw him. His neighbors one and all stood by him. Indeed, they had been so accustomed through many generations to the old regime wherein brigandage was considered a respectable calling that they did not welcome the new. The police tried to secure a description of the bandit, but he was shrewd enough to disguise himself when levying tribute, and those who knew him personally could not be prevailed upon to describe him.

But the chief of police at Palermo knew the region in which Carrazini worked and slowly drew a network of men about him. The wily bandit, however, was too smart for them, and despite many a well laid plan to trap him they failed to get their hands on him. One day he went into a wine shop kept by one of his friends and, seating himself at a table with his host, a bottle between them, said:

"Luigi, would you like to make enough money to enable you to leave here and set yourself up in America?"

"Yes, but how could I do that?"

"There is a reward of 50,000 lire offered for my head. Write to the chief of police at Palermo that you are Carrazini, and will surrender yourself if your life is spared and the reward offered for you be paid to your family."

"But if the terms were accepted I would at least have to spend the rest of my life in prison."

"Leave that to me. I will see that you don't remain there long."

"What part of the reward do you want?"

"None of it. You will run so much risk in the matter that you should have all there is in it, for you will have to trust to promises which may fail you. Besides, I have a scheme of my own for which you will prepare the way."

Luigi Bottelli took the matter under consideration and finally determined to try it. He wrote the letter as suggested and received a reply that the matter had been referred to the government. Then came another letter from the chief at Palermo that he was authorized to carry out the proposed plan. Bottelli was to give himself up and be sentenced to a term of ten years in prison. But the government dickered and would pay but half of the reward. Bottelli, after a conference with Carrazini, who offered to make up the other half, accepted the terms. But he stipulated that as soon as he gave himself up the money should be paid his family. This was agreed to, and going to Palermo he announced himself as Carrazini. Twenty-five thousand lire were paid to his wife, and he went to jail to await his trial.

Signora Bottelli with her children embarked with the money on the next vessel sailing for America. The false Carrazini had made himself very popular by surrendering himself for the benefit of his wife and children, and the government thought it best to give him a limited sentence. He was tried and sent to prison for ten years. As he was being taken to a ship for removal to the mainland, where he was to serve his sentence, a mob, headed by the real Carrazini in disguise, rescued him from the police, ran him out to sea in a boat that had been provided for the purpose, and ten days later he landed in New York, where he found his family in ease and comfort.

The secret of how its chief of police at Palermo had been imposed upon became known to the government, and he was superseded. The new incumbent determined to leave no stone unturned to capture the bandit, no loophole for his escape. He went himself to Catania, a town on the coast not far from Mount Etna, in order to take personal charge of the operations to capture Carrazini. From there he threw a cordon of police around the region in which his quarry operated with a view to hemming him in.

One morning a man appeared in the chief's office at Catania. He was ragged and looked tired and despondent.

"I have come to give myself up," he said.

"Who are you?"

"Carrazini."

The official looked at the man doubtfully. Carrazini was not likely thus to surrender himself.

"I don't believe you are Carrazini," said the chief.

"Why not?"

"Because you are the third Carrazini who has surrendered himself. They were none of them the bandit. But, assuming that you are he, why do you give yourself up?"

"On account of my family. Your men have me hedged in. I cannot escape. I must die. I could give myself up to one who would claim the reward offered for my head. I prefer to give myself up to you in hopes that you will bestow the reward on my family."

"Get out!" cried the chief. "If you think to swindle me as my predecessor in office was swindled you are mistaken in your man."

The man seemed to be revolving something in his mind. Presently he said:

"I see that my plan will not work. I am not Carrazini, but I am far more sure of death than he. I had all my plans made to betray him to you when he learned of the plot, and he has sworn to kill me. I hoped by surrendering myself in his place to get beyond the cordon you have thrown about him and thus escape him."

"I will protect you—that is, if you will proceed with your plans or form others to turn him over to me."

"Impossible! I am doomed. Carrazini has sworn that I shall die. He has many to do his bidding."

"Place it in my power to capture him and I will pass you through the lines."

"I could do that without the lines, but not in them."

"Why?"

"That I cannot explain." Then, taking out a purse, he continued: "Here are a thousand lire. Keep them and send me beyond your line of police. If I do not within three days contrive to turn Carrazini over to you, keep the money. If I do turn him over to you we will claim the reward together, I taking half, you the other half."

Like others of his kind, the official had an itching palm. He saw a thousand lire at least in this, and though, being an official, he could not claim any of the reward he might get a share of it surreptitiously. He put the money in his pocket and passed the man through the lines.

In a few days he received a missive which read as follows:

> You are welcome to the thousand lire I left with you since I am not able to betray Carrazini to you, he having bribed you to let him out of your cordon. And on this account I shall not be able to divide the price of his head with you. It is still on his shoulders and will remain there for the present.

Where Carrazini and his family are is not known.

Beethoven's Retort.

The retort of Beethoven to his stupid brother was in an interchange of cards. The brother had left his card at the musician's lodgings, and in his purse pride it read, "Johann van Beethoven, land proprietor." The musician returned the call by card, Ludwig van Beethoven, brain proprietor." It is not often the case that genius is fortunate in its brothers.

Kaiser Wilhelm's Grandsons Enjoying the Snow.

© by American Press Association.

Gayly as young Americans these small sprigs of royalty are coasting in the snow. They are Prince William Frederick, eldest son of Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany, and his brother Prince Louis Ferdinand, and both therefore grandsons of the kaiser. The picture was taken in the grounds of the palace at Dantzic, where the crown prince has lived for several years. The young princes are great favorites of the kaiser. The crown prince is bringing up his sons in a very practical way. The three elder, aged seven, six and four, are being taught French and English by nurse teachers from Paris and London in addition to their German schooling. They are healthy, active boys and are fond of outdoor sports.

Geography Game.

When the boys came home from school for the Christmas holiday they brought a new game. While Dick was out of the room the company selected the name of a city, river or mountain. When he returned Fred mentioned a number of geographical names and Dick was able each time to tell which was the one that had been agreed upon. Here are some of the questions in their proper order, with Dick's answers. Can you see how he did it?

Chicago, London, Paris, St. Petersburg, Lyons (no, to all of these); Brooklyn (yes); the Alps, Rockies, Catskills (no); Adirondacks (yes); Manchester (no); Liverpool (yes).

The right name is the one that follows next after one containing the name of some living creature, as lion, cat, man—in Lyons, Catskills, Manchester.

Facts About Thread.

Do you ever stop and think when you are sewing away of an afternoon, what a wonderful thing is the thread?

To begin with, it is made in large factories and there, too, are manufactured the wooden spools on which it is wrapped for the market. Perhaps you have wondered why thread is numbered. This is to distinguish between the different kinds of thread.

No. 1 is the heaviest cotton thread. It takes 840 yards of this to weigh a pound. With this as a basis, No. 50 must be exactly fifty times as fine cotton as is No. 1—in fact, any number you find marked on a spool of cotton signifies that the cotton is precisely that many times finer than No. 1.

The highest number in general use is 100. Of course you know that there are three different kinds of thread—cotton, linen and silk.

Moonshines.

At the beginning of our new year it is interesting to note how the Indians measure time. They count from one full moon to the next. For the year they count twelve moons, and then they add one more, which they call the "lost moon," thus making thirteen moons in all to a full year. The Indians have a different name for each month. They call the month of January the "cold moon," February is the "snowy moon," March the "green moon," April the "moon of plants," and May the "moon of flowers." June is called the "hot moon," July the "moon of the deer," August the "sturgeon moon" and September the "fruit moon." October is known as the "traveling moon," November the "beaver moon" and December is named the "hunting moon."—Apples of Gold.

Concerning Amber.

Many children wear strings of amber beads about their necks, and very often they are curious as to where the pretty transparent yellow beads come from.

Amber is a fossilized vegetable resin, found in great abundance on the shores of the Baltic sea. It is derived probably from a variety of extinct tree. The word electricity comes from the Greek word elektron, which means amber, because amber becomes negatively electric when rubbed.

According to a very old fable, amber is the tears of the sisters of Phaethon, who, after his death, were turned into poplar trees. By some, amber is said to be a concretion of birds' tears.

TRICK OF A HOTEL BEAT.

Plausible Scheme by Which He Swindled the Confiding Clerk.

A story detailing how relentlessly the detective department of the American Hotel Protective association trails bad debts was told recently by a Cincinnati hotel man.

It appears that a man who registered as "John B. Smith, New York," failed to pay a bill of $50. As the Smiths of New York are almost as countless as the sands of the beach, the finding of the particular "John B." wanted was looked upon as a herculean task. However, the signature was traced on paper and sent to various cities. Finally the owner of that particular signature registered at a hotel in the north. He was promptly made to pay the bill.

A hotel "beat" used the business letter scheme to swindle hotel keepers. His trick was to open a letter in front of the clerk, take out a check and then allow the clerk to read the letter. The missive, presumably from a big business house, gave the recipient a rebuke for not turning in more orders. "Now what do you think of that?" the swindler would say, simulating anger. Then he would have the check cashed without question. The manager of the hotel, however, recalled getting a warning about the letter swindle and caused the arrest of the guest after the money had been turned over to him. It developed that the man had forged and passed sixty-six checks with great profit to himself. He was convicted.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

BELTED AND COATLESS.

Pen Picture of the Typical American by an English Artist.

The Americans as a race walk better than the English—more freely, with a taking swing and almost with grace. How much of this is due to living in a democracy and how much to wearing no braces it is very difficult to determine.

But certainly it is the land of belts and therefore of more loosely moving bodies.

Also Americans take their coats off, which is sensible, and they can do it the more beautifully because they are belted and not braced. They take their coats off everywhere and anywhere, and somehow it strikes the visitor as the most symbolic thing about them. They have not yet thought of discarding collars, but they are unashamedly shirtsleeved.

Any sculptor seeking to figure this republic in stone must carve in future a young man, open faced, pleasant and rather vulgar, straw hat on the back of his head, his trousers full and sloppy, his coat over his arm. The motto written beneath will be, of course, "This is some country."

The philosophic gazer on such a monument might get some way toward understanding the making of the Panama canal, that exploit that no European nation could have carried out.—Westminster Gazette.

A Haunted Library.

One of the most curious "hauntings" occurs in a northern castle of great antiquity, where Mary, queen of Scots, rested when she was being conveyed a prisoner through England. It is manifested in the library and takes the form that the books cannot be kept in order. They move about or are moved about from shelf to shelf. If you arrange the works of Shakespeare in correct order on one shelf by next morning the volumes are scattered anyhow on different shelves. This has gone on for years. At different times the library has been searched and locked, watches have been set all night, servants have come and gone, but the mysterious occurrence goes on and is vouched for, not by the family, but by the guests who have stayed in the house. There is no legend to account for it.—London Mail.

Dodged His Own Rules.

Gladstone's suggestions on the art of speaking, communicated to a correspondent in 1875, are remarkable as beginning with two which few orators ever more persistently violated—"First, study plainness of language, always preferring the simple word; second, shortness of sentences; third, distinctness of articulation; fourth, test and question your own arguments beforehand, not waiting for critic or opponent; fifth, seek a thorough digestion of and familiarity with your subject and rely mainly on these to prompt the proper words; sixth, remember that if you are to sway an audience you must, besides thinking out your matter, watch them all along."—London Graphic.

"What's the trouble now?" queried his friend Singleton.

"This morning," replied Popleigh, "my little boy asked me why men were sent to congress, and I couldn't tell him."—Chicago News.

Across the Border

A Scientist Believes he was Assisted by His Departed Wife.

By F. A. MITCHEL

When at college my predilections for science were so marked that on graduating I was sent to Germany to study in the laboratory of a famous chemist, and under his tuition and after three years spent in this way returned to my alma mater as a full fledged professor of analytical chemistry. The university was a co-ed institution, and a number of the girl students took my course, working under my instruction in the laboratory.

Delia Thorne was the only one of these who showed pre-eminent proficiency at first as a student and afterward as an original investigator. At her graduation I recommended her for the position of my assistant, and she was appointed. She relieved me of a great deal of work instructing beginners, and she and I soon drifted into original research together. Naturally we became attached to each other and were married.

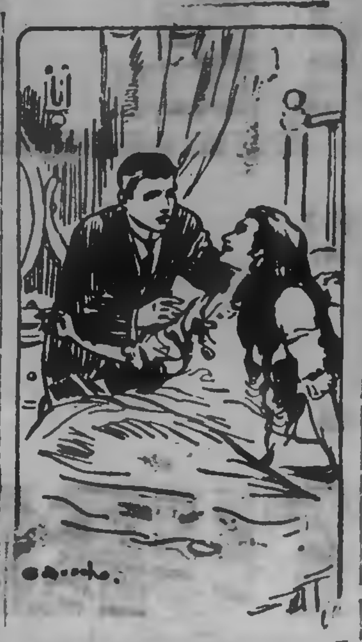
Our marriage occurred about the time that Professor and Mme. Curie working together in France, succeeded in discovering radium, or rather separating it from uranium. When their announcement of the fact was made to the world I said to my wife:

"Wouldn't it be pleasant if we could make such an important discovery?"

"Perhaps we will," she said, with that hopefulness characteristic of women.

I smiled at her optimism, remarking that scientists must be plodders; that only about once in a century had the world seen a shining light like Harvey, the discoverer of the circulation of the blood, or Jenner, who gave us vaccination, but my wife said that where there had been one in each of preceding centuries there would be a dozen or more in subsequent centuries, a statement which will probably be fulfilled.

When Roentgen gave us his X ray I was experimenting in photography, and it occurred to me that here was a new agent which might give new results in photographing objects too delicate to be perceived by the eye. I experimented for a long while, endeavoring to bring out objects that had not been photographed before, but failed. When the Curies gave us radium my wife suggested that we resume the experiments that I had made with the X ray, using radium instead. We did so, but though we continued to hunt for substances beyond the scope of the human eye that had not already been photographed we met with no success.



"OH, MY DEAR, WHAT ARE YOU SAYING?"

At this time my wife was taken ill with a disease from which she did not recover. Shortly before her death she said to me:

"I am a firm believer in matter as the foundation—if we can call any substance infinitely attenuated a foundation—of all things, even that which has been considered spiritual. I believe that my soul is material rather than the ghostly thing souls have been considered. I have never forgotten your remark that it would be pleasant if you and I could make a discovery similar to that made by Professor and Mme. Curie. There is in me a faith that we shall make such a discovery, but in order to achieve what I have in mind we must be in different spheres, you in the mortal, I in the immortal. We shall take up the investigation where the Curies left off."

"What do you mean, my dear?" I asked, powerfully moved by what she had said.

"That you go on with your photographic experiments, endeavoring to produce an image of that which is too attenuated for the human eye to see. If it is possible for me to aid you from the other existence I shall do so. By transference of thought—a purely material process. I believe—I hope I may suggest to you agents or processes to be used in your experiments, and I shall myself take a position where I can be photographed. Bring your camera to bear on the spot where I have been used to work in the laboratory."

"Oh, my dear, what are you saying?"

"I am simply suggesting a possibility. Use the same general plan used in star photography—that is, duration of exposure. The star's image is brought nearer to us by means of the telescope, but not near enough to be detected by the human eye. If I can be in the place I have indicated and you have hit upon a process delicate enough to photograph me you may give to the world a discovery equal to that of radium.

"I believe, as I have said, that I shall exist after death as a material thing, but even if I can come near you no one of your senses is sufficiently delicate to detect me. Star photography has indicated the only plan by which it seems possible that I should be revealed to you."

All this was said to me by my dear wife as coolly as if she were standing before her working table in the laboratory with a rack full of test tubes before her. I confess that, while I was profoundly impressed with her reasoning, I regarded any attainment of the purpose she enunciated as chimerical.

My wife passed away soon after this injunction, and I was fortunate in having an object to occupy my mind so intimately connected with her as to hold my attention. I began my work within a week after consigning her earthly body to the tomb, though I spent much time before experimenting in thinking on the subject.

I divided my investigations into two branches, the light I would use and the plate and its preparation which was to receive the image. I shall not give an account of my experiments during a term of several years, for even to catalogue them would require considerable space. The difficulty of the problem before me will appear in this—that I must find a kind of light that would act with sufficient delicacy on my plate and a plate that would satisfactorily receive the light. I would not have made the attempt at all had I not remembered that my wife had promised to guide me by thought transference to any information which she might possess in what we have been accustomed to call the spirit world. In this I had much confidence, because I had noticed that when we were together it seemed that one of us could never have a thought upon something remote from what was occupying our minds but the other would speak of it. This is a common occurrence among many persons, and I attribute it to thought transference.

One morning I was sitting alone, running over in my mind the various metals with which I would experiment for a plate for my picture. I had a pencil and a bit of paper before me and, unmindful of what I wrote, laid down on the paper the letters ichteptyl. There was nothing singular in this, for it is a substance which, though little known even to chemists, I had some knowledge of. Somehow it came into my head to experiment with solutions of it as a wash for my photographic plate. At another time, while passing from my home to my laboratory, suddenly I was seized with an impression—I can give it no other name—that I might try the influence of radium on a plate prepared with some solution of ichteptyl. I finally used a solution of nitrate of ichteptyl exposed to the beta rays of radium.

For months I had been making experiments with various combinations of these two, leaving my plate exposed for twenty-four hours in each case so as to try both night and day. My camera was clamped to point to the spot where my wife used to work in the laboratory. For a week I had suspected that something not visible had been photographed on the plate, and by slightly changing the character of my agents I hoped to bring it out more distinctly. In this way sometimes I obtained a more distinct impression, sometimes one less distinct. One morning I went to my camera, took out my plate and developed it.

What I am about to say I ask no one to believe. I surely would not believe it myself if it had been told me by any one else. There was a picture, indistinct, I admit, of my beloved wife turned from her work table toward me, smiling upon me as if to exclaim: "We have succeeded!"

But our dream of attaining the eminence of the Curies is not—at least now—practicable, though I hope at some future time it may be. I have succeeded in producing but the one picture. Whether for reasons unrevealed to me my wife will not appear again to be photographed or whether there were conditions of light, atmosphere or chemical agents that are not repeated I do not know. I only know that after trials extending over a year I cannot get another photograph.

Why not exhibit the one I have? It has been shown just as other so called spirit photographs have been shown to a number of persons. A few have believed that it is genuine; the many look at me pityingly, as much as to say, "Poor man, his love for one who is dead has turned his brain."

Nevertheless, there is hope. Scientists who even a quarter of a century ago would not deign to investigate so called spiritual manifestations are beginning to admit that there is something in them. Why? Was not the answer given me by my wife when she said to me: "I believe that my soul is material rather than the ghostly thing souls have been considered. * * * There is in me a faith that we shall make such a discovery, but in order to achieve what I have in mind we must be in different spheres, you in the mortal, I in the immortal. * * * If it is possible for me to aid you from the other existence I shall do so. By transference of thought—a purely material process, I believe—I hope I may suggest to you agents or processes to be used in your experiments."

A Big Swallow.

A detective was testifying in the case of a woman shoplifter whom he had arrested in her own house.

"And, your honor," said he, "when I told her the charge she turned her back to me and swallowed a purse, six suits of silk underwear, a silver candlestick and a chafing dish, and"—

"Rubbish! Are you crazy?" the magistrate interrupted.

"Excuse me. What I mean to say, your honor," explained the detective, "is that she swallowed the pawn tickets."

Might Be Worse.

An old woman was brought into a London hospital suffering from a poisoned leg. The house surgeon made a hurried examination. He was a man of blunt speech. "It will have to come off," he told her.

"What, not all of it?"

"The whole of it. I'm sorry to say," growled the house surgeon.

"Nothing else for it?"

"No other chance for you whatever," explained the house surgeon.

"Ah, well, thank 'eaven it's not my 'ead."

THE CURIOUS AXOLOTL.

It's a Regular Jekyll and Hyde Sort of Reptile.

Persons of only ordinary powers of observation know that tadpoles become frogs. This process of transformation is one of the most interesting of the many curious things that go on about us every day. The case of the tadpole and frog is mentioned that the reader may more easily understand a reptile that is found in southern California and Mexico.

There are several varieties of salamandrine reptiles in North America, all of them perfectly harmless. One in particular lives in the desert regions of the southwest. The Mexicans call it the axolotl. It is perhaps the most curious of all reptiles. It is a light gray or pure white translucent reptile about seven inches in length. It lives in lakes and ponds, breathes through gills just back of the front legs, has a long tail and caudal fins above and below that extend its entire length and four stout legs, with which it creeps about the bottom of the pond.

In the region where these reptiles live long continued droughts are common. Then the ponds and lakes dry up. As the water falls evaporation begins. Instinct warns the axolotl that there will shortly be no water, and he makes preparation for a terrestrial life. The gills disappear, and he comes to the surface for air just as a tadpole does when he is about to become a frog. As the water grows shallower the axolotl loses a portion of his tail, sheds his caudal fins, changes from white to brown with gray spots and when the water is quite gone takes to the sand hills and becomes a spotted salamander.

The most remarkable thing about it all is that when the water supply is not exhausted he lives his entire life as an axolotl and never tries to become a spotted salamander. By experimentation an axolotl has been made to undergo almost complete transformation and then has been turned back into an axolotl again.—Youth's Companion.

Specialist Could Not Remove Stone in The Bladder

GIN PILLS PASSED IT

JOLIETTE, P.Q.

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone in the Bladder.

He decided to operate but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS.

They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller but he could not remove it although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and continued to take GIN PILLS, and to my great surprise and joy, I passed the stone.

GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did me so much good, I will recommend them all the rest of my life". 170

FLYING BULLETS.

Going Very Fast, They Leave Air Waves and Eddies Behind Them.

If a photograph of a speeding bullet could be taken the print would probably show a space like a body of water marked by what looked like speeding water bugs, each leaving a ripple in its wake. Photographs of projectiles have been snapped in time of peace, but it is doubtful if the camera ever caught one as it sped on its mission of death. A bullet speeding at the rate of 3,000 feet a second, which is more than 2,000 miles an hour, makes a great disturbance in the atmosphere and creates air waves, which, of course, are invisible to the naked eye.

If you draw a stick through the water it causes little eddies and waves to trail behind it. The faster you draw the stick the more waves and the wider the angle will it leave. The slower the stick is drawn the fewer waves. Just so the bullet. If it is traveling slowly no waves can be photographed, as apparently there are none. It is only objects traveling at a terrific speed that create any appreciable air waves.

Photographs of a bullet going at a rate of speed less than 1,300 feet a second show no air waves at all. This is an interesting scientific discovery. But anything cutting through the air at a greater rate than this disturbs the atmosphere to such great extent that air waves are formed and can be photographed.—New York Sun.

Bear in mind the old motto: "It is better to fail trying than not to try."

Still Time to Enter

If some of the present candidates in the contest do not wake up it is the belief of the contest department that some of the more energetic who have up to the present time done nothing, will enter actively and will be very likely to carry off the larger prizes. Candidates can blame no one but themselves if this is the case. There is still plenty of time for any good energetic candidate to enter the contest and win the Grand Prize. No one has made any great effort up to date. Why is this? Are they not worth your attention? Think of this for a moment as a business proposition. Can you make more of your time any other way than to win a five passenger touring car for a few weeks of your time? Only three more days of the largest and best vote offer. Your effort means your success.

MOUNTAINEER STIRS AUDIENCE AT TABERNACLE

Evangelist Compton Tells of a Service in Beer Garden.

The large audience which gathered in Bethany Tabernacle last night were privileged to hear a wonderful address delivered by the Mountaineer Evangelist, Rev. Lucius B. Compton, on the striking subject of the "Threefold Manifestation of Christ."

Christ manifested to take away our sins. Christ manifested to destroy the works of the Devil, and Christ manifested within the believer. One of the many experiences which he related was that of a gospel service in a Chicago beer garden and drinking saloon. He was passing one of these places when the thought occurred to him that this would be a good chance to lift up Christ to the large company of men, numbering about 400. He approached the proprietor of the place, who reminded him that he was not in a church, when Mr. Compton requested the privilege of holding a short gospel service. Consent was finally given, however, with the result that several men were found kneeling in prayer when the gospel preacher had lifted up Christ as the only remedy for sin.

These meetings are already taking on the nature of a union revival, several of the ministers and Christian workers of the city being present at the service last night and taking part. The meeting begins to-night at 8 o'clock. Don't miss the song service.

57th REGIMENT

Some of the Latest Pattern Ross Rifles May be Received.

Col. Clegg is in receipt of a letter, received by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., from the Minister of Militia, saying that the 57th Regiment will be provided with a numberof new Ross rifles.

It is understood that Mr. Burnham's request war for the latest pattern rifle and if these are sent, the marksmen of the regiment will be greatly pleased.

It is not the wish of the regiment that they receive an inferior rifle. They would prefer to wait for some time, if it need be, to get the latest rifle, that is a mark 22 star.

It is the intention to hold a regimental smoker at the Armouries in the near future and it is also expected that Major Butcher of Toronto will be here next week to give lectures.

CONCERT AT ST. ANDREW'S.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church have arranged with the Hewlett-Carey Concert Co. of Hamilton, to give a concert in the church on Monday, March 2nd. Particulars later.

GARBAGE COLLECTING MAY BE EXTENDED INTO EAST CITY

Area in Fifth Ward is Suggested, Along With Others — City Engineer as Building Inspector — Garbage System in Hands of Board of Works

After considerable discussion, it was decided at the Property Committee meeting last night to hand the garbage business over to the Board of Works to control in the future.

His Worship, the Mayor, stated that it should have been in the hands of the Board of Works some time ago. Ald. Stratton was of the opinion that the garbage was handled all right now, and he was for having it remain under the control of the Property Committee.

In outlining the program for the Board of Works, Mayor Buller pointed out the economy of the suggestion. The Board of Works this year are permanently retaining carts, teams and other equipment for repair work on roads and they were in reality the city's cleaning department, to which the garbage collecting business properly belongs.

Ald. Stratton advised them not to spend money on the affair this year, but to have the garbage collected by the contract system as at present.

Sanitary Inspector Spence was present and presented the proposed extensions for the garbage system.

East City.

The new area includes the most congested part of East City, from and including Driscoll Terrace to and including both sides, Douro street as the northern boundary, the eastern boundary to be by Concession to Douro to Sophia, Sophia to Burnham, Burnham to Maria, Maria to the river.

Northern District.

Extended to Smith Street, Smith to Reid, and Reid to London street.

Southern District.

Monaghan Road to Wolfe street, west to Albert, south on Park east side, to Albert, west on Albert, south side to Alfred street, both sides of Alfred to Chamberlain, west on Chamberlain to Monaghan road, west on Chamberlain to Park, south on Park to Romaine to Crescent street.

Any person not in the area, who desires collection can do so by special contract with the collector.

Under the new act, garbage collection now must be charged against all properties within the defined areas, according to assessment, and not on the principle adopted last year, when residential houses were charged an equable fee per month, hotels, boarding houses, stores, etc., fixed rates, all irrespective of assessed values.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and Saunders, the matter was left in abeyance until legal advice was obtained from the City Solicitor.

Sanitary Inspector Spence mentioned that hospitals should also be in the defined area. No action was taken in regard to the matter.

Ald. Duncan was of the opinion that the extended area was quite sufficient for this year. It was pointed out by the City Clerk that factories, churches, or institutions were not exempt from the special rate.

A short discussion arose over the collecting of the various garbages arising out of the factories. Ald. Duncan expressed himself that he did not think it fair to cart away this stuff for the factories such as sand and other things. The city solicitor will be consulted in regard to the matter.

Mayor Buller told how the city could easily take over garbage collecting and make a success of it. They could use the teams in the morning for collecting garbage and use them on the streets in the afternoon for road work purposes.

New By-laws.

The City Solicitor will be instructed to prepare a by-law governing the licensing of milk vendors and boarding houses. The Sanitary Inspector will report on the sanitation of each before the license is issued by the City Clerk. The boarding house licenses is for eating houses.

The result of Inspector Spence's disclosures of the conditions of the Chinese laundries in the city, is, that they will be rigidly inspected and the proprietors compelled to desist from their insanitary habits of living. A license fee of $1 will also be collected.

Building Inspector.

On the motion of Ald. Duncan and Saunders, building and plumbing inspection was transferred to the Board of Works department. Mayor Buller informed the committee that City Engineer Parsons would in all probability, act as building inspector.

REVIVAL SERVICES TO BEGIN TO-NIGHT

The revival meetings that have been previously announced to be held in the Free Methodist Church, 296 Aylmer St., will begin tonight at 8 o'clock. Miss Lotta Babcock, evangelist, of Gravenhurst, will preach. People of all classes and denominations are cordially invited to attend every meeting.

BELOW ZERO WEATHER GENERAL IN PROVINCES

Weather Bureau Reports no Prospect of Turn to Milder

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—The Weather Bureau reports the cold wave of yesterday unchanged in position and increased in severity with no prospect of milder weather. The forecast is the same for Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces to-day and to-morrow. "Fair and continued extremely cold."

Every province from Alberta east reports zero or lower, White River, as usual, taking the cake, with fifty-six below last night and fifty-four at eight o'clock. Winnipeg has it thirty-eight below; Sault Ste. Marie, twenty-two; Toronto, twelve; Kingston, thirty; Ottawa, twenty-six; Montreal, twenty-six; Quebec, thirty-two; St. John, sixteen, and Halifax four. Other places in Quebec report thirty-six below.

REPORT ON INVESTIGATIONS INTO THE CONDUCT OF TRENT CANAL OFFICIALS

Developments may be expected within the next few days, growing out of investigations into the conduct of local Trent Canal Officials during the regime of the Laurier Government.

Mr. G. H. Ferguson M.L.A., of Kemptville, it is understood, has completed his investigations and will report to the Dominion House this week or the early part of next week.

Revelations of a startling character, it is understood, will be made. And it will also be shown that contrary to the statement that "The Bessie Butler does not take to Booze," the Government schooner was by no means dry territory.

In those good old days, the pay roll included the names of many men supposed to be earning their bread and butter with a pick and shovel, and at laborious tasks, but who failed to be on the job. The report on the investigations will tell the reason why. But this is only a sample.

HE MUST HAVE HAD "A PEACH"

"Thos. McKinley."

No answer.

"Thos. McKinley," called the Magistrate the second time.

This brought forth a response, in the form of a head showing above the prisoner's box.

"Is your name Thos. McKinley?" asked the Magistrate.

"Ah, well, it should bo anyway," responded that individual, who was charged with being intoxicated.

"Well, you are charged with being drunk," remarked his Worship.

"Drunk?" questioned Thomas, "Why, I don't even remember coming to the city, and in fact I sure did not know where I was this morning, as I have no recollectionof coming here.

"Well, $10 in ten days, will help you," concluded the Magistrate.

McKinley was arrested last evening on Simcoe street, just about the time he was beginning to freeze up for the night and for the last time, as his Worship remarked this morning.

ASKS $3000 FOR FALSE ARREST

One of the cases which will come up at the Spring Assizes on the 24th of this month is that of Wm. J. Kearns vs. H. F. Jackson, the plaintiff claiming damages to the extent of $3,000 for false arrest and imprisonment. Hall, Medd and Davidson are acting for the plaintiff, while G. N. Gordon is representing the defendant.

WM. TURNBULL IS ILL AT DUNNVILLE

Chief Thompson received word this morning from Dunnville, Ont., requesting him to try and find the relatives of Mr. Wm. Turnbull, one time resident of this vicinity, and who now is dangerously ill in that town. So far the Chief has been unsuccessful in the attempt and he asks that anyone who can assist, communicate with him, telephone 190.

24 BELOW

And the Worst is Yet to Come

The temperature has taken another decidedly downward dip. This morning the thermometer marked 24 degrees below; no lower during the night. At noon today it stood at 12 below, and the prospects are for another low reading tonight.

Nine below zero was the temperature yesterday morning. While the mercury went lower the wind moderated, and the day was an ideal Canadian winter day, bright, clear and sparkling. About this date last year we had the coldest winter weather of the season. Seventeen degres below zero was the figure for the same day last winter.—W.P.

OMEMEE MAN VICTIM OF FATAL ACCIDENT

WAS PERSONAL FRIEND OF DR. WILFRID GRENFELL

Miss Julia Greenshields Passes at Port Hope.

The death occurred at her late residence, Dorset street, Port Hope, on Monday, of Miss Julia Greenshields, of Toronto, who will be remembered for her interest in the work of the Labrador Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen. Miss Greenshields, who was a warm personal friend of Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, having held the position of Honorary Treasurer of the Grenfell Association of Canada for many years.

While closely identified with the great work of the "Apostle to the Labrador," the late Miss Greenshields did not confine hr attention to this one work, but was associated with several philanthropic and charitable organizations of Toronto, her work always being carried on in a quiet and unostentatious manner. The Old Folks' Home on University Avenue, Toronto, was established largely as the result of her generosity, and among works of another sort she was convener of the Hospital Visiting Committee of the Church of England's Women's Auxiliary.

Thos. G. Stephenson Met Death, While at Work in Mill

OMEMEE, Feb. 11.—Omeme today mourns the loss of one of her most respected citizens, as the result of a terrible accident late yesterday afternoon when Mr. Thos. G. Stephenson was so seriously injured in an accident at the grist mill that he died without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Stephenson was at work in the mill about four o'clock, when the chopping machine burst. Pieces of iron struck Mr. Stephenson about the head and body, causing many punctures. The skull was effected, and one of the arteries in the skull was severd.

Mr. Stephenson was one of the most prominent and widely-known young business men of the village and vicinity, being senior partner in the milling and electric lighting business of Stephenson Bros.

He is survived by his widow, one brother, Mr. Wm. Stephenson, and four sisters, Mrs. R. J. Adams, Omemee; Mrs. D. Smith, Stouffville, and the Misses Rebecca and Annie Stephenson.

PETERBOROUGH ,WEDNESDAY FEB. 11, 1914.

TO ABOLISH HANGING.

A BILL HAS BEEN introduced and rejected in the House of Commons for the abolition of capital punishment. There is very little to be said for the hanging of a man by the neck, and there are very few people who would undertake to carry out the execution of a criminal. The job of hangman is not an enviable one and is only accepted by a man of a low grade of intelligence or feeling. At the same time there does not appear to be any way out of the difficulty, the noose must still be suspended over the crime of murder while men do not know or recognize any other power of restraint than fear. "It is all very well for idealists to talk sentiment, but the law has to be respected and has to be severe as well as merciful. Do away with the severity of the law and you do away with the possibility of mercy. Whether hanging is the best means of putting an end to the existence of a murderer is a open question. The process of electrocution is not less terrible. If a lethal chamber was used the "punishment" would lose its sting and many callous people would not be deterred but perhaps tempted to commit the crime with the feeling that their end would be an easy one, and they would chance the consequences.

AGRICULTURAL GAZETTE OF CANADA.

WITH THE COMING of the New Year there has appeared in the field of Canadian journalism a new agricultural magazine which promises to serve a most useful purpose. At no time in the history of the world has the cause of agriculture been accorded the support it now receives from legislative bodies, and in no country has the industry been more wisely or generously helped than in Canada. The Dominion and Provincial Governments exercise the utmost diligence and concern in their efforts to solve the problems that confront the farmer ; to this work increased impetus has been given by the coming into force of the Agricultural Instruction Act, which serves as a medium for co-operative effort.

With a view to bringiag together information concerning the work of the federal and provincial Departments of Agriculture there has been commenced the publication of the Agricultural Gazette of Canada, the first number of which has just now made its appearance. In his "Foreword," the Honourable Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, points out that the magazine is not to enter into general circulation, but is to supply the press and those engaged in official agricultural work with facts and information relating to the educational and scientific side of agriculture. To these it is supplied free. For others a small additional number of copies will be printed from month to month, for which ten cents per copy or one dollar per year will be charged.

A QUESTION OF DEFINITION.

WHAT IS POETRY, and what is not poetry? This is a question which is suggested by reading two comments on the work of Dr. Bridges, the Poet Laureate. One in the Kingston Standard reads thus :—

"We drew attention the other day to the Poet Laureate's poor verses on Christmas. Every one contrasted them with those of Tennyson, which will live as long as the English language. Now we have Dr. Bridge's writing the following mush on Burns :

To Burns, brave Scotia's laurel'd son,
Who drove his plough on Helicon ;
Who with Doric rhyme erewhile,
Taught English bards to mend their style,
Fairly befool'd Auld Nickle Ben—
Blithe Bobbie Burns, we love thee well,
Because thou wert so like thysel' ;
And in full cups, with festive cheer,
We toast thy fame from year to year."

That is one comment here is another which appeared in the Telegraph and Herald on the same day as the above :—

"Practice seems to help even poets. The Poet Laureate's little verses on Burns are not half so bad as his Christmas ode."

We would like to put these two editors right on this matter, if they had not already made up their minds as to just what poetry was.

A CAN'T STOP POLICY.

THE REASON ADVANCED by Admiral Tirepitz for not accepting Mr. Churchill's offer of a naval holiday is very interesting and illuminating. We have never taken Mr. Churchill seriously in this matter, it was obviously a feeler or a test of German sincerity so far as her peaceful intentions were concerned. That Germany wants to remain at peace with Great Britain there need be no question, but that she can keep from falling out and fighting with somebody when she has so much ammunition and fighting machinery is doubtful. There are many very sensible men who believe that a great war of some kind is inevitable in the near future, and despite the peace conferences, etc., the fact of the enormous development in war machinery can not be explained away. Guns are made for shooting, bullets and shells are contrived purposely for to kill and destroy. Times change, powers wane, other powers arise and sooner or later the clash will come and some one must go under.

This may be a pessimistic view of things, but where there is a powder magazine you may be confident in prophesying that if a spark got at it there would be "something doing !"

The chief lesson to be derived from this admission of the German Admiral is an important one for Canada at this time when we stand on the threshold of a national naval policy. If we are wise and will learn from the experiences and mistakes of other countries we will pause before we launch upon a policy of a home-built Canadian navy, lest we find ourselves in the same position as Germany. It is not impossible to establish great docks and yards in which to build Dreadnoughts in Canada, nothing is impossible if you only have the money ; but is this policy of mad Liberalism a prudent one ? Is it wise ? Is it not rather dire and fatal to the proper development of our country ?

If Canada is to spend any money on defence let her spend it upon military defence first ; efficiency on land is Canada's first consideration, the sea is well guarded by the Empire navy and the simple policy of Mr. Borden would have insured us for a little while in that direction. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's policy would mean that we would repeat the folly of the Germans who have started building Dreadnoughts and can't stop.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

IT IS GRATIFYING to note that the Government the other day took up the case of Fatzari, the Italian who was wrongfully imprisoned for five years. The case was referred to the Provincial administration of Quebec, where it is expected the man will receive due redress.

COL. SAM HUGHES is said to have had a triumphant week in Parliament. He was heckled by Liberal members as to the expenses of his trip with other officers to England last year. His statement showed that the expenditure had been very moderate and that the experience had been most valuable. The Colonel's outspoken defence of the Canadian rifle seems to have pleased the Liberals. Even the Anti-Military Toronto Star was heard to give a gentle cheer.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING Commission is to sit in Montreal for a week. The Commission has visited a number of places and has been conducting its investigations in secret. The Chairman, John McDougald, says:

"We have covered the ground as regards meats, dairy product, cold storage, and the like fairly well. We have enough evidence of these matters now to fill a book. We expect while in Montreal to take testimony as regards municipal markets, considered as an important factor in the cost of living. Then we will hear what a number of important members of the trade can tell us in regard to clothing, boots and shoes and a few food products."

The Maritime Provinces have yet to be visited, and then the Commission goes west.

"SOME PAPERS," says the Lethbridge Herald, "are featuring the fact that Rev. Charles Aked, once Baptist pastor to John D. Rockefeller and previous to that an Anglican, has renounced his belief in the divinity of Christ. In the sense that Mr. Aked has changed his views, hundreds of others have probably done likewise in recent years but have not proclaimed the fact so publicly. Mr. Aked it appears acknowledges Christ's divinity in so far as perfection is concerned, but renounces the immaculate conception and to a large degree the expiatory character of the atonement. He still follows Christ as the world's greatest exemplar and the one whose teachings will lead the world to the Great Father. "Mr. Aked always was a heretic, or posed as one. But the Herald does him a great wrong by accusing him of being at one time "an Anglican." He was pastor of Pembroke Baptist Church, Liverpool, for fifteen years and a red-hot Non-Conformist.

WHAT THE WORLD IS SAYING

From the Hymn of Empedocles.

Is it so small a thing
To have enjoyed the sun,
To have lived light in the Spring,
To have loved, to have thought to have done ;
To have advanced true friends, and beat down baffling foes ;

That we must feign a bliss
Of doubtful future date,
And while we dream on this
Lose all our present state,
And relegate to worlds yet distant our repose ?

Not much, I know, you prize
What pleasures may be had,
Who look on life with eyes
Estranged, like mine, and sad :
And yet the village churl feels the truth more than you ;

Who's loth to leave this life
Which to him little yields ;
His hard-task'd sunburnt wife,
His often-labored fields ;
The boors with whom he talk'd, the country spots he knew.

But thou, because thou hear'st
Men scoff at Heaven and Fate ;
Because the gods thou fear'st
Fail to make blest thy state,
Tremblest, and wilt not dare to trust the joys that are.

I say, Fear not ! life still
Leaves human effort scope.
But, since life teems with ill,
Nurse no extravagant hope.
Because thou must not dream, thou need'st not then despair.

—Matthew Arnold.

THE HORSE

By Walt Mason

Be kind to old Dobbin, the generous steed that labors whenever he's told, and see he has lots of the life-giving feed, and blanket his frame when he's cold. The horse is the best of the servants of man, the one that is anxious to please; he pulls on his feet just as long as he can, and pulls when he's down on his knees. He'll work when so sore that it's torture to walk, he'll work when he's feeble and lame; the story we'd hear, if the horses could talk, would fill human bosoms with shame. The horse is so faithful, so patient and good, he ought to be loved and caressed; too often men lam him with billets of wood, and score him with language unblessed. Too often men work him until he is old, then sell him to wandering knaves, to roam o'er the country, be bartered and sold, with other poor heart-broken slaves. Be kind to old Dobbin, who never refused to toil for you, early or late; whenever you look on a horse that's abused, you'll know that its owner's a skate. You'll know that his soul has been twisted awry, or made on a dissolute plan; you'll know that he lacks all those qualities high which thrive in the heart of a Man.

TO CHURCHGOERS

The worldling sure to Church must go,
Perchance the weather's not too warm;
The mercury descend too low,
Or gloomy skies portend a storm.
If stylish outfit he may wear,
Some social star to imitate;
Then without fail he will appear
Though just may be a little late.
What time good people one and all,
Have within reach the Sunday car,
And need not risk a dreaded fall,
Where ice-clad pavements slippery are.
What matter if some toil all day,
That he in selfish ease may ride,
In pious pomp to Church, while they
The Sabbath's rest are thus denied.
So, if the way be not too far,
To Church where streams of fashion flow,
Or recreation's needs debar
The worldling sure to church will go.
The Christian early will arise,
Unyielding to the tempting thought,
To offer God a sacrifice,
Or service that has cost him naught.
No slavish fear his steps impel,
Or hope of merited reward,
To thus escape the doom of hell,
And favor seek with austere Lord.
With Him he spends His own blest day,
Who gives us six for earthly care,
And warm devotions gladly pay
With worship in His house of prayer.

BRITISH HOUSE OPENS.

What Will Be a Historic Session Begins at Westminster.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—King George, with the customary state ceremonial, yesterday opened the momentous and historic session of Parliament, which, according to all reasonable probability will see the victorious conclusion of the thirty years' struggle of the Liberal party to give self-government to Ireland. The home rule bill, which is now to be presented in the House of Commons for the third time, will, if carried, receive the royal assent with or without the consent of the House of Lords.

The King's speech, in a grave passage, expressed the earnest desire of His Majesty to attain a settlement by consent, and this desire was fervently echoed by Premier Asquith, in the House of Commons, and Viscount Morley in the House of Lords, in their opening speeches.

Despite the conciliatory tone of both Premier Asquith and Lord Morley, small hope was felt in the lobbies of Parliament last night that the settlement of the home rule question would be reached by consent. The Ministers' attitude clearly shows that the Government will neither consent to appeal to the country nor accept a solution based on the exclusion of Ulster from the operation of the bill.

The Right Hon. Austen Chamberlain just as clearly indicated that the Opposition will accept nothing less than the exclusion of Ulster, unless the Government agrees to an appeal to the country.

Premier Asquith declines to divulge the proposed concessions at the present stage, on the ground that the Opposition would only use the knowledge as a lever to secure still greater concessions.

In the House of Lords Baron Middleton moved an amendment to the the address similar to that moved by Walter Long in the House of Commons. Lord Morley, in replying, followed the same lines as the Premier.

Sir Lomer Gouin Summons Judge Leet to Quebec.

MONTREAL, Feb. 11. — Police Magistrate Leet was summoned to Quebec yesterday by Sir Lomer Gouin, it is stated, to explain the brevity of a sentence which he recently imposed on a youth convicted of bigamy. The defendant pleaded guilty and was sentenced to four days in jail.

Judge Leet, in giving sentence, said that the evidence showed that the young man had been married in the United States when both he and his first wife were under the legal age and subsequently the woman left him. Later he came to Montreal and married a young woman here. The latter, considering that the first marriage was not legal, pleaded to be allowed to remain with her husband.

Le Nationaliste, a Sunday paper, made a vigorous attack upon the magistrate's judgment, describing it as a menace to the sacredness of the marriage tie.

The Boomerang

The Result of a Practical Joke

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Jefferson Dean was fond of practical jokes. On the Fourth of July he exploded bombs under the windows of timid old ladies and April 1 gave to trusting juveniles packages of chocolates filled with red pepper. At any season of the year he had been known to shower confetti and rice upon strong minded spinsters and confirmed old bachelors, to their mutual exasperation and the delight of their friends.

Naturally, the 1st of April was Jefferson Dean's especial holiday. For days beforehand his brain was busy devising new schemes to trick his friends, and it was generally noticed that when that day arrived his acquaintances gave him a wide berth and were seldom at home if he happened to call. He spent many dollars upon fake telegrams and the sending of express packages which proved to be hollow mockeries of crumpled newspapers and sawdust.

But this particular year Jefferson Dean had been unable to celebrate the 1st of April in the manner beloved by this feather brained young man. An attack of measles had confined him to his bed.

The glorious Fourth was celebrated in his usual manner, but that lost 1st of April still rankled in the mind of Jefferson Dean.

Perhaps the fact that Mr. Dean was in love with pretty Alice Chase had something to do with his unsettled mind. The germ of his joke had to do with his love affair, and its development was meant to result in the utter routing of his hated rival, Sam Freeman, a grave eyed young lawyer.

If he waited until the next All Fools' day many months would have elapsed, and it was too good a joke (on Sam Freeman) to be wasted. Why, next year would be too late, for Jefferson Dean rather expected to be married to Alice by that time.

So at last he decided to perpetrate the joke quite regardless of the season, and he carefully laid his plans and got ready for the utter routing of Mr. Freeman, who would be made entirely ridiculous in the eyes of the lovely Miss Chase, while the clever Mr. Dean, quite unsuspected of intrigue, would reap the reward of Miss Chase's smiles.

"What's new with you?" inquired his crony, Bob Waters, as they walked home together one night.

Jefferson Dean winked a handsome black eye and whistled airily.

"Something big doing, eh?" persisted Bob.

"Well, you'd never guess in a month of Sundays," returned Jefferson.

"No use trying, then?"

"You know Sam Freeman?"

"Sure."

"Noticed anything peculiar about him lately?"

Mr. Waters thought laboriously and shook his head.

"He's in love."

"Whew, that's so! I forgot Alice Chase, but I thought you were, ahem, No. 1 there."

Mr. Dean threw out his chest and spoke confidently: "I am No. 1 there, and that's where the joke comes in. See?"

Bob didn't see, but his intellect tried to pierce the veil of mystery. "Sure thing. Going to put up a job on yourself this time? Good joke. What?"

"Not on your life, Bobby! How's this? Sam's all gone on Alice, and she's—er—well, spoken for by me. It's all over but the asking. Yes, sir, there isn't another girl like her! Sam doesn't get much encouragement. He's a diffident beggar, and if he should get a little note from Alice saying that she had received his proposal of marriage and her answer was 'Yes,' why, he'd go wild between joy and surprise."

"Hum! Where does the joke come in?" inquired Bob soberly.

"Why, don't you see, it's on him when he calls on Alice and finds that he's been fooled?"

"Yes, but Miss Chase—would she lend herself to anything like that?" asked Bob doubtfully.

Jefferson Dean laughed loudly.

"She won't know anything about it until poor Sam springs their engagement upon her. It will be rather a joke on her too. Of course I shall write the note," he added.

"I didn't suppose Alice Chase would appreciate that kind of joke," commented Bob Waters, a little coldly.

"My boy, she has a keen sense of humor. I wouldn't marry any other kind of woman. Why, I've even known her to laugh at your jokes, old man," he ended wickedly.

But Bob Waters did not hide his disapproval of the cruel joke. "I say, Jeff, it's tough on Freeman, you know," he protested as they parted. "He's a mighty fine fellow, and he's hard hit in that direction. As you're the lucky one, you ought to spare him."

But Jefferson Dean was in high good humor with himself. He clapped his friend on the shoulder and laughed loudly.

"Now, don't get preachy, old man," he remonstrated. "It's only a joke, and five years from now Freeman will be laughing at it himself."

"Five years is a mighty long time to wait when you're trying to appreciate a joke like that on yourself. He'll be sore about it."

"It's only a joke. Look out you don't get caught yourself," laughed Jefferson as he went on alone.

Sam Freeman found the dainty little note among his letters one morning.

He had recognized the handwriting at once, and his wildly throbbing heart had testified to his desperate interest in lovely Alice Chase. But Jefferson Dean, that light hearted cavalier, had appeared to be first favorite. At least he was always in the field ahead of Sam, and now an engagement was openly rumored.

In the face of these facts the contents of that little note were astounding to Sam Freeman. He pored over the few words with white, stunned face and bright eyes.

What did it mean?

Alice Chase was saying that she loved him and would marry him, and she hoped he would come tonight when father would be home, and his proposal was so unexpected, but she was so happy.

He had not even asked her to marry him, though he had longed to do so. Again he asked himself what it could mean. Surely, surely he was not conceited enough to believe that Alice had thrown the handkerchief in his direction. She was not that sort. Anyway he would call upon her that evening.

Again he read the little note. It was for him alone. It began "Dear Mr. Freeman" and ended "Yours ever, Alice Chase."

He was of a dozen minds whether to send her flowers or not, but his longing to do so prevailed, and he sent a huge box of American Beauties.

That evening Jefferson Dean reached the Chase mansion at an early hour. Alice received him with her accustomed sweet cordiality, and he noted that she was looking especially beautiful in a cream colored gown, brightened by several American Beauty roses.

They were not his offering, and Mr. Dean felt a thrill of excitement as he pondered whether Sam Freeman had taken advantage of the note and sent her the flowers.

But there was little time for such reflections. The successful working out of his joke absorbed his attention, for presently Sam Freeman was announced.

"Now for the fun," chuckled Jeff inwardly as he shook hands with his rival and noted that young man's tense, eager face as he bent over Alice's hand.

The fun came thick and fast, but somehow it was not amusing to Jefferson Dean.

While that young man's attention was diverted by Alice's mother the girl had a few words alone with Freeman at the other end of the room.

When Mrs. Chase had gone Alice turned and came down the room with Freeman, and Sam was holding her hand with an air of proprietorship.

Jefferson Dean saw and gasped inwardly. Outwardly his face was quite colorless, and he cursed his own folly.

"Jefferson," said Alice sweetly, "congratulate us. We are engaged to be married." She bent down and her lips brushed one of the roses on her breast.

"Married!" echoed Jefferson, with a hollow laugh. "Is it a joke?"

"No, indeed!" protested the happy pair in unison. "It's true." And they turned and looked into each other's eyes and entirely forgot poor Jefferson Dean, who gladly slipped out of the house.

He met Bob Waters, and that young man hooked a hand in the arm of the disconsolate one and led him to the club. Perhaps Bob was conscience stricken, for he had conversed with Alice Chase over the telephone that morning, and he had told her a few things concerning the joke of Jefferson Dean, and Alice had declared it was the most sensible thing Jeff Dean had ever done in his life.

After a long and moody silence Jefferson Dean looked up from a steady contemplation of his dead cigar and addressed his sympathetic friend.

"I say, Bob, what's that thing those south sea islanders use—you throw it and it comes back and hits you on the head—what?"

"A boomerang?" asked Bob in a steady voice.

"A boomerang! Ah, yes: thanks!" murmured Jefferson Dean, and he returned to the obsequies he was holding over his defunct sense of humor.

CHANGES IMPENDING.

British Cabinet To Be Rearranged According to Press.

LONDON, Feb. 11. — Several changes in the Cabinet are foreshadowed to-day, both by The Chronicle and The Daily News. John Burns is to be transferred to the Board of Trade in succession to Sydney Buxton, who has been chosen, though not officially, for the Governor-Generalship of South Africa. Herbert Samuel will retire from the postoffice to succeed John Burns at the Local Government Board Department, which is increasing in importance year by year. Mr. Samuel will be succeeded by Charles E. H. Hobhouse, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. It is uncertain whether Charles Masterman will be appointed to the Duchy.

By leaving the Board of Trade, Sydney Buxton will exchange a salary of £5,000 for one of £10,000. Burns, by succeeding Buxton, receives no financial benefit, but Mr. Samuel, by stepping into the vacancy at the Local Government Board, will get £5,000, instead of £2,500.

Two Killed, Others Jumped.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 11.—Two men killed and six others injured by jumping about 18 feet from a bridge to the frozen river below, was the result of an accident in the town of Trenton. The westbound C. N. O. R. express train had just left Trenton, and was proceeding over the bridge, when eight workmen, all Italians, walked upon the bridge and towards the oncoming train.

Bank Fights Race Suicide.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11. — Announcement is made by the State Bank of Evanston that one dollar will be placed to the credit of every baby born within the limits of the city. Parents are advised to deposit sums corresponding to the age of the child on each birthday, making a total of $250 by the time the child is 21. The bank hopes to combat any tendency toward race suicide.

Will Stick To His Guns.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—"I am not aware that any officer is coming out from the War Office to discuss the Bisley situation as affecting the Canadian team," said Hon. Col. Hughes, Minister of Militia, yesterday morning.

It is intimated that the stand the Minister took in the House on the subject last Friday will not be varied.

LANDS ON THE BOUNDARY

North Monaghan Council Will Take New Proceedings

At the council meeting of North Monaghan recently, the matter of those who own lands between the city boundary and North Monaghan was discursed. It has meant considerable difficulty in the past for the assessor to look after these lands and it has been impossible to collect the taxes. It was therefore deemed necessary to put into force the non-resident system. This means that the lands will be properly described and entered in the assessor's book. After three years they will be handed over to the County Clerk who will sell them. The owner will have to pay 10 per cent. extra for for the bother.

The council are only following the lines of other councils that have been using this means for sometime in order to look after the non-resident lands.

Mr. Arthur Reid came before the North Monaghan council at the last meeting and asked them to lease him about twenty feet of the road allowance on the water edge of the Otonabee River at the extreme end of Lansdowne Street on which to erect a boat house. Mr. Reid asked that the lease cover a period of years so as to enable him to spend some money on a permanent structure. Mr. Reid stated that there would be forty and fifty feet of the road allowance still open to the public and that this portion of Lansdowne Street is unused at the present time. Moved by Mr. Young and seconded by Mr. Forster, that Reeve Howden refer Mr. Reid's request to the township solicitor and report the advice received at the next meeting.

No Fee for M. H. O.

The next matter dealt with was the allowance of five dollars per day for two days to the Medical Health Officer for his time attending the meeting of the Provincial Officers at Toronto. Moved by Mr. Dobbin and Robinson that the Med. Health Officer be not allowed a fee for his services attending the Med. Health Convention at Toronto.

Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr. Young, that the poundkeepes and fence viewers be re-appointed for 1914.

Votes for Women

A communication was received from Margaret Gordon M.D., on behalf of the Municipal Franchise Referendum Committee, Toronto, asking the council to express itself on the question of municipal votes for women. This communication was left over until the next meeting.

Moved by Mr. Young, seconded by Mr. Dobbin, that the taxes of $4.05 re the Peterboro Radial Company for 1913 be remitted on account of the payment of 1912 of a similar amount and also on account of the said company being liable for school rates only.

Mr. John F. Clark one of the township auditors was present, and read the report for the year ending December 31st, 1913.

A communication was received from Mr. John Cox thanking the council on the behalf of Miss Clara Lonsberry for their assistance to the extent of $25.

A communication was received from Mr. G. N. Gordon for his client Mr. George Dobbin, in regard to damages from water coming off the gravel road onto the property of Robert A. Dobbin and onto the property of Mr. George Dobbin.

Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr. Young, that this communication be referred to the township solicitor.

An application was received from the auditors to have their salaries increased from $7 to $10 each. Moved by Mr. Forster, and seconded by Mr. Dobbin, that the request of the auditors be granted.

Moved by Mr. Forster and seconded by Mr. Young, that the following accounts be passed and paid:

PROGRESS REPORTED AT THE ANNUAL MEETING OF Y.M.C.A.

Boys' Department Shows an Exceptionally Large Increase in Membership—Thos. Barrie, M. W. Lyle and Dr. Moir Added to Directorate

With abundant proof of one of the most active years in the history of the Y.M.C.A., was shown last evening with the presentation of the annual reports and election of the Board of Directors.

The past year has been one of the most successful both from a social and financial standpoint. The reports of General Secretary Hainsworth, Boys' Secretary Galley and Physical Director J. J. Thompson, spoke volumes of the good work in these departments, especially the Boys' Department, which is in a most flourishing condition, with an exceptionally large increase in membership.

The Board of Directors elected for the term of three years are:—Messrs. Thos. Barrie, Morley J. Lyle and Dr. A. Moir.

The following constitutes the Board of Directors for the ensuing term: Messrs. J. W. Bennett, J. H. Connal, F. J. Might, J. T. C. Laing, W. R. Warne, H. B. Cowan, Andrew McFarlane, P. M. McCarrell, M. W. Lyle, G. A. Gillespie, J. J. Howden, Thos. Barrie and Dr. A. Moir. The retiring members for the year are Dr. W. D. Scott and Mr. J. J. Hartley.

The election of the officers will take place on Tuesday, February 20th, when the president and other offices will be filled.

President's Address

It affords me great pleasure to refer to the season just closed as the most progressive year in the history of our Association, and this we attribute to the blessing of Our Heavenly Father and the able staff which has manned the office this year.

Our General Secretary, Mr. Hainsworth, deserves great credit for his able management of the affairs of the Association and his general supervision of the activities carried on in connection with the work, also the active interest he has taken in the general welfare of our members is deserving of their hearty appreciation. The Board of Directors take this opportunity of thanking Mr. Hainsworth for the efficient manner in which he has performed his duties in his business relations with the Board.

Mr. Thompson and Mr. Galley have very ably assisted the General Secretary in carrying out the work to a successful completion. In their departments they have done excellent work. Mr. Thompson, our physical director, is second to none in carrying out the work of his department. His work is thorough and that our members appreciate his instruction is shown by the interest taken in the gym classes conducted by him and also the enthusiasm with which the members enter into all his plans for their entertainment and building up of a more efficient manhood among the young men of our city.

Mr. Galley's work in the Boys' Department is deserving of special mention. He has worked hard and has shown wonderful progress in this department as the result of his efforts. His personal interest in each boy has gathered around him a band of loyal supporters. His plan of a course of educational addresses for the boys on Friday night of each week has proven a great success. These talks are given by business and professional men of the city. He has also organized a number of classes for Bible study amongst the boys, which are well attended and we trust his work will prove to be a great blessing and help to the members.

We particularly appreciate the very systematic way in which Mr. Galley has carried out the work of his department.

Our financial year in some ways was better, but in others not so good as last year. We did not raise so much money by subscription this year but revenue from membership and other sources within the Association was greater than last.

Yet when conditions are considered, the results of the Association have been very creditable.

The interest of our members in the work and their attendance at the building this year, particularly during the summer months, has been the greatest on record, a fact which is very gratifying to your Board of Directors.

J. H. CONNAL,
President.

MESSRS. BERARD AND BERGEVIN REFUSE TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

G. T. Marechal Says Biddinger and Maloney May Be Had Back For $75 a Day and Expenses, and The Mail Will Pay It If Government Refuses.

QUEBEC, Feb. 11.—Face to face with accusation that they sold their votes and influence as members of the Legislative Council of the Province of Quebec, in connection with the famous bill 156, L. P. Berard and Achille Bergevin, ex-members of the council, told yesterday afternoon in unmistakeable language, a committee of their former colleagues, charged with investigating statements against the honor of their House, that they would make no answer. Both, when summoned, gave the same answer, namely, that they refuse to say anything for fear it might incriminate them.

Counsel asked the former members of the council whether they had been paid money for their votes and their influence in the passage of the bill. They were both discharged without having made any answers.

L. P. Berard was the first of the two accused men to be summoned. Seated at the witness table, with head bowed low, his replies could be heard only a few feet away. Mr. Bergevin adopted the same attitude in regard to questions as Mr. Berard.

The committee of the Legislative Assembly, late last night concluded its inquiry.

In his closing argument, L. T. Marechal, counsel for The Daily Mail, submitted that the charges of bribery had been proved up to the hilt.

N. K. Laflamme, counsel for Mr. Mousseau, who has been unable to appear before the committee on account of illness, claimed that neither the committee nor the assembly could punish the guilty inasmuch as immunity had been voted by the Assembly to the corruptors, therefore, he urged that the same immunity must in equity be accorded to the corrupted.

Mr. Marechal, on the opening of the committee, stated that he had a declaration to make in regard to the position of Messrs. Biddinger and Maloney. He explained that they had left Quebec on receipt of a telephone message, of which neither he nor his clients knew anything. As far as these detectives were concerned, said Mr. Marechal, The Daily Mail's evidence was complete. Every effort had been made to bring them back, but they would not do so under $75 a day and expenses. Therefore he had been asked to say that, if the Government was reluctant to compensate the detectives, The Montreal Daily Mail would guarantee payment of the necessary amounts in order to bring them again before the committee."

In the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon the new charges made by Mr. Edward Beck aroused the graft question to a high pitch of excitement.

These charges, as stated by Mr. Beck before the Assembly committee, were as follows: That he recalled giving to Mr. Maloney a copy of Judge Cannon's report made in 1909 and explained to him its relation to the city government, and also that some men who had been found guilty of malversation in office had crept back into the City Council, and that he thought they were a detriment to the City of Montreal. He gave him in addition a large scrap book compiled from various newspaper clippings concerning legislation attempted and carried through in Quebec and the City of Montreal with reference to the Montreal Tramways Company. Beck says be told Maloney that it was a very common report in Montreal that legislation could be purchased in Quebec, that lawyers whom he named had told him they bad themselves in their safes receipted bills from members of this Legislature for efforts that the members had put forth to put through private bills.

Mr. Lavergne said he considered this statement of Mr. Beck's was far worse than the direct accusations of The Daily Mail, because Mr. Beck's statement threw a cloud upon the whole Legislature. He asked the Premier to force Mr. Beck to give the names of the lawyers he referred to and make those lawyers take the responsibility for the statements.

Sir Lomer Gouin said that if somebody would make direct accusations on this subject the situation would be clearer and then they might get down to facts. No action was taken.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux was on the stand before the lower House committee and explained that he had introduced C. P. Carpenter of Gaspe to J. O. Mousseau on the former's request and in the ordinary course of politeness. He knew nothing of the Montreal Fair Bill, and didn't want to, he said.

D. Lorne McGibbon of Montreal testified that it was he who initiated Editor Beck's investigation in the public interest. It had cost him $50,000, with no aid from anyone and no hope of remuneration.

Militants Molest Bishop.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Two militant suffragettes made a strong effort yesterday to prevent the Bishop of London from attending the opening session of the House of Lords, of which he is a member. They made him the first victim of their threatened campaign of molesting public men as an act of vengeance for his alleged "white-washing" of the Government in his report on the prison treatment of suffragettes.

The bishop's residence in St. James' Square was picketed early in the day by the women, two of whom acted as sentinels on the doorstep.

GIFT FOR PEACE

Carnegie Donates $2,000,000 to be Used Throughout Churches.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Andrew Carnegie yesterday gave $2,000,000 to be used through the churches for the promotion of international peace. The income of the fund, about $100,000 a year, will be expended by a board of 26 trustees, representing all the leading religious denominations in the United States.

This gift is in addition to the $10,000,000 foundation established by Mr. Carnegie Dec. 14, 1910, "to hasten the abolition of International war." The announcement was made at the close of a luncheon at Mr. Carnegie's home, attended by the trustees of the new foundation. The trustees organized "The Church Peace Union," which will be incorporated under the laws of New York State.

The income of the fund will be used to organize the moral power of the churches on critical international questions, to circulate peace literature among the clergy, and to bring the annual observance of a "peace Sunday." Conferences of America and Europe will be called to discuss the promotion of peace. When the leading nations abolish war and the fund has fulfilled its purpose the trustees may devote the income to other philanthropic uses.

FOOLED POLICE

Mrs. Pankhurst Sent Double Out to be Arrested.

LONDON, Feb. 11. — Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who Monday returned to London from Switzerland beguiled the police last night into a false arrest. She addressed a crowd from the window of her temporary residence in Campden Hill Square. She taunted the Government with cowardice and announced that she was coming into the street and challenged the police to re-arrest her.

Forthwith a woman emerged from the house; the crowd surged around to protect her, and a lively scuffle ensued. The woman was arrested, and, with seven others, was taken to a police station. There the police discovered they had been tricked. The woman was attired to represent Mrs. Pankhurst.

All those arrested were armed with clubs. They refused to give their names. They will be charged with obstruction and assault.

A Bird With Hands.

In the forests of British Guiana, says the London Globe, lives the hoactzin, a singular bird, whose young possess a free claw at the end of each wing, which they use almost as the monkey uses his hands in tree climbing. The nest of the hoactzin is in a tree overhanging the water, and the young, unlike most birds, are active from the first. The outermost quill feathers of the wing, which might hamper the free use of the claws, do not grow much until the rest of the wing is strong enough to make climbing less necessary. Then they grow out, and the claws are absorbed. The adult bird does not need them. Should a young hoactzin fall into the water it makes for the shore and seizes a branch, up which it quickly climbs.

The Public School will give an evening in Coronation Hall on Friday, 27th Feb. Concert at 7.30 o'clock.

The Emily Sabbath school convention held on Thursday afternoon and evening in the Presbyterian church proved to be a very strong and encouraging factor in this important work of the church. Many live topics were advanced and discussed by residents and outsiders. Owing to illness, the address on "Primary Work" by Miss Munro, of Peterboro', was taken by Mrs. Lewis, of that city. She handled the subject in an excellent manner, deducting many practical points. Rev. J. W. Rea, of Toronto, Field Secretary, had a busy afternoon and evening, his subjects were full of interest and were heard with a deal of appreciation and profit. The local clergy and many private citizens assisted. The convention was a distinctive step in the advancement of Sunday school work.

MANY ONTARIO TOWNS REPORT EARTH TREMORS

Houses Swayed, Dishes Rattled, Pictures Banged on Walls and People Rushed Into the Streets for Fear Walls Would be Shaken Down—Merely an Adjustment of Earth Crust Says Scientist.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—A severe earthquake was felt in the capital yesterday at 1.31 p.m., and considerable damage resulted.

Dr. Otto Klotz, assistant astronomer at the Dominion Observatory, issued the following official report on the quake:

"A fairly severe local earthquake was recorded to-day at 1.31 p.m. The disturbance lasted about four minutes, that is, the earth oscillated during that time, although it would not be noticeable to persons for that length of time. It was far more severe than the one which occurred on April 28, 1913, and which was felt over an area of 25,000 square miles.

"The distance from the epi-centre (the point on the earth's surface vertically above the point where the quake had its origin) is about seventy miles. The earthquake simply means that there has been an adjustment of the stresses of the crust of the earth, so that the earth's coat fits a little more snugly now since comparative equilibrium has been restored."

Despatches reporting the tremor have been received from Omemee, Burk's Falls, Prescott, Smith's Falls, Uxbridge, Belleville, Gravenhurst, Port Hope, Owen Sound, Brantford, Meaford, and other places.

Articles Scattered to the Floor.

MONTREAL, Feb. 11.—The entire St. Lawrence Valley around Montreal was swept by a severe series of earthquake shocks at 1.30 yesterday afternoon.

Two distinct shocks were felt, one of about twenty seconds, and the second less sharp, but lasting longer. The occupants of the upper stories of the taller buildings of the city felt the shocks most distinctly.

No damage has been reported in the city thus far.

In restaurants and offices tables and desks were rocked to such an extent that articles were scattered about the floor.

Verdun, suburb of Montreal, felt the shock to such an extent that residents left their houses in fright and ran into the streets.

At St. Madeleine the record of the shock was obtained by Jacques Cartier, wireless expert, who was listening at his instruments. Mr. Cartier got a duration of fifty seconds over his instruments, which corresponds closely with the McGill seismograph record of one minute.

Arthur Rainville, a farmer, was injured while driving along Notre Dame street during the earthquakes. The shock loosened a board from the roof of a building recently burned. The board struck his horses, and Mr. Rainville was thrown from his wagon and badly hurt.

Balls Rolled Around on Tables.

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 11.—The earthquake was quite distinct here, particularly in the upper stories of buildings. In the billiard rooms unracked balls rolled around promiscuously on the tables, while on No. 3 section of the Welland ship canal two shocks were plainly perceptible.

Telephone Knocked From Wall.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 11. — Yesterday afternoon at 1.32 a distinct shock of earthquake, lasting between thirty and forty seconds, was felt here. The quake was unusually severe, and while buildings shook badly no local damage is reported. At North Augusta, ten miles north of here, a telephone in the residence of John McCrimmon was knocked from the wall.

Wall Moved Ten or Twelve Inches.

CORNWALL, Feb. 11.—The worst earthquake in the history of the oldest inhabitant of the town passed over here yesterday afternoon at 1.31. In drug stores the bottles on shelves were moved over two inches out of their regular position. At the separate school the wall on the second floor was moved a distance of from ten to twelve inches.

PREMIER BORDEN EXPLAINS MEASURE FOR REDISTRIBUTION

East Will Lose Nine Members Unless Prince Edward's Quota Remains Fixed and West Will Gain Twenty-two as Result of Recent Census—Committee of Seven Will Allocate Riding Boundaries.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—The Prime Minister yesterday introduced his bill for the readjustment of the Parliamentary representation of the various provinces in accordance with the census of 1911. The bill leaves the schedules in blank, and it is still a moot question whether Prince Edward Island will have its representation reduced from four to three. If no such reduction is made the next House will consist of 235 members.

Mr. Borden announced that the work of making a new Parliamentary map would be entrusted to a special committee of seven members. The aim of the Government would be to preserve municipal boundaries as far as possible, having regard to equality of representation and community of interest. Personally he believed that the city constituencies should be larger than the rural constituencies.

The unit of representation will be 30,819. There was no debate upon the first reading, but some discussion will no doubt take place upon the second reading of the bill.

Mr. Borden, in moving for leave to bring down the redistribution bill, explained the theory of the constitution respecting Parliamentary representation, and its application under various redistributions.

Proceeding upon the basis laid down by law the provinces in the next Parliament would be entitled to the following representation: Nova Scotia 16, a loss of two; New Brunswick 11, a loss of two; Prince Edward Island 3, a loss of one; Ontario 82, a loss of four; Manitoba 15, a gain of five; Saskatchewan 16, a gain of six; Alberta 12, a gain of five; British Columbia 13, a gain of six; Quebec 65, and Yukon 1. In short, there will be a gain of thirteen members. Ontario and the Maritime Provinces lose nine, and the provinces west of Lake Superior gain 22. This is upon the assumption that Prince Edward Island will lose a member. But if her representation is not reduced, and remains at four, the next House will contain 235.

The Prime Minister then discussed the case of the Maritime Provinces, and the particular case of Prince Edward Island. He said the B. N. A. Act had been construed by the Privy Council, and that, as a matter of law, the Maritime Provinces must lose five members. Parliament could not amend the B. N. A. Act, nor would it ask the British Parliament to do so, except upon the request of the four provinces which formed the original confederation.

In the case of Prince Edward Island, Mr. Borden submitted that Parliament act, and he strongly intimated that the Government desired to have Prince Edward Island retain her present representation.

The Prime Minister said that as soon as the redistribution bill had received its second reading it would be sent to a committee consisting of four Conservatives and three Liberals.

It might be well, he said, upon the second reading of the bill for the House to discuss and determine the basic principles which should guide the committee in its deliberations. It was pretty well agreed that municipal boundaries should not be disturbed and that equality of representation and community of interest were no less important. He thought, however, that the unit of representation should be larger for city constituencies than for rural constituencies. The reasons were obvious. There was greater solidarity among city people, more uniformity of interest and ability to work quickly and harmoniously together for a common end. Many members representing county ridings lived in the cities and were well acquainted with the views of the city people, and were more or less in sympathy with them. Again, people tilling the soil upon which they were born and upon which their forefathers had lived for generations, had a more stable interest in the community than the city dwellers, who included a large floating population.

The criticism of Hon. T. W. Crothers, arising out of the Vancouver Island strike, was continued at the evening session when the labor estimates were dealt with.

Alphonse Verville led the attack, condemning the appointment of Mr. Price as investigator, condemning the report presented, and finally condemned the appointment of Mr. Crothers as Labor Minister.

Hon. Mr. Crothers, in reply, said that the United Mine Workers of the United States had invaded British Columbia, not for the purpose of benefiting Canadian workmen, but for the sole purpose of protecting the mine owners and mine workers of the United States from Canadian competition.

The big strike in Nanaimo and the neighborhood, in the Minister's opinion, had been instigated and financed by the coal barons of the United States, who desired to retard the mining and marketing of B. C. coal.

PEACOCK CLOTHING FOR MEN

Haberdashers League Banquet Is Riot of Vivid Color.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—At the first annual banquet of the Haberdashers' League, held in the Waldorf-Astoria, several of the diners wore blue, green and pink dress waistcoats, declared to be the latest Parisian creations. One member wore a shirt with two rows of fancy ruffles, something after the style of the fichus worn by Beau Brummel. The new peacock and bird of paradise clothes for men are said to echo the prevailing tendency among women of the smart set, who are wearing wigs of pink, green and purple. Conventional black and white for men is expected to disappear within the next two years.

FAST ORILLIANS SECURE FOUR GOAL LEAD AGAINST THE PETES, SCORE WAS 8-4

Former Blue and White Player Scored Six Goals for Orillia

In one of the cleanest and fastest games of hockey witnessed in Orillia in years, the home team defeated the Peterboro Intermediates last night by a score of 8—4. It was the first game of the round and the return game will be played here on Friday night, hence to capture the round the locals will have to win by five goals.

The game last night was very fast and before Peterboro were at themselves the score stood three to nil against them. The boys found the going a little better and the Orillia fans began to feel a trifle nervous when they ran in three goals in quick succession. The score stood thus, 3—3 at half time. After the resting period the home team came back very strong and after ten minutes of play they had the score 7—3. The locals then notched one which was quickly followed by a counter by Orillia, making it 8—4. The last twelve minutes or so Peterboro went strong. Rushes upon rushes went up the ice but poor shooting and a little hard luck was the cause of the counters not getting in. Corbould in goal, was given a hard session, but was equal to the occasion, and kicked everything out.

Ross Scored Six

The star of the performance was "Hounder" Ross who scored no less than six of the eight counters. Nealon and Harvie were the other two scorers for Orillia. Their forward line has barrels of speed and backcheck furiously. Lovering Jupp, who was expected to show Kelly up, found that he had a big task on hand and although he came down on many a fast rush, he couldn't score. The defence is fairly strong, while their goalminder showed great ability.

Captain Park was a trifle under the weather and this accounts for the great work of Ross, his check. Maurice is there all the time when he is in condition, but playing last night under a handicap he didn't show up so well. Grover Halpin played a nifty little game and stood the hard pace well. He served two penalties but both offences were more or less accidental. Kelly had a very busy night watching Jupp but when doing so he played a good game. This Jupp is about the fastest man in Intermediate hockey and "Kel" can be truthfully given the credit of watching him to perfection. Bradshaw at right wing, played a horse of a game. Time after time he saved what seemed to be sure goals by his back-checking and he contributed several long rushes. Both the wing men were bothered considerably by the round corners of the rink and at times were at a loss to get out.

Denison played a hard game for the first half and had the Orillia people in wonderment, but didn't go quite so good in the last session. Percy Bond was going fairly good, but the ice was a trifle too keen for him.

"Skid" Janes, playing as he was, in the town of his boyhood, was a little too anxious and as a result a few shots beat him that he would find easy picking on other occasions. The Orillia boys were peppering him pretty hard right after half time, and although a few beat him, he turned out no small number. A couple of the goals were similar to the first one in Whitby, that is long and bounding. Bert will go better on Friday night.

"Chad" Toms handled the game and although he handed the local boys a few penalties that were a trifle questionable, he did his work well. The game itself was clean and no intentional rough work was pulled off.

The teams:

Peterboro—Goal, Janes; defence, Bond and Denison; rover, Halpin; centre, Park; wings, Kelly and Bradshaw.

Orillia—Goal, Corbould; defence, Perryman and Harvie; rover, Carter; centre, Ross; wings, Jupp and Nealon.

The locals are confident they can turn the tables on Orillia here.

Cause of Three Goals

In the second half Bond retired with one of the Orillia defence players, who was hurt. This gave the homesters just such an advantage, as the Petes had here against Belleville, and in quick succession Orillia scored two goals. Another counter was recorded with Kelly doing a short term in the box for a minor offence. This practically brought about the defeat of the Petes.

RETURN GAME HERE SURE TO BE A GRAND BATTLE

The Petes will have to dig in and do some fast work Friday night in order to recover those four goals and land out ahead against Orillia.

The northerners have a great team. They will be accompanied here by a band of rooters and will hope to win. The Petes must stop them. They can do it.

The game should be a great exhibition of the winter sport and with this expectation the fans will no doubt rally and fill the rink to give the boys every encouragement.

CHURCH LEAGUE

The following St. Paul's Church players are requested to be on hand Thursday night at 10 for the game with Knox Church: McBride, Panter, Loucks, Breckenridge, M. Turner, Hill, S. Taylor and McCrimmon.

HOCKEY SCORES WELL HANDLED

Mr. J. L. Murphy, local agent for the G.N.W., supplied an excellent service on the hockey game last night and with Mr. Webber Turner as announcer, the big audience at the Grand last night, heard the story of the game and also witnessed a fine program of pictures. The scores were received by direct wire to the G.N.W. office and relayed to the Opera House. The result at half-time and full time was given out, almost before the players were in their respective dressing rooms.

BASEBALL

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 11.—Manager George H. Smith, of the Yankees, will arrive in Erie this week to look over Perry field and attend to some business which must be transacted. Smith isn't resting on his oars, and just now while the wind is howling at a forty-mile-an-hour clip, and snow is swirling through the streets he is lining up his work which is expected to give this city a real team in the Canadian league this season.

Manager Smith, while he will have the reserve list of the Guelph team to work on, isn't going to take chances with men who played in class C ball being good enough for class B. travelling, and with the aid of some tips from other managers with whom he has associated for years, he is laying his lines for some players who will force the other players in the league to travel with the high-speed clutch anchored in place.

Some real baseball news will be furnished Erie fans soon, for in a letter yesterday, Owner George H. O'Neil says he expects to have some news to give out soon.

OOAWA, Feb. 11.—Word was received here last night of the death by accident at Berwind, West Virginia, of Harry Draper, a pitcher, who was a member of the Ottawa Canadian league, champions of 1912. Draper was killed in a mining accident, the details fo which have not been received.

Draper refused to report here last year, playing semi-professional ball in the coal fields, but Manager Shaughnessy had hopes of having him return to Ottawa this season. He was a left-hander and one of the best in the Canadian league two years ago.

Lefty Rogers was tendered the biggest contract ever offered a Canadian when he left Ottawa last month, but intimates he is thinking of retiring for a couple of seasons. Rogers has made no kick on the figures in his contract. He is travelling for a paint concern in Illinois, and if he does not return Shag. will have a big gap to fill.

Al. Tesch, the Young shortstop, is causing war between the Ottawa club of the Canadian league and Brockton New England league clubs. Tesch was developed at Andover, the Yale prep. school, and is one of the fastest youngsters in the minors. He signed a 1914 contract with the Senators last August and was allowed to finish out the season with Brockton. That club has reserved him and claims priority over the Ottawa contract. The case will be decided by the National commission.

Still another blow has been pinned at the Feds., J. Ira. Davis, "some umps," as he declared himself, has signed up with the outlaws. Poor old Feds!

PLAYERS SAY THEY CAN WIN OUT

Will Have Plenty of Confidence for Friday's Game.

There is bound to be excitement and noise to the limit when the locals attempt to overcome that four goal lead. Can they do it? Well, the players all say they can and they should be the best judges. The work of Ross will be given a sad jolt when he plays against Maurice Park here. It is not to be supposed that Park wasn't going at all last night, but one can easily imagine that a man with a bad attack of la grippe cannot set out the hockey he could if he was in shape. Park will, as one player predicts, play a hundred per cent. better game on Friday night.

The reason for Park being the man who helps to win games on account of his scoring ability. When he is on he never fails to contribute four of five goals, and that's what we want Friday night.

ALERTS AGAINST BOSTON EXPLOITS

Two More Games in City League To-night.

The games in the Junior City League tonight have aroused considerable interest. The run the Alerts gave the Y.M.C.A. last week has given them courage and they expect to defeat the Boston Exploits in the 8 o'clock game. The Exploits have gone thus far without a defeat and the Alerts seek no greater distinction than giving them their first trimming. The second game between the Y.M.C.A. and the Wanderers will be fast and exciting.

The all-star team which if arrangements can be made, will play the Junior O.H.A. team, will also be picked tonight. Mr. Len Dobson will referee.

SACRED HEART SEVEN WON HOCKEY GAME

The Sacred Heart hockey team defeated the King Edwards in a very exciting game by 16—1. The stars for the winners were, Murray, Shaughnessy and Coursey, while, Fuller, Murdoff and Cunningham were prominent for the losers. The teams:

Sacred Heart—Goal, Rongie; defence, Dorey and McCarvey; rover, Coursey; centre, O'Dette; wings, Murray and Shaughnessy.

King Edwards—Goal, E. Jackson; defence, Fuller and Cunningham; rover, Martin; centre, Cranfield; wings, W. Jackson and Stevenson.

The game was played at Sacred Heart rink.

Outlook Dark.

"The young man sat by the roadside the picture of despair. His elbows were on his knees, and in his hands rested his chin, and a more forlorn looking object could not be imagined.

"What's the matter, pard?" asked a friendly passerby.

"Occupation gone, thanks to these autos and flying machines."

"And what is your occupation—a stock breeder?"

"Naw; a horse thief."

CURLING GOSSIP

Tonight the Toronto Granites play a friendly game with the local curlers.

Tomorrow evening three rinks from Bobcaygeon, will be here to play the first round in the Fitzgerald Bottum cup game.

Next Monday afternoon four Lindsay rinks will play here for the Lindsay-Peterboro cup. Four rinks from here will play there on the same day.

The rinks of the local ladies' curling club who went to Belleville yesterday to play today in the Ontario Tankard were: Miss Gladman, Miss M. Denne, Mrs. Goodwill, Mrs. Matthews, skip. Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Adam Hall, Mrs. Coulthard, Mrs. Sanderson, skip.

Two rinks from Millbrook were in the city yesterday and played friendly games in the afternoon and evening. Peterborough was 18 shots up in the afternoon and 2 shots down in the night games.

The rinks who went to Oshawa yesterday to compete in the bonspiel were:—J. Brightman, Jas. Skinner, G. A. Benore, R. M. Waddell, skip; R. Harstone, R. S. Sturgeon, T. F. Mathews, Geo. W. Morrow, skip; W. G. Menzie, F. Hughes, J. McIntyre, R. Hicks, skip; H. R. Martin, L. Bowes, Geo. Boucher, W. S. Forguson, skip.

At the recent bonspiel in Campbellford the rink made up by Mr. A. H. Webb won another cup for the local club. The cup was the challenge trophy and the local rink won it after competing in seven games. The final game was with Cold's rink of Campbellford, and the score was 23—5 in favor of the locals. The rink was composed of Messrs. P. Fitzgerald, A. H. Webb, J. Wiley, and R. Sturgeon, skip.

As a prize each member of the local rink receives credit of $15 towards a suit of clothes.

"Money is for men to earn."

"Indeed?"

"Yes."

"And how about women?"

"Oh, it is for them to spend."

Second Nature.

"My own darling," he sighs, "say that you will be mine!"

The beautiful actress drops her eyes and suffers herself to be folded in his embrace, whispering, "Egbert, I have always been yours!"

To his astonishment, an instant later she draws away from him and taps her foot angrily on the floor, saying:

"Goodness, you did that like a wooden man! We didn't get a hand. You'll have to put more life and go into your part or"— Here she blushes vividly, and across her face surge waves of sweet confusion as she shyly says: "I am so sorry! For the moment I forgot that we were here alone and not on the stage."

Holiday Task.

Finding the north pole is like sliding off an iceberg. If the glacial formation is in the right place, you strap on snowshoes, start going and tumble right into the spot without further ceremony.

To show how easy it is, two men discovered it about the same time without eating a single boot top to cheer them on their way.

We have been looking at this job of hunting the pole as a hard one, because while we went about it the right way we didn't go far enough. It takes neither skill nor practice. Any one who will start north and keep going must stumble on it.

Even Worse.

"The trouble with some people is that courting ends with marriage."

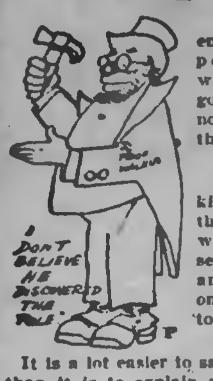
"Except divorce courting."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Some people seem to have bad children from a laudable desire to keep their neighbors from suffering from ennui.

The shorter some people are the longer their faces grow.

A man is usually dead anxious to pay what he owes to himself.



I DON'T BELIEVE HE DISCOVERED THE POLE

And the difference is that some people know where they are going, but are in no haste to be on the way.

There are two kinds of people in the world—those who know themselves to be fools and those who only know others to be fools.

It is a lot easier to say a mean thing than it is to explain what you didn't mean afterward.

It isn't sufficient to be a producer. You must learn to cinch what you produce or else join the down and out club.

Grobb, M.A., the wedding march being played by Miss Flowers, the organist. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her brother, Mr. Rupert S. Donell, of Detroit.

After the ceremony the wedding party proceeded to the C.P.R. station, where, amid showers of confetti the happy couple left on the afternoon express for Chicago, in which city they will spend their honeymoon.

The large number of beautiful and costly presents testified to the popularity of the bride and groom. Their many friends will wish them a long and happy life.

MASTERPIECES OF THE WORLD

Miss McRae Gave Address to Charlotte Street Society

Miss J. C. McRae, Art Instructor at the Normal School, gave a very interesting and instructive address last night to the Literary Society of Charlotte street Methodist church. The audience was small, but appreciative of the thoroughly high character of the lecture, which was illustrated by lime light views.

Miss McRae dealt first with Raphael and considered in detail his most famous picture, the Sistine Madonna. By throwing the picture on a screen her criticism was made very clear to the audience. She explained the classical balance of the picture, the beautiful expression of motion, the high spiritual uplift contained in the painting, and how the wonderful expression of the eyes was brought out by the downward direction of the light. In the Madonna of the Chair, she explained the masterful use of curves, a straight line being used only in the chair. The great English painter, Turner, was discussed with reference to the famous picture f the Temeraire, an old man o' war that had won glory in the Battle of the Nile. The sky and water effects in this painting were well described . Millet and Corot were also considered by a study f their master-pieces and the last picture studied was the renowned Mona Lisa, which recently attracted so much interest by reason of its theft and return to the Louvre.

Miss Smith gave a very fine piano solo and Mr. R. F. Downey, B.A., acted as chairman. A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Mansell, and seconded by Mr. Cunningham, and tendered to Miss McRae and Miss Smith.

Mr. Downey announced that at the end of the month a gentleman from Toronto would give an illustrated address on his trip to the World's Sunday School Convention, held at Zurich last year.

$31,931 REQUIRED BY BOARD OF WORKS FOR GENERAL PURPOSES

Appropriation for Extras Would Make Total of $33,420—Paring Operations Not Yet Commenced—$9000 in Gravel and Stone or One Mile of Permanent Concrete Roadway?

$31,931 is the amount required for the Board of Works to carry on their work for the year, according to the estimates supplied the Board of Works by the City Engineer, at their meeting last evening.

These estimates will be further considered by the chairman, Mayor and City Engineer, with the intention of paring them down. Ald. Green expressed the opinion that it was impossible to do the work properly at a smaller sum. It would even be better to have the taxes increased if necessary to do the work properly.

The estimates for last year were $28,500. The estimates were made up as follows:

Approaches and repairs ...$	50
Board of Works, miscel. ..	750
Horse feed, two horses	425
Repairs to county bridges..	650
Concrete walks, faced	150
Crossings	200
Culverts	300
Flagging railway crossing..	750
Gen. Street Work	2,500
Grading of water tables.....	1,000
Office supplies	300
Opening of water courses ...	300
Murray street creek, ret. wall	200
Sewerage pumping station...	400
Street cleaning	2,500
Sewer maintenance	400
Surface drainage	3,500
Trimming trees	200
Weeds and grass cutting	200
Repairing wooden walks	600
Salaries	7,000

Extras at $1,400 are not included in the $31,931.

Extras
Boundary roads approp'n...$	450
Street signs	200
Painting bridges and railings	150
New water cart	350
Smith St. bridge, Jack. Park	120
Cement testing outfit	225
	$1,495
General appropriation ....$	31,925
Total	$33,420

The City Engineer was instructed to report on the cost of constructing bridges at Bonacord st., Smith st., and Victoria Ave., and London st. Ald. Green said that it was a dire necessity that the foot bridge on Bonacord street be constructed, as the old foot bridge was in very bad shape. He suggested having concrete abutments built and a bridge constructed on the same principal as the McDonald and Park Street bridges. The others referred to are more in the line of large culverts and are in need of repair.

Mud or Concrete?

"This gravel and stone estimate of $9,000 would give you a half mile of permanent concrete road," pointed out the City Engineer. "It is permanent, thereby doing away with the repairs every few months and more work in the spring."

The Board thought this an excellent idea, although no definite action was taken.

The question of an automatic flush tank was discussed most favorably, the Board realizing the importance of having one in the city and also adding one every year. The tank would cost in the neighborhood of $75.00. . On the suggestion of Ald. Green one will probably be purchased out of the estimates for pumping station supplies by adding $100 to the estimate.

It was pointed out that owing to the pavement in the business section of the city, it would require about $1,00 for cleaning purposes out of the estimate of $2,500.

Ald. Green stated that it would be more honorable to raise the tax rate in order to meet all requirements. To undertake work and leave it uncompleted was to place them in a false light. He strongly expressed his anxiety to keep down the rate, but was willing to have the rate increase in order to do the work properly. Ald. Johnston contended that this year the rate should be kept down anyway.

FIREMEN HAD RUN OUTSIDE THE NORTHERN LIMITS

Vacant House Was Totally Destroyed at Midnight

With the mercury dropping down around the twenty below mark and a wind from the north blowing rather briskly thefiremen had a long run last night and with no result. About six minutes after twelve, Mr. James Lundy was passing the fire hall and noticing the reflection of a fire in the north end of the city asked the man on watch if he had noticed it. While they were speaking Mr. H. O. Fisk, 204 McDonnel street, telephoned to the Fire Station acquainting them of the fire and said that although he wasn't sure just where it was, it appeared to be rather large. The man on watch turned in Box 45 and the firemen hastened through the cold to the north end in search of a blaze.

A few hundred yards north of Wolsely street along the old Chemong track a brick house, owned by Mrs. S. Oliver, a resident of Port Hope, was found to be ablaze. Of course it was outside the city limits and not within the radius protected by the firemen, but Fire Chief Howard and some of the men remained on the job to give aid in the event of the sparks starting fires at nearby houses.

The hose sleigh returned to the station as there were no water connections.

The building was totally destroyed. How the fire started is a mystery. The building was valued at about $1200. The insurance was $950.

SCHOOLS ARE WELL HEATED

Only One Room Not up to the Mark.

Inspector Mowat said this afternoon that there was only one room in all the public schools that was not as comfortable as it might be. This room is at the new West Ward school where the motor which distributes the heat throughout the school is not in operation because of the lack of power.

This motor is in operation at the East Ward school. All the rooms with the exception of the one in question has a temperature of 70.

Mr. Mowat said that quite a number of the small children are crying when they reach school in the morning.

Evidently the parents do not then realise the severity of the weather. In some cases the children are not as warmly clad as they should be.

FREE PICTURES.

At the children's meeting Friday evening, in Gospel Hall, new views of Bunyon's Pilgrim's Progress will be shown. All children admitted free at 7 'clock.

POWERFUL ADDRESS BY MISS BABCOCK

Revival Meetings in the Free Methodist Church

A very appreciative audience listened to an instructive and powerful sermon by Miss Babcock last night, from the 20th verse of the 5th chapter of the epistle of James.

The speaker stated that she would not treat the text on the line of Christian efforts for the salvation of the wayward, but would endeavor to show the errr of the ways of sin and its terrible consequences, which the Scriptures declare are "death," which she did in a very convincing manner.

She held up Christ as a full and sufficient Savious from all sin, and the only source of satisfaction for the infinite desires of an immortal spirit made to fellowship with its Creator. The vanity of all sinful pleasures were very clearly shown and an appeal was made to those present (who had not already done so) to at once decide to forsake all things that do not lead to heaven, and become consciously and savingly acquainted with Christ as a personal Saviour.

Come to-night and hear Miss Babcock proclaim the word of truth. Song service at 7.50 preaching at 8 o'lock —(Com.)

REV. S.J. SHOREY TO STAY IN LINDSAY

Lindsay, Feb. 12.—At a joint meeting of the Official and Quarterly Boards of the Cambridge street Methodist church, the pastor, Dr. S. J. Shorey, announced that he had been the recipient of an invitation to accept a charge in another centre, but had declined it and had decided to continue his services in his present charge for another year, if it were the wish of the Board. The announcement was received with much pleasure by those present, and several spoke expressing their pleasure at his decision and also of the general satisfaction his pastorate in Lindsay has given.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC TO SPEND TWO TO THREE MILLIONS

Over a Million Will be Spent in Enlarging the Niagara Falls Service, Eugenia Falls Development Will be Rushed Forward and a Survey of the Magnetawan River is Ordered.

TORONTO, Feb. 12—Expenditures approximating between two and three million dollars are involved in the construction program of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for this year. After a lengthy meeting of the commission yesterday, Hon. Adam Beck, chairman, outlined the scope of the work that would be undertaken.

In addition to the duplication of the trunk line of the Niagara system from Dundas to Niagara Falls, which will cost about $700,000, a 46,000-volt line from the Falls to Welland is to be immediately constructed at a cost of $400,000. Owing to the nature of the country and the severity of the storms, this line will be of extra heavy construction. The engineering department was authorized to proceed at once with the purchase of the remaining right-of-way for the Dundas-Niagara Falls line. The enlargements to the stations at both places have been practically completed and contracts were awarded for towers and insulators. The cable was ordered some time ago.

The proposed development at Eugenia Falls was advanced a stage when estimates were sent to the group of municipalities in Grey and Bruce counties that are seeking cheap power. These municipalities are: Chatsworth, Markdale, Owen Sound, Flesherton, Durham, Hanover and Walkerton. The price ranges from $23 to $43 per horsepower on an estimated development of 4,000 or 5,000 horsepower. Provision is also made to connect this line with Collingwood and Meaford, so that the whole district will be served. The power will be developed at 2,200 volts and will be delivered to these municipalities stepped down and ready for distribution.

In connection with the construction of another circuit from Dundas to London and St. Thomas, Mr. Beck made the announcement that this line would be ready by the first of May, thus giving three complete circuits to supply the municipalities in the London district.

The commission authorized the town of Walkerville to sell power to Ford City. This will probably enable a reduction of rates below the estimate already given for this district.

Away from northern Ontario the cry has come for Hydro power, and the chief engineer was authorized to have an investigation of the power possibilities of the Magnetawan river.

RALLY OF THE METHODIST MISSIONARY AUXILIARIES

On Tuesday afternoon at the regular meeting of the George Street Auxiliary fully two hundred women from the four Methodist Churches of the city assembled in the school room.

Under the able and inspiring direction fo Mrs. Kendry, the president of George St. Auxiliary, the meeting proved to be very interesting. The singing was hearty. Mrs. Carlisle led the devotional exercises, Mrs. Shields reading the lesson from the first chapter of St. John's Gospel.

There were many features of the meeting worthy of note. Miss Wood read a letter from the branch president, Mrs. Grange, suggesting that it would be fitting for all the auxiliaries of the branch to make a special donation in memory of the late Mrs. Platt of Picton, who was Branch President for so many years and on motion by Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Carlisle, favorable action was decided on.

Expressions of sympathy were ordered to be conveyd to Mrs. Divens, who was absent on account of the death of her mother.

Two features of the meeting were the bright and interesting address of Mrs. Mansell president of the Charlotte St. Auxiliary, and the papers by Mrs. Peever on the conditions of the Women's Missionary efforts in the province of Qubec.

The larger generosity was stimulated by the recitation of "The Stingy Man's Penny" by Mrs. Emory, of St. James' St. Auxiliary, and the reading of "I Give Tithes of All I Possess" by Mrs. Curtis, of George St. Auxiliary.

The King's Business

After Mrs. Armstrong's account of the work done in the fortnightly study class of George St. Auxiliary, particularly in reference to the book on "The King's Business" many felt that they were losing much in not attending the class.

The beautiful solos of Mrs. Middleton and Miss Wrigley, and the piano solo by Mrs. Cleary added much to the pleasure of the afternoon.

When Mrs. Kendry rose to close the meting by reciting the great watchword of the society, given by the first president, Mrs. Gooderham, 33 years ago—"Wisdom and knowledge shall be the stability of thy times." She called to the platform Miss Benson who had formerly been a Sunday School teacher in George St. Sunday School. Miss Benson asked those who had been members of her class to stand and among those who responded was Miss Munro, who lately returned from the foreign missionary field.

After prayer by Mrs. Kendry, a social half hour was spent by the women together, who felt that they had been greatly benefitted by the meeting.

RISING TEMPERATURE TO BE FOLLOWED WITH SNOW

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—The cold wave is moving east, the provinces already have it milder although it has not moderated at Winnipeg yet. Continued cold for Ontario to-day is promised with easterly winds, rising temperature and finally snow to-morrow, but in Quebec and the East the cold wave will continue on Friday.

The thermometer has not been above zero from Winnipeg to Halifax since yesterday. Winnipeg's coldest was thirth-eight; White River, fifty; Sault Ste. Marie, twenty-six; Toronto, eighteen; Kingston, twenty-four; Ottawa, twenty-six; Montreal, twenty-six; Quebec, twenty-six; St. John, twenty, and Halifax, twelve.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION HAD YEAR OF PROGRESS

J. J. Cunningham and Jos. Kelly Appointed Secretary and Treasurer

The annual meeting of the Peterboro Poultry Association was held in their hall on Simcoe street last evening. A goodly number attended in spite of the severe weather, and the meeting was presided over by President Holmes.

The business of the meeting was opened by the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by Secretary J. Kelly. These were approved as read.

The meeting then dealt with a considerable amount of routine business. The secretary's report was received with great interest by those who were present, and contained a concise and accurate account of the numerous activities in which the association has engaged during the past year.

Officers Elected

The officers of the association for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Hons. Pres.—Messrs. James Baptie and James T. C. Lang.

Hon. Dir.—Warden Shaw, Mayor Buller and Mr. George Paxman.

Pres.—Mr. Fred Holmes.

1st Vice Pres.—Mr. R. D. Robson.

2nd Vice Pres.—Mr. Arthur Ash.

Board of Dir.—Messrs Archie Brault, H. S. Lush, Wm. Abbott, P. H. Smedmore, C. Henry, Geo. McClelland, P. Hartley, Wm. Grose, J. Price.

Immdiately after the meeting adjourned the Board of Directors met, and after considerable discussion it was agreed that the duties of the secretary treasurer were too heavy to be discharged by one man, along with his own business. It was decided therefore that in future the association would have both a secretary and treasurer. The election for this office resulted as follows:

Sec.—Mr. J. J. Cunningham.
Treas.—Mr. J. Kelly.

The resignation of the retiring secretary, Mr. J. Kelly, was received with many expressions of protestation and regret. Al were sorry hear that he felt that he could not continue in office and do justice to his own work and that of the association.

A meeting of the Directors will be held on Wednesday next.

A writ for $5,272.42 has been issued by Peck, Kerr and McElderry, counsels for the State Line & Sullivan Railroad Company of Mass., against Joseph H. McClellan of this city. The plaintiffs claim is against the defendant as the maker of a promisory note.

A writ against Arthur J. McClellan for the amount of $1,458.54 has also been issued by the above firm on a promisory note.

27 BELOW ZERO AT SEVEN THIS MORNING

The thermometer was down to 27 below zero this morning at 7 o'clock—lower than yesterday morning by three degrees. At noon it marked 11 degrees below. The present cold wave is a severe one and extends over a wide stretch of country, and while it is certainly cold here there are lower figures being recorded at a few other places. It is likely that the weather will now gradually moderate.—W.P.

THEY BROUGHT MAC. BACK IN A HACK

He is Now Registered at Hillside, Nesbittville.

"Thos McKinley," called the Magistrate.

This time Thomas answered with a surprising readiness.

"Did we see you a year ago or was it yesterday?"

"Well, I believe it was yesterday," responded the crest-fallen culprit.

"You are charged with being drunk. Were you drunk?" asked His Worship.

"I don't remember anything about it."

Constable Meagher gave evidence that McKinley was found in a badly intoxicated condition and was taken to Robinson's livery and was then conveyed to the police station in a hack.

"Say, look here, I wasn't very drunk, you can't have a drunk on sixty cents,' concluded McKinley.

He was fined $2 at police court yesterday morning to be paid in ten days.

McKinley being without the necessary $2, will accept the hospitality of Castle Nesbit for the next ten days.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, FEB. 12, 1914.

THE SENATE IN DANGER.

THE GLOBE publishes a despatch from Ottawa which says they are blaming the earthquake on Dr. Michael Clark, the apostle of British Liberalism from Red Deer. The Alberta farmer-physician had just marched out of the Railway Committee room and was discussing with characteristic vigor the lethargic inaction of the Borden Administration.

"It would take an earthquake to arouse the Government," he exclaimed. "What is needed is an earthquake."

Scarcely thirty seconds had elapsed before alarmed and excited members were rushing into the corridors, while the buildings throbbed, shook and trembled. "It's an earthquake !" cried Mr. Cockshutt, as he hurried out, hat in hand.

"And yet scoffers say that Providence doesn't answer prayer," grimly observed Red Michael.

It is to be hoped that the shock did not waken the Senators ! No fear of that. The Dominion has been shaking from end to end with indignation since the rejection of the Naval Aid Bill, and the Senate still enjoys its senile slumber.

FREE WHEAT—WHY !

THE GLOBE takes The Review to task over a recent editorial on free wheat as follows:—

> The Peterboro' Review says: "We are crying out against the high cost of living, but if our wheat goes south instead of east we may be sure that we will have to pay a good price for it when it returns to us in flour. America can take all the wheat the prairies can raise, and once they get a foothold in the market they will take it all too —then pity help the east !" How would Peterbouough like to be prevented from selling her manufactured goods wherever in the wide world a market is to be had ?

Peterborough and every other Canadian manufacturing centre is prevented from selling manufactured goods in some parts of the world, and the western grain growers would not be permitted to invade the American market if America was not eager to get the wheat.

America wants Canadian wheat—why? In the first place because it is of better quality than their own.

The Examiner the other day argued as if the Borden Government was standing in the way of Canadian grain growers doing business with the States by forcing them to send their grain to Canadian mills and to the British market.

What is wrong with the British market ? To whom would the American millers sell Canadian wheat flour (mixed with their own of inferior quality) if they got it? They would sell it to Great Britain and be able to compete on an equal footing, if not at an advantage with Canadian millers.

There are other ways of relieving the western grain growers than by opening up the middle west to the exploitation of the Yankee. The questions of transportation and of elevators can be dealt with, and certain disabilities which are inevitable in a new country can be remedied without giving the whole wheat market of the west away.

The Globe recently deplored the invasion of the American cattle buyer into Ontario—or rather it chided the farmer for selling his best cattle to the American buyer, which is the same thing. What would prevent the American wheat buyer invading the western market and with fancy offers out-bidding the Canadian miller?

Would the Globe argue that the grain grower has a right to sell his wheat to the highest bidder? If the product of the west goes south what of our boasted C.P.R. and G.T.R., and what would our fine mills be as compared with the fattened mills of the States ?

The Americans want Canadian wheat—why ? To enable them to compete with Canada in the markets of the world.

This is how it appears to us, and if the Globe can set us right on this matter we would gladly change our mind. If free wheat can be proved to be a blessing to the Dominion of Canada, then by all means let us have it; if not then pile up the tariff and give the grain grower better facilities for handling his produce.

A PLAIN PICTURE OF THE WEST.

THOSE WHO are contemplating migrating west this summer might well study the words of a correspondent to the Westminster Gazette, who writes of the conditions and prospects on the prairies, from personal experience. The letter was written as advice to the British emigrant, who thought of taking up farming in the west, but it applies with equal value to Ontario young people:—

"I do not propose to deter any young villager from emigrating to Canada. Indeed, when a man has reached a condition of mind when he thinks seriously of leaving his home to seek a fortune in a distant land it is an indication that all is not well with him, and the probability is he will do better in Canada than by staying at home. But I have often asked myself the questions, 'What does he expect to find when he sets out to take up a free grant of land ? and does he know any thing of the struggle that awaits him ?' He will know of the long and severe winters, but he will perhaps discount them by saying the land is wonderfully fertile and particularly adapted to the growing of wheat. It will please him to know that he need only summer fallow once every three or four years, and for the rest merely drill in his seed on the top of the burnt-off stubble. The great prairie problems are those of finance. A man of imagination might foresee a few of the difficulties he must encounter through lack of capital. His quarter section will be at some distance from a station or township, maybe five or six miles, maybe twenty, and before he does anything else he will have to erect a shelter for himself and family on the bare patch of land and buy the material—he will not find it on the land. And he must have horses, machinery, and tools to cultivate his holding, all of which costs money. These things are not difficult to get, and the common practice is for the lumberman, the horse-dealer, and the merchant to accept bills extending over a period of two years, and the bills bear interest at the rate of 8 or 9 per cent., and as much as 12 after maturity. So right at the outset the farmer is in debt. Eventually, when his land produces crops, he will be able to mortgage it to a loan company, and in most cases he is forced to do so. These are not fairy tales. When I was in Saskatchewan a short time ago a commission had just reported that in some districts 98 per cent. of the farms were mortgaged, and outside these specially mentioned areas the figure was 93."

This gives a straightforward statement of the situation, which awaits the emigrant and it is much better for a young Britisher to come out with a plain and unvarnished picture of what he will encounter, than to lure him with a false and rosy account of the "glorious west." If we tempt people out from their home-land and then disappoint them we shall people Canada with a discontented and exile race..

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SIR J. M. BARRIE, the author of Peter Pan has given $50,000 to the Shackleton South Polar Expedition fund. It will be remembered that Sir James was a great friend of Captain Scott's, and is god-father to the ill-fated explorer's young son Peter.

THE BISHOP OF LONDON has let the world into the secret of his cilibacy. He said at a meeting that he had not the time to marry, although he was aware the public preferred married clergymen. He declared that he had not the slightest intention of becoming a Benedict. The Bishop is a bad example; does not Paul say that a Bishop should know first how to manage his own household ?

TORONTO NEWS: "Because Hon. Sam Hughes has got into a dispute with the British War Office he seems likely to become a hero to some of the Liberal newspapers." If the Honorable Sam had said sharp things against the White House instead of Whitehall, the tune would have been different. The War Office knows our Sam and we all know him. There is no fear of precipitating war between Great Britain and Canada over a pop-gun ! Sam is saucy because he knows he is one of the Empire family. Would he talk like that to Japan ? Why are Liberal journals ever ready to encourage anyone who looks like a rebel ?

Government Advertising.

Ottawa Journal.

When a Liberal Government is in power, Liberal papers get most of the advertising which the government requires to do; and Conservative papers point to them with scorn. Now that a Conservative government is in office Conservative papers get most of the advertising, and the Liberal papers which no longer get the chief business are pointing with scorn to the Conservative papers.

On the Trail.

Just around the corner
Adventure lies,
There on yonder hilltop
Romance waits,
Lure of war and passion
In her dreaming eyes;
Where one almost sees them
Are the sister fates !

Over far horizons
Youth would go,
Out of distant skylines
Calls the dream;
Unknown lands entice us,
Dulness here we know—
Over happy valleys
Magis glories stream.

Just around the corner
Love invites;
Down the sunlit roadway
Youth must roam.
Youth must ever follow,
Questing for its rights,
Paths that lead around the world,
And straight back home !

ART

By Walt Mason

I went to see the painless artist to have some brand new photos made; he's celebrated as the smartest and slickest workman in his trade. "And now," I said, in accents haughty, "I want to look just like myself, and not like some old doggone dotty imported image on a shelf. You need not fuss around and bustle to beautify me, as it were; I am not Colonel Lillian Russell, and do not wish to look like her. Just picture me as I am looking each day, upon the busy mart; I'll have you know I am not brooking your high experiments in art. Let actresses and kindred friskers do posing stunts with mouths ajar; just photograph my ears and whiskers, my nose and larynx, as they are." "Just sit down here," he said, with feeling, "and place your chin within your hand; and glue your eyes upon the ceiling, and log majestic, weird and grand." I saw it was no use to tarry; he simply could not play my game, and make a picture I could carry around without a blush of shame. In all my pictures I resemble some folks I never came across; the late lamented Fanny Kemble, or else the long lost Charlie Ross !

THE SWEET RESTORER.

Strange Sleepng Habits of Animals and Birds.

The majority of mankind sleep lying upon the right or left side of the body, and with the knees drawn up toward the chin. Certain African tribes, however, lie upon the back, with the back of the neck resting on a bar or wood supported on two short pillars.

The elephant apparently invariably, and the horse commonly, sleep standing. This is really astonishing. Apart from the apparent difficulty of maintaining the balance of the body during these long periods of unconsciousness, one would have supposed that a recumbent posture, in the case of both these animals, was imperative. Cattle and their kin commonly sleep lying down, and during many hours of the day they lie down, as when chewing the cud.

More curious still, bats and other creatures invariably sleep hanging head downwards, suspended by their hind feet. The same strange habit is common to the little hanging parrots of India and the Malayan region. In this they differ from all other birds, which invariably sleep with the head turned tail-ward over the back and the beak thrust in among the feathers between the wing and the body—not under the wing, as is commonly believed. This strange habit is followed even by the penguins, wherein the feathers are so short as to fail completely to cover even the beak. Owls are perhaps, the only exception to the rule. And, by the way, the only other animals which thus turn the head backward after this fashion during sleep are certain peculiar tortoises known as "side-necked tortoises."

Long legged birds, like storks and gulls, sleep while resting only on one leg. Ducks generally sleep on open water. And to avoid drifting shorewards, and therefore into the danger zone, they keep constantly paddling with one foot, so that the body is always circling round the chosen sleeping area. The sloths sleep suspended by their feet, and the head tucked in between the fore-legs. The no less remarkable African pottos, or slowlemurs, assume a similar pose, but they attach themselves to a vertical, instead of a horizontal, bough, so that the body rests with the head upward. No animal, save man, sleeps upon its back.

As a rule, darkness induces sleep. With many animals, however, the reverse is the case—as with the bats and owls. This reversal of the usual order has been brought about by the nature of the feeding habits.

The question where sleep begins is by no means easily answered. One is inclined to draw the line at the insects. But since all living things, plants as well as animals, display periodical states of quiescence, perhaps we shall be near the truth in regarding sleep as universal among living things. In the case of plants, it is enforced by darkness, save in the case of many bacteria and fungi, which, like evil deeds, grow under the cover of darkness.

Siberia's Only University.

Tomsk, the agricultural centre of Siberia, boasts of the only university in that country. It was opened 26 years ago, and is so well endowed that tuition fees amount to only $50 a year. At the university hospital may be obtained the only Pasteur treatment for mad-dog bite that is available in Siberia. As the disease is rife, this is no small blessing to the settlers. A great institute of technology and school of mines, too, is to be found at Tomsk. It has an enrollment of 1,700 students, many of them from the far away region of the Caucasus, in southern Russia. American engineering text books are largely used in the institute.

Who Crowns the King?

An amusing incident occurred in a country parish near Holyhead, Eng., one evening recently, at a meeting of the Church of England Band of Hope, which was held in the parish-room. A number of children belonging to the Nonconformist denominations were present, and a canon from a neighboring parish was invited to catechise the children. "Who crowns the King, my children?" he asked with a benevolent smile calculated to inspire confidence. "Lloyd George, sir," promptly replied one small boy, in a piping voice. "No, no," cried the startled canon. "Come now," he went on, after a lengthy pause, "who crowns the King?" "Well, sir," chimed in another youngster, "if Lloyd George doesn't, Ellis Griffith will."

Birthdays of Note

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY TWELFTH

Judge Charbonneau of Montreal, who is sixty-one years of age to-day, bears the nickname of "Appeal-proof Charbonneau." He has delivered more notable judgments in his time than any other occupant of the Bench in Quebec and practically all his decisions have been upheld by the Privy Council. Perhaps the most interesting ruling that he ever made was when he decided that friars and members of religious bodies, who had resigned all ownership in property, could not have the vote. This disfranchised thousands of men in Quebec and led to the passing of a new Franchise Act to meet the difficulty. As a lawyer Judge Charbonneau was admittedly one of the ablest French-Canadian practitioners of his day. He has been on the Bench for ten years, during which time he has delivered a score of important judgments, the latest being the one in the famous Hebert case.

Fires in Japan are so common that this destructive agency has established itself as a national institution, and a whole vocabulary has grown up to express every shade of meaning in matters fiery. My Reimbursement

It Was Not the Kind That Was Expected

By F. A. MITCHEL

Not long before the revolution in Mexico that put Huerta in the saddle I was sent out by the house by which I had been employed for ten years—from the time I was sixteen till I was twenty-six—to establish a branch of the business at the capital of that country.

For awhile I was so busy getting a store, unpacking goods and attending to the various requirements of opening up a new business that the country, the people, their customs, manners, appearance, did not engage my attention, but when all was running smoothly I began to take notice of what was going on about me. Being young and a bachelor, it was natural that the first object to interest me was the senoritas.

It has been said that the women of tropical climates are attractive in appearance when very young, but their beauty soon fades and is replaced by extreme ugliness. But I found that those of Mexico differed much as they do in other countries. Their beauty and its continuance depended largely on their sphere in life. Their long lashes drooping over their liquid brown eyes and their luxuriant hair were to me their chief attractions.

The poor in Mexico are very poor, and the most prosperous, except in few instances, are not what we in the United States would call rich. In Mexico, as in other countries, there are ups and downs in families, some acquiring wealth, others sinking into poverty.

Directly opposite the house in which I lived dwelt a family which, from appearances, I judged belonged to the latter class. Not long after I came to live near them I saw a piano moved out, then a handsome mahogany desk. These were followed by other articles, most of them of a very antique pattern, in such regular succession that it excited my curiosity. I asked the lady with whom I lodged about it and she replied:

"Oh, the Garcias! They have recently lost a great deal of money. For many years the family has owned stock in mines of this country, but since President Diaz has been deposed and our government has been unstable their mines have not been worked. They have been gradually selling off valuable articles that have been in the family many years. Some of them, they claim, were brought over by one of the conquerors from whom they claim descent."

The world may envy prosperous persons during their prosperity, but it sympathizes with them when their prosperity passes away from them. I was at an age to pity this unfortunate family, and my heart went out to them, especially since my father had failed in business just as I was about to enter college and I felt obliged to go into business instead.

Concis Garcia was a typical beauty of the tropics. Her face was oval, her complexion olive, with a tinge of red in her cheeks, while she possessed the liquid eyes, long lashes and wealth of glossy hair of which I have spoken. On several occasions when she had not taken the precaution to draw her window curtains I saw her standing before a mirror combing her hair and noticed that it swept the floor.

I had the advantage of the young lady—so far as I knew—in observing her, while she knew nothing about me, for even if she had under ordinary circumstances taken an interest in a young man opposite she now appeared absorbed in her troubles. Though I saw her go and come often from and to her home I never saw her smile.

One morning I happened to start for my store just as Senorita Garcia left her house. She was unconscious of my presence on the street, though I saw no one else but her. I walked some distance behind her till, coming to the business part of the city, she entered a pawnshop. An impulse moved me to follow her inside. I was not led by a desire to pry into her affairs, but by an interest in her. She engaged the attention of the proprietor while I kept in the background. She produced a brooch with a handsome emerald setting and asked the shopman if he would buy it or loan on it. He said he would do whichever she preferred, offering to buy it for a much better price than he would loan. The senorita, remarking despondently that she would never be able to redeem it, concluded to sell it.

As she left the shop she glanced at me, I fancied, to see if the sale had been observed by any one she knew. At all events, she showed no further interest in me. As soon as she had left the shop I stepped forward and asked the proprietor if he had any unclaimed antique jewelry for sale. He brought out, among other articles, the emerald brooch. I bought it, but was obliged to pay him double what it had cost him. Why I bought it or what I would do with it I did not know. Perhaps it was in obedience to the same kind of impulse that had induced me to follow Senorita Garcia into the shop.

Now and again I happened to leave my lodging house at the same time as the young lady left her home, but did not follow her again into a store till one day I saw her enter a building from which hung a sign, "Manuel Gorcona, Dealer in Human Hair."

"Great heavens," I exclaimed. "Is she going to sacrifice those splendid tresses?"

Having delayed a few minutes, I entered a room in which there were cases filled with switches, wigs and other such articles. The senorita was there in the act of taking down her hair, the proprietor waiting to inspect it. Seeing me enter, she hesitated, and the proprietor led her into a rear room curtained from the other. But I could see between the curtains and near the man bargaining for the hair. I stopped the proceedings by stepping to the curtain and pulling it aside.

"Senor," I said, "I have caught a glimpse of this lady's hair and would like to buy it. If you conclude to purchase it I will take it off your hands at a reasonable profit."

Both the dealer and the lady were somewhat surprised at my intrusion, but the former said at once:

"You are at liberty to make the senorita an offer. I have more stock on hand than I can use in these troublous times."

"Very well. Tell the lady what you would pay were you not overstocked."

"I would pay the highest price—indeed, more than the highest price—on account of the extreme length." He named a sum that the hair was worth.

"If the lady will accept that amount," I said, "I will gladly pay it."

"Are you a dealer in such goods, senor?" asked Senorita Garcia.

"N-o," I stammered. "I am not."

"Then may I ask for what you want it?"

I have never been good at white lying. If a lie is excusable I would rather tell a big one than a little one.

"I will explain," I said. "I am about to be married to a young lady who is recovering from a fever from which she lost her hair. It is growing again, but very thin. It occurs to me that I could make her no more valuable present than a switch made of your splendid hair."

She appeared to believe the statement, but I could see from her expression that she doubted the propriety of such a gift. However, after a regretful glance in a mirror at the treasure on her head, she accepted my offer.

"Will you take it now, senor?" she asked.

"No, senorita. I have not enough money with me, but I will pay you a sum to bind the bargain and you need not deliver the goods till the balance is discharged."

I went through my pockets and found enough money to pay 70 per cent on the purchase.

"But, senor, you do not know me. You are taking a risk."

"I know a lady when I see her."

"I assure you, senor," said the proprietor, "you run no risk whatever; the senorita's family are well known in Mexico. They have in their veins the blood of one of the conquerors."

"May I ask when the senor will call for my hair?" asked the girl.

"I? Call for it?" I said to gain time to construct another lie. "The date of the wedding is not yet fixed."

The wearer of my property said nothing more, but from the curious way she looked at me it was evident that there was something in the transaction she did not understand. Writing her address on a card she handed it to me and left the store. I sent her the balance of the amount of the purchase money the same day, with a caution on no account to cut off her hair till I called for it.

Senorita Garcia, not having any occasion for my address, had not asked for it. Since I had no use for her hair and had only bought it to save it for her, I did not care for it. Weeks passed before we met again. Meanwhile I wondered if she would recognize me at seeing me again. She had merely glanced at me in the pawnshop, and in the rear room at the hair dealer's there was not enough light for her to see me distinctly. Our third meeting was on the street. As I passed her she stared at me, as if uncertain whether I was or was not the owner of her hair. I looked straight ahead. But she stopped me and said:

"Senor?"

"I beg pardon," raising my hat.

"Are you not the senor wh-who"—

"Who what, senorita?"

"Bought my hair?"

I was fixing for another lie, but saw in her eye that it would not pass. I smiled.

"Come, senor," she continued, with great seriousness. "There is something about this transaction that I do not understand. Several weeks ago you bought my hair for your fiancee, so you said. You have paid the price for it, but have not called for it. It is yours, and I insist on delivering it to you or returning the money."

"Senorita," I said, putting a slight tremolo into my voice, "the lady for whom I made that purchase is no more."

"Oh, senor, how I pity you!"

"Do not talk about returning the money. I could not bear it. Let us rather find some other way, if you insist upon it, by which you may reimburse me. Will you permit me to call upon you and talk the matter over with you?"

"I can understand your feelings, but I do insist on reimbursing you and will be glad to receive you for the purpose you mention."

"You are very kind."

If Senorita Garcia had known that the reimbursement I was after was her own sweet self she might not have insisted on reimbursing me. I called on her, not once, but many times, when I got the reimbursement I desired. I surprised her by turning over to her without any further payment the emerald brooch I had bought from the pawnbroker.

Fainting.

Fainting is caused by too little blood in the brain. It is no respecter of age and may occur at any time or place. It is of rather common occurrence, but rarely fatal. Dizziness, paleness and sighing, breathing unconsciously point the way. When these occur if relief is undertaken at once the attack can sometimes be made less severe, if not warded off.

Fainting usually makes the sufferer unconscious for only a few seconds or minutes. However, it may last for an hour or even more. While in the state of fainting the pulse is extremely weak or lost, and the breathing is exceedingly shallow and sometimes seems to cease.

Fainting usually requires no treatment. Nature puts the person who faints in the best position for recovery—that is, lying down. Where this is prevented from happening of itself some one should bring it about.

It should be remembered that the heart is under a great strain when one is attacked by a fainting spell. The load can be taken off the heart by removing heavy wraps and tight clothing, such as collars, corsets, etc.

Sprinkling cold water on the face and the free use of smelling salts, camphor, etc., also help.

"Reasonably so, madam."

"Is it sweet and ripe, of good flavor, with not too many seeds?"

"I think it's all right."

CROOKSTAIRS, ONT.

I was pestered last week with a travelling agent who said he had heard that I was troubled with Rheumatism. I told him I had been and he wanted to sell me some other medicine. I answered that I was taking GIN PILLS, the only medicine that did me any good.

I told him that I had tried various other medicines but none had done me any good but GIN PILLS and that I always kept a box in the house. GIN PILLS have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken.

WOMAN FEELS 10 YEARS YOUNGER

Since Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Louisville, Ky.—"I take great pleasure in writing to inform you of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was weak, nervous, and cared for nothing but sleep. Now I can go ahead with my work daily and feel ten years younger than before I started taking your medicine. I will advise any woman to consult with you before going to a doctor."—Mrs. INEZ WILLIS, 2229 Bank St., Louisville, Ky.

Another Sufferer Relieved.

Romayor, Texas.—"I suffered terribly with a displacement and bladder trouble. I was in misery all the time and could not walk any distance. I thought I never could be cured, but my mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did.

"I am cured of the displacement and the bladder trouble is relieved. I think the Compound is the finest medicine on earth for suffering women."—Mrs. VIOLA JASPER, Romayor, Texas.

The "Sin" of Dancing.

The following from a South African country correspondent (says South Africa), is an illustration of the old Dutch farmer's objection to dances of any kind: "Twice already have we been told that there is going to be a dance at the place of 'Oom Dolf.' This is nothing less than an insult to our worthy old elder. I would advise the person who has spread this rumor about rather to publish good about our ward instead of creating sin."

New Voting Machine.

There has recently been installed in a committee room of the New Zealand Parliament a newly invented automatic voting machine which is said to merit comparison with the totalizator for accuracy. It is claimed by the patentees, that in addition to saving both labor and expense, the machine declares the voting list the instant the last voter has left the booth.

EVOLUTION.

She had been christened Mary.
  I knew her first as "Mame,"
But I thought her sweet and jolly
In the boyden days when "Molly"
  Was her name.

How time, that lengthens dresses,
  Takes the franker moods away!
Soon she turned a pretty shoulder
That had grown distinctly colder—
  She was "Mae."

O female affectation,
  How you peep out in a name!
She bade farewell next season
To orthography and reason—
  She was "Maeme!"

Then I quite lost track of Mary,
  Till one day there came to me
An invitation bidding
Yours truly to the wedding
  Of "Marie."

But I think she's done with changing,
  For but yesterday I saw
Her vigorously mauling
An imp that through his squalling
  Called her "Ma."

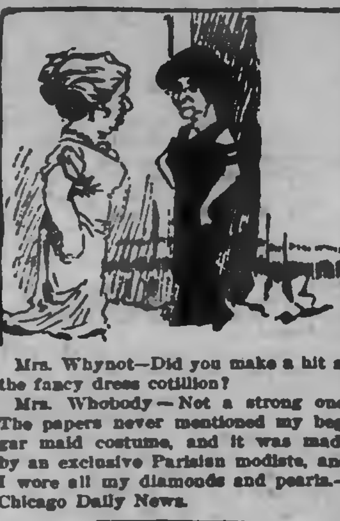
Unappreciated.



Mrs. Whynot—Did you make a hit at the fancy dress cotillion?

Mrs. Whobody—Not a strong one. The papers never mentioned my beggar maid costume, and it was made by an exclusive Parisian modiste, and I wore all my diamonds and pearls.—Chicago Daily News.

His Irresistible Appeal.

The other night a crowd of young people met for a social session at a certain house in the suburbs. They ate and they danced and they sang. And when it was all over the prettiest young woman there—she hadn't been escorted thither by any chosen cavalier—said:

"I walk home, but it's a lonesome walk, and I'm afraid. There have been holdups in this part of town. So I choose Mr. Blank to see me safe home." On the way home Mr. Blank, an ambitious vocalist, was considerably swelled up. The prettiest girl had chosen him from a crowd of personable bachelors. He couldn't resist saying:

"Why did you think I was the strongest and bravest man there tonight?"

"I didn't," answered the girl. "I picked you because I knew you could holler the loudest!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Yes, they all took grapefruit but I don't believe they like 'em any better than oranges—it's just because they feel so much more luxurious when they're eating them.

LOOSE WRAP IN SWEET PEA RED.

Lager is the creator of this wrap which is of the sort that is quite the rage in Paris for spring wear, daytime, over the light corsage and crushable tunics. It is practically shapeless with loose cuffs and flaring capes and is developed in most attractive material and color of the spring, striped duvetine in a rich sweet pea shade. The only trimming is silk embroidered arrow-heads and the garment is lined with champagne silk crepe. With the afternoon costume under the wrap are worn gray top patent leather button boots and a taffeta hat, the newest for spring.

A CRIPPLE FROM RHEUMATISM

Tortured Four Years Until He Took "Fruit-a-tives"

RIDGETOWN, ONT., May 21st. 1913.

"Your "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism. It was the only medicine that made any impression on me. I was a terrible sufferer from Rheumatism. I was laid up for four winters with Sciatica and Muscular Rheumatism, and was a cripple completely, not being able to do anything. I doctored with four different physicians, but they did not help me. Other advertised remedies were equally unsatisfactory, and I have taken several.

Some neighbor of mine told me that "Fruit-a-tives" helped him, and I took them faithfully every day and the result was marvellous. For over two years now, I have been free from any Rheumatic pains whatever, and give "Fruit-a-tives" the full credit for making a remarkable cure".

WINTER MEETINGS OF FARMERS' INSTITUTE

Instructive Addresses at the Temperance Hall in Smith

The Winter meetings of the Farmers' Institute were commenced Tuesday at the Temperance Hall on the 4th line of Smith. The afternoon meeting was rather poorly attended, although in the evening the hal was taxed to its capacity. Among the audience was a goodly number of ladies and young people.

The afternoon meeting was opened by an address from the president, Mr. C. E. Moore, in which he briefly reviewed the work of the Institute during the past year and outlined the work intended for the coming year. He spoke of the value of these meetings and of the ability and experience of the speakers who were to address the various meetings in this session. He then called upon Mr. James of Thornhill.

Mr. James' subject was: "The Dairy Herd, Feed and Care" and in his hands it was treated in an interesting and instructive manner. He laid special emphasis on the fact that good results cannot be obtained unless the breed of the herd is perfect. He urged his listeners to build up their stock and to build up their own and no other persons. If a man had a few good helpers on his farm, Mr. James pointed out, it would be better for him to start his herd from these rather than buying one or two from other men. He also advised them to stay in one line and to raise this to a high standard.

Mr. James spent considerable time in referring to the cow stables. Ventilation and light are the two main features that go to make up an exceedingly up-to-date stable.. The former is in fact, a necessity. Another very important item in the raising and keeping of dairy cattle is the feeding. He advised and explained the feeding of ensilage after milking instead of before, thus doing away with a taste left on the milk if the cows are fed before being milked.

In closing, Mr. James spoke of the growing of alfalfa and its great value as feed for dairy cattle and also other stock. He urged his hearers if they had not already done so, to go into that line and good results would be inevitable.

The second speaker was Mr. R. Murphy, and his subject: "Soil, Cultivation and Drainage." He first told why and with what results cultivation was carried on. Cultivation of the soil helps the growth of agricultural products and tends to kill the growth of weeds. To be a first class farmer or in fact, to make a success in that line, careful attention must be given to the cultivation of the soil. Drainage is to discharge the surplus water from the soil and to have an equal amount of moisture all over the land instead of having one part low and wet, and the other part high and dry.

A very pleasing fact in this regard is that drained lands will stand a drouth much better than undrained land, also that drainage does away more or less with capillary action or in other words, the evaporation of the moisture from the land by the heat of the sun.

Evening Meeting

Mr. Murphy was the first speaker in the evening, his subject this time being the "Choice of Occupation." His subject led him to the great question of back-to-the-land and Mr. Murphy brought out a very good point when he mentioned keeping boys and girls of the farms interested and they will not care to leave for the cities. He heartily endorsed such associations as the Farmers' Institutes and Ploughmen's Associations which will tend to do away with that every present isolation and bring the young folks together. "Give the boy some responsibility," Mr. Murphy exclaimed, "and you will soon see him take a very deep interest in the work."

The meeting was then favored with a recitation by Miss Mildred Archer.

The other speaker of the evening was Mr. James and his address ran along the line of "Bird Life as Viewed from the Farm." He gave several species of birds who were the friend of the farmer and also several which were their enemies, but looking them all over the conclusion is soon arrived at that the former are in the majority. One bird which everyone considers an enemy of the farmer, was the crow. With the crow is not an enemy but rather a friend. The crow preys upon brids and insects that are very injurious to the crops, thus the crow is made an assistant in the work of removing everything that will tend to keep down the amount of produce.

The afternoon meeting was called off but there will be a meeting tonight at Stewart's Hall.

WHERE ONE MAY USE JAPANESE CRASH.

Japanese toweling, or coolie cloth, as it is called, has been exploited quite little of late, but new ways of employing it in decoration are continually being found. In fact, there seems to be no limit to its possibilities.

Anything prettier than portieres of this fabric can hardly be imagined. Curtains and bedspreads to match are sold in the oriental shops, but any ingenious girl can easily make these and many other pretty things for her room.

Cushions for the window seat, couch covers, dresser and table runners, laundry bags, bookshelf curtains—these are but a few of the ways in which she may employ the Japanese toweling.

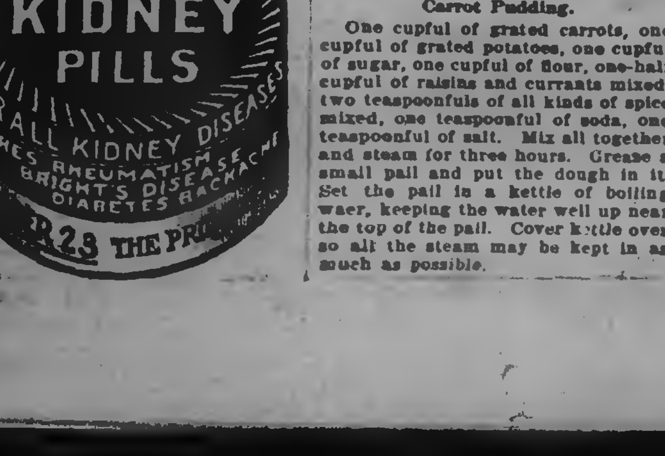
One clever woman applied this material very happily in the decorating of her nursery. She covered the walls with plain gray burlap and used a strip of the Japanese toweling in stone blue and white as a frieze. The bluebirds proved to be veritable "bluebirds of happiness" to the little fellow who toddled about there all day. The same baby had bibs made from the "bunny" pattern, and a big bag covered with storks held his toys.

As to its use in the dining room, the Japanese toweling table sets are becoming more and more popular. The designs are fadeless, and successive launderings only serve to soften the texture. The wistaria, cherry blossom and pine needle patterns are most effective.

Taking it all in all, you will hardly find a fabric so adaptable to a truly decorative scheme as Japanese toweling.

Carrot Pudding.

One cupful of grated carrots, one cupful of grated potatoes, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of flour, one-half cupful of raisins and currants mixed, two teaspoonfuls of all kinds of spice mixed, one teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt. Mix all together and steam for three hours. Grease a small pail and put the dough in it. Set the pail in a kettle of boiling waer, keeping the water well up near the top of the pail. Cover kettle over so all the steam may be kept in as much as possible.



ASQUITH'S MAJORITY ON FIRST DIVISION IS 78

Unionist Cheers and Shouts of "Resign" Greet Reduced Margin on Paramount Issue in British Politics —Bonar Law Urges That Ulster be Left Out of New Government.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Home rule for Ireland was again the subject of paramount interest in the House of Commons yesterday. Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader; David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Sir John Simon, the Attorney-General; John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalist, and Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition, all made fervent speeches, and at the conclusion of the debate, the amendment to the reply to the speech from the throne, moved on Tuesday by the Unionist, Walter Hume Long, "that it would be disastrous for the House to proceed further with the Government for Ireland bill until the measure had been submitted to the judgment of the country," was defeated by a vote of 333 to 255, a majority of 78.

The announcement of the figures was received with loud Opposition cheers and shouts of "Resign."

John Redmond spoke in a conciliatory tone and appeared anxious to meet the question from a broad viewpoint, with an earnest desire for a peaceful settlement.

Bonar Law predicted civil war the moment home rule passed, but urged that the danger of civil war could be averted by leaving Ulster out of the home rule bill, or by submitting the bill to the judgment of the people.

In winding up the debate for the Opposition, he said that upon the shoulders of the Prime Minister was a responsibility as great as ever was borne by any statesman. The time for hesitation had gone. It was the clear duty of the Premier to tell the House without further delay what the Government proposed to do. He had admitted that the loyalists of Ulster were in a position which entitled them to special treatment; therefore, to impose upon them by force a system of government which they opposed was to treat them as slaves. To make any offer of home rule within home rule, of which much had been heard recently, would do great harm. If the offer were made it would be for the purpose, not of securing acceptance, but rejection, with the single object of improving the Government's political or strategical position.

Sir John Simon, Attorney-General, the first speaker leading, said that should the Liberal regain power at a general election, it would be a new Parliament, and the House of Lords could block home rule for another three years.

Sir Edward Carson, who followed, said the words put into the King's mouth by the Cabinet Ministers were a confession that the bill had utterly failed to furnish a solution of the Irish question. If the exclusion of Ulster should be proposed he would consult with the people there.

In conclusion, Sir Edward Carson declined to pledge himself as to what he would do as the result of a general election.

Augustin Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, at the start of his speech paid Sir Edward Carson a marked compliment by telling him his speech had been marvelously forceful and had proved that however much he hated home rule he loved his country more.

The Chief Secretary said that only on that high plane could they approximate to peace. He pleaded for recognition of the fact that there was a case for the rest of Ireland as well as for Ulster, and also for the cessation of the abuse of the respective sections as well as of himself.

David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, referring to the question asked by the Opposition as to why the Government did not lay its proposals before the House at once, said it was because the Government was convinced that to do so at this stage would not promote the desired peaceful settlement, but hinder its attainment.

The Government was prepared, said the Chancellor, to go to the extreme of concession compatible with the principles of the bill, but could not betray the majority of Irishmen who had put their trust in it.

John Redmond, after repudiating the charge that he wanted Ulster's taxes, said any concessions made must be consistent with the bill's main principles. He thought the Government had gone further than necessary in offering terms of settlement, but accepted Premier Asquith's suggestion.

The Irish national leader concluded by saying he was deeply anxious to remove all fears. He said he would meet the proposals in the broadest and most friendly spirit in the earnest hope that the aspirations of the royal speech might be realized and a peaceful settlement reached in the great problem on which the well-being of Ireland and the unity and the strength of the Empire depended.

HON. FRANK COCHRANE DISCUSSES HARDSHIPS AT PORT NELSON

Minister Announces That Wireless Communication With Hudson Bay Terminal Will Soon be Established and Work Will be Well Under Way in the Spring—Hon. G. P. Graham Supports Choice of Port.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—The House of Commons occupied itself yesterday with a discussion of the Hudson Bay Railway and the terminal facilities therefor at Port Nelson. A. K. Maclean of Halifax moved for a return of papers, and upon this motion read into Hansard many of the sensational newspaper reports of last autumn respecting the unfortunate conditions prevailing at Port Nelson.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane frankly stated that a certain fatality or bad luck had interfered with the work of the department. It must be remembered that the Government was engaged upon a very difficult undertaking.

He was glad to announce to the House, however, that wireless communication with Port Nelson would soon be established. A large number of men he said were being sent overland to Port Nelson, so that at the opening of spring a great deal of work would get under way.

Mr. Maclean, in moving for the return of papers in connection with the work at Port Nelson, spoke of the wreck of the Cearense and the injury to the Alette. He also dwelt upon the inability of the Alcazar to discharge her cargo, the absence of lightering facilities, the hardships of laborers taken to Port Nelson under contract with the Government, and the lack of buoys and other aids to navigation in the Nelson roads.

Throughout, Mr. Maclean declared, there had been a deplorable manifestation of inefficiency, extravagance and loose and wasteful methods. An obvious lack of navigation aids, inaccurate charts and the absence of buoys in portions of the bay to be traversed by the ships chartered by the Government, had all contributed to the conditions which had resulted. There were no wharves or other facilities for unloading. There was no organization for the protection of supplies once they had landed. There was gross extravagance in Government purchases. Judgment had not been exercised in the selection of ships chartered, and serious complaints had been made as to the treatment extended to laborers who went up to the bay to work for the Government under contract.

Hon. Frank Cochrane, in replying, said that the vessels which had been lost, were lost through the incapacity of their captains. It might be admitted that conditions were not ideal at Port Nelson, but there were great difficulties to cope with. Supplies had not been delivered as contracted for, and owing to an accident which befell the Marine Department steamer Beothic off Newfoundland, the material for the wireless station at Port Nelson had not been delivered.

As to the choice between Nelson and Churchill as the terminal port, Mr. Cochrane said that Churchill had a good harbor but a small one. To reach there would involve building 80 miles more of railway than was necessary to connect the Le Pas with Nelson. There were difficulties in making a harbor at Nelson, but they were not insuperable. The Nelson river was no less navigable than the Mississippi, the Delaware or the Mersey.

Hon. Frank Oliver, following Mr. Cochrane, took the ground that the Minister's objection to Fort Churchill because of the barren lands which would have to be crossed in reaching it, was not sound. He believed that the railway could cross these lands without great difficulty, and that Churchill is a port answering every requirement, and one which could be equipped at the minimum cost.

J. A. M. Aikins (Brandon) said that Mr. Cochrane had shewn commendable energy in handling the railway project, and that the mishaps of last summer were due to the failure of the human equation at the time of test. As for the choice of Port Nelson, Mr. Aikins believed it was justified by the fact that navigation at that port opens earlier in the year and continues longer than at Fort Churchill.

Hon. George P. Graham said that personally he believed Nelson was the proper terminus. He warned the Government, however, that the construction of the railway was the smallest part of the job before them. They had to create a harbor, build docks and elevators, and finally steamships. He doubted if the steamship lines would carry traffic to or from Hudson Bay unless subsidized by the Government. He said he was a believer in the Hudson Bay route and hazarded the guess that ultimately 75 per cent. of western Canadian wheat would find its way to Europe via Hudson Bay.

Mr. Knowles (Moosejaw), G. W. Kyte (Richmond, N.S.), Mr. Sharpe Lisgar), Mr. Mackay (Prince Albert), also participated in the debate.

DEATH PENALTY SET.

Hans Schmidt Goes To Electric Chair on March 23.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. — Hans Schmidt, the former priest, was sentenced yesterday to die in the electric chair during the week beginning March 23, for the murder of Anna Aumuller. Schmidt was found guilty of murder, first degree, at his second trial. Schmidt's lawyers pleaded insanity, but the prisoner would not aid them, and said repeatedly he wanted to die. Motions yesterday by counsel for a new trial and stay of sentence were denied.

Schmidt showed no emotion when called up for sentence, and made no reply when asked if he had anything to say. He held out his hands for the handcuffs, and was soon on his way to the death cell in Sing Sing.

Asquith's Moderation Surprises.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Even the bitterest writers against the Government admit themselves surprised, or, it might be said, baffled, by the moderate tone of Premier Asquith's speech Tuesday night. The Prime Minister has remained as close as an oyster during the last few months, and now that he speaks the first words they are to admit frankly that the responsibility for the initiative in the matter of Ulster lies with the Government.

It is generally assumed that the Prime Minister will eventually offer a system of home rule within home rule, which will give the Protestant counties of Ulster a check over the administration within their own boundaries, with some form of veto over the legislative acts of the Irish Parliament.

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 11.—This is the season of the annual reports of the Niagara peach crop being destroyed, and sometimes the predictions do not prove correct. To-day, however, five of the most prominent peach-growers here predicted that the nineteen-fourteen peach crop has succumbed to the extreme cold of this winter.

Fifteen years ago a prominent merchant on George Street took out a 10 pay 15 year endowment policy No. 69879, for $2000 on his life at age 45 in the Sun Life of Canada, premium $189.50.

Had this man taken a non-par policy his premium would have been $172.50 or $17.00 per year less.

Now, this man paid $17.00 per year for 10 years only, or $170.00 all told and it yielded him $637.75 in profits. Just figure out what rate of interest that is on the $17.00 per year, paid extra for profits, and see if you would not like to invest a few dollars at the same rate. If so, call at or 'phone the Sun Life Office, 402 Water Street.

The above policyholder thinks he had a splendid result. Don't you?

The concert recital given in the Methodist Church on Monday night by the celebrated Yorkshire Nightingale, Enos Bacon, was a decided success. Mr. Bacon preached to large congregations in the morning and evening in the Methodist Church on Sunday. He rendered solos in his beautiful natural soprano voice at both services. Rev. J. M. Wilkinson of Toronto, who places Mr. Bacon, was right when he said: "We should hear the best concert recital ever given in Norwood."

Following was the program which was so much appreciated by all who had the privilege of listening on Monday night:

Song—The Nightingale's Trill.
Recital—Dollars and Dimes.
Musical Monologue—An old Piano
Imitation Poetical Style—Three Blind Mice.
Song—The Wondrous Cross.
Dramatic Selection—"Smike and Squeers" from Nicholas Nickleby.
Song—There is a Land.
Recital—The Falls of Lodore.
Musical Monologue—The Minister at Tea.

MINTO IS WORSE

Suffered a Relapse and his Condition is Critical.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—A cable to The Sun from London says:

The Earl of Minto, formerly Viceroy of India, who has been ill for some time, suffered a relapse Tuesday night and his condition is causing anxiety. The Earl is in his 67th year. He was Governor-General of Canada from 1898 to 1904.

British Fleet Leaves Home Waters.

LONDON, Feb. 13. — Departure from home stations of the first and third battle squadrons and the first battle cruiser squadron yesterday completes a series of British fleet movements, spread over the past month, which have virtually denuded the shores of England of their defensive ring of fighting craft, and at the same time affords the clearest proof of the vastly improved international situation.

Six Hundred Driven Out.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Six hundred men, women and children—one hundred and fifty families — were driven to the street in the snow by a four-alarm fire which wrecked a five-storey factory building in East 34th street early yesterday. The building is in the heart of "Corcoran's Roost," and surrounded by tenements, all of which were emptied. The loss was about $100,000.

MILITANTS GET JAILTERMS

LONDON, Feb. 12. — Seven militant suffragettes were sentenced by the magistrate at Bow street police court yesterday to four days' imprisonment each on their refusal to find sureties that they would keep the peace for six months, after they had been charged with obstruction and assault in connection with Tuesday night's attempt of the police to arrest Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst.

Duke May Stay Another Year.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—Though the term of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, as Governor-General of Canada, is generally understood to expire next October, there is a strong probability of the term being extended another year, particularly if the health of the duchess continues to show as satisfactory progress as during the recent months. Strong influences are being brought to bear to gain the consent of the Duke of Connaught to remain in Canada for a longer period, and it is believed that these have had weight.

Broke Altitude Record.

JOHANNISTHAL, Germany, Feb. 12.—Robert Thelen, a German aviator, yesterday made what is said to be a world's altitude record for a flight in an aeroplane with four passengers. He attained a height of 9,350 feet.

The young leaves of Swiss chard are excellent as a salad.

ARBITRATION PROGRESSES

U. S. No Longer Fears Panama Toll Decision at The Hague

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—General arbitration treaties with Great Britain, Japan, Italy, Norway, Sweden, Portugal, and Switzerland, which have expired and are awaiting ratification for extension, are to be taken up for consideration by the Senate on Feb. 19, the postponement arising owing to the illness of Senators Bacon and Stone. This course was determined upon yesterday by the Foreign Relations Committee, which favorably reported the treaties recently after a conference with President Wilson on the nation's foreign policy.

Opposition to extension of the treaties is certain to develop, but Administration leaders see a clearing up of the foreign relations of the country and believe that the convictions will be favorably acted upon after the general debate. That the opposition is not as formidable as it was last summer, when action on the treaties was held up, already is apparent. One reason for that is the desire of the President for repeal of the section of the Panama Canal Act exempting from toll charges American coastwise shipping. It was because of fear that this question would be forced into arbitration at The Hague that consideration of the general arbitration treaty with Great Britain was blocked last summer. Consequently other treaties also were held up in order that there might appear to be no discrimination.

SIR GEORGE ROSS WEAKER.

Condition Serious But on the Whole Favorable, Say Doctors.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—The continued illness of Sir George Ross led to the issuance yesterday of a more detailed statement of his condition by his physicians, Dr. Goldie and Dr. McPhedran. The statement was as follows:

"Owing to the diverse reports and the probability of the long continued illness, a definite report of the health of Sir George W. Ross is necessary and further reports will be issued when any change in his condition makes it advisable to inform his many friends.

"The acute nephritis has subsided into a chronic condition, leaving Sir George in a much weakened state, in which there are varying waves of improvement and depression. While his condition is serious, it is on the whole favorable."

Sir James Whitney continues to improve.

GOOD CAUSE, SAYS BRYAN.

U. S. Secretary of State Would Spend Freely on Peace.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — Secretary of State Bryan gave his unqualified endorsement for Government expenditures in the cause of international peace before the House foreign affairs committee yesterday.

Representative Smith of New York, asked for the Secretary's attitude toward the bill to appropriate $150,000 for celebrating the centennial anniversary of peace between the United States and Great Britain.

"I am not only in favor of celebrating," said Mr. Bryan, "but I am in favor of celebrating liberally. I am in favor of spending the maximum on such peace celebrations."

Clung To Car Door.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 12. — Conductor George Knox, coming east in charge of the Grand Trunk International Limited, boarded a Pullman coach at Gananoque as the train was moving out. The door was locked, and a ride of eleven miles to Lansdowne, the next station, clinging to an icy rail in zero weather faced the veteran of the punch. After going some distance, the Pullman conductor noticed his predication and let him in. Knox was somewhat benumbed but not seriously affected.

Ten Days Longer Wait.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—It was definitely decided that the Sunday street railway service will be inaugurated in this city on Sunday, Feb. 22, at a conference between Mayor C. M. R. Graham and Controller J. P. Moore, representing the city and officials of the company.

Pope In Poor Health.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—A cable from Paris to The Tribune says:

It is stated on good authoirty that the Pope is in extremely bad health. All audiences now prove a strain upon his strength and are limited to a strict minimum in number and duration.

Some Mushroom.

Epicures who love mushrooms will long for a time in the Austrian Tyrol, where real mushrooms grow. A traveler writing of the region says: Bordering the road that led up the mountain were Italian chestnut trees, so large that it took from three to five of us to span the trunks of most of them. Under one of these one evening I saw crouching what I took to be a small, dark gray kitten. Stooping, I found that it was not a kitten, but a mushroom. Our good peasant neighbor, hurrying toward me, begged that I would not disturb it, saying that she depended on this every year. After a few days of rain, what had seemed a kitten now looked a stately cat, and when it reached the weight of six pounds it was gathered and eaten.

Girl in the Early Twenties Wins $10,000 Literary Prize.

MISS LEONA DALRYMPLE.

If you were a young and ambitious story writer just beginning to get a footing in the literary world and should win a $10,000 prize for the best story submitted in a contest how would you feel?

Happy? Well, I reckon that feeling would about cover the sensation, and it is exactly how Miss Dalrymple, the fortunate winner of a recent prize, describes her emotions when she heard the good news.

"I wrote 'Diana of the Green Van,'" said Miss Dalrymple, "in six weeks. One evening while looking over a New York paper I saw the contest advertised, and I immediately determined to try for the prize.

"For six weeks I was dead to the world and barely alive to my family and friends. Indeed, mother says she claims about half of the prize money as her share for keeping disturbing sights and sounds out of my life during the weeks I was scribbling."

Miss Dalrymple is a New Jersey girl, having spent most of her life in the city of Passaic. Her father is a prominent lawyer, a student and the owner of an exceptionally fine library. Miss Dalrymple attributes her literary tastes to the splendid opportunity her father's well chosen collection of books afforded her. At an early age she was turned loose in the library to browse among the books at will. Among the favorite authors of the young woman are William Locke, De Morgan and Jeffery Farnol, and of the older novelists she most admires Dickens, Thackeray and George Eliot.

Stories for the prize winning contest were entered anonymously, and Miss Dalrymple sent in two romances. When the final sifting of manuscripts took place the judges did not know which of her stories to select as the winner. The story, however, which did not win out the publishers have kept and will bring out next year.

This is not Miss Dalrymple's first experience in prize winning. She has been the lucky one upon two other occasions, but the checks received were not nearly so large.

And, speaking of checks, Miss Dalrymple is a good little business woman and will invest most of her $10,000 in bonds and mortgages and will not use the money for Paris gowns, a trip around the world or a new motor-car.

This petite, blue eyed girl with a wealth of wavy golden hair, although a romance writer, has strong convictions. She believes in "votes for women," but at the same time she's a homey sort of person, a fine cook and a housekeeper of marked ability.

"A Friend In Need."

Few women have reached "an old age serene and bright and lovely as a Lapland night" without being called upon—not once, but many times—to dispense sage counsel to young men. Many a man in his retrospect of a successful life is glad to acknowledge what he owes to the words of an older woman, that were said in time to enable him to avoid an error or to prevent a repetition of the mistake he made.

It is a wonderful thing for the student absent from home, the beginner in business, the novice making his way in any career, to have one faithful voice, one attentive, sympathetic ear, wherein he may repose his confidence and be quite sure he will never be betrayed or disappointed. The tender memory of such a "guide, philosopher and friend" will never leave him. His life will be truer and nobler because he does not care to disappoint her.

Eleven Piece Shirt Waist Sets.

Shirt waist sets for the schoolgirl who goes in for pretty novelties in small jewelry are of Florentine enameling on gold or silver metal. The combinations of shades are in wondrous tones of blue mingled sparingly with black, in green or rose with white and in mauves with grays.

The sets include eleven pieces—a half dozen oval shirt waist studs of moderate size, button cuff links, a hair's width larger than the studs, an oval brooch measuring a trifle over an inch in length, a circular topped hatpin and a square belt buckle with trunk prongs and bars.

SCANDAL PROBE AT AN END

Finding of Committees All That Remains in Quebec Affair.

QUEBEC, Feb. 12.—Yesterday the investigation committee of the Legislative Council followed the course of the committee of the Legislative Assembly and closed the investigation into the allegations of corruption made against J. Octave Mousseau, resigned member of the Assembly, and Hon. Messrs. Bergevin and Berard of the Legislative Council, likewise resigned. Each committee will now report to its respective House. Future proceedings will be determined by the nature of these reports, which, it is understood, will be submitted to-day. Draft reports have been already drawn up.

As regards the report of the committee of the Upper House, it would not appear that there is much likelihood of any grave disagreement, and therefore probably there will be only one report. The situation, however, as it touches the committee of the Lower House, is much different. The members of this committee will meet to-day, and it will then be decided whether there are to be two radically different reports. Many things may happen.

When the session of the committee of the Legislative Council opened yesterday the members had before them the evidence of C. B. K. Carpenter of Gaspe, and, as a result, the testimony of Messrs. Beck and Keyes as to the conversations Mr. Carpenter is alleged to have held with the bogus promoters of the bill. But, it having transpired that nobody knew why the man from Gaspe had been subpoenaed, the committee decided that they would do without his testimony.

There was left but the formal closing of the case, Messrs. Nichols and Macnab were called, and repeated their assertion that the sole motive they had in publishing the articles was the public interest. Their counsel, Mr. Marechal, summed up the case. He held that the accusations brought against the Hon. L. P. Berard and A. Bergevin had been established beyond all doubt.

Mr. Aime Geoffrion spoke for the defence, and was followed by Mr. Laflamme.

He was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge; was a member of the London School Board, 1876-82; member of the Royal Commission Education, 1886-9; member income tax committee, 1904; was elected M. Germany Leads In Aviation.

JOHANNISTHAL, Feb. 12.—The performances of German aviators this year have so greatly surpassed expectations that the committee of the national aviation fund announced yesterday that the $200,000 assigned for the payment of premiums to aviators making long endurance flights had been practically exhausted and consequently no further premiums could be paid.

The committee declares that its aim has been attained as "France, which was far ahead of Germany in aviation when the fund was raised, has now been put into the background."

All Canada Is Groaning Under Frigid Temperature.

TORONTO, Feb. 12. — Whatever cold weather the people of Eastern Canada have been experiencing during the past few days they have only been preparing for the worst, which is yet to come. The predictions and probabilities are that even colder weather conditions will prevail for a day or so. The extremes of temperature in Ontario yesterday were: White River, 62 below, and Toronto 12 below. All the rest of the province lay between these two figures.

Records have been going by the board in other parts of the Dominion. Every point east of the Rockies is now feeling the effects of a pronounce of high pressure. A widespread cold wave dominates the weather of the continent. It continues fair and cold throughout the Dominion.

A despatch from Montreal late last night declared that with one exception the registration of the thermometer at the observatory at McGill University was the lowest yesterday morning for thirty-seven years. The official temperature recorded was 25.9 below zero, which is about a degree warmer than the coldest, on Jan. 13 of this year. Reports from the southern counties and eastern townships of Quebec are to the effect that early yesterday morning the mercury went as low as 36 below, constituting a record.

The experiences of the northerners are amplified from North Bay at a late hour. It reads: "Tuesday night was the coldest of the season, the mercury dropping to 46 below at North Bay, 48 at Cobalt, and 50 at Cochrane.

The highest temperature experienced east of the Rockies yesterday was zero, in portions of Southern Alberta and Nova Scotia. In all other places the mercury was below that mark.

NO PLACE FOR INACTIVITY IN REVIEW PRIZE CONTEST

Now is the Time to Work Candidates While One Subscription is Worth Five Later on

It requires some work on the part of your friends to cut the coupons out of the paper each evning and bring them to the office, and it is only in justice to your friends that you should bestir yourself and see if you can not win the first prize and not spend your spare time idly and allow your name to fall when it is within your power to prevent it.

Office Open Evenings

The office of the contest department will be open evenings until 8 o'clock and if there is anything that you do not understand, call at the office at any time and it will be explained to you. It has been the desire of the contest manager to see everyone in the contest, but time has not permitted. It is his wish that all candidates call at the office as there are many things that could be explained that would be of great benefit to them.

Don't Forget Saturday Feb. 14th.

All candidates must remember that they must get in their subscriptions for 8 o'clock Saturday evening, Feb. 14, in order to receive the big vote. Don't think that Monday will be just as good, for it will not. Don't leave a stone unturned to get a subscription between now and Feb. 14. One single subscription may be the means of your winning the grand prize, if it is turned in by the above date.

Phone 189 for information or suggestions. The contest manager and his assistant are here to help you in any way possible.

These are the days that every live candidate is busy hunting in every nook and corner for subscriptions. Most every one is meeting with fair success. So far the race has been very even and it is a great question in the mind of the contest manager who the real workers of this great campaign will be. Each day there emerge from the large list of names in the paper new workers and although these people hav had a late start they seem to have the right motto. These are the people that will win the prizes if some do not wake up and get busy.

Saturday, Feb. 14, at 8 o'clock, closes the first great epoch in this campaign. At the end of that time one must be in the lead of the other contestants. Are you going to be one or are you going to be one of the tailenders? There will be a great many in this class and it is safe to say that 99 per cent. could have been close to the lead if they had made the best of their time.

Stop and look for yourself as others see you. Are you doing your best to win the grand prize touring car? When your friends nominated you in this campaign it was their object to see you crowned with one of the greatest honors ever presented in your county. Did you ever stop to think how many people are interested in your candidacy? Look at the large number of coupon votes that you are receiving each evening. Who is sending them? Is it you or your friends?

Humor and Philosophy

COMING INDIANS.

FROM the wise and learned doctors
Who have studied up by gaslight
Comes the cheering information
That by reason of the climate
We shall very soon be red men
Like the Indians primeval,
Hiawatha's little brothers.
For by reason of the sunshine
All the blonds are due to vanish.
It's skiddoo to every towhead.
The brunettes will be the people.

When the proud and pink Caucasian
Has been here sufficient summers,
So the rain and wind and weather
Of the climate can get action,
He will then, instead of being
William Jones, the haughty banker;
Thomas Brown, the bill collector;
Peter White, the sausage Maker,
And those other folks familiar,
Be a chieftain proud and haughty,
Yellow Dog or Flying Gopher,
Swinging-in-the-Hammock Charley
Or some other gaudy creature,
With a lot of paint and feathers,
Hiawatha's little brother.

Though we may not like the prospect,
We can only grin and bear it.
Man may sail upon the ocean,
Run the noisy locomotive,
Spread his wings for favored breezes,
Handle the electric current
And perform some other marvels,
But he cannot for a minute
Make the weather change its notions,
Cannot monkey with the climate.

If the wise and learned doctor
No mistake for sure is making
We may bow and ask quotations
Of the wholesale rate on feathers.

Most Ticklish.

"It's funny how ticklish women are, isn't it?"

"Yes. Now, I brought a feather home the other night, and it nearly tickled my wife to death."

"Why, how did that happen?"

"I gave it to her. It was an ostrich feather."

Then He Did.

Miss Wearyun (11 p. m.)—I like to see a graceful man—

Mr. Borum (interrupting)—Hem! Am I not graceful?

Miss Wearyun—Yes, and, as I was saying, I like to see a graceful man bow himself out of my presence.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

There is a difference of opinion as to whether angels are men or women, but out of a large experience we have concluded that they are neither.

Next in abomination to the "I told you so" man is the "why didn't you" man.

A diplomatic individual never knows any fat people, no matter how many stout, robust persons he may have on his calling list.

A poor excuse that is accepted is much better than a good one that is rejected.

"So?"

"Yes; she can tell at a glance whether a forty-nine cent article has been marked down from 50 cents or up from 48.

The Mercenary Creatures.

"Why don't you like Charlie?"

"He doesn't know anything."

"That isn't any reason."

"Isn't it?"

"No; the question is, Can he make money?"

"What is that detective's greatest achievement?" asked one member of the police force.

HUMAN SACRIFICE.

Secret Societies In Nigeria Give Trouble To Officials.

Customs and ceremonies, which appear to have come down unchanged from the days of the Pharoahs, according to Mr. P. Amaury Talbot, a District Commissioner of Southern Nigeria, till exist in the Ekeb district.

The commissioner has undergone a journey of 4,300 miles in a country of rivers and creeks, many unexplored, wth a population of a quarter of a million Ibibios.

In some parts the dead are roughly mummified, while underground burial chambers are to be found planned like those of ancient Egypt. He found also traces of bird worship, and witnessed a bird dance never before seen by Europeans. Most of the towns have their sacred pool, inhabited by good or evil spirits, to which in the past countless human victims were sacrificed. Upon two of these holy waters—the "Lake of Life," and the neighboring "Pool of Hatred and Death"—Mr. Talbot and Mr. Echin, of the Kwa Ibo mission, are the first and only existing white men to have looked.

Referring to the hard task of the administration in dealing with secret societies which at certain times of the year still seek to offer human sacrifices, Mr. Talbot said:—

"Towards the end of September such an attempt was made by a group of towns in a distant part of the district, never before visited by Europeans. My attention was first drawn to this particular society, which bears the dread name of 'Ekkpo Njawhaw' (Ghosts—the Destroyers), by a poor woman, who brought some fragments of charred bone, which she asserted was all left to her of an only brother who had fallen a victim to the vengeance of one of the chiefs of the society.

"A little later complaints began to come in from missionaries as to cruel maltreatment of school children and other converts peacefully proceeding on their way to church. Later I discovered that a little girl, seven years old, was only rescued with great difficulty from being offered up, after the sacrificial dress had been placed upon her, while the great drum was beaten and the head priest announced 'Ekkpo Njawhaw will eat to-day.'

"It speaks volumes for the courage of the Christians, many of them mere boys, that they dared to wrest her from the clutches of this dreaded society at the cost, in several instances, of severe wounds. Court messengers were sent to summon before me those responsible for the outrages, but the unfortunate emissaries were seized, beaten, and sent back with the message that further attempts to interfere with the society would be punished by the death of the messenger, or myself should I venture thither.

"A sudden visit, however, planned with great secrecy, found them unprepared. The inhabitants concerned went into hiding, or set forth to summon help from confederate towns. Word was left that all had gone to a 'far country,' but a simple stratagem brought them tumbling back, and the expression of their faces was comical in the extreme when they discovered that the summons to return, beaten out in drum language, had been dictated by the white man. Faced by the unexpected, the guilty parties were persuaded to submit to trial."

The people as a whole are perhaps the most bloodthirsty of all Africa. For months no day passed without man or woman running in covered with blood, and often horribly mutilated, to claim the protection of the commissioner.

RENTING ROOMS

The total amount of rent money paid for furnished rooms in this city each week is enormous! Nobody knows how much. It goes to thrifty people, who like to lessen their own rent or living expense by sub-letting one or more spare rooms to an agreeable person. If YOU have a desirable extra room you can become a receiver of rent by ordering a "Furnished Room to Let" ad. in the Review. The cost is nominal—one cent a word for first insertion and half a cent a word for subsequent insertions, run consecutively.

THE SPORTING WORLD

EXPLOITS AND Y.M.C.A. WERE EASY WINNERS

The games in the Junior City Hockey League last night proved to be a very one-sided affair, the Exploits defeating the Alerts by 7—1, while the Y.M.C.A. led the Wanderers 10—1.

The first game was all Exploits and Legros of the Alerts, had a shot every other minute to handle. The winners' forward line broke away time after time in nicely combined rushes and it was that which won the game. The Alerts were outclassed in every stage of the game. O'Connell was the most prominent for the Alerts. He mixed it rather freely with Regan on a couple of occasions with the result that Referee Len Dobson handed them out some heavy penalties. Such action is the only thing when these young players are unruly.

Rose, the speedy little wing man of the Exploits, works well with Butcher, and they look about the best forward men in the league. Rose carried a nice shot and Butcher's speed at following in makes the work of the rest of the forward line count. The teams:

Exploits—Goal, Latimer: defence, Regan and Phelan; rover, Graham; centre, Butcher; wings, Rose and Wolff.

Alerts—Goal, Legros; defence, Davidson and Legrendre; rover, Lowes; centre, Doughty; wings, O'Connell and Heath.

Easy for Y. M. C. A.

The second fixture was rather soft for the Y.M.C.A., and they scored almost at leisure. One thing about the "Y", that puts them in most persons' estimation, about the best in the league, is their combination and team play. For a lot of youngsters they come through with some nifty playing and rather surprise the spectators.

The teams:

Y.M.C.A.—Goal, Darling; defence Smith and Cranfield; rover, Knapman; centre, Quinn; wings, Smith and Jackson.

Wanderers—Goal, Walker; defence, Coughlin and Guerin; rover, Brown; centre, Brotheston; wings, Primeau and Revoy.

Referee—Len Dobson.

SAVE YOUR APPENDIX.

This Mysterious Organ May Prove to Be a Valuable Gland.

The appendix is not a useless organ undergoing degeneration, as has been hitherto supposed, but is a valuable gland, and persons should think twice before having it removed. This is a part of a report presented to the French Academy of Sciences by Dr. Perrier.

Another well known French scientist, the late Dr. Lucas-Championnere, warned the medical world some years ago that the appendix probably was undeserving of present day contempt, yet he was unable to establish the possible function of this small and mysterious organ.

Dr. Perrier's report is based upon studies made by Dr. Robinson. The latter collected the mucous secretions from a large number of appendixes removed at the hospitals and prepared a serum which, on being injected into animals, was found to stimulate the contractile movements of the intestines. Dr. Robinson, therefore, was convinced that the appendix cannot be cut out without seriously interfering with intestinal action, although he recognizes the necessity of operating when the gland is gangrenous or otherwise diseased.—Paris Cor. PITIFUL IGNORANCE.

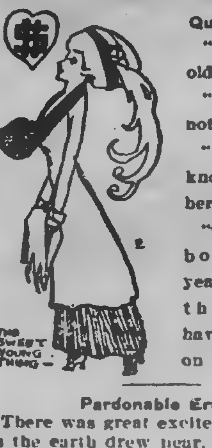
Though everybody else is wise
 And painfully aware
That there is basis for the claim
 And something in the air,
The trust itself is innocent;
 Confess to that it must.
Whatever else it understands,
 It won't know it's a trust.

At the suggestion that perhaps
 It's running a combine
A sad expression slowly flits
 Across its face benign.
It raises piously its hands
 That are not stained by toil
As though from anything like that
 In horror to recoil.

It may own ninety-nine per cent
 Of everything in sight
Connected with its line of trade
 And have the lid on tight,
But still that little one per cent
 Appears unto its eyes
Like competition strong and keen
 That one should not despise.

Oh, yes, the trusts are innocent!
 We get that knowledge straight.
It comes to us direct from them
 And so is up to date.
But every person must admit
 Who will his eyes believe
The imitation they put up
 An expert might deceive.



Quite Uncertain.

"I wonder how old she is."

"I really could not say."

"But you have known her all her life."

"Oh, she was born thirty-five years ago, but that may not have any bearing on the subject."

Pardonable Error.

There was great excitement on Mars as the earth drew near. Astronomers had their eyes glued to the telescopes like postage stamps to love letters, and their meals were fed to them by subcutaneous injections.

Excited crowds outside were gathered around the bulletin board, which had just announced that the earth had several thousand satellites in addition to the one big moon—either that, it was stated, or else the earth people were able to pick up their houses and walk.

Just then Professor Zazazaza, who had been snatching a few hours' sleep, woke up, turned his trained eye on the earth and informed the waiting crowds that the women of the earth wore hats four times as large as themselves, which had led to the curious mistake.

Had Him Located.

"All is lost," said the discouraged politician, "but honor."

"What is that?" said the deaf man who had a way of hearing part of what was said and jumping at the rest. "His honor lost? No; that can't be! I had a drink with him in a saloon around the corner just a few minutes ago."

Fair in War.

"Do you think George Washington ever told a lie?"

"Certainly not."

"Never?"

"Well, he may have told a few white lies to the red men during the colonial wars."

Turn About.

"I hope you do not begrudge me a meal," said the tattered wanderer.

"Certainly not," replied the generous householder, "and I hope you wouldn't begrudge my dog one if you were to come a step farther."

Suggests Prosperity.

"Why is it that all actors, whether great or small, always want to play Hamlet?"

"Let's see. Isn't that the show in which the ghost walks?"

WHY MEN ARE BALD.

Stiff Hats, Hair-Cutting and Heavy Eating Are Causes.

There are real reasons why men get bald earlier than women. The reasons have been discovered by Dr. Edmund Guelpa, a hair specialist of Paris. Here are his reasons, based on several years of study relative to baldness in men and women:

Men wear stiff, heavy hats.
Men keep their hats on too much.
Men cut their hair too short.
Men eat more than women.

These are all of the reasons and the only reasons why women's "crowning beauty" is lovelier than man's.

"The scalp is like a soil," says Dr. Guelpa. "Hair closely resembles the vegetation that grows upon the real soil. When the scalp is neglected or given a wrong treatment the hair on it does just as the grass does if the soil on which it grows does not receive sufficient moisture and care or when the soil is too poor."

According to Dr. Guelpa, a stiff hat is a mistake, because any sort of a hard, stiff hat constricts the blood vessels that nourish the scalp and causes the scalp to resemble unnourished soil, thus killing the hair.

Hair that is kept short is usually unhealthy hair, because clipping the hair exposes the scalp and leaves the delicate roots unprotected and at the mercy of dust, wind, heat and cold. The natural oils which form are hardened by the cold or softened by heat, and cannot perform their duty as well as if protected. In summer a man with short hair frequently burns the roots of his hair because he ventures into the sun without the needed protection of a soft hat or cap.

Too much food causes fat to form directly under the skin, and in addition to the flesh and skin layer there is a fat layer near the skull. This fat layer causes the hair to die. That is one reason why fat men are more liable to be bald than slender men are.

The Chinese Tea Table.

This is a game to amuse small children. The players sit in a circle and each one takes the name of some article used at the tea table, such as tea, sugar, cream, cake, etc.

Tea begins; she rises and turns round and round in her place, saying, "I turn Tea, who turns Sugar?" Then Sugar gets up and begins to turn, saying, "I turn Sugar, who turns Milk?" Milk begins to turn, saying, "I turn Milk, who turns Cream?" Cream turns, saying, "I turn Cream, who turns Hot Water?" And so on with Rolls, Muffins, Jam, Cake or anything that can be thought of for tea—even to napkins and dishes if there are many playing—till all are turning.

They must continue till the leader claps her hands and calls out, "Clear the table," when all sit down in their chairs again.

Hunting the Wren.

In the south of Ireland the custom of "hunting the wren" is practiced on St. Stephen's Day, the day after Christmas. The wren-boys, also called Droleens, go from house to house demanding contributions and carrying with them one or more wrens in the midst of a holly bush decorated with bright ribbons.

One of the traditions connected with the killing of these little birds is that a Danish army would have been surprised and destroyed by Irish troops had not a wren given the alarm by pecking at some crumbs upon a drumhead, the remains of the sleeping drummer's supper, which roused him, and he instantly beat to arms. This would account for the Irish hatred of the wren.

Had Heard of One.

"What is an expert?" asked the teacher of her brightest pupils.

It was a poser for awhile, when one of them raised a hand.

"Do you know, Willie?"

"Yes'm."

"Then what is an expert?"

"A good baseball player."

Just the Difference.

"How do rawnchers do out in this country?" asked the visiting Englishman of the friendly westerner who was showing him about.

"No good," replied the cow puncher.

"Really, I heard they did well."

"Rawnchers don't, but ranchers do."

ADVANCEMENT NOTED.

We can see how recently aviation has discarded its swaddling clothes when he remember that the St. Louis fair hung a high prize down low for any flier who would succeed in getting over the fence, and no one took it away. Those who did enter for the contest couldn't make it in three jumps.

Now the glitter of a trophy causes a flock of air navigators to gyrate aloft as buzzards circle over the carcass of a deer killed by the Roosevelt family and left behind because the hunters had all the hippopotamuses they could carry.

Yesterday we were creatures of the earth. Today we are almost in a position to have special diseases caused by excessive flying.

Their Field.

We could have saved the worry,
The fever and the flurry,
We could have saved the steam and coal
We spend in looking for the pole.
If we had been content to wait
Another would have paid the freight,
For when the state of trade was fit
The iceman would have captured it.

Her System.

"How do you make such a hit with the men, Ethel?"

"Quite easily."

"What is your method?"

"I point out to each individual masculine how much like some great men he is in certain particulars."

"Oh, I see."

"Then when he swells nearly to the bursting point I switch to some other noted individual and trace similarities."

"Beautiful!"

"This method if earnestly persisted in soon has him aviating like a wilburwright."

Chance For an Expert.

"I think I have discovered a new profession in an unworked field."

"Would it be profitable?"

"It ought to be."

"What is the nature of it?"

"Resting for millionaires. They need the rest badly enough and haven't time to take it, so they ought to pay one accomplished in that line to rest for them."

Saving Labor.

"Your husband doesn't smoke?"

"No."

"Doesn't he care for it?"

"Yes, immensely. But he is too lazy to bite the ends off the cigars."

Perfectly Familiar.

Minister—Are you quite sure you know your catechism, my boy?

Boy—Sure! Dere's four ink spots on de front cover, an' de back's tore off. I'd know it anywhere.

Fine Results.

"There's a man who gets fine results from his business."

"What's his business?"

"Chopping steak in a meat market."

Contrary.

It might seem very strange indeed
 And quite against the code,
But reckless trainmen do not go
 To make a wreckless road.

A Vacancy Filled.

Harry—I have a cold in my head.

Grace—Well, I suppose that is better than nothing.

"A GOOD LESSON AGAINST DIVORCE"

Of Special Interest to Women

The story unfolded in "A Butterfly on the Wheel" teaches one of the greatest lessons against divorce that has ever been told. It goes to the courtroom for its most telling scene, a scene, by the way, which is said to be the finest reproduction of a law court ever staged. "A Butterfly on the Wheel" ran for the entire season in New York after having been played for a year in London. It was produced on this side by Lewis Waller, the English actor-manager, so that one may be assured of the artistic part of the entertainment. The local presentation of the play will occur at The Grand, next Saturday, Feb. 14, matinee and evening. In order to give every lady an opportunity of seeing this great drama, which is of special interest to women, the matinee prices have been fixed at 25c, 35c and 50c. The seats are now on sale.

FREAK FAMILIES.

Tallest and Heaviest on Record—A Father of Eighty-Seven.

There is at the present time living at Bilbao, Spain, a family of seven who between them possess no fewer than 164 fingers. One of them has twenty-three fingers, another twenty-one, while of the remaining five each can boast a couple of hands with twelve fingers apiece. At Koshilivo, Russia, a very similar phenomenon exists in the fifty or more descendants of a peasant with extra fingers on his hands, who married at the beginning of last century, all of whom are dowered with from one to five fingers in excess of the normal number.

The last surviving member of what was, perhaps, the record family with regard to weight was, in the person of Mr. Charles Atkins, a few years back interred at Harrow, Eng. He weighed 34 stone, his brothers, who predeceased him, being no less than 36 stone and 40 stone. Another heavy family was the Dudfields, one of whom, Robert, a brewer's drayman, weighed at his death 32 stone, two stone heavier than his twin brother, whose 30 stone was equalled, if not topped, by their two sisters.

The family record for longevity has not been beaten since Robert Parr, the great-grandson of the celebrated Thomas Parr, died in 1757 at the age of 124. His father lived to celebrate his 109th birthday, his grandfather reached 113, while his great-grandfather was 152 at the time of his death. If a long-lived family of Wisbech, named Stockdale cannot in the mere number of years compete with the Parrs, it assuredly holds the record for golden weddings, of which five have been celebrated in the family within comparatively recent years.

One of the most notable instances of prolificness is that mentioned in the Harleian Miscellany of a Scotch weaver and his wife, who were the proud parents of sixty-two children, fifty of whom reached their majority. Fortunately four gentlemen of the neighborhood each adopted ten children, the remainder being brought up by their parents.

Large as this family was, its fame pales before that of a Russian, ono Ivan Wassilif, who was the proud father of eighty-seven. He was married twice. By his first wife he had sixty-nine children in the following order: Four times quadruplets at a birth, seven times triplets, and sixteen times twins. By his second spouse he had twice triplets and six times twins.

Undoubtedly the record for misfortune belongs to a Belgian family named Adnet. The father, Jean Adnet, was drowned; his wife committed suicide by throwing herself from the roof of her house; while of his two sisters, who lived respectively at Ghent and Paris, one was killed by the kick of a horse and the other by a blow received from a falling scaffold.

Jean Adnet had six children, four sons and two daughters. Of these, the latter perished through the overturning of a pleasure-boat. One of the sons was stabbed in a drunken brawl; another was crushed to death by a heavy wagon; while the remaining two who had emigrated to America, were slain in 1891 while fighting for Balmaceda against the Congressists.

But of peculiar records, the strangest was that held by a family, nicknamed the "Odd Family," that lived at Ipswich at the commencement of the eighteenth century. The names of the father, mother and seven sons each contained an odd number of letters. The youngest son Ezekiel enlisted as a grenadier in 1703, and was wounded twenty-three times. Five other sons—Roger, James, Matthew, Jonas and David—died in different places and, by an extraordinary coincidence, were buried on the same day in the year 1713. Ten years later another son, Solomon, was with Ezekiel, drowned in crossing the Thames.

Reaches Her Hundredth Year.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 11. — One hundred years young, Mrs. Ann Beattie, 50 Byron avenue, maintains an unabated interest in the progress of the world, reads the newspapers regularly and is fond of motoring. She is looking forward to the return of warm weather, when she can again enjoy a number of visits to her many nephews and nieces, who live in Westminster, Dorchester and other parts of Middlesex and adjoining counties.

THE POTATO HABIT

Now There's a Shortage in the Popular Tuber.

And now word comes that there is a potato shortage of 92,000,000 bushels, and it would seem as if we are to be deprived of still another cheap and nourishing staple.

But it may be sincerely said that the average American table has seen the potato too often and in too many unattractive forms. "Fried potatoes" is an omnipresent Americanism, which is to blame for much of our national dyspepsia.

Potatoes by chemical analysis show (boiled):

Protein	2.5
Carbohydrate	20.9
Fat	.1
Water	75.5

This, of course, puts them into the "starchy" class, along with white bread, rice, macaroni, hominy and many of the cereals. It is true that many times we have committed the sin of having "three starches" at the same meal. Investigators insist that women eat too many starchy foods. When combined with a quantity of the usual white bread, it is true that the average meal is too high in starch value and still more true it is that our usual manner of peeling the potato before using robs it of its chief value—that of its mineral salt. Baked potatoes are the best and most economical way of serving the tuber.

Even if there is a potato shortage its place can be taken by more extensive use of rice as a "vegetable" and by using hominy, spaghetti and parsnips, which nearly duplicate its qualities, in its place.

Neat and Very Convenient.

The woman who likes dainty, attractive table service will appreciate the newest invention for serving eggs and toast at the first meal of the day.

The egg rack pictured is of bright nickel ware, and the six egg cups, as well as the salt bowl, are of blue ware not unlike the old "willow patterns." Attached to the rack is a glass dish to hold toast. The present high cost of eggs brings them into the luxury class, and consequently they require a fitting setting. (No attempt at a pun intended.)

EGG SERVICE AND TOAST RACK.

The Breakfast Apple.

There is an interesting device to make the preparation of the breakfast apple easy. To begin with, there is a little circular board on which the apple is placed. Then there is a circular band of steel, with three or four crosspieces of metal, sharp on the lower edge, fastened at each end to the steel circle and bisecting each other in the middle. The big circle is placed outside the apple, which is now on the little board, and then is pushed down to the board. The crosspieces cut the apple into segments, each just the right size to pare and eat or to eat unpared if you have a taste for apple skin.

Blue and White Dainty.

A small square cushion, which should be especially nice for a guest room, is covered with blue silk, and over this a filet lace cover of white is drawn. This dainty little bit of blue and white is then supplied with blue and white headed pins, neatly arranged, all ready for the guest's use.

SITE FOR THE NEW PUBLIC BUILDING

Report Recommends That Location be at North East Corner of George and Sherbrooke Streets

A report has been received from the Government for the consideration of the City Council, recommending the property on the north-east corner of George and Sherbrooke streets, as a site selected by an expert for the new public buildings, which will comprise the Post Office, Custom's House and other Government departments.

Mayor Buller said to-day that a special meeting of the Council would be called for next week, to deal with the matter.

It will be remembered that $50,000 was provided in the main estimates as a first installment towards the cost of erecting a public building. Mayor Buller said that Council would probably accept the site.

BELMONT MINSTRELS PLEASE LARGE AUDIENCE

Holly Shepard and Company Score Another Big Success

A capacity house witnessed the first presentation of the Belmont Club Cabaret Minstrels at the Grand last night, and there were no disappointments. It was a highly entertaining performance of song, music and mirth, by a company that was far in advance of the average amateurs. After two weeks of practices and rehearsals, with Mr. and Mrs. Holly Shepard in charge, the Belmonts more than lived up to their reputation gained by previous presentations before Peterboro audiences.

The audience last night was a most enthusiastic one, the fact of an enchore for every number being demanded, speaks volumes for the company and for each one of those taking part.

The presentation will be repeated tonight. It is deserving of another large audience.

Hearty and unstinted applause greeted the company at the rise of the curtain, which brought to view a richly dressed stage and a scene altogether pleasing. With Mr. John Crane, an interlocuter, the fun begins and the following songs and members of the company are introduced:

"Cross the Mason-Dixie Line"—George Wesley.

"Kentucky Eyes"—Asa Huycke.

"Old Maid's Ball"—Matt Drysdale.

HOLLY SHEPARD.

"Mama's Angel Chile"—Miss W. Blewett.

"Beans, Beans, Beans,"—Art Graham.

"Oh, How She Dances"—George Lynch.

"I Miss You Most Of All"—Ed. Hanrahan.

"Did You Lose Your Dog?"—Harold Gollop.

"Back to Caroline"—Vernon Morphet.

"Kill That Bear"—Chris. Graham

"Be My Baby Bumble Bee"—Miss W. Fick.

"Rag Pickin' Man"—Holly Shepard.

It would not be fair to make any selections, as each number is given in a splendid manner. Perhaps "Old Maid's Ball" is the funniest and Matt Drysdale handles it well. The audience laughs long and hearty when George Wesley after vain inquiry for an answer as to who is the most expert automobile driver in the world, solves the riddle by claiming the man who drove Harry K. Thaw from Mattewan into Canada, was the most expert, as he did the trick with a loose nut. This driver, he claims, is a little in advance of Reg Turner, Dr. Frederick, Ald. Stratton, or Arthur Rogers.

Chris. Graham also thinks that in the event of having a firearm and coming face to face with a wild bull and a mad dog, he would pass up the dog and shoot the bull.

In the second part, the Harmony Four, Messrs. Huycke, Skitch, Fleming and Lee introduce Mr. Huycke's latest song "Memory's Flowers," with words by Mr. J. L. Milligan, and they score a big hit. This is a very pretty song. The quartette also sing "Maryland" with Mr. Lee as soloist.

Mr. Frank Clarke shows more than a black face and a highboard collar as he plays on the banjo, and sings his popular "watermelon" song.

The "Burglar Rag" sung by Harold Gollop, comes next. Master Gollop is assisted by Messrs. Dartnell, Hanrahan, Reyner, Ide, Shepard and Johnston.

Miss Fick, Miss E. Smart and Mr. Art Graham are seen in what is styled "a neat dancing creation." They are assisted by Misses Mulholland, Pearce, Rae, Graham, Davidson, Merrell and Elliott. Messrs. Jamieson, McNab, Batley, Scrimshaw, Hutchinson, Hunter, Boswell. This number is finely executed.

CHRIS GRAHAM
He is one of the funny men in the Belmont Minstrels

The Black Dora Flora is a scream. The diminutive form of Stanley Ecclestone, is brought out prominently in suffragette attire and Chris Graham, also adds a litle class to society row of Coonville, by adorning his Margaret Anglin ankle with a time piece. All the boys are real funny and they must be seen to be appreciated. The funmakers are:

Bashful maidens—Chris. Graham, Stan Ecclestone, Fred Reed, Will Cochrane, Harold Hall, Willis Garrow.

Their partners—Matt. Drysdale, Jack Brightman, Fred Cole, Geo. Wesley, Len Fraser, Bob Hall.

Mr. Shepard has given much care and attention to bring about a fitting finale and marked success is met. Vernon Morphet leads the way singing "Good bye Boys." Mr. Morphet puts the proper amount of dash into this song and he is well supported by twelve young ladies who perform a pretty drill in faultless manner. The ladies are: Misses Taylor, Kyle, Haskill, Merell, O'Connor, Hall, Byers, Dawson, Patterson, Brown, Kendry, Bristol.

The comedians were: Messrs. Fred Cole, Matt Drysdale, Art Graham, Geo. Wesley, Chris Graham and Holly Shepard.

Mr. W. C. Carr is manager and Mr. W. Cochrane is assistant manager. Mr. R. Hall is property man. The ushers are Messrs. Belleghem, Cook, McKee, Lech, Warne, Allison, Drummond, and Rosenburgh. R Hall & Son supplied foliage and T. H. Hooper and Sons supplied the furniture.

MAGISTRATE WOULD NOT CONVICT

Police Officer Said Autoist Was Speeding.

At Guelph, the other day the Police Magistrate refused to return a conviction against the owner of an automobile who was charged with driving his car at an immoderate rate of speed, because the police office who made the complaint, did not have a stop watch.

"It is only a matter of guess work when stop watches are not used,' was the magisterial comment

The local police officers are not provided with stop watches. In the opinion of Police Chief Thompson, these watches are hardly necessary here. They are used in the larger cities where special officers are appointed to keep tab on the speeders.

MISS CONSTANCE B. BENNETT
PHOTO

Rodman Law, the "human fly," who faced death and nearly met it by being blown from the mouth of a cannon, jumped from the centre span of the Williamsburg Bridge, New York, just after Miss Constance Bennett had dropped from the bridge rail in a parachute recently. Law's parachute failed to work, and he dropped like so much lead into the East River while anxious policemen who had hastened unsuccessfully to prevent the leap ran helplessly to and fro on the bridge.

Law has thrilled the United States with more life risking feats than any other man. He has leaped from the Statue of Liberty and has been blown from the mouth of a giant skyrocket for fun and moving pictures.

BIG INCREASE SHOWN IN Y.M.C.A. MEMBERSHIP

Marked Progress Has Been Made in all Departments

A new member almost every day of the past year of the Y.M.C.A. is a demonstration of the remarkable growth of that institution. The membership at the commencement of the year was 496, and the year was brought to a close with a membership of 705. During the year some fifty members, owing to departure from the city, or failure to renew their tickets, were taken off the roll.

Besides the remarkable growth in membership, the social department of the Association has also grown with marked rapidity, and at present is one of the prime factors in the social uplift in the city.

General Secretary Hainsworth, whose energetic spirit and efficiency in the Association work, is largely responsible for the increase in doubling the membership, since his connection with the "Y", in 1912. Since then the entire building has been completely renovated and several noticeable changes which have placed the local Association in an enviable position and this fact has been favorably commented on by visitors, who say that the local institution is one of the best and most home-like in the province.

Handsome rugs, billiard tables, reading rooms, new floors, considerable paint and paper, more dormitory accommodation, and general improvement in social, hygiene, religious, and general homelike effect, has been the result of Mr. Hainsworth's efficient regime.

Boys' Department

Probably the increase in membership is due to the large increase in the boys' department, which since last June, have contributed over one hundred and twenty-five members. Harmony, success and the best of social conditions which all go to make boy life a clean and happy one, prevails in this department, due to the efficient manner in which the boys' secretary, G. Galley, carries on his work. Several large billiard tables, a piano, and other equipment have been added to this department in the past year, making it a comfortable headquarters for the youngsters.

Physical Department

The Gym classes carried on by Physical Director J. J. Thompson, have met with more than considerable success. Since Mr. Thompson took the physical work a few years ago, several members are carrying off laurels in the college athletic world which is evident of sound and systematical training given them in the local gymnasium. As one business man said recently: "The city is losing a valuable man in Mr. Thompson."

Not only has he given his best efforts to his work at the Association, but he has always been willing to help in any proper and legitimate undertaking outside the Y.M.C.A. He possesses executive ability and it will be hard indeed to find a successor to fill his place.

SEEKS TO RECOVER SCALES AND COSTS

The case of the Computing Scales Company of Canada vs. Thos. E. Hall, will be heard before Judge Huycke at the County Court by mutual consent of the counsels, on February 20th. The plaintiffs claim is to recover the possession of four scales and costs of $30.

The defendant denies that he has unlawfully detained the said scales, and denies possession of the scales.

Hall, Mudd and Davidson are acting for the defendant, while G. W. Hatton is conducting the case for the plaintiff.

IN ABSENCE OF STREET CARS THEY USE THE SLEIGH

Back to the dear old days of yore. If not back that far, well it's almost there. Some are back to the stage coach and that's pretty near far enough. As is well known the farmers and residents of North Monaghan have been asking, aye begging, for the extending of the Brownton street car line. Just why this request is not granted cannot be found out but at any rate this cold spell set in and the residents of the locality had no means of conveyance to their work in the C.G.E.. It is a long way by the heel and toe route. The workingmen made arrangements with one resident who does not work in the factory to drive them to work for the sum of one dollar a trip. As there are 25 people working in the Canadian General they each pay 5 cents, which is the usual carfare. The sleigh used is just an ordinary drayman's sleigh.

Occasionally you meet a woman who is almost as much afraid of her husband as she is of her cook.

CANADA HAD QUAKE IN 1663

Indians Said the Whole Forest Was Drunk.

February seems to be a favorite month for Canadian earthquakes, for it was on the 5th of that month, in 1663, that the worst seismic shake ever recorded in Canada, took place. Lalemont, a Jesuit, thus records it:

Roaring Sound

"It began with a great roaring sound heard throughout the whole extent of Canada. Bells sounded of themselves; beams and joists cracked; the logs of the palisade at Quebec danced about, and many inhabitants were nauseated by the rocking of the earth.

"Trees struck against one another, and leaped on each other with such noise and confusion that the Indians said the whole forest was drunk. A number of men in a boat near Tadousac stared aghast at a large hill which sank into the water before their eyes. And Mother Marie de l'Incarnation tells of a man who ran all night to escape a crack in the earth which opened behind him as he fled. Spectres ran rampant in the forest."

Geology's Testimony

Tangible evidence was not wanting to prove, by geological signs that a severe convulsion of nature took place at that time, and although the silent records are not so eloquent as the descriptive language of the Jesuit historian, they provide confirmation.

The earthquake of 1663 was felt even by the Puritans of New England and the burghers of New Netherlands. The shocks continued though with lessening severity, for several months, small rivers were dried up; some mountains appeared to be much broken and moved, and midway between Quebec and Tadousac two mountains were shaken down, forming a point of land that extended some distance into the St. Lawrence.

MEETINGS GROW IN INTEREST

Mountaineer Evangelist Speaks on Enoch's Walk.

Notwithstanding the cold weather, the revival meetings in Bethany Tabernacle continue to grow in attendance and interest.

Last night the Mountaineer Evangelist spoke from the subject: "God's Testimony Concerning Enoch." He said Enoch's secret was that of his choice. He chose to walk with God. This was also the secret of his personal holiness. He also had affectionate communion with God whom he loved infinitely.

Several persons responded to the invitation at the close of the service to accept the God of Enoch as their God.

Mr. Compton is an original preacher, both in expression and gesture. His message tonight will be on the subject: "A Scriptural Revival. The service begins at eight o'clock and all are welcome.

ARLINGTON HOTEL AT ST. THOMAS IS LOST BY FIRE

Firemen Were Confused by another Alarm and Went to Another Hotel — One Unknown Man is Unaccounted for

Canadian Press Despatch

ST. THOMAS, Feb. 13.—Fire which apparently started in the kitchen, destroyed Arlington hotel at five o'clock this morning. The building was a brick structure, and one hundred and ninety guests were registered. Confusion in sending in the alarm caused the firemen to assemble at another hotel, one mile distant, and when they arrived at the scene, the fire was past control. The guests had time to dress and escape, but it is feared an unknown man who arrived late last night, and was to have left at 5.30, perished in the ruins which are still too hot to search. This man, who was not registered, had the door locked and did not respond when the porter called him.

St. Thomas, (Later)—The ruins of the Arlington hotel have been searched and no body discovered. It is now ascertained that the supposed missing man left on the early train as intended.

FULL REPORT OF ASSESSMENT FOR READERS OF THE REVIEW

In this issue of The Daily Review is commenced the publication of the complete assessment roll of the City of Peterboro. The Review does not believe in doing anything by halves, and will give the full assessment, particulars as found in the official rolls, both the occupant and owner of every piece of land, and of every building in the city will be given. This will be full of interest to every citizen, and is costing The Review a lot of money and labor, but we think our readers should have the information which it contains. There has been considerable criticism of the assessment of the city in several quarters, often by persons not having the information, and it is the desire of the publishers that the people should have the actual figures at their hands, and we are of opinion that the particulars which this report contains, will be welcomed by the assessor, and every citizen as well, as they will be in a position to compare the different values placed on the properties.

This will be no garbled report, and today's issue contains the first instalment of the South Ward assessment.

LAD IN KNICKERBOCKERS GOES TO THE PENITENTIARY

Sixteen Year Old Youngster Was Shackled to Two 'Criminals

Kingston, Feb. 13.—Passengers on the noon train from the west yesterday were shocked to see a boy in knickerbockers being brought, a handcufffed prisoner from Hamilton to the Portsmouth Penitentiary to serve two years for theft. What made matters worse and what added further to the degradation and humiliation of the unfortunate child was the fact that he was shackled to two criminals one of whom was under sentence for an unnatural and unmentionable offence. Those who saw the boy were indignant that he should be subjected to such treatment as being chained to a man of such criminal and unnatural propensities, and claimed that the penitentiary was no place for a youth of his years.

The boy in question was G. Baker, aged 16 years, and he was sentenced by the Police Magistrate at Hamilton on Feb. 9th, to serve two years imprisonment for a theft committed in company with W. Willis, aged about 22, who also accompanied him to serve a similar term. It was a pathetic sight to see the young fellow handcuffed to two other criminals and carefully watched by a deputy sheriff, on his way to serve a term in a penitentiary at an age when most other boys of his years were enjoying the happiest and most care free days of their lives. It was as an eyewitness remarked, at once a warning and a reproach—a warning to parents to be more careful in the bringing up, and more particular as to the companions of their children, and a reproach upon the "justice" or whatever was responsible for conditions which permitted the incarceration of a child in an institution where he would be brought into contact with some of the most hardened, vile and incorrigible criminals to be found on this continent.

The boy is now in the penitentiary where for the next two years he works in one of the shops, or at any other employment he may be given. He will lose his identity and will be known only as prisoner No. F. 730.

TWO CHILDREN WERE KILLED IN CAVE-IN

Father Asks $5,000 as Damages From Corporation.

Another case which will occupy the attention of the Spring Assizes and envolves a strenuous legal fight is the one of John Robinson of Havelock, vs. the Corporation of Havelock, in which Mr. Robinson, the plaintiff, claims $5,000 from the defendant for damages in connection with the death of his three children who were killed by a cave-in at a gravel pit, owned by the corporation.

The plaintiff claims this amount for the benefit of himself, wife and remaining members of the family. He also claims costs of action.

The defendants deny the allegation, and ask that the plaintiff's action be dismissed.

J. D. Lynch is representing the plaintiff, while Peck, Kerr and McElderry are acting for the Corporation of Havelock.

INJURED WHILE ON HIS WAY TO ATTEND FUNERAL

Mr. James Bailey, of Smith, was rather seriously injured this morning, as the result of a runaway accident. He was one of a party, on the way to attend a funeral and when the horses ran away all the occupants of the sleigh were hurled out on to the road at the corner of Smith and Park streets.

Mr. Bailey's left shoulder was seriously injured. He was cared for by the employes at A. Blade & Son's greenhouse, and later left for his home.

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY FEB 13, 1914.

PARCEL POST.

CERTAIN LIBERAL journals are not too effusive in their welcome of the new parcel post. The Toronto Star says:—"Even if the present arrangement for parcel post is not satisfactory, the people of Canada can help to make it a success, and force the Government to improve it." Of course we cannot expect the Star, which is not an "independent Liberal paper," to thank the Borden Government for the gift of parcel post.

Anyone can criticize the new arrangement and we did not need the Star to tell us that it is not perfect. Under the Laurier Government parcel post was "perfectly" a dead issue, it may be that the Liberals were waiting to introduce a perfect parcel post and that is what kept us from enjoying even the minor blessings of the present system. The Star is always looking for perfect things, a world without war, no tariffs, no taxes, no Tories, no other opinion than its own.

THE HOG QUESTION.

A CORRESPONDENT asks how the hog market in the U. S. compares with the Canadian market as to the prices of hogs to the farmer. The buyers say that the price paid in Canada by the Canadian hog-buyer to the Canadian hog-raiser is considerably higher than the price the U. S. farmer receives. This is confirmed by market reports published in the newspapers of both countries. But the fact remains that the Canadian hog-raiser is not raising as good a quality of hog as formerly and not enough of them. The Canadian food producer is not raising enough to supply the Canadian market and will have himself to blame if the consumer who is rapidly increasing in numbers will be driven to obtain a more plentiful supply.

THE EFFECT OF EARTHQUAKES.

AN EARTHQUAKE is a reminder that even the solid earth is not unmovable. To fully grasp what it means for a continent to tremble is no easy matter. That a house should shake is something which is so common that we take no notice of it, and the effect of this "quake" was so slight that few people who felt it gave it more than a passing thought, attributing it to some local cause. But when it was realized that the movement was the effect of a subterranean disturbance which shook hundreds of miles of country many people showed a mild sort of alarm and wonder.

It is certainly a cause for wonder, but like all the wonderful things it is soon forgotten. It is strange what little effect even the most calamitous earthquake has upon the people who escape with their lives. Great cities can be over-turned and devastated, but if there is a remnant of the people left they will immediately begin to bury their dead, clean up the mess and forget all about it. It is perhaps as well that it should be so, but Nature in all her moods, and especially in her violent actions is teaching us a lesson. In this connection the sentiments of Du Bellay are very appropriate and impressive, as the sonnet is not generally known and as it is perhaps the only short poem with an earthquake in it we quote it for the benefit of our literary readers, it is a parable of earthly grandeur which all fortune builders, nation and Empire builders might make a note of.

On High hill's top I saw a stately frame,
  An hundred cubits high by just assize,
With hundred pillars fronting fair the same,
  All wrought with diamonds, after Doric wise ;
Nor brick nor marble was the wall to view,
  But shining crystal, which from top to base
Out of her womb a thousand rayons threw,
  One hundred steps of Afric golds enchase :
Gold was the parget ; and the ceiling bright
  Did shine all scaly with great plates of gold ;
The floor of jasp and emerald was dight.
  O, world's vainness ! while thus I did behold,
An earthquake shook the hill from lowest seat,
And overthrew this frame with ruin great.

A UNITED CANADA.

THE ONLY WAY of dealing with the question of free wheat is to first of all understand it thoroughly. A writer in the Westminster Gazette puts the position of the Western grain grower in a clear manner as follows :

"The farmer is in need of money, and wants to sell at the earliest moment, and his customer is the nearest elevator. But the country is new, and, in spite of the wonders achieved by the Canadian Pacific Railway, they cannot deal with the bulk which is rushed on them. Wheat has to be taken East either through Winnipeg or Fort William, and every year the line is blocked with loaded freight trains, and the port congested. The elevators dotted over the prairie are full to overflowing, and the unfortunate farmer who has been late with his harvest, or unable to get a thrashing machine, or for some other reason has not effected a sale, is forced to borrow on his wheat and pay an exorbitant rate of interest. The Government of Saskatchewan is doing its best to deal with this problem, and will advance 80 per cent. of the money required to build an elevator, if the farmers in the locality will contribute the remaining 20 per cent. It will, however, take many years to settle this question."

The Government do not deny the existence of these problems of the West, and Mr. Borden is as anxious to solve these problems as the Grain-Growers Association; there is more than one way of dealing with them, and there are more points of view than one. Let the question be regarded from every point of view, parties and policies must give way to what is most expedient for the welfare of the nation as a whole. The United States have been built on the principles of unity. Let us follow their example and build up a United Dominion. The Underwood Tariff is as much a protective and selfish piece of legislation as any that has ever been enacted by the American Senate, there is nothing altruistic about it, they stand to gain every time. Liberal journals seem to have great faith in the idealistic motives of American politicians. If they would only display as much faith in British intentions no one would doubt their loyalty to the Empire. Their obstruction and rejection of the Naval Aid Bill, set along side of their eagerness to yield to the requests of the Americans, is enough to make any one suspicious. What has the States ever done for Canada ? Of course Britain has done and is doing nothing !

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A TYPHOID CLAIMANT of Ottawa, in a letter of complaint against Mr. Cluff, the city auditor, describes that gentleman as "a bald-headed porcupine." This is quite original and picturesque language, but a porcupine with a bald head would be quite harmless.

THE TASK of redistribution has been referred to a joint committee of both parties and the reajustment of the boundaries of constituencies to fit in with the changes in population ought to be carried out in a fair and satisfactory manner. It will mean an increase in the number of politicians and some people think that we have enough politicians already.

OF ALL THE WILD ANIMALS I have met, the wildest is the small boy." This is the statement of Ernest Thompson Seton, founder of the Boy Scout movement in America and famous for his studies of animal life. What does the Toronto Star say to this statement? That paper was shocked some time ago when The Review said that most boys were barbarians and were only kept from eating each other by discipline of some kind.

THOSE IN THE BUSINESS have always known that the famous preference duty was barely nominal when it came to manufactured clothing. The preference on clothing is one-seventh instead of one-third as it is on other things. The clothing people in Canada have naturally said little about it but an aggrieved importer having "written to the papers" let the cat out of the bag. Sir Wilfrid has had a credit with the consumer which he never deserved. It is a big joke on somebody nevertheless.

WHAT THE WORLD IS SAYING

As You Like It.

Orillia Packet.

Toronto people generally have something extra in the water they drink. Often it is chloride of lime, sometimes it is tar, and not infrequently it appears to be whisky.

Scotsmen and Canada.

Westminster Gazette.

It has been noted that the majority of Canadians who have won fame in politics or in commerce have been Scotsmen either by birth or by descent. Bishop Strachan, William Lyon Mackenzie, Alexander Mackenzie, George Brown, Sir Alexander Galt, and Sir John Macdonald have all an honourable place among the makers of the most successful of British Colonies, and to that small band of notable Scotsmen must be added Lord Strathcona. It has been generally stated in the notices of Lord Strathcona's death that he was born at Forres. He said not very long ago that this was a mistake; Nethy Bridge was really his birthplace.

Mexico.

Hamilton Spectator.

In his message to congress in December last, President Wilson of the United States spoke of the Huerta regime in Mexico as "crumbling" and "tottering to its fall." It has taken so long to crumble, however, that apparently he can no longer pursue his policy of "watchful waiting." The failure of the Mexican government, under stress of civil war, to pay the half-yearly interest on the national debt, has caused such discontent in Europe that the American president evidently feels impelled to do something to hasten the course of events.. Accordingly, he has lifted the embargo which hitherto has prevented the Constitutionalists from getting arms and ammunition from the United States by way of Texas.

The Palmist.

Cross my hand, brother,
  Let me read your fate,
I'll not keep you long agog,
  Lonely 'tis, and late.

Aye, the right palm, brother,
  Warm from the glove . . .
Lauding in the market place,
  Here I read . . . and love ;

Love—and tryst and rose-red cheek,
  Ere the joy was old . . .
Look ! The year you flung away
  Love—for lust o' gold.

Heart line and life line—
  (Sooth, it is so)
Broke in twain and yet again—
  ('Twas a sorry blow).

Where away, brother—
  Why this ashen fright ?
(Did he mark how I could read Murder yesternight ?)

SPECIAL CORNER FOR AFTER DINNER READERS

Amoret's Trousseau

Where She Got the Money to Pay For It.

By MARTHA C. SANFORD

Amoret was very excited. It was her first long journey alone, and vast and entrancing as her dreams were of the delights of California she knew she should find even her dreams transcended.

She took off her stylish little hat and handed it to the "portress," as she mentally dubbed her. Then, with a cushion at her head and another at her feet, she settled back with a sense of replete comfort.

But when the sun, with a last wink of his bright cyclopean eye, at length disappeared behind the distant trees Amoret turned her attention aimlessly to the people about her. An uninteresting and prosaic collection was her unspoken verdict save for a very evidently newly married couple who were too silly to be even amusing. What was there, Amoret mused, about a honeymoon that so invariably transformed even the most sensible people into such insufferably sentimental idiots?

"Las' call to dinnah!" announced the dining car porter, swinging pompously through the train.

Amoret opened her purse, in which she was carrying her miniature watch. She glanced at the time and then, feminine fashion, began to investigate the varied contents of her pocketbook. Suddenly she started, then, growing very white, leaned back and closed her eyes.

The "serious and dignified" young man across the aisle had been watching her. He guessed what had happened.

How could he help her? Could he ask her to go into dinner with him?

Of course not. She'd starve before she'd accept. Well, he might as well dine himself and think over the situation while he did so.

As he rose and walked ahead into the dining car Amoret opened her eyes. She stifled the impulse to jump up and follow him. He was the only person in the car that she liked the looks of. He was a thoroughbred from tip to toe. But there must be some other way out of this awful predicament. She closed her eyes again. All that she could think of was the roll of bills which she had been so long saving for this very trip and which she knew she had that very morning placed in her pocketbook.

When Richard Mason returned from the dining car he found Amoret alone. The rest of the passengers were evidently at dinner. Now was his chance. He had thought up no brilliant lead, to be sure, but the proper words must come if he could get up sufficient nerve to speak. He cleared his throat once, twice, but the silence remained otherwise unbroken.

The train whizzed on. Richard pretended to be reading his paper, but the print might have been Egyptian hieroglyphics. Suddenly he crushed the sheet behind him and turned toward Amoret.

"Great heavens!" he exclaimed and, jumping up, caught her in his arms just as she fell forward fainting. He rang the porter's bell furiously.

"Get some water, quick," he commanded, "and send for the maid! Don't lose a minute!"

"Yas'r; no, sah," responded the porter and vanished with something akin to the speed and grace of a hurry call ambulance.

Meanwhile Richard laid the girl gently down on the seat and got a flask of brandy from his valise. When the porter returned with the water and with the excited maid bringing up the rear Amoret had begun to show signs of consciousness.

"Here, Sarah," ordered Richard (why Sarah he couldn't have told for the life of him), "you take care of her while I go and get some soup. She ought to have gone in to dinner sooner, but—but she didn't."

Amoret did not refuse the soup. Indeed, she didn't think to question where it came from. She even allowed Sarah to coax her into eating a little chicken and afterward to superintend the making up of her berth.

"I'll make it all right with you in the morning," Amoret assured her. "You shan't lose"— She stopped short, the whole miserable predicament suddenly flashing over her again. But Sarah had not noticed the interruption.

"Yo' husband's already done dat, honey."

The curtains were shut tight, and Sarah had gone before Amoret could get up courage to attempt an explanation.

"How is she now?" inquired Richard anxiously.

"Oh, she's jes' good as new, sah! You'll tak' dese li'l' spells mo' calmly when you've been ma'ied mo' continuous lak'." And, with a friendly smile, Sarah left the young man staring blankly after her.

Here was a situation!

In the morning the porter's "first call to breakfast" rang cheerfully through the car. Amoret heard and tried to forget as she went on with her spiritless process of dressing.

Richard heard and realized that he must take the bull by the horns. In other words, he must brace himself to speak to the young lady in dirtress and offer her assistance.

In the course of half and hour amoret appeared. She glanced up and down the car, evidently looking for some one. Suddenly seeing Richard, to his utter astonishment, she came straight toward him.

"I am Miss Blanchard," she said without a suspicion of coquetry, for this was a purely business transaction. "I am going to take advantage of your kindness to me last night and ask another favor."

"I am pleased to be of the slightest service," responded Richard, with fitting solemnity.

"You see, I—I"— Amoret stopped short in confusion. She had thought it would be so easy!

"Yes, I know all about it," Richard filled in assuringly. "Suppose we go in to breakfast together and talk it over there."

"How do you know all about it?" inquired Amoret in astonishment.

"I'll tell you while we're at breakfast. We'll have to go right in. They're sounding the last call."

"Well, if you think"— But that's as far as Amoret got in her hesitation, for Richard had started determinedly ahead, and there was nothing for her to do but to follow—that is, unless she wanted to risk a second fainting spell.

At breakfast Richard launched the brilliant scheme of telegraphing back to her folks for more money. Why, it would reach her before she got to the end of the journey.

Here was a complication that Amoret hadn't counted on. Telegraph for more money! Where on earth did he think it would come from?

"Well, you see I live alone with my aunt, who is quite an old lady," she explained, "and it would just worry her to death to get a telegram anyway, let alone a telegram saying that I'd lost my money. She didn't want me to take the journey alone in the first place, and I"—

"Of course we won't telegraph then," broke in Richard brusquely. "You just let me back you till you get to San Diego. By the way, who are your friends there? Maybe I know them."

"Oh, another aunt, sister of the one I live with, and her husband, Mr. Manchester."

"Daniel Manchester, the lawyer?"

"Yes. Do you know him?"

"Very well, though I've never met his family."

"Isn't that providential?" sighed Amoret. "Then that makes it all right for me to ask a favor of you, doesn't it?"

"Yes, of course. At least it was all right anyway. And, say, we'll keep on taking our meals together, won't we? Do say yes."

Amoret lowered her eyes, bit her lip to keep back the laughter that was ready to bubble over and then glanced up at Richard mischievously.

"I suppose I may as well," she admitted, laughing softly. "You see, Sarah thinks"—he knew what Sarah thought, but he was determined she should say the words—"well, Sarah thinks you're my husband!"

"Sarah may be something of a prophetess," Richard ventured and then held his breath, surprised at his own daring.

• • • • • • •

And that's exactly what Sarah proved to be, for two months later Dick and Amoret were taking their honeymoon trip from San Diego back to Boston.

"Do you know, dear," announced Amoret, "you are exactly what I thought you'd be under similar circumstances the first night I saw you."

"What do you mean, Amoret? Are you admitting that you loved me at first sight?"

Amoret's nose tilted up scornfully.

"Don't flatter yourself. You may not have noticed, but there were a bride and groom in the car acting perfectly silly. And as I looked at you I thought that, serious and dignified as you were, you'd probably be just as silly if you were married, and you are, Dick. Everybody's watching you."

Richard went off into a spasm of mirth.

"Amoret," he said suddenly, "I've got the greatest idea. You remember that money you lost?" Amoret shrugged her shoulders. Why shouldn't she remember it? "Suppose we send it as a wedding fee to Sarah. She's the one who really married us, you know."

"How can we when I lost it?" queried Amoret, teasing him.

"Oh, you know what I mean, sweetheart!"

Amoret didn't answer. Instead she turned her head away. Richard watched her curiously, waiting an explanation.

Suddenly she faced him, looking at him in a half frightened, half mischievous way through her blushes.

"I didn't lose the money after all, Dick. I found it the very next day in another part of my pocketbook. It was after we had breakfast together, and I—I didn't tell you. So there was really no reason, you see, for our getting married at all, dearest, except—except that I spent the money on my trousseau."

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Chapped Lips.

An excellent lip salve for ordinary use is the old fashioned camphor ice. Glycerin should not be used in any case. It has too great an affinity for water and is too drying, while the camphor ice is cooling and healing. In aggravated cases, after applying the latter for two or three nights change to the vaseline treatment and then, having reclaimed the lips so they have assumed their original smoothness and firmness, keep them in good condition by drying them properly and by keeping the tongue away from them.

Not Very Funny.

"I did my best to be entertaining," said the young man in a voice of sorrow.

"Did you succeed?"

"I'm afraid not. I recited Hamlet's soliloquy. She looked at me reproachfully for several seconds and then exclaimed, 'I don't think that's very funny!'"—London Telegraph.

It Would Be Proper.

"Would you," her inquisitive friend asked, "speak to a man without an introduction?"

"Well, I might. If, for instance, I were to squirt my grapefruit juice in his eyes I should certainly ask his pardon."—Chicago Record-Herald.

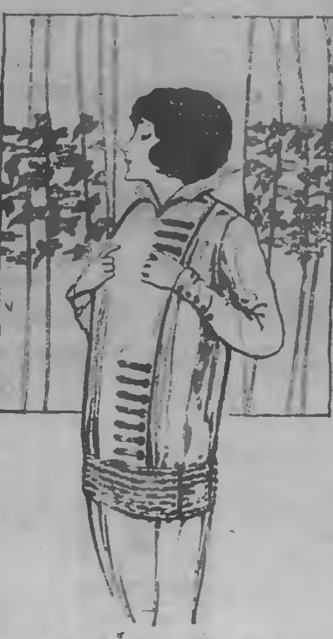
THE LATEST FROM DAME FASHION



FRENCH INTERPRETATION OF THE MIDDY BLOUSE

For misses and for out door wear, even for morning use in the house, the middy blouse is ideal, and here is one that shows the latest French touches, although the middy was introduced into Paris by Americans. This is of cotton crepe, trimmed with Nattier blue cotton velours, blue lined button holes and black buttons. The collar is a feature of late fashions, sheer organdy, wired to stand. Another feature is the adjustableness of the lower band, made smaller or larger by means of concealed snap fasteners.

Trick of the Orator.

Disraeli, whose eloquence Lord Curzon ranks below that of Gladstone, tried hard to give his hearers the impression that he was not in the habit of preparing his speeches. Discussing Plunket's oratory with Disraeli, Lord Granville remarked that the Irish statesman hesitated so long for a word that he seemed to be on the point of breaking down. "Lord bless you!" Disraeli exclaimed. "Did that take you in? Why, that is part of the trick. I have often done it to make it appear that my speech has not been prepared."—London Chronicle.

What They Needed.

"Now, my friends," said the candidate, making another effort to arouse enthusiasm in his hearers, "what do we need in order to carry this constituency by the biggest majority in its history?"

The response was immediate and enthusiastic. "Another candidate!" yelled the audience.—Toronto World.

Preparation.

Two Questions.

"Haven't they always been doing it?"—Boston Transcript.

The night is long that never finds the day.—Shakespeare.

WOMEN IN THE MIDDLE AGES.

They Held Office and Could More Than Hold Their Own In Trade.

Women in England have always shared in the industrial life of the nation. Curiously enough, writes Mr. A. Abram in "English Life and Manners In the Later Middle Ages," a statute of 1363 that ordered men to keep to one trade left women free to practice as many as she chose.

In a few instances, at least, women in the later middle ages discharged duties and held offices that do not fall to their lot nowadays. There are allusions to women burgesses in the records of London and other towns, and if women married aliens they could naturalize them.

Women did not shrink from engaging in foreign commerce. They exported goods to France, Spain and other countries. A widow, Margery Russell of Coventry, is mentioned in no less than three different existing documents. Her business must have been on a fairly large scale, for she was robbed of merchandise worth £900 by some men of Santander, in Spain. In order to recoup herself for her losses she obtained letters of marque that empowered her to seize the goods belonging to countrymen of the offenders.

Margery apparently took more than was due her, for two Spanish merchants lodged complaints against her. She was ordered to restore both ships, but one of the Spaniards declared that she had refused to do so, although he had a commission directed to the exchequer. If Dame Margery Russell was a type, women traders of the middle ages were well able to look after themselves.

"Occult" Information.

A. Henry Savage Landor may deny on geological grounds the existence of any "lost Atlantis," but there are among the theosophical and other occult fraternities people who will cheerfully draw you a map of the vanished land and give you a description of its people, their manners and customs. The information is obtained by various mystical methods—"revelations," clairvoyance, etc. Some years ago it was discovered by similar "occult" means that at the north pole itself the temperature was so mild that a "green island" existed there—a kind of arctic arcady. It was all very interesting until Peary, the explorer, came on the scene and—but cold fact is always so unromantic!—London Chronicle.

Conscientious About It.

"Mr. Glizzard," asked the caller, "are you carrying all the life insurance you can afford?"

"No," answered the man at the desk; "I can afford more, and I had expected to take out more, but from a note I got from my employer this morning I have begun to suspect that I'm carrying a good deal more than I am worth."—Chicago Tribune.

Fashion Note.

"So you've decided not to get that new gown that you had ordered from your dressmaker?"

"Yes; she's so busy that she couldn't have it done for at least three weeks, and by that time it would be out of style."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Family Affair.

Fortune displays our virtues and our vices as light makes all objects apparent.—La Rochefoucauld.

For the Children

The Little Princess Ingrid of Sweden.

Even though seated on her papa's knee the sedate little lady in the picture looks a wee bit afraid. Perhaps she isn't used to having her picture taken and was wondering what was going to happen. The baby is Princess Ingrid Victoria, daughter of Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden. She gets part of her name from her great-grandmother, who was Queen Victoria of England. Her mother's name is Margaret, and she is the daughter of the Duke of Connaught, the present governor general of Canada. So you see this young lady is highly connected. Not that she pays much attention to those things at present, for she is only a little over three years old. Perhaps when she grows up she may be a queen, but she need not be envied on that account. Kings and queens are often unhappy persons.

About Postage Stamps.

The postage stamp first made its appearance in 1839. Its inventor was James Chalmers, a printer of Dundee, who died in 1853. England adopted the adhesive stamp in 1839 and issued the first stamps for the use of the public in 1840. A year later stamps were introduced into the United States and Switzerland and soon afterward made their appearance in France, Belgium and Bavaria.

King Winter.

Oh, I am the friend of the boys and girls!
I am the fellow they love
When there's plenty of frost on the earth below
And plenty of sunshine above.
To me they look for the frozen pond,
All ready for skate and slide;
To me they turn with their sled so swift
For a coasting hill so wide.

I deck the trees with a fringe so bright
That they glisten in sun or shade;
And I scatter my snowflakes in the air
Till they fill each valley and glade;
And, climbing up the mountain top,
Each shrub and tree I crown,
And I spread the whitest of covers o'er
The ground so barren and brown.

RUSSIAN GIRL ESCAPES TWICE FROM SIBERIA AND COMES TO CANADA

Marie Sucloff Has Had an Adventurous Career in Czar's Domains—Is Sister of Local Man

The Russian government recently announced that prison reform is to be carried out in the near future, and the lot of the unfortunates sent to that ice-bound prison, Siberia, made easier. The reformers are even considering the possibility of not sending criminals to Siberia at all.

But the Czar's government still possesses a power similar to that of the Bourbons in old times, exercised by "letters de cachet," and its "executive decree" is sufficient to consign a political offender, and even a suspect, to prison without trial and without appeal.

Such has been the experience of Marie Sucloff, who has been discovered in New York, and who says she is tracked by Russian spies. Every nook and corner of Russia was probed to capture, dead or alive, the frail, apparently helpless girl, who dared to pit her woman's strength and wit against the political system of her native land. She is one of the very few who have escaped from Siberia, and lived.

Twice Exiled to Siberia.

But this girl, after escaping from the clutches of the police, had the courage to return and attempt the fight again within the enemy's ranks but five years' bitter experience has taught her she must henceforth fight from without the lines. While the spies dog her footsteps she is gathering anew her bodily strength and extending her influence against the time when she can once more rise up and share leadership in the movement which, she believes, must some day break up the despotism of Russia and free her oppressed countrymen.

"One day," she says, "I wrote a letter to a friend of mine and said I blamed the government for making it so hard for us peasants. You see, I was sixteen and just beginning to think. My friend was 'suspected' by the officials, and when they ransacked the house my little letter was found. I was thrown into prison in Odessa and waited a year and a half for my trial. Yes, it was bad at Odessa," she replied to a query, "but after you've been in Siberia it seems not so bad. At the trial they called me a dangerous, revolutionary person and sentenced mo for life to Siberia."

In the Dreary Wilderness.

Well, after the sentence I was kept a year and a half in a 'Kishinev' prison before I was banished. I was sent two thousand miles to a little town called Alexandrovsky. You know Siberia has many little towns where exiles are sent. The houses are very small—low, mere huts. Most of the year it is bitter cold, so there are no flowers, nothing green, no birds. It is dreary.

"The only thing that is good in Siberia is the great sympathy the exiles show one another. Once you are taken to a town, even if you are allowed to go to the houses there, you cannot go to those you know in another town. The guards, dressed in black furs, are on all sides.

"Alexandrovsky had only fifteen houses, very poor. I was only nineteen years old then. When I was sixteen I was at home on the farm. That was twelve years ago now. Probably because I was so young and so very quiet I was not guarded too closely, and had a chance to go from house to house."

"Then you were quite free!" the interviewer interrupted. "The officers were kind?"

The nervous hands outstretched.

Guards Act Like Beasts.

"Free! Free! With guards everywhere? There is no freedom—don't you know? Here in New York I see your police are kind. I hope so. There are no officers in Siberia. The men in charge are—beasts! They make it almost impossible for woman to remain good!"

If only the women of this country knew what those Russian women suffer, I know some help would be sent! I do not mean that laws and customs could be changed at once. I know better. But it would mean so much to those women away in Siberia to know that other women are sorry for them."

"All the time I was there I was hoping, planning to escape," she said, "Friends of mine, husband and wife, in another village, were planning to escape, too. They had a three-year-old baby. I knew they would rather have their baby freed than to get free themselves. I got my chance to go, first, so I took their baby with me.

"Yes, the baby made it hard, but it was such a nice baby! Of course, it was a great care, too, but I managed. I got the baby to its grandparents in Russia," she explained, forgetting herself.

Escaped With Exile's Baby

"We rode hundreds of miles in the slow carts of the Siberian farmers. Always the baby was in my arms. The roads were rough. We constantly feared arrest. Oh, but those friends were good, passing me on from place to place. Finally, I reached Vilna. There I stopped at a great hotel."

She laughed gayly. Tragedy has not broken her mirthful spirit.

"I could not stay there, of course, nor go home at all. I went to Paris. There I remained six weeks, talking with friends, meeting people, planning. Most of the planning has to be done away from Russia. Even the books are published outside the border and then passed from one to another.

"Well, at the end of six weeks I just had to go back to my own country to help the Liberalist party. I could not stay away. I went to Kiev, to Moscow, to St. Petersburg."

"Then when I was almost captured, I slipped away from St. Petersburg, to Finland. That was good. My passport was a help to me. At that time the revolutionist party was very hopeful in Russia. Maybe you know. It looked as if it could help us all. I returned from Finland so happy."

Arrested a Second Time

"I wasn't happy long. Soon I was arrested. This time the sentence was prison for life at hard labor. I went as a 'political.' There are two kinds of prisoners, 'political,' and those 'non-political,' the thieves and murderers. In the last town where I was, Zubikalai, there were five prisons and probably two thousand people. In one prison were three hundred men. Then there were four hundred and fifty women 'non-political.' The men and women were treated alike. They got the same food and all wore gray and white. After a while I got sick with appendicitus. I was sent to Irkutsk for an operation.

"I don't know how I lived. Bad as the Russian prisoners are, the Siberian prisons are worse; they are so far away. No matter what happens, it is no use there to petition the civil authorities. The Siberian warden intercepts the prisoner's petition and he is the man complained of. See what happens?

"In that prison which is very old, I have seen fifty women in a room no larger than this living room we are now sitting in. Here they lived, did their washing, slept—everything. Twenty minutes each day they can go out in the yard. To be sure, they can read a little—philosophy. Stories and history and sociology are forbidden. Of course it is very hard to keep clean where it is so crowded. The bedding, too, is scant and it is cold, cold, very cold! It can never be dark in the room. An oil lamp burns all night. Always a guard is looking in. In daytime the cells are dim, for the little windows are away up high."

Came to Canada

From that hospital she escaped in some mysterious way.

"I stayed around the town disguised as a boy for four weeks, after I escaped from the hospital," she confided. She could not state how she got away from it. "I could not get far away because of the guards."

"And at last"—she was encouraged.

"Will I ever forget that day!" she fairly sang. "This time it was summer—not so cold, like before. It was a long, slow ride again. This time I went into Manchuria and from there to Japan, then to China, where I stayed three months waiting for money. Then I went to Italy, where I spent three more months. From there I went to friends in Paris and on to London. In London Felix Volkovsky was like a father to me. You know of him—the friend of George Kennan, whom I've also seen. While I was there six months ago I first heard of Jane Addams, so I felt I must see her. I came to Canada.

"I want to stay in America and write and talk. I'm going to write a book. I want your people to know. There must be many here like Miss Addams."

Marie Sucloff stood framed in the doorway, a peculiarly appealing figure, as her caller departed.

Suddenly from a nearby building a simple looking, unkempt old man hobbled across the street. He paused on the opposite sidewalk and looked back as if casually and aimlessly. Marie Suclioff gave a frightened look and closed her door softly.

For, who can tell, this might be one of the bloodhounds of the Czar.

Miss Sucloff is a sister of Mr. Norman Sucloff, who conducts a clothing store at 293 George St.

QUEBEC LEGISLATORS FIND ACCUSATIONS ARE PROVEN

Graft Enquiry Ends With Presentation of Report of Committees of Council and Legislative Assembly.

QUEBEC, Feb. 13.—The committees of both the Legislative Assembly and the Legislative Council, in their reports, tabled in their respective Houses last night, find that the accusations of bribery made by The Montreal Daily Mail, on Jan. 21 last, against J. Octave Mousseau, former member of the Assembly, and Achille Bergevin and L. P. Berard, former members of the Legislative Council, have been fully proved.

The evidence says the report of the lower House proves that Mr. Mousseau received from the American detectives, Biddinger and Maloney, the sum of $4,150, in connection with the bill to incorporate the Montreal Fair Association of Canada. "The accusation made against Hon. Achille Bergevin and Hon. Louis Phillippe Berard have been justified by the evidence," says the report of the special investigating committee of the Legislative Council.

Both reports refrained from comment generally. The report of the committee of the lower House, a much lengthier document than that presented to the upper House, however, states that they failed to find that the bill in question, as passed by the Legislature, contained "provisions which are extraordinary or prejudicial to the public interest. As regards the three officials of the Government, whose names came out during the course of the enquiry, the committee of the lower House states that no "proof whatever has been made against them." These three officials were not accused by The Daily Mail in any way,

The report of the lower House committee was not unanimous. One clause of it stated that Armand Lavergne, one of the members of the committee, wished to compel Mr. Beck to disclose "the names of any advocates who may have told him that they in their safes held receipts from certain members of the Legislature showing payments to them for services rendered in promoting the passage of bills, and that although such payments appeared to be for professional services, they were none the less acts of bribery."

There was no debate on either report in the assembly or in the council. The latter body, on motion of Hon. Mr. Chapais, accepted the report without comment. The assembly decided to wait until their report was printed, together with the printed evidence, and then discuss the matter fully. It is expected that the debate will take place to-day.

INQUEST INTO FATAL ACCIDENT ON RAILWAY

No Blame Attached to G.T.R. for Death of John Dickson.

How John S. Dickson, of Campbellford, reached the spot at Franck street crossing on the G.T.R. where his mangled remains were found on Friday morning last, will likely ever remain a mystery. Why he was not seen in the clear moonlight night on the track is another mystery for engineer Mikel of the 12.25 midnight from the west who says he saw nothing on the rails and that he was keeping a sharp lookout.

The jury empanelled by Coroner Boyce concluded its labors last evening. Evidence was given by conductor G. Adam, of the Peterborough train, who saw Dickson with his brother and another man, safely arrived in Belleville from Hastings. Ridley Cole, undertaker, who saw no money with the remains; John B. Archibald, undertaker, who found a five dollar bill, a one dollar bill and five cents in the trowser pocket.

Edgar Smith, at the baggage office saw Dickson with two men at the depot at 4.30. One, the brother, went west for Port Huron on the 4.47 for which he had a ticket. This man had asked the third to take his brother John, back to Campbellford. At various times Mr. Smith saw Dickson, the last being at nine o'clock, when he was capable of looking after himself. He still talked of going to Paris on the train at 2 a.m. Friday. The last Mr. Smith saw of him was when he went into the gents' waiting room.

Mr. J. L. Tickell produced the money found on the body, and various other articles.

Alfred Docter said that at ten o'clock John S. Dickson was at Docter's Hotel. He did not want a room, he said be was going to Paris. Although Dickson had a drink or two, he was sober. At the hotel Dickson did not display and quantity of money. He left a few minutes after 11 saying he was going to the depot.

Leo Murray in company with a boy named Eugene Doyle were walking up the track shortly before 12 midnight on Thursday and in the clear moonlight met a man wearing a black hat and fur-lined coat walking west between the rails of the eastbound track. They passed him about 200 feet east of the Cannifton Road crossing. The boy Murray told the man to watch out, there might be a train coming, and the stranger replied "no danger." This man was staggering.

Engineer Mikel of the passenger No. 18, said he could see for a mile or more on a straight track that night. But he saw no man. An engine of 100 tons would not show any jar. When he arrived at the station, at the ashpit, he saw blood and so forth on the foot board of the left side of the pilot. But not seeing any clothing he did not think he had struck a human being.

There was nothing to prevent his seeing and he could not account for the fatality. He felt he had done his duty. He had whistled at the first overhead bridge. The train arrived at the station at 12.30 a.m.

Evidence was given by others among them Wm. Craig, who related how the engineer had told him of having hit something and how he had himself seen marks on the engine.

The jury brought in a verdict that John S. Dickson had come to his death on Feb. 6th, 1914, by being struck by an eastbound G.T.R. train, probably No. 18, near the Franck street crossing. "In our opinion no blame can be attached to any Grand Trunk Railway employee."

FRIDAY THE 13th

Unlucky Day for Firemen and Citizens.

Friday, the thirteenth, was rather unlucky. This morning at 10.58 the firemen received a call to a chimney fire at the residence of Mr. A. O'Brien, 460 Driscoll Terrace. There was no damage.

Before the horses were turned around at this fire a call came in from 345 Rubidge St., the residence of Mrs. M. Young. This however, proved to be another chimney fire.

The firemen responded to a telephone call this afternoon.

PAY DAY ON THE C.P.R.--BACK PAY

The Company pays out over $6,000,000 in cheques, distributed over the system.

By actual count the cheques reach a total of 120,000, and this number with the growth of the system and the consequent need of more men, ever grows.

"We do everything in our power to accommodate the employees," says Mr. H. E. Suckling, the treasurer of the C.P.R. There is a great deal of time and work associated with the monthly pay day; and if we had to have it twice a month, as is the case in certain of the States—well, it would mean a lot more trouble, a doubled staff, and considerable more expense. We have to do it in Vermont and Maine, which we pass through and which have the bi-monthly payments, and I can tell you it is work. In several of the States it is the same; but wherever it is found it is because State legislators pander to the so-called labor vote. Our peopde have not sought for short term payments; and in fact, seeing that they know for a certainty that on a certain date, without fail, they will get their money, they are perfectly satisfied to have it once a month. Think of a job of sending out twice a month 120,000 cheques. There was some talk at Ottawa some years ago of initiating bi-monthly payments; but the matter was not pursued.

"The single monthly payment works well; it is a certain fixed date which does not vary; there is a fixedness which gives security; and it suits all the people with whom they deal. Branch banks will be found all over the system, close to the place of work and payment, so that there is no trouble in getting the cheques cashed anywhere."

The wages list is constantly increasing on the C.P.R.

A decade ago the total number of employees was something like 65,000. To-day it is over 120,000 in all grades of activity. It might be said that over 500,000 persons are directly interested in, and look forward to, the monthly pay day, while, if we consider the allied interests, the indirect relations sustained one way or another, the commercial and industrial affiliations of the company outside the regular list of employees, we get over 1,000,000 people more or less directly concerned in the issuance, once a month, of those seemingly innumerable bits of paper which are so eagerly transmuted into bread and butter. If, however, we get beyond all those who are more or less directly interested in one company, and reach out to the various activities which depend on the company—each industrial organism with its own army of employees; if we consider every allied or affected interest, we find that the entire population is, remotely, it may be, but, nevertheless, certainly affected in their lives and outlook by the operations of the C.P.R., and with measurable closeness, concerned for the pay envelope.

RUMOR SAYS BRITISH EXPENDITURE WILL EXCEED $200,000,000

Daily Chronicle Forecasts Enormous Figure For Coming Budget---Earl Crewe, in Address, Gives Unqualified Support to Churchill's Policy.

LONDON, Feb. 13. — The Parliamentary correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, who is usually well informed on these matters, understands that the navy estimates for the next financial years will exceed $250,000,000 over and above the $15,000,000 of last year's supplementary estimates.

The Earl of Crewe, who has hitherto been somewhat of a dark horse on the question of the increase of armaments, spoke last night before the members of the Eighty Club and gave unqualified support to Mr. Winston Churchill's case. He entirely agreed with the view that the whole business of armaments was approaching a scandal, and no one should be surprised at the reaction felt in the Liberal ranks against this immense burden. "I can assure you," Lord Crewe continued, "that the Government are very conscious of the gravity of the position. We do not underrate the gravity of the occasion, nor are we surprised at the evidence of doubt which have been expressed in various quarters of the Liberal party.

"The First Lord of the Admiralty takes keen pride in the splendid service over which he presides. He also has regard for the efficiency of that service, but it is really altogether unjust to Churchill to say or to hint that he regards the increased naval expenditures with a light heart or anything approaching satisfaction. Altogether to the contrary, I can certainly assure you that when we present our defence estimates we shall do so with anything but a light heart. I hope we shall be able to show the House and the country that we are doing it with an unburdened conscience."

WILL KEEP PROMISES.

Premier's Pledges To Farmers' Bank Victims Will Be Fulfilled.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—In the House yesterday, A. K. Maclean of Halifax asked Hon. George H. Perley, who was putting through some estimates for the Finance Department, whether it was the intention of the Government to bring in a bill for the relief of the depositors of the Farmers' Bank.

Mr. Perley said that any pledge given by the Prime Minister would be implemented by the Government. The matter was in charge of Mr. White, but he did not think that the bill had been drafted.

Mr., Lanctot (La Prairie, P.Q.), speaking in French, asked for similar consideration for the depositors of La Banque De St. Jean, and Mr. Sinclair (Guysboro) suggested some general legislation which would apply to all banks in which depositors had suffered loss.

The House passed the day in committee of supply on routine estimates.

Hon. Mr. Foster Has Accident.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—Hon. Geo. E. Foster met with a very painful accident on his way home from the House of Commons in the early hours of Wednesday morning. He was boarding a street car and the conductor, who did not notice that any one was at the door, shut it smartly upon Mr. Foster's fingers. Finding that the door did not shut closely, the conductor made the most vigorous efforts to shut it, and Mr. Foster was unable to withdraw his fingers. When he was finally released it was found that four of the Minister's fingers had been badly crushed, one of them in particular is cruelly smashed. It will be some little time before Mr. Foster will be able to be in the House.

TRAIN BLOWN UP.

Mexican Rebels Destroy Passenger Train Near Cardenas.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13.—The rebels yesterday again cut off the oil supply from Tampico over the railroad into San Luis Potosi, this time emphasizing their work by the total destruction of a passenger train, wiping out the military escort and killing and wounding many passengers.

At Las Canoas, 25 miles south of Cardenas, dynamite mines were exploded beneath a passenger train from Tampico. A battle between the federal escort of fifty and the rebels ensued, in which all the federals were killed.

Most of the passengers, who were in the rear cars, fled to the brush and some of them succeeded in reaching nearby stations.

The train was destroyed by fire, after which the rebels tore up almost a mile of track. A military train has been despatched from Cardenas to the scene.

May Press Huerta Harder.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. — A visit to the State Department yesterday by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, who is known to be disposed to close an harmonious action by the United States and Great Britain in regard to Mexico, gave rise to a report that greater pressure would be brought to bear upon Gen. Huerta soon in an effort to shake his determination to remain at the head of affairs in the Mexican capital. Officials did not discuss the report.

Thomas B. Hohler, secretary of the British legation at Mexico City, who will leave for his post shortly after spending several days in Washington, has had impressed upon him the inflexible purpose of the American administration to withhold recognition from Huerta.

Montreal Has Another Break.

MONTREAL, Feb. 13. — Cracks along the entire length of the concrete intake pipe, upon which more than half the City of Montreal depends for its water supply, are producing a leakage at the rate of from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 gallons a day. While the frosts last there may be no great danger, but it is feared that with a prolonged thaw a recurrence of the Christmas Day breakage will come and the whole supply again shut down.

And to think we thought the climate had changed.

WILL ON HIS PHOTOGRAPH

And That Destroyed But Court Accepts Statement of Witnesses.

MONTREAL, Feb. 13.—The registration of the will of the late Maurice Redpath was admitted yesterday morning at the court house, although the will had been written on the back of a photograph, which had subsequently been destroyed. The document was admitted on the strength of affidavits supplied by J. H. Redpath, brother of the deceased, and Mrs. J. H. Redpath, his sister-in-law, who swore to having seen and read the will before the destruction of the photo.

The wording of the will, as sworn in the affidavit produced, was: "I leave everything to Puss (Marjory Smith) over and above what is left after paying my debts.

(Signed) "Maurice E. Redpath."

The will was dated Nov. 30, 1913, and the death of young Redpath occurred Jan. 13, 1914, the photograph being afterwards destroyed by the young lady to whom the estate was left, and whose picture it was. The young man, who was 23 years of age, died after four hours' illness, after watching a fire on a cold day.

OFFERS APERTURE SIGHT.

Wealthy Canadian Would Give All Bisley Competitors Equal Chance.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes is still busy exchanging cablegrams with the British War Office with a view to reaching some amicable compromise in regard to the Bisley embroglio. It is understood that the colonel is making considerable headway in bringing the War Office round to his way of thinking

One unique suggestion has been made. A wealthy Canadian has offered to bear the expense of equipping all the British rifles used at the Bisley meet with aperature sights similar to those on the Ross rifle. Thus all competitors would be on an equal footing, so far as the aperture sight is concerned. This is in addition to the offer recently made by Col Hughes to supply Ross rifles to all competitors at Bisley.

Tampico Water Supply Cut Off.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 13.—Mexican rebels have cut off the water supply of the City of Tampico and have stopped the light of the Alttamira lighthouse in order to compel the Federals to come out of Tampico and engage them in battle, according to a despatch received yesterday by The Light from Col. Alberto Fuentes, chief of staff for Gen. Pablo Gonzales, the rebel commander.

Col. Fuentes added Gen. Villareal has taken possession of the government of the State of Tamaulipas, and was acclaimed by the people. The message came from Aldmas, fifty miles northwest of Tampico.

Swedish Conservatives Will Now Try.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 13. — The refusal of the Liberals to accept office has compelled Baron de Geer to withdraw from the task of attempting to form a Cabinet. The King last night invited the Conservatives to take control, and it is expected that M. S. A. A. Lindman, former Premier and Minister of Marine, will assume the Premiership. Dissolution of the Riksdag will follow immediately.

Dropped In Parachute.

JUVISY, France, Feb. 13.—Jean Ors, a young French engineer, had so much confidence in the safety of a parachute of his own invention that he ascended here yesterday in an aeroplane piloted by Alfred Lemone, and on reaching a height of 600 feet launched himself and his apparatus overboard. The parachute worked perfectly and Ors descended gently to earth in thirty-nine seconds.

SECRETARY ARRESTED.

Temperance Worker Arraigned on Charge In Welland Fight.

WELLAND, Feb. 13. — Opponents of the Canada temperance act yesterday caused the arrest of Andrew E. Murdoch, secretary of the County Temperance and Moral Reform League, and the issuing of a writ in a slander action against a temperance scrutineer who was on duty at the polls on the day of voting.

The news of Mr. Murdoch's arrest spread rapidly, and when he came up for a preliminary hearing before Margistrate Burgar at noon yesterday the courtroom was crowded. The warrant on which he was arrested was sworn out by George R. Boyd, ex-town clerk.

He was charged with willfully and falsely making an affidavit, knowing it to be false at the time, with the intention of misleading the judge in the application for a scrutiny in connection with the election. The alleged false statements were made in connection with the ballot box of Deputy Returning Officer Coulthurst of Ward Two, Bridgeburg, who is charged with forgery and the issuing of forged documents.

"Someone had to make such an affidavit to get the matter of the alleged corruption before the courts," said Mr. Gross, who is defending Mr. Murdoch, and who drew up the affidavit on which the charge is based. "If anyone is to blame I am the man; go ahead and put me in jail. The assertions may be wrong, probably are."

Complying with the request of the prosecution, the case was adjourned until four o'clock next Monday afternoon and the prisoner released under $2,000 bail, furnished by two sureties, O. P. Garner and F. N. McConnell.

The slander action is brought against William Christian, scrutineer at Bridgeburg, and a local preacher. Plaintiff is Mrs. Annie Pearl, wife of the proprietor of the Amigari Hotel. Christian is alleged to have used disparaging remarks concerning her from the pulpit.

Prince of Wales To Tour.

LONDON, Feb. 13. — Preliminary plans have been drafted for the tour of the British Empire to be made by the Prince of Wales in 1915, and which is to include a visit to the United States on the return journey. It is said in official circles to be possible that Prince Albert, the second son of King George, may accompany the Prince of Wales.

As at present arranged the prince will go first to Australia and New Zealand, returning to England by way of Canada and the United States.

SETTING THE TABLE.

It Was Akin to a Religious Ceremony In Queen Bess' Court.

The setting out of the dinner of Queen Elizabeth was a ceremonious function.

First came a gentleman with a rod, followed by a gentleman carrying a tablecloth, which, after they had knelt reverently three times, was spread upon the table. Then came two others, one with a rod, the other with a saltcellar, a plate and bread. They knelt three times, placed the things on the table, knelt again and retired. Next came a lady in waiting, followed by a second. The first lady, dressed in white, after kneeling three times, approached the table and solemnly rubbed the plates with the salt.

Then entered twenty-four yeomen of the guard clad in scarlet and each carrying a dish of gold. These dishes were placed upon the table, while the lady taster gave to each of the guards a taste from the dish he had brought in for fear of possible poison. These guards were selected from the tallest and stoutest men in all England.

At the close of this ceremony a number of unmarried ladies appeared and with great solemnity lifted the various dishes and carried them to the queen in her private apartments. The queen dined and supped alone, with few attendants, and it was seldom that any one was admitted at this time, and then only at the intercession of some one in power.

BUILDING ON THE N.T.R. A LONG SERIES OF EXTRAVAGANCE

Gutelius-Staunton Report Reveals An Orgy of Unnecessary Work, Over-Classification and Rake-Offs for Contractors.

OTTAWA, Feb. 13.—The report of F. P. Gutelius and J. Lynch-Staunton, the two commissioners appointed to investigate the transcontinental railway, was placed on the table of the Commons yesterday. The commission was appointed on Jan. 12, 1912, and an inspection of all the work done prior to October, 1911, between Moncton and Winnipeg was made by the two commissioners. The evidence of engineers and officials who had charge of or were familiar with their particular parts of the line was taken on the ground or immediately after the inspection.

The summary of the commissioners is as follows:—

"We find that the Transcontinental Railway Commission, the Grand Trunk Railway and those having charge of the construction of the railway did not consider it desirable or necessary to practice or encourage economy in the construction of this road.

"We find that, without including the money which was unnecessarily expended in building the railway east of the St. Lawrence river, forty million dollars at least was needlessly expended in the building of the road."

Dealing with the inspection of the work, the commissioners state that the Government made an agreement with the representatives of the proposed Grand Trunk Pacific Railway whereby the Government was to construct a single line of railway from Moncton, N.B., to Winnipeg, to be known as the eastern division of the National Transcontinental Railway. After its construction there it was to be leased to the G.T.P., which was to operate and maintain it for a period of fifty years.

The report goes on to say that Hon. Mr. Fielding advised the House that the cost of such a railway from Quebec to Winnipeg, 1,344 miles, would be $35,000 per mile, or $47,040,000, and from Moncton to Quebec, 460 miles, at $31,250 per mile, or $14,375,000, a total of $61,415,000.

Contracts were let for most of the road, and on Sept. 30, 1911, says the report, there had already been spent $109,000,000, and Gordon Grant, the chief engineer, estimated that the road would cost, exclusive of interest, $161,300,000.

If the road is completed at this cost by the end of 1914, the G.T.P. will commence to pay rent at the beginning of 1922 on this amount, with $18,700,000 added, making an annual rental of $5,400,000, or $14,800 a day. Assuming that the G.T.P. will commence to pay interest on the cost of construction in 1922, the commissioners declare that the road will have cost the country for principal and interest $234,651,521.

The report alleges that eleven firms secured all the work and sub-let it to upwards of 100 sub-contractors. These eleven firms, it is charged, were paid $8,800,000 in profits for that part of the work which they sub-let.

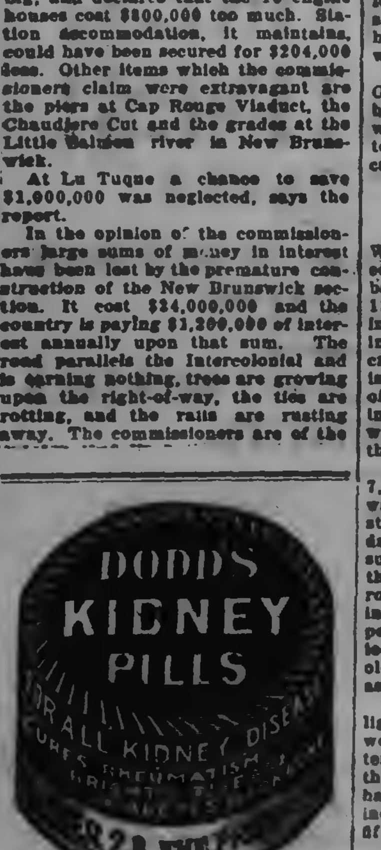
The report then proceeds to go into the over-classification charges. It says that $3,300,000 too much was paid under this heading. A new sub-classification called "assembled-rock" was introduced after the contracts were signed and $1,335,051 paid out to contractors under this heading. The report declares that there was no such class of work on the road. It also maintains that plowable clay in new Ontario, which should have been classified as common excavation, was graded as loose rock and $750,000 extra paid out to contractors. Overbreak cost $677,866, and the commissioners believe that if momentum charges had been adopted $6,200,000 would have been saved. They say that sharper curves would have saved $2,400,000; wooden trestles instead of steel, $2,047,237; and train filling after the road was opened, $2,250,000.

The report criticizes the cost of the Transcona shops at Winnipeg, which cost $4,500,000, as being twice too big, and declares that the 16 engine houses cost $800,000 too much. Station accommodation, it maintains, could have been secured for $204,000 less. Other items which the commissioners claim were extravagant are the piers at Cap Rouge Viaduct, the Chaudiere Cut and the grades at the Little Salmon river in New Brunswick.

At La Tuque a chance to save $1,000,000 was neglected, says the report.

In the opinion of the commissioners large sums of money in interest have been lost by the premature construction of the New Brunswick section. It cost $34,000,000 and the country is paying $1,200,000 of interest annually upon that sum. The road parallels the Intercolonial and is earning nothing, trees are growing upon the right-of-way, the ties are rotting, and the rails are rusting away. The commissioners are of the opinion that its building was not a commercial necessity, and that it was built for the purpose of placating the supporters of the Government east of Quebec.

M. P. and J. T. Davies of Ottawa are alleged to have secured three-quarters of a million dollars rake-off on two contracts. They agreed to finish No. 16 by Dec. 31, 1910, and No. 17 by March, 1911. Very high prices were agreed to be paid on account of the remoteness of the work, to the north of Lake Nepigon. In September, 1909, not a stroke of work had been done on either contract, and at that time the work had become easy of access. C. M. Hays, of the G. T. P., according to the report of the commissioners, drew Sir Wilfrid Laurier's attention to the fact that the time had nearly expired for doing this work, none of it had been done, and that a high price had been agreed upon because of its remoteness from civilization, therefore, because the work was easily getatable, the Government should cancel the contracts and advertise them again under the new conditions. The Prime Minister took no action and the commission refused to cancel the contracts. The commission actually agreed to an assignment of the contract to O'Brien, O'Gorman and McDougal, whereby Davis & Co. should receive ten per cent. of the gross cost of the work, this to be deducted by the commission. The commission did so and M. P. and J. T. Davis received $740,000.



MUSTN'T MEDDLE!

British Laborites Warned to Keep Out of South African Affairs.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—"You could easily smash the British Empire in a day's debate in Parliament if you tried to interfere with the autonomy granted to its various parts," was the gist of the reply given yesterday by Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of the Colonies, to the amendment moved by the labor members in the House of Commons to the address in reply to the King's speech.

The Labor members suggested that the Government withhold its assent to the bill of Premier Louis Botha of South Africa indemnifying the South African Government for its action in deporting the labor leaders after the recent general strike there.

Without defending the action of the South African Government, Mr. Harcourt pointed out that there were only 1,250,000 whites to 5,000,000 South African natives who, when work had ceased at the mines, became hungry and dangerous. He added:

"That is the sort of volcano on which everyone was sitting in South Africa."

Mr. Harcourt declined to advise the King to withhold his sanction from the bill if it passed, and he declared that such advice would be entirely unjustifiable. He urged the speakers during the debate to be very careful of the sensitiveness of the self-governing dominions and to refrain from saying a word of derogation of an autonomous Government.

The Laborite amendment was defeated 315 to 50.

BAD FIRE IN PORT HURON.

City Opera House Block and Stores Are Completely Wiped Out.

SARNIA, Feb. 13.—Thrilling escapes from death, heroic rescues by firemen and patrolmen, and the complete destruction of the City Opera House block and the business enterprises of David MacTaggart, and the R. S. & J. D. Patterson Co., features one of the most spectacular fires that have swept through the business section of Port Huron in years. To-day but a smouldering mass of ruins, with streams of water playing on the smoking and steaming debris, remains of what was Wednesday one of the busiest sections of activity in the city. In addition to the main losses, the offices of several professional men and business concerns have been wiped out, and the damage will be over $100,000.

The first and second floors of the Opera House Block were occupied by private families, and these people were rescued by the firemen only after a heroic struggle. Several were carried down the ladders unconscious.

Incubators In Egypt.

The announcement is made by Mr. W. H. Cadman that he has discovered how the ancient Egyptians incubated chickens to the number of 120,000,000 a year. He has found incubators which he states were used in Egypt 5,000 years ago. The secret had been well guarded, but it is laid bare at last. They had no oil stoves or gas or electric heated incubators, but they had ovens which worked much better, even though they required more constant tending.

Each oven was calculated to hold 7,000 eggs, and the fuel by which it was heated consisted of chopped straw and dung, but for the last ten days of the hatching the energy was supplied altogether by the chickens themselves. It is the commonest error of those operating our modern incubators to use too much heat, especially towards the end of the period, and now we may learn from the old Egyptians how not to do things as well as how to do them.

The use of the straw and other light fuel shows that the Egyptians were most careful to avoid too intense heat at any stage. We thought that we were the first in the world to hatch chickens and other poultry in incubators, but we are only about fifty centuries behind the times.

CHOOSING THE EASIEST WAY.

The Mail Man Who Risked His Life Rather Than Write a Letter.

"THERE is a conviction through the country," says a postoffice department official, "that the departmental business at Washington is more or less hampered by red tape. This conviction is held by many minor employees of the government in out of the way places, as is evidenced by a story that came to me from New England.

"It appears that there was a postman whose duty it was to deliver mail to the few scattered houses on an island off the Atlantic coast. One day during a heavy storm this carrier was seen rowing his boat over. So severe was the storm that several times it seemed that the man would certainly be swamped. Finally, however, he succeeded in reaching his destination.

"'What the deuce made you run such risks?' demanded a friend when the postman eventually grounded on the beach.

"'It's this way,' was the reply. 'If I miss a trip it is necessary to write an awfully long report to Washington explaining why. So I thought I'd rather row over.'"—New York Times.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Six hold-up men entered a lower east side restaurant yesterday and with drawn revolvers backed five men and a woman patron up against the wall and robbed them of $2,000 in money, besides jewelry.

One of the victims who remonstrated was seriously stabbed, and his wife, who ventured to scream, was felled with a blow.

Three Italians, identified as being in the robber party, were subsequently arrested by the police and part of the stolen property was recovered.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—Prof. Henri Louis Bergson was yesterday elected one of the 40 "immortals," or members of the French Academy, in succession to the late Emile Ollivier, who died on Aug. 20, 1913.

Dug Through Wall to Lover.

CALGARY, Alta., Feb. 13.—A sixteen-year-old girl, ward of the Children's Aid Society, dug her way through a two-foot brick and plaster wall and into the arms of her sweetheart, when a guard of the institution discovered them and placed her and the young man, with whom she was planning to elope, under arrest.

Resigns After Forty Years.

GALT, Feb. 13.—David Spiers, 40 years a member of Galt Collegiate Institute and twenty years chairman of the board, has resigned. Dr. Wardlaw succeeds him.

ORIGIN OF PERFUMES.

Used at First to Kill the Odors of Burning Flesh.

In the good old times the use of perfumes was originated to counteract the offensive odors arising from burning flesh which was being offered as a sacrifice. For this reason incense was always burned in the temples, and from that burning comes the literal significance of the word incense, which means "through the smoke."

Arabia has always been the land of perfume, the "scents of Araby" being classic. Lady Macbeth refers to "all the perfumes of Arabia" in her sleep walking agony when she fancies she cannot wash the smell of Duncan's blood from her hand.

While Arabia has most of the fame, it is undoubtedly a fact that to Egypt belongs most of the credit, for the art of perfuming was practiced there to its fullest extent. Even the embalmed dead were saturated with spices and scents which have retained their delightful aroma after thousands of years. It was from old Egypt that the Greeks and Romans learned the use of the still for extracting perfumes from plants and flowers. To this Roman love for perfumes no doubt as much as to her own habits was due the fact that Cleopatra's barge was so overwhelmingly scented. Shakespeare describes it with:

Purple the sails and so perfumed that
The winds were lovesick with them.

—Philadelphia Record.

Consolation.

A victim to hysterical grief over the death of her husband after forty years of an exceptionally happy wedded life grandma sat in her rocking chair moaning and weeping.

Little Robert (escaping from the usual watchful care of his nurse, "Aunt Mandy Sanderson," negress of 300 pounds or more, black as anything human could be, and a complete antithesis to the refined, gracious and delicate grandma of sixty, whose grief her grandson would try to assuage)—"Please don't cry so, grandma," he pleaded, as he passed his little hand over her gray locks and with boundless sympathy in his tones. "I'm sure you can get another husband very soon. Why, even Aunt Mandy Sanderson had seven of them!"—New York Sun.

Took It Like a Philosopher.

One day Mrs. Jones rushed into the library to her husband with hasty steps and a wild look of excitement.

"Oh, John, oh, John!" she exclaimed, with a lot of emotional thrills. "Norah made a mistake and tried to light the kitchen fire with gasoline!"

"Gasoline, eh?" calmly responded John. "Did she get it started?"

"Did she get it started?" cried the amazed Mrs. Jones. "It blew her out the kitchen window!"

"That's all right, my dear," returned the philosophical Jones. "It was her afternoon out, anyway."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

"Yes, they do occasionally."

'TWILL BE BATTLE OF WITS AND SPEED TO-NGHT

A Grand Sheet of Ice for Game With Orillia

The big game tonight between the locals and Orillia promises to be the greatest hockey attraction staged here in years. With a four goal lead to overcome, every man on the Peterboro outfit will work like demons and with their chances of staying in the running at stake, the boys from the north can be depended upon to come back strong.

The four goals have put fear and anxiety into the hearts of the local fans but J. J. McGraw's policy is the best dope "Never give up till the last bat's in the bag." London went to Sarnia and were defeated 7—0, yet when the team from "tunnel town" played the Cockneys, on the latter's ice the score stood London 7, Sarnia 1. Just lacked one goal of tieing it up. With this fresh in memory, who would predict anything but a win tonight, and that by more than four goals.

The Orillia Team

The Orillia team are weak on left wing, and speaking over the phone last night, they could not state just how their forwards would line up. As their Juniors played last night, it is very probable that some of them will be on the team. McNebb played one game and another would bar him from the juniors, therefore it is said that Butterfield will rove and Carter, their rover, will play a wing. Butterfield is fast and a good player, but is inclined to be uninterested, and never works unless his team is behind. It's safe betting he will be working tonight.

There is an excursion accompanying the team which will leave at 5.15, and should arrive here about 7.30. Secretary Bond has reserved a number of tickets for the visitors, but there are a few more reserved seats along the west side that are not taken up. These may be obtained at the Warne Drug Store. The seats reserved for the 'Rillians are the last two rows of the reserved section on the west side and 150 rush seats.

The locals will line up the same as they did against Orillia Tuesday. Maurice Park is better and can be expected to rush Ross to the limit. The rest of the team will be working hard and as "Skid" Janes said this morning: "We're going to play sixty minutes tonight instead of fifteen, as we played in Orillia."

The two teams will line up as follows:

Peterboro		Orillia
Janes	goal	Corbould
Denison	right defence	Perryman
Bond	left defence	Harvie
Halpin	rover	Carter or Butterfield
Park	centre	Ross
Bradshaw	right wing	Jupp
Kelly	left wing	Carter or Butterfield

"Chad" Toms of Toronto, will referee.

BOBCAYGEON RINKS SIX UP IN SHIELD GAMES

The first round of the competition between Peterborough and Bobcaygeon for the Fitzgerald-Bottum shield was played here last night. It resulted in a defeat for the locals, the team from the northern village being 6 shots up. The following were the scores:

Peterborough.	Bobcaygeon.

C. G. Seymour	R. A. Kennedy
J. W. McDermid	W. Boyd
F. M. Dela Fosse	G. E. Bottum

The date of the games in the Bobcaygeon round is not known yet.

All members of the local rinks are reminded that the deferred inter-rink games must be played before to-morrow night.

BASEBALL

A meeting of the Canadian league schedule committee will be held within a few days. The International League schedule will be published shortly, and the Canadian league schedule makers will get busy right after the publication of the International dates by President Barrow. At the present time Hamilton has no representative on the scheule committee, but an effort will be made to have this rectified. It is the opinion here that local conditions are such that this city should have an important say in the making of the schedule this year.

Hamilton Herald—The following record made by Davey Rowan, the most likely applicant for the position of manager of the Hamilton Canadian League Club, it is proof positive that he possesses the "goods."

Manager Peoria club in the Three-Eye league in 1910. Finished third.

Peoria was a second division club the year previus.

Sold $7,100 worth of players off club and filled their places without spending one cent.

Won the pennant with the Peoria club in 1911.

Next with St. Louis (A.L.) club in 1911, after Peoria had a safe lead for the championship.

Suffered broken wrist and went to Toronto International League club. Hit .303 with Toronto and .385 with St. Louis.

Succeeded Old Forks Templin as manager of the Peterborough Club of the Canadian League during the last half of the 1912 season.

Won more games with the tail-end Petes than any other club during the last five weeks of the race.

Took Peterborough club again in 1913, just one week before the season opened with only four players around which to build up a team.

Did not spend any money for players and finished in the first division just one-half game behind St Thomas. Peterborough finished last the year before.

Ottawa Free Press—Two Canadian League clubs are working on the trail of Infielder Whitcroft of the Norfolk Virginia League club. One is Ottawa and the other London. Whitcroft is a pretty fast man and is expected to advance the next two years. London offered Third Baseman Meyers for him, while Ottawa will give the pick of Smejkal or Robertson.

It is probable the Senators will purchase Pitcher Strain from the Richmond Virginia League club. Strain won eighteen and lost nine games last season. He has size and speed, and Shag seems to be pretty anxious to land him.

Word was recevide this morning from Joe Lill, who is wintering in St. Louis. Joe says he is willing to report for spring practice and try out again. He believes he has recovered his "aim," which last year was very weird.

CURLERS AT KEENE.

Two rinks of local curlers are playing a friendly match in Keene to-day The rinks are:—A. Davidson, H. Taylor, A. Webb and A. Moore, skip. L. Dobbin,———— F. Hughes, R.

WIN FOR TEST WILL GIVE TEAM CHAMPIONSHIP

A Loss to Toolroom Will Tie Three Teams.

The big game in the Mercantile Hockey League will take place next Monday night when the Test and the Tool Room clash to play off their tie game. If the Tool Room win, the Test, Bankers and Tool Room will be tied for the honors while if the Test win they take the championship. The game should be fast and furious. The Tool Room have been practising hard and although Kennealley, whom they intended to have on, will not play they are going to trot out a fast team every member of which will be in perfect condition. The Test have put up a good brand pended upon to give the Tool Makers a hard go.

Before the big game is played a team picked by Peter Spratt of the De Laval will play the Bankers. Thousands of dollars of conservation money has been waged on the game which aids in arousing interest.

The season being over, or at least the schedule games, the season tickets will not grant admission. Everyone will be required to deposit 15 cents to see the game. Both teams have agreed upon Mr. Len Dobson as referee.

RINKS RETURN FROM OSHAWA

The rinks of W. G. Morrow and R. Hicks returned to the city today from the Oshawa 'spile, after being defeated twice. The first round was for the Eaton trophy and the second the consolation, for the Oshawa House trophy. The rinks of R. Waddell and W. G. Ferguson were still undefeated.

Taking Advantage.

It may be that the fire horse crawled under his chain and unlocked the oat bin, helped himself and crawled back; it may be that the bird with a broken wing came and tapped on the window of a surgeon; it may be that the dog that broke the plate took the pieces out and buried the evidence.

We cannot say as to these things. They are a sample of the stories we are getting just now, but it looks to us as though some nature fakers were taking advantage of the absence of a certain gentleman to overwork their specialty before he returned and put a stop to it.

Enough.

"John, you know that Jenks baby is a handsome child. You ought to quit knocking it."

"But I was praising it."

"Praising it! You said it looked just like its father."

In the Match For Points.

The parenthesis said to the comma:
"Your luck as a short stop ne'er swerves.
I'm afraid I'm not in it much longer,
For the dash has got on to my curves."

Ought to Know.

"What is that farmer doing?"

"Making hay."

"Looks to me as though he was cutting corn."

"I asked him, and he said 'Hey?'"

In Extremis.

Late one night a clergyman was called out to minister to an old man—a worker upon the adjacent railway—who was supposed to be dying. The summons was brought by another old man, the elder brother of the stricken one. While he was bustling about, making preparations for departure, the clergyman forgot momentarily the social status of his visitor and asked, "Is he in extremis?"

The old man was not going to be beaten. "Aye, he's right in, your reverence." After a pause he added as a clincher: "Clean in, poor chap; right up to the neck, sir."

THROUGH FIRE FOR LOVE.

Showing That There Are Times When It's Better to Write Than Talk.

Prior to the epoch making moment when his love triumphed over his native bashfulness young Mr. Askam would have maintained against any odds that the hardest thing in life was to propose to the girl you worshiped. Afterward, however, he decided that the proposal was simply child's play compared to asking the consent of his father-in-law elect, although that estimable old gentleman was a great friend.

Flushed with success with the daughter, he felt filled with the spirit of a hundred conquerors and recklessly insisted upon seeing the father at once. But upon reaching the library the spirit of the hundred conquerors suddenly evaporated and left him with pale face and trembling knees and chaotic mind.

"I—er—er," he stammered insufficiently.

"Indeed!" observed the old gentleman, chuckling. "Then you're no more than human."

"Ah, ha!" gasped Mr. Askam hysterically, pretending a hilarity he was far, far from feeling.

"How is your mother?" asked the old gentleman, after an awkward pause, with the kindly intention of setting his caller at rest.

"I love her. I—I passionately adore her. She—she has promised to marry me if you consent," announced Mr. Askam in a wild burst of eloquence.

"What! Your mother?" cried the old gentleman, aghast.

"No, no," explained the thoroughly confused Mr. Askam. "Yours."

"My mother! Are you crazy?" demanded the old gentleman, excitedly.

"I shall be in a minute," moaned the wretched Mr. Askam. "Sir," he continued, the words falling slowly and cautiously from his agitated lips, "I—came—here—to ask—your—consent—to marry—me."

"Eh?" cried the old gentleman.

"I'll—I'll write it!" shouted the unhappy Mr. Askam, struck by a happy thought as he burst madly out of the room. And in that way matters were at last straightened to every one's satisfaction.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Case For Sympathy.

She was angry, and her face revealed the fact.

"What is the matter, dear?" said her husband as he entered the kitchen.

"You see that?" she replied vehemently, as she raised a mixing bowl in which she had just broken an egg "That is the second bad egg I have found today. I believe Jim Fletcher keeps all the bad ones he gets in his old store for me!"

"Well, you shouldn't get angry about it, Nellie," said her husband soberly. "You ought to have more sympathy."

"Sympathy!" she echoed. "What do you mean? Sympathy for Jim Fletcher?"

"No, for the eggs," he replied "Think how long they must have been tryin' to be good."—Lippincott's.

All is Fish to the Net.

"Catch anything while you were away on your vacation?"

"Sure I did. It weighed twenty-eight pounds. You catch anything?"

"Uh-huh. I told you I would. She weighs 130 pounds, and her dad's worth half a street railway company, an electric lighting plant and two breweries."—St. Louis Republic.

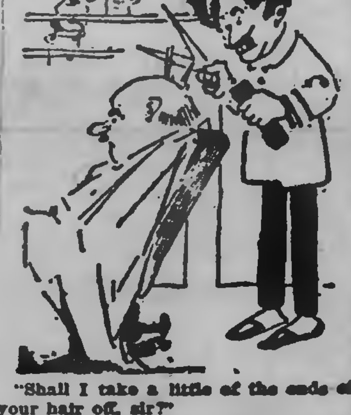
Yes—How?

"I never can believe a word that woman says."

"It's rather funny. She said the same thing about you yesterday."

"That's just like her. How can you have confidence in any one who talks about another behind her back?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

If Necessary.



"Shall I take a little of the ends of your hair off, sir?"

"Yes, unless you can get it out of the middle."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Pessimist.

"Every cloud has a silver lining."

"Sure about that?"

"It is what they say."

"Bet mine are made of tin."

A Sure System.

The landlord's is a pleasant lot.
He works with simple skill.
He guesses how much cash you've got
And then presents his bill.

Not So Surprising.

"He believes all he hears."

"He must be unsophisticated."

"No; deaf as a post."

A Hint.

"You look lonesome?"

"But don't I look as if I liked it?"

CELEBRATION OF ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF PEACE

Organizing Secretary Scrammell Outlines the Scheme.

Belleville will be one of the centres for the celebration of the 100 years of peace between the United States and Great Britain, in 1915. Mr. E. H. Scammel, who is the organizing secretary and who it is expected will visit Peterboro, gave an address in Belleville, in which he explained the schedule.

The Belleville Intelligencer reports Mr. Scammel as follows:

Mr. Scammel was pleased to be able to address the citizens of Belleville and hoped that this city would not be behind other cities in celebrating the 100 years of peace. He then proceeded to state that this movement was first broached in New York four years ago and has spread rapidly, not only in the United States, but also in England and Canada. The Canadian Peace Centenary Association was formed over a year ago in the House of Commons and since then has grown rapidly. The plan had four purposes, such as the erection of monuments, the holding of suitable services in the churches, an educational propaganda, and the holding of various festivals.

The monument idea was to place magnificent monuments in London, England, the corner stone to be laid by the King; in Washington, D.C., the corner stone to be laid by the President of the United States, and one at Ottawa, the corner stone to be laid by the Governor General of Canada. It was also proposed to erect huge archway in the vicinity of Rouse's Point, and a number of smaller monuments situated along the international border. He also stated that some monuments might be placed at places far remote from the boundaries in order that people who would never go from one country into the other, would see them, and find out what they meant.

MISS BABCOCK GAVE FINE ADDRESS

The "Call of God" was the subject taken by Miss Babcock at the revival service in the Free Methodist Church, last night.

Miss Babcock preached a very able sermon from the 27th and 28th verses of the 5th Chapter of the Gospel according to St. Luke.

"This call comes to every one," said the speaker, "sometime during their life. He called Matthew in a quiet, simple manner, apparently without telling him why he should follow Him. Many are waiting for some great supernatural, irresistible power to induce them to decide to yield themselves to the Holy Spirit's strivings. It is very important to hear the Gospel, and a fearful thing to reject the call. The danger is, he may never call again. We should do as Matthew did, who immediately responded. It means much to follow Jesus. In order to do so we must forsake all sin. Many are making a failure in the Christian life because they have not renounced all evil, they are trying to mix sin and holiness, which is as impossible as it is to mix oil and water. We must also turn to God and follow Him, and do His way. When we turn to him we turn to an infinite source and have infinite power to help us overcome temptation. Paul said: "I am not ashamed of or rather disappointed at the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation."

"We must also strive to imitate Him; He wants to teach us how to live that He may shine through us. The life of Jesus is the standard for the Christian. The easiest time to yield is when the call is first heard. The longer we postpone a difficult task, the more difficult it becomes. Many otherwise courageous men tremble at the thought of taking their stand on the side of God and right. This lack of moral courage is the cause of spiritual ruin in many cases. Matthew placed a proper estimate on eternal things. He did not prefer the things of earth, to the heavenly. Matthew decided at once and acted at once; he took a definite stand. If we do this it will be manifest to all with whom we have to do. This gives one a wonderful start toward heaven, and is a wonderful drawing power to others."

IN NEW YORK THOUSANDS OF PERSONS ARE LOST

MYSTERY OF THE MISSING.

What May Be the Fate of the Many the Police Fail to Find and Whose Dead Bodies Do Not Arrive at the Morgue Is an Unsolvable Enigma.

More than 4,500 persons are reported to the New York police every year as missing. Of these about 3,500 are residents of the city, while the remainder are visitors.

The New Yorkers who vanish from their homes are reported to the police stations in the local precincts, and those cases are handled by the precinct authorities. But the reports of missing visitors, regardless of where made originally, ultimately go to the bureau of missing persons at police headquarters.

Information from official sources shows that minors constitute approximately two-thirds of the New York residents stated to be missing annually. The remaining one-third is composed chiefly of men.

It is estimated that more than one-half of the 3,500 are located by the police, dead or alive, or return to their homes soon after disappearance, notification of the return being sent to the officials. Of the remainder it is estimated that at least one-half ultimately arrive back home in safety, but no notification of the fact is sent to the police.

This leaves about 850 persons per year who utterly vanish. What becomes of them is one of the mysteries of the metropolis. They disappear as though they were so many bubbles. Some of them doubtless kill themselves or are killed, their bodies never being discovered. Some of them, it may be set down for certain, run away from their matrimonial mates. But what the fate is of the great mass of them no man can say.

Of the large number of minors who figure each year as missing, police officials state that the big majority are youths and girls between the ages of fifteen and twenty. They are often wage earners, disgruntled with conditions at home, either because they have to give what they consider too large a proportion of their wages to the family exchequer or because they think their parents too strict with them in the matter of pleasure seeking.

Of the 1,000 residents of other places for whom the police are annually asked to look, a considerable percentage are men who have come to New York to find relaxation from the workaday grind in the gayeties of Broadway. They get into the whirl of things rather more than they intended and are lost to their friends' view for a few days. Ultimately most of these wanderers in the fields of frivolity turn up all right, with a bit of headache, perhaps, and a determination not to seek relaxation quite so persistently on the next New York visit.

Other strangers to the city get separated from their friends in the subway or on the elevated or get lost in the streets, and then the police are asked to find the missing ones. Immigrants in transit from European countries to inland points in the United States frequently wander off from the parties to which they are attached and have to be found through the medium of the police.

In the course of a year the police receive scores of letters from foreign countries inquiring about friends or relatives of the writers who were last heard from in New York. From Zanzibar and from India, from Australia and from Egypt, from Europe, from South America, come letters of inquiry.

The proportion of these nonresidents of New York never to be heard of again as estimated by the police is about the same as in the case of New York citizens. That is, something more than one-half of the 1,000 are located by the police or return to their friends, the police being so notified. About one-half of the remainder finally reach their friends all right, it is estimated, the police not being notified. This leaves approximately 250 visitors to New York who vanish yearly without anything whatever being known of their fate. With the 850 New Yorkers who absolutely disappear, there is thus a total in round figures of 1,100 persons who every twelve months are lost to sight as utterly as though they had stepped behind a magic curtain.

The bureau of unidentified dead has made a collection of the marks put on clothing by all laundries in New York. When a body is found which has no means of identification except through laundry marks the marks are compared with those on file in the bureau. If the victim's clothes prove to have been laundered in New York the laundry is visited, and from examination of its books it is usually possible to trace the identity of the dead person.

Names of tailors and of clothing manufacturers also lead to many identifications. Tattoo marks have in several instances meant identification. A majority of the unidentified dead are found in the water. Most of them are doubtless suicides. Others of the unidentified cases are due to street car accidents, suicide by gas and sudden death in the street from natural causes. Photographs are taken of all bodies and prove of much aid in making identification. In occasional instances identification from photographs has resulted even after burial in potter's field.—New York Times.

EARTH EATERS OF SIAM.

Among the Loas Dirt Is Considered a Great Delicacy.

The Loas of Siam, it is said, eat earth and enjoy it, just as the German drinks beer, the Frenchman wine and the Englishman his ale. No one knows exactly where they contracted the habit—perhaps during some time of great famine when there was nothing else to devour. At any rate, the habit is strong, and rich and poor alike indulge.

They prefer it when it is procured near waters so that it has the taste of fish. It is prepared into a pasty substance and smothered in the ground in a hot fire. It is sold in the markets and stores and is served at dinners and big functions of all kinds. Children, women and men eat it together.

Of course it is dreadfully hard on the digestion and in time produces intense pain, and death follows. But like the opium eater, the dirt eater will beg for his food even at death's door.

In some parts of the Kongo the dirt is sold in the shape of apples and oranges, and all kinds are given out—yellow dirt, brown dirt, gray earth and pinkish variety, too, which is considered a great luxury indeed.—Portland Oregonian.

A Puzzle in Figures.

Take any number of three different figures, as 471, under it place the same figures in reverse order, subtract the lesser number and you will find that the middle figure of the result is invariably 9. Why it is so is something that only the most learned mathematical scholars can explain. Here is our case worked out:

Taking any number, say	471
Reversing figures	174
Subtracting, we have	297

Further still, we can now reverse this number 297 in the same way and add the two numbers, and the result will always come 1089. Thus:

Taking	297
Reversing	792
Adding, we have	1089

Why should the answer always come out the same? Here's something for you to work over.

Two For a Quarter.

He was smoking a fine, full flavored Havana when he met his friend.

"Have a cigar?" he inquired, very politely.

"Thanks," said the other gratefully, taking and lighting the proffered weed.

After a few experimental puffs, however, the friend removed the cigar from his lips and, looking at it doubtfully, said, with a very evident abatement of gratitude in his tone:

"What do you pay for these cigars?"

"Two for a quarter," said the original proprietor of both weeds, taking his own cigar out of his mouth and looking at it with considerable satisfaction. "This one cost me 20 cents and that 5."

The conversation languished at this point.—Puck.

"Links" as Applied to Golf.

Speaking of games, how many know the origin of the word "links" as applied to the field on which golf is played? The dictionary says that "links" means stretch of sandy soil, interrupted by heather. But it comes from an old Saxon word "hlinc," which means a ledge, an embankment, a boundary. Malvern link and the links of St. Andrews were there and somebody invented a game to go with them.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mixed.

"How do you like my biscuits, hubby? I got the recipe out of a paper."

"Well, my dear, I found a button in one and a feather in another. Maybe you got the cooking recipe mixed with the fashion hints."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

KEEP WHISTLING

By Walt Mason

Keep whistling! It's better than pausing to cuss, and tearing your sweater, and raising a fuss. No woes e'er were banished by swear words and howls, no troubles e'er vanished because of your scowls; they'll hang on the longer on finding you sore, they'll thrive and grow stronger and vex you the more. Keep whistling! It's wiser than taking a club and scolding Elizer, who's late with the grub; or roasting Susannah, who's painfully prone to punch the piano when shirts should be sewn. For scolding and ranting and shedding the tear makes life less enchanting for everyone near. Keep whistling! It's saner than pawing the air; there's nothing that's vainer than tearing your hair; and folks are not eager to list while you groan of sufferings meagre compared with their own. Your friends will desert you and call you a bore, and think it a virtue to sidestep your door. Whereas if you whistle and laugh at your woes, and swear that a thistle is good as a rose, they'll say you're a honey, a bird and a peach; your life will be sunny, which now is a screech.

Birthdays Note

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY THIRTEENTH

The Hon. Phillippe Roy, who now occupies the post of agent-general for the government of Quebec, is celebrating his forty-sixth birthday to-day in the French capital. Dr. Roy has the distinction of being the youngest Canadian ever appointed to the Dominion Senate, having achieved that rank when only thirty-eight. A native of Quebec and a doctor by profession, he settled in Edmonton as a young man and there practised medicine for some years. He eventually became interested in bringing French capital into Canada and because of his success in this work was appointed agent-general of the Dominion in Paris, when the office became vacant in 1911. He had previously been called to the Senate by Earl Grey. On the change of government he resigned his position as agent-general for Canada and was at once made agent-general for Quebec.

HE POSES IN THE ALPS.

The "Dear Old Shepherd" Who Does It For a Consideration.

Nearly every adventurer upon the Alps nowadays carries a camera. It is a sign of the times. People have become obsessed with the importance of realities, and the camera is the only possible agent to enable you to show realities to your friends. It is not of much use to tell them about some strange sight or of some curious conformation of nature you may have met in your climb. You must show it to them.

A feature of the Alps today is the number of worthies who earn their bread by means of the camera. There is an old man at Grindelwald, for instance, who makes quite a comfortable competency by standing in front of his chalet when visitors laden with cameras are coming up the side of the mountain and blowing upon a tremendous horn.

"How very quaint!" exclaims the unsuspecting tourist. "The dear old shepherd is calling home the cows." The dear old shepherd, however, is a man of sound business principles. He doesn't drag his antiquated instrument about his house for the fun of the thing. Neither does he perform upon it for the benefit of his flocks and herds, for he owns none. But he will tell you frankly, when you ask him to stand "quite still," that he will very willingly pose in whatever manner you like, but you must first pay him a couple of francs for his trouble. That old man is probably the best known character in the Grisons and the hero of many local tales.—Wide World Magazine.

Will Carry Colors.

The King's colors are to be carried by such units of the Australian forces as would be permitted to hold them if they were attached to the fighting forces of the United Kingdom. The King's colors of every regiment are to be the great union in which the Cross of St. George is contrived with the crosses of St. Andrew and St. Patrick on a blue field, as modified by her Majesty Queen Victoria in 1900. The first color is to bear in the centre the territorial designation on a crimson circle with the royal or other title within the whole, surmounted by the Imperial crown.

Must Keep to Paths.

Pedestrians must not walk along the thoroughfares in Calcutta, where there are sufficiently wide footpaths provided. An order of the Commissioner of Police to this effect comes into force on the first of the year. Notification, by beat of drum, is now being made throughout the city.

A FRENCH NOVELIST

HECTOR BERNIER IS A RISING FIGURE IN LITERATURE.

Young Man Whose First Novel a Year Ago Made So Great a Hit, Has Written Another Which Is a Picture of Life Along the St. Lawrence — A Document From the Life of the Canadian People.

When English-speaking Canadians assess their national literary output they are prone to forget that in Quebec unheard of by the majority of Canadians at all, there is a vigorous young literature.

In this year's output of French-Canadian books, the most interesting features for students of belles-lettres are two novels. Unlike so many of the Canadian novels issued in English, that deal with our romantic past or the far northland of white snows, both these French-Canadian works are novels of manners. They deal with contemporary life in Quebec along the St. Lawrence, and, though they thus lose perhaps a certain fictitious charm, they are far more valuable than the average English-Canadian work as documents from our life.

One of the works is a novel by Monsieur Hector Bernier, the most brilliant of the younger French-Canadian novelists, who made such a hit last year with his first novel, "Au large de l'ecueil," dealing with religion.

"It is a rather far-fetched tale on social conditions in Canada—a tirade against snobbism, if you like," says Bernard Muddiman in The Canadian Courier. In "Ce que disait la flamme" we have an exceedingly rich and vulgar French-Canadian father, of the name of Fontaine, who has a son, Jean, of refined education and ashamed of his father, and a daughter, who makes a foolish match with a young snob. Jean himself is imbued with strongly patriotic ideals of the usual modern Quebec type. He falls in love with the daughter of one of his father's workmen and endeavors to persuade his parent to expend his wealth in bettering the conditions of the poorer French-Canadian. There is much fiddle-faddle made out of Jean's class prejudices at the thought of making a mesalliance with a work girl. However, in the end Jean becomes engaged to Lucille. But his purse-proud father, after the time-honored tradition, orders him out of the house. So Jean marries Lucille and settles down in a poor suburb of Quebec to aid and reform the habitants. But the father and daughter find the wages of wealth are discontent. Yvonne leaves her snobbish husband and returns home to her father. There, father and daughter, looking in the fire one evening, decide to beg Jean to return to them.

HECTOR J. BERNIER.

"Apparently, Monsieur Bernier would teach us that the idealist is alone happy in this world."

Under the Ban of Death

A Story of Russian Nihilism

By PAUL SZENSKY

I was about twenty years old when the organizations which developed the late revolution began to exert an influence on Russian affairs. It is the young who are caught in such movements, and I was captivated especially by the secrecy assumed by the nihilists. I applied for admission in a circle of the brotherhood and was duly received as a member.

The nihilists fulfilled the meaning of their name by assassinating those in power who stood in the way of their object. If a person was to be removed the circle drew lots to decide who should do the deed. I had scarcely joined when it was decided to dispatch the then minister of the interior, who was leaving no stone unturned to hunt out our members and send them either to Siberia or the gallows. When this move was decided upon and it was announced that one of our number was to be selected by lot to dispatch the minister I first fully realized that I had not got into a society of mysteries, but one of death, and when I drew the fatal number that compelled me to become an assassin, in all probability sacrificing my own life as well as that of the man I was appointed to kill, I saw that a choice of two methods of death was permitted me—either to die doing my work or be hunted down by an emissary of the society and killed.

I managed to keep up a show of resolution before my fellow members of the circle, appearing to accept the duty that had fallen to my lot. I went home conscious that I would be watched from the moment I left the meeting to see that I made no attempt to shirk my work. Once in my room I began to think what I should do.

All my nature revolted against committing what to me was murder. I had joined the society, as I have said, not from a desire to emancipate Russia, but because I had been caught by the mystery surrounding it. I resolved at once that I would choose death rather at the hands of my companions than by being cut down as an assassin. Hope is never extinct in youth, and I hoped to get out of Russia by eluding those who were watching me. If I could do this I might reach some distant land—America or Australia—in which, by changing my name and altering my appearance, I might be dead to the world.

To lay plans and take measures to assassinate a government official of high rank in Russia required time. What I decided upon was to pretend to enter upon the preliminaries of my work as though my intention was to carry it out. In this way I would attempt to disarm suspicion and have the better chance for flight. I took my father into my confidence, giving him to understand that he was to divulge the situation to no one, not even a member of the family. He was, of course, crushed by the news, but offered me what I needed—money to carry out my plan of flight and subsequent vanishment from the world.

He was of assistance to me in another way. I had a sister a year younger than myself, who much resembled me. My father secured a passport for her to leave Russia on the ground that he intended to send her to Berlin to study music. Our plan was for me to pass the border dressed in her clothes and under her passport. I needed only to secure a woman's wig, which my father bought for me. My beard was scant and of so light a color that when closely shaved it was not noticeable, especially under a veil. Having purloined and put on my sister's clothes—fortunately she was just my height—and bid my father an affectionate adieu, I sallied forth in the middle of the afternoon and went by a roundabout route, doing some shopping by the way, to the railway station, reaching it just in time to make a through train.

Knowing the watchfulness of the members of the nihilist circle appointed to see that I did not escape, I feared every moment to see some one of them spying upon me. But my plan of personating my sister was an admirable one, and I doubt not that though my home was being watched when I made my exit the watcher was deceived to think that it was she who was going out. I had no trouble in passing the border under my passport, but that I had chosen to go through in the night gave me a great advantage. I breathed freer when I found myself rolling along on German soil, but realized that a lifelong peril was in store for me.

I had no baggage with me, so on reaching Berlin I provided myself with some before going to a hotel. I bought a portmanteau and filled it with new clothes, telling the storekeeper that they were for my brother, who was an invalid and could not therefore come for them himself. Having made my purchases, I hired a room in a hotel where I changed my apparel and walked out through a side door without attracting any attention, leaving my feminine garb in the room. Going straight to a railway station, I took a train for Hamburg, whence I sailed for the United States, under the name of Peter Michalowski, entering my residence as Warsaw, in Russian Poland.

It had been agreed between my father and myself that he was to write me from time to time, provided he could do so without giving a clew to my whereabouts. His first letter was to be addressed to me as Peter Michalowski at the point where I would land, at the general delivery of the postoffice. I remained there till I received a letter from him posted from Viborg, a town in Finland, not far from St. Petersburg. He informed me that inquiries had been made for me at home by strange persons, and doubtless the inquirers were nihilists. It was evident to me that the circle would send out a description of me to agents in other countries with orders to locate me if possible. I knew that they regarded America as the principal refuge for such outcasts from their organization as I, because there is no government spying on strangers here as there is abroad. I took the risk of answering my father's letter, but when the time came round for a reply to my missive I received one making no mention of mine whatever. I was terror stricken, for I knew that my fellow nihilists had been watching my father's mail—doubtless having confederates in the postoffice—and had secured my letter.

I now saw that I must sever the last link that bound me to the past—the link between myself and my father. I had by this time learned a little English and changed my name to one that would not betray my Russian origin. Since I spoke French quite well, I chose Antoine du Bois, though I soon turned the Antoine into Anthony. Leaving my quarters at dead of night, I was never again seen there, but in a few days appeared in the city of Denver as Du Bois.

For several years I lived a nomadic life. The money my father had given me having been exhausted, I hired myself out wherever I could find work to do. Sometimes it was clerical, sometimes menial. At one time I drove a cab. I would stay in a place till I met some one whom I had known in Russia or, pretending to be a secret agent of the nihilists, get in with Russians who were real agents and discover that they had my real name and were ordered to inform upon me if found. Under such circumstances I found it difficult to get employment. Hearing of new discoveries of gold in the west, I begged and worked my way there and became a prospector.

How I happened to become the possessor of a gold mine has nothing to do with this story. I sold it and, putting my fortune into thousand dollar banknotes, placed them in pockets inside my clothing, which I arranged myself, and went east.

Five years had now passed since I left Russia. The nihilist movement was still in progress, having not yet led up to the revolution. I was tired of remaining in hiding and, having the wherewithal to enjoy life, determined to change my outward appearance before the world and live in accordance with my means. This, of course laid me more liable to detection by my enemies, but I preferred to take the risk rather than be continually trying to avoid some one. I lived in New York at a fashionable hotel.

I had resided there about a year when one evening a servant approached me with a card, saying that a lady was waiting for me in a private parlor. The name on the card was Sophia Palsoff, and in pencil was written "a friend of your sister's." The temptation to speak with a connecting link with dear ones at home was too great for me to withstand. I fought it for a few minutes, then yielded. Going to the appointed place, a young lady met me, addressed me by my real name and said that before leaving Russia she had been informed by my sister that she had a brother who had disappeared, and she suspected he was in America. She had given the lady a photograph of me, with the request that if she met me to beg me to come back to my family.

It seemed from this that my sister, having never been informed by my father as to the cause of my disappearance, had innocently given me away. Had she done so, or had the nihilists got it out of her?

Sophia won my confidence. I was hungry for the society of some one who knew me for my real identity. I did not let her know that I was a fugitive under a ban of death. I told her that I had left Russia with a view to make myself independent of my father and pledged her to write nothing to Russia concerning me. She believed, or pretended to believe, my story and made the promise.

With Sophia Palsoff for a constant companion, I drifted gradually back into the condition of a living man and, being with her continually, came to love her. One evening I drove her out in my car, and when we were passing through a wood I told her of the ban that rested upon me and begged her to help me bear it as my wife.

I could see that she was moved by some powerful emotion.

"If I do," she said, "there will be two of us under sentence of death instead of one."

"What do you mean?" I gasped.

"I was sent to America by the nihilists to kill you."

That was many years ago. Sophia and I have been living together since then as man and wife. For many years we succeeded in losing ourselves in the heart of South America. When the revolution took the place of nihilism the latter in its earlier form passed away. During the last few years we have not scrupled to show ourselves in our true identity to the world. But we are now old. The best part of our lives was passed in hiding.

BUTT AND HIS BANKNOTES.

Isaac Was a Great Orator, but Was Careless With Money.

Some amusing anecdotes are told of Isaac Butt, the famous Irish orator, in "The Life of Old Dublin," by Mr. James Collins. The author recalls the fact that Butt was very careless in regard to money and repeats a reminiscence which he heard from the late Judge Adams:

"Poor Isaac Butt was a man of splendid genius, but, as all the world knew, careless to the last degree in money matters. I was in Youghal when the election petition was tried there, and Butt was counsel for Mr. Weguelin. At the close of the trial Mr. Butt was handed his check, running to several hundred pounds. The moment he got it he went over to one of the banks and cashed it.

"Butt was staying at the house of a Youghal gentleman, and in the morning he put his hand in his pocket and found the money was gone. I shall never forget the hullabaloo that followed. Consternation, suspicion, bedlam swept through the house. And in the middle of it all, just as the police were being summoned, the young son of the house turned up with the missing banknotes.

"It had been a windy night, the window shook in the loose frame, and Butt, annoyed by the noise, got up, stuffed the first wad of paper he could find between the frame and the casement, went to bed again and forgot all about it."

Not What Was Meant.

A certain doctor, who is, on his own frank admission, "the ugliest man in four counties," has a keen sense of humor which enables him to enjoy many real and unconscious reflections upon his facial deficiencies.

Once, after he had arrived too late to succor a poor woman who had been killed in a factory, the local newspaper published an ambiguous account of the case, which the doctor, with grim appreciation, preserved.

Having first described how the woman had come by her injuries, the paragraph went on to say:

"Strong hopes were entertained of saving her life until Dr. P— arrived, but these hopes unfortunately proved ill founded, for the moment the doctor showed his face within the door the poor woman fell back with a gasp and expired."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Wonderful Bird.

One day a wonderful bird tapped at the window of Mrs. Nansen's (wife of the famous arctic explorer) home at Christiania. Instantly the window was opened, and in another moment she covered the little messenger with kisses and caresses. The carrier pigeon had been away from the cottage thirty long months, but it had not forgotten the way home. It brought a note from Nansen, stating that all was going well with him and his expedition in the polar region. Nansen had fastened a message to the bird and turned it loose. The frail courier darted out into the blizzardly air. It flew like an arrow over a thousand miles of frozen waste and then sped forward over another thousand miles of ocean and plains and forests and one morning entered the window of the waiting mistress and delivered the message which she had been awaiting so anxiously.

Caught It.

A man with a very red face met a friend on the street and the following conversation took place:

"You look warm."

"Yes; been chasing a hat."

"Did your hat blow off?"

"It wasn't my hat! It belonged to someone else—there was a pretty girl under it."

"Did you catch it?"

"I should say I did. My wife saw me chasing it!"—New York American.

Why Women Steal.

"Drink, poverty and vanity are the three chief causes of crime among women," said Rev. Thomas Friend the other day. Mr. Friend has just retired after forty-one years' work as chaplain of Reading jail.

"Vanity is most often a cause of crime in young women. They want to look pretty and the desire makes them steal pretty things or commit other dishonest acts in order to be able to buy them. But I do not believe that there is more crime among women than formerly."

Mr. Friend said that prison did most criminals a great deal of good. "Men come in, have plenty of time for reflection, and are made to work; then they see the advantages of work and settle down when they are discharged instead of going back to a life of spasmodic adventures by which for the time they seem to enrich themselves.

"To keep men from crime they must be given work, for most men in prison are not there because they lay themselves out for crime but for want of better alternatives."

Men's "pants" are to be worn tighter this year, we understand, but that won't help to keep their money in their pockets.

Those new flexible finger rings are not, however, indicative of any further change in engagements or in marriage relation.

A Cincinnati woman married the brother of her son's wife. Some women have a faculty for getting into complications.

A Boston sociologist says that a man always tells the truth when he is drunk. This, however, is no reason for drunkenness.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

SPEAK kindly to the quarrelsome man. It may surprise him to such an extent that he will forget his grouch.

Woman might not make a good grafter, but she might make the grafters make good.

A sick man is sure there is nothing doing in the world but his ailment.

Now is a good time to begin saving up for that Christmas present your wife is going to buy you.

Work off your grouch on a bucksaw, not on your wife.

Quite Useful.

Man needs a wife
To keep him straight
When he is prone
To celebrate,
To guide him with
A smile or frown,
When he gets gay
To call him down.

Who else will give Him good advice,
Unselfish, too,
And minus price?
Who else will serve
The truth on toast
The moment that
He needs it most?

When he is making
Foolish breaks
And wife dear
Her finger shakes
He knows it's time
For him to back
And shout upon
Another tack.

Who else will give
The word of cheer
When he is down
And out of gear?
Who else a warning
Glance will fling
When he is asked
To rise and sing?

Man needs a wife.
He never knows
His faults until
The light she throws
Upon the goods
That line his shelf
Nor takes a tumble
To himself.

Would Help Some.

"I'm up against it good and proper."

"Sorry, old fellow. Wish I could help you."

"You can."

"I'm afraid not. I am hard up myself."

"Well, you can refrain from offering me advice."

Doomed to Frostbite.

Some of the cunningest little presidential booms that were ever looked at through a microscope are now being placed on exhibition by admiring friends.

The original Bill Jones man is abroad, and he rises to whoop 'er up for his favorite, evidently under the impression that the people are not the least bit particular as to their presidential candidates.

As it is three years now until the patriotic voter will have to stay down town nights to save the country the average man isn't getting excited over the nominations that are offered. He knows that most of the booms sprung now will be planted under the daisies and forgotten long before the critical moment arrives.

Off His Guard.

"You were late this morning, Mr. Slowly."

"Yes; my train got blocked."

"That is a poor excuse."

"Well, you struck me so suddenly I didn't have time to think of a better one."

Helps Along.

"I suppose the landlord speeds the parting guest."

"That depends."

"On what?"

"Well, he kicks you out if you don't pay your bill."

What Is the Answer?

"The world owes me a living, anyway."

"Does it?"

"It does."

"In what?" asked the facetious friend.

"In the soup."

A MOUNTAIN GATEWAY.

(By Bliss Carman.)

I know a vale where I would go one day,
When June comes back and all the world once more.
Is glad with summer. Deep with shade it lies,
A mighty cleft in the green bosoming hills,
A cool, dim gateway to the mountain's heart.

On either side the wooded slopes come down,
Hemlock and beech and chestnut; here and there
Through the deep forest laurel spreads and gleams,
Pink-white as Daphne in her loveliness—
That still perfection from the world withdrawn,
As if the wood gods had arrested there
Immortal beauty in her breathless flight.

Far overhead against the arching blue
Grey ledges overhang from dizzy heights,
Scarred by a thousand winters and untamed,
The road winds in from the broad river lands,
Luring the happy traveler, turn by turn,
Up to the lofty mountains of the sky.

And where the road runs in the valley's foot,
Through the dark woods the mountain stream comes down,
Singing and dancing all its youth away
Among the boulders and the shallow runs
Where sunbeams pierce and mossy tree-trunks hang,
Drenched all day long with murmuring sound and spray.

There, light of heart and foot free, I would go
Up to my home among the lasting hills,
And in my cabin doorway sit me down,
Companioned in that leafy solitude
By the wood ghosts of twilight and of peace.

And in that sweet seclusion I should hear,
Among the cool leafed beeches in the dusk,
The calm-voiced thrushes at their evening hymn—
So undistraught, so rapturous, so pure,
It well might be, in wisdom and in joy,
The seraphs singing at the birth of time
The unworn ritual of eternal things.

MAY GET TO TORONTO.

McCord Collection Has To Find Home Soon, Says Owner.

Toronto University is likely to have an opportunity of obtaining a collection of antiquities, of natural history specimens and of relics of the early days of Canadian history which is the only one of its kind on the continent.

This collection will go to Toronto if McGill University turns down the offer which has been made to it of a free gift, and it appears likely that the Montreal university will do so as, for the past several years, the McGill authorities have refused to accept the charge of the collection on the ground that they have no building suitable to house it.

The collection is the property of David Ross McCord and has taken years to gather. Part of it was inherited from his father, Col. the Hon. John Samuel McCord, a former judge of the Supreme Court of Lower Canada, and since the present head of the family retired from the active pursuit of the legal profession many years ago, he had added considerably to the collection, notably in the historical department.

Mr. McCord has offered this collection to McGill, accompanying his offer of the free gift of the collection with an offer of continuing to add to it on the same present level and to remain curator of its as long as he lives, free of charge to the university. The offer was renewed recently and has been again turned down by McGill, on the grounds that they had no building in which to house it.

Mr. McCord states that as a college is the proper place in which to house the collection, he will offer it to Toronto. "I am very near the three score and ten," he said, "and no prudent man would permit the matter to longer remain unsettled.

"Any university with which this collection is associated would at once become not only the historical centre of Canada, but the repository of many of the most valuable articles in the world and a site for pilgrimage and study. I do not desire to see the collection leave this province, for there is, so to speak, the historical heart of Montreal and of the province, but my self-imposed obligation will be equally carried out in any part of the Dominion.

"I am weary of years of procrastination. In view of the importance of the gift, there is an element of self-respect involved in the matter."

Mr. McCord has further offered to endow the collection by his will in such a sufficient manner that any institution with which it is housed will have an opportunity of adding to it from time to time, and will also be relieved from any financial obligation in keeping it intact and in proper condition.

The suburban husband had shut the fox terrier inside the gate with care and started down the street with a last wave for little wifey standing in the doorway, when he just happened to think—

"By the way, dear," he called, "if by any misfortune I can't get home to dinner I'll send out a note by the messenger and"—

"It's quite unnecessary, dearest," wifey answered sweetly. "I've already found that note in your coat pocket."

ADVERTISING

A STORE'S importance is rightly judged by its advertising. Not altogether by the size of the advertisement, but by size and tone, and quality of announcement.

What the store has to say is one thing. Quite as important is how it says it.

Given that the clerical force is competent and up-to-date, it will say, over the counter, the very best to be said in reference to the goods enquired for. It may, and should, suggest other goods, not in the customers view.

This implies that the customer is in the store. But what brings him or her there? The wish to buy and the belief it is a good place to buy at.

How is this learned of?

By advertising. The advertisement is a message, an intelligent middleman, doing service between seller and buyer. The space talks to thousands, even while the store is closed for the night.

Winning Dorothy

"The Only Fortunate One."

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Bert Cheesney arose from his seat at the head of the table and lifted his glass.

"Gentlemen," he said with flashing eyes, "I propose the health of the loveliest girl in the world!"

The toast was drunk in silence. It was a singular coincidence that each one of the seven friends who had gathered to celebrate Cheesney's birthday was silently drinking to the same girl, beautiful Dorothy Fair. Perhaps Cheesney himself guessed the fact. At any rate, his black eyes gleamed triumphantly as they rested on one face after another until they lingered on the homely, rugged countenance of Jasper Dane. Jasper's blue eyes were still tender with thoughts of Dorothy when Cheesney's voice cut into the silence again.

"The health of the future Mrs. Robert Cheesney!"

Again the brimming glasses were drained, and this time troubled glances sought one another, for the second toast following so closely upon the first suggested that Bert Cheesney had won out in the race for Dorothy Fair's hand and heart.

There was a little confusion of voices after that. It was time to go home, and some of the young men were making their farewells.

Jasper Dane could hear Cheesney's hearty voice breaking above the murmured words of his guests.

"Thanks, old man—glad of it—surely—I am to be congratulated!"

In this way Cheesney accepted the perfunctory congratulations of his friends upon his engagement to Dorothy Fair. Jasper heard, and with dazed eyes looked straight into Cheesney's bold ones.

"Good night, Cheesney. Many happy returns of the day and congratulations, you know!"

"Thanks, Jasper. Yes, there isn't another girl in the world like her, is there, old man?" Cheesney's eyes searched Jasper's grim face.

"There is only one girl in the world for each man," said Jasper soberly and went his way.

Bert Cheesney stared after him. "What the deuce did that fellow mean?" he muttered savagely.

Jasper Dane disdained the taxicabs of his friends and tramped doggedly down the avenue toward his small bachelor quarters. When he had reached home and snapped on the electric light in his cozy little library he looked uncertainly at the telephone on the desk.

Beside Dorothy Fair's bed there was another telephone. He guessed that because once she had called him up at 2 o'clock in the morning to inquire if he had one of her gloves.

Jasper tossed aside hat and overcoat and sat down at the desk. In a few moments Dorothy's sleepy voice was answering him.

"Who is it? Whom did you say? Oh, Jasper! What is the matter?"

"Only this, Dorothy. I've been to Cheesney's dinner party and"—

Dorothy's voice broke in pettishly.

"Jasper Dane, do you know that you are the seventh man who has called up to congratulate me on my engagement to Bert Cheesney? Won't tomorrow do? Really, I should like to snatch a few hours' sleep."

"I am sorry," said Jasper quietly. "Goodby."

He moved away from the desk, his hands deep in his pockets. He paced the floor moodily.

This was the end of his steadfast wooing of Dorothy Fair! Only last night she had given him every encouragement, had even given him permission to come again tomorrow evening and impart some especially "wonderful" tidings of which she could not help guess the import, and now, twenty-eight hours later, to be exact, she had calmly admitted her engagement to Bert Cheesney.

Poor, patient Jasper metaphorically threw up his hands and went to bed. He was done with women forever.

* * * * * * *

Professor Digby of the Fanshawe museum scanned Jasper's flushed face and resolute mouth with deep interest.

"I am flattered by your offer, Mr. Dane," he said at last, "but I cannot understand why you, a prosperous young lawyer, should want to throw up a lucrative practice and go into the wilds of Africa with me. Of course there's plenty of sport in it, but you assure me that you are not a sportsman, and there's no end of hardship and danger."

"I want to go," said Jasper obstinately. "If you won't let me join your expedition, professor, I'll have to look up another one, but I am no end of a good photographer, and I could shoot dingbats and things with a camera, couldn't I?"

"That would be very interesting and very valuable," mused the professor. Suddenly he turned and shot a penetrating glance at Jasper's glum countenance.

"Who is she?" he asked bluntly.

"Wh-what—what do you mean?" stammered Jasper, rising to his tall height.

"Sit down," said the professor kindly. "I always put that question to young men who want to go into the jungle—that is, unless they have a reputation as big game hunters. Lots of men are driven to travel and adventure because they can't get the particular girl they want, and they usually come home to find her grown fat and dumpy or plain and scrawny and then they wonder why they ever left the comforts and pleasures of civilization for the primitive forests of the tropics. Don't be offended at my frankness, but take my advice, Dane, and stay at home. You won't regret it."

"I am the best judge of that," said Jasper haughtily.

"Very true," said Professor Digby urbanely. "Well, suppose you leave the matter open for one week, Mr. Dane. If at the end of that time you are still of the same mind I shall be happy to have you join my party as special photographer."

"I see no reason to change my mind," muttered Jasper as he returned to his office and flung open his desk. He spent the remainder of the day in going over his affairs and in planning how he could leave his practice in the hands of a brother lawyer. Fortunately there was nothing of importance on hand. If he could come back from Africa with the picture of Dorothy Fair erased from his heart he would be thankful. He thought of Professor Digby's words and smiled ruefully. Dorothy would never be anything but beautiful.

* * * * * * *

That very evening Dorothy Fair was surprised to receive a visit from her mother's cousin, Professor Digby of the Fanshawe museum.

"My dear Dorothy," began the professor in his stilted way, "I must beg of you to be a little more merciful."

"Merciful?" echoed Dorothy, her hazel eyes wide with astonishment. "What do you mean, Cousin Peter?"

"You know, I am organizing a special expedition to central Africa, and of course I have had many applications from men who desire to belong to the party. It usually happens that way when any expedition is going out, but in this particular instance I have been overrun with applications."

"But what has that to do with me, Cousin Peter?" asked Dorothy, fearful of the wizened little man's sanity.

"This, my dear. These eight applications all arrived on the same day—that is, this very day. All of these young men are well known to me as being suitors for the hand of my lovely young cousin. Don't blush, Dorothy, you naughty child!

"Of these eight applications only seven can be accepted. I am asking you to help me make a choice."

"Cousin Peter, I cannot!" cried Dorothy, with tears in her eyes. "I haven't really encouraged them, and if they are so silly to like a girl because of her eyes or the color of her hair I can't help it. There is only one—and, Cousin Peter, I never believed you could be so unkind!"

Professor Digby suppressed a little smile that trickled around his lips.

"There was one chap in particular that I wanted for my right hand man. He has plenty of nerve and grit. I've watched him since he was a boy, but he's sensitive. I told him to wait a day. To begin with, there was Bert Cheesney, society man and all around sport. He might do in some minor capacity or just as a guest. Finley Bingham, Rob Blake, young Dicber, Judge Harker's boy, Robinson and Medway. Seven of 'em, my dear, and a very handsome coterie, I may say!"

"And the eighth one, Cousin Peter?" whispered Dorothy.

"Jasper Dane," said Professor Digby quietly.

* * * * * * *

The next morning Jasper Dane found on his desk a letter from Professor Digby. It read:

My Dear Dane—I am sorry to say that it will be impossible for me to consider your application to join my expedition to central Africa. I received eight applications for membership in the party, and as I could accept only seven I placed the list of eight names in the hands of an expert in such matters. Inclosed is the list, and you will see that my expert has drawn a line through your name, thus definitely deciding that you are not to be of my party. This I regret exceedingly, as you would have been my personal choice, but I hope that you will not take this disappointment to heart. The seven chosen men sail with me tomorrow, and I cannot help but consider that the one who is left at home is the only fortunate one.

Faithfully yours, PETER DIGBY.

Below was a typewritten list of eight names, headed by that of Bert Cheesney and ending with Jasper's own name. A heavy black line was drawn through Jasper's name, and he smiled bitterly as he saw it. Then a puzzled look came into his eyes as he scanned the names of the successful seven and realized that they represented the entire party which had gathered at Bert Cheesney's birthday dinner.

Why were they all going to central Africa? Why was he left behind?

A line of crabbed handwriting straggled across the bottom of the page. He bent closely and read it with difficulty:

"I forgot to mention that the expert who decided that you must remain at home is my little cousin, Dorothy Fair."

Jasper caught up the telephone receiver and called for a number.

"Professor Digby?" he asked excitedly. "This is Jasper Dane. Bon voyage, and thank you, may I say, Cousin Peter?"

The professor's dry cackle came over the wire:

"You are quite safe in calling me that, Jasper. By the time the expedition gets home I suppose it will be a fact. Good luck!"

And Jasper flung down the receiver and raced out of the office like a boy. Dorothy Fair had elected that he, out of the eight, should remain at home, and it meant only one thing, and he was going to make sure of it now.

An Unpleasant Encounter.

"I was told young Staylate had quite an encounter with Maude Brown's father?"

"Yes, he did. He met the old man tacking home from the club just as he was leaving the house and in trying to avoid one another they both fell down the terrace and broke a seven-dollar garden vase. And now the old man says he was assaulted by two burly ruffians, and Staylate doesn't dare to go near the house for fear he'll be recognized as both of them."

RUFFLES IN SIGHT.

Spring Skirts Will Disport Themselves In Fluffy Frills.

Plaited tunics made of a succession of five inch ruffles slightly gathered and many more flounces of various shapes and widths point to a return of ruffles for spring and summer dresses.

Just how they will be used is a matter of conjecture, but in all probability the scant foundation skirt will remain, with the fullness given only by the flounces. One of the latest words from the center of fashion, Paris, is that a spiral flounce will be worn in corkscrew effect.

There is going to be a new vogue for batiste embroideries on an ecru ground. Various widths of these are to be seen in the shops, and some appear in colored embroideries, in view of the futurist art that is now influencing the dress world.

COSTUME FOR EARLY SPRING.

Taffeta also will be a popular dress material next spring, as it always is with the Parisienne, in soft qualities with the chiffon finish. Many dainty evening frocks are being made now of taffeta with lace flouncings.

Blue is to be a popular spring color. Also of interest to women is the news that short coats will be very smart. Illustrated here is a two toned costume in blue. The coat is of blue lansdowne over a draped skirt of satin. Embroidered silk gloves are brought up to meet the sleeves, which end just below the elbows.

Romaine lettuce with slightly acid fruits makes a delicious salad.

How the Milkmaids of Holland Carry Heavy Loads.

ADVANTAGES OF A YOKE.

Two Pails Are More Easily Borne Than One When Balanced on the Shoulders. Things of Interest to Little People. Puzzles and Games.

To carry two pails of milk or water is easier than to carry one if you know how and have a yoke such as the girl in the picture has balanced on her shoulder. Every boy who has ever carried water from the well in a bucket knows it is a pretty hard job, and he usually sticks one arm out to help balance the loaded side. When he has two buckets the job is easier, if they are not too heavy. The weight of one offsets that of the other, and he is able to walk erect, but finds it difficult to prevent the pails knocking against his legs. The girl in the picture is a milkmaid and she lives in Holland, or the Netherlands, which is a famous dairy country. You notice that she has a wooden yoke placed at the back of her neck and resting on her shoulders. On each end of the yoke she suspends two great pails of milk and is able to carry them with ease. The weight is balanced on the shoulders, which she relieves somewhat with her hands. But one of the pails is shown, space not permitting the other to appear in the picture. Those who have to carry water any distance might use this scheme to lighten themselves.

A Natural Sundial.

There is no need for clocks on the Aegean sea whenever the sun is shining. There nature has arranged her only timepiece, one that does not vary with the passing centuries. This natural time marker is the largest sun dial in the world. Projecting into the blue waters of the sea is a large promontory which lifts its head 3,000 feet above the waves. As the sun swings round the pointed shadow of the mountain just touches one after the other a number of small islands, which are at exact distances apart, and act as hour marks on the great dial.

Going to Jerusalem.

As many chairs, less one, as there are players are arranged in a row; then the children are formed in line, with a leader. A march is played on the piano and the line moves around the chairs. The instant the music ceases, the children try to secure a seat; of course one is left standing. He takes the lead, a chair is removed from the line, the music begins and the game continues until there is one chair left, with two contestants marching around it. The one finally securing the seat is said to have arrived at Jerusalem.

RIGHT UNDER OLD SOL.

They Were In Blazing Sunlight, Yet Cast No Shadows.

Every one knows that when a person stands in the full sunshine his body casts a shadow which will be either short or long, according as the sun is high in the heavens or near the horizon at sunrise or sunset. A little thought will bring it home to the reader that, obviously, if the sun is exactly vertical over a person's head, there can be no shadow.

But the problem is to determine when and where this shall be the state of things. As regards the "where," that must evidently be at some place on the earth in the tropics, and the "when" must be the hour of midday. To get these two things to concur by prearrangement is a matter of no small difficulty.

But as a matter of fact they did concur on a day in February, 1913—namely, the 13th, when a scientist, W. B. Gibbs, was in midocean in latitude 15 degrees south, the sun's declination being also about 15 degrees south.

A photo, reproduced in the London Strand, represents Gibbs and another man standing bolt upright on the deck facing one another, and clearly shows the absence of any sign of a lateral shadow—in other words, it proves that the ship was in such a latitude that the sun was vertically overhead and that the time was noon, when the sun was at its highest altitude as between east and west.—Exchange.

Diffuse knowledge generally among women, and you will, at once cure the conceit which knowledge occasions while it is rare.—Sydney Smith.

Making a Present.

Lady Jersey was in her time one of the leaders of fashion, and her house was the resort of politicians and others. With her lived her daughter, Lady Clementine Villiers, a handsome and clever girl. The custom had been established that all friends should give the latter a present on her birthday, and these presents were set out in an antechamber. Among these friends was Lord Brougham, then an old man. He called on a birthday, but had forgotten what the occasion was, and had brought no present. Seeing a mass of presents laid out, he seized one of them and took it in as his present, rightly counting that the young lady would not remember that it was one that already had been given to her. And very proud he was of his presence of mind. But, then, he was an ex-lord chancellor.—London Truth.

Now, this man paid $17.00 per year for 10 years only, or $170.00 all told and it yielded him $637.75 in profits. Just figure out what rate of interest that is on the $17.00 per year, paid extra for profits, and see if you would not like to invest a few dollars at the same rate. If so, call at or 'phone the Sun Life Office, 402 Water Street.

The above policyholder thinks he had a splendid result. Don't you?

TO-MORROW NIGHT AT 8 O'CLOCK

TO-MORROW NIGHT AT 8 O'CLOCK

ONLY ONE MORE DAY OF BOOSTER PERIOD

Booster Period in Review Prize Contest Will Come to a Close To-morrow Evening

There's only one more day remaining of "Booster Period" the best offer. But in the entire contest, a real live, energetic candidate can, without doubt, tell whether he or she will be a prize winner of one of the twelve prizes given away by The Daily Review.

You, no doubt, wonder how and why we can say the above, but it is self-evident if you get in all the business you can before Saturday night you will get the big votes on subscriptions. And with these big votes you will see that it will not take many subscriptions to get over a million votes. A million votes is a small number when you realise that you get 50,000 votes with each yearly subscription and 130,000 votes with every two year subscription.--

Bear This in Mind.

The contest manager has received a number of letters and advices that candidates are contemplating holding back their subscriptions until later in the campaign. No candidate will be successful in capturing the grand prize who thinks they will get more votes for their business later on in the contest. After February 14th it will be impossible for any candidate to get as many votes for their business. This is positively guaranteed to be the best offer.

Mr. Reader

If you have a favorite in this big contest you should help him or her now while the votes count the most and your subscription may be the means of some one winning an automobile; so help someone this week.

Cash Promises Now.

No doubt every promise made to you by friends earlier in the campaign will be fulfilled now, as you can explain that at no other time will you derive so much benefit from what your friends can do for you. Show them how much they can help you right now and they will try their best to give you the subscription during the "Booster Period."

Don't Hold Subscriptions.

Candidates do not have to hold back their subscriptions in order to hold back their votes. All subscriptions should be turned into the contest department as soon as they are secured, in order that subscribers may receive their paper promptly. The contest department issues voting certificates that may be held until the last day of the contest, or they may be voted at any time at the option of the candidate. By turning in subscriptions promptly, candidates are able to secure the coupons from the paper served their new subscribers. Not only that but it should be remembered that every subscription turned in before Saturday night at 8 o'clock counts more than at any future time during the remainder of the contest. Votes issued on subscriptions may be held until the last day of the contest.

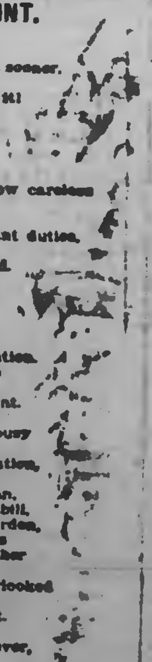
Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

TIMELY HINT.



WE meant
To speak of it sooner.
So careless
In us to overlook it!
You'll forgive us,
Won't you?
That's a dear.
In the busy
Rush of life
We sometimes grow careless
And neglect
Our obvious
And most important duties.
Of course
It slipped our mind.
That goes
Without saying.
We do not offer
That
As an excuse;
Just as an explanation.
There is no excuse
For such
A palpable oversight.
True,
We have been so busy
Getting a living,
Preparing for vacation,
Giving advice
To the weather man,
Reading the tariff bill,
Working in the garden,
Looking at airships
And performing other
Imperative duties
That we have overlooked
And neglected
Matters of moment.
However,
Better late than never,
So
Here goes!
Everybody listen
And heed this word of wisdom.
'Tis this:
Buy your Christmas presents early.

Very Nifty.

We notice a new style of humor that has broken loose in the eastern fun-making magazines. It is so deep and subtle that not every reader can tumble to it at first, but after they do we presume their sides shake with laughter. We hope it will become popular, as we could write it all day with our eyes shut. Here is the idea:

Tea is usually served in a teacup.

A debt may be paid with money.

Pants are worn by men.

To ride on a railroad train buy a ticket and get aboard.

Ice put in water will cool the same.

When hungry, eat.

Isn't it too cute for anything?

BUILT C.N.R. TUNNEL

Henry K. Wicksteed Called "Pathfinder" For Line.

Henry K. Wicksteed, Bachelor of Arts and Science, civil engineer, sailor, woodsman, and so forth, is known to the mobile fraternity of railway builders as the Pathfinder of the Canadian Northern Railway. There's another distinctic that takes on fresh interest from recent events in Montreal—Wicksteed is the father-and-mother of the Mount Royal tunnel. To attribute this monopolistic gender to the chief engineer of surveys for Mackenzie, Mann and Co. means to lop off a few sprigs of credit that false stories have woven into laurel wreaths for others, says Robson Black in Toronto Star Weekly. Some recognized the tunnel idea as one of Sir Donald Mann's Olympian prophesies; others told how Col. Davidson, the rajah of realty, had comprehended the whole business at one swing of his walking stick. And then Sir William Mackenzie was supposed to have "seized" the scheme at one master flash of intuition. Now, the tame fact is that the Mount Royal tunnel is due to a calm, professional hazard of Henry K. Wicksteed, who wasn't sent by anybody to do anything—but did it. He came home to Toronto and mentioned his plan to the two great chiefs of the C.N.R. It was then that Col. Davidson, head of the land department, took a hand car for the metropolis and commenced to measure roods and perches for "Model City."

A conversation with H. K. Wicksteed is certain to impress one that railroad building is really no more troublesome than soldering a teapot. Probably he does not intend to convey that impression, but of all men he is the last to base his personal record on extraordinary talents. So his tongue slips by the coupling pins of Wicksteed-plus and settles more comfortably on the impersonal concerns of the railway that employs him. For instance, I questioned him as to some of the problems of the survey chief. "Yes, there were a few difficulties, but he was blessed with some remarkably-competent division engineers." Was not railway building in the mountains a perplexing task? O, not so very! The main thing was "to follow the rivers." And carrying a transcontinental across the prairies? Well — Mr. Wicksteed, afraid of enlarging the character of the job which he had conquered so often, tapered it down until one had the impression that railway building between Winnipeg and the foothills was not half so hard as clipping yard lengths at a ribbon counter. Such personal unobtrusiveness is a widely-shared virtue of the "out-of-doors" man, and seems a natural distillant of camp fires and the common saucepan.

H. K. Wicksteed is therefore the wrong man to approach for much information of H.K.W. In the Canadian Northern offices, it is well-known that Mackenzie and Mann place the highest value on a Wicksteed opinion. He combines thorough scientific equipment with mellowed judgment, a "head" for weighing his engineering predilections on the same scale as "fixed charges," thus rendering him a survey financier as well as a skilled professional. That he has ingenuity and imagination, two of the plastic qualities in a man that lift him out of the routine regiment, is shown by innumerable innovations in his survey marches, which previous engineering practice has not discovered. Thus on the Sudbury-Port Arthur surveys which covered over four years, instead of toting in the winter supplies for the survey parties and placing them in caches at the rear of the advancing parties, he changed the custom and had them placed in front, so that every day's march through the wilderness brought the men closer to their food bases. "The effect on the morale of the parties was noteworthy," comments Mr. Wicksteed.

Tamarack Is Passing.

The larch, or "tamarack," of eastern Canada will soon be commercially extinct. Already, according to Dr. Gordon Hewitt, the Dominion entomologist, the large larch sawfly has destroyed between fifty and one hundred per cent. of the eastern larch. This insect pest was introduced into the United States from Europe about 1881, and having few natural enemies in America has spread over the whole eastern half of the continent. It is doubtful whether it will be brought under control.

It is a common superstition among the woodsmen of eastern Canada that many of the "dead" larch trees have come to life again. The trees noticed were not really dead, however, but had appeared so, because they had been entirely stripped of their leaves by the larvae of the larch saw-fly.

The tamarack is a valuable tree because of its ability to grow in swamps, and its wood is highly esteemed for fuel, ties, fence posts and construction work generally.

More Practical.

"Will you love me always?"

"Till the sun grows cold."

"How about when the flat gets chilly?"

No Discount.

"Do you think her age is what she says it is?"

"Well, all of that."

Uncertain.

"When shall we get married?"

"Tomorrow, or some other day that never comes."

CHANCE TO PRACTICE.

ACCORDING to the head guesser of a celebrated eastern bughouse, tea and coffee do as rough work with the delicate female system as alcohol does with men.

After they have lingered over the breakfast cup for a number of years their nervous organizations begin to look like western ranch buildings after a cyclone has dallied with them. Now will the women put the cup away as resolutely as they have been telling the men they would shun the flowing bowl if they were the male portion of the world?

It is such a fine opportunity for them to put some of their pet theories into practice that they can hardly fail to embrace it. Watch them.

Confession.

My desk—say, I wish you could see it!
You'd see, I assure you, a fright.
I wonder how some people manage
To keep a desk straightened out right.
'Twould give a good housekeeper fidgets
To gaze on the tangled debris,
And one who to slang was addicted
Would shudder and say, "Hully gee!"

To speak of confusion confounded,
A babel in papers and trash,
Would just in a measure describe it.
A jumble of newspaper hash—
Duns, clippings and letters unanswered,
And postals from friends far away,
And efforts from poets submitted,
And badges from last Labor day.

I hear that the diggers discover
In ruins of Egypt and Rome
Rich treasures to sell to collectors
Or send to the loved ones at home.
I wonder if some priceless relics—
Checks, due bills or samples of art—
I'd find if I went through the rubbish
And patiently took it apart.

I think as I come in the morning
And clear a space where I may write
I'll certainly find a few minutes
To straighten things out before night,
But when in the evening I finish
My labors and hasten away
I look with dismay on the chaos
And put the task off till next day.
